CD 616 - Discipleship and Development in Young and Middle Adulthood (3 hours)

This class will explore a variety of theoretical models that have attempted to provide a conceptual itinerary for the young and middle adult years, focus on the prominent issues that surface and change during these decades of life (e.g. love and intimacy, the meaning of work, responsibility and care, mending and remaking of identity, and reconciliations in familial and marital contexts), and enjoin theological reflection on how life’s curriculum can move us toward a deeper valuing of steadfast love; care for future generations, justice in our world and movement toward the shalom community. Focusing primarily on a North American context, this class considers how such dynamics as changing patterns in life expectancy, women in the workforce, wealth and plasticity in adult roles, family structural changes, and increased psychological expectations, have led human scientists to reconceptualizations about what constitutes development in the adult years. Part of the class will entail critiquing how churches, authors and faith-based organizations are also offering a variety of new approaches to strengthen faith in young and middle aged adults.

Course Objectives
This class is designed so that persons who participate in the communal experiences of the class and who engage fully in critical study and reflection will be able to:

(1) Articulate theological constructs and Biblical narratives that inform ministry to and with young and middle adults.
(2) Name the broad societal and cultural trends that have changed Western understandings of the meaning, structure, and potentialities of contemporary adulthood and compare these to other cultures.
(3) Articulate and critique theoretical models that conceptualize movement through the young and middle adult years with a view toward understanding the complexity of adult lives in the contemporary context.
(4) Understand the underlying issues that often create vitality and/or stagnation through the young and middle adults through the theoretical lens of Erik Erikson.
(5) Design a strategic ministry project focused on ministry with young and middle adults.
Textbooks:
Carol Hoare, Erikson on Development in Adulthood. Oxford, Oxford University Press, 2002. (224 pages). *(Note – this book was intended as a primary textbook for class but after hearing from the bookstore that the cost is $82.00 I will try to convey the information in class and make it supplemental rather than required reading. As a substitute look for Gail Sheehy’s NEW PASSAGES in the bookstore.)*

Madeline L’Engel’s A Live Coal in the Sea.

Class projects and papers

Interviews – (20 points)
In class we will generate a semi-structured interview schedule derived from our readings that you will use to conduct a one-two hour interview with an adult who is between 18 and 35 years of age and an adult who is between 40 and 60 years of age. This will make you officially part of the adult identity development project (aidp) research team. Your assignment will be to provide a brief narrative of what you see as the most salient issues in each of your interviewees lives and then provide a contrast and comparison of the developmental issues reflected in each of your respondents.

Psychohistories of case study – (10 points)
In class you will be given biographical summaries representing the lives of several individuals from the aidp research. You will bring to a small group discussion and for turning in a 2-3 page paper reflecting your understanding of what is driving each individual’s life and what ministerial response would provide grace, redemption, and life for each.

Reading reviews and personal reflection papers – (30 points)
Six, two page reading reviews (2 pages each) will be turned in throughout the semester reflecting your critique of the author’s perspective and/or personal reflections in response to various readings. Because the nature of the readings differ significantly the professor will provide guidelines and questions to direct your writing for each of these papers.

Strategic ministry project – (30 points)
You will adopt a topic relevant to the young and middle adult years and provide a six to eight page research paper detailing the nature of the issue and outlining a strategic ministry plan for how you would design a ministry to address this need.

Class participation – (10 points)
Of high priority in this class is learning in community both for the cross fertilization of insight that you can glean from peers and for the value of what is learned relationally as you function in community. The class participation grade will be based on attendance, written work for discussion starters, and the contribution(s) you make to the class as a whole.

Grading Rubrics

The following descriptions written in italics have been determined by the faculty at Asbury Seminary and provide the guidelines for grading. I have attempted to provide additional rubrics following each description to clarify what I tend to look for in determining the marks for a particular assignment.

A = Exceptional work: surpassing, markedly outstanding achievement of course objectives
Exceptional work is constituted by such things as: substantive theological reflection that reveals engagement of the “big ideas” of Scripture or the “big ideas” represented in the existing body of knowledge from the social sciences, thorough and penetrating personal insight gained from a sustained consideration of one’s concrete experience through the lifespan; creativity in translating assignments into strategic ministry applications; and excellence in grammatical, stylistic and communicative aspects of writing.

B = Good work: strong, significant achievement of course objectives
Good work is constituted by: solid theological reflection on the assigned readings and presentations in response to the given questions for a particular unit; the capacity to utilize classroom discussions and readings to understand and critically engage one’s own story; accurate ability to name specific ministry implications from one’s processing of information; and carefulness in grammatical, stylistic and communicative aspects of writing.

C = Acceptable work: basic, essential achievement of course objectives
Acceptable work is constituted by: obvious acquaintance with the assigned readings and classroom discussions at a level that allows for theological thought in response to the questions posed for a particular unit; references to one’s own story at a level that makes application of truth and would interest a congregational member in the insights being expounded; capacity to communicate grammatically and stylistically without detracting from the presentation.

D = Marginal work: minimal or inadequate achievement of course objectives
Cursory reading of the texts that fail to represent the author’s intent; a flat restatement of the author’s work void of any personal appropriation of the material; grammatical or stylistic errors that frustrate the reader and detract from the thought of the paper; or other failures to fulfill reasonable expectations flowing from a seminary course of this nature.

\[ F = \text{Unacceptable work: failure to achieve course objectives} \]

Unacceptable work is usually willful, unexplained, or inexcusable lack of fulfillment of class assignments.
