Syllabus
WO510 Worship Leadership in the Church
Spring 2002

Note: This is a draft of the syllabus. Minor revisions will take place before the beginning of the term.

You will need an ATS e-mail account to participate in required online, small-group discussions.

Professor: Dr. Lester Ruth; BC 218; 858-2175; (email: lester_ruth@asburyseminary.edu); Office hours: 9:45-10:45 Tuesdays and 3:30-4:30 Wednesdays; other times by appointment.

Course description: This course lays the foundation for the ministry of the whole congregation in corporate worship. Biblical, theological, historical and practical focus is brought to bear on the elements of prayer, Scripture, and music in terms of the design of services, the keeping of time, and worship space. Attention is given to interpreting, planning and presiding at weekly worship services, sacraments/ordinances, weddings, and funerals.

Course goals:
1) Students will learn ways to glorify God and edify the church in worship;
2) Students will practice providing gracious worship leadership;
3) Students will develop ability to make sound worship decisions based on historical, theological, and pastoral concerns;
4) Students will explore ways to enrich congregational worship in prayer, word, and sacraments/ordinances; and
5) Students will gain perspective on her or his own present practice of worship within the diversity of approaches to Christian worship.

Required reading list:
Redman, Matt. The Unquenchable Worshiper (Regal, 2001).
Witvliet, John D. So You've Been Asked To Plan a Worship Service (Grand Rapids: CRC Publications, 1999).
Witvliet, John D. So You've Been Asked To Lead a Worship Service (Grand Rapids: CRC Publications, 1999).

NOTE! NOTE! NOTE! Every student is expected to purchase the book containing the official worship services of your denomination and read from it as directed in the class schedule below.

For some denominations these are as follows.
United Methodist Book of Worship
Church of the Nazarene Manual (current edition)
Free Methodist Pastor’s Handbook
The Discipline of the Wesleyan Church (current edition)

If in doubt, please check with the catalogue of your denominational publishing house or the bookstore staff.

NOTE! NOTE! NOTE! Every student will be provided a CD with video clips of worship services on it. Although you will not be tested on it, please view it according to the class schedule below.
Grading and Evaluation: Each student will receive a grade based upon a midterm exam and one of the following: a final exam or a comprehensive project. A numeric grade, which will be translated to letter grades, will be assigned to each. The exams will each count for 50% of the grade, unless the student opts to do the additional reading as described below. Students should refer to page 28 in the 2000-2001 ATS catalog to see qualitative descriptions of these letter grades. In this class “A” refers to a numeric grade of 94 and above; “A-” to 90-93; “B+” to 87-89; “B” to 84-86”; “B-” to 80-83,” and so forth.

--Exams: The midterm exam will occur during class on Wednesday, March 13. It will cover all of the required reading except the Matt Redman book. No in-class material will be covered on the exam. The midterm will use both true/false, identification, multiple choice, short answer, and short essay questions. The final exam is on tba. It will cover all of the lecture material from the beginning of the semester but no reading.

The Comprehensive Project:

--Goals: to give you a chance to integrate everything you have learned, read, and discussed by thoroughly evaluating a single worship service of a church other than your own; to sharpen your skills at pastorally evaluating a church's worship; and to give you a chance to pretend to be the pastor or worship leader, choosing what to maintain as a strength already and where you would try to strengthen its worship.

--Choosing a church: pick a church other than your own and one beyond your normal experience. Do not feel constrained to Protestant churches but it must be a Christian assembly. Do not be cautious about crossing ethnic lines, too. Try to choose one where you can visit its main worship service. For those who need guidance in selecting a church, please speak to the professor.

--When to choose it: Don't wait long. You will want to give yourself time to really chew on what you experienced there. Here's the optimal plan: choose a church early in the semester, videotape its service early, have this service in the back of your mind as you work with the data all semester long, occasionally watch the videotape so the service remains fresh, and then write a wham-bang project in early May.

--Videotaping the service?: While videotaping the service is not strictly necessary, it would be very useful. It will enable you to view the service several times to get the most accurate "read" of it. If you can't videotape a service, then take very good written notes during the service. You cannot use a service from TV unless you were actually at that service, too. You cannot get the full experience just from a TV telecast.

--The parts of the project: 1) what did you see?; 2) how would you evaluate it?; and 3) if you were the pastor or worship leader, what would you keep or change about the worship service and why?

--The grid to apply: You are responsible for this as you will be when you are a pastor or worship leader someplace. I'm not going to tell you how to do it. Take this as your opportunity to shine by showing how you have digested everything in the course, integrating and synthesizing it into a usable way of evaluating worship. The development of a great evaluative grid is a large part of what I'm looking for in the project. I will also be looking for thoroughness and insightfulness in your project. For example, a project that does not comment on the worship space would be deficient in thoroughness and, for example, a project that limits its evaluation criteria to "it really moved me" will likewise be deficient.

--The length of the project: no more than 30 pages double spaced.

--Examples available: Two good examples from previous classes with my evaluative comments are placed in the course center for this class.
--Due date: the same day and time as the final.

--Reading: Note that everyone is expected to read all of the required readings. You will be thoroughly tested on all of it except for the Redman book. There is no reading schedule. You are expected to allocate your time in such a way as to make the most benefit of these readings and adequately prepare for the exams. Please note that there will also be reading done for small group online assignments; this reading will not be tested.

--NOTE! NOTE! NOTE! Every student should also get the book with her or his denominational worship resources. Pursuant to the class schedule below, students will read from these books in line with certain classes. Students will not be tested on this material but you owe it to your church as a matter of stewardship to become familiar with your denomination’s resources.

--NOTE! NOTE! NOTE! Every student has the opportunity to do additional reading to improve her or his grade. If a student does an additional 350 pages of reading from the bibliography provided below (one book not on the bibliography can be read), then a grade of 100 will be averaged with the other scores to calculate the final grade in the following way: midterm exam grade, 40%; final exam/comprehensive project grade, 40%; reading grade of 100, 20%. Reading these additional pages is optional. Those who do not read the additional pages will have each the other assignments count for 50% of the grade as noted above. The purpose of this additional reading is to give students an opportunity to read more broadly in the field of worship. Thus the 350 pages should come from 7 different books with no more than 2 books from a single category. Students can read one book not listed on the bibliography among these 7 books. For students who choose this option, a report (provided below) must be turned in on the day the final is taken. This must be 350 pages of material you have never read before.

--Developing worship services: See the class schedule below for dates for which you should have prepared assigned worship services. On each occasion the student will turn in at the end of class a nicely prepared, type- or computer-written order. These will be evaluated in class, each student evaluating his or her own work. No letter grade will be given. Failure to turn in all required services will result in the loss of a letter grade, however.

--Small group activities: See below for more details.

--Attendance: Attendance throughout the course is expected; persons absent for more than three sessions of the course will not be eligible for a passing grade.

Small group activities: Students will be divided into small groups of 4 people based on denominational affiliation. Within your small groups you will do the following.

--Have online discussions: Each group will have its own folder within our on-line course. Most of the time you will conduct your discussions there. As listed in the class schedule below, I will post assignments involving a question or problem for your group to work with online that relates to an important worship topic, issue, or service. Every one is expected to post ONE 50-75 word response to my question/problem and at least ONE 50-75 word response to one other team mate’s posting. Please note the due dates for each assignment. On the next class after the due dates bring to class a print out of both of your postings for each assignment. These will be collected as evidence of your having completed the assignment. Note that occasionally these assignments will require some short reading that will be on reserve. Failure to participate and complete all on-line assignments in a timely manner will result in the loss of a letter grade for the semester.

--NOTE! NOTE! NOTE!! Sometime in the first week of class, set up your First Class account if you have not already done so. To get everyone familiar with the process of posting online in response to my initial email posting, we will use this first week for practice. Open up First Class and find the folder for this class. Open it up. Find the folder for the teams. Open it up and find your team.
Respond to my initial posting about introducing yourself to your teammates. For problems with First Class email, contact Andy Adams @ 858-2373 or type ExL Support in the recipient line of an email.

--Conduct practicums: Within your small groups, you will be practicing for each other the following services: the Lord’s Supper, baptism, a wedding, and a funeral. For each, use your official denominational resources, if these exist. If these do not exist, please ask the professor for guidance. No sermons are required. Each student must perform all four services for her or his group. Failure to perform all four services will result in the loss of a letter grade. Missing more than one evaluation session of other students’ performances, if these are held separately from one’s own performance, will result in the loss of a letter grade. Please see the information sheet attached to this syllabus for more information. In addition, there is an instructional video on reserve in the library under the professor’s name on how to conduct these four services. For more information, please note the four optional worship leadership practicums that the professor is holding for the entire seminary community. These are open to anyone in the seminary.

--practicums (time: 2:30-3:45 p.m.; place: Beeson 114, the chapel, the “liturgical chapel”)
  --February 26: topic: how to do weddings
  --March 19: topic: how to do funerals
  --April 16: topic: how to administer the Lord’s supper
  --April 30: topic: how to do baptisms

Optional lunches to discuss answering questions about baptism with ordination boards: To supplement what can be accomplished in large classes, this optional opportunity is also available. Participation or non-participation will not effect students’ grades. The lunches will be held in the Cordelia A dining room. The lunches’ tone will be informal in which here will be sharing about what questions might be asked by an ordination board on baptism, how to be prepared, identifying the most crucial issues, and appropriate strategy. The lunches will be held on February 26 and February 27 at noon.

PowerPoint slides:
These will be available before class through First Class Client (First class → Intranet → Students → Lecture Power Points → Ruth). They are also available in the course center within our class folder in First Class.

Additional Information on Practicums

The assignment: Perform, using the official resources of your denomination or other official denominational standard, for the members of your small group each of the following: a wedding, a funeral, the Lord’s Supper, and baptism for both an adult and a small child (if your denomination baptizes small children). With respect to weddings, do the entire service. With respect to funerals, conduct both the initial funeral service and then the graveside committal/internment service in a cemetery. With respect to the Lord’s Supper and baptisms, conduct the specific rites for these sacraments/ordinances, not an entire worship service. No sermons are required although they would be in real life.

The goal: to gain familiarity with the verbal and non-verbal aspects of leading these acts of worship in a supportive context in which one can gain peer evaluation of the graciousness and gracefulness of one’s worship leadership.

Each student’s responsibilities:
- review the instructional video on reserve in the library
- review the official denominational services for these services, preparing them for use and making appropriate choices if the material provides that opportunity
- choose and provide for any music that the student feels appropriate
- adjusting the worship space as appropriate
- providing the objects that might be needed in each service (e.g., wedding: rings; the Lord’s Supper: wine/juice and bread; baptism: oil, candles, new clothing, towels, as needed)
- find someone willing to role play an adult baptismal candidate (infant dolls are available for that part of the practicum) and people willing to role play a bride, groom, and at least one attendant for each

The group’s responsibilities:
- keep an attendance sheet that will be turned into the professor at the end of the semester
- choosing times (the professor suggests 4, one for each type of service) convenient for the entire small group
- scheduling with the receptionist located in the lobby of the main administrative building the use of one of the seminary’s chapels; some paperwork is required to reserve a room.
- checking out from Melanie Feltner-Reichert, the administrative assistant in Beeson 226, the vessels needed for the Lord’s Supper and baptism. She also had infant dolls for use in baptism. All material checked out must be returned.
- providing useful, caring feedback to each other as to the graciousness and gracefulness of each person’s worship leadership
- cleaning all spaces and returning them to the state in which they were found.

Available spaces:
- Beeson 114 (the “liturgical chapel”): this is the best space for baptisms and the Lord’s Supper because of its flexibility and intimacy. This space also has the only permanent baptismal font.
- Estes chapel: a useful space for weddings, funerals, the Lord’s Supper, and baptism if a portable baptismal font is supplied
- use E204 (the small chapel beside Estes only if no other space is available); it is not suitable for the Lord’s Supper at all.
- for the graveside committal/internment service part of the funeral, use an inconspicuous spot on the Asbury campus or the grave of Henry Clay Morrison in the cemetery close to the railroad tracks.

Timing and scheduling: Precise timing/scheduling is left to the discretion of the group. The professor recommends holding four separate sessions, one for each kind of service. Allow a little more time for weddings and funerals. He also recommends holding these sessions in the general time frame that these services are covered in the class lectures. With respect to the time of day, the facilities are generally available from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Friday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Equipment: The following equipment is available for checking out from Melanie Feltner-Reichert in Beeson 226; all material must be returned to that same office.

- for the Lord's Supper: small communion wafers, chalices (the large cups), patens (the plates), pitchers, small communion cups, trays for small communion cups, linen cloths
- for baptism: infant dolls, glass pitchers, small glass bowls; larger bowls which can substitute for a baptismal font; inflatable children's pools useful in practicing baptism by pouring (the candidates can stand or kneel in them)
- for funerals: a pall; Students much improvise for the casket, using either a large box or a table as a substitute

Administering baptism in the baptism practicum: Unless a student belongs to a denomination which officially recognizes only one mode of baptism, in which case the student should perform the practice baptism in that mode, each student is expected to demonstrate the ability to perform baptisms by immersion, pouring, and sprinkling. Although no immersion pool is available on campus, a student should demonstrate proper balance, footwork, placement of hands, and guidance of a live candidate as if the student was actually performing an immersion.

Covenant: Because practicums of this sort—with in-class performance subject to the verbal review of others—can be intimidating and open to possible misuse, the professor insists that the members of each group make a verbal covenant with each to offer critique with graciousness and to receive critique with graciousness, humility, and humor. Problems in group dynamics are to be reported to the professor at once.

Practicum hotline: Within the class folder in First Class, there is a folder labeled “practicum hotline” in which specific questions, suggestions, and answers about performing the four services can be posted for review by everyone in the class. Use this as an opportunity to gain feedback, information, and ideas from the professor and other class members.
