

Asbury Theological Seminary

ePLACE: preserving, learning, and creative exchange

---

Literary Productions

Hannah Whitall Smith

---

1983

Box 10_11 (Literary Productions--Notes- Notes and text analysis [Rom.7_25]-n.d.)

ATS Special Collections and Archives

Follow this and additional works at: <https://place.asburyseminary.edu/hwslitproductions>

Part of the Christianity Commons

---

You never really love anyone until you can be glad to love them if it is for their happiness.

Love, like the music in a piano ~~can~~ ~~now~~ never be ~~responds~~ to a demand,
but must always be drawn out.

I conquered my trials by submitting to them.

Silence is the most smothering blanket that ever was woven or spun. (Miss Willard)

Treat the peculiarities of other people as you treat the heavens of lead.

Always aim for the thing you want most at the bottom, and ignore all other issues. If tempted to quarrel with anyone, ask yourself, "Which do I want most - to relieve my feelings and score off my enemy, or to turn my enemy into a friend?"