Julian C. McPheeters Papers

Introduction

The Julian C. McPheeters Papers (1911-1983) include materials documenting his pastorate of the Glide Memorial Church, San Francisco (1931-1948), his Presidency at Asbury Theological Seminary (1942-1962), his Editorship of The Herald (1942-1974), and his years as Representative for Development at Asbury Theological Seminary (1962-1983). The papers did not come to the Seminary Archives all at one time, but rather, were discovered at various locations around the campus during the two years following his death. Some of these papers had been in storage for as long as thirty years.

Almost half of the twenty-three cubic foot collection represents the sermons and radio addresses written by McPheeters during his years at Glide Memorial Church. Correspondence, another substantial segment of the papers, spans the period from 1941 until his death in 1983. The collection includes unpublished and published writings of J. C. McPheeters, twenty-five 16 millimeter color films which he shot between the years 1939-1968, printed materials and scrapbooks. Scattered reports and minutes document McPheeters' membership on the boards of trustees of various organizations as well as that of the Seminary.

The collection contains some sensitive materials which will remain closed, however, the remainder is accessible for research use. The finding aid was prepared by Ann B. Jenks in August 1986.

Biographical Sketch

Julian Claudius McPheeters, son of William Garlin McPheeters and Pheriby Edna Greer, was born on July 11, 1889 in Logan Creek, Missouri. McPheeters, who dedicated his life to Christ at the early age of six, was undoubtedly influenced by his father, a farmer as well as a pastor in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In 1908 McPheeters entered Marvin College, Frederickstown, Missouri and was awarded the Ph.B. degree the following year. He continued his education at Meridian College in Mississippi where he also taught Greek and Latin in 1910-1911. During the five years he spent as a St. Louis conference evangelist in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, he met and married Ethel Chilton of Summersville, Missouri and their first child, Chilton, was born.

In 1916 McPheeters attended Southern Methodist University. Over the next two years he pastored churches in Williamsville and St. Louis, Missouri and his second child, Virginia was born. In 1918 McPheeters contracted tuberculosis, the story of which is told in his book, Sunshine and Victory, and a three-year battle for his life ensued. In 1921 he was appointed pastor of a church in Missoula, Montana. The harsh winters proved too much for his wife, who became so ill, that McPheeters requested a transfer to a warmer climate.

J.C. McPheeters was assigned in 1923 to the newly constructed University Methodist Church in Tucson, Arizona. Immediately he began to minister to the community with the first of his many radio shows for shut-ins. He also developed a circulating library for those suffering from tuberculosis in the hospitals as well as for prison inmates.

While J. C. McPheeters was pastor of University Methodist, H.C. Morrison conducted two revivals. It is not established when these two men first became acquainted, however, it is likely that the first meeting occurred at Meridian College. Morrison preached at Meridian on several occasions during the period McPheeters taught there. It was during McPheeters' Tucson days that Lizzie Glide was building a church in downtown San Francisco as a memorial to her late husband. She approached H.C. Morrison for advice in securing a pastor. In 1930 Bishop Arthur J. Moore appointed J.C. McPheeters pastor of the Glide Memorial Church.

The church opened January 11, 1931 and H.C. Morrison, who was to deliver an address at the dedication, was ill and postponed his talk three weeks. He returned to conduct five revivals while McPheeters was Glide's pastor. The bond between Morrison and McPheeters continued to strengthen over the years, evidenced by McPheeters' weekly column in The Pentecostal Herald in 1935 and by his election to the Board of Asbury College in 1934.

As he had been in Tucson, McPheeters was deeply involved in the San Francisco community. He wrote a weekly column for the San Francisco Examiner, "Religion in the News," started a Christian Businessmen's Association and developed Today with God, a devotional booklet considered to have been a model for The Upper Room. He began a series of radio shows in 1933 called "Fellowship of the Air" (1933-1938), "Today with God" (1937-1939), and "Looking Upward" (1940-1944), which were weekly and at times daily talks based on scriptural text and world news.

Disturbed by conditions of migrant farm workers, McPheeters shot color movies of the people and their camps with an aim to look for a positive solution to the problems. These films, "Grapes of Gladness" and "Trail of the Migrants," were the first of a series by the amateur film maker. Another of McPheeters' lifelong interests surfaced at this time in the beginnings of the Redwood Camp. His continued devotion to the California Redwood Christian Association over the years helped build the camp from a couple of trailer lots to the spacious grounds in use today. There he brought many souls to Christ and formed friendships that would later help the growing Asbury Theological Seminary.

On January 27, 1942 H. C. Morrison wrote: "Wife and I are longing for you at the head of our very widespread work in Ky." He went on to say he intended to remain as Editor of The Pentecostal Herald. When Morrison died two months later, McPheeters became President of Asbury Theological Seminary and Editor of The Pentecostal Herald, but it was not until 1948 that he left Glide to be full-time President of the Seminary.

In a biography of his father, Pardon Me, Sir, Your Halo Is Showing, Chilton McPheeters writes: "McPheeters' three cross-country trips a year to conduct Seminary business were often made more difficult by restrictions on travel imposed by the war effort. Editorship of The Herald demanded two articles a week. Parish responsibilities added other crushing demands on time and energy..." So in June 1948 McPheeters left Glide Memorial to be full-time president of the Seminary.

The Seminary campus consisted of one building, 89 students and seven faculty members when McPheeters came in 1942. Clearly a fund-raising president, he created in 1949 the Office of Development with a director, Robert Fraley, and nine field representatives. Continuously on the road himself, McPheeters created a strong endowment base, set up scholarship funds and developed a network of friends for the Seminary. At the time of his retirement in 1962 the campus had expanded to include five new buildings plus off-site married student housing, a student body of 233 and 21 faculty.

Active retirement began for J. C. McPheeters in 1962, named Representative for Development, traveling across the country and around the world on behalf of the Seminary. He continued as Editor of The Herald until 1974 and maintained a full calendar of speaking engagements at campmeetings, Deeper Life and prayer conferences and educational institutions. McPheeters involved himself in hunting, fishing, waterskiing and vigorous daily exercise until he suffered a stroke in 1983. He died on October 31 of that year.

Scope and Content

The Julian C. McPheeter Papers span the years from 1911 to 1983, with the bulk of the material representing the period from his pastorate in Glide Memorial Church in 1931 until his retirement as President of Asbury Theological Seminary in 1962.

Materials from the Glide years are limited mostly to sermons, radio addresses and films, although there is a small amount of correspondence with the administration of Asbury Theological Seminary after 1942. The Presidential correspondence from 1948 to 1962 looks complete, but the reports and minutes of the Seminary and other organizations of which he was a Board member are very scattered. This is attributed to his frequent travel. Complete or not, these papers document a segment of Seminary history that exists no where else.

Although it is unfortunate to be missing evidence of McPheeters' early years as an evangelist and pastor in Montana, Missouri and Arizona and particularly as a protege of H. C. Morrison, what exists in the papers seems to draw an accurate picture of the man and his work. The sermons, radio addresses and films dating from the pre-war and World War II era offer an interesting look at social issues including labor strikes and unions, communism, the plight of the migrant worker and the rise of Hitler.

The collection consists of minutes, articles of incorporation, charters, by-laws, correspondence, subject files, sermons, addresses, articles, lists, pamphlets, itineraries, scrapbooks, newsclippings, financial statements, audit reports, annual reports, blueprints, trust agreements, newsletters, programs, a yearbook, manuscripts and 16 millimeter movie films.

It is in the correspondence, the meat of this collection, that the life and interests of J. C. McPheeters are discovered.

Among J. C. McPheeters' correspondents were Editor of The Methodist Challenge, Robert P. Shuler; H. C. and Bettie Morrison; nutritionist, Martha Jones; Harold Paul Sloan; Asbury College President Z. T. Johnson; Asbury Theological Seminary President Frank. B. Stanger; and daughter of Lizzie Glide, Elizabeth Glide Williams. McPheeters also corresponded frequently with various bishops and boards of the United Methodist Church and the boards and members of organizations such as the California Redwood Christian Association, the Martha R. Jones Foundation, OMS International, Pentecostal Publishing Company, the J. W. Beeson Memorial Scholarship Fund, Asbury Theological Seminary and the Morrison Theological Trust. Other significant correspondence involves donors and speaking engagements.

Additional information is available at the Instructional Media and Design Center in the form of audio tapes of addresses made by McPheeters. The Seminary Archives houses collections of photographs, newsclippings and administrative records which contain materials relating to McPheeters. In the H. C. Morrison Oral History Collection is a taped interview with J. C. McPheeters done by Charles Killian in 1981.
