The last part of the revival I preached while suffering with an attack of gall-stones, from which I am not yet fully recovered. Being entertained in the parsonage I was very tenderly taken care of by Brother and Sister Pugh. Sister Pugh is a big-hearted Christian woman. We pray that God will wonderfully use them to his glory and the building up of the Church.

REPORT FROM THE FIELD.

Rev. and Mrs. V. A. Wood, evangelists, of Delaware, Ohio, have just closed a fruitful revival at Grace M. E. Church of that city. Rev. E. L. Rush, pastor. This is the one church on the east side of the river counterbalanced by 14 on the west side, and has been a center of evangelistic effort by its zealous pastor who has held his own meetings during his nineteen years among this people. Many earnest workers have been discovered, developed and exported from this church out into the big harvest field of the world and the ranks of effective membership had become depleted so that threatening difficulties were arising demanding a vigorous remedy. We are glad to report that after a three-weeks' campaign things look different. Sixty penitents knelt at the altar and the membership of the church was revived and strengthened. The young people were especially hard to touch at the start but the organization of a large "Sunbeam Band" enabled us to gain their confidence and arouse them to a sense of their need of Christ. All who were dealt with came through in the good old-fashioned way. Previous to this campaign we held a union meeting of Methodist and Reformed people at Waldo just north of Delaware, and one near Croton, 25 miles east. Both of these meetings were successful in accomplishing much good and in the winning of souls. We are in the field for further service wherever called and expect to be out with a tent this spring and summer.

Rev. and Mrs. V. A. Wood.

LENEXA, KANSAS.

The first three weeks of January were profitable weeks for the Methodist Episcopal Church of Lenexa, Kan. Rev. F. D. Swanson, of Wilmore, Ky., was the evangelist for the revival and labored faithfully. This was perhaps one of the hardest fields for revival meetings to which Brother Swanson will be called this year. Sin in the form of prejudice, unbelief and worldliness is rampant, even in the "high places" of the church. About two-thirds of the membership either gave little or no attention to the meetings, however, Bro. Swanson preached the truth, clearly, uncompromisingly and in such a spirit as to cause the minimum of antagonism. He was "the man for the hour." We did not have a sweeping victory but the work which was accomplished we believe was well done and was work which will stand the test. A good foundation was laid for further work. About eight professed conversion, one sanctification and another received light as to the name for the second work of grace which she had experienced. I have not "exhausted my superlatives" in reporting this revival, but have told the truth which I feel is better. If any pastor or people are looking for an evangelist whom they can trust to preach the gospel wisely, uncompromisingly and under theunction of the Holy Spirit I can heartily recommend Bro. Swanson. He knows the Lord and will do good to any people who want the gospel.

This meeting proves that God will honor his Word and that hearts are hungry. In the darkest and hardest places God searches out a few who really want him. Let every pastor and evangelist take courage and preach the Gospel to the redemption of the few even though he be persuaded that he is "sowing for the judgment" in the case of the many.

G. H. Keeler, Pastor.

PINSONFORK, KENTUCKY.

We have just closed a two-weeks' meeting with Rev. W. B. Corder, at Pinsonfork, Ky., in the coal-fields of Pike county. Brother Corder, the pastor, also was the evangelist. Bro. Mawson played the piano for most of the services, Sister Mawson playing it part of the time. Bro. Corder led the singing for all but one service, at which Bro. Mawson led. Bro. Mawson and his wife furnished the special music, which was sometimes a solo by one or the other of them, at other times a duet, at other times, a piano solo by one or the other.

The Lord was with us in every service. The little hall in which picture shows were given was the only place available for our services. In spite of the fact that this section is torn with dissension over denominational differences, the attendance was excellent each night that the weather permitted. On the last night, 250 people were packed into the hall which was supposed to be able to seat only 150. Six professed salvation and were taken into the church, while many others were deeply interested in their souls' welfare, and expressed an interest in the prayers of God's people.

Bro. and Sister Mawson are open for more meetings. Any pastor or evangelist wishing their services may communicate with them at Wilmore, Ky. If it is believed that the meeting would not justify the use of two workers, Bro. Mawson can come alone.

Prof. and Mrs. R. K. Mawson.

MOULTON, ALABAMA.

Please let me say in your columns that our work is progressing fine here, considering the inclemency of the weather and bad roads. We have a great work. I am pastor of the new Bethel Charge of the M. E. Church, South. The charge consists of four churches and five preaching places, a beautiful little parsonage with five acres of land, and I suppose not a better people anywhere as a whole, to labor with. We are praying, planning, and believing for the greatest year of our life this conference year. We are planning to put on a campaign for the church and lost souls, with our good brother, Rev. John A. Mancosco, from Florence, Ala. He is our kindred, friend and brother. He and I have had some great meetings together. We are praying for a great outpouring of God's Spirit in the coming meeting.

We earnestly covet the prayers and co-operation of God's children for a great revival of old-time religion; especially let the great Herald family join us in earnest prayers that God may come in sin-killing power, that men, women, boys and girls may be so convicted of sin, righteousness and judgment, until they shall be made to cry for mercy and find God in the old-time way.

phases of modern liberalism. They are men of God, competent, self-sacrificing, devoted with holy zeal to the blessed task of instructing young men called to the ministry, how to best deliver their message, win their fellow-beings from sin, and build up the church of Jesus Christ in the world.

We have one excellent building; we have a goodly number of books, we have a small and slowly growing loan fund for the assistance of young preachers. We need another building, a large increase of books, the founding of several chairs in the Theological School, a loan fund that will enable us to render assistance to every man saved, sanctified, and called of God to preach the gospel. If the people who stand for full salvation, and a whole Bible for the whole world, would help us, in a few years we could gather here the largest number of theological students on the globe, and year by year, we could send out an army of young men preaching and witnessing to the fulness of salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ.

A thousand good women will read these words who have some money they could give for the building up of this Theological Seminary; a thousand good men will read these lines who love the Bible, who believe it, who are grieved and distressed over the spread of modern liberalism, its defiant boldness, its irreverent sacrilege, who have money, considerable sums, they must live on the income derived from it; but they cannot take it with them when they go, but they could let our Theological Seminary have it on an annuity plan, their money could be engaged in this, best of all work, preparing young men for the ministry, at the same time, they could live on the interest. Ten thousand people will read these words who could give something, large or small, and thus standing up and working together, we could provide a new building, we could endow several chairs, we could build up a large loan fund, and establish a strong Theological School to abide, teach and send forth a host of young preachers who would be winning souls to Christ long after we are dead and gone. Think and pray over these things, and write me care PENTECOSTAL HERALD, Louisville, Ky., what you think, and what you are willing to do for this, the greatest and best work in all the world.

Seed Sowing Before Harvest.

The Lord's sanctified people cannot expect a harvest of souls for full salvation without sowing the gospel seed of full redemption by faith in Christ. Hungering and thirsting after righteousness will follow the sowing of the truth of full redemption in the minds of the people. Convince the mind and you stir the heart into longing and prayer.

We want to suggest to a thousand readers of THE HERALD who love the doctrine of holiness and who long to see the people coming into Canaan, that they sow some seed. The Pentecostal Publishing Company has some excellent full salvation seed. This pamphlet, for instance, The Baptism with the Holy Ghost. It contains the very heart of the full salvation gospel in condensed form. It has an immense sale and has been read with awakening power. This pamphlet has been translated into the Japanese and Chinese languages and no doubt, more than fifty thousand copies have been sold. Send $1.00 to The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky., and get seven copies of this pamphlet and circulate them among your friends. Hand one to some neighbor, member of your church. Ask them to read it, and give it back to you and tell you what impression it has made upon their minds. With the number of copies you can receive for $1.00 you can have twenty or thirty persons in your neighborhood read the book and get interested in the subject of full salvation. This will lead some of them into the experience, it will excite an interest in others. If you feel you cannot invest a dollar, send for a copy, read it and pass it along. The price of a single copy is 15 cents.

ONLY A VOICE.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

IT would be a mission which angels might covet, to visit the homes, the shops, the churches, the prisons, the hospitals, the rescue homes, the invalid's room, the hut of poverty, the palace of the rich, the college, the university, the homeland, the foreign land, in fact the whole wide world, and tell the people of a Christ who is mighty to save and strong to deliver. Yet that is just what we, as writers of THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD, have the privilege of doing from week to week. This paper ventured out upon the sea of journalism, modestly attired in a dress of only a few pages, timidly asking admittance into the homes of godly people who were in sympathy with its doctrines and teachings, and, with no other motive in view, save that it might arouse the readers to the fact of their inheritance in the will of God. This unpretentious messenger of righteousness, moved quietly onward, stealing its way into the hearts of those who came within reach of its "glad tidings," until the short clothes of babyhood were laid aside for that of a full grown child. Of course the shell of limited territory was broken and, with a faith spurred on by the promises of God, it launched out into the depths of an untried sea, not to find an easy sailing, but to battle against opposition in low and high places. While this has been true all along the way, and the pathway has sometimes been through the fiery furnace, yet there was always One like unto the Son of God, who trod the way with it and brought it out without the smell of fire upon its garments.

THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD! What does it mean? With the idea of pentecost, comes the thought of power; with the idea of herald, comes the thought of messenger, so in combining the two, we have a powerful messenger. Is this merely a name, or do we merit the appellation? Candidly, we do not believe that we wear the title undeservedly, for when we consider the hundreds of hearts all up and down this land and in all parts of the world, who drink weekly from its refreshing streams of spiritual and living truths, we are constrained to believe that we wear our name worthily. There are hungry hearts in every station of life, who look forward from week to week, for a message from some one of God's messengers who may leave his imprint upon the pages of THE HERALD. There is nothing which contributes quite as much to our comfort in this great work of scattering the news of full salvation through the medium of THE HERALD, as the many encouraging letters we get from those who are being lifted to a higher and more satisfactory life in Christ Jesus.

Then there are those who have been passing through the valley, across whose pathway the shadows have fallen, until the way seemed hedged up, and they have been tempted to give up and cease the struggle, when at this opportune time God has winged a message to their hearts, through one of his children, which has lifted the despondent ones to their feet, who, with a fresh grip on God, have begun the battle anew and put to flight the enemy of their soul. To have been able to thus help a fainting, struggling heart, were worth a lifetime of service; to help one whom Satan has been sifting as wheat, is to rise above the ministry of angels, and to feel the joy that angels can never know.

John said to the people, when asked as to whether he was the Messiah or not, "I am the voice"; just a voice announcing the coming of one, the latchet of whose shoes he was not worthy to unloose, yet that voice prepared the people for the coming of him who would vindicate John as his messenger. Dear readers, are we willing to be a voice, proclaiming the One who is mighty to save? Did it ever occur to you that you could be a voice without saying a word? Your life speaks more loudly than words and impresses more deeply than fluent rhetoric or high profession. It is the character back of the voice which gives weight to the message.

In the pentecostal revival which swept over a great portion of Korea, there was a man, Keel by name, unassuming, uneducated, and blind, so he had to be led from place to place, but there burned within his soul the flame of divine love which yearned for the salvation of men, and through his instrumentality the spiritual conflagration started, which has been a marvel of grace to the whole world. He was just a voice telling of the One who tasted death for every man. Luther, Wesley, Knox, and others, whose names have become famous because of their devotion to their Lord, have been voices which have sounded down through the centuries inspiring men to greater diligence and faith in the God whom they proclaimed to a prodigal world. Our voices may not sound so far as did theirs, yet we can be faithful in our little sphere, improving the one talent to two, and in the end our reward will be, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Just a voice moving unseen among men, Telling of Him, who can save from all sin. Lifting the fallen, with words of good cheer. Making of earth a heaven while here.

The New Testament Doctrine of Sin.

REV. A. S. HUNTER.

The popular, modernistic idea of sin is "missing the mark." Archery is a favorite illustration—the arrow falls short of the target, because one's arm is not able to draw the bow sufficiently, or his vision is faulty and he miscalculated the distance. The marathon is another favorite figure—one fails of the prize of being a step behind, but he runs the race just the same.

The Greek word, "hamartano," translated "sin," has that idea in it. Jesus and his followers had to use the vehicle of language at hand, however inadequate it was. But, in their use of it certain words acquired a special significance adapted to the truth which they were used to convey. Knowledge of the Greek is helpful but we cannot preach the gospel of Christ from Greek roots.

For instance, there are two Greek words which are translated "love." "Agapao" occurs more than one hundred times in the New Testament and "philos" about a dozen times. Agapao is used almost exclusively in connection with God or the things of God and it comes to signify the Divine love-nature—"God is love." Also "God so loved the world." Christ also loved the Church. "Love your enemies." "Love one another." "Love is of God." "Love God." Regardless of its Greek derivation love in the New Testament has its own gospel force. To preach good will, human kindness, maternal affection, etc., for gospel love is surely "missing the mark." This love is not natural to fallen humanity but is "poured out into our hearts by the Holy Spirit." It begins with the new birth, and is perfected with the funeral of "the old man."

Likewise, the Greek word "evangelion" is, literally, "good news" or glad tidings. In the New Testament, "it is the power of God unto salvation"; the good news becomes Divine dynamite or dynamo. To merely voice pleasant tidings to people is to miss the mark of the gospel ministry. Our preaching is to get salvation results.

So does the New Testament say that "sin is the transgression of the law." That is more than just negative, falling short; it is also positive, going too far, doing the forbidden thing. Sin involves the will, and is moral turpitude. When the angel announced that the name of Mary's Son should be "Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins"; that meant more than just missing the target or coming in second in the race. Jesus' agony in Gethsemane and death on Calvary was deeper and more fundamental than correcting a faulty aim or helping one to sprint faster. When he said, "Every one that committeth sin is the slave of sin"; he meant something beside impotent arms and legs. When it is written, "By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin"; that is not limited to archery or the marathon. When we read of "the sin that dwelleth in us"; that is more than just blurred vision or shortening of wind. When we know that "the mind of the flesh is enmity against God, and is not subject to the law of God; neither indeed can it be"; that is more than an error of judgment. When the Holy Spirit "convicts of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment to come"; he is doing more than coaching one for a tournament. The judgment has to do with sin and righteousness as opposites, and "missing the mark" does not cover the ground.

A sinner does miss the mark, but that is not all; he rebels against the Divine government, violates the Divine law, comes under the Divine penalty. The Wesleys would not have rescued England by preaching missing the mark, nor would Asbury and his fellow workers have planted Methodism in America and saved this land from Paineism, had they stopped there. Missing the mark is not the New Testament doctrine of sin. The gospel sees sin as that which damns for time and eternity. It put the rich man "in torments," with an impassable gulf "fixed" across which he can never escape. Salvation evangelism requires that sin be presented in its real character, not denatured, polished or sugar-coated.

"FOLLOW ME."

sessed, since he had not even a stone he could call his own for a pillow. But that other man, who came just then, who wanted to go to the funeral of his father seems to have stood the test. Immediately after Christ's supreme demand for his undivided allegiance, he with the rest followed Jesus into a ship and shortly witnessed the stilling of the tempest. Other boats that had no Christ aboard probably went down that awful night. Perhaps that disciple, had he hastened to the burial, would have been on one of them, and would have been lost. Certainly Jesus knew what he was about even though the test seemed cruel enough and thus there may have been saved to the world a Peter, a James, or a John. There would have been a tempest Jesus or no Jesus, but there would have been no stilling of the tempest apart from him.

Think next of the ones to whom these magic words, "Follow me" were spoken. Some, as Andrew and his unnamed friend "followed Jesus" without an invitation until he said in response to their "Where dwellest thou," "Come and see"; others, like Peter and Nathanael were attracted to Jesus through friends and by his encouraging them with new names or expressions of appreciation. To others he spoke directly as to Philip and Matthew and on another occasion to Simon and Andrew, and to James and John "Come ye after me." Not all who heard the words responded. That delightful young man who was not only rich but legally righteous, he who had kept all the commandments from his youth up, he who to be seen, even by the Son of God, was to be loved by him, heard the same invitation that had come to the humble fishermen, but "having great possessions," he heeded not. Who can tell what this recruit might have meant to the infant church, standing as it did, without men of means or influence? Because he failed to "follow" not only was he lost himself, but a whole thrilling page of history was never written and his name is a blank like the famous slab to the memory of Benedict Arnold in the Chapel at West Point.

The meaning of "follow me," only dawned upon those disciples by slow degrees. Four later episodes of discipleship in the life of Simon Peter are sign-posts on this toilsome spiritual journey. First, the Episode of Self-Assumption. From the midst of great apparent popularity our Lord undertook to enlighten his disciples with some most distasteful details of his imminent passion; Peter would have none of it; he spoke with his usual impetuosity, "Be it far from thee, Lord." Jesus rebuked him with a sword thrust, "Thou savorest not the things of God, Simon," and then he annunciated with peculiar emphasis the discipline of discipleship, "If any man will come after me—" To "follow me" comes last of the three. It almost seems as though he is saying to Peter "So far, Simon, you have only 'Come after me,' this and this are what it means to 'follow me.'"

Second, the Episode of Self-Assurance, "I will lay down my life for thee." If there was to be a war; if the King could not come into his own without bloodshed, if defiance must be hurled at powers ecclesiastical and political, Peter, chairman of the Apostolic college, spokesman for those seemingly "unlearned and ignorant men," was ready to throw himself into the breach holding not his life dear—at least he thought he was and probably had it been a question of mere animal courage he would have proved his prowess in any fray. But the establishment of the Kingdom calls for little display of fist and force; the courage for Christ's need is moral and spiritual rather than militant or material. Peter was not yet aware either of his human deficiency or of the Divine requirement. It was to be amid bitter tears and saving self-reproaches that his Master would make this necessary revelation. For,

Thirdly, the Episode of Self-discovery, "And the Lord turned and looked upon Peter . . . and Peter remembered. . . ." Peter's sin, like that of most professing Christians, arose out of following the Lord "afar off." Had he gotten close to Jesus as did "that other disciple," or had he just given up altogether with those who "all forsook him and fled," this painful event of denial and backsliding would never have been. But then we would have lost one of the most precious moments in the story of the Savior. Think of him under the burden of false accusations, of broken friendships, of menacing mobs and their leaders, of a sleepless night of excitement and distress, of an opening day that was to end in the slow shedding of his own blood drop by drop from festering wounds in broken hands and feet and then think of him having time to remember Peter, now transformed from braggart disciple to braggart deserter, and you have a portrait of perfection never attained except in him who "knew no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth." It was this new and but dimly realized picture of his Master that broke down Peter's last vestige of self-importance and self-appointed leadership and sent him out into the darkest night the world has ever known to weep tears that were as bitter to his soul as was the wormwood and the gall that cruel crucifiers were soon to offer the Savior. And who can doubt, but that what this shameful incident wrought upon Peter was likewise accomplished for all those other scurrying little men who in other days had been wont to congratulate themselves upon their undying fealty to the Man they now so completely had forsaken. But better times were to come. There was, thank God,

Fourthly, the Episode of Self-surrender. "O Lord, thou knowest all things, thou knowest that I love thee." Remember that in revealing their own weakness as followers, to his disciples, Jesus was showing them his mighty strength to be their Leader. Peter at last, and with him all the rest, were ready to follow without dictating their direction or their destiny. But still he was the chairman and the spokesman; if he in following Christ was to be carried whither he would not, yet there were the other disciples—John was first at hand, close to Jesus as usual, "Lord," said Peter, "What shall this man do?" Once more was the sword thrust for Peter's self-life—"What is that to thee—Follow thou me."

And so the first and the last words of him who is the "First and the Last" were of following, always of following. To Peter the "man of nets and boats," and to all the others there by the restless sea of Galilee where first he called them, "Follow me," and again in the after years, beyond the shadow of his cross of dying and the radiance of his crown of resurrection, with final earthly separation just ahead, again, by the restless sea, "Follow me." And across the rolling centuries with their storms that have sometimes almost wrecked the ship and their wars that have beat in blood and fire upon the devoted heads of his disciples, and the schisms and apostasies that have racked and torn the body of believers until again and again all seemed lost—above the tumult of triumph and the terror of disaster still he calls, "Follow me." Not a doctrine, though he has one and those who follow him never question it; not an experience though he gives one that satisfies and saves, but just the God-man Jesus who still is sweetly saying as he did by the restless sea, "Follow me."

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

THE BOY WHO WAS COVERED WITH MUD.

Sometime ago I saw a little boy, while on his way home from school, whose face and clothes were covered with mud. He looked as though he had fallen into a mud-puddle. And he did not seem as though he cared.

That boy's condition reminded me of the sad fact that all of us, by nature, are covered with something worse than mud, and that is sin. For mud can be washed off with water. Besides, the mud is only on the outside, but sin is largely inside, and can never be washed away with water. But, thank God, both outward and inward sin can be removed by the all-atoning blood of Jesus Christ. Possibly your parents and Sunday school teacher can explain this to you. I trust you know what it means by happy experience. A. W. Orwig.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my first letter to The Herald. I am ten years old. I have light hair. My birthday is Dec. 17. I have six brothers and five sisters. I like to go to Sunday school. My father takes The Herald. I like to read page ten. I weight about 63 pounds. I have blue eyes. Bernice Walker. Breeding, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: As my Sunday school teacher brought The Herald to Sunday school and read us the letters, I would like to have other children to write to me. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. I am a member of the Nazarene church. I am ten years old and am in the fourth grade. I have blue eyes and light hair. Not very tall. My birthday is May 10. Margaret Weaver. Box 62, Main St. North East, Md.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Slide over and give me a little room, please. What are all you cousins doing today? I am not doing anything. It sure is cold, isn't it? It is snowing here. What is it doing down there? Why don't you answer my letter, Lura Huffman? Dorothy Smith, you will have to write again for I lost your letter. Come again, Cousin Sunshine. Fern Longshire, my birthday is in August. I would like to hear from you, Louise Sanders. I guess your birthday is June 20. I must close before Mr. W. B. comes. Dora Watkins. Rt. 3, Henderson, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl join your happy band of boys and girls? Mother takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. Esther C. James, I guess your middle name to be Christine. Velma J. Jones, I guess your age to be eighteen. I do not belong to any church. Whoever guesses my middle name I will write to them. It begins with L and ends with E; it has six letters in it. My birthday is April 28. I am ten years old. I have two brothers and one sister. I have brown hair and eyes. Bonnie L. Page. Burkesville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Have you got room for a little girl from New Jersey? I go to Sunday school every Sunday. I also go to day school and am in the sixth grade. I will be twelve April 18. Have I a twin? As I want to make room for other letters I will close. Isabell Hubbell. Glen Rock, N. J.

Dear Aunt Bettie: As I am sending in my renewal for The Pentecostal Herald, may I have a little chat with the children? I am glad to read of so many children giving their hearts to Jesus early in life. Children, if you all will be good and live for God surely there will be lots of good done. I have been taking The Pentecostal Herald for some time and enjoy reading it very much. I feel it has been a blessing to our home. Although we don't belong to the Methodist Church I love the Methodists and all Christian people and feel that God has done as much for one as he has for others. We all ought to live close to God and try to influence others to be Christians. The world is growing very wicked and every Christian ought to do what they can. Mandy B. McKinney. Pierce, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you move over a little and let a little West Virginia girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I have been a reader of The Herald for some time. I love to read page ten. My father and mother are both Christians; they belong to the Missionary Baptist Church. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. I haven't missed but three Sundays in three years. We have church every second and fourth Saturday night and prayer meeting every Wednesday night. I have light blue eyes, light brown hair and fair complexion. Am eleven years old and in the fifth grade. I weigh 80 pounds and am four feet, eight inches tall. Tressie Vance. Lyburn, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Won't you move over and let a West Virginia girl have a seat? How are you and all the cousins? I am going to school every day. Who has my birthday, Oct. 4? I am thirteen years of age. I go to Sunday school nearly every Sunday. I would like to hear from some of the cousins. May O'Dell. Mt. Nebo, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you admit a Kentucky girl to greet the group of boys and girls? We take The Herald and I enjoy reading it, especially page ten. I am sixteen years of age and am a Freshman in high school. I have dark brown (bobbed) hair and eyes and medium complexion. Do any of the cousins like to read? I have read almost two hundred books, including the Bible, which I have read twice. I have three sisters; two are married, and two brothers. I do not see many letters from good old Kentucky in The Herald, so come on, Kentucky and write some letters to The Herald. We must not let the other states get ahead of us. Have any of the cousins my birthday, Dec. 20? I belong to the Christian Church, but I like to go to all. We all strive for the one goal in life, and it is a hard task and one must fight all the time, but the victory is easy through Jesus. My favorite sports are riding, skating, and sleigh-riding. Virginia R. Juett. Robinson, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let an Ohio boy join your band of boys and girls? I am fourteen years old. I am in the first year of High School. I am saved and sanctified. I am five feet, four. I wear glasses, and I have light complexion. My father is the Methodist preacher here and he is holding his revivals. Scores are coming forward. Father has taken The Herald for a good many years. I enjoy reading page ten. My birthday is the 4th of July. Who has my birthday? I will close now hoping to see this in print as it is my first letter. Jerome Shiltz. Shadyside, O.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Only a word this rainy day, Just to chase the gloom away.

I have been busy this morning getting ready for school in the morning, and have come all the way from Boaz, Ala., to Louisville, Ky., since noon, just to chat with the circle of boys and girls, or maybe I would be correct if I should say the circle of girls. Would I be correct? I am sure every one had a merry Christmas, and I hope all are having a happy new year. I certainly did enjoy Christmas because I had not been home for four months and a half. How many of you cousins are going to school? I have been here since August, (except during the Christmas holidays) and I intend to remain until May. I will not be a Senior until next year, but think I shall stay here for commencement if I do not get too homesick. How many of you school boys and girls enjoy proving Geometry propositions, solving Chemistry problems, writing English themes, writing book and poem reports, conjugating Latin verbs, and learning all there is to be learned concerning the Bible and its origin? These are some of the many things I'm having to do this year. If you have ever spent any time away from home and friends, you can imagine how I feel here. Just apply the "Golden Rule" and write me a long letter. I would be very glad to receive, with the letter, a picture of the writer. Since my age is personal property, I will only say my birthday was Feb. 12. Agnes Murphree. McCleskey Home, Boaz, Ala.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May this West Virginia girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I suppose you all are wondering who I am and how I look. My complexion and hair are dark, and my eyes are gray. My height is five feet, seven inches; weight 124 pounds. My birthday is November 23. Who has my birthday? I am fifteen years of age. May God be with us all till we meet in a better world. Opal Smith. Jumping Beach, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you move over please dear cousins, and let me have some room? It will not take a very large space for me for I am not very big. Will you, dear cousins, let me sit by my chums, the ones that I wrote to? Their names are Elenor Simpson, Minnie Perkins, Kathleen Peerey, Florence M. Wilcox, and Margaret Sue Graham. Eleanor, Minnie and Margaret, I sure did miss your letters very much. Every one of you wrote such fine letters. As I sit gazing out of the window where the sun has left behind it a streak of red fire, it shows a wonderful piece of handiwork. I am so very glad that so many of you are Christians. I am trying to follow Him all the way. My mother, father, grandmother and my two great-grandfathers are Christians; also my two grandfathers and one grandmother and great-grandmother that are dead, were Christians. There are fifteen go to my school. We have a man teacher and I sure like him fine. His name is S. L. Sluder. I have one brother whose name is Loren Vern Okes. I am fourteen years old. In July last year we had two missionaries from Mexico. They told me I should be a missionary, so I am waiting for Jesus to call me for his work. I can play a piano or organ and sing alto. Norma Violet Okes. Rt. 2, Lewis, Ind.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Tennessee girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I sure do enjoy reading the Boys and Girls' Page. I am a Christian and belong to the Nazarene Church. I go to Sunday school all I can. I praise the Lord for what he has done for me. Glad to read about so many boys and girls being Christians. Aunt Sallie gives me The Pentecostal Herald to read. Rachel Eldridge. Rt. 5, Sparta, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am a little girl at Nelsonville, Ohio. I am ten years old, and my birthday is August 8. I am in the fifth grade at school. My teacher is Mary Cohagan and I like her very much. I go to Sunday school every Sunday at the M. E. Church. Mother goes there too. The last two or three days I have been very sick with the flu and my mother handed me The Herald to put in my time. I read all the letters on page ten and I got so interested that I had to write one myself. Louise McDowell. 292 Poplar St., Nelsonville, Ohio.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am going to write a little about Decision Day, which many churches are holding at this time. Now, I believe in decision day, which we all should observe. Every man, woman and child, who has arrived at years of accountability, should have a day when we make this decision. But that is not all that is required of us. A person in a foreign country may decide to be a citizen of these United States, but that does not constitute him a citizen of the U. S. A. They must get aboard of a ship to come to this country. I may cost one all he or she has to get here, but when arriving at Ellis Island they are not entitled to a title of membership, but must go before the proper authorities and sign a document giving his obligation to this country and giving up the country from which they came to become a voter with all the rights of this nation. So this is the same with a decision for Christ's kingdom. One may decide for Christ's kingdom and think that makes them a Christian. But if they go on in the service of their worldly life and forsake not the devil and his kingdoms, they are not Christians. They must leave off the old ways and take up the life of the new kingdom, sign allegiance to the King of the new kingdom and receive the seal, the Holy Spirit to witness that they have become his true followers. May all the dear cousins make this decision and enter the Kingdom of Jesus Christ, is the prayer of Mary S. Hudson.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you and the cousins let another Kentucky girl join the happy band of boys and girls? We do not subscribe for The Herald but I always like to read it when I have an opportunity. My mother is dead and I keep house for my father and brother. I have three sisters and two brothers. I have chestnut color hair, gray eyes and fair complexion. Who has my birthday, Sept. 8? Who can guess my age? It is between fifteen and twenty-five. As this is my first letter I will close, and if Mr. Waste Basket doesn't get it I will write again sometime. Will be delighted to hear from all the boys and girls that wish to write to me, and will answer. Elva Benningfield. Elkhorn, Ky.

FALLEN ASLEEP

MY METHODIST ITINERANT PARENTS.

In Appreciation.

I held in my hands today a check for burial benefit for my mother given me from the Erie Annual Conference, M. E. Church, for the widow of a deceased Methodist preacher. It meant more to me than the monetary value. It meant the severance of a life-long attachment. As long as I had my frail little mother, a "Conference claimant" I felt I was in a measure connected with the conference. How dear to my father was his conference and his brethren! How proud to be connected with them. "Jennie," he said to my mother, "our Erie Conference has a noble body of men. I love them all! I am proud to be a worker for God with them." Honored by them for twenty years as Conference Treasurer, he knew most of them very well. Our home was a veritable preacher's rest. Seldom a week went by but we did not have "brotherly visits." Comfort, advice and general brotherly kindness was sought, given, and the brother went on his way feeling better for his visit. Then, too, my father would find eminent preachers passing through and bring them home. I remember Bishops Thoburn, Hartzell, McCabe, Bros. Kynett, Leonard, Spencer and many others from the various mission fields. Then, too, I remember his bringing home Bro. Wood—the camp meeting Bro. Wood—and one time a Quaker Evangelist by the name of Tatum. It was a feast of good things for us to have these men of God in our home. To hear them talk and then they would pray. I was only a little girl when many of these men were in our home, but it has been an uplift to me all through the years. I wonder if preachers now-a-days keep open doors? They will entertain angels "awares" if they do, and their children will be benefited.

Then, again, this check brings before me not only my parsonage homes and ministerial friends, but the "Elders." We had them in those days. We loved them all. They never would stay anywhere but at the parsonage—if they were sent away to a good brother's home, they would find an excuse to come to the parsonage. "Glad to see you, Elder," was my father's hearty greeting. Then we would all sit up till long after midnight and visit with the Elder. How we looked forward to his visit. Somehow, he always stayed full time with us, some places had substitutes sent, but we got the Elder. The last prayer said at my father's bedside was by his Elder on his way to District Conference. After a touching prayer and good-bye, for he did not expect to see my father in this world again, he said, "Doctor, what message shall I take to the brethren from you? Did you ever regret leaving your profession of medicine and becoming a Methodist preacher?"

"No, Elder, never, never, I would do it again, I have never regretted entering the ministry—tell them I died in the faith, tell them to come to see me in Heaven."

Then this check means to me the churches, both town and country, and the revivals. I see him at the crowded altar praying and singing. He was always his own revivalist. His ministry was strongly evangelistic. I often meet people who say to me, "I knew your father. He was a good man." I am so proud of that; he was all that and more. The text used at his funeral—"Treasures laid up in heaven" illustrates his life.

Then, too, this check represents the life and work of a frail, little woman who nobly stood by her husband; a typical Methodist preacher's wife. President of everything; instant in prayer; visiting and cheering the sick and shut-in; keeping open house for all the "stray preachers" and other brethren and sisters; a careful, loving mother to her only daughter.

For twenty years she lived after her husband's "home going." We lived in various places where I was teaching where she was an inspiration to all with whom she came in contact. In failing health and growing blind, we came back to her childhood home, where in quietness she sat "waiting for the chariot" to come for her. For two years, she was totally blind to things of this earth but she sees now! A little band of holiness people met with us for prayer each week. She enjoyed their coming so much. She loved our holiness periodicals and delighted to have holiness books read aloud. Her interest in Missions was intense. She prayed fervently for a Doctor for the Chinese work; it was on her heart. When I read of Dr. Wesche's appointment, she said, "My prayer is answered." The January "Call to Prayer" came as she lay near death and I read to her about the arrival in China of our new missionaries, "Another prayer answered," and then in her own comical way, "the good-looking girl married the man who helped Bro. Troxel settle the war, that's nice."

Miss McConnell's work and Sister DeWeerd were mentioned and prayed for as she lay waiting for Jesus to come. Her loving heart took in all. A beautiful smile came over her face and she was gone to meet Jesus and her husband whom she said she saw coming down the road to meet her.

And so, perhaps, the last link that bound me to that radiant past; that wonderful life, has been broken, but, thanks be to God that such have lived, though here on earth no more. And thanks to God for the noble, consecrated lives of Rev. C. C. Rinebarger and his wife, Jennie Clark Rinebarger. God bless and keep the Methodist Episcopal Church true to the Christian standard and keep the Parsonage Homes! Mary C. Rinebarger.

AUSTIN.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Austin, Jan. 12, and claimed their daughter Louise Elizabeth, age thirteen years, five months, and three days. Just as the dawn was breaking her soul slipped away to its home in the great beyond. We cannot understand why she should be taken away just as she was budding into life, but the Lord knows best. She was a Christian girl, always in her place at Sunday school when able; while on her bed of affliction she was so patient and bore her suffering without murmur.

Weep not, dear father, mother, brother and sister, for we know Louise is on the golden shore beckoning us to come. She was laid to rest in Mt. Pleasant, Thursday morning, services being conducted by Bro. Kendall.

We miss you, Louise,

More than tongue can tell;

Your place is vacant

And can never be filled.

But the Lord knows best,

And to his will we must submit,

And prepare ourselves here

To meet you in great bliss.

One Who Loved Her.

ROSEBURG, MICHIGAN.

Greetings in Jesus' name: Just a few words of praise to God for his goodness to us. He has seen fit to give us a good old-fashioned Holy Ghost revival at the Freemont Menonite Brethren in Christ Church, which went to the bottom. About 28 kneeled at the altar to be either saved or sanctified, and God met their need. Praise his holy name.

We were assisted by Evangelist Mark S. McKie, of Holt, Mich., and God did freely use this Spirit-filled brother. May God set him in a large place. Our attendance has doubled, there is lots of fire in the testimony and prayer meetings, and God's name is glorified. Surely God's arm is not shortened. I am determined to serve him to the end.

Your brother in Him,
Rev. E. W. McClintock.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson 1.—April 3, 1927.

Subject.—Peter Becomes a Disciple. Mark 1:14-18; Mark 1:29-31.

Golden Text.—Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men. Mark 1:17.

Time.—A. D. 28.

Place.—The Sea of Galilee.

Introduction.—How we do long to know a little bit more about some of the great characters of the Bible. We come now to study about the doings of St. Peter, and find the sources of information concerning his life previous to his call to an apostleship almost nil. It can be said with some certainty that he was born at the town of Bethsaida, and that his father's name was Jonas. In Matthew 16:17 he is called Simon Bar-Jona; that is, Simon son of Jonas, or son of John. Jesus surnamed him Cephas, "which is, by interpretation, A stone." St. Paul refers to him as Cephas; but he is most commonly known as Peter, the English form of Petros, a small stone. We look in vain for information about his mother, except that she lived at Bethsaida, where Peter, and Andrew were born. It is supposed that his father died before Peter became a follower of Jesus, as no mention is made of him. He was probably a fisherman on the Sea of Galilee, and that he trained his two sons to the same business, as we find them fishermen in later years.

Andrew was a disciple of John the Baptist before he followed Christ, being one of those who heard John call Jesus "the Lamb of God." He found Peter and brought him to the Lord. In all probability Peter was also a follower of John. In truth, John the Baptist was not only preparing the way of the Lord; but he was preparing that way by training men who were to leave him and become disciples of his Master; but John was free of jealousy in the matter; for a little later he said concerning him: "He must increase, but I must decrease."

We do not know exactly when Peter moved from Bethsaida to Capernaum; but some suppose that it was after he became a follower of the Lord. We know that his house became in some sort the abiding place of Jesus whenever he was in Capernaum. On one occasion he arrived at the home to find Peter's wife's mother sick of a fever; and he graciously healed her, so that she immediately arose and ministered unto her guests. It was in this house and about its doorway that he healed multitudes of sick folk and cast out many demons.

We are not to suppose that Peter had not met Jesus prior to the time of his call as recorded in the lesson, which was about a year after Andrew led him to the Savior. He had been with him on many occasions during the year. He was with him at the wedding in Cana, at the feast of the passover, at the cleansing of the temple, and at the time of his preaching to the lone woman of Samaria. But he often returned to his home in Capernaum, and plied his old trade of fisherman between these seasons of following the Lord from place to place. However, after the call recorded in our lesson, he seems to have left all to follow Jesus continually.

Peter was an interesting character. He exhibited almost as many qualities as a well cut diamond has facets. Prior to Pentecost, he was bold and cowardly, hopeful and despondent, strong and weak, quick and slow, one might almost term him a truthful liar; for when he promised Jesus to stand by him to the last, he did not mean to lie so shamefully as he did during his trial. He was too impulsive, and ran ahead of his real convictions. He would have been a failure forever, if he had not been entirely sanctified on the day of Pentecost; but that settled him forever, except the time when he let the Judaizers frighten him, and Paul had to rebuke him publicly to bring him back to his senses.

There has been a good deal of foolishness written and spoken about this man Peter. The Roman Catholics have built their vast ecclesiastical system upon the poor fellow. They have made him the first pope at Rome; although there is little evidence that he ever held any position whatever in the church in that city. There is some evidence that he was crucified there. Building the Church on Peter has grown out of a misinterpretation of Matthew 16:18. Jesus said to him: "Thou art Peter; and upon this rock I will build my church." He called the disciples a small stone, but declared, that he would build (not found, the Church was founded already) his Church upon this Petra, a great table rock, meaning himself. No man is big enough to build God's Church on: it must stand upon the ROCK OF AGES. A little folly is hard to kill when fed by much money and great authority.

Notes on the Lesson.

14. After that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee.—We are in some doubt as to why he went into Galilee at this time; although it may have been for personal safety. Preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God.—Jesus would not waste time preaching history, science and literature to dying men. He had come to give them the good news of salvation from sin; and they must have it. Jesus Christ preaching the Gospel of the kingdom of God is a rebuke to all men who think they can preach something else from the sacred desk. We are needing a revival of Gospel preaching—the proclamation under the union of the Divine Spirit of the great fundamental doctrines of the Bible: Conviction for sin, Repentance, Faith, Pardon, Regeneration, Adoption, Witness of the Spirit, Consecration, Entire Sanctification, Judgment, Heaven, Hell.

15. The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of heaven is at hand.—God runs his affairs according to plan. Jesus came in "the fulness of time." He will come again in the fulness of time, but not before. Repent ye, and believe the gospel.—Strenuous preaching. No card-signing. No one can believe unto salvation until he is done with sin. It is folly to tell unrepentant sinners to accept Christ; for no man can come to him, except the Father draw him.

16. As he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.—They had honorable employment, made a good living for their families, and paid their debts. They were God's men, and not unforgiven sinners. They were the very sort of men that Jesus desired to have for apostles. Much learning had not spoiled them. They were not stuffed full of vain philosophy and conceit. Colleges, seminaries, and universities are good in their places, but they cannot make preachers of the Gospel of the kingdom of God. That is his job.

17. Come ye after me.—In Jewish parlance that meant, Be my disciples and follow me whithersoever I go. I will make you to become fishers of men.—The Master was fond of using figures and illustrations that men could comprehend. Peter and Andrew needed no commentary on these words. And, without controversy, that is our business as preachers. When we cease to have people saved from sin under our preaching, the time has come for us to either quit preaching, or hunt a mourner's bench.

18. Straightway they forsook their nets, and followed him.—They had had a year to think the matter through, and now were ready to meet the issue without further consideration; but could they have foreseen all that awaited them, there might have been some hesitancy. It was best for some things to remain under cover till the disciples could be baptized with the Spirit.

Read carefully the verses lying between the two parts of the lesson, so as to get the connection. On the same day when he had called Peter and Andrew, he also called James and John, and "they left their father Zebedee in the ship with the hired servants, and went after him." Entering into Capernaum, he went to the synagogue on the Sabbath day and taught, as was his custom. There was in the synagogue a man with an unclean spirit who recognized Jesus as the Holy One of God. Jesus healed the man by casting out the demon; and his fame spread abroad. Next we find him in Peter's home healing his wife's mother of a fever. In this case of healing he had with him Peter and Andrew and James and John. Here we find him taking the sick one by the hand, and raising her up, something he did not always do. How speedy were his cures. Immediately the fever left her. If we are going to claim faith cures, it would honor our Master more to have the work done quickly—at least some cases should come that way. This woman was so completely healed that she went to work and served her guests without further ceremony. We need more faith in God.

Don't fail to take advantage of the great bargain in books that we offer in this issue. See page 16.

MOORELAND, OKLAHOMA.

The Lord gave us a gracious meeting in Mooreland, Okla. There were 85 souls at the altar of prayer. We had 65 conversions and reclamations and 20 were sweetly sanctified. Praise the Lord. There were 63 in prayer meeting Wednesday evening, almost all taking part. Six held up their hands for prayer; three who were not saved, and three who wanted to have a closer walk with the Lord by being sanctified wholly. Mrs. Corcoran, of Oklahoma City, did the singing, and it was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Corcoran brings a wonderful message in song, and is a splendid worker around the altar. The messages being brought by the pastor, C. J. Dennison.

THE BLESSED HOLY SPIRIT.

D. L. Clark.

Of course we mean by the blessed Holy Spirit, the third person of the Divine Trinity, the executive of the Godhead, who is now the representative thereof in this world. In the early history of the world God the Father was the personal Agent who came and walked and talked with his children on earth and made known his laws and wishes unto them in his own proper person. Then, later, Jesus the Christ came in human form and lived among men, and "to as many as received him to them gave he power (right, privilege, authority) to become the children of God,—to those who believe in his name." John 1:2. ("That is to those who trust in his Name." M. S., New Testament.)

Before Jesus left the world, he promised to send the blessed Holy Spirit to abide in the hearts of his children forever, and that promise is fulfilled this day. It began to be fulfilled on the day of Pentecost when in the upper room in Jerusalem the hundred and twenty faithful Christians were all baptized and filled with the blessed Holy Spirit, as was promised by Joel, (Ch. 2:28) by John the Baptist, Matt. 3:11, and by Jesus himself. John 14:7.

Dean Alford, the great English scholar and theologian, wrote: "This is Totally Distinct from all previous working." John Fletcher says, "Bestow a more abundant measure." The Holy Spirit was in the world from the very beginning. In the very first verse of the very first chapter of the very first book of the Bible we read: "In the beginning God (Elohim, Gods) created the heavens and the earth," showing by the plural word, "Gods", that more than one person is meant. And in the next verse, we find that, "the Spirit of God moved (was brooding, marg. A.R.V.) upon the face of the waters" doubtless to establish nature, bring order out of chaos and create life in the earth. From that time on we read often of the presence and work of the Spirit of God in the world. He "came upon," or "clothed himself with," certain ones as Balaam, Numb. 24:2; Othniel, Judges 3:10; Saul, 1 Sam. 10:10; and Samson, Judges 13:25 and 14:19, but not to "purify their hearts by faith" as he did at Pentecost, as Peter testified in Acts 15:8, 9. He also inspired the writers of the Bible, so that they "Spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit." 2 Pet. 1:21.

The great fault of the ancient world was that they forgot God and their Father "because that knowing God, they glorified him not as God, neither gave thanks; but became vain in their reasonings and their senseless heart was darkened." Rom. 1:21.

"And even as they refused (did not approve) God in their knowledge, God gave them up to a reprobate (void of judgment, marg.) mind to do those things which are not fitting, (things which should not be done. M. S., New Testament) so that they did all kinds of shameful things, (20th chap. N. T.) They changed the glory of the incorruptible God, for the likeness of an image of corruptible man, and of birds, and of four-footed beasts, and creeping things, (worshipped idols), and exchanged the truth of God for a lie and worshipped a creature rather than the Creator, God, blessed forever. For this cause God cast them out of the land he had given them and suffered them to go into captivity to Babylon. Afterward Jesus, God's only begotten and dearly beloved Son came and lived among them and taught them, but again they refused to accept, and acknowledge him as their Savior, and crucified him. They would not come unto him, that they might have life, and so were cast off and destroyed as a nation until this day.

Our danger now is that of rejecting or refusing to accept the blessed Holy Spirit in all of his offices.

Dr. James M. Buckley, the most able editor of the New York Christian Advocate, wrote years ago thus, "There are hundreds of churches in our land today, and at the present rate there will soon be thousands, as utterly devoid of the Spirit of God, as if they were mere social clubs." How sad it is that this should be true after nineteen hundred years of the dispensation of the Holy Spirit. We read that a minister visiting and catechizing a woman belonging to his church asked her:

"How many persons are in the Godhead?" She said, "Two." He said, "Name them." She replied: "The Father and the Son." He said, "Do you not know of the third person, the Holy Spirit?" She said, "I used to say three and include him, but in your sermons for six months that you have been our pastor, you have not referred to him, so I supposed he had dropped out."

Mr. D. L. Moody wrote that a good Christian man, a father in Israel, said to him after hearing him preach: "Brother Moody, always honor the Holy Ghost." Mr. Moody took the hint and found that those who honor him, he will honor.

We fear that in too many of our pulpits as well as in our churches he is not honored as he should be. Only as we receive him and recognize him in all his offices do we honor him as we should. His first mission to every human heart is to convince or convict of sin as Jesus said, "When he is come he will convince (or convict, A. R. V.) the world of sin." John 16:8. See how he did that on the day of Pentecost when the 120 disciples were filled with the Holy Spirit, for the first time. Thousands were convicted and cried out to the Christians: "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" and were told to repent of their sins and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ, thus breaking away from their old caste, of Judaism and accepting Christ as their Savior, and they were promised that if they would do this, they should receive the Holy Spirit also, for the promise was first to them and their children, but also to them that were afar off, as the Gentiles, including us today and all whom God shall call, or who heed his call. So five thousand were converted, or born of the Spirit and added to the church that day, and other thousands, a day or two later, and no doubt many thousands more were convicted also.

The Holy Spirit is so absolutely modest and so utterly unselfish that he does not speak of himself, but takes of the things of the Christ and shows them unto us, as Jesus said he would do, and thus glorifies him. But this need not prevent us from saying with the poet:

"I worship thee, O Holy Ghost
I love to worship thee.
My risen Lord for aye were lost
But for thy company
With thee each day is pentecost
Each night nativity."

Most important of all, to the Christian, is it to "be filled with the Holy Spirit," and thus have his "heart purified by faith," for if all Christians had this experience, we believe that all sinners within their reach would soon be convicted and many, if not most of them, converted.

As Bishop James said, "A holy church would soon make this a holy world. Holiness is the greatest good and the highest destiny of a militant church." If there is any religious truth that should be urged upon the disciples of Jesus with the sweetness of constraining love and the solemnity of his divine authority it is the truth that Christians may be and ought to be holy.

If we were all full of the Spirit, all the time, how many we might reach and bless and save, who are lost because we are not thus full of the blessed Holy Ghost. May God forgive us. It seems just as imperative and necessary a duty that we shall "Be filled with Spirit," as that we shall "be not drunk with wine wherein is excess." Eph. 5:18. Both are commanded in the same verse.

DARRINGTON, WASHINGTON.

During the month of January, we held revival meetings with Fred Canaday as the leader of God's people. Brother Canaday arrived on the 16th, and began at once to dig the people out. For a week, with no altar calls, he kept "crying aloud" and "sparing not" till every one knew well where he stood, whether church member or not. During the second week God blessed the truth so that every service gave its fruit unto salvation. The young people, especially, answered God's call, about 45 giving clear testimony to saving grace. And they got it good, too. Some burned their magazines, others quit tobacco, one boy confessed to being a real "boozehound," while dancing, swearing and theater going suffered because of the incoming of the Savior of mankind. Our town constable was converted, also the foreman in one of the logging camps. Nearly one whole family was converted, through the eldest son first coming and then bringing the others. Two men who were in the toils of the demon rum found deliverance, one woman was sanctified, and others saw the light on the second work of grace and are still inquiring the way. In all we took into the church about 20 probationers and there are still others who want to come in. We thank God for the young people in a church where there were practically none before. Two days after the meeting closed a man was killed in the woods who had been to the meeting and been asked and plead with twice to give his heart to God. He was taken instantly. We feel glad for the ministry of Brother Canaday in this needy place of Darrington. Thank God, he is able to save to the uttermost, even yet.

CAMPAIGNING IN FLORIDA.

A lot of evangelists strike for Florida when the snow flies. I'm guilty. Have done the thing for several winters, and have been here this time since November. Am now at Lake Stearns. Began yesterday with three services; have a fine start. Have three other engagements in the state, then move up the coast into the New England States.

More than usual, I believe that we that believe in the old-time revival should contend for it. I sincerely believe it is the only remedy for the ailments that we have. There is no substitute for the revival. We have, in some spots, worked over time trying to find a substitute for the Holy Ghost revival, but all in vain. It's God's method to save the world. The age is too excited to be stopped by the grind of mere machinery. Our clanging machinery will be a "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal" without Holy Ghost power. The world is now asking, "where is the God of the church?" May God fill and fire us, that we "carry on."

Will Hill.

CANON CITY, OHIO.

We have not taken time to report in the columns of your good paper for some time, but it has not been that we have been idle for we have been in meetings continually since we left home last May, except two weeks over the holidays.

We have labored during the fall and winter in Oregon, Idaho, Washington and California. We have held meetings with some of the finest and best pastors who are in the work to see souls saved and the cause of Holiness promoted and established. They are all doing heroic service for the Lord and sacrificing much for the privilege of preaching the Gospel of full salvation. In all these meetings God was with us and gave blessed victory and we saw many souls bow at the altar of prayer for pardon, reclamation and sanctification. There were some glorious scenes around the altar of prayer and many prayed through in the old-fashioned way until they heard from heaven and came forth with shouts of victory. At present we are here at Canon City, Colo., with the fine pastor, L. E. Gossett and his good people of the Church of the Nazarene. Many souls are seeking and finding God and we look for a great closing week. From here we go to Colorado Springs, Colo., where the Lord gave us a fine meeting and time of real salvation over a year ago, and we look for and expect another good meeting there, if God comes on the scene. Our slate is full for the summer and into fall, and we are encouraged to push on for greater victories. To God be all the glory. We covet the prayers of all God's true children.

Yours for souls, in perfect love,
Theodore and Minnie E. Ludwig, Evangelists.

CONSERVATISM AND PROGRESSION.

By The Editor.

WE are hearing much today of conservatism and progress in the political and religious world. There is no doubt a happy medium between the ultra-conservative and the rabid progressive;—a middle-of-the-road position, which is safe and sane. It is entirely possible that the ultra-conservatist become a sort of idoler, a worshipper of the past, holding on to things simply because they are old; on the other hand, the progressive may move with unwarranted rapidity, discarding things, however good and useful they may be, simply because they are old and seizing upon untried things with enthusiasm simply because they are supposed to be new.

There is a very large class of people in the world whose false views of life, idleness, wastefulness and utter lack of stability of character or the development of any inward conditions that bring peace and satisfaction, are very eager for change. They are enthusiastic for something new. They have an idea that a change of the administration at Washington can bring about economic conditions so that they may continue to be idle spend-thrifts and live in luxury. They have the false notion that Congress can pass laws that will make them thrifty, secure good incomes, give them rapid transit in fine automobiles, and make life a delight. Such people are mistaken. Many of this class become socialists. From this they go to communism. In Russia, they got the notion that Bolshevism would inaugurate a sort of millennium. They concluded if they could kill the educated, slaughter the wealthy and turn Russia upside down, they would be a happy and prosperous people. They were progressives with a vengeance; but peace and happiness failed to come. You must make the tree good if you expect to gather good fruit from its branches.

We have people all about us making a great noise about the new age and the importance of adjustment to the new conditions with which we are surrounded. They go so far as to want a new Bible. It will not be too much to say that many of them have manufactured for themselves a new god. It is not an accident, but intentional, that I spell this new deity with a small "g." This god of modern creation does not deserve a capital letter. He has no more power than the ancient Baal who could send no fire from heaven. These progressives, eager for change, would give up everything that is old and has been loved and sought after in the past. With them, it is an easy matter to set aside the marriage vows, to even discard modesty and treat lightly all former views of the sacredness of virtue itself. These enthusiastic "modernists" boast much of their new knowledge, of the discoveries of modern science, of progressive ideals. First of all, they would tear down the existing standards, abolish law, and re-create social conditions. They have not been able to bring in the new idealism exactly. They will admit that they are sailing on a troubled and stormy sea. They are quite sure there is an island on which they can land the race where all their idealism will be realized. We have come into a sort of French Revolution where everything that is old must be brought to the guillotine and after that we have had a general slaughter and enriched the soil with the blood of old things, they will be able to sprout and bring up out of it a brand new Utopian age. This sort of progression is not constructive, but destructive. It has the mob spirit in it, it wants to destroy; everything that is old must first be put out of the way in order that the new may be ushered in.

We are in danger that conservatism go to sleep upon the bed of satisfaction and ease and let opportunities pass by unimproved. There are some conservatives who will patiently plow and cultivate last year's cornstalks with a sort of hope that they will be able to gather from them another harvest of roasting ears, but they comfort themselves with the feeling that if they should not be able to put life into these old cornstalks and get the roasting ears, nevertheless their time is well spent and they are quite likely to become very angry if some one suggests that the old stalks should be turned under to fertilize the soil in order to the production of a new crop. The progressive is just as unwise and more dangerous who will lay off his coat, seize an axe with enthusiasm and chop down a good apple tree that has borne fruit for many years and is full of promise for the future simply because it is old. The matter of great importance is that we shall learn to distinguish between last year's cornstalks and old orchards in good bearing.

It will be well to remember that there are some things, however old they may be, can never go out of date. They are eternal things. They do not grow old. They continue to exist with the life and power of eternal truth in them. The conditions in nature that make possible the transmission of the wireless message have existed from the days of Job and even back of this ancient poet. We have been slow in discovering and taking advantage of these conditions.

The great truths contained in the Ten Commandments are not true because they are written in the Bible; they are eternal truth. They never would have been written in the Bible if they had not been essential truth. They underlie the very foundation of things. Disregard of the truths contained in these Commandments would bring disorder, unhappiness and destruction if the Commandments had not been written. Obedience to these Commandments would have proven stepladders on which to climb and pluck the rich fruits of happiness if they had not been put down in black and white on the sacred page. There are no whims of an overbearing, or tyrannies of an unjust God in the Ten Commandments. The entire nature of them is to save us on the one hand from going over into the abyss and, on the other hand, to climb the mountain of blessedness far above the fogs and mists and clouds and dwell in the eternal sunshine of God's mercy and love.

The fundamental truths of the Bible, the great principles of right and wrong, the sacredness of family relations, regard for the welfare of our fellowbeings and all of those old things that come to us out of the Pentateuch, the prophets, the Gospel and the Epistles are as new and powerful today as they ever were, and any departure from these things brings destruction of peace, disruption of the family and, in the end, the eternal loss of the soul. It will be wise for us, in this reckless age of rapid movement, to heed the injunction of the inspired writer, "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."

A Chapter from My Autobiography

CHAPTER XIX.

CHANGES IN NASHVILLE.

WHEN I was at Vanderbilt, these forty-odd years ago, old McKendree Church was the center of the Methodist Church life of the city. It was a plain, old-time brick building, with large auditorium, and one of the tallest, most beautiful spires I ever saw. It was the great church of Nashville, Dr. Barbee being the pastor. He was not regarded as a profound scholar, nor a great orator; he was a strong, powerful preacher, holding the attention of his congregation, made his points very clear, and drove them home with energy and force.

Tulip Street church, across the river, was a small, old brick church; four or five hundred people would have filled it to its utmost capacity. Dr. Leftwick was pastor. West End was then a small frame building; there were a number of other Methodist churches, but these were the principal places of worship among the Methodists. Tulip Street now has a fine, modern church, West End has a beautiful up-to-date building, old McKendree has burned down and a fine new church with modern conveniences has been erected in its place. Many other new congregations have been organized, and churches built in this, almost half a century since I was a student at Vanderbilt. A new Publishing House has been erected, and the plant has been greatly enlarged.

Dr. Fitzgerald was then editor of The Nashville Christian Advocate, one of the most genial and saintly souls in all Methodism. His wife was a woman of beautiful Christian character. They were of the old-time Methodist type. Dr. Fitzgerald con-

MY BIBLE AND MY SOUL.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

We esteem the Bible as the most precious of all books because it is the Book of God Divinely inspired, providentially handed down to us through the ages, and miraculously efficacious in instructing, convicting, awakening, saving and sanctifying the soul. Some one has written of the Bible thus:

"There is a book of grace divine,
With God's great gift enpearled;
There carved in every golden line
Is God's love for the world:
The Wonder Book—the Golden Book,
With grace and mercy filled;
It lights the saints' last dying look
When other joys are stilled.

"It brings the peace of God so deep Within the sinner's breast;
And on the road of life so steep
It brings the balm of rest.
O Precious Book,—The Saviour's Book,—
In thee the Christ I see;
The wonder of the path he took Brings glory close to me.

"I walk the paths of Galilee,
Through Salem's streets I tread;
Where shines the cross of Calvary
His precious blood was shed.
Redemption Book,—or Judgment Book,—
When thou must meet Truth's searching look
In white eternity?"

1. The Bible is a book which reveals to us not only the needs of the soul, but God as the Mighty Father, Christ as the Saviour who saves to the uttermost and the Holy Ghost as the Sanctifier, and it shows that in all manner of trouble and difficulty and crisis we have a wonderful Deliverer. The Bible publishes the gospel of Deliverance. This has been put in the following manner:

Deliverance in troubles: Psa. xl. 1, and Job v. 19.

Deliverance from snares and pestilence: Psalm xci. 3.

Deliverance from temptations and trials: 2 Peter ii. 9.

Deliverance from fearing the face of man: Jeremiah i. 8.

Deliverance from the sword: Ex. xviii. 4.

Deliverance from the hatred of foes and enemies: 2 Sam. xxii. 18.

Deliverance from those who rise up against us: Psalm xvii. 9.

Deliverance from strife: Psalm xviii. 43.

Deliverance out of the mouth of the lion: 2 Tim. iv. 17.

Deliverance out of persecutions and afflictions: 2 Tim. iii. 11.

Delivered from all fear: Psalm xxxiv. 4.

Delivered from all trouble: Psalm liv. 7.

Delivered out of distress: Psalm cvii. 6.

Delivered from destructions: Psa. cvii. 20.

Delivered from the power of darkness: Col. i. 13.

Delivered from the wrath to come: 1 Thess. i. 10.

Deliverance from all worry about the present or future: Matthew vi. 34.

Deliverance from the fear of death, and victory over all the power of the enemy through our Lord Jesus Christ: 1 Cor. xv. 57.

2. The Bible is a book setting forth the gospel of God's Providence. This subject has been well set forth very beautifully as follows:

"The definition given of Divine Providence by Hegel is 'Divine Providence is wisdom endowed with an infinite power which realizes its aim, namely, the absolute rational design of the world.'" Pope says, 'Divine Providence signifies the divine presence in the world as sustaining, controlling and guiding to their destination all things that

"THE GLORY OF THE LORD HAD FILLED THE LORD'S HOUSE."—II Chron. 7:2.

Not the glory of learning. Too often learning is not associated with piety. Unsanctified learning leads to rationalism, and we have too many in pulpit and pew whose learning has led them off. "Beware," said Paul to the Colossians, "that no man spoil you through philosophy."

Not the glory of music. Music hath charms. Religion and music go together, but much of the music heard nowadays in the churches does not make for piety or devotion or worship. Too much jazz; songs are sung destitute of poetry or music; many church singers live worldly lives and sing not to the glory of God.

Not the glory of eloquence. The Cross should not be turned into a clothes-hanger upon which to display the gaudy display of words and worldly eloquence. Not by wisdom of words may the great Redemption be preached, but in tears and with a burning heart and in the Holy Ghost.

Not the glory of numbers. We are constantly burning incense to statistics. Numbering Israel does not bring favor with God. "Not by might (great crowds), nor by power (numerical power), but by My Spirit, saith the Lord."

The glory of the Lord is that peculiar something which comes from His presence. It comes by prayer. It comes by preaching. It comes through worship, adoration, consecration and the peculiar movement of the Holy Ghost. It cometh not by any human contrivance, nor does it come to suit our convenience. It came at Pentecost and filled the house and "they were all filled with the Holy Ghost." It came in the days of early Methodism, when floods of divine glory swept over the assemblies. It came in the early holiness camp meetings, for instance, at Manheim, Pa., on that memorable Monday night after the great Sunday when Bishop Simpson preached. The scene, they say was indescribable as a cloud of glory settled upon the tabernacle and hundreds were prostrated under the mighty power of God.

Why not have repetitions of these glorious manifestations?

Let us pray that again and again the glory of the Lord shall fill the Lord's house.

G. W. R.

are made.' Again, Dr. Cummings says, 'Where we speak of the providence of God we mean that in all the events of life, individual and national, God has a part and a share. He is not absent, he does not look down upon the world from the distance, never approaching and holding second causes in his hands. He works with them and through them in such a way which leads us to say God is here and he is working, God is here and that is providence.'

"There is a three-fold circle of Divine Providence. First, the outermost circle, including the whole race of mankind. Second, the smaller circle includes all who are called Christians. Third, the innermost, including the real Christians.

"The book of Divine Providence is bigger than the Bible. It covers the course of universal history and belief in Divine Providence, lies at the root of all religion. Providence not only seeks the physical well being of the world, but has its great moral and spiritual ends which are never out of sight. Some propositions, as to the form of the doctrine, God has a peculiar right to the government of the world and a peculiar fitness for the same—

"First, because of his power.

"Second, because of his holiness and righteousness.

"Third, because of knowledge.

"Fourth, because of his patience.

"God's government of the world is such that nothing is done without the will of God. Nothing yet subsists without God's care and power.

"The moral government of God is a scheme imperfectly comprehended. Our very ignorance may be an answer to the objections to the mercy and kindness of God.

"There is a moral discipline in God's concealing some things from us. Patience has its perfect work. Loss and suffering has a power which happiness and success has not the power to refine.

"Pain enriches character, opens springs of tenderness in rocky natures and reveals heavenly things to a mind dazzled with the vain things of the world."

3. The Bible is the text book of the Prayer Life.

The soul prospers on its knees and no book drives people to their knees like the Bible. In this book we read the promises and possibilities of prayer. Right here let me place Prayers Five Reasons, by George Muller that wonderful man of prayer. He is talking about prayer for souls.

"First, I have had no shadow of doubt in praying for their salvation, knowing as I do that it is the Lord's will they should be saved, for he would 'have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth' (1 Tim. 2:4), 'And this is the confidence that we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us' (1 John 5:14).

"The second reason is, I have never pleaded for their salvation in my own name, but in the all-worthy name of my precious Lord Jesus (John 14:14), that is, on the ground of his merit and worthiness, and on that alone.

"The third reason is, I have always believed in the ability and willingness of God to answer my prayers. (Mark 11:24).

"The fourth reason is, that I have not allowed myself in known sin, for 'if I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me.' (Psalm 66:18).

"The fifth reason is, that I have continued in believing prayer for over fifty-two years, and shall so continue until the answer is given. Luke 18:7: 'Shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him?'"

Whenever the Lord showed George Muller that it was his will he should pray, he continued in prayer until the answer came.

Let me add to this: Prayer's Prevailing Conditions.

"Nothing lies beyond the reach of prayer except that which lies outside the will of God." But even within the limits of God's will there are certain "conditions" which must be met if our prayers are to be answered. Seven of the principal of these are the following: A right heart and motive (Psa. 66:18; Mark 11:25; James 4:3, 8; 1 John 3:21, 22); According to God's will (1 John 5:14, 15); In the name of Christ (John 14:13, 14; 16:23, 24); In faith (Mark 11:22-24; Heb. 11:6); Without anxiety, but rather with thanksgiving (Phil. 1:6); With perseverance (Luke 18:1-7); In the Holy Ghost (Eph. 6:18; Jude 20). With these conditions met, God must answer. He cannot deny himself. (See 2 Cor. 1:20; 2 Tim. 2:13, 19; Heb. 6:17-19; 10:23, 35, 36).

4. The Bible is the book that teaches the simplicity of Faith and Trust.

Dr. Sheridan Baker writing on this in Hidden Manna, says:

"Trust in God is essential to any degree of religious life, but in the lower degrees it is mixed with trust in self and more or less distrust in God. But whoever has reached the experience of holiness has had such a trial of himself and such an insight into his own feebleness that he has lost all confidence in his own resolutions, judgments and helps. He has learned so much of the strength of the carnal nature and so much of the fierceness and subtlety of Satan, that he sees no chance for deliverance except in the mighty power of God, and hence trusts him alone. He has also learned so much of the willingness and ability of God to save that he can easily trust him without any admixture of doubt. He trusts God to lead him in business, to preserve his equanimity, to keep him in a proper spirit, and to deliver him from the temptations of the devil. He does not so much resolve to live holy through the day, and withstand all the various assaults of sin, though such a resolution underlies the whole of his life, as he commences the day, and continues it, by trusting God for present and momentary keeping and deliverance. His is a momentary and continuous trust; it has become the habit of the soul, and is done without effort."

5. The Bible is the Soul's Medicine Book in which we learn about many sure medicines and cures for the soul. In Jeremiah 8:22 we read about the Balm of Gilead.

One has said, "The beauty of God's salvation is that we have the living Physician to administer the medicine that was made on Calvary."

Some years ago I read the following story which I pass on to our readers:

Some years ago a lady, who tells the story herself, went to consult a famous New York physician about her health. She was a woman of nervous temperament, whose troubles—and she had had many—had worried and excited her to such a pitch that the strain threatened her physical strength, and even her reason. She gave the doctor a list of her symptoms, and answered his questions, only to be astonished at his brief prescription at the end: "Madam what you need is to read your Bible more!"

"But, doctor," began the bewildered patient.

"Go home and read your Bible an hour a day," the great man reiterated, with kindly authority, "then come back to me a month from today." And he bowed her out without a possibility of further protest.

At first his patient was inclined to be angry. Then she reflected that at least the prescription was not an expensive one. Besides, it certainly had been a long time since she had read the Bible regularly, she reflected, with a pang of conscience. Worldly cares had crowded out prayer and Bible study for years, and, though she would have resented being called an irreligious woman, she had undoubtedly become a most careless Christian. She went home and set herself conscientiously to try the physician's remedy.

In one month she went back to his office. "Well," he said—smiling, as he looked at her face, "I see you are an obedient patient, and have taken my prescription faithfully. Do you feel as if you needed any other medicine now?"

"No, doctor, I don't," she said, honestly. "I feel like a different person—I hope I am a different person! But how did you know that that was just what I needed?"

For answer the famous physician turned to his desk. There, worn and marked, lay an open Bible. "Madam," he said, with deep earnestness, "if I were to omit my daily reading of this Book I should lose my greatest source of strength and skill. I never go to an operation without reading my Bible. I never attend a distressing case without finding help in its pages. Your case called not for medicine, but for sources of peace and strength outside your own mind, and I showed you my own prescription, and I knew it would cure."

"Yet, I confess, doctor," said his patient, "that I came very near not taking it."

"Very few are willing to try it, I find," said the physician, smiling again. "But there are many, many cases in my practice where it would work wonders if they only would take it."

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

CHAPTER XI.

BISHOP WILLIAM TAYLOR.

IN giving these brief studies, or resume of characters who have wrought so mightily in the kingdom of God, and who did not happen to belong to the church that canonizes her saints, we wish to devote this chapter to one who was in some way overlooked in the great onward marches of the church, and thereby did not receive the applause as did others, perhaps not as deserving. Some men like Livingstone, Hudson Taylor, Paton, or Spurgeon were given full honors in their day and generation; but Bishop William Taylor had less of the limelight honors than perhaps any other great Christian hero of the Nineteenth Century. There was a quietness and an obscurity about his career which failed to bring his great service to the attention of Christendom in general, and Methodism in particular. Oh, to be sure, before he died, his own church tried to make some amends, and placed upon him the honors of the episcopacy, but not until he was "in age and feebleness extreme." The fact that he did not come into his own, has been acknowledged by an eminent biographer of his own church.

Let us examine for a moment, the background, or the state setting of this life. He was born in Rockbridge County, Va., May 2, 1821. Even at this date, the Old Dominion state was barren of educational advantages, especially in the rural sections. William Taylor's father was a farmer in a very modest way; but not a plantation owner. We know this to be true, as the father was a tanner in connection with his farming, and his son William learned the trade, and followed it along with his father. Instead of getting an education in his teens, he was tanning leather.

At the age of twenty-two, without educational equipment whatever—another proof of his obscure home life—he was received into the itinerancy of the Methodist Church, after having served as a local preacher for some time. He went at once to California, seven years before the gold rush; about all the civilization on the Pacific Coast at that early date was Spanish and Indians, with very few of his own people. In such an environment he served seven years as a "street preacher" in the little coast town of San Francisco. While in this work, mostly among savages and Romanists, he acquired a good workable knowledge of Spanish.

He did not remain in California after the "year 49," but seemed to have the wanderlust, and for another seven years, until 1856, he spent in Canada, as missionary to the lumber camps and other little out-post villages of civilization. The travel spirit again took possession of him, and during the next five years he served as Methodist circuit rider within the bounds of New England.

When the war spirit was at the highest pitch in 1862, William Taylor left America and went to England, spent some years as an evangelist preaching old-time salvation to the conservative Englishmen. Just how he retained his ecclesiastical status during all those years of wandering, there seems to be no available record. However, those years of itinerant evangelism, with close application for self-education, ripened into character, seasoned and unusual.

He returned to New York and enlisted himself as a missionary, and having had a wide experience, and by that time, a cultured mind, he was equipt for any service. The church was hearing with new emphasis, the "Macedonian Cry" from the wide, wide world, and William Taylor was among them that heard it. His first extensive tour was visiting Egypt and Palestine; this work was done under the direction of the Board of Missions of his church.

The first mission field to which he was assigned for permanent service, was Australia, and his duties were those of an evangelist. He went throughout this great country as a veritable blaze of fire. But his labors were not that of the passing evangelist; but everywhere he went—like the Apostle Paul—he founded churches and occasionally a school. We doubt if in all Methodism there has been one whose labors were so signally blest in laying permanent foundations upon which others builded. Still another unusual result obtained under his ministry: the churches and schools he founded in that country were almost entirely self-supporting. They were not the wards of the Mission Board.

In 1866, he again toured England as an evangelist, and after some months returned to Australia, revisiting the scenes of his former labors. Then he went as an evangelistic missionary to Tasmania, New Zealand, and Ceylon, and finally in South Africa. Strange as it may seem, in all these fields, wherever he went, there were soon founded self-supporting churches. The last of his Oriental labors were spent in India, from 1872 to 1876. After this, he spent some time in the West Indies doing the work of an evangelist.

At this juncture of his remarkable career, he heard another Macedonian call; it came from South America. Here was a country, that for over three hundred years had a form of religion, and missionaries; but in truth it was more degraded, as he said, speaking from first hand information: "More degraded than the so-called heathen lands." It was worse than when Columbus first discovered the New World. He had almost forgotten his Spanish; but he crossed the Isthmus of Panama and entered the country burdened to exhaustion with priests, monks, and nuns, swarming by hundreds about their monasteries, convents, and churches. With all their show of religious organization, the people had no Bible; it was a sealed Book to South America.

He first made an extensive tour, visiting the most strategic points, and was amazed to find our neighboring continent about as needy as the mission fields he had served. The people of South America were twenty-one percent pure Indian; seven percent Indians Bravos—savages; and the rest were Spanish and Portuguese. Twelve millions—with no religion but Romanism. In this needy country William Taylor thought to spend the rest of his days. He entered this mission field in 1876, and remained there until 1884.

No doubt the greatest service of his life was in South America, as he planted a chain of churches and schools which were soon self-supporting. Some way in this regard, William Taylor had no superior, and had he gone out under different auspices, and confined himself to one field, he might have left behind him a legacy equal to that of J. Hudson Taylor of the China Inland Mission.

But his church thought that he was needed in still another field; so the General Conference of the M. E. Church, in May, 1884, elected William Taylor Bishop of Africa, and sent him away to that country, where he finished his active ministry. In that dark land, his labors were abundantly blest, as he likewise established a chain of self-supporting churches along the Congo and West Coast. In 1896, he came back to America, to attend the General Conference, and owing to his

THE SIN OF MEDDLING.

Rev. E. E. Shelhamer.

Text: "Forbear thee from meddling with God who is with me that he destroy thee not." 2 Chron. 35:21.

THESE were the words of a heathen king, Necho of Egypt, to Josiah king of Judah. It seems that Necho was about to continue the Egyptian conquests in Asia, especially along the river Euphrates. In so doing his nearest route was along the seacoast of Palestine to a point about fifty miles north of Jerusalem where his army disembarked and started to march across the country via the plain of Esdraelon. King Josiah objected to this, though Necho was ready to pay for the privilege of taking the land route, which was nearer. But Josiah stoutly refused and went out to intercept him and there lost his life. Yes; "He that passeth by and meddleth with strife belongeth not to him, is like one that taketh a dog by the ears."—He is likely to be bitten.

Now, Josiah was a remarkable youth—few like him today. At the age of eight he began to reign and at sixteen made a covenant, put down all idolatry, and revived the true worship of Jehovah. At the age of eighteen he kept the passover of which it is said, "There was no passover like to that kept in Israel from the days of Samuel the prophet." Josiah, himself gave "thirty thousand lambs and kids, and three thousand bullocks." In this he surpassed all other kings.

But was it not sad that after all the good he did he should suddenly come to an untimely end, while in the prime of life, simply because he stepped aside and "meddled"? Let us notice then the cause and cure of this baneful habit, meddling.

1. Idleness. This is a curse to any people. It has caused the downfall of kings and the overthrow of empires. David was invincible until he "tarried still at Jerusalem," and ceased to fight the battles of the Lord. Then when ease, luxury and popularity came, he went down with a crash.

We are told that, "This was the iniquity of Sodom—Pride, Fullness of Bread, and Abundance of Idleness was in her and in her daughters." These three things will ruin any family, city, or nation. It would put an end to a lot of divorce scandals if a host of idle men and women could be kept busy caring for a home with several children. They have too much time to gad about and meddle with the affairs and affections of others. As long as Josiah was kept busy cleaning up around home he had no time to meddle with the quarrels of other kings.

2. Curiosity. One old writer said, "Idleness and curiosity married together beget envy." This is certainly true! Let any one be idle and curious and he will be likely to pry into the affairs of others where he has no business. The result will be, he will stir up a lot of trouble between close friends. "It is an honor for a man to cease from strife; but every fool will be meddling."

Had Josiah remained at home and been content to enjoy the smile of his own God and his own people, he would have lived to a good old age, and died in peace. But his curiosity was aroused when he found that Necho was making haste to forestall his Babylonish rival. This curiosity drew Josiah away from his place of security and he was slain. Some one may be reading this who, back yonder brought upon yourself suffering and sorrow because you were curious and did not remain at home. Jacob and his household were disgraced and an awful slaughter followed because his daughter Dinah, "went out to see the daughters of the land." She was not the only child to bring upon herself and her people ignominy as a result of going to parties and pleasure resorts.

I have made it a rule to stay away from auction sales and similar places where there were "special bargains," unless I knew beforehand what I positively needed. Several times have I disregarded this rule to my sorrow and have gone just to see the sale or the crowd. I either bought something I did not need because it was cheap, or was asked by a "special friend" to go on his note. I need not tell the rest. Nehemiah was invited to attend a great gathering of nobles, but replied, "I am doing a great work so that I cannot come down; why should the work cease whilst I leave it?" Of course, this caused offence, but he pleased his God and saved his head. Good Lord keep us from allowing curiosity and sociability to turn us aside from the chief course of our lives.

3. Self-sufficiency. No one has time nor disposition to meddle with others until he first becomes unduly elated over his own real, or fancied success. Amaziah, King of Judah, sent a challenge to Jehoash, King of Israel, saying, "Come, let us look one another in the face." But Jehoash replied, "Thou hast indeed smitten Edom and thine heart hath lifted thee up; glory of this and tarry at home; for why shouldst thou meddle to thy hurt. But Amaziah would not hear. Therefore Jehoash went up. And Judah was put to the worse and fled every man to their tents."

It was after Josiah had put down all idolatry in his kingdom, re-captured and rebuilt the waste cities and had rest on every side, that he vainly over-estimated his ability to go against, perhaps the most powerful kingdom in the world. The heathen king tried to dissuade him saying, "What have I to do with thee, thou king of Judah. I come not against thee this day, but against the house wherewith I have war. For God commanded me to make haste; forbear thee from meddling with God who is with me, that he destroy thee not." I gather from this incident that the sin of meddling is so great, so inexcusable in the sight of God that he will permit, yea assist a wicked nation in punishing and afflicting a more righteous one. How terrible then, yea how unpardonable must be a spirit of self-sufficiency. No marvel that we read, "Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall."

Many a man started out poor and unnoticed. But by diligence and frugality became influential. How sad then to see him become overbearing and fling to the winds those qualities which built him up. Many an illiterate, but natural born preacher or leader began his career in a very humble way. But through much prayer and fasting, coupled with hard study he came to the front and was accorded a place with the mighty ones. How sad then, if he becomes independent and self-important. Josiah's sad and beclouded end should teach all of us the danger of disregarding reproof, though it come from a heathen. And what is a sure preventive for meddling?

1. Mind your own business.
2. Listen to others, even sinners.
3. Seek and obtain the fiery Baptism with the Holy Spirit.

Playing in Twelve Games—You and I.

If I were small and you were tall,
Between us there should be no wall.

If you were rich and I were poor,
Your wealth should "keep wolf from my door."

If I were dull and you were wise,
My weakness you should not despise.

If you were up and I were down,
I'd need your smile more than you frown.

If I were hungry, you well fed,
You should divide with me your bread.

If you were happy and I "blue,"
Your happiness should cheer me too.

If I were black and you were white,
Your whiteness then should treat me right.

If you could see and I were blind,
Your eyes should help my way to find.

If I were old and you were young,
Your youth should help to keep me strong.

If you were whole, and crippled, I,
Then you should never pass me by.

If I were weak and you were strong,
Your strength should help me get along.

If you were saved and I were lost,
You should save me at any cost.

The Inspiration of The Bible.

Rev. O. G. Mingledorff, D.D.

MEN are able to so settle some matters that they remain settled: for instance, there is little tendency to dispute the fact that twice two are four! although a certain university professor is said to have remarked that he could conceive of a world in which it would be otherwise—either more or less than four; but such imaginings are far beyond the ken of most of us limited mortals. On the contrary, there are some very important matters that certain men will not leave alone, even though they have been well established for ages, the Inspiration of the Bible being one of them. Both scholars and ignoramuses have advanced hypothesis after hypothesis, question after question, doubt after doubt concerning the God-breathed nature of the Book of books, till possibly ninety percent of our people are confused as to the meaning of Inspiration, most of them having no settled conviction whatever as to its import. All the arguments of the objectors have been overthrown long ago; but that does not stop them; for they go on trying to sustain the same hypotheses with the same arguments that were answered, many of them, long before the objectors were born. But, after all, maybe it is best that such questions should be kept to the front, just as certain enemies were left in Canaan so that the Israelites might not forget how to fight.

Some of us are too easily frightened. The Inspiration of the Bible is in no danger; its foundation is sure; but some of our theories of Inspiration may be a bit insecure. This writer has not the least bit of uneasiness about the Book. He is perfectly willing for the critics to do their worst, feeling confident that Christian scholarship is able to answer all the so-called arguments of the critics, as they have been able to do for nearly two thousand years. But while the writer has no fears for the Book, he is uneasy for our young people and for those brethren who are so badly frightened. Keep cool, brethren, and settle your faith in God. This is an old battle; and the devil never says that he is whipped.

The ultra-Modernists have a very strange notion concerning the Inspiration of the Scriptures. If asked if they believe in Inspiration, they answer: "Why, certainly we do." But it will pay to put a few questions to them concerning the meaning which they attach to the word Inspiration. When closely pressed, they tell us that the Book itself is not inspired—that no book can be inspired; but that the men who wrote it were inspired after the same fashion that John Milton was inspired when he wrote Paradise Lost and other poems—just as Shakespeare was inspired—or maybe just as Webster was inspired when delivering his great speeches in the Congress of our country. In other words, the Holy Ghost had nothing whatever to do with the matter. These men do not believe in Inspiration; but for some unexplained reason they use our word with a different meaning attached to it, a meaning utterly contrary to the one given it in common usage among Christian people. We could understand them better if they employed a different word, one that would tell us what they mean.

Some of the "scholarly" gentlemen have frightened a few of our weaker brethren almost to death by declaring that Moses certainly did not write all of the Pentateuch, but that he copied from old manuscripts left by the Patriarchs who preceded him, as if that were something to shy at. Suppose he did, who cares? If God inspired the writing of those old documents, and then told Moses how to use them, they are nonetheless trustworthy for that. This writer sees nothing in such a charge that should frighten the veriest tyro in biblical research.

What is Inspiration? We must find a tenable ground upon which to stand, or we shall always be shifting hither and thither. There are Fundamentalists and ultra-Fundamentalists. The writer claims to belong to the former class; the latter, in his judgment, claiming more than they can maintain. Their claim is, that the Divine Spirit inspired every word, every letter and every thought of the Bible; and in this view they claim that the Book is the very word of God, in contradistinction to certain moderate Modernists who claim that it is not the word of God, but that it contains the word of God. This writer sees no way for those called ultra-fundamentalists to sustain their position, and for several reasons. What will they do with the fact that among the hundreds of ancient copies of the Bible there are many differences in words, on spelling, and even in meaning? Who is so wise as to say which copy is the correct one? There were no printing presses; so good men did the best they could with ink and pen on parchments. The wonder is that they did as well as they did. Those who copied literary books did not do nearly so well as those Bible copyists did.

Suppose we look at a few of these differences; and a few will do as well as many. Take the Lord's Prayer as recorded by Matthew (6:9-13), and by Luke (11:2-4). Compare the two writings, and see for yourself what a big difference there is between them. Now compare the Authorized Version with the Revised Version at the same places. You will find little change in Luke's statement; but in Matthew's gospel the beautiful doxology at the end of the prayer is not given in the Revised Version. But why not? Because when King James' Version was made (1611) the oldest Greek manuscript of the New Testament known to men was made from eight hundred to a thousand years after Christ was born; but when the Revised Version was made (1881), older Greek manuscripts of the New Testament, running back within 250 to 300 years of his birth had been found. King James' translators followed the latter manuscripts (all they had); while the translators of the Revised Version followed the Greek of the older manuscripts, as being, in their judgment more trustworthy. Again, take Mark's Gospel (16:9-20). King James' Version puts it down as good Scripture; but the Revised Version condemns it as an interpolation; that is, put in by some copyist sometime after Mark finished writing his book. Compare the wording of the superscription put by Pilate on the cross, as it is given by the different writers of the four Gospels, and inform us which one is correct. They all give the same import; but there certainly were not four superscriptions. It might open one's eyes a bit, if he would compare carefully the four accounts given concerning the resurrection of our Lord, and of his appearance to his disciples after his resurrection. No two of the writers tell the story in the same words; but they are all as clear as can be concerning the fact of the Resurrection; and that is the main issue.

Suppose we concede that the ultra-Fundamentalists are correct in their teaching, that the Spirit did inspire the very words of the Book, what shall we do about the hundreds of translations that missionaries have made into the languages and dialects of the world? The writer was at one time a missionary in China, where he found several different translations of the Bible, made by different individuals and groups of individuals. As far as he was able to learn, they all gave the sense of the Book quite clearly; but there was a marked difference in language. Shall we throw all of these into the scrapheap as worthless? I think not; for God was blessing all of them to the salvation of the people; and if he blesses, we cannot curse. The writer has several English translations from the Greek in which the New Testament was written; but they are not alike; and if translations are not good, then all of these translations into English are worthless. There is large difference in the wording of King James' Version and the English Revised Version; while the American Revised Version (re-revised in 1901) differs still more largely from King James' Version. Shall we discard them all because of a discrepancy in words, and occasionally in meaning? Never. Let us take up the study anew, and find out, as nearly as possible what is the real truth; for we cannot puff them off the stage with the breath of our lungs. Whether we like it or not, they are here to stay; and we must meet them with reason and sound sense.

Can we find a tenable ground for the Inspiration of the Bible? We are not even hoping to discover a position that will be acceptable to Modernists; for they would not believe, "though one rose from he dead." But maybe there is a common ground on which we who believe in the Bible may meet in harmony. The writer takes the position that the Book is the Word of God to men, and that it does not simply contain that Word; but he prefers that our English term word shall mean a great deal more than we mean when we spell w-o-r-d. He prefers that it shall mean what we put into it when we make it mean message; for example, one pastor sends word to another pastor that he is having a great revival in his community. A book is something more than the mere words that compose its printing; and the Bible is a million times bigger than all the words of which it is composed, no matter to what language they may belong. It is Jehovah's message, his logos to the souls of men. A costly diamond may be set in any one of a dozen sorts of metal; but it is the same diamond, worth just as much in brass as it is in gold or in platinum. God's eternal truth may be expressed in all the tongues of men, and in a thousand different forms; but it is the same soul-saving truth in all of them. The words are men's words, but the truth belongs to God. Translators tell us that nothing is so easily put into the languages of earth as the Bible. Thank God, that any poor heathen can bring his little, broken language, and carry away the truth of God to the salvation of his own soul and those of his native people.

The writer has been told that Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson used to say that the Spirit of God saturated the writers of the Scriptures with truth, and then left them free to do their own writing. He is not sure that this is the exact statement of the learned Bishop, but if it is, it lacks one element of truth: The Spirit did not "leave them free to do their own writing," but so superintended the writing as to prevent the writers from making mistakes. There can be no question that in many parts of the Bible we have the exact words of the Divine Spirit, the very wording of the message being beyond mere human ability. No common man could ever have said: "Let there be light." Had he realized his power to create light, it would have taken considerable space to have written down his call for it. The prophets, no doubt, spoke and wrote the exact words delivered to them. They tell us: "The word of the Lord came unto me," etc., and they go on to tell what that word was. In most of such cases the writer prefers to believe that the prophets gave the exact words of inspiration.

Now we come to a different matter: Whatever form of Inspiration we may elect to great age, was granted a superannuated relation, and did not return to Africa.

If ever there was a Modern Apostle, like unto that of St. Paul, it was Bishop William Taylor. We doubt if ever there was another individual who covered so much territory in a continuous evangelistic activity. Let us now notice a resume of the man's career as a missionary. He began as an uneducated itinerant in his Old Virginia home; then seven years a street preacher in California; then Canada; then New England. We next find him in England, then Egypt and Palestine, then Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, and Ceylon; thence to Africa, West Indies, and South America—closing in Africa.

Therefore, counting his own Virginia home, he labored with great success in fourteen mission fields, and always left permanent results behind. We know of nothing greater in the history of the church, since the first great missionary—the Apostle Paul.

Then we are further amazed at the labors of this man of God in the field of religious literature. All through his busy years of evangelism, his pen was as busy as his tongue, proclaiming the Glad Tidings of Salvation to the lost in so many lands. That our readers may in some measure, appreciate the extent of his writings, we can only give a list of his books.

Here are the books he wrote: "Seven Years Street Preaching in San Francisco"; "Addresses to Young Marica," "Word to Old Folks," "The Model Preacher," "California Life Illustrated," "Infancy and Manhood of Christians," "Reconciliation—How to be Saved," "Elected by Grace," "Adventures in South Africa," "Four Years' Campaign in India," "South American Adventures," "Letters to a Quaker on Baptism," "Ten Years Self-Supporting Work in India," "Pauline Methods of Mission Work," "Flaming Torch in Darkest Africa," and "The Story of My Life." He began with his pen in 1856, and through a period of forty years produced the above list of books—sixteen in all.

From 1897, until the close of his life, May 18, 1902, he lived in New York City. When the end came he was spending a little season on the Pacific Coast, and his death occurred at Palo Alto, California.

PITIABLE PARENTS.

RICHARD W. LEWIS.

OUR fathers have sinned... we have borne their iniquities," says the prophet Jeremiah in Lam. 5:7. Ezekiel speaks of the fathers eating "sour grapes," and the teeth of the children being "on edge." (Ezek. 18:2). Jesus significantly says, "Fill ye up the measure of your fathers." (Matt. 23:32).

The law upon which these teachings were based will be found away back of the time in which they were said. That law, found in the first book of the Bible, is well confirmed by human history. The law is simple, clear and short: "after his kind"; "like begets life." This law is invariable. Its results are inevitable: like parents, like children.

With these indisputable facts before us, and so clearly established, both by the Bible and by human experience, we are prepared to study conditions in the modern home intelligently.

A true home consists of one husband, one wife, and one child, or some children. The outstanding obligation of a home is the building of strong, clean, godly, useful, happy character. Any less exalted and worthy goal offers a family tragedy and a home calamity!

It is an open secret that the homes of America are not turning out in our youth that stamina and strength of former years. Despite all earnest and persistent efforts to boost and buttress the tottering home structure, its weakening walls permit a disclosure of its defective products. So apparent is the fact that American home-life is not measuring up to the high standard of former years in sons and daughters—considering our civilization, and in view of our superior educational advantages, our religious institutions, and our boasted system of morals—the eyes of the nation are now riveted upon the home, with the press of the land offering comments, and proposing remedies for the distressing home-life conditions!

The time has now arrived when somebody must do some straight thinking, draw some true conclusions, and speak some plain words of warning, in order that the very unit of our national strength and life—the home—may be spared and preserved.

The daily discussion in the press centers about the child, youth, and the young people. But taking the forewords of this article at 100% value, since they come from the Book of books, is it not a fact that our eyes need to be set upon the parents, and our comments focussed upon the parents of the land?

Fortunately for us there are still many very fine young people left, exemplary, praiseworthy, par excellence young people. As we study their lives we find in the success they are making ample reason for accepting the Bible statements which head this article. These young people are reproductions of exemplary parents. Their fathers are righteous, and their mothers are godly. They too, have truly filled up the measure of their fathers and mothers. Like has really begotten like. Like parents, like children, is proven to be true indeed.

Then what parents are to be pitied? Who are the parents who are failing? What are some of the common blunders committed today which account for the crop of weaklings now springing up and flashing out into the "jazz" life so conspicuous that all intelligent, conscientious foreigners visiting our great nation note the light, vain and superficial tone of our youngsters?

First, the unequally yoked parents. God has laid down another law. It is plain and clear. No one need misunderstand it: "Be not unequally yoked" (2 Cor. 6:14). Peer should mate peer. Wild infatuation should not blind lovers' eyes to the point of incompatibility. There should be some reason mixed with love, and God's law should be respected and obeyed. If not, the divorce mills will run the faster. Parents should study this wise law of God, and pass it on down to their children while they are yet in childhood's plastic period of life. Mothers had, by far, better be teaching their daughters this law of God, this divine law of home-life harmony, rather than be giving them so much instruction as to the lighter laws of shades and colors, styles and fabrics, customs and manners—important as these things are. Since marriage is fundamental to the perpetuity of the race, and essential to the existence of the nation, every child—son and daughter—should be taught God's law of family felicity: "be not unequally yoked together." Those parents are to be pitied who study the breeding of birds, the crossing of cattle, and the registering of pedigrees, while paying little or no attention, until too late, to the mating of their sons and daughters!

Second. Immoral parents are to be pitied, censured, and held responsible for delinquent children, perhaps degenerates. By "immoral" is not meant any of those deeper, darker sins that disgrace men and women on the lower levels of life. Rather, reference is made to those refined sins, those delicate departures from right lines, those dainty, dirty doings which go as a matter of course in decent society, and remain unchallenged in the average home of good standing and respectability.

Third. Those parents are to be pitied who intentionally teach their children to deceive and dissemble, mistate and misrepresent. Here is the seed supply for huge crops of liars! Those parents are to be pitied who lead their children in sharp, shrewd, advantage-taking, for from such homes come our army of thieves, robbers and grafters. Those parents are to be pitied who practice before their children injustice, improper discrimination, and unfair partiality. The nation teems with tough outlaws, and reeks with rough rowdies today, due to the examples of pitiable parents, unscrupulous and conscienceless. Those parents are to be pitied who are unfair towards their own children. All parents make some mistakes. But the fair-minded parent will be just as ready to confess a wrong to his or her child, and beg its pardon, as to an adult outside the home. Even a child is entitled to be heard. If a child knows a truth which the parents do not, that child should be encouraged to speak up and state that truth, and the parents should be grateful for the child's co-operation in determining what are the facts in the case.

Those parents are to be pitied who do not keep their promises to their children. No matter whether the promise is one of reward or punishment; whether it is a matter of the home, or an affair of social life, or an item of business. Children check up on their parents. They have a perfect right to do so. They may do so quietly. They may do so meekly and submissively, but they do check up! Parents who cannot, or do not, control themselves before their children are to be pitied. When parents bluster and blither, excoriate and castigate each other before their children, a crop of "scrappers" is being grown for release upon society. Where friction and fussiness thrive, the devil smiles, while demons dance with delight!

Fourth. Parents are to be pitied when they never have settled by the Word of God what manner of home they are to have, and what methods of home rule they are to practice. When parents themselves see child-training from different angles, and fail to agree on family discipline, their children are apt to live in disorder, cultivate discord, and practice dissension.

Fifth. Parents are to be pitied when they are ignorant. By "ignorant" is not meant uneducated, for many parents are not to be censured for receiving little or no education. But what is meant is parents who could think, inquire, investigate, learn better methods of home discipline, and yet they will not do so. Too often parents are utterly blind to their lack of better methods only through their consummate egotism. Some parents never can be taught anything, for they already know it all! Humility is a home grace indispensable. It is good to wear on all occasions. Children readily judge between the meek and lowly spirit and the high and haughty air that precedes a fall—for the child, perhaps, as well as for the parent. There always is hope for the teachable parent—none for the know-it-all egotist.

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

BLISSFIELD, MICHIGAN.

If not mistaken, it was Detroit, Mich., we reported from last. We were then with the Salvation Army Citadel Corps at Michigan Avenue and 1st. It proved to be a very fruitful soul-saving campaign and the Adjutant writes me that the interest has kept up and that more than 200 souls have been saved since our closing service. The Lord be praised for the great victory.

At the close of the Detroit meeting we went to Wichita, Kan., to hold a meeting with the Rev. W. E. McCoy and the good people of the Calvary Methodist Church. It has never been our lot to work with a finer pastor and people. How they did pray and plan for that campaign, and no evangelist could ask for better support than they gave. If you ever receive a call from Rev. McCoy to hold a meeting don't ask any questions, but give him the date, if possible. He and his good wife have a most loyal church back of them. It will ever be a delight to look back to that two weeks at Calvary M. E. Church. How we thank the Lord for the packed church building and full altars from time to time.

At the close of the Wichita meetings the writer went to Newton and took the Santa Fe train for Los Angeles and home to spend the holidays with the family in "the wee hoos by the sea." It did seem good to be home again after being away more than five months. But soon after the holiday season we faced east again to answer some calls for meetings. The first meeting was at Ortonville, Mich., with Rev. W. I. Francis and the Methodist Church. We had a battle royal there. For one thing we were nearly frozen out owing to the poor heating plant in church. The community at large is surely an indifferent one when it comes to spiritual things. However, we did see some victory among the young folk. Quite a number of them were at the altar seeking the Lord and it is to be hoped that they will be true to God and help push the battle. Rev. and Mrs. Francis are old friends of the writer and they are God's faithful messengers. Blessings on them.

Our last meeting before coming here was at Woodland, Mich., and there we witnessed a truly great revival. It isn't too much to say that the country was stirred for miles around. It seems they came from all quarters to hear the Word of the Lord. On many occasions the large church was packed until it was uncomfortable for many present. We have never seen better co-operation from the public schools. The superintendent and principal did everything to encourage the young folk in high school and the children in the grades to attend the services. It was a joy to see such good work accomplished in the young life of the community. Not less than fifty young men and women sought the Lord for the forgiveness of sins. Many of them were so broken by the Spirit that they would come down the aisles of the church weeping and praying. All told, there were scores of seekers for pardon and a holy heart. The spirit of unity among the churches was wonderful. All the churches of the community were heart and soul in the campaign. Rev. Seipp, of the Methodist Church, arranged for the meeting and called the evangelist. He is a faithful man of God and was hearty in his support of the meeting. We have just opened here with the Evangelical Church and the Lord is blessing. The prospects are bright for a genuine revival. Rev. J. W. Hill is the pastor and the Lord is making him a blessing to his church and the entire city. His godly wife is a great aid to him in the work of the ministry. The writer first met them when they were students at Chicago Evangelistic Institute. May the rich blessing of the Lord be upon all the big Herald family.

WHEATCROFT, KENTUCKY.

We are now in a Union Meeting at Wheatcroft, Ky., with the Methodist and Presbyterian people. The meeting is being conducted in the Opera House as the church building would not hold the throngs that were coming to services. There have been 114 professions to date. The town is stirred and the tide is high; it is a wonderful sight to see strong men weeping their way to the Cross. Some of the most prominent men of this community have professed faith in Christ. The most influential people of the town say that this is the most wonderful meeting in the history of the town.

Bro. Hogard, the M. E. Pastor, and Bro. Oakley, the Presbyterian pastor, are both in favor with their people and are good men to work with. We have some open dates for the spring and summer, and would be glad to correspond with any one that desires our help. Permanent address, 1917 Cephas Ave., Nashville, Tenn. J. A. Collier.

REVIVAL AT MARION COLLEGE.

Marion College is well located in the beautiful city of Marion, Ind., near the east central part of the grand old Hoosier State. It was quite a climatic contrast to be in a funeral procession with dusty roads on Wednesday in South Carolina and arrive in Marion, Ind., on Saturday afternoon, where in the morning it was nineteen degrees below zero.

Desiring to encourage the dear saints who fasted and prayed so earnestly for, and took such an important part in the Marion College Revival, I am glad to report a precious meeting which the Lord gave us there. It was indeed a pleasure to preach the old-time gospel to those precious people. That fine, attentive student body and faculty were eager to hear the love story of salvation, and the faithful pastor and his flock fasted and prayed and stood right by the straight, uncompromising gospel truth as burden bearers, with praise and delight.

During the first week of the meeting, among the seekers was a young man of the Senior class who had been attending Marion for four or five years but had not been saved, who bowed at the front seat and was converted from his infidelic ideas to Christianity. A young lady's mission call was renewed after a real struggle with the Devil concerning women preaching. Time and space would fail me to try to write in detail about the many seekers and happy finders of saving, reclaiming and sanctifying grace, but it would have done your heart good to have seen the seekers praying through in the old-time way with faces and hands toward Heaven with perspiration, desperation and earnestness till relief, victory and peace came. Praise God for the awakening, confessing, praying through, settling, enlightening of the people in the "Faith once delivered unto the saints."

Yours in the grace and love of God,
Evangelist Rufus H. Gleason.

BOLIVAR, TENNESSEE.

We are just back from Murphysboro, Ill., where we were in a delightful four-weeks' campaign with our dear Bro. T. H. Ballarby in Centenary Methodist Church. We had an old-time season of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. Murphysboro is a wicked city, as is most of our cities in this modern age. We had all kinds of weather from five below zero to warm rain and fog. Two and a half weeks of the time was about the worst weather I ever tried to work in a revival. The Lord was mighty gracious to us. We had a great number of souls saved and reclaimed and a good many added to the different churches.

Brother Ballarby is a sweet-spirited man and has some wonderful people to labor with. We are happy to have been with him and feel that we are better men since we have touched the good people of that church.

We are now with Rev. E. R. Roach, of Bolivar, Tenn., in another four-weeks' campaign. We are holding the meetings in the court house and are having overflow crowds. The town is talking this meeting as they have not done for years, they tell us. Pray for us, that God may get glory out of our labors. We are trying to lift up Jesus in such a way that he will draw this people to him. Bless his name!

Yours on the firing line,
Butts-Cunningham Party.

WINTER PARK, FLORIDA.

After I held a few meetings around Plainview, Texas, I went to the northern part of the State, and here I met Uncle Bud,—the first time in twelve years,—the same old Bud, only nearer heaven. From there to Brownwood, Texas. This was surely a great meeting. From there we hastened to Houston, Tex. Raymond Richey was then in his twelve-weeks' campaign. We hurried from the train to the platform where two thousand people were waiting. When the altar call was given, forty people came and wept their hearts out to God. The second night, sixty came, praying. We then took the train for New Orleans.

Came home for a ten-days' rest, then on to Tallahassee, Fla., started a meeting for Bro. Duckworth, pastor of the M. E. Church, South. The altar would not hold the seekers—mighty victories. This preacher knows how to rub up against the evangelist.

Came to the Capitol City to assist Brother Smith. What a marvelous victory! It looked as if the whole congregation was coming to the altar. What a blessed people Brother Smith has to share tears and blessings.

I was called to Mont Verde, Florida. Brother Carpenter has established one of the greatest Industrial Schools I ever saw, nearly three hundred scholars. Had to turn that many away for want of room. Brother Stern is the pastor in charge. The first night there were twenty-seven seekers, and so the altar was filled every night for seventeen days, sometimes as high as 52 seekers in one service. Closed the last Sunday with a sunrise prayer meeting, dinner on the ground. What a Sabbath day's journey.

Now I am planning for summer campaign in Maryland, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey. I have a few open dates. Any one wanting my services, let me know in time. I am the Conference Evangelist of the M. E. Church, South. Rev. L. Blackburn is P. E., Orlando, Florida. To God be all the glory. A. D. Buck.

Winter Park, Fla.

HORTON'S BAY, MICHIGAN.

We have recently closed a very precious season of revival here. Our faith is again assured that the day of revival is not past, but where God is obeyed, his Spirit honored, Christ and his atoning blood exalted, there will he be pleased to meet his people in blessing and saving power.

It was our gracious privilege to entertain Rev. C. W. Butler, D.D., of Cleveland, Ohio, as the evangelist. The Word was preached without fear or favor and yet the Spirit of God so applied it to hearts that it became bread to their hungry souls, and with a receptive, yielding spirit they received it gladly. Several sinners were converted, backsliders reclaimed, but the main work was the sanctifying of believers' hearts. The church itself is greatly edified; where once there was strife and contention, today there is fellowship and love. One young man answers a call to the ministry, two or three young ladies anticipate the Bible Training School, consecrated to do his will. There were 14 accessions to the church and others anticipating the step, most of whom have received their baptism with the Holy Ghost. We look forward to brighter days if Jesus tarries. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow!"

Glenn G. Davis, Pastor.

PAINTSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

On Jan. 2, I began a meeting at Paintsville with Rev. W. B. Foley, which continued until Jan. 18. The Lord was with us in great power throughout the entire meeting. The church was greatly strengthened and revived. Many of the children of God testified to the fact that they had been blessed and lifted to a higher plane of living. One young married man, a member of the Missionary Baptist Church, prayed through at the altar and was one of the brightest conversions that the writer has witnessed in a long time. He threw back his head and prayed until his face was all shining with the glory of God. No one had to tell him when the work was done. He was on his feet telling us about it. The whole congregation was all broken up as a result and everybody was blessed. Miss Gertrude Patrick, an accomplished musician, and a member of this church, was in charge of the music. She is a devout, consecrated young woman, and was great help in the meeting. She is a splendid leader of song, and is second to none as a pianist. Her work in the Children's Meetings was of the very highest order. Any pastor or evangelist who may need some one to take charge of the music and the work among children could make no mistake in securing Miss Patrick. Brother Foley is one of our good, solid, safe pastors, who is constantly at the job. He preaches a full gospel and was a great power in the meeting. This is a historic old church, having given to Methodism several of her leading preachers. No better people are to be found anywhere.

I went from Paintsville to Salsersville and opened fire on the enemy, Jan. 19. The Rev. E. N. Early is pastor. He had been preaching ten days when I arrived. The revival was on and the Lord was blessing. We had a great meeting. The old-time pentecostal power was felt in every service. Several prayed through to victory and the entire church was revived. The whole town of Salsersville was brought under the power and influence of the meeting. The Holy Spirit was poured out in such a wonderful way that the redeemed shouted the praises of God. Brother Early is respected and loved by everybody in Salsersville. The people of all the churches look upon him as a man of God, of prayer and faith. He is a John Wesley Methodist and lives the sanctified life. He preaches the whole truth with power sent down from heaven. After a three-weeks' meeting we decided to close and I am now at Pikeville with the Rev. J. Ralph Wood, an old Asbury College boy. The meeting is starting with fine interest. The old gospel plow will do the work.

GOOD REPORT.

We closed a real good meeting in our church at Georgetown, Ky., the good pastor being Rev. Samuel Muse. He had things well in hand before we came. It rained about ten days straight during the meeting, but we had souls nevertheless. Men quit using tobacco, confessions were made, wrongs righted, one farmer got back to God, and said he would not raise any more tobacco on his farm. In all we had what the people said was the best meeting the Georgetown church has ever had. We were entertained lovely in the pastor's home. We had a good pounding for the pastor, and also a love offering of thirty dollars. Rev. L. T. Wells, Dist. Supt., of the Kentucky district was present several nights, and some of the pastors of the district. Sister Wells was also with us several nights, and sang to the delight of all. This was our first revival in old Kentucky, and we sure enjoyed being there.

We go from here to Pittsburgh, Pa. Pray for us when you go before the throne of God, that he will keep us true, humble, and on fire for him, and busy in the Master's work. Any one wishing to correspond with us address us, 2923 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

WHEATCROFT, KENTUCKY.

We closed out a Union Revival at Wheatcroft, Sunday evening, Feb. 27. We had 160 professions of faith and a few reclamations, during our three-weeks' stay. The people of Wheatcroft stated that it was the greatest revival that they had ever witnessed in Wheatcroft. The whole town seems to move forward for God. We stayed in the home of Uncle Tom Perryman and enjoyed the hospitality of their home very much, as they were both father and mother to us. Our prayer is that the ones that were left out of the Kingdom might yet be saved. We are to assist Brother H. C. Napier in Earlington, Ky., March 20 through the 10th of April. We have some open dates for spring and summer; any one desiring our help may address us, 1917 Cephas Ave., Nashville, Tenn.

MY AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

ducted a regular class-meeting at McKendree, which was a great means of grace to those who attended.

Rumors came to Wesley Hall of a most remarkable preacher and evangelist who had appeared in Georgia, by the name of Sam Jones. Many stories were told of his freedom in the pulpit, his wit, humor, and the power of his messages. It was announced one day at dinner in Wesley Hall that Sam Jones was passing through Nashville and would preach at 2 o'clock in Tulip Street Church. We cut our dinner short and directly there was a large row of theological students streaming across the campus in a trot to get to Tulip Street and hear the wonderful preacher. The little church was jammed with people, the aisles were filled and people standing around the walls. I well remember his text: "If a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted." Gal. 6:1. For an hour and a half he poured forth the most remarkable message we had ever heard. We laughed, and wept, and wondered. He stood quietly, in perfect calm, with his piercing black eyes; now and then a smile flitted over his face, with a smooth, tender and penetrating voice, and said the most practical things about Christian experience, religious life, brotherly love and patient helpfulness, we had ever listened to. When he concluded his sermon, he said, "You people are so crowded in here there is no room for an altar service; I'll just have to let you go. You remind me of the fellow's potato patch. The weeds got so thick in his potatoes that he couldn't do anything with them, so he concluded to dig his potatoes up out of the weeds and plant them some where else, and let the weeds have that patch."

Sam Jones went on to Lebanon, Tenn., for a meeting and all Nashville was stirred up about his coming back to that city for a revival. The preachers of many churches united, got an immense tent, and put it up near where the postoffice now stands. Sam Jones came back and held his first great city revival which attracted national attention. We Wesley Hall boys attended in large numbers, in fact, the whole student body of the University. The vast tent was packed with multitudes, preachers coming by hundreds and people by thousands. The Sam Jones' meetings, and his remarkable sayings, was the theme of conversation; on the streets, in the stores, in the dining-rooms, in class-rooms, on the street cars and everywhere Sam Jones and his sermons were the subject of constant discussion. Many professed religion, and quite a number were added to the churches. I remember one of his comments on the preachers. He said, "In a cannon foundry they make the guns about a hundred times as heavy as the ball to be fired from it, and when the cannon is fired the gun remains stationary, while the ball goes on and does execution. Here in Nashville you preachers make your sermons about a hundred times heavier than the preacher, and when you get up Sunday morning and shoot them off the sermon stands still in the pulpit and kicks you preachers out the back window."

Before the meetings closed preachers and people were coming from other cities to engage Sam Jones for camp meetings and union tabernacle meetings in many places. What a remarkable man he was! There was no limit to his wit and humor. He had a ready answer for every question, and a wonderful insight into human nature, a strong grip upon fundamental Bible truth, and he preached to the people. He brought the most profound truth down within the easy comprehension of the common mind. People never went away from his services wondering what he meant. They understood him; they got a new and practical view of their obligations to God and their fellowbeings.

In speaking of my professors at Vanderbilt, I forgot to mention Prof. Lowery, a fine Irish gentleman. He taught the theologues Elocution; it is called Expression now. He used to say, "Young gentlemen, I can teach you elocution, but you cannot really preach the gospel without unction, and it will take the Holy Ghost to teach you unction."

My sad, heart-breaking experience at Vanderbilt was the death of Barney Craig. In my chapter on Stanford I spoke of Barney Vanarsdall, the great old Methodist in Stanford church. He had two grandsons; their mother, his daughter, had died. Their father was a traveling salesman and from home. At Uncle Barney's request I roomed with his grandsons, Barney and Willie Craig. We became wonderfully attached to each other. Brother Vanarsdall insisted that Barney should go with me to Vanderbilt, which he did, and I got permission from Bishop McTyeire for Barney to room with me in Wesley Hall. He was a bright, handsome boy. Not long after school opened he was taken sick with typhoid fever, and in spite of all the best doctors of Nashville and a host of friends could do, Barney died. I brought his remains back to Stanford and laid him away in the beautiful cemetery. When I go to Stanford I frequently go out and stand with uncovered head at his grave. He passed away, giving a beautiful testimony to his faith in the Lord Jesus. I am living with the blessed hope that we shall meet again.

A very large percent of the people whom I knew and loved and fellowshipped with in Stanford, these forty-odd years ago, have been carried out to the beautiful little city of the dead on the hillside where their dust awaits the trumpet sound of resurrection morning.

What About that Library Idea?

In response to our proposition about sending THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD to any Public Library for the special price of $1.00 we received a fine letter a few days ago. Read it:

"Dear Sir: I think it a splendid idea to put THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD in our public libraries. I have been praying the Lord to help me to reach the most folks possible here in W——. I believe this will be the means. I am sending a check for $1.00, and you will please send the paper to Carnegie Library, W——, Ohio.

"I have taken your paper for eighteen years along with other Holiness literature, and feel it to be a real necessity and great blessing.

"Yours for souls,
"MRS. CHAS. M——."

Who knows what the returns of this $1.00 investment will be? For the next twelve months THE HERALD will proclaim Holiness in the town of W——, Ohio. We believe it will pay. Why not make such an investment for the spread of Holiness teaching in your town?

FIDELITY IN DARK HOURS.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

HERE is no one thing in the world which is so essential to happiness, as companionship. There is something in the human heart which craves fellowship with kindred spirits; spirits that are stronger and purer than itself and whose influence will not stop on the shores of time but bridge the chasm of mortality and find a more blessed unfolding in the land of pure delight where our loves will live, unhindered, forever.

To our minds, there is nothing which so manifests God's love for man as the fact that he created him for companionship. He had the angels, but they were created angels and did not have the privilege of choosing the Lord as their portion; but man was created a free moral agent and it was upon his decision which hinged the destiny of his choice. "Choose you this day, whom you will serve"; so God wants our companionship because we choose and desire communion with him.

The wise man said, "A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adversity." Ovid tells us that "while you are in prosperity you will be able to count many friends, but if sad days come, you will be alone." While this may be true, yet we would not count those true friends who would desert us in adversity. Cowper very truly said,

"No friendship will abide the test
That stands on sordid interest
And mean self-love erected."

We see a beautiful example of true friendship in the case of David and Jonathan, especially on the part of Jonathan, for David's love did not conflict with his interests, but rather furthered them, while Jonathan's interests were all against his love. The words, "Jonathan stripped himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his apparel, even to his sword, and to his bow and to his girdle," express the unselfish devotion of Jonathan. So the idea of true friendship is that we divest ourselves of what is to our own interest and contribute it to the interest of those upon whom our hearts long to lavish their devotion. Love knows no sacrifice; the sting is taken away by the antidote of love.

One of the darkest hours in Christ's life was when he prayed alone in the garden of Gethsemane; afterward when he went to the disciples and found them sleeping, he said,

"What, could ye not watch with me one hour?" Christ was passing through an hour in which fidelity upon the part of his disciples would have meant much to him, but when the crucial hour came, he was left alone, humanly speaking.

But Jesus did not fail to drink the cup which his Father had given him, even though he trod the winepress alone; so when the dark hour comes upon us, the hour when we are unfriended and life seems almost intolerable, let us not shrink from the cup nor leave the field of conflict until ordered by the Captain of our salvation. Let not our courage and faith fail, for the hard and dark things may be the gateway into a richer and deeper experience of God's unchanging love.

Job said, "When he hath tried me I shall come forth as gold." This indicated the strength of his character and he felt that God had a purpose in thus testing his moral stamina. The opposite of this test is seen in Saul, who went down under the test. Some one has said, "What we call discouragements, obstacles, adversity, may be after all, if we will but let it be so, God's opportunities for teaching us how to be strong through struggle, patient through endurance, brave through suffering, wise and sweet-spirited and noble through experiences rightly borne."

After all that may be said of the value of human friendships, there is none to be compared with the "Friend that sticketh closer than a brother." We can do without everything else and every one else, but we cannot get along without God. With him happiness is possible anywhere, and in any conditions; without him, there is an aching void this world can never fill. The poet expressed it forcefully when he said,

"How tedious and tasteless the hours

When Jesus no longer I see,
Sweet prospects, sweet birds and sweet flowers

Have all lost their fragrance to me.

While blessed with a sense of his love,

A palace a toy would appear;

And prisons would palaces prove,

If Jesus would dwell with me there."

Fidelity in dark hours! Reader, have you ever known the sweetness that comes from leaning on him when the shadows hung low and the way seemed hedged with what seemed insuperable difficulties? When perhaps you were watching alone at the bedside of a loved one, wondering what the issue would be; when the tendrils of human support were apparently withdrawn, because of their powerlessness to help, and the way had to be trodden alone? We recall nights in the years ago when we watched alone by the side of one who was slipping away from us; the pain would at times be so excruciating that we would have to seek refuge in the darkness outside to escape the groans which tore our hearts to bleeding; as we walked and prayed in the darkness, the stars seemed to share our grief and the darkness tried to be kind, but there was comfort in no one nor anything, save as we took refuge in him who was the "Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." In him, there was balm for the wounded heart and crushed spirit; in him was light in darkness, hope in despair and comfort in bereavement. We realized the truth of the words expressed by Oliver Wendell Holmes when he said,

"O love divine, that stooped to share

Our sharpest pang, our bitterest tear,

On Thee we cast each earth-born care;

We smile at pain while Thou art near."

THE INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE.

adopt, we cannot doubt that the writers, especially those of the New Testament, were permitted to write in their own individual styles and to use their own individual vocabularies; for example, compare the diction of

St. Paul with that of St. John, or with that of Peter, or that of James. They are as different as the styles of Woodrow Wilson and Chief Justice Taft. John wrote very common Greek, but whoever wrote Hebrews wrote classical Greek. The writer is at a loss to understand why the Holy Spirit should have made such a difference, if he was responsible for the very words of the several writers. Let me give here at length a quotation from the Rev. Archibald Alexander, D.D., sometime "Prof. of Theology in Theological Seminary at Princeton." "In the narration of well-known facts, the writer did not need a continual suggestion of every idea, but only to be so superintended, as to be preserved from error; so in the use of language in recording such familiar things, there existed no necessity that every word should be inspired; but there was the same need of a directing and superintending influence as in regard to the things themselves. Here, then, we see that the language of the sacred writers might be preserved from impropriety and inaccuracy, and yet all the characteristics of style peculiar to each writer be retained. . . . When men are under the influence of the Holy Spirit, their own powers of understanding, memory and invention are not superseded, but only directed and preserved from inaccuracy and error; but the man pursues his own peculiar method of reasoning, and expression. He speaks or writes in the language which he has learned, and uses that idiom and style which have become habitual; so that inspired men will, according to this theory, retain their peculiarity of style and expression just as fully, as if they were writing or speaking without inspiration. . . . It certainly is a matter of no consequence how our knowledge is obtained, if it is only rendered infallibly certain. There are many things concerning which we could not acquire a greater degree of assurance than we already possess, by inspiration of any kind: and such knowledge acquired by the exercise of reason or intuition, is not the less valuable because it has been obtained in a natural way. Indeed, these natural faculties, by which we are so constituted as to be capable of certain knowledge of the first principles of truth, are the gift of God as much as any inspiration can be: and the clear intuitive knowledge which we possess of certain truths, may be considered as a sort of permanent inspiration."

Dr. Alexander, from whom we have just quoted, was a firm believer in plenary inspiration, though not in its ultra-form. The present writer sees no special reason for differing from the quotation given. A plenary form of Inspiration that calls for every word and letter to be directly dictated by the Divine Spirit is, in his judgment, untenable. Besides, it puts a club into the hands of infidels, that may be turned against us to bad effect. In any controversy it is always a dangerous thing to assume more than one can prove. We should be far more concerned about the facts than about the vessels that contain them. Apples are just as good shipped in boxes as in barrels. Since the Holy Spirit has given us God's truth concerning our eternal destiny, we do not need to worry ourselves much as to the vehicles in which it has come to us. Thank God, the truth of the Bible has been demonstrated in the salvation of millions of precious souls, although it is now reaching them in more than five hundred different tongues and dialects. We say: "Our Father who art in heaven." The Greek says: "Pater eumon ho en tois ouranois." The Latin says: "Pater noster qui es in coelis." The Spaniard says: "Padre nuestro que estas en los cielos." The Chinese says: "Ngoo nye kuh Yah Iellah Tien long." They do not resemble one another much when placed before our eyes, but when our heavenly Father hears them coming up from the lips of men from different nations, they all mean the very same thing to him. And I am so glad of it.

Incarnation, A Ministry.

REV. E. L. EATON.

A Glorious and Hallowed Event, No Less a Vital and Active Principle.

The glory of Science is to bring it down into the common folds of every-day life. And may we not say that the glory of Christian Education is to do it. Do what, do education—apply it. Life is really so full of the common things and common folks that we need to watch our flights lest they rob us of being practical. The far-view brings the world and God together.

The usual estrangement between young people in college and those who are less fortunate is one of the social problems of our small college towns, and our town is no exception to the rule: The once-a-month social hour of a young ladies Sunday School Class proved a gracious ministry. Our homes were opened and here would gather from sixty to seventy of the town and college young people in delightful fellowship with their teacher. Good music, good readings, a few games, a Scripture lesson and prayer brought relaxation to the book-worn student, and inspiration to all. The cosmopolitan and all-inclusive spirit of the Redeemer filled these homes with an unaffected ministry of good-will and equality.

They had organized their class into a soul-winners unit. In their evangelistic activities Sunday afternoon these young people were thinking together, and praying together, and planning together. The Lesson-thought Sunday morning was alive with practical illustrations and applications found in their personal-work program. Sometimes half of the lesson-hour would be taken up with bursts of personal victory in testimony; and in prayer the refreshings from the Lord would come. Frequently some of their number would tell of the spiritual help they were receiving, college girls and town girls together. Mutual interests in the Lord's work had made them one. Some who long since had left the Sunday school, became interested and joined the group. The Gospel net was being drawn by ready hands and warm hearts. Not a professional button about it anywhere.

Prayer was being answered for the conversion of the unsaved. In one memorable service conducted by the class at a Reformatory, the Holy Spirit came with wonderful melting power upon all present, and when opportunity was given over a hundred unfortunate social outcasts expressed a desire to let Christ have his place in their lives. Listen, the angels were rejoicing! The shut-in-calls were welcomed by the infirm, the sick, the poor. Here the girls left sunshine, and flowers, and words of comfort, and prayers. Then in turn, they took away the smile and approbation of their Savior, they found him there. They went back to their tasks on the morrow, some to live more nobly, and some to live more lowly, and all to live more holy.

Who will guess or prophesy the future of some of these girls.

Crossing the Deadline.

This booklet is one of the most interesting and suggestive of present day conditions of anything written by our editor, Dr. Morrison. It sounds the note of warning that ought to be heeded by a reckless multitude who are losing their faith in the Bible, and at the same time, their reverence for God, their respect for law, and a disregard of all things sacred. Send for this book; get a number of copies and scatter them about over your town and community. Make the people think, and then you may be able to lead them to repentance and salvation. The price is only 25 cents and may be had of The Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A BOY WHO SAID "NO" TO THE TEMPTER.

I know a boy who kindly but firmly said "No" to another boy who wanted him to do something wrong.

Dear children, do you know that there is a passage in the Bible which says, "Thou shalt say No?" Somebody wanted some one to lie for him, but he would not. So when you are tempted to do any kind of wrong, either by Satan or by any one else, be sure to say "No," and to say it at once. Do not parley with the tempter, or you may be led into sin. But say it in the strength of God, and you will not change it into a "Yes." The Lord help you. A. W. Orwig.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have proved to be a very frequent, and I do hope, welcome visitor, but I've learned to love page ten and all the smiling cousins that I've met through it, so please don't forbid me to enter this time. I remember reading so many good letters on this page and would have enjoyed talking with a great many of the authors, but that is impossible, so I ask God to bless you for the help you've been to me and others. My heart rejoices when I hear of so many taking a stand for Christ, it is no easy life, yet it is the only life worth living. I can truthfully say that the most eventful day in my short life is the one on which my Savior took up his abode within my heart. Recently I was thinking of the infinite love of him who alone is perfect and I thought of what a wonderful thing it is to be called into the ministry. Some of us are inclined to take it lightly and not consider our friends or relatives as highly as we might; think how honored we feel to be personally acquainted with a representative of our America, then how much greater should be the honor if we are friends to a representative of the Almighty who made America. Of course we cannot all be ministers, but the poet said, "Who best bear his mild yoke, they serve him best." My home town is a small village nestled among the stately pines and orange groves, only a short distance from the Gulf of Mexico. Unlike most of the neighboring villages that bear Spanish name, my little village has a plain English one, yet to me it is the dearest spot in the whole state. Vera Wurzel, your letter of Jan. 19 was splendid; I am familiar with the two friends you spoke of (Margaret and Marguerite), they also contributed fine letters. God bless you three! Could I ask a favor of some cousin? I would love to borrow the words or music of "Whispering Hope" and I will try to repay the favor as best I can. May God bless you all, and use you to his glory. I wish to be remembered in the prayers of all who know God. Evelyn E. Tipton.

Cottage Hill, Fla.

P. S. Of course I will be glad to get letters from all, be they young or old, for my love is extended to every one. My age is 16.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Georgia boy join your happy band of boys and girls? My age is between eleven and fourteen. If any one would like to write to me my address is 407 Jackson St., Valdosta, Ga. My father takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. My father has been taking it a good long time. Well as this is my first letter to Aunt Bettie I hope to see it in print.

Linwood Gossett.

407 Jackson St., Valdosta, Ga.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Wonder if he dear Herald cousins won't move over and give a little Tennessee girl plenty of room in your happy corner? How many of you boys and girls like this rainy weather? I do not. How many of you cousins are Christians? I am not. I joined the church several years ago but have wandered back in sin but I think every one should be a Christian. Say, Tennesseans, wake up! My, my, just look how other states are beating us. Let's get ahead of them. We can if we will try. My father and mother take The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. Am glad to see so many of the boys and girls Christians. Hope you who are Christians will make your lead for the Saviour; he is greatest of all beings, and we should follow on after him. Cousins, pray that I may be saved before it's too late. I'll get my coat and run before a snowdrift catches me.

Ruby Kirby.

Rt. 1, Pinson, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I enter into your happy circle of cousins? I certainly enjoy reading the letters of the cousins. I am five feet, two inches tall, eyes are blue, have curly brown hair, weigh 140 pounds, and am between fifteen and eighteen years of age. Who can guess my age? I go to Sunday school every Sunday at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Red Boiling Springs is a little town nestled in the foothills of the Cumberland Mountains. It is a summer resort and noted for its great sulphur water. If any of you ever visit Red Boiling Springs look me up. Would like to hear from some of the cousins. Will answer all the letters I receive.

Mamie V. Snow.

Red Boiling Springs, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl join your happy band of girls and boys? My mother did take The Herald but it is out now. I will be twelve Oct. 1. I have brown hair, gray eyes and weigh 85 pounds. As this is my first letter to The Herald hope to see it in print.

Sylvia Lee Kissinger.

Pricerville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here I hail from the Land of the Sky in the grandest state of the Union. Now how many of you agree with me? Only those of Tennessee, naturally, for everyone thinks his state the greatest of all. Tennessee is indeed a wonderful state, especially this part of it, meaning Red Boiling Springs. I wish I were intelligent enough to do justice to the subject, because if I were I would surely tell you of the many wonders of this country. There are many desirable things to be found here. I am between twelve and eighteen years. Who can guess my age? I would like very much to see this letter in print. All of you boys and girls write me. I will answer all letters I receive if they don't get up in the millions.

Jewell Butler.

Red Boiling Springs, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have set in to read The Herald, and every boy and girl that's a Christian should read it. I am a Christian. All my life has been in the country. When Jesus comes from heaven back to earth to gather his people I don't want to be denied. I am a worker for Christ who shed his own blood to save me and is going to lead us some sweet day to our home which he has prepared for us. I read the Bible day after day. If sorrows press you sore he'll bring you through. All the people should know the Dying Girl's Farewell. I'll gladly send it to any boys and girls who will write me. God is true and faithful. Be not afraid, only believe. Wake up, Tennessee boys and girls, and show how you love God.

Thomas Kirkpatrick.

Pinson, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: This is the first letter to The Herald. I have brown eyes and hair. I am in the fourth grade. I am nine years old. There are six in our family. I enjoy reading page ten in The Herald. My father is a Free Methodist preacher. Our school is not very far from home.

Chester Bowerman.

Rt. 4, Junction City, Ore.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Please move over and let me sit down. Boy, but I am tired. I ran and ran so I would get there before Mr. W. B. gets in. I have only seen two letters in The Herald from West Virginia this week. Wake up, boys and girls, don't let the other states get ahead of us. I have written twice before, and thought I would write again. How many of the cousins remember me? I have light bobbed hair, brown eyes, fair complexion, am four feet, nine inches tall. I am twelve years old. My birthday is Nov. 27. Who is my twin? I will answer all letters I receive.

Elva Minnie James.
Box 25, Robson, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: As the town clock slowly rings time into eternity, then I wonder how many of us realize just how fast time is passing and what it means for us to take advantage of the present opportunities, and to lay plans that will lead us toward a goal that will be worth untold treasures. A great man said, "I will get ready now and go when my time comes." We should not get discouraged because things do not come to us all at once. I don't believe we have to be born under a certain star to achieve riches or fame. It takes time and perseverance to accomplish things. Some of our great men were born without riches and fame on some stony hillside farm. Some had to work to support an invalid, an aged mother at an early age, but by studying at their leisure time finally overthrew their handicaps. One boy followed a strange looking bird a long distance. His curiosity was aroused, so he kept finding new things in the wide world of Nature. Others have been discouraged by their parents and had to go into the world and prove that their plans were not valueless. Of course, every boy is expected to make a good man. If he is a good deal of a boy chances are that he will be a good deal of a man. A boy should not be a coward or a bully, but brave, for that is the kind of a boy of whom we can be proud, when he is a man. It has been a long time since I have written to The Herald. I have made a great list of friends through this page. I am a school boy yet and will be glad to correspond with you girl cousins and readers who care to write. My address is Cane Hill, Ark.

Carthel Dold.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I have a little chat with you and the cousins? I enjoy reading page ten. I see several letters from my state. I have been going to high school some this fall. I have two sisters; one is teaching at Sue Bennett Memorial, London, Ky. My other sister is at home. I can play the piano. I like to read. How many of the cousins like to read? My birthday is June 17. Who is my twin? Helen I. Rode, you and Katie Waddell have my father's birthday, April 10. I am a Christian and a member of the Methodist Church. I like to go to Sunday school and church. My age is between seventeen and twenty-one. I am five feet, four inches tall, weigh 121 pounds. I have brown, bobbed hair, brown eyes and fair complexion. I hope Mr. W. B. is out at work when this arrives. I would like to hear from a few of the cousins.

Allene Lockard.

Woodrow, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: It has been a long time since I have written to The Herald, that I suppose nearly all the cousins have forgotten me. I believe that I last wrote you from the A. & M. School, at Powder Springs, Ga., nearly two years ago. Last year I attended Reinhardt College, at Waleska, Ga., but I am praising the Lord that the way was opened last summer, at Indian Springs, Ga., Camp Meeting, for me to attend Asbury College this year. For quite a while Brother Z. T. Johnson has been publishing a series of writings concerning Asbury College and the wonderful work accomplished at this place, and I can certainly verify all his statements. At Asbury, Christ is put first in everything; the classes are opened with prayer, and often the classes break up into a real testimony and prayer meeting. The basket ball games are opened with prayer. The Lord has called me to preach the gospel, and I mean by his grace and help to preach wherever I go, in whatever way I can do so, and right here, I want to ask an interest in the prayers of all my Herald cousins, that I may be ever strengthened in the power of God, to follow his leadings all the way. Remember, dear cousins, my prayers shall follow you in whatever work the Master calls you to perform. I do not claim to be a poet; however, I have felt that often I could help someone by writing my thoughts in such a form, so I close my letter with the last verse of a poem recently written:

'Tis the Old-Time Religion that's needed today,

The whole blessed Bible, none taken away;

Nor yet any added—the world we must save

From fear of a hell, and the gloom of the grave.

Your cousin in Christ,
J. Loyd Ray.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Answering Vera Wurzel's letter in The Herald of Jan. 19, would say, I am glad you began the year so profitably, and have stuck to your resolution. Dr. Morrison is indeed a fine man. The world cannot offer you even pleasure now, but it does offer precious souls to be saved and lots of them. Oh, what a privilege that is, and how little regarded. Yes, keep the vision of the cross, dear friend, and be sure you hold God's hand very closely, for there are many allurements the world will offer you as "just as good" and cheaper. To be an evangelist is a wonderful and blessed calling, but it takes much physical vigor, and if you could not stand it, there are many ways to serve. Remember, dear friend, love is the fulfilling of the law. Let your every look and word and deed tell for Jesus, and you will see some things in people you did not expect. You will wonder at their unusual deference to you, the reflection of yourself. The attitude of people to you is a reflection of yourself, whether you know it or not. Keep your face toward God while you smile on your fellowmen, and thus you will reflect his light into their lives, and some of it will come back. Thus you cannot lead others astray. You will always find someone to do for. In closing, let me say again, keep God's hand very close. When we get enthused in the Lord's work and have been successful for a while, we are apt to get careless, and when you slip you carry the trusting ones with you, and undo a great deal of good that was in the working not yet accomplished. God bless you, my friend.

FALLEN ASLEEP

BEAUCHAMP.

Rev. William Beauchamp was born at Perryville, Ind., April 12, 1833, and passed away at his home in Topeka, Kan., Dec. 27, 1926. He received his early education in the public school near his home. In 1854, he, with two brothers, went to Grass Valley, Calif., where he remained for three years working in the gold mine. Was converted while there, and in 1857 returned to Indiana and entered Harts-ville College, where he remained until the opening of the Civil War. He entered the war in March, 1862, and was discharged in June, 1865. In 1866 he entered the ministry of the United Brethren Church in which work he continued until 1872 when his voice failed. He aided in the erection and operation of Avalon College, from 1872 to 1892, when he moved to Olathe, Kan., and in 1920 moved to Topeka, Kan.

Though retired from public ministry he was always a zealous, earnest, Christian worker, especially interested in Sunday school work; and a great Bible student.

Was married to Josephine Flora, June 15, 1860, to which union five children were born, one of whom, with the mother, passed on before him.

Laura Beauchamp.

SINKO

October 23, 1926, the death angel claimed for its victim Charles Robert Sinko, age 26 years, two months, and 22 days. He was converted last summer and lived for the Lord until the death angel called him away. He was sick only a short week. He enlisted in the World War when he was only fifteen years of age; he served one year over sea. He was united in marriage to Miss Ida Bain, April 18, 1919. To this union was born two daughters age four and six years. He was a loving companion and father.

He leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife, two dear little girls, father, mother, two brothers, five sisters, and a host of relatives and friends. Weep not, loved ones, Charles is not dead, but asleep in Jesus.

As we wander round the dwellings,
And we think of days gone by;
How we miss the kind instruction
Of our "daddy" gone on high.

Oh, 'tis hard to part, dear daddy,
No one else your place can fill.
In the home or round the fireside,
When we're well or when we're ill.

The chair you used is vacant,
Your voice is hushed and still;
A place is vacant in our home,
That never can be filled.

All is dark within our dwelling;
Lonely are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly
Now to heaven has gone to stay.

JEFFERS.

Iris Maxine Jeffers, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. R. Jeffers, pastors of Second Pilgrim Holiness Church, Evansville, Ind., was born Feb. 7, 1925, died Feb. 21, 1927, aged two years and fourteen days. Iris Maxine was above the average child in intelligence and spirit. She was a lovable child of a sunny disposition, winning the love and respect of all who knew her. She was the joy and pride of the home, bringing joy and sunshine into the lives of parents and grandparents, and all who came in contact with her.

She leaves to mourn her departure, father, mother, baby brother, Donald, two grandmothers, one grandfather, a number of uncles, aunts and many other relatives and friends.

You are gone but not forgotten,
For your memory lingers still,
But we bow in full submission
To the Holy Father's will.

We will miss you, little Iris,
But we're coming by and by,
To meet you and greet you
In the land beyond the sky.

REVIVAL IN GAINESBORO, VA.

I was privileged to be in a ten-day revival, with my son, Rev. John T. Banks, on his charge—the Gainesboro circuit in the Baltimore Conference. The pastor led the meeting, and the preaching was done by the writer. Those ten days in service with those fine people were days of great joy and power, as so many received the word with gladness. Old and young found their way to the old-time mourners' bench, and prayed their way to God. It was rich to see so goodly a number seeking and finding the Lord precious to their souls, and then to hear their testimonies with heaven's ring in them. Twenty-seven joined the church there the last night of the meeting. To our gracious Savior be all the praise.

KAMPSVILLE, ILL.

Have been so busy the past year that I have failed to report meetings. My work has been with the pastors of the Southern Illinois Conference, and more especially with those of the Olney District. I have found their District Superintendent, Rev. T. O. Wilson, to be a man of God who has the interest of the Kingdom at heart and who is bringing his district to the front along spiritual lines.

Since Conference last fall I have assisted the following pastors—Rev. E. H. Cissna at Bethel and Douglas; Rev. J. P. Tucker at Montrose and Dieterich; Rev. V. W. Corrie at Geff, and Rev. E. W. Barrett at Enfield on the Mt. Carmel District. These were all hard fought battles characterized by earnest, forceful preaching and deep, pungent conviction. At some places the resistance to the truth was terrible and souls would not yield although convinced of their great need. At Dieterich we were assisted by Rev. C. A. Oskin, the fire-baptized pastor of Wheeler, Ill., and at Enfield, Rev. S. A. Matthews of McLeansboro did the preaching and proved himself to be God's man for that place. The Enfield meeting was the greatest in attendance and interest. Each night for three weeks a full house greeted the workers and conviction was deep. Twenty-three prayed through to victory in the old-fashioned way. We are made to marvel that God can still work wonders in the midst of the cold conservatism which fills some of our churches today. He is able. I thank him that he is enabling me to sing the old gospel story and to hold up the standard of holiness in the midst of a gainsaying world. Pray for me that the Lord will make this the best year of my life in service for him.

FOREST RIVER, NORTH DAKOTA.

Forest River is a village located in the Red River Valley 25 miles north of Grand Forks. Surrounding this village is good farming land; wheat, sugar beets, potatoes and corn are the products of this rich valley land.

Forest River has been the victim of modernistic preaching for years. The last old-fashioned preaching done was by Dr. Carradine, some twenty years ago. Rev. Mark S. McKie, of Holt, Mich., came to us on Feb. 13, and began to preach Bible truth. The altar was not opened for one week because of the false conception some had as to the nature of a revival. The meetings went forward for three weeks and the last two weeks people were

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

Except a living man there is nothing more wonderful than a book—a message to us from the dead—from human souls we never saw, who lived, perhaps thousands of miles away. And yet these, in those little sheets of paper, speak to us, arouse us, terrify us, teach us, comfort us, open their hearts to us as brothers.

—Charles Kingsley.

Doctrinal Standards of Methodism. By Bishop Thomas B. Neely, D.D., LL.D.

Beginning this book with the statement that "This is an age of extremes in religious thought and of religious fluctuations in opinion," Bishop Neely takes the position that the great mass of people clings to the old biblical teachings; but that there is a lack of "clear, precise, and positive knowledge of ... the religious views ... in their own denomination."

The Methodist movement is traced from the very beginning. If one wants to know of the foundational movements of Methodism, he will find it here. If he wants to know what John Wesley taught, it is here. If information is wanted on the twenty-five Articles of Religion, chapter 14 will give it.

Chapters 5, on "John Wesley and Doctrine"; 7, on "Doctrinal Standards Among Wesley's Followers"; and 24, "Are New Standards Needed?" are worth the price of the book.

The regular price of this book is $2.00, but on a trip to New York recently our Business Manager found about a hundred copies. Since the book is out of print, he bought them so he can sell them at $1.00 each, as long as they last.

Possibilities. By James G. K. McClure.

The kernel of this book is found in chapter 8, where the author says, "Human life is crowded with possibilities, but the best and highest of them all is that we may be delivered out of all sin and guilt and made like unto God Himself in time and for eternity."

There are ten chapters; some of the most striking are, Finding, Asserting, Protecting, Developing our Possibilities, (these first four are very suggestive). The Possibility of Living Aright Anywhere, and The Possibility of a New and Blessed Life.

This is not strictly a holiness book, but is packed full of illustrative material, written in an easy, interesting style. One will find it very useful in religious work. The price is 50c.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

Henry Clay Morrison, The Man and His Message. By C. F. Wimberly, A.B., D.D.

There is perhaps no more outstanding man in the religious world today than Henry Clay Morrison. As President of Asbury College, Editor of The Pentecostal Herald, and Holiness Camp Meeting preacher, he has become known all over the United States. He is regarded almost unanimously as the leader of the Holiness Movement in this country.

In this Book Dr. Wimberly depicts the life of this veteran Holiness preacher. Anything that Wimberly writes is forceful in its simplicity. He gives a graphic picture of the little orphan boy in his early life. The chapter, "Little Bud" is touching. Some of the chapters that suggest the real value of the book are: "Tears and Triumphs," "The Preacher," "The Orator," "The Evangelist," "The College President," "The Editor."

This book is not only worth while as a memento of the "grand old man" of the Holiness Movement, but is a great inspiration to the reader. The price is $1.50—special for the clearance sale, 75c.

Turn But a Stone. By Archibald Alexander, M.A., B.D.

One of the most difficult kinds of religious work is found in dealing with children. Most of us do not know how to go about it.

Turn But a Stone is a book of sermons to children. It is written in simple conversational style. There is a directness in the appeal that makes it quite interesting. Fifty talks are given—enough for a year. The titles are very suggestive; we list some of them so you can see what the book really is: "Are You a Copperhead?" "A Galilean Burr," "God's Ice," "Clouds and Rags," "Queer Arithmetic," "The Pilot's Smile," "The Little Lamp Ahead," "Waking in the Night."

We would especially recommend this book to Pastors, Sunday School Teachers, Young People's Workers. It would also be fine to read to the children in the home at "Story Hour." The regular price is $1.60, special price for the next few weeks 60c.

THOUGH SKIES BE DARK.

John W. Jasper.

Though skies be dark and fields forlorn,
Soon there shall come a brighter day;
Soon winter's wreckage, tempest-torn,
Shall blossom into lovely May.

The wintry winds, though shrill they blow,
Must change to zephyrs of the spring;
The deadly avalanche of snow
Must to the brooklet tribute bring.

In noisome bog, 'mid fern and moss,
The lilies stand in bright array;
And we, too, if we bear the cross—
We shall be fairer far than they!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson II.—April 10, 1927.

Subject.—Peter's Lesson in Trust.—Matt. 14:22-33.

Golden Text.—Be of good cheer: be not afraid.—Matt. 14:27.

Time.—A. D. 29.

Place.—Sea of Galilee.

Introduction.—Peter's case is the case of most men who have studied the Bible and witnessed the work of God in saving people from sin. How easy it is to say "Yes; I believe the whole Bible to be true." Multitudes believe, after a fashion, that God can forgive sinners; and they even believe that he has forgiven many of their neighbors and loved ones. But when they are invited to believe for their own salvation, they seem unable to meet the conditions of saving faith. What struggles are often seen among those seeking to know God. Persons have battled all night long at this point. The writer remembers a young man who spent nearly an entire year in such agonizing prayer for pardon that his friends concluded he was fast pining away with tuberculosis, so thin did he become. Of course, there was no need for such prolonged agony; for faith in the atoning blood of Jesus Christ would have ended the struggle in a moment, as it really did when he exercised it.

Just here we diagnose Peter's trouble. No doubt he was a converted man, had believed unto salvation; but his faith failed when he tried to walk on the water. But we feel a deep sympathy for Peter, because his case is so much like ours. Yet it is true that he had every reason to trust and no reason to doubt. He had been with the Master sometime, had seen him work many miracles. In his own home he had seen him heal his mother-in-law of fever. He had been present when paralytics were restored to health, and demons were cast out. Not one time had Jesus failed. How could Peter doubt? Why did he doubt? I answer: Because the carnal nature was still alive within his soul; and yet I am almost afraid to write that for fear some one may misunderstand. Maybe I can turn some light on the matter by requesting my readers to compare Peter before Pentecost with Peter after Pentecost. Whatever happened to him in the upper room so strengthened his faith that he could say to a lame man lying at the Beautiful Gate of the temple: "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk"; and in answer to his faith the work was done instantly. Maybe an altar call is in order. Suppose we all go to the mourner's bench and make an honest confession of our unbelief, while we send up our united prayers to God for faith to preach the gospel in this wicked, unbelieving age.

Comments on the Lesson.

Events were following one another quite rapidly in the life of our Lord. Herod had John the Baptist beheaded in the prison, and his head given to the dancing daughter of Herodias. John's disciples "took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jesus." For some unrevealed reason he immediately took ship for a "desert place apart" on the opposite side of the Sea of Galilee. The reason for the sudden change of base was, perhaps, a matter of prudence and safety. But the multitudes from surrounding villages and cities discovered his retreat, and followed him on foot. After sometime tarrying with him, they were hungry, and he fed them bountifully from "five loaves and two fishes," although there "were about five thousand men, beside women and children."

22. At this juncture Jesus immediately "constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away." The language indicates that he had some difficulty in getting his disciples to go—they preferred not to leave him alone. Their destination was possibly Capernaum.

23. He went up into a mountain apart to pray.—How long he prayed we do not know; but he was there alone till evening came on. I would like to so impress my readers as to induce them to go "apart" for frequent long seasons of prayer. We are spiritually weak from lack of communion with our blessed Lord.

24. At the close of our Master's prayer, the disciples were in great trouble; for their little craft was in the midst of the sea and fearfully tossed by wind and waves; but that was nothing strange, for the Sea of Galilee is given to sudden squalls. But the disciples were not forgotten: he had his eye upon them, as he ever has it upon us in the midst of our trials and afflictions.

25. Jesus went to them "in the fourth watch of the night . . . walking on the sea"—as easy for him as walking on solid ground. The fourth watch was the last one for the night; consequently he must have been in prayer a part of the afternoon and nearly all of that night.

26. There is nothing unusual in the fright of the apostles when they thought him to be a spirit. We are just as superstitious about ghosts as they were.

27. Jesus spoke: . . . "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid."—If we could but realize it, there is no need for fear in his presence.

28. Impulsive Peter must test him: he too would tread the waves; and he succeeded beautifully until his faith broke down. One is almost sorry to hear the Master rebuke him after saving him from sinking beneath the waves; but the rebuke was worth while, because it concerns us as much as it did Peter.

29. When they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.—My little ship was once out at sea, tossed by winds and waves of sin and doubt and fear; but when he came on board there was a great calm. Blessed be his name. My heart says: "Glory! Hallelujah!"

30. No wonder they "worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God." What else could they do? It is perfectly natural for true men to worship Jesus Christ. Let Hosannas rise to him!

EVANGELISTIC AND PERSONAL.

A. D. Buck: "We wish to report of the meetings held in the tent furnished us by the Evangelical Methodist League. We held six two-weeks' meetings since last June, from which a most prosperous M. E. church was organized with a Sunday school of 80 members. A good tabernacle was built which will finally result in a splendid church. All the meetings were conducted on the old line of repentance and holiness as a second work of grace. We are looking forward to a great season the coming year. This God-given plan for spreading holiness was surely ordered of the Lord."

Fred Canaday: "I will be at the Jamestown Camp Meeting June 15-22, and am planning a trip through the East, and would be glad to hear from any one wanting a singer for revival or camp meeting. Address me, 1518 Killingsworth Ave., Portland, Ore."

W. T. Currie, 1616 West 30th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., has some operas which he would be glad to give anyone desiring evangelistic help.

Rev. Thomas B. Johnson, 2341 N. Garnet St., Philadelphia, Pa., desires a charge in or near Philadelphia and still retain his position, or a congregation which could render a little support and let him spend all his time in the Lord's work.

In the death of Dr. W. G. Nixon, Michigan lost a great leader in the Holiness Movement, and Eaton Rapids Camp Meeting Association feels the loss keenly. At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee, Rev. H. D. Skinner, of Muskegon, the Vice-President, was appointed Acting President until the Association meets at Eaton Rapids, July 28-Aug. 7. The Committee is planning for a full camp meeting program. Dr. John Paul, Rev. Bud Robinson, and Rev. Will Huff have been engaged as the preachers. Rev. Lloyd Nixon has been invited to take charge of the music, with Howard Skinner, Jr., at the piano.

E. E. Shelhamer: "This is to say that I have known Rev. W. Evans Burnett, of Lake Charles, La., for more than a score of years, and have always considered him conscientious, whole-hearted, and devoted. He and his family are fine musicians, and can certainly wake up the dead. If you need help in tent or camp meetings, give them a call, and I do not think you will be sorry."

Hitchcock M. E. Church has just closed a gracious revival. During the two weeks some forty conversions, and fifty were added to church. The pastor, Rev. J. M. Morton, was assisted by Rev. C. S. Clarke, who brought the old-time gospel that brought the people crying to God for deliverance from sin.

Dr. Samuel B. Goff and party conducted a fifteen-day Union Campaign for us, October 24 to November 7th, 1926, the Eleventh Baptist Church and the Union Methodist Episcopal Church co-operating. A successful program of visitation evangelism was put on as a special feature of the campaign. Some of our people experienced, for the first time, the inexpressible joy of soul-winning. Dr. Goff's preaching is thoroughly Scriptural and deeply Scriptural, his presentation forceful and convincing, his manner and method pleasing and at no time objectionable. Both churches co-operated with a fine spirit of loyalty and enthusiasm. The results were gratifying, and a deep appreciation for Evangelist and party will linger long in the hearts of our people.

Prof. Newton Wray: "I have known Brother O. B. Brown some years, and commend him as a minister of the Gospel with evangelistic gifts. He is an earnest preacher, presents the Gospel in a way to reach both sinners and saints, his aim being to get the former converted and the latter fully sanctified. I trust that he will have an open door to this good work."

Now arranging slate for season of 1927-28, commencing September 4, 1927. Dr. Macklem is a member of the Interdenominational Evangelistic Association of Winona Lake, Indiana, and the International Federation of Christian Workers of Siloam Springs, Ark. Address is 1807 Fulton Road, N. W., Canton, Ohio.

E. B. Spear: "I will be ready for revivalistic work after April 10. I am a local preacher of the M. E. Church, South. My greatest desire is to lead sinners to Christ. I can furnish references. My address is Falmouth, Ky."

Paul Hutchins: "We are now about to close a meeting which has been blessed of God in a very marked way. There have been an even one hundred conversions to Christ during these two and one-half weeks and with many under conviction there should be many others by the time the three weeks are finished. Our next meeting is in the Lakeside Baptist Church at Muskegon, Mich., beginning March 27. Pray for the evangelists and pastors."

Loren E. Page: "We have just closed a revival meeting in which the old-time power without the modern clatter of machinery was splendidly evident. The meeting came at the conclusion of a great Mid-Winter Institute in which the young people of all denominations took part. This spirit of fellowship and co-operation continued through the meeting. Brother Frank Doerner, Jr., rendered indispensable service in singing for us during the first twelve days. The meeting continued for two weeks more, and thirty-six souls found the Lord. Many of the leading members of the church, among the finest people we were ever privileged to work with, experienced a deeper work of grace. Rejoice with us and pray for us."

GIVE IT A SQUARE DEAL.

R. H. Bennett.

Give what a square deal? The Anti-Saloon League. Why? Let us see. The League is the bureau through which the churches do their work for temperance and prohibition. It is the church at work against the liquor traffic, as the Mission Boards are for missions and the Boards of Education for Education. It is practically a part of the organization of the churches.

Through the League the Christian forces of our land have won their great battle against the saloon. The League does not claim the entire credit, but it is very doubtful if we could have won without it. What other agency could have united the many groups of temperance workers, sometimes almost as bitter in their internecine contentions as in their war against the common foe, into one irresistible phalanx?

The lethargy that follows success has come upon us. Too many have thought the battle won and that we can now rest upon our shields. The denominational campaigns for other good causes have so filled the minds of the churches that the work of the League has suffered. The churches are not opening as freely to it as they once did, and they are not always putting the claims of the League in their budgets.

The results are apparent and will be more regrettable unless the churches awake to the situation. The support of the League is vital. In certain parts of Canada where the friends of temperance concluded that it was no longer necessary to keep up their interest in the League, the saloon has come back under the thin disguise of "light wines and beers." This should sound a blast of warning in our ears.

The enemy recognizes the value of the League. A brewer is said to have held up in a brewers' meeting an Anti-Saloon League subscription card, and said, "Here's the thing that put us out of business." The New York World, probably the leading wet paper in America, said editorially not long since that if the United States wants light wines and beer in this country they must first put the Anti-Saloon League out of commission. The World went on to tell how to put the League out of commission, viz., to close the doors and pulpits of the churches against representatives of the League, thereby cutting off its moral and financial support. Let us remember then, that when a pastor or church does not freely open to the League speakers and give them the cordial, enthusiastic backing of church and pastor, it is thereby, albeit unwittingly, playing the game of the enemy and giving strength to the illegal and desperate liquor traffic in its avowed purpose to make the enforcement of the law a hissing and a byword.

The League was never more worthy or more in need of the hearty and genuine support of Christian men and women than today. It is the one organization competent to protect the homes of America from the present onslaught, through floods of wet and false propaganda of the liquorites, whose defiant attempt to nullify the Constitution of the United States is an affront to all true patriotism and decency. In one of our wet state legislatures the wet lobbyist opposed in committee the enactment of a bill to enforce the 18th Amendment. The Chairman of the Committee said, "You do not seem to understand the situation. This is simply a bill to enforce laws already enacted and to protect that sacred document, the Constitution of the United States." With a sneer the wet lobbyist said, "Sacred document, indeed! When we get through with the Constitution of the United States it will look like a tattered rag." What is this but treason, pure and simple?

GEO. B. BURKHOLDER

Principal Bethel Academy, Wilmore, Ky.

A full four-year's High School offered. Send for bulletin.

Such has always been, such will always be the spirit of the liquor traffic. Will our pastors and people any longer permit that false sense of security to cripple their support of their great temperance leader, the League, whose educational work was the dominant influence in securing the 18th Amendment? Will they listen for a moment to the ceaseless ridicule and slander of the temperance leaders? Will they remember the 600,000 young men and women coming to voting age in America every year who need the teaching work of the League?

Says one of our great editors, "It is unthinkable that the dregs should allow these millions (of new voters who have attained their majority since the business of drunkard making was outlawed) to be deceived and mis-taught by the wet propaganda of hundreds of daily wet newspapers in this country, without awakening and getting busy again in a great and worthy way—especially through supporting and strengthening the work of the Anti-Saloon League. "To your tents, O Israel!"

Brother pastor, open your pulpit promptly and cordially to the Anti-Saloon League. And do not shut this great and vital cause to a night hour, unless that happens to be your better service. And back up your visiting speaker with strong words of your own. The ultimate protection of your own church, your country and your home is in this situation. I do not speak in my own behalf, for a somewhat wide acquaintance with our church brings to me an open door in my work. But our State Superintendents are having a difficult time. I bespeak for them a cordial welcome from our pastors. It is not easy to have to ask for a hearing and to be denied. Surely our churches can all give one service in a whole year to this cause when we consider the issues that are at stake. And where your State Superintendent cannot get over all the ground and come to you every year, cannot, will not, every church put the Anti-Saloon League in its budget for from $50 to $250 a year according to the church's ability? Brother pastor, think on this. Brother Presiding Elder, will you not ask at the Quarterly Conference about this, and suggest that the Church Committee on Temperance and Social Service be developed in its activity in this and other ways? Surely this is God's work. Let us do it.

And men and women, whom God has blessed with means, under whose eye this falls, should without hesitation send out of their tithe to the League from $100 to $1,000 a year. This is patriotism, religion and common sense. And this way lies permanent deliverance from the blight and curse of the liquor business, and victory for decency and law observance.

DEAL GENTLY.

Deal gently with the children while They're here with you today,
You hear their happy voices as
They run and romp and play;
They cheer you with their presence now,
While ere long you may miss;
So brighten up their little lives,
And give them each a kiss.
Forget not that the way is short
That we together go,
So many changes here take place
That we would wish not so;
Lest we regret, let us be sure
To clothe each word with love,
And help to point the little ones
Toward that blest Home above.
Myron Luther Eaton.

MISSAO AMERICANA, MALANJE, ANGOLA, AFRICA.

Dear Friends at Home:—
Somewhere I have heard a song about its being "Better farther on," and we have found it so each year in our missionary experience. While we have found each new year to bring its new problems, its difficulties and perhaps its disappointments, it has not failed to bring also larger opportunities for service, more conscious leading of the Holy Spirit and an unmistakable assurance that God approves and is blessing our work.

Before the rains had entirely ceased in May we put up our tabernacle and began our evangelistic campaign for the dry season. An old neglected graveyard having the only proper shade, was chosen as a site and was quite in keeping with conditions which we found in the village where once a live church had been. Pastor and people were quarreling with one another, even quarreled at the altar when called together to pray over the situation; the church building had fallen down and the members had gone into all kinds of sin. After one week without a break God conquered and the pastor arose and said, "I do not want any longer to stand in the way of my church. I want you all to know I'm going to seek the Lord." Of course his church members followed him and twenty-six of them were converted. Others from the village and campers who came in from all directions raised the number of converts to seventy.

Our next effort was at one of our main stations where the situation was very difficult, but in answer to prayer and by persistent effort on the part of ourselves and our native helpers, four hundred people sought the Lord and professed to have found him. The seeking the Lord was not by lifting the hand or signing a card, but by kneeling at the altar and confessing and repenting of their sins. While we have not been able to follow up this work personally, we hear good reports from the converts.

For our third meeting we were invited back to Quiongua, the place where we began our missionary work, and had the joy of seeing most of our school children brought back to the Lord. Many of them had wandered deep into sin, but their hearts responded and they came back to Jesus.
They felt their need of a deeper work of grace to enable them to stand, and out of the one hundred who were converted or reclaimed, about fifty consecrated themselves to God and received the Baptism of the Holy Spirit.
After a week of rest we went to another native station about twenty miles north of Malanje. Here God worked in mighty power, about one hundred being converted.

Two full weeks were spent in a Bible Conference for our native workers in the Songo and Mbangala countries, and they proved a great blessing both to them and to our own souls.

Our last camp was our own church revival for the year which has just closed. One hundred and fifty found their way to Jesus, perhaps one hundred or more of them attendants at Malanje church, and others being campers from various out-stations.

When we consider that in a single season over eight hundred have found a Savior and a hundred and fifty have received the Baptism of the Spirit, do you wonder that our hearts sing
"Praise God from whom all blessings flow?"

Yes, we are busy, but we never were so happy as now. Continue to pray for us. Most sincerely,
J. C. Wengatz.

Our line of Easter Crosses for this year is more beautiful than ever before. See description and prices on another page.

REFLECTIONS ON MY SEVENTIETH BIRTHDAY.

By The Editor.

I have been thinking of the vast procession of human beings who have marched into eternity since my first birthday. The generation living when I was born has all passed away; the strong men and women at that time have gone into eternity; not one is left. Those who were in their thirties when I was born are all dead, with possibly a few exceptions. There are very few people living more than a hundred years old. What countless millions of human beings have left the world since I came into it seventy years ago! The very thought of it fills me with solemn wonder and lifts up my heart in prayer to the great God, before whom we must all appear.

Great wars have ravished the human race since my first birthday. Our Civil War, with its tragedy of blood and waste of precious life, shook the very foundations of our republic. The fearful struggle between Germany and France, known as the Franco-Prussian war, has taken place. The Boer War between England and the Dutch settlers of South Africa has been fought. The Spanish-American War, also the titanic struggle between Russia and Japan, the war between China and Japan, the slaughter of many Indians on our western frontier called war, has been fought. The World War, with its rivers of blood and wreck of life, has startled and staggered humanity. Since the Armistice was signed at the close of the World War, there have been so many wars on a smaller scale I would not know how to name them. Poor Mexico has been drenched with devastating war. The Russians have butchered each other by countless thousands. Turkey and Greece have been at war, and now the Chinese people are in bloody strife with each other, and countless thousands of human beings are being slain in a blind frenzy of ignorant hatred. It would be impossible to calculate the human beings sacrificed upon the field of battle in this past seventy years.

Scientific inventions have been remarkable. I remember well when the Atlantic Cable was laid, and the first message flashed across the United States to Europe. I recall when the golden spike was driven when the great railroad system was completed uniting the eastern states with California. We recall our amazement and unbelief when the telephone was talked of, and we boys with tin cans and taut cord were testing the possibilities of the telephone. I remember when undersea boats were thought to be impossible, and if anybody spoke of airships they became the subject of ridicule. I recall our surprise and doubt when talk of the phonograph came into our community, and with what delight I looked upon the first tractor engine I ever saw going along the public highway pulling a number of buggies. Wonderful improvement has been made in machinery of every kind. In my childhood we used candles, then we were delighted to have oil lamps; later on, we were amazed at the

TO ALL THE HOLINESS PEOPLE EVERYWHERE.

The Commencement Exercises at Asbury College will cover May 25 to June 1. The first days of the Commencement will be devoted to a Holiness Convention and we are expecting a great gathering of the Lord's people. We especially invite those who are rejoicing in the fulness of salvation, and those who are longing to be wholly sanctified. Let much prayer be offered for the presence and blessing of the Lord at this time. Those who find you can attend this Convention will please to notify Mr. C. A. Lovejoy, Wilmore, Ky., at least two weeks before the opening of the Convention Exercises. Let The Herald family pray that the Holy Spirit may be graciously present with us.

Faithfully your brother,
H. C. Morrison.

electric lights. Perhaps nothing has contributed more to the health of the people and longevity of life than the discoveries made by medical science. The inventions of the automobile and the building of good roads have brought the people of our various states into closer fellowship, broader fraternity and better understanding of each other. They tell us that the building of the great thoroughfares has afforded an excellent opportunity for graft, and that the mortgages of homes to buy automobiles furnish a new and shorter highway to bankruptcy. There have also been wonderful improvements in the linotype and printing press.

The progress in education has been remarkable. The founding and funding of State Universities have, along with the establishment of church and independent public schools, made possible the education of the masses as never before in the history of this country, or in the world. There has been a great revival in the erection of school buildings, convenient and adaptable in arrangement, well heated, well ventilated and sanitary. In the erection of public schools the matter of art is not neglected; the cultural influence of strength and beauty is duly considered. The great railroad systems and the security of ocean travel have been a notable contribution to the development of larger life, and broader outlook for the people; there is a better and more altruistic understanding among the peoples of the earth. Even in the midst of wars there is a more kindly consideration of prisoners and the wounded.

The past seventy years in the United States have offered a great field for Christian evangelism. Vast millions have professed saving faith in Christ and united with the Protestant churches. The Methodists and Baptists have been especially zealous in carrying forward the work of personal salvation among the people. In the cities, country towns, rural districts, out on the plains, and over the mountains they have gone with the good news of salvation by faith in the crucified and risen Son of God. While this great work of aggressive evangelism has not accomplished all we could wish, there is no doubt but hosts of immortal souls have found Jesus in saving power and gone up to dwell with him in the city in the skies forever. There has been a revival of the missionary spirit. People have learned to give for the spread of the gospel, for schools, for orphans and weak and helpless humanity, as never before. Thinking on these things I have been asking myself in the reflections of the day if our nation is growing better? No doubt it has made great improvement in architecture, in roads, in schools, in inventions, in labor-saving machinery, in rapid transit, in the discovery and application of the sources in nature for the improvement of human conditions. Are men more truthful and honest than they were a half century ago? Why is the cash register necessary in every place of business? Are women more modest and discreet in their dress and conduct? Are children more obedient to parents, more respectful to teachers and the law? Are churchmembers more devout and spiritual in obedience to God's commandments and fellowship with the Holy Ghost? These are serious reflections. We doubt if any thoughtful person would answer these questions at once in the affirmative.

Looking backward and forward, I am thankful to God I was born in the year 1857, born in the United States, and in dear old Kentucky; that I grew up on the farm, that my religious life was under the influence of devout Methodists and Baptists who believed the Bible and believed in Jesus Christ as the only and all-sufficient Savior. I would much prefer to have lived these seventy years and whatever time God in his mercy may yet allow me, than to have lived the 969 years of Methuselah in the time in which he lived. I judge a man can travel more miles, see more architecture and art, read more books, touch more people, and cram more real life into ten or twenty-five years now, than one could have put into a thousand years in the days of Methuselah. I am wondering what the future has in store for the human race. There is distress of nations and unsettled state of mind in the social and religious world. Few persons, I judge, would be willing to risk their reputation as a trustworthy prophet by undertaking to prognosticate what a quarter of a century may bring forth. This we know, "the Word of God standeth sure." "His mercy endureth forever." In Jesus Christ there is a gracious and ample atonement made for sin; the Holy Ghost is a blessed comforter and guide. Heaven and eternity are ahead of us. We praise God, and take courage.

"Lord, crown our faith's endeavor
With beauty and with grace,
Till, clothed in light forever,
We see thee face to face:
A joy no language measures;
A fountain brimming o'er;
An endless flow of pleasures;
An ocean without shore."

A REVIVAL OF GOD'S GRACE.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

HE Bishop of Salisbury, England, is the sponsor for a new Revival Movement across the sea. He says, "Nothing will avail us but a revival of the spiritual life." The movement is called "The Jerusalem Chamber Fellowship of Prayer." His statement reads thus:

"The story of it is soon told. The Fellowship is the reaction of a few Christian people to the world situation. It arose out of an endeavor honestly to measure the Church's obligations in the light of that situation, and out of the sense of helplessness and failure which that endeavor laid upon our souls. What is the position? On the one hand we know that we hold in our hands the balm of the world's wounds, and the creative principle of the world's progress: that in Christ all men may find at once their ideal and the power to achieve it. But on the other hand as a matter of fact we are not preaching him: the life-giving message is not pervading the world; and we, the followers of Christ, the witnesses on whom he relies, are missing the greatest Christian opportunity in all history. The more we face the facts, the more we are conscious of our impotence, our poverty, our unreadiness for so great an emergency. Something is wanted from outside. All of us feel it. In every section of the Church, in every field of the Church's aggressive labor, there is the sense of failure, or at least of resources inadequate to the task. Let me not be misunderstood. The trouble is not that the Church is inactive: never probably has there been more evidence of vigorous life than there is today. But the output still falls altogether short of the need; relatively the tree is barren, and nothing can bring adequate fruits but the word of power from on high. We are weary of campaigns and forward movements; nothing will avail us but a revival of the spiritual life."

When the writer was a young preacher attending the sessions of the New Jersey Conference we used to have seasons of great blessing and power. Dr. George Hughes, Editor of the Guide to Holiness, looked after the Pentecostal meetings and Rev. William B. Osborn, the man who originated the first camp meeting at Vineland, N. J., distinctly under the National Association, was frequently there full of the power of the Holy Ghost. Many times have we heard Bro. Osborn tell of the great Cape May revival when holiness swept that section of New Jersey. Rev. H. J. Zelle, writing about it recently, quotes from Dr. George Hughes' description of the camp meeting at Seaville, N. J.:

"Sunday night was a memorable night. The altar was full of seekers of pardon and holiness. The woods resounding with the cries of those who were pleading at the throne, and the shouts of those who had entered into liberty. About midnight it seemed as though all heaven was aglow about us with fire, and the flame ran along the earth and melted all hearts. The scene was marvelous. . . . A Quakeress standing upon a bench, her eyes kindled with unearthly light, was prophesying; a Baptist was jumping and shouting, and a Presbyterian, amid fast flowing tears, lifting up his voice in shouts of praise. The whole assembly was wrapped in a mantle of fire . . . Blessed Holy Ghost! How sweetly, how powerfully, did he answer by first, purging, refining and moulding into a heavenly mould! A Pentecost was upon us, hearts of fire, tongues of fire.

"On Tuesday morning the people were called to the stand at an early hour for brief closing exercises. Many eyes were filled with tears and many hearts were sad that the parting hour had come. . . . Ministers and people marched around the ground,

"EVERYTHING BY PRAYER."

"Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." (Phil. 4:6).

1. The Revival of the Church—BY PRAYER.

For "we are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousness are as filthy rags, . . . and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away" (Isa. 64:6). "Turn us again, O Lord God of hosts, cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved" (Ps. 80:19). "O Lord, revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy" (Hab. 3:2). "Wilt thou not revive us again; that thy people may rejoice in thee?" (Ps. 85:6).

2. The Evangelization of the World—BY PRAYER.

Then will we "teach transgressors thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto thee" (Ps. 51:13). "O send out thy light and thy truth, . . . That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations" (Ps. 43:3; 67:2). "That the world may believe" (John 17:21). (See further 1 Tim. 2:1-6; 2 Pet. 3:8, 9; Matt. 28:19, 20; Mark 16:15; Acts 1:8; 17:30; 2 Cor. 5:14, 15; Rom. 11:25-33).

3. The Advent of the Lord—BY PRAYER.

"O that thou wouldst rend the heavens, that thou wouldst come down, . . . That the nations may tremble at thy presence" (Isa. 64:1, 2). "Even so, come, Lord Jesus" (Rev. 22:20). "Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven" (Matt. 6:9). (See further Acts 1:11; 1 John 3:2, 3; Titus 2:13, 14; Heb. 9:28; Rev. 22:7, 12).

Christ's last words before ascending to heaven commanded the world's evangelization by a spiritually quickened body of believers (Acts 1:8); and the first words that came from heaven after his ascension promised to that body of believers his sure return (Acts 1:11). Therefore the three things that seemed to lie closest to his heart, and for which because of their importance he would have the Church unceasingly to pray, were—shook hands, lifted joyous songs heavenward, and one great swell of triumph and glory covered the scene. . . . Probably not less than one hundred souls were sanctified and many converted. Depend upon it, Cape May is on fire with pure celestial fire, old-fashioned fire, such as the fathers saw, and this fire, like a great wave shall sweep over the country.

REVIVAL, EVANGELIZATION, ADVENT

"May it run until earth's corruptions are utterly consumed and the people, purged by fire, put on a new and heavenly attire! Once more to God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Ghost be glory, eternal glory! And let the whole church with Cape May say Amen and Amen."

A returned Missionary from India asked a delegate at the General Conference what had happened in America. When he was here before the churches were alive with revivals but now there were no revivals taking place as he saw it.

Well, how shall we account for the absence of the Revival in the American churches today? There are many causes. Let us name a few:

1. The present system of education is detrimental to revivals. Time was when all the big Methodist colleges used to have great awakenings, but now revivals are a thing of the past. When has Garrett, Drew, Boston, DePauw, Wesleyan, Ohio, and others had a revival in which sinners were converted, backsliders reclaimed and believers sanctified? It would be looked upon as an intrusion, as "old fogeyism", to attempt to precipitate a revival of grace in the big Methodist schools today. Evolution has come in and the revival has gone out. Modernism takes the place of evangelism. The present course of education is committed to gradualism and socialism—let me use another word—Unitarianism. It is salvation by character, transformation by Religious Education. Sin is regarded as an obsolete doctrine and conversion by God's grace is almost unknown.

2. Our Sunday school make up and literature is deadly to revivalism. There is a good deal of prattle about evangelism, but it is by the process of education not by way of the mourner's bench. In one of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School "Helps" of some time ago, A. L. Ryan said, "There are two ways to become Christians: one is over the pathway of sin through the valley of repentance and conversion. This is the only road for the person who has rebelled against the Father's will. The other is to grow up into a religious experience through such religious training that one will never be conscious of having left the Father's household."

The same "Help" has this on sin. "Can it be that his soul is evil because of sins committed by ancestors ages ago? There was a time when people believed that; but today nobody accepts such dreadful teaching." This is nothing but an absolute and blatant repudiation of the old Methodist doctrine of depravity.

The average Sunday school using official literature is bound to believe loosely because Unitarianism is spread all over the teachings, and then the average Sunday school is worldly and who is to blame? We cut this out of the Journal for August, 1926, page 502, recently. The writer says: "If you go to the movies this week try to remember just what feelings the picture arouses and come to Sunday school prepared to tell about it."

Imagine Sunday morning in Sunday school the scholars telling about what they saw at the insinuating, vile, blood-thrilling and soul-destroying movies! Preachers have a poor chance to defeat the movies when this kind of stuff is spread all over the land in our Sunday school literature. Touching the movies, let me insert here something Bob Shuler has to say about Will Hays, a Presbyterian Elder who, for a big salary sponsors the movies and protects them. Bob says:

"For several years a man, known throughout the entire nation, a public character of tremendous political power, has been an Elder in the Presbyterian Church. A few years ago, he accepted a position with the movie barons and unfortunately, for his church at least, he connected himself with the most corrupt and viciously immoral part of the movie industry. He was thought to be accepting this post so as to cleanse the movies of the filth that had made their reputation stenchful throughout the world. On the other hand, it was soon discovered that he was really employed by these movie magnates as a kind of buffer or shock absorber. It was his duty to stand between these producers and the public, especially the church going public, and ward off so far as possible the indignant protest and rebellious attitude of genuinely decent people, when they came to consider the character of pictures that were shown our sons and daughters.

"Elder Will Hays has recently journeyed to Los Angeles where he has exhorted the people not to judge harshly Charles Spencer Chaplin. This trip recalls his apologetic efforts to restore the standing of 'Fatty' Arbuckle and his repeated efforts to stay the criticism that the indignant public has proclaimed against numerous actors and actresses whose immorality has been smelling for years to high heaven. On this trip, Mr. Hays had the gall to announce that there has not been a movie scandal among the celebrities since he undertook the task of being the moral director of the movies. Bosh!

"Will Hays, in coming out publicly and openly in defense of Charlie Chaplin, has insulted the virtuous sensibilities of every Christian woman in America. Think of an Elder in the Presbyterian Church 'going to the bat' for a scamp who runs as if a ton of bull dogs were chasing him, the moment his wife gets ready to file her complaint against him and make it a part of the court records."

3. Another detriment to the Revival is that preachers are not trained now to hold Revivals.

It used to be that preachers (especially Methodist preachers) held their own revivals; now the young man entering the ministry too often is trained adversely to revivalism. Finney talked to the ministers of his time very frankly and told them they were wrongly trained and their Calvinism killed the revival spirit. Nowadays Unitarianism throughout Protestantism is killing off the spirit of evangelism.

4. Another reason why Revivals are so difficult that the sin question is ignored and calling sinners to repentance in the big churches is a lost art. A great many evangelists are flattering to human vanity and cater to carnality instead of going on for its destruction. What shall we do to help on the Revival in our age?

Let there be more pungent, plain, powerful preaching of the great doctrines of grace. Hudson, in his "Methodist Armor," has put as the chief doctrines of Methodism the following:

1. Universal Redemption.
 2. Repentance.
 3. Justification by Faith.
 4. Regeneration.
 5. Witness of the Spirit.
 6. Holiness.
 7. Possibility of final apostasy.
2. Let the preachers and the people "weep between the porch and the altar."
3. Let holiness unto the Lord be placed again upon our banners.

ENEMIES OF THE SOUL.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

NUMBER I.

HE human soul is God's masterpiece; it is the crowning achievement of his omnipotent handiwork. We wish to say in the very beginning that God created the soul, and when he did so, pronounced it good—the soul did not come to itself by growth processes. The soul is the most beautiful thing God ever created, and I am not forgetting the blush of the rose or the blazing glories of the sunset. The soul has power to transform into the beautiful, faces and lives that were once vile and ugly. A soul filled with angry, hateful passions can become radiant and beautiful when touched by the regenerating power of the Divine Spirit. Faces as beautiful as a Greek goddess may become distorted and ugly. The soul can be hardened, enlightened, refined, debased, or made sweet and tender; it may become the habitation of an angel or a devil. The soul is God's masterpiece. It is the most valuable thing God has ever made, and because of this fact, has more enemies than anything else in all creation. It is the choice things that are in danger; it is the beautiful girl that must run the gauntlet of every lecherous eye on the street. The instinct of birds and beasts and fishes warn them of approaching enemies, but the soul with all of its superior powers, seems to have no appreciation of its enemies. This is absolutely true, until it becomes awakened and illuminated by the guiding Spirit of God. The soul may scarcely know of enemies until the awakening comes. Our best friends may give us the worst advice for the interests of the soul; our own loved ones may be our worst advisers of things pertaining to the soul's welfare. Dealing with soul enemies is the biggest problem of human life.

There are enemies of the soul, and their name is Legion, but all of them are mobilized under three great Major Generals—The World, Flesh and the Devil. In our familiar speech, we have listed the world as taking front rank—as a Generalissimo commanding the soul enemies. We believe the World should take first rank—there is a reason; multitudes become slaves to the clamor and passions of the flesh; but the human will can master these sensuous powers. The will is capable of imperial rulership of the body. Then, the Bible tells us, that if we resist the Devil he will flee from us—for a season. But not so with the World.

What do we mean by the world? Not the beautiful outdoors; but it is that subtle, intangible influence we feel all about us, ever on our hands. Its terrific pull never lets up. We may fight and battle it from one angle, but it has a thousand marches and counter-marches, flank movements and shifts for vantage ground. It is the spirit, the standards, the ideals, the methods operating in all life about—the deceit and veneer of social life; the humbuggery of political patriotism, the double dealing of law enforcement, the dog-like scramble for commercial supremacy, and the jealousies and rivalry in all professions, and such often obtain in the ministry of God's church. These things acting among us day and night—God calls the World, and it will never let up until we reach the "winding sheet."

We cannot overestimate this line of discussion. Hear what God says about the world; "Know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? Whosoever, therefore, is a friend of the world is an enemy of God." Jas. 4:4.

Our souls are in continual danger from the subtle, insidious attacks of the world. Hear this exhortation and promise: "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life in the midst of the paradise of God." We must therefore gird ourselves for the battle, greater than Waterloo, Gettysburg, or the Marne.

We wish to study some of the most common approaches of this astute soul enemy. First, he meets men and women of convictions—preachers of the Gospel who fear God more than they fear official boards or ecclesiastical bosses—office holders, who believe that a public office is a public trust and propose to do their sworn duty. To all such, the world comes with its big stick, with threat, and brow-beating demands, with bulldoze, and boycott. Oh, how the world rages and roars in the person of some church, political, or social autocrat, demanding that such procedure stop, such preaching, such law enforcement, such social standards will not be tolerated. Under such pressure, any soul but that of the martyr will give down. The world will never bother the hireling in the pulpit, or in public office; the preacher who plays to the galleries, and the policeman who, like the Victrola Dog, listens to his master's voice, will have no trouble from the world.

But, if the soul-spirit remains, "head bloody but unbowed," and unafraid, the world backs off and comes from another angle. Failing with the big stick, it comes with soft soap, with flattery, and blarney; when it cannot beat us off by fear, it buys off with boodle, the Absalom smile and handshake, or the kiss of Judas Iscariot. Where one can stand the big stick of persecution, ten will go down under flattery. Brag on a man's intellect and he surrenders very quickly; tell a woman how exquisitely beautiful she is, and you touch the vulnerable spot in the armor. There is a subtle power in flattery not to be found anywhere else. Much of the tragedy of human life is not the result of viciousness, but weakness. Men and women are seduced in a thousand ways; they become victims, not because they want to go wrong, but because of the subtle wiles of stronger personalities, and the power of bribery. But, if we are able to withstand the flattering appeals of the world, and remain true as the needle to the pole, the world approaches from another angle and finds susceptible vantage ground.

We notice next that this enemy binds the multitudes with chains of slavery, and brings us in subjection to an autocrat of society. It is a natural weakness for the spectacular, the dress parade, the furbelows, and the empty tinsel of adornments. The goddess of fashion rules with a rod of iron and like the winged moths about the candle, we are willing to sacrifice all to be regular in our adornments, according to the ipsi dixit of a Mr., or Mrs. Somebody not known to be anywhere, but are everywhere giving out standards that are as unchangeable as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and often extremely cruel, working hardships upon those who are unable to bear the burdens. There is an impersonal THEY somewhere behind the scene, and this "they" must be obeyed to the letter in dress, in customs, in standards; it is the rulership of the world.

If we can stand under this pressure—and few can—the attack is renewed in what we might call, giving away under pressure, and lowering our standards and ideals and conduct. The dam begins a leak, when a stone is washed out, the pressure continues until the dam gives away, then the deluge and destruction. The Johnstown catastrophe happened just this way. We have the appetites and propensities dammed up by convictions; but the world presses, presses, presses, at last we weaken, and little by little, give away to the eternal pressure, and in the end moral and spiritual shipwreck.

There is a long list of approaches that time forbids more than a mention—the pleasures of the world, the public opinion of the world, the amusements of the world, the business and political standards of the world. But we shall mention but two more. The sorrows of the world play a big part in the drama of life. How many broken hearts we touch in daily intercourse. The burdens are more than they can carry. The soul fades and withers away; but allow me to say, my dear ones, there is a place under the pavilion of God's grace, where we can find shelter for our troubled, aching souls in the darkest hour. "I will be with him in trouble," says God; when the heavens are brass, and life is floundering in the dark, "God will be our refuge and strength, a very present help in time of need." If we have sorrows, there is balm in Gilead, to be found near the Cross.

Now, in conclusion, we mention the master world stroke for the defeat of the soul—the wrongs of the world. Just what cold steel is to the quivering heart; just what a biting frost is to the tender petals of the rose, so are the wrongs we suffer. Think of placing confidence in someone—business or heart trust; then find ourselves betrayed, bruised, crushed, ruined, or heart-broken. There are no deeper waters, or more chilly, than to face a grievous wrong and be conscious of our innocence. To be lied about, slandered, robbed, all because you believed and trusted. All the powers of darkness combined cannot place upon a struggling soul a heavier burden, and unless the spirit of Jesus is incarnated within our souls, the spirit of him who prayed, "Father, forgive them," we can never rise above the wrongs of the world.

The HERALD PULPIT

SPIRITUAL PREPAREDNESS.

Rev. P. P. Bewley.

Text: "Prepare to meet thy God."—Amos 4:12.

IN things secular the idea of preparedness is well observed. The great steamship companies observe it by equipping their vessels with lifeboats and life-preservers; so that, if the ship sinks, the passengers may be saved. The railway companies observe it by placing a chest of tools in the coaches of each passenger train; so that, if the train is wrecked, the passengers may escape. Thoughtful citizens carry insurance upon their property; not so much because they expect their property to be destroyed; but because the possibility of its destruction creates a risk which they cannot afford to incur. Yet notwithstanding this concern in their temporal affairs, men are careless or utterly indifferent in regard to their eternal interests. Only the fact of total depravity can account for such an anomaly.

In things spiritual the necessity for preparedness is very manifest. There is a God in heaven and man must meet him. The existence of God is clearly seen from the existence of all things. To look across the starry way and behold the rolling worlds, the blazing suns, the shooting meteors, and the traveling comets, is to see evidences that God is. Out yonder in space ninety-three million miles away hangs a sun which is a million times the size of this world. It pours forth energy continuously at the rate of one hundred and forty thousand horse-power per square yard of its surface. It radiates an amount of heat every hour sufficient to melt a cake of ice covering it entirely four thousand feet thick. Tongues of fire leap out from it eighty thousand miles, one flame of which would melt the earth. It attracts no less than eight great worlds, ranging in size from Mercury, which is the smallest, to Jupiter, which is a thousand times the size of this earth. These at given periods turn upon their axes, swing completely around the sun, and in connection with the sun, speed on somewhere through eternal space. They tell us that our own world travels at the rate of more than one and a half million miles per day. Yet notwithstanding this great velocity there is not a jar and the whole thing is imperceptible to the unaided eye. Surely "the heavens declare the glory of God," and only "the fool hath said in his heart there is no God."

The law of the land can reach across the nation, apprehend the criminal, and arraign him to be tried; but with a thousand times greater certainty will God at the appointed time bring man into his immediate presence to face his life's record. Man may stay away from Gospel services, avoid contact with ministers and spiritual people; he may refuse to read the Bible, and resist the Holy Spirit; but all this does not change the great fact that one day he must meet God. And the condition in which man meets God determines his eternal destiny. Whether he shines in the courts of God forever or whether he wails in hell eternally is contingent upon the attitude of his mind and state of his heart when he leaves this world.

Man should prepare to meet God because of the commandment. If within all the vast reach of mental research no other reason could be assigned, showing why man should prepare to meet God, the bare fact that Jehovah has so declared should be sufficient. The sheer force of such a majestic charge should so stir the dignity of genuine manhood that all right thinking persons would at once arise in faith and make that state of heart preparation essential to meet the Creator in peace.

Man should prepare to meet God because safety demands it. "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" A man contemplating a building program first sits down and counts the cost; lest he have insufficient funds to complete the structure and those who pass by make light of the attempt. Before a king with a small army goes to war with a king having a greater army he considers whether he will be able to defeat and overcome the opposing king with the stronger force. If he decides that he is not equal to the task, he sends an ambassador and requests conditions of peace. How much more should man consider whether he is able to carry to a successful consummation the life that he now lives and whether he can afford in his present spiritual condition to meet God in Judgment. If he is not in such a proper state of soul, then the voice of reason, the demand of safety, and all that is good and great indicate the necessity for a change in the heart and life of man.

Man should prepare to meet God because of the value of the soul. "What shall it profit a man," says Christ, "if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Hear it, ye who seek ease, crave wealth, and love the world, the Lord says what shall it profit you! Think of this world with its beautiful streams like lakes of liquid silver, its vast stretches of prairie covered with costly cattle, its towering mountains filled with valuable ores, its stocks and bonds, silver and gold; yet Christ declares that one soul is of more value than the whole. Such matchless worth should drive saints to their closets for intercession and sinners to their knees in repentance.

Man should prepare to meet God because of the plight of the lost. "The smoke of their torment ascendeth up forever and ever; and they have no rest day nor night." No man that believes the Bible can read such language and not be impressed that hell is an awful reality. Its existence is as sure as the word of God! Its duration spans the immeasurable sweep of great eternity! And its prisoners are without number! If it should please God to reveal it to man in his present sphere of existence, the blackened clouds of sulphuric smoke would rise before his very eyes, as a memorial to its certainty; its unspeakable pandemonium would fall like the roar of a mighty cataract on his now deafened ears; the wails of damned souls forever lost would rise in thunderous acclaim to the truth of God's word. Oh man, don't go there! Its horrors should deter thee; the palm-bearing millions of heaven's glorified hosts beckon thee; Jesus Christ in infinite mercy pleads with thee; prepare to meet thy God.

Man should prepare to meet God now. "Now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation."

Life is uncertain. Speaking of the uncertainty of life, the Bible declares it "is even a vapor that appeareth for a little time, then vanisheth away." In this mundane sphere death is a tragic reality. Millions of individuals already have working upon their bodies the ravages of disease that will take them out of the world, unless something else intervenes to take them out more quickly. We are here today; tomorrow we are gone. The place that knows us now will soon know us no more forever. Though young and apparently in good health, before the sun again sheds its golden rays across the rock-ribbed hills of the East your body may lie cold and silent in death. The funeral wreath that hangs on the door, the solemn tones of the church bell, the unpleasant aspect of the open grave, the mute silence of the granite tomb all unite their testimonies in eloquent acclaim of the brevity and uncertainty of life.

The coming of Christ is imminent. We cannot here expatiate upon the subject, but suffice it to say that the condition of the world and the state of the church point to the fact that "the coming of the Lord draweth nigh." As far as we can see the Scriptures are sufficiently fulfilled for Christ to return any time; and we would not dare to risk being unprepared to meet him a single hour, lest he come and appoint us our portion with the hypocrites and the damned.

The Holy Spirit will not always strive. Psychological research has demonstrated the importance of seeking God early in life. Observations have shown that the majority of Christian people have been converted before leaving their teens. Only two percent of those who live to be twenty-three years of age without being converted ever get saved. Only one in fifteen thousand of those who live to be sixty-five without turning to God ever do so. By rejecting God's proffered mercy the heart becomes so hardened against God and the mind so insensible to the reception of truth that it is next to impossible for

Is Evolution An Established Fact?

Dr. A. P. Gouthey.

OR a number of years now we have been hearing it said in our class-rooms and from our platform as well as reading in the daily papers and various magazines, that evolution is an established fact. Where this is not stated plainly it is assumed and taught as though it were a fact.

Some of us have waited patiently for the evolutionists to bring forward their strong reasons, and now we feel that the facts are sufficiently in to warrant us in having our say. I therefore take occasion to raise the question: "Is Evolution an Established Fact?"

In order that we may proceed intelligently it is necessary at the outset to have several well defined definitions. First, of Science itself. What is science? For this definition I shall go to one of the greatest living champions of the theory of evolution—Mr. Henry Fairfield Osborn—and by so doing I hope to escape the accusation of choosing or manufacturing a statement to my own liking.

Mr. Osborn says Science is "the body of well-ascertained and verified facts and laws of nature. It is clearly to be distinguished from the mass of theories, hypotheses and opinions which are of value in the progress of science." (The Origin and Evolution of Life). In other words, Science is fact established by sure evidence. Everything this side of fact established by evidence is philosophical speculation. This of course is an accurate, comprehensive definition. That Mr. Osborn often forgets and forsakes his definition in his anxiety to establish his pet theory I shall proceed to show later, but the definition is nevertheless accurate.

Second, we must have a definition of evolution. For this definition I shall also go to the evolutionists themselves. In finding this definition we must keep clearly in mind the difference between evolution (as the word is commonly used) and development. For instance: I heard an educator talk about the evolution of the automobile. Beginning with one cylinder, he said, the automobile has been evolved to its present state. This is not evolution; it is development. And I may add: if this is a fair sample of this gentleman's accuracy in teaching it is a crime to pay him a salary out of tax money gathered from the people who support our public school system! But to the authorities for our definition of evolution.

LeConte says evolution is "Continuous progressive change, according to certain laws, by means of resident forces." (Evolution and Its Relation to Religious Thought). In other words evolution is a universal progressive movement from the simple to the complex according to certain fixed laws by means of resident forces. Let us keep this definition in mind for I shall show directly that it would be a perfectly good definition but for two reasons: First, it is not so, and second, it does not work!

Widely separated from this definition is one furnished by Mr. Darwin in which he makes room for the Creator to account for the origin of life to the extent of one or a few simple forms. (Origin of Species). Mr. Darwin insists finally of course that life once formed had in itself inherent power to push itself out and up from the simple to the complex. And by the way, the brethren who hesitate to be known as Darwinian evolutionists, but who would like to be known as Theistic evolutionists will find themselves a bit embarrassed by the definition. Whether they like it or not Darwin is the great leader and champion of their cause! And since Darwin was led into darkness and despair by his own speculations one would suppose that these ministerial brethren would think twice before accepting even a fragment of a theory which bore such deadly fruit in the life of its leader, and has cursed tens of thousands since!

Haeckel swings back to the materialistic position of LeConte by saying "the best definition of evolution is the non-miraculous origin and progress of the Universe," concluding very wisely that "if the Creator is admitted at any one point he may as well be admitted all along the line."

Huxley shares Haeckel's thought and so states in his "Anatomy of Invertebrated Animals." He says: "If the hypothesis of evolution is true, living matter must have originated from non-living matter."

Prof. Lull (Prof. of Biology, Yale) in his "Evolution of The Earth," quotes Woodruff as saying: "So far as human observation and experimentation go, no form of life arises except from pre-existing life."

Now comes Henry Fairfield Osborn saying "the question (of life) is one which has not been answered by science" and there you have it. The greatest champions of the evolution hypothesis, both dead and alive, have never gotten far enough along to formulate a definition on which there is general agreement say nothing of working out a theory which will stand the test of scientific demonstration.

In view of this fact one wonders at all this evolution talk on the part of otherwise intelligent men. But for the sake of studying the matter on out through we must accept these definitions for what they are worth, remembering that whatever definition is accepted the results will be the same. If any of these theories of causation are correct certain definite things may be discovered and proven. Indeed certain things must be discovered and proven—none of which, I may add, have been, or are known to be, in process of being proven.

I mention several of these things.

1. The Origin of the Universe.
2. The Origin of Life.
3. The Origin of Conscious Life.
4. The Origin of destructive types and forms of Life
5. How Life Moves from the simple to the Complex.

In the next article I shall discuss these propositions sufficiently to show that science knows very little about any of them, and what little is known does not in any sense establish the doctrine of either Naturalistic, Organic, Creative or Theistic Evolution. Indeed, all the evidence in hand tends to overthrow rather than establish them.

Evangelistic Sermons on Faith and Life.

The above heading may be fittingly applied to "The Christ of the Gospels," Dr. Morrison's recent book. It is filled with messages that warm the heart, stimulate faith, and inspire one to holy living. There are ten of Dr. Morrison's most thrilling and effective sermons in this book, sermons that have brought multitudes to Christ as he has delivered them in revival and camp meetings. The labor and thought that have been put into these ten sermons cannot be estimated, but they are for you to have at the remarkably trivial price of ten cents each, or the ten sermons for $1.00. I am sure hundreds of our readers will want this book for their own spiritual benefit, and for those who may be fortunate enough to borrow it from their neighbors. This book holds up the Christ of the Gospels as the one and all-sufficient Savior of a sin-torn race, who through faith in his atoning sacrifice, may be made every whit whole. Don't fail to order this book, keep it on your reading table, and when the tempter comes prowling around take a peep at "The Christ of the Gospels" who will speedily deliver you. "Thou, O Christ, art all I want; more than all, in Thee I find."

The Pentecostal Publishing Co., can furnish you this book for $1.00 postpaid.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

Dr. Morrison's Sermon to be Broadcasted, April 17.

Dr. Morrison's sermon will be broadcasted Sunday evening, 8 P. M., Central Time, April 17, from Westport Methodist Church, South, 40th & Washington Sts., Kansas City, Mo., Rev. W. A. Tetley, pastor. The broadcasting will be over Station WHB. The Sweeney Automotive and Electrical School of Kansas City, Mo., 365.6 meters.

We have had inquiries as to having Dr. Morrison's sermons broadcasted and this will give his friends an opportunity to hear him Easter Sunday evening if they will "listen in."

Notice.

We are having so many calls for tent meetings that we wish to advise those who desire a group of workers for meetings to communicate with Rev. Z. T. Johnson, 523 South First St., Louisville, Ky., at once and he will put you in touch with the workers who will be in your section of the country. We shall have our tents and workers in almost every section of the United States and it will facilitate matters, if you desire a meeting, to let Mr. Johnson know and he will forward your letter to the group who will hold meetings in your part of the country, and they can get in touch with you.

We are deeply grateful to the Lord who is so signally blessing this League work. It is amazing how it is growing and how eager the multitudes are for the full, unadulterated gospel. Help us with your faith and prayers to enter the neglected fields where the gospel is rarely preached.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

A Black Cat and the Devil.

A black cat hid herself among some flowers
And there remained in quietness for hours,
Concealed from view of people passing by
And birds with piercingly detective eye.
While walking by that lawn I saw an act—
A tragedy well planned and worked in fact—
So real in life, so true in every way,
I want to post a signal here today.
Upon that lawn a flock of black birds fed,
And sang and played—they had no fear nor dread.

Not dead, but still as death, that old sly cat,
Whose eyes were trained on many a moving rat,
Awaited opportunity, which came—

Then quick as thought she jumped and had her game!

Six screams were given by that fated bird,
Each fainter grew until no more were heard!
That bird was dead—its voice forever hushed—

Its little form by long sharp teeth was crushed!

I know he'll kick but I will tell the truth—
The devil in that cat, concealed from youth,
Thus hides himself in many forms these days
Along the path of life, designed, always,
To catch and to destroy our boys and girls,
Completely, soul and body, for two worlds!
Some of his hiding places are—beware—
The Dance, Profanity and Booze—he's there!
And also in the Love of Ease and Gain,
And Selfishness and Jealousy—how plain!
The unsuspecting see the flowers, fair,
But not the hiding demon waiting there!
O, soul! There's danger all along the way!
But with our Christ we're safe from day to day!

The Opponents of Prohibition Are Working Day and Night to Defeat the Volstead Act and The 18th Amendment

Rev. Andrew Johnson.

I have in my possession a pamphlet sent out by William H. Stayton, founder and National Chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. It expresses the animus and aims of the wets. It ought to be an eye-opener to many of the dries who are apparently asleep in regard to the enemies of the Constitution and the cause of prohibition. The devil has been mad ever since the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted. Forty or more different motley organizations are mobilizing, demoralizing and doing their utmost to bring back light wines and beer and finally the full contents of all the alcoholic drinks in the days of the open saloon. Nicholas Murray Butler, the president of Columbia University, made the statement the other day that the 18th Amendment was enacted in violence, is being maintained in violence and executed in violence. From his presidential throne he positively pronounces prohibition as a species of insanity. Senator Borah, of Idaho, has challenged him to carry the question before the next National Convention of the Republican Party. So the fight is on.

Hon. William G. McAdoo fired a broadside into the ranks of the nullifiers of the Constitution in his recent Ohio speech. The writer sat in the gallery of the United States Senate a day or so after McAdoo's speech was heralded over the country through the Press, and heard a number of Senators discuss the question. One of the Senators from New York pictured Al Smith as a near-saint in the enforcement of all dry measures. One of the Senators from Maryland criticized Mr. McAdoo's speech, while a Senator from Utah defended the official record of McAdoo as Secretary of the Treasury during the war period.

We might as well prepare for the battle. The faithful army of the W. C. T. U. recently held a great convention at Washington, D. C. They implored the public press to cease flouting Prohibition. Some of the big daily papers are as mad as a March hare and are doing all they can to bring reproach upon the 18th Amendment of the Constitution. They are fast becoming the official organs of nullification and general anarchy. When a big daily gets off the track it can miss the Lincoln highway of righteousness farther than anything in the world. It can do an immense amount of harm, and becomes a real menace to civilization. It would be a good thing if there were some means to muzzle these dogmatic journals and dangerous instruments of disloyalty.

But we started out to give the readers of THE HERALD some of the rank propaganda that this anti-prohibition organization is sending broadcast over the country. We trust that all the friends of prohibition may redouble their diligence. The Chairman of the Association Against Prohibition says that he has just had, in Washington, the most important conference he has ever had on the subject of prohibition. He sums up the things in his favor. Let us quote his own words: "And please note what a favorable time this is for us.

1. "The prohibition experiment has been tried and has hideously failed." This is one of the lies of liquorism. For the experiment, he terms it, has not as yet been fully and faithfully tried. The enforcement, for the most part, has been in the hands of the enemies of prohibition instead of the friends of the cause. Then prohibition, handicapped the way it has been, from the very first, has been a wonderful success all things considered.

2. "There is everywhere an outcry against the crime and corruption which accompany Volsteadism."

Think of this statement! It is almost the limit. The idea of charging crime and corruption to the Volstead act. The crime and corruption accompany the very opposite of the Volstead act.

3. "Everywhere, too, men and women who have hopefully—or even approvingly—watched the experiment, admit the failure." We emphatically deny this statement. The term, "Everywhere," which Mr. Stayton uses, covers quite a lot of territory. There are millions of people in the bounds of this broad field of "Everywhere" who do not admit that Prohibition has been a failure. Everybody knows that it has not absolutely prohibited. But this is far from saying that the "experiment" has been a failure. The Ten Commandments are not absolutely enforced. Shall we on that account start an Anti-Ten Commandment organization to modify or repeal the moral code and the Mosaic act? There is no law in the world which is absolutely enforced. Is this, then, a sound and sufficient reason for doing away with all law? The present widespread disregard for law and authority is evidently one of the characteristic signs of the last days.

4. Again Stayton says: "The public press, particularly in its editorial columns, emphasizes the need for change." What kind of change? The word "change" is used in a two-fold sense. The American people cannot afford to take their standard of ethics from the editorial columns of wet newspapers. To do so would be to sell out "lock, stock and barrel" to the devil and be done with it. We have not as yet reached that fearful stage in the general demoralization of the times. There is still a goodly portion of the daily press that has not become disloyal to the Constitution of the United States.

5. The fifth item mentioned by Mr. Stayton reads: "The people groan under burdensome taxes. Our plans guarantee them relief. Canada makes an impressive demonstration." This is an example of unmitigated gall. If prohibition is defeated and the old-time saloon is reinstated (which will eventually be the case if light wines and beer are permitted by a modification of the Volstead act) then the people will groan under the burden of taxes sure enough. The wets do not seem to remember that during the "good old days of the open saloon" there was more money spent for intoxicating drinks than for food, education and clothing combined; that for every one dollar of internal revenue collected Uncle Sam paid out sixteen for pauperism and the prosecution of crime. The liquor business hurt every legitimate business in the world, except, possibly, in the one single case of the undertaker. It is the very height of folly for the anti-evolutionists to stand forth at this late day and promise sweet relief and sunny deliverance for all those who groan beneath the heavy burden of taxes. Is it not wonderful that the liquor business which has caused so many groans down through the centuries has at last come forth with the palliating and panacea promise to deliver the people from their griefs and groans? If the regime of Stayton and his staunch followers be adopted it will add a thousand groans instead of relieving the groans of the tax-burdened public. The groans in question are those represented by the wets who are groaning and bemoaning under the galling yoke of defeat. They might as well exchange their groans for grins and "grin and bear it."

6. "The Washington administration," says Stayton, "has admitted the inefficiency and failure of the dries, and it dismissed the old Prohibition unit in disgrace."

Who composes the Washington administration? The wets? Who is it that is doing all this admitting? According to Stayton we ought to speak of the Washington administration instead of the administration. The trouble is that the so-called Prohibition Unit was not a unit on the question. We cannot trust the wets to pass a dry law, neither can we trust them to enforce a dry law after it is passed. They can pass the bottle and "pass the buck" but they are no good when it comes to passing a dry law with the necessary enforcement clause added.

7. "The Anti-Saloon League is out of favor. The council of churches has repudiated the League and its faked statistics." This is the most unkindest cut of all, as Shakespeare would say. The Anti-Saloon League was never in favor with the devil and the wets. It always had their disfavor. The Anti-Saloon League is still in favor with those who are one hundred percent dry and absolutely loyal to the Constitution of the United States. How does that stick with Stayton?

As to the Council of Churches, who constitutes it? A few of the higher critics and modernists of New York City. It no more represents the churches of America than Stayton and his wet followers represent the American republic.

8. Now hear the final point in Mr. Stayton's remarks on the "favorable time for us." "Altogether, it is evident that we can elect a Congress favorable to the modification of the Volstead law provided that we receive adequate support from the country's citizens." This is very illuminating and enlightening! We can elect anything if we receive adequate support of the country's citizens. That is some tremendous proviso. Stayton goes on to say: "Bear in mind that it is not necessary to amend the Constitution to get back beer and light wines. The Volstead law may be repealed merely by a majority vote of Congress. We are not facing a hopeless task." He is doing his utmost to inspire hope in the ranks of the Anti-prohibitionists. They will need hope as well as hops in order to get back beer and light wines. If the dry people will only remember that "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and that we must keep an eye on the candidates for Congress from time to time and always vote for a candidate who stands foursquare for prohibition, we can increase the "groans" of Mr. Stayton and the modificationists and nullificationists.

"Political leaders," says Stayton, "see all this, and the most astute among them are already moving over to what is obviously fast becoming the popular side. To take advantage of all this, we must have more organization and better organization. Experts must be employed to go into nearly a hundred congressional districts and do the necessary work." It is true they will need better organization to effect all they plan. The most "astute" politicians are moving to the popular side, according to Stayton. It is up to us to make some of these politicians not only move to the other side, but to move outside and give room for competent dry statesmen on the inside.

In view of all these things, as prohibitionists and defenders of the Constitution and friends of civic righteousness we must buckle on the sword, close ranks, pray much, vote right, load our gospel guns and watch for the white of the enemies' eyes. We must stand by the W. C. T. U. and all the organized movements favorable to the enforcement law and maintenance of the Constitution of the United States.

Rev. Lovick Pierce Law, one of the general evangelists of the Methodist Church, South, and a most excellent and lovable minister of the gospel, whose ministry has been greatly blessed of the Lord, has just brought out a book with the title, "Heart Talks." These are pithy, pointed sermons, full of punch and suggestion that Bro. Law has given in his morning messages in his revival meetings. Price, $1.50.

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

REVIVAL IN WILMORE.

Monday night saw the close of another blessed awakening in Wilmore and Asbury College. Rev. J. A. Glenn and his excellent helpmate were with us for sixteen days, beginning Feb. 6. They are a mighty team and do thorough work. Beginning at the bottom round of revival truths the preacher led our thought through the various steps up to the glorious blessing of entire sanctification. Under the masterly presentation of the truths of repentance, judgment, the loss of the soul and consecration for holiness we were forced to take stock. Many who had back-tracked were reclaimed, a large number were converted and another splendid group came into the blessing of full salvation. It was a time of groans, tears and shouts of victory.

Our church at Wilmore is large and we have a large altar space, but there were times when we had three full rows of earnest seekers, splendid young men and women from all over the United States, students in Asbury College and the Academy, and others, earnestly seeking the Lord for pardon, reclamation or sanctification. The large group of earnest workers in the College and community stayed with the mourners until victory came to each one, often till after midnight.

In closing, I want to say that Bro. Glenn, a presiding elder for eleven years in the South Georgia Conference, has given himself entirely to the evangelistic field and will do thorough and lasting work wherever he goes. I commend him and his wife to any who desire efficient evangelistic leadership. Mrs. Glenn is a cultured woman with several college and university degrees and was for five years a national field worker with the Young Women's Christian Association in our colleges. After she was sanctified she spent five years in China as a missionary. She is a gifted laborer with women and girls.

O. C. SeEVERS, Pastor.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.

My last meeting was with the Second Church of the Nazarene at Cleveland, Ohio, which was organized some six or seven months ago. The number of unsaved people that attended the services made it impossible to have a great revival, but it was a good and profitable meeting. A number sought the Lord, among whom was a Catholic family; some were received into the membership of the church; and $700 was pledged toward a church site. The church remunerated me well for my services and expressed a desire for me to return. Pastor E. W. Payne and his good wife are doing splendid work.

Mrs. Esther Williamson, Head of the Voice Department in the Cleveland Bible Institute, and her students rendered valuable assistance in the music, and the writer spoke once to the student body at chapel service.

On our way home we stopped and preached two nights for the Church of the Nazarene at Galion, Ohio, of which Rev. W. V. Sharp is pastor. We had a good time and seekers both nights. We hope to be with them in a tent meeting next summer. While at home we preached one night for Dr. J. E. Shannon, Pastor of the U. B. Church, and had one seeker for the "second-blessing."

We have just started a meeting near Otisville, Mich. We have some open dates for camps next summer. Those desiring our services may communicate with me at my home address, 1529 W. Nelson St., Marion, Ind. P. P. Belew.

TWO FINE REVIVALS.

During a revival meeting at old Shilo Church, near Norris City, Ill., Jan. 27, 1911, the writer was definitely called to the ministry. May 4, 1911, at Eldorado, Ill., with thirteen other young men, I received my local preacher's license. May 7, I attempted to preach my first time. Up to this writing I have preached 1,888 times. In September, 1911, I was admitted to the Annual Conference, thence to McKendree College where I spent eight years in the Academy and College serving student appointments all the time. Since 1919 I have given my whole time as a resident pastor. While I am writing this article my heart is burning for a lost world. Pray for me, reader.

We came to our present pastorate Oct. 2, 1926. October 17 we began a revival at Billet, the outer point on this charge. It closed Nov. 14, with 25 conversions, 2 sanctifications and 15 accessions to the church. We have baptized 20 from this church, and the end is not yet. At our second quarterly meeting, Feb. 11, the class leader in charge of the cottage prayer meeting said that the average attendance at the Tuesday night meetings was 45 for the quarter. Last Tuesday night they had 81 at their cottage prayer meeting and had room enough to shout. The pastor attends their Thursday night prayer meeting at the church where they have over 100 in attendance. They have Sunday night prayer meeting at the church also.

The big revival we referred to was held in St. Francisville, Ill., Dec. 31 to Feb. 6. The first week was Win-my-Chum-week with the young people of the Epworth League. Great crowds filled the church through the 38 days of meetings. Local help was all we had except the singer. Evangelist Frank Doerner, of Norris City, Ill., came to us Jan. 19 and stayed to Feb. 3. He is fine. Any pastor needing a singer will make no mistake to call this man of God.

Wonderful harmony prevailed throughout the meeting—amongst all the different religious bodies of the town—Methodists, Free Methodists, United Brethren, Christian, Pentecost, Church of God and Catholics. Bad weather, ball games nor movies stopped the crowds. The attendance ran from 200 to 700. We had all the pastors and local preachers preaching.

Children's Meetings.

The Sunshine Booster Band of 100 children surely did well their part. Their meetings were held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 4 P. M. and Saturday at 2 P. M. They sang each Sunday night. Some wonderful conversions took place among these children, 8 to 15 years of age; 30 minutes before the service each night these children met in the front of the church for prayer.

At the close of the meeting there had been 100 converted, 15 sanctified, 50 uniting with the M. E. Church and several uniting with the other churches of the town and the end is not yet. People are being saved in their homes. We are baptizing and taking people in at every service. The older men and women had their places for prayer before the service each night. Prayer is the indispensable factor for a revival. The people of the Christian Church are in a revival here now.

Thos. E. Harper.

GAINESBORO, VIRGINIA.

No doubt some of the readers of The Pentecostal Herald will be glad to know that we have had a wonderful revival here at Gainesboro and that God met with his people and gave a gracious refreshing.

Rev. Leroy Lee Banks, father of the pastor, did all the preaching. He is a member of the Virginia Conference, and has been holding up the standard of full salvation for nearly forty years. God marvelously used him in this meeting, and through his fearless and uncompromising standard, a mighty work was done here that will ever live. The meeting continued from Jan. 25 until Feb. 3. The people attended well despite the bad roads and rough weather and in both morning and evening services, we had fine crowds.

From the first service God manifested himself in power. The people were hungry for the gospel, and drank in at the fountain. The whole theme of the meeting was the emphasizing of prayer. Though the singing was good, and though the Gospel was preached with power, the success came through prayer and nothing else. By the holding on to God in persevering prayer souls were born in the Kingdom.

Some thirty-five knelt at the altar and found God in a definite way. Some were reclaimed but the most met God for the first time. The last night of the meeting twenty-seven united with the church and others to follow. A real work was done here in this community and from a dead church has sprung a church which is on fire for God. A prayer meeting was organized which has and will mean a great blessing in keeping the spiritual atmosphere at a glowing point.

We give all the praise to God. Pray for us as we begin another meeting together in March. God surely answers prayer. John T. Banks, Pastor.

REPORT FROM F. D. SWANSON, EVANGELIST.

My first meeting of this year was in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Lenexa, Kan. The date was Jan. 2-23. Rev. G. H. Keeler is the splendid pastor of that church. It was a real delight to work with such a man of God. It means so much to have a pastor that will stand by the evangelist when he is preaching on sin. I was entertained in the parsonage during the meeting, and enjoyed many hours of real fellowship with the good pastor and his wife, as we prayed and labored together. The Lord gave us a pretty good meeting, that is, as far as we could see. The Lord helped in the preaching of his Word, and we are leaving the results with him. There were a number converted, and a few sanctified wholly. Bro. Keeler has an up-to-date church building, and some loyal folks to stand by him. There were several members added to the church. They remembered the evangelist with a good offering, and some of the good women of the church, who had been helped by the meeting, sent a letter of thanks to my wife, thanking her for letting her husband come to Kansas for the meeting. A club of ten subscribers for The Herald was secured.

The next meeting was at Robinson, Kan., Jan. 24-Feb. 13. This meeting was in the United Brethren in Christ (Old Constitution) of which Rev. W. P. Hughes is the efficient pastor. During this meeting the pastors of the other churches in town co-operated with us. Bro. Greene, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Brother Holt, pastor of the United Brethren Church. These good brethren dismissed their Sunday evening service and worshipped with us. Our attendance was good. There was much interest manifested, and much good done. The blessing of the Lord was on the services. There were several converted and some sanctified wholly. The meeting was a blessing to a number of the Christian people. Rev. Anna B. Reis, a noted evangelist and song writer, and a member of the church where the meeting was held, was with us and rendered valuable service. I was very kindly entertained in the parsonage, and the people remembered me with a good offering. What a delight it is to preach the unspeakable riches of Christ!

I am now in a meeting in the Church of Christ in Christian Union at Zanesville, Ohio. The services are being well attended, and the Lord is blessing the preaching of his word. Rev. M. H. Russel, the man who held the meeting in which Sergeant Alvin C. York was saved, is the good pastor of this church. There have been several saved and some entirely sanctified. A full report of this meeting will follow later. I have a few open dates for this summer and fall, and am willing to go where the Lord leads in revival meetings. Home address, Wilmore, Ky.

REPORT.

My first four meetings for the year were practically in new churches, but not weak ones. Ottawa, Ill., has been organized a little over a year and has taken in over eighty members. They sure have a live wire pastor, Bro. McPherson. We had twenty and thirty at the altar at every service until the big snow came, which surpassed anything that I have ever seen. The last Sunday cleared up and we had a great day, taking a fine class into the church.

Without a loss of a day we came over to Frankfort, Ind., and began in the beautiful new brick church with Bro. Fortress. This is Bro. Fortress' first work in the Nazarene Church and he sure is a godly man. We had seekers at every call from six to twenty. No doubt Frankfort will some day be one of our strongest churches.

Our next meeting was at New Castle, Pa., with Bro. Rowe. They have a nice new tabernacle church and practically every seat was taken the first night and the fire was falling. It is wonderful what God hath wrought in New Castle in a short time. Bro. Rowe is a young man; he sure is a hustler and things must move around where he is. They said it was the best meeting they had ever had. I am sure it was a good one. I came to Alliance, Ohio. I held the first meeting in their new church less than a year ago. The meeting had been going for four or five days with Bro. I. N. Toole. The Lord had wonderfully blessed them and they had some remarkable cases of salvation. The Lord continued to bless throughout the meeting, the long altar and chairs across the front were filled many times. This church has had some jolts, but Alliance is a good town and no doubt this will soon be a strong church. They have some very fine people. Their pastor, Bro. Johnson, is a godly man and a very strong preacher. In three of these meetings we took in a very fine class of members.

TAMINGFU, CHIHLI, CHINA.

I am sure you will rejoice with us over the mighty Holy Ghost revival God is sending over this field. For over two months this wonderful work has been going on, and this is only the beginning of what God is going to do. The revival started in the Men's Bible Training School and quickly spread to the Women's Bible Training School, then to the boys and girls' primary schools, later to the Outstations and now has reached most of the main stations. The missionary from Kuang Ping Fu writes, "Seems surely like something miraculous has happened to the Chinese Church here. Many went down in deep penitence confessing many wrongs without urging them, seeming only too glad to get the things off their hearts. After praying through they went out and brought others in and prayed with them." Another missionary writes from Chai Cheng Hsien, "Since the teachers and scholars came over from the Bible Training School at Tamingfu we have been having revivals. Things finally broke loose and we have never seen anything like it since coming to China. Almost the entire church has been at the altar. Many confessions have been made and we will never be the same again. There were practically none here who had a real heart experience. We are on the 'Sunrise of a new day' in the history of the Chinese Church here. I never dreamed that the Lord could do so much for the Chinese. I have limited God right along by my lack of faith for a meeting of this type. Oh, if God will ever forgive me, I will preach his gospel in a different way from now on. Our workers have confessed a great many things, but I am sure a number have not reached the bottom yet." The revival has also meant a deep humbling of us missionaries before God and the Chinese. We had not been living up to what we had been professing all the time. It has been a time of real heart searching for us, but God has given us the victory and we now find it a pleasure to pray from seven to nine hours a day. We have discovered that we can do more through intercession than in any other way, and the Lord is honoring our prayers. We believe, and have been praying to that effect, that God wants to send Holy Ghost revivals to all the missions in China. We believe his coming is near and that God wants to arouse the Church from her death-like stupor of spiritual decay. He wants his bride to get ready for his appearing. The revival here is spreading to other Missions. God is wonderfully blessing our Mennonite Mission friends here, both Chinese and foreigners and thus the good work goes on.

My Three-score and Tenth Anniversary.

IN this morning of my 70th birthday, I am praising God for the countless blessings he has given me through three score and ten years. Looking backward, I feel that many times his prevenient grace has come to me upon the very verge of what might have been disastrous to all of peace, happiness and usefulness. How little we know what God's mercies have kept us from, what a debt of gratitude we owe to him for the restraining influences of the Holy Spirit, the snares set for us of which we knew nothing, but his infinite mercy so guided our feet that we were protected from countless dangers and evils, of which we were not aware.

Looking backward, I call to memory a number of times in my life when it seemed I was hemmed in on every side, under the weight of crushing burdens, with no possible way of escape, and I cried to the Lord, the burdens were lifted, the mountains were tunneled, and apparent defeat was turned into victory, and he led me on in ways of peace I had not known, nor could have known, but for his compassionate leadership.

There have been several distinct crises in my life when my health, my life, my entire future seemed to be involved so that human help was impossible, and Jesus Christ has appeared to me, so full of compassionate love, so gloriously beautiful, such a wonderful Savior that my midnight was instantly turned into high noon, my soul flooded with peace, my whole body and mind refreshed with new vigor and abounding life and courage to press on in the battle for what I believed with all my heart, to be the thing so dear to God, and so needful to mankind. These gracious manifestations have not only brought me immediate help in time of great need, but they have confirmed and settled my faith in the truth of the holy Scriptures, the Godhead of Jesus Christ, his atoning death, his resurrection and his present, personal, gracious ministrations among men.

I am profoundly thankful that I grew up in a God-fearing community. The preachers that I heard proclaim the gospel when I was a boy, believed the Bible; they worshipped God and preached to the people about their sins, the wickedness and danger of rebellion against God and the violation of his laws. Under their ministry I was deeply convicted; I saw and felt the turpitude of my sins, and my great need of a Savior. I was an earnest seeker for three days and nights. I prayed, and plead promised. I was almost in despair at a Methodist altar when an old Baptist deacon came to me, took me in his arms, and with a few simple words, told me of the love of God, and his gift of Christ to save my soul. I was enabled to trust in Jesus; salvation came instant as a flash of lightning, and with a brightness of midday sunshine without a cloud. I leaped, shouted, shook hands, embraced the boys, went up into the pulpit and exhorted sinners to come to Jesus. O, it was wonderful what the Lord did for my soul that night in old Boyd's Creek Methodist Church, in Barren County, Ky., near the city of Glasgow, the county seat. That was fifty-six years ago last Christmas time.

Looking backward, I have profound regrets over stumblings, mistakes and, sad to say, sometimes, sins. When the Lord converted me he did not fix me so I could not sin, but he fixed me so I could have no pleasure in sin; I could not sin and keep any peace; when I sinned sorrow smote me, agony came into my soul, and I must needs make haste to a place of repentance and prayer and cling to his promise of mercy until I knew that my backslidings were healed and I was restored to comfort and peace in the Lord Jesus.

I cannot remember the exact date of my sanctification; it has been about thirty-eight years ago. I had not given that subject serious thought; there was considerable agitation over the Holiness Movement. I had been taught by the enemies of this gracious experience that those who professed sanctification claimed to have entered an experience where it was impossible to be tempted, to commit sin, or to grow in grace, because they had fully attained all the possibilities of grace in this life. Of course, I could not accept any such teaching. Realizing that I was in great need of a deeper and more abiding experience, I said but little against the doctrine, or any of those who claimed the experience. Brother Grinstead, a faithful and earnest preacher in the Kentucky Conference, claimed to have been wholly sanctified, as a second, distinct, work of grace. He was so zealous, such a remarkable preacher, had such a fruitful ministry, was so courageous in his preaching against wickedness of every kind, and had such a loving heart, that it made my soul hungry to be in his presence. I did not understand the theory of doctrine, but I did believe that he was a holy man, and I did wish that I might know within my own heart the secret of his holy zeal and constant joy. He prayed for me for several years, and wherever I met him he assured me that he was holding me up to our Lord for "the fulness of the blessing."

Horace Cockrill, a young minister in our Conference, born and raised at Irvine, Ky., studied law and was admitted to the bar in Frankfort; was then powerfully converted, went to Vanderbilt University, came back and joined the Kentucky Conference about the time I returned from Vanderbilt and we became devoted friends. He got to reading "Wesley's Plain Account of Christian Perfection," and urged me to do the same. Cockrill received the blessing with gracious power. He was on horseback, Saturday afternoon, in the neighborhood of the church where he was to preach Sunday morning, when the Holy Ghost fell upon him. He wrote me at once of the wonders of perfect love, of the marvelous indwelling of the Comforter. We had much fellowship together. I remember once we were walking along the river bank, and I asked him to explain to me the difference in his experience since he had received "the blessing." He said, "Morrison, in my justified state, there was quite a bit of up and down, revival and receding. I was always watching to keep my experience; since being sanctified, the gracious indwelling of the Holy Spirit keeps me in perfect peace all the time."

Ah, that was gracious! He set my heart hungering. I longed to have what I saw he had. We were in constant correspondence. I was stationed in the Highlands, now Fort Thomas. I was boarding with old Brother Taliaferro, father of Rev. Thomas Taliaferro who licensed me to preach. Rev. Joseph Young, then stationed at Winchester, was assisting me in a protracted meeting when I received a letter from Brother Cockrill which, under the blessing of the Spirit, was a center shot. All doubts and fears were cleared away, and that afternoon in my room the Holy Ghost came upon me in sanctifying power. Twice afterward, I lost the witness of the experience, but prayed back into the fulness of the blessing. I may give these experiences more in detail in the chapters of my Autobiography.

One of the most important events of my life was when I felt as strongly impressed to undertake to establish and publish a religious paper, as I had felt the call to preach. I believed then, and believe now, this undertaking was ordered of the Lord. Along with this, came the call into the evangelistic work, then the call to the evangelistic tour of the world; then the call of my brethren to the presidency of Asbury College; thus the years have been full of toil, of burdens, confronted with strong opposition, and many things have tried my soul; but God has been patient with my weaknesses, and gracious and merciful in his guidance, and I look back today over the past years of conflict with gratitude to him that my poor words cannot express. My soul is in great peace. I am rejoicing in the love of Christ and the comfort of the Holy Ghost.

Some years ago, I made up my mind that if I should live to be seventy years of age, I would retire from active service. I have a little home in the country near Louisville; I had planned to live there, to cultivate a garden, have a Jersey cow, to hoe and tend the vegetables, to rest in the shade, to read my Bible and good books, to invite the preachers to come to see me, to give them fried chicken and have some fellowship together. But my seventieth birthday has come and I find that preaching is most delightful, the need is great, the people are hungering for the gospel, and there is no question in my mind with regard to my duty; so long as the Lord may give me strength I shall go on preaching.

I am writing this testimony in Orlando, Fla., at the opening of the holiness camp meeting. From here I go for a few days to Asbury College, then a revival meeting with my beloved brother, Rev. Fred Jones, in the Methodist Church, Harrodsburg, Ky.; then to Rev. Tetley in Kansas City, Mo., then to Brother James Upchurch in a Holiness Convention with Brother Bud Robinson, Arlington, Texas., then for a few days of revival at Beaumont, Tex., with Brother Vance, then to the Holiness Convention and Commencement of Asbury College, then with Brother Tom Maitland in a tent meeting, Argonia, Kan., then for a tent meeting in Winfield, Kan., then with Bro. Sam Maitland in a tent meeting at New Castle, Pa., then to the camp meeting, Sebring, Ohio, then the camp at Wilmore, Ky., then to dear old Indian Spring camp, then with Brother Butler at Gaines, Mich., camp, then to the Kentucky Conference, London, Ky., then for three months of meetings in California. Pray with me, that God may give me health and a very special and gracious manifestation of the Holy Spirit for this glorious task lying out before me.

I hope to devote much time to evangelistic work in the State of Kentucky. If God spares my life I have a great desire to assist in gathering a large loan fund for students in the Theological Seminary in Asbury College, and to preach full salvation to a hundred thousand people in old Kentucky. I would be glad to give the most of the next three or four years to revival work in Kentucky, and if I am spared, I want to take six months of rest, by and by, and visit Jerusalem, and look over Palestine. I also have an earnest desire to help establish on a permanent basis the tent campaign work of The Evangelical Methodist League, that I pray may bring the gospel of full salvation to millions of hungry hearts.

How well I know that nothing is so uncertain as life; nothing so certain as death, but above it all, there is the glorious certainty of the inspiration of the Scriptures, of the compassionate love of God, of full redemption in the precious blood of the Lord Jesus Christ. What matters, if his will is wrought in us, his purpose is wrought with us, and whether it be soon or years to come, if he bring us home to heaven in peace, all is well forever.

the Holy Spirit to make an impression upon the obdurate nature. The fact is there is a decreasing probability that you will never be saved after today. Oh sinner, reject God no longer, lest you seal your doom forever! Turn in contrition and prepare to meet thy God!

Two things are included in preparedness—regeneration and sanctification. "Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded." Sin is twofold in its nature and must have a twofold remedy. For an individual merely to cleanse his hands from transgressions is not sufficient; his nature also must be purified by the baptism with the Holy Ghost and fire. God purposes not only to blot out the guilty past, but also to sanctify the soul and prepare man for a victorious future. Others may assume whatever attitude they please; but as for me, "let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

Florida Holiness Camp Meeting.

THIS year the Florida Camp Meeting covered March 10 to 20. It was held in the outskirts of Orlando, Fla., a city of about thirty thousand population, and one of the most beautiful little cities to be found on the continent. It is a great winter resort for tourists. No better place could be found anywhere in all the southland for a great camp meeting than somewhere in the vicinity of Orlando and Winter Park, which is also a most beautiful little city, with a number of fine hotels crowded to their capacity with tourists.

The workers at the camp meeting this winter were Dr. John Paul, President of Taylor University, and the writer, doing the preaching. Dr. Blackburn, presiding elder of the Orlando District, attended many of the services and preached a most excellent sermon. Bishop Dobbs was engaged to preach the first Sabbath morning but was detained by sickness. Bishop Dobbs, because of his remarkably fine Christian and brotherly spirit, has become a great favorite with Florida Methodists.

Prof. W. B. Yates was engaged for the singing, but was kept away by serious illness, which we regret to say, seems to be protracted and has made it necessary for him to cancel many of his dates. Prof. C. P. Gossett came by and was employed to lead the singing. The choir was unusually large and well reinforced by an orchestra of some ten people, led by Rev. Lily, pastor of the Methodist Church at Abbeville, Ga. He is a man of skill on the cornet and a fine trainer of church musicians. The Mackey Sisters sang before each preaching service, and their work was highly appreciated by the people. Their songs were an inspiration, and their Christian spirit so modest, unassuming and devout, that they made a host of friends. Rev. E. C. Wills, of Wilmore, Ky., had charge of the morning prayer meetings, and was a faithful worker in the altar.

Brother C. W. Ruth had been engaged to assist in the preaching, but was detained in California by ill health, which we trust is not of a serious character. Quite a number of ministers attended the meeting from various sections of the country, assisted in the altar services and were a great help to the good work. I must mention Rev. D. F. Brooks, of New York State, who is spending his first winter in Florida. He gave several of his interesting and instructive Bible readings from his Greek Testament, which were highly appreciated. Dr. Brooks is in his eighty-third year, is in excellent physical condition, with a very alert intellect and a most beautiful spirit. Everybody fell in love with him. I have known the Doctor for many years, but I never saw him so bright and happy as he is now. His presence is a means of grace.

Rev. G. D. Reeves, whom I met the first time in Sparta, Tenn., twenty-seven years ago, was present. He had long felt the call to preach but had hesitated. In that meeting he was graciously sanctified, at once entered the ministry, and for more than a quarter of a century has been graciously blessed in leading sinners to Christ and believers into the experience of perfect love. He is now in his 83rd year, is in excellent health and his shining face and joyful testimony are an inspiration to all who meet with and hear him.

Rev. A. D. Buck, one of the managers, is a big Pennsylvania Dutchman standing something over six feet tall, and broad as a yardstick, who has been in the evangelistic work for many years, has led multitudes of souls from sin to Christ and helped an army of Christians into Canaan land, and through the years has had enough of remarkable experiences in his fruitful labors to make a large and most interesting book. Brother Buck was on the ground and all over it looking after the needs of the people and shouting the battle on. His wife is a remarkable woman, herself a wonderful evangelist, working in the audience, bringing many to the altar and playing a trombone with great skill in the camp meeting orchestra.

There was an interesting missionary service held on Friday afternoon which was participated in by Rev. Hogle, of the National Holiness Association, and Rev. Adams, who has been associated with the Oriental Missionary Society for some years, but is now home on furlough. Drs. Morrison and Paul gave interesting talks of their observations while in the Orient. The service closed with a special song, "Speak, my Lord," rendered most feelingly by the Mackey Sisters.

The camp meeting was pitched near Highland Park Methodist Church, of which Rev. H. H. McAfee is pastor, who is also president of the Camp Meeting Association. He and his good wife turned over the parsonage to the workers and visitors. Two people never worked more earnestly and cheerfully for the success of a meeting, and they were greatly blessed in their souls and in their family. Their son, a very unusual man who has a call to the ministry, was powerfully sanctified, and is to enter Asbury College next fall.

I wish I could name all of the members of the Board, but I find memory fails me at this point. Several new members were elected on the Board; among the old ones are Brothers Moody, Trimble, Bartlett, Reeder, Stevens, Osborn, and other men, tried and true, with genuine zeal for the spread of holiness in Florida.

On Sabbath morning a few minutes investigation proved that people were present from more than two-thirds of the states in the union, all the way from Maine to Texas, and Virginia to Kansas. There is not a finer place on the continent than Central Florida for a great international Holiness Camp Meeting. The tourists from all the northern, central and most of the southern states, with many from the far west, come into Florida by the tens of thousands every winter, and a large number of them delight to attend this camp meeting.

A year ago the brethren bought a large tract of land which proved too expensive, and not conveniently located for the people to attend. They have surrendered this tract and are on the lookout for fifteen or twenty acres of land accessible to population, railroads and thoroughfares. Several offers have been made them and they are hoping in the not distant future to secure a good location, build dormitories, dining room, and cottages so they will be able to give comfortable entertainment to all who may wish to attend.

This camp meeting organization is only fifteen months old, and they have already held three camps in which many souls have been blessed. At the recent encampment there were not less than 150 earnest seekers at the altar, all of whom prayed through to victory. The last day of the camp was marked with a large attendance, liberal giving for the support of the meetings and the power of God manifested in the salvation of souls. The large crowd, full altars, the sobs and tears of penitents and shouts of victory were positive proof that the days of camp meetings have not passed, and that people are hungry for full salvation. Arrangements are being made for larger accommodations and a greater camp meeting next March. The management is full of faith and hope for the future of this great work. May the Lord bless and guide those who have its management in charge. H. C. MORRISON.

Now, my soul, thou canst look up with adoring gladness! Accepting this great gift of the Father's love, trusting in him as God's way of salvation, thou canst venture to rejoice—Mark Guy Pearse.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little girl from Michigan join your happy band of boys and girls? I live in town. I am eight years old and in the third grade in school. I go to the M. E. Sunday school every Sunday. My teacher's name is Mrs. Anderson. I enjoy reading page ten. My father takes The Herald. My birthday is Sept. 29. Have I a twin? I have a sister by the name of Ruth. This is the first time I have written. I would like to see this in print.

Alice E. Olson.
Guelph, N. Dak.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little girl from Michigan join your happy band of boys and girls? My mother has taken The Herald for four years and I have enjoyed reading page ten. I have one sister and three brothers. I am nine years old; my birthday is Sept. 7. Have I a twin? If so, I will write you a nice letter. I am in the fourth grade. I have fair complexion. I go to Sunday school every Sunday.

Violet M. Brockway.
Box 204, Morley, Mich.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Please let me join your happy band of boys and girls. I read all of the cousins' letters and enjoy them so well that I am going to write one myself. This is my first letter to The Herald and I hope it will be in print. I am fourteen years old and I go to school. My teacher's name is Jane Head. I have light brown hair and brown eyes and light complexion. I am four feet, four inches tall and weigh 108½ pounds. I will answer all the boys and girls' letters who wish to write to me. I go to Sunday school and can repeat some of the Psalms. I hope I will learn the other before school is out. How did Judas betray Christ? How long was Saul blind? How long did the children eat manna? Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

Willie Mae Gentry.
428 Oak St., Springfield, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I join your happy band of boys and girls? I am a little Tennessee girl nine years old. I like to go to school. My teacher's name is Miss Thelma Glover. My birthday is May 28. I have a dog for a pet, named Buster. I have a little bantam hen and rooster. I have eight dolls and a doll crib. I am the youngest one of the family. I like to read page ten. My daddy loves The Herald. My sister-in-law takes The Herald. I have six brothers and nine sisters. Daddy and mother are still living. I have brown hair, brown eyes, medium complexion. Who found Moses in the bulrushes? Who spoke to Moses in the burning bush? I hope to see my letter in print as I want to surprise my mother and daddy. There are five churches in our town. I go to the Nazarene Church and Sunday school.

428 Oak St., Springfield, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: This makes the second time I have written to The Herald and I enjoy reading it. I love to read the Children's Page. I know how happy they are. I have read all of the letters in The Herald tonight. I will answer every letter that is written to me. I have received three letters from my cousins. Their names are Eleanor Wickstrom, William C. McGinnis, and Lawrence M. Bird. That is all that I received and I want others to write to me. I will try to answer. Well, Aunt Bettie, I have to write some more letters tonight so I will quit.

Wanda Monroe.
Rt. 21, Rolla, Kansas.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you please have the cousins move over just a little till I can get a seat for a few minutes? I have been a reader of The Herald for four or five years and I think it is grand. Although I have not written you before, I enjoy reading your letters very much. I wonder what is wrong with every one in Fayette county? I never do see a letter from this county. Wake up, people, and let's get busy. I have not lived in Fayette very long, but know there are some good people here. My husband is pastor on Western charge in Charleston district, and we live near Kingston. I wonder what has become of R. L. Metcalf and family? If they should see this please write to me. Well, for fear Mr. Wastebasket gets this I will stop right here and if I see this in print I will come again sometime. With lots of love for you all,

Mrs. Walter Morton.
Box 104, Kingston, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you permit a girl from Minnesota to join your great circle? This is my first letter to The Herald so hope to see it in print. My mother takes The Herald. I am twelve years old and am in the seventh grade. I have a sister named Martha, who is eleven years old and is in the sixth grade. I live on a farm. It is about five miles to our church. It is the Holy Methodist Church. Because of the long distance we can never get to Sunday school, but can get to church, so must be satisfied. I love to go to church to hear God's word for it is a great blessing. I am trying to live a life for Jesus. I love to receive letters, also to answer them, so I want all the boys and girls to write to me, please, for I shall answer all letters I get. Who can guess my middle name? It begins with M. and ends with E, and has five letters in it. I am sending a poem.

The Bible.

In this book so old and holy,
I would read and read again,
How our Lord was once so lowly
Yet without a spot or stain.
How his pity never failing,
On the sick was sure to flow,
How the poor, the blind, the erring,
Were his brethren here below.
With rejoicing hearts and grateful,
Let us read and still read on;
How he was so true and faithful;
How he loved us everyone.
May God bless you all.

Eleanor M. Wickstrom.

Dear Aunt Bettie: As I did not see my first letter in print I thought I would write again. I do not see many letters from Illinois. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. My teacher is Mr. Charles Essary. I like him fine; he has been the teacher of my class for over a year. I am in the 5th grade. I have black, bobbed hair, brown eyes, dark complexion. I am eleven years old and weigh 96½ pounds. I am 49 inches tall. I hope Mr. W. B. is out cutting wood.

Grace Wheeler.
Dale, Illinois.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little girl from Illinois join your happy band of boys and girls? My mother takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. My mother teaches my class and I like her fine. She has been the teacher of my class for about five or six years. I have one brother and one sister. I am eleven years old and am in the fifth grade. I hope Mr. W. B. is asleep when this arrives. Has anybody my birthday, April 26? If they have I would like to hear from them.

Edna Kittinger.
Box 144, Dale, Ill.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Can you and the cousins move over and let a Georgia girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I would be thankful if you would as this is my first letter to The Herald. I am fourteen years of age, have brown hair, (bobbed), brown eyes, light complexion and am five feet, six inches tall. I stay with my grandparents on the farm and we take The Herald. I certainly enjoy reading page ten, for when I start, I read them all. My birthday is May 26, who is my twin? I go to Sunday school and church every Sunday. Our preacher's name is Brother Thompson, my Sunday school teacher's name is Mrs. P. F. Phillips. She is ill now but hope she will soon recover. How many of our boys and girls are Christians? We certainly ought to live right, cousins, for Christ is coming some day and perhaps if we are saved we will get a great reward. Let our boys and girls be Christians and let our page be a page that everyone will enjoy reading. My middle name begins with B and ends in E, and has eight letters in it; anyone who guesses it will receive a card from me. Hoping to hear from some of the cousins, and hoping Mr. W. B. is riding in his auto, I will close.

Bernice R. Glaze.
Vadalia, Ga.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you please allow an old-time invalid to hobble in and say a few words to the dear happy band of Christians who are marching on to glory? I am still on my humble bed of affliction, in a strange country without friends to cheer us in our last dark days on earth. We thank the Lord that we are still permitted to live and be able to read the good old Pentecostal Herald, and to know of so many dear ones who are traveling the straight and narrow path that leads to life everlasting. God bless you, dear Aunt Bettie, for sending us The Pentecostal Herald. Your old brother,

A. McClintock.
Childress, Tex.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I saw my letter in print and I thought I would write again. Well, I guess you cousins want to know how I look, so I will describe myself. I have light hair, blue eyes, fair complexion. Have I a twin? My age is between eight and twelve. I am in the fifth grade at school. I have been taking music for almost three years. I appreciated the birthday cards the cousins sent me. I will write to the cousins who can guess my age, whether I have a twin or not.

Mary Katherine Thompson.
Sadieville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Please, may I be admitted to page ten? Thanks, that was so nice of you to admit a little girl like me to page ten. I am between nine and fourteen years of age. Who can guess my age? I have fair complexion and light brown (bobbed) hair. I live in the country on a farm and like it very much. How many of you cousins like to go to Sunday school? I surely do like to attend every Sunday that I am able. Cousins, write to me. Oh, I hear Mr. W. B. I must be going.

Lorena Helton.
Rt. 2, Rockholds, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am going to drop you a few lines to let you know that a North Dakota boy wants to join your happy band of boys and girls. My father has taken The Pentecostal Herald for some time, but I didn't know there were so many good things in it for boys and girls until I began to read page ten. I am glad to say there is a paper that all boys and girls should read. I think that it keeps boys and girls from going to worldly things that lead children from their Savior. I hope to see my letter in print.

Arthur Pugh.
Braddock, N. D.

Dear Aunt Bettie: What are you and all the cousins doing? I am a country girl, weigh 89 pounds, have fair complexion and brown hair and am twelve years of age. My birthday is Dec. 23rd. Have I a twin? If so, please write to me. How many of you cousins like to go to school? I do, but my school is out and I am a bit lonesome. So I would like to hear from any of you cousins and I will gladly answer.

Daisy Helton.
Rt. 2, Rockholds, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I think your page is simply wonderful. I love to read one of your letters. Well, praise the Lord, I'm not going to praise self in this letter like I did in my first one. I'm a little bit like Clarence Daily. Well, any way, I want to tell you that God is the most wonderful of all things. Oh, how wonderful it is to know what mercy God is having on the sinners of today. And oh, sinners, when your friends pass you by, when you think you have no friend, just stop a moment, think what Jesus died on the cross for. He died that the sinner might be saved. There's only one regret you have when you're saved, and that is that you didn't heed his call sooner. Every one ought to be praising God for life. It's just

FALLEN ASLEEP

SMITH.

John R. Smith, who has been a subscriber of The Herald for sometime, has passed away. He was a great lover of The Herald; he would talk to others about it and want them to read it. He was born June 28, 1859, and departed this life Feb. 1, 1927. He leaves a wife, three daughters, fifteen grandchildren, and many relatives and friends to mourn their loss. I feel that our loss is his gain. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and loved to be in an old-time revival. I've heard him witness so many times to what the Lord had done for him, and what he was to him. He said he would be better off, but we do miss him so much. The Lord's will be done, not ours. He was laid to rest at Palmyra, his old home church. His daughter, Mrs. Hattie Meadows.

FOWLER.

Green Valley Church and community have suffered a loss in the going home of Mrs. M. A. Fowler. Our loss is Heaven's gain. Mrs. Fowler united with the Congregational Methodist Church at Green Valley many years ago, and ever since has been an enthusiastic worker in the service of her Lord.

Cheerful, loving service has been the keynote of her life. She has left behind, besides her children and grandchildren, the Ladies' Aid, of which she was a loyal member. Even with her aged, weak body she attended the last meeting that was held before her death. Though the parting is sad, we feel that we have been honored to know that God has looked over our circle of friends and selected one whom we feel was so well fitted for the home beyond. In her going the community at large has lost a devoted friend. She was a Christian lady and held in the very highest esteem by both white and black. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family, especially Miss Cora, who has cared for her so patiently for many years, and who will miss her most.

SIMPSON.

O. C. Simpson was born at Vilonia, Ark., May, 1866. He was married to Mary Ann Latimer, to which union five children were born, one having died in infancy. The other four have grown to mature years, and are left to mourn his loss. His first wife was taken to her eternal home many years ago. March 3, 1902, he was married to Dora Gray, also of Vilonia; to this union four children were born. He died February 13, 1927. He is survived by his wife and eight children. Oscar Simpson had been a Christian many years. When the holiness revival came to Vilonia, he was one of the first to enlist and carry the banner. That was nearly thirty years ago, when holiness was not popular, but he saw the right, and did not hesitate to obey the dictates of his conscience. When the Vilonia camp meeting was organized, he was one of the charter members. When the holiness school was founded at Vilonia, he was one of the pillars. He carried burdens on both shoulders all through these years, while the school has struggled for its existence.

When the Nazarene Church came to Vilonia, and it was decided that all the holiness people should go into it, he became one of the leaders. Oscar was quiet and reserved, but when he moved it was always in the right direction. He took the teachings of Christ for his guide. He loved the doctrines of The Pentecostal Herald, and was its reader many years. He was raised a Methodist, and was always a Methodist at heart; however, he put God first, and when Methodism failed at Vilonia, he, feeling it was his duty to leave the sinking ship, stepped off into the lifeboat, which finally became the Nazarene Church, but was only "Methodism in Earnest," and under a new name. I have been with him in his home and in his business and in his social and church life, and in all these things he has stood the test, and shouted the victory through it all. In his afflictions and sufferings, he was patient and Christ-like. He loved his family, and never hesitated to spend and be spent for them.

Oscar Simpson was loved by all who knew him. He was so good that even his friends, sometimes imposed on him. He never complained. His money was always in the treasury of the Lord.

His last illness lasted three weeks. It would seem that he died before his time. He was only 61 years old. Vilonia and the Nazarene Church will miss his presence and his ennobling influence. His family are bowed in sorrow. In his dying moments, he told them that they would know where to find him. The Gospel he had trusted in life was sufficient in his dying hour. Dear O. C. Friend and Brother, we will meet you at the "Eastern Gate." Many things could be said in his honor, but we know that space is limited. Many blessings on his family and friends, and peace to his memory.

HOBSON GOSPEL TEAM.

Rev. Tillman Hobson, of Pasadena, Calif., who is the authorized evangelist for the World-wide Gospel Team, with his party, held a Union Gospel Team revival at Sabina, Ohio. His work here raised the standard of church work to a higher plane, numerous Christian workers took more advanced positions in their experience and others entered into a new era of right living. Sinners were converted, backsliders were reclaimed and the spiritual life of the church quickened. Several young people consecrated themselves to special work for the churches in home or foreign fields. Card parties and theater parties were exchanged for prayer meeting parties. There is full evidence that the good influence of the Hobson Gospel Team revival will remain indefinitely. Their eastern address is in care of The American Friend, Richmond, Ind.

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

This "Book Shelf" is given in answer to a long-felt need on the part of our readers. We receive many letters asking that we recommend some good book for various purposes. In this column we shall try to give just enough to make it clear what each book contains, and the character of the writings. We shall be glad to have you look over the lists from time to time, and write us about your needs. If this column is of any practicable value to you, we shall be glad to hear about it.

Z. T. J.

A Quest For Souls. By Rev. George W. Truett, D.D.

The author makes the book—the book does not make the author. Dr. Truett has won a nation-wide reputation as a most successful pastor. His books have had a wide circulation.

"A Quest For Souls" is a series of sermons preached in an evangelistic campaign in Fort Worth, Tex. They deal with different phases of Evangelism. Some of the best chapters are: "Unoffered and Unanswered Prayer," "The Tragedy of Neglect," "The Deadly Danger of Drifting," "The Ministry of Suffering," "How May We Know Jesus Better," "The One Sufficient Refuge."

As these sermons were taken just as they were preached, there is a directness and simplicity about them that appeals. The messages are vital and winsome. Price $1.50.

The Christ of the Gospels. By Henry Clay Morrison, D.D.

This is a book of ten sermonic masterpieces of that peerless preacher of the Holiness Movement, Dr. Henry Clay Morrison. It is composed of the cream of his sermons preached throughout the years. They are compactly put together. Dr. J. L. Brasher says it is thoroughly Morisonian. This is true as to its style; but one is surprised to find that the sermons are very short. Stripped of all verbiage, they vibrate with religious conviction and pointed power.

The best of his preaching of forty years is put into the book. Such sermons as, "The Modern Judas," "The Christ of the Gospels," "The Second Coming of Christ," and "The Value of a Soul" are well worth preservation. Preachers will find them especially helpful. The book is priced at $1.00.

Under the Blue Canopy of Heaven.

By H. B. Gibbud. This is a hand-book for open air workers. It is the best thing on the subject I have seen. Just a few suggestions will show its real value.

Concerning the holding of meetings in the open air the author says, "Pray, plan, push, preach, and persevere, but look well to the preliminaries." They are given as: 1. Permit. 2. Place of Meeting. 3. Portioning out the work. 4. Preliminary Prayer. 5. Preparedness.

In telling how to speak he says, "Begin low, talk slow, rise higher, take fire." Also he gives us this: Prove!—So appeal to the reason.

Paint!—So appeal to the imagination. Persuade!—So appeal to the affections.

A series of "Don'ts" are given. These alone are very valuable. These suggest the qualifications of a first-class open air worker: Love, Perseverance, Faith, Pluck, Strength, Musical Ability, Wisdom, Patience, Backbone, Voice, Zeal.

The price of the book is 60c, it is worth anybody's dollar.

Business in the Bible. By W. G. Barnes.

This is a little book compiled from the Scriptures. It is full of information, suggestion and inspiration. It is useful: to provide a Book of Reference on the subject of business matters mentioned in the Bible; to suggest subjects for Bible classes, for preachers and lecturers; and to create interest in Bible study.

The contents are suggested by some of the chapters. "Maxims for Business Men," "Occupations for Women," "Workers and Wages," "Buying and Selling," "Means of Transport—Ordinary and Divinely Appointed," "Business Undertakings—Ancient and Modern." The book sells for 50c.

Three Times Three. By Mrs. G. R. Alden and Others.

One never knows a book until he reads it. This story for young people is a splendid one for boys and girls of the early teens. It is especially good for boys from twelve to fifteen years old.

The story is that of the family of a country preacher who were forced to move to the city to work for a living when the father died. As usual, Malcolm, the bright boy of the family drifts into questionable company. This brings much worry to the timid little mother.

Captain John, the boy's uncle, comes home from a long sea voyage. He, with his bride, is forced to stay two months with the Courtneys; and while there the Captain succeeds in saving Malcolm and his pal from the treacherous plans of the liquor interests. He takes the boys on a two-weeks' voyage, and while they are gone, Aunt Kate moves the family out to a beautiful suburban cottage which she presents to the family as a wedding gift from Captain John and herself. The moral is clear and striking. Price 50c postpaid.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson III.—April 17, 1927.

Subject.—The Resurrection of the Lord Jesus. Matt. 28:1—10.

Golden Text.—He is risen, as he said. Matt. 28:6.

Time.—A. D. 30.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Introduction.—There is no better authenticated fact in history than the resurrection of our Lord. We often use the fact of His resurrection as a proof of His Deity, and it is good argument; but when we have seen and felt His infinite power in the salvation of men, we know that "He is risen, as He said." The conversion of a sinner is an unanswerable proof of the Deity and the Resurrection of Jesus Christ; on no other basis can we account for the conversion of Saul of Tarsus. There is no wonder that an infidel was converted by his own effort to overthrow the proof of Paul's conversion. Are you converted? If so, your doubts are gone; for no man can be saved who doubts the Deity and Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Satan outdid himself in his efforts to keep the body of Jesus in the tomb. After Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus had placed it in the rock-hewn sepulchre, and rolled a big stone against the doorway, the Jewish rulers became uneasy for fear some of His disciples might steal the body away by night, and induced Pilate to seal the stone with the Roman seal and to set a group of soldiers on guard about the place to make matters perfectly secure. But the angel sent from heaven cared naught for Roman soldiers and Roman seals. Satan's calculations were knocked to flinders like trash; but he was not conquered. If he could not keep that precious body in the grave, if it would come back to life clad in immortal glory, he would inspire Jewish rulers to start a lie about his resurrection: Pay the guard big money to say that "while we slept, his disciples came and stole him away by night." That was the biggest lie Satan could concoct, but the most unbelievable one. One question will kill it forever: If they were all asleep, how could they know that his disciples stole his dead body? There were sixty men on that watch. Who can believe that all of them fell asleep at the same time, when it was death for a Roman soldier to go to sleep while on guard? It was death to break the Roman seal: who can believe that those timid disciples broke it? If they stole the body, what did they do with it? Not even a trace of it has ever been found. But hardest of all, how did those men who are accused of stealing and hiding the dead body, convince both themselves and all their brethren that their Master had actually risen from the dead? In the face of the evidence, both pro and con, it is a thousand times harder to believe that he did not rise than to believe that he did rise.

Read and compare the accounts of his resurrection as given in the four Gospels; but do not get scared. The wording you will find quite different, but the fact of his resurrection is there; and that is what we want. Each writer tells the story in his own style; but the fact is the same in all of them. Thank God. This very difference is proof that they did not fabricate a lie, and tell it to the world—There was no collusion.

If my readers will bear with me just a bit further, I will mention the fact that the Resurrection of Jesus Christ is fundamental to Christianity. Modernists tell us that we can have the latter without the former. Never! It could be nothing better than an empty shell: "If Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins." I Cor. 15:17.

Comments on the Lesson.

1. In the end of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week.—The language is somewhat obscure from our view point. Mark says: "And when the sabbath was past." Luke says: "Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning." John says: "The first day of the week. . . early, when it was yet dark." I gather from their statements that the women went to the sepulchre just as day was beginning to break on what is now our Sunday morning.

2. There was a great earthquake.—There was an earthquake at the moment of our Lord's death, that split the rocks around Jerusalem, and burst open the graves of the dead; and when the angel rolled away the stone, there came another. God seemed to be trying to impress men with the awfulness of the occasion.

3. The appearance of the angel was glorious: His face was flashing as lightning, and his raiment was as "white as snow." No marvel that the heathen guards shook and "became as dead men." They swooned from fright.

5. The angel answered and said unto the women.—Mary Magdalene and the other Mary. Fear not ye.—We may put some emphasis on the "ye." For I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.—of course, he knew, for he had been sent for that very purpose.

6. He is not here: for he has risen, as he said.—An angel's testimony to the resurrection of our Lord.

But note how natural the words are; there is not one bit of straining for effect. Common men do not speak thus.

6. Tell his disciples.—They were all grief stricken, and must have the news of his resurrection at the earliest moment. Behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; then shall ye see him.—This promise was fulfilled just a little bit later.

8. One must use his imagination to understand this verse. Picture to yourself that frightened, broken-hearted band suddenly aroused from their sorrow by the news that their Master had trampled on death, and was walking the earth again. You must help yourself here.

9. Jesus met them.—Can you put yourself in their place? If so, you may understand how they felt. All hail.—Rejoice! A glorious salvation. They worshipped him.—They were convinced that he was God; nor did he reprove them, or object to their worship, which he would have done, had he not been God; for we cannot think of him as condoning idolatry. His silence is tantamount to a personal declaration of his Deity.

10. Here we meet again his oft repeated words of comfort: "Be not afraid." And they apply to us now, just as they did to his troubled ones in that day. If we will but go to his appointed place—the place of prayer—we too shall meet him there.

EVANGELISTIC AND PERSONAL.

An old time revival was recently held in the M. E. Church at Pleasantville, Ind., resulting in 42 conversions, 3 sanctifications and 29 additions to the church. The pastor, Rev. T. B. Avery, did the preaching and his faithful members did the singing and God gave the increase.

Rev. W. N. Hill is conducting a meeting at Punta Gorda, Fla., and the town is being stirred as a result of the campaign. The churches are working together. More than a hundred souls were at the altar in one service. Brother Hill has postponed his engagement at St. Augustine in April and will be glad to give this time to any one desiring his assistance.

Rev. C. A. Dougherty of Atlanta, Ga., well known evangelistic worker, desires to notify his friends that he is again entering the evangelistic field and will be glad to engage in meetings with the brethren of all denominations, either as singer and special worker, or as preacher, promising to all his closest co-operation for the advancement of the kingdom. References exchanged, if desired. Address him care of Rev. E. J. Williams, Liberty Center, Ohio.

Rev. R. F. Whitehurst, Wilmore, Ky., a most earnest and successful evangelist, is available for calls for revival work. Brother Whitehurst is a man of unblemished character, carries a burden for souls and will prove a faithful worker in any community. Let those who may need a safe preacher to conduct their revival write to Brother Whitehurst.

Rev. J. B. Kendall, General Evangelist, Lexington, Ky., will begin a revival campaign in the Methodist Church, Corbin, Ky., April 17. Large preparations are being made for the campaign. Rev. P. F. Adams is pastor.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

I am enclosing $1.50 for which you will please send me The Pentecostal Herald. I am longing for something to read that is not written with a view to undermining God's Holy Word. I can't pick up a magazine or paper without running across an article that has a vein of atheism running through it; in fact, I am becoming thoroughly alarmed at what appears to be a concerted action by both church and state to force upon God's people the Darwinian theory of man's creation. The state is fostering this pernicious doctrine being taught in normal schools and universities, thus sending out agnostics to teach our children.

When the awful thing began to

An Open Letter to Members of The Evangelical Methodist League.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:—

We are happy to report to you that money has been secured to place ten extra tents in the field, and are now being manufactured for the summer campaign of tent revivals. We are profoundly thankful to every contributor, and we now desire very much those who gave their money for this good work, will pray earnestly to God for the leadership of the Holy Ghost in the campaign which is to open up the latter part of May and first of June.

We have not been able to secure as many tents as we had hoped for, but we shall be able to put into the field the coming summer not less than thirty tents. These tents should average from four to five revivals each. Sometimes we get far better results by extending these meetings over several weeks, than by hurrying from one place to another before we get the full benefit of the revival work. Sometime ago I held a meeting that we extended to four weeks, and we had more results the fourth week than the three weeks preceding.

One of the objects of these tent meetings is to seek a place that has been neglected, go to work in earnest and hold on until the people have ample opportunity to hear the gospel and to seek salvation. It is impossible for us to exaggerate the need of just such work as we are undertaking. There are thousands of people, yes, hundreds of thousands of them, in villages and country places who have not been brought under the influence of a gracious revival of religion for many years, in many instances, for a generation. How we long to find such communities, pitch the tents, and stay with them for a real awakening of genuine spiritual movement that will mean the salvation of multitudes of souls.

Several presiding elders and district superintendents are asking for tents with groups of workers to carry on district meetings, moving from place to place in neglected portions of their districts. Pastors are calling for help from our tent workers; devout lay people, both men and women, are anxious to have tent meetings in their villages or communities. There are many neighborhoods where there are good roads and no church; a tent pitched in a pasture would be a center where hundreds would gather to hear the gospel and be saved.

Let every one who is a member of The Evangelical Methodist League take a deep interest in this work and be on the alert to help forward the good cause. There are two things every Leaguer should do: First, if you have not paid your one dollar of dues since Christmas of the present year, send it in as soon as convenient. Second, speak to some devout friend and ask them to become a member of the League, contributing their dollar, and joining us in earnest prayer for the blessing of God upon this gracious and growing work.

Thoughtful people, everywhere, are saying that the greatest need of the times is a revival of religion. Doubtless, this is true. God is willing, the people are distressed, their souls are hungry; why not go to work and have the revival? Now is the accepted time. Let us get busy. If you should approach anyone to join The League and they should ask you what our object is, tell them, first of all, and most of all, the salvation of sinners, the reclamation of backsliders, the sanctification of believers, and the permeation of countless communities with the spirit of saving faith in Jesus Christ, reverence and obedience for the word of God, and the establishing of the people in good Christian citizenship, the turning of multitudes into the salt that permeates society for good, and the light that illuminates the world with the saving power and love of the Lord Jesus Christ.

If the present members of The League will get busy and interest the people in their community, we can soon double and treble our membership, and the dues of one dollar a year, with the gifts that come in from our friends, will enable us to largely increase the number of our tents and workers, and to spread abroad in the nation with hundreds of revivals winning tens of thousands of souls to the Lord Jesus. Let's pray and believe for a summer of great victory in the tent campaign.

Faithfully your brother.

H. C. MORRISON.

be agitated, I thought those who were able could, at least, avoid having their children taught by these miserable infidels by sending their children to their church schools, but alas! I find this same hell-born doctrine is being taught in theological seminaries and many of our denominational colleges. What are God's people to do, who want their children taught the true origin of man? They teach our children that the book of Genesis is a myth, that their parents are old fogies belonging to the past.

Just a few weeks ago at the Educational Association that met at Memphis, the college presidents went on record against any law interfering with the teaching of evolution in our schools.

We are all ready to admit that God does not need man-made laws to defend his holy Word, but we have laws that prohibit the teaching of any religious doctrine in our public schools, then why not have laws prohibiting the teaching of anything that would have a tendency to undermine any religious belief?

May God's love and wisdom guide us in this terrible crisis.

C., and of all the books I have ever read no book covers the ground so thoroughly. To me, it is one of the best books, the most interesting I have ever read. I think it will have quite a sale."

AN INTERESTING LETTER.

Letters like the following cheer us along the way, and encourage us in the work. We pass it on to our readers so you may see what possibilities of Christian service are yours. God works in mysterious ways his wonders to perform. The letter reads in part as follows:

"May I take a little of your time for a few moments to tell you of some of the good we are getting from The Herald. I am working at the Soldiers' Home. When I came, there were no special services at the hospital. So I began reading the S. S. Lessons and The Herald to two or three old ladies. Now the reception room is full of old men and women nearing eternity. I read the Nightingale of the Psalms yesterday and one soul gave her heart to Jesus. It was encouraging, so now I want a few more copies. . . . I love to work for Jesus in my small way. The Herald was such a comfort to my mother in her last days. God bless your work and may you have many stars in your crown for the good you are doing others in this Christian paper."

In this letter she ordered eighteen more copies of the Nightingale of the Psalms. She is doing a wonderful work, is she not? Why not make The Herald your help-meet in some sort of Christian service? Give copies out in the jail, or in the hospital. See that people have a chance to read it. It may mean their salvation.

Z. T. Johnson,
Cir. Mgr.

"Three Times Three," by Mrs. G. R. Alden, is a splendid story for boys of the early teen age. It is interesting, instructive, religious. It will help that boy of yours during one of the most difficult periods of his life. 50c postpaid. Pentecostal Pub. Co., Louisville, Ky.

"BECAUSE HE LIVES, WE SHALL LIVE ALSO."

By The Editor.

THE resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ is, to all believers, the final and satisfactory proof of his Godhead. The prophecies he uttered and the miracles he performed were convincing proof that he was a teacher come from God, but his resurrection from the dead was positive proof that he was God manifest in the flesh.

The fact that, if a man die, he shall live again, gives emphasis and meaning to the life we now live. This state of probation is a state of preparation for that infinitely higher state upon which we are to enter. The hope of the resurrection is the sheet anchor to the Christian's soul. Whatever comes or goes here, he looks forward with the undimmed eye of faith to the hereafter, and comforts himself with the assurance that he shall awake in the presence of his blessed Master.

The assurance of the resurrection and the future life, with all of its expansion and glory, was so real to the Apostle Paul that he largely quit the use of the word death and used in place, the word sleep. Death was to him no more than to fall on sleep, with the blessed assurance of a glorious awakening. What a thrill it gives to this life to know that just ahead of us there awaits a life so blessed, eternal, and sinless where, without hindrance, there shall be development and progress beyond our fondest dreams, or the wildest flights of our imagination.

John the beloved, comforted himself and encouraged us with the assurance that we are "now the sons of God, but it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is." What could give more zest and joyful hope to those who love and worship here, than to know that by and by they shall behold him, and in some blessed and marvelous way, not only see him as he is, but be like him. In that resurrection life our physical weaknesses, sicknesses and deformities shall have all passed away, and we shall be in perfection of beauty and holy harmony with our Lord.

Old age may bring its disadvantages and decrepitude, but it also brings with it a growing interest, a sweet and delightful thrill with the thought that the soul never grows old, and by and by this tenement will be laid aside and we shall be ushered into the profound mysteries and unfading glories of immortal life with our Lord. In the evening of life, when the setting sun touches with its rim the horizon, it turns to a golden gate through which we pass into an unending and ever-brightening morning.

Welcome Easter! Easter with its swelling buds, its blooming flowers, its singing birds, its laughing children and its busy farmers. New life is springing up out of the death-bed of winter. New hope thrills the heart of humanity. The world looks forward to the

AN EASTER HYMN.

Ernest G. W. Westey.

"Christ has risen," as He said:
"Christ has risen" from the dead.
Nevermore can death Him claim,
E'er increasing is His fame.
Crowned with glory now is He,
King of heaven and earth to be.

"Christ has risen" from the grave:
"Christ has risen" man to save.
Dying once our sins to bear,
Shame and penalty to share;
All His foes are put to flight
Darkness flees before the light.

"Christ has risen," fear no more:
"Christ has risen," strife is o'er;
Loud proclaim Him King of kings,
Heaven with sweetest praises sings.
Christ, triumphant, lives again:
Ended all His bitter pain.

"Christ has risen" vain the seal:
"Christ has risen"; let us kneel—
Kneel our Saviour to adore,
Our past sinfulness deplore.
Suff'ring, dying for us all:
Risen, ascended Lord of all.

coming of ripened fruits and abundant harvest. But most of all, we look back to the Resurrection Morn when our blessed Redeemer arose from the tomb, walked out to comfort and assure those who mourned his death, that he was victor over death, and alive forevermore. With the hope of the resurrection we go forward to our task, bearing our burdens, toiling in our appointed fields, waiting patiently for our call to death-bed and rest, and that glorious morning that shall usher in an eternal day, when our sleeping dust shall spring from the grave to be reunited with our sainted souls, to abide with our Lord forever. The resurrection of the Lord Jesus was positive proof of his Messiahship and Godhead to all believers; his second coming in glory will be a convincing proof of his Godhead to all doubters, skeptics, and infidels, and by and by, every knee shall bow, and every tongue shall confess his divine supremacy and glory. With a holy audacity we can say, "O death, where is thy sting, O grave, where is thy victory?" Jesus the triumphant Victor over death, hell and the grave ever lives, and because he lives, we shall live also.

Open Letter to a Young Preacher.

No. I.

My Dear Young Brother:—

I have received so many letters and expressions of appreciation from various preachers, some young and some older, for the letters to you which appeared in last year's HERALD, that I have determined to write you ten letters this year, which I shall scatter along through the months.

I wish to say something to you this morning on the subject of "Public Prayers." It is remarkable how helpful a good, appropriate prayer is in the beginning or close of a service. The preachers have a way of saying, "Brother So and So will now lead us in prayer," and the person offering the public, audible prayer largely leads the people in their thought, devotion and worship.

It is a blessed thing for the congregation to be really led to God in prayer; not led into a discussion, into a rambling talk about nothing, a ventilation of theological views, or a flood of words that have practically no meaning. Let me guard you against a superfluity of words, mere chatter in your prayers. Be deliberate; be devout. Guard very carefully against first person, singular number. Remember you are leading the people. Say "we" rather than "I." In your private prayers you may use the first person, and tell God, "I am glad I had a good father and mother. That I was converted when I was a child; that later on, I discovered I needed another blessing, and I sought and found the sanctifying power." That will do for a private prayer, but it is almost stupid ignorance to put that into a public prayer. You are not praying as an individual, but as the leader of a congregation. You are leading the people and you must in a peculiar and blessed way, represent and speak for the people.

Remember the Lord Jesus has said we are not to be heard for our much speaking. If you pray too long in public you tire the people and hurt the service. You are not likely to pray too long in your private devotions. I have sometimes called on a preacher brother to pray at an altar service, just after the call; penitents are weeping and are ready to step out by faith and be saved, and the brother called upon to pray starts off with the beginning of creation; he roams around up through the ages; he heads about six good long paragraphs with "and we thank thee"; after while, when everything is quieted down and your meeting is dead, your opportunity lost, he says, "And Lord, bless these seeking souls, and finally save us all in heaven. Amen!" It is pitiful. You will promise yourself not to ask that man to pray again when the train of salvation is about to pull out, and the ticket office of mercy is crowded with souls trying to catch that train.

Guard against any effort at eloquent prayers. Do not begin too suddenly, when called upon; poise yourself for a moment; think about the greatness of the God you are approaching. Be sure that you are not praying to be heard of men, and to please them with your eloquence and the comprehensiveness of your petitions. Keep God in your thought. Do not try to work yourself up into a fervor. Be honest, sincere. It is no means of grace to an audience to try to pray through your nose, or to imitate a state of feeling that you do not have. Do not permit yourself to think of a great many things and wander about all over creation and never get upon the wings of true devotion and earnest, unctuous petition to God for his blessing.

THE ART OF SOUL WINNING.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

HE Bible says "He that winneth souls is wise." Prov. 11:30. "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament: and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever." Deut. 12:3.

"Let him know that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way, shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins." James 5:20.

The saintly E. M. Bounds has said: "Preachers are not sermon makers, but men makers and saint makers, and he only is well trained for his business who has made himself a man and a saint." To this may be added that other remark: "We must learn to prevail with God for men, before we can prevail with men for God."

The soul winner has no greater desire than to be all alive to God in order to be at his best. The saintly Brainerd once exclaimed: "Oh, that I might be a flaming fire in the service of the Lord. Here I am, Lord; send me; send me to the ends of the earth, send me to the rough and savage pagan, to the wilderness; send me from all that is called earthly comfort; send me even to death itself if it be but in Thy service and to promote Thy kingdom."

No man had a greater passion for souls than Rev. John S. Inskip who, for many years, was the President of the National Association for the Promotion of Holiness. He had an experience which he designated as a baptism of Love and Tears. He said:

"I felt it wherever I went, and whoever I met my soul appeared drawn toward them by cords of love and tenderness. I shall henceforth speak of this as the baptism of love and tears."

Of what great need of this baptism of love and tears those days! We cannot blind our eyes to the fact that in the holiness movement of today there are too many dry eyes and so many not filled and suffused with love. The mournful fact has got to be confessed that too many rest in a past experience and in the acceptance of the doctrine. One may be straight doctrinally and yet not suffused with Divine Love. John Inskip's wonderful power as a preacher and a leader was due largely to the fact that he kept himself filled with God and had a constant supply of Divine emotion in his soul. We recognize the danger today of our preachers and leaders becoming official and being good managers, yet at the same time being dry and tearless and sapless in their soul.

To be a winner of souls we must keep right with God and keep the channels clean and clear. Dr. J. E. Carson, of New York City said to his congregation one Sunday morning, that every saved man was either a channel through which the Spirit of God was reaching the unsaved, or a barrier preventing the Spirit from doing his work. One of the trustees of the church said to himself on the way home. "Am I a channel, or a barrier?" That night he could not sleep, and cried out: "O Lord, make me a channel!" Almost the first thought that came was that there were some men in his employ to whom he had never spoken a word about Jesus Christ. He confessed his fault, and told the Lord that if he would make him a channel, he would speak to these men. The first man that entered his office the next morning was his confidential clerk, who had been with him eighteen years. The merchant said, "Edward, haven't I been a good employer to you?" "Yes, sir." "Have not I treated you well?" "Yes, sir. Why sir, what have I done," said the clerk, "that you are going to discharge me?" "Edward, I am on my way to Heaven, and I want you to go with me." Tears came into the eyes of both men

DANIEL STEELE'S LAST MESSAGE TO METHODIST PREACHERS.

Our Lord and Master uttered a warning against an evil to which preachers are especially exposed. I refer to his admonition concerning our being ashamed of his words, which, he avers, "are spirit and life." He identifies them with himself, so that, if we cut them, we bleed him. Will he not regard the constant omission of his unpleasant utterances respecting the destiny of impenitent sinners as a case of being ashamed of him? In these modern times, I fear that many have accepted the prevailing sentiment, that our appeal to fear, as a motive to repentance, is crude and degrading. Yet, such "appeal to fear" is neither crude nor degrading when resorted to by our railroads, the shipping business, and all such enterprises. Nay! public sentiment demands that warnings be displayed wherever a possible danger exists. For a preacher to fail here implies that he thinks himself wiser than Jesus Christ, who constantly appealed to fear, as well as to hope, when addressing unbelievers. I fear that such neglect is because of aversion to these awful words of Christ—"everlasting fire," "everlasting punishment" (uttered by him who says, "I am the truth")—words of which the Unitarian liberals are ashamed. I fear that the same liberalism is creeping into our Trinitarian pulpits with the same effect, giving rise to a soft Gospel, under which few, if any, are brought into the church testifying to a knowledge of forgiveness, but are persuaded by the pastor to help out "the required ten percent increase."

I fear that we Methodist preachers are in danger of a culpable neglect of Christ's command to his disciples, "Be ye therefore perfect," etc. We are tempted to omit preaching on these words, because they have been begrimed and dishonored by the so-called "Perfectionists," such as the "Holy Rollers," the "Holy Jumpers," and the "Oneida Community" (of goods and wives), and various other forms of fanaticism. Wesley had much trouble with such fanatics, then called "enthusiasts." He cut off from his Foundry Church several scores, and yet persisted in honoring the words of Christ. Wesley himself says, "If a hundred enthusiasts were set aside, we are still encompassed by a cloud of witnesses, who have testified and do testify, in life and in death, the perfection we have taught for forty years." This he called "the grand depositum committed to the people called Methodists" to spread through the world.

as Edward took the merchant's extended hand and said: "I will sir," Dr. Carson afterwards received eleven men into his church because this trustee had consented to be a channel for the Holy Spirit."

Soul winning has declined in the church in proportion as worldliness has increased and holiness has been neglected. The Bishops of the M. E. Church said recently in a stirring message to the church:

"Preoccupation with secondary things has made it spiritually impossible for our people to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness. Our organized activities have outrun our spiritual experience. Multitudes of Methodists have ceased to believe in the efficacy of intercessory prayer. We are endeavoring to usher in the reign of God through a prayerless Church. God will not have it so. Altars of prayer have disappeared in the overwhelming majority of our Methodist homes. The cross of Christ is still the symbol of adoration among us, but is in no sense a standard of daily life in the home circle, in social and industrial affections, in civic and international relations, and by which all conduct must be finally tested as essentially Christian."

The soul winner keeps close to his Bible for his doctrines and teachings. It was said of Whitefield, who was one of the greatest evangelists of the church of all time, that a "bright and exalting view of the atonement's sufficiency was his theology: delight in God and rejoicing in Christ Jesus was his piety; and compassionate solicitude for the souls of men was his ruling passion." From a message by a stirring evangelist we quote the following:

"We have a great and mysterious Gospel.

Let us take no notice of apostate Christianity, but let us go forth with the Bible which contains the only enlightenment. Let us go to the world, and tell them of a God of justice who will cleanse this wicked world, and bring upon it judgments and scourgings. Let us tell them he is a God of mercy, a God who will pardon the world if it seeks pardon. He has decreed punishment, but in his mercy he has not inflicted it, but takes it on himself.

"We have not only the message of a slain Lamb for our cleansing, but we have the One who is coming to do what all the world recognizes humanity has failed to do. An attempt to rule the world in the absence of Jesus Christ appeals to the intelligence of men. You cannot be in the world, be in its political life, and see from the inside as I have seen, without understanding that this prophetic Lamb of God is in the nature of things human. It is only the half-and-half Christians that find anything surprising in Christianity; therefore, do not be afraid of prophecy. You must determine who is with the whole Gospel, the Cross, and the Blood; for these will never be forgotten. Our crucified Lord is going to bear the marks of the Cross through all Eternity."

The need of soul winning is seen in the failure of many churches and of their ministers in doing the main work for which the church exists—the salvation of souls. Wesley said to his preachers, "You have nothing to do but to save souls." From an exchange we clip the following:

"There are, according to report, 233,834 churches in America. Now do a little figuring and the result is somewhat startling—an average of four and a fraction members added to each church in the United States in one year! And that means that hundreds of churches did not have one conversion, or one addition, during the whole period! There are 195,513 preachers in the United States and in searching for the general average of increase per preacher the figure five, attended by a small fraction, is discovered! And that means hundreds of preachers have not only not added any members to the church in one year, but they have done nothing for three years! The trouble with some preachers is that they have stuffed themselves on Germanized theology and speak with the voice of the Prussian Ass! And instead of being stirred to nobler living by the pronouncements of these ecclesiastical rag-tags and bob-tails, these spiritual nobodies, their hearers go out and commit soul suicide and become mouters of ethical and sociological nonsense. Of course no church can be built up on the preaching of conceited notions instead of the word of God. And churches cannot expect their pastors to preach the truth if the Church colleges and universities are 'infected' with professors who regard the Bible as nothing more than a splendid piece of fiction and so teach the young ministers who sit at their feet. Out with these traitors to the church and the Word of God! And when you call a preacher to take charge of your church—don't do it unless he declares without stammering that he believes the Bible is the Word of God."

Soul winning is the same in the foreign field as in the home land. Dr. Goforth, in writing about the great Korean Awakening of 1906-07, when 50,000 were converted, said:

"They honored God the Holy Spirit by six months of prayer; and then he came as a flood. Since then their numbers have increased manifold. Do we really believe in God the Holy Spirit? Let us be honest. Not to the extent of getting up at five o'clock through six months of cold weather to seek him!

"The missionaries at Ping Yang honored God the Holy Spirit in their high school. They had a school of 318 students, and that Monday morning of the opening in February, 1907, the two missionaries in charge were early at prayer in the principal's room. They wanted the Holy Spirit to control the school from the start. They knew that if he did not control, the school would only turn out educated rascals who would be a menace to Korea.

"Before nine o'clock had struck that Monday morning, in the Ping Yang high school, the Spirit of the Lord was smiting those boys with conviction. Agonized cries were heard upstairs and down. Soon the principal's room was filled with boys agonized over sin. School could not be opened that day, nor the next, and Friday still found it unopened. By Friday evening the Presbyterian boys had all come through to victory, but it was clear that something held the Methodist boys back.

"It all came out that evening, when about a dozen of the Methodist boys went and pleaded with their native pastor to free them from their promise to him. It seems that this Korean pastor had got jealous because the revival had not started in the Methodist Church. He got the high school boys to oppose it, and to resist all public confession as from the Devil. But by Friday night their agony of mind was unbearable, hence their pleading to be set free from their promise.

"With that, the pastor went and flung himself at the missionaries' feet and confessed that the Devil had filled him with envy because the revival had commenced among the Presbyterians. A missionary told me that it was dreadful to hear the confessions wrung from those students that week. That it was as if the lid of hell had been pulled off, and every imaginable sin laid bare. By the following Monday the students were right with God."

ENEMIES OF THE SOUL.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

(Broadcasted from WLW, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

NUMBER II.

IN this message to you, my radio friends, I wish to register some old-fashioned theology; so old-fashioned and out of date is it, that many may not remember it at all. We are studying soul problems and soul enemies, and now we wish to couple up with soul enemies, a little sidelight on the problem of evil. Our lesson may help suggest to you something of the content of our message. (Read here the lesson, Eph. 6:10-17).

Our enlightened, cultured, and æsthetic age can find little in this old scarecrow story that fits into our thinking. Not long since we heard an eminent author and lecturer address an audience on the subject of "Scarecrows"; one of them, he said, was a belief in a personal Devil. We are going to undertake to strip off some of the misconceptions of this old superstitious hoax—this Santa Claus myth idea—and reaffirm and restate with full emphasis, upon the authority of God's word, that it is all not a scarecrow, mythical hoax, but a reality—a supernatural personality—second in power to that of Jesus Christ.

This personality, called in the Bible Satan, Devil, Serpent and Dragon, is none other than the fallen archangel Lucifer—Son of the morning—the "Light-bearer"; but he rebelled against God and was cast out of heaven and one-third of the angels of heaven were cast out with him. So in the original language we have "Diabolus and demona", the "Devil and his angels." This is crude theology but, my beloved hearers, it is scriptural. If there is no Devil there is no God; no Devil, no Christ. His dark shadow falls across almost every page of revelation. If the Devil is a myth, the whole Bible story is a myth. The same foundation for belief in Christ obtains for our belief in the existence, the personality, and power of the Devil.

He appeared in the first scene of the human drama, and has figured in every scene since the day when the parents of the race were expelled from the earthly paradise. His first act was a master stroke to ruin mankind and drive him down the long trail through the centuries, bruised, suffering, sin-cursed, and defeated. To deny that there is a great masterful being operating in the affairs of life, causing the right to struggle for every inch of domain, is to deny with as much reason, the creative power of an omnipotent God as the First Cause of the universe.

Why is it so hard to keep up an interest in religious matters? Why are the hearts of men set to do evil continually? Why the almost universal indifference on the part of young men to the thoughts of God and eternity? Thirteen million young men in America between the ages of twenty and thirty, and only one million have any connection with churches. Why is it that, with all the religious forces at work, such a condition obtains as Paul prophesied, which is literally true; "Men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, highminded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." This is a true picture of society and such a condition is not an accident; there is a powerful force of evil working in the world.

We want to give a brief survey of the specifications of the soul's enemy, as outlined in the Word of God. "He is the father of liars." He told the first one in the beginning, and he has inspired every lie since then. If he had done nothing else but superinduce lies, what destruction this evil alone hath wrought. Then Paul exhorts us to put on the whole armour of God, to stand against the wiles of the Devil. That means he is a trickster, a wizard, a sleight-of-hand performer. He is a conjurer. How he can deceive us with his tricks and delusions. He can change the whole perspective of life, reveal allurements and plausible promises, only in the end to find all to be a sham. We see him as a roaring lion walking in all his fury to scare and bluff, bulldoze and browbeat.

But his most powerful role is not the terrifying lion, but with supernatural metamorphosis he transforms himself into "an angel of light." In this capacity he is the most dangerous and powerful; he is back at his former activities. Remember before he fell he was a light-bearer; the twentieth century Devil does not assume the old-time horrible personification of our childhood conception—horns, hoofs, pitchfork and brimstone; but the culture, the æsthetic society idol—man or woman. He can become incarnated as an angel of light. He is very religious also; when the occasion demands, he fits the color scheme to the occasion. Dear people, these pictures are not being overdrawn. Many who by faith in God may meet his onslaughts in the terrifying roles may become easy victims as the "angel of light" hovers about them. Satan is doing far more danger to the souls of men and women, masquerading as an angel of light, than as a roaring lion. Very few of us, the best of us, are susceptible, more or less, to the gentle entreaties of the smiling angelic face; but let us not forget that, behind the smile there lurks the devil of hate and malice.

Then he shifts to another flank movement—that of a two-fold accuser. He accuses weak, struggling souls of being guilty of the vilest sins that have only been suggested by him. He accuses us to God as being guilty; in our desperation, praying, seeking help, the fountains of our faith seem dried up and he accuses God to us; at once, we begin to ask ourselves, Where is God? Why does he not help me? If there is a loving, compassionate God, why did he allow this to come upon me? Then we get into depressing doubts, and the whole horizon of our faith becomes black from the lowering clouds. Then Satan is in high glee. He pushes at the door of the soul's citadel, and little by little, gets an entrance; at last in the gloominess of our despair, we agree with the adversary, and before we realize it, charge God falsely. Sometimes he operates through our physical bodies; he tells us that "no Christian could have such evil, debasing thoughts", and very soon the soul goes under a cloud and loses its hold upon God. He is a two-fold accuser, and he is busy doing this day and night, says the word.

Then Satan, our arch enemy, is an astute spy. Let us pause a moment and ask what we mean by a spy. The spy is the most dangerous man in military service. He puts on the uniform of the enemy, gets within the lines, gathers all the information as to location, defense, batteries, etc., then disappears under the cover of night. When a spy is captured, he is executed without a trial. Satan has access to our inner fortifications; knows our weakness and where we are strong, and in a struggle with him he has all the advantage. He knows where to strike in our weakest points of defence. Dear hearers, let me warn you to fly to the One, and only One, who can give you victory when you are tempted, when you are weak.

Hear me, dear ones; he will speak to the anxious, convicted soul in the assumed person of the Holy Spirit; he is there ready to help and advise you; but will convince you that you must wait for a more convenient time. "This is not the time; wait until tomorrow." Procrastination is his most effective method for destroying the human race. He is a "confidence man," winning the confidence of the unsuspecting, and then, like the "White Slaver," sells his victim into bondage and death. Satan can literally possess the souls of men and women; he becomes their lord and master and, like the hypnotist, will completely dominate the human will. Those whom he cannot possess, he will oppress. Christ healed those "who were oppressed of the devil."

There are many other strategies used by our ancient enemy, who is also up-to-date in every modern device to carry forward his program of ruin. We wish to close this line of warning and appeals with two reflections:

First. Why does Satan seek the ruin of immortal beings who have no part or lot in his downfall and career? Observe the why. He does not hate us; but he hates our Heavenly Father, and his rival—our Savior. He can only get his revenge by destroying those whom God loves and for whom Christ died.

Second. From this brief sketch of our Adversary, giving a mental photograph, as it were, we wish to emphasize, and say it with a double underscore, without the presence and help of Jesus, the omnipotent Son of God, we can never match steel with this great personality. We are sure to be defeated, and defeat will mean doom. Let us put on the whole armor of God.

The HERALD PULPIT

RESURRECTION HOPE.

Commissioner S. L. Brengle.

.. "Because I live, ye shall live also." John 14:19.

HOPE was dying, or dead in the ancient world when Jesus came. The gods of the Chinese were discredited and they were worshipping their forefathers. The three hundred million gods of the Hindus had failed them and they were vainly longing for personal extinction and absorption in Nirvana.

The Egyptians had sunk to the worship of lice and frogs and mice, cockroaches, crocodiles and cows. The followers of Zoroaster were a bit more noble, for they worshipped the sun. Little Athens, the center of the intellectual world, had altars to thirty thousand gods, and lest one should be overlooked they erected an altar to the "Unknown God," which gave Paul his text when he visited the city (Acts 17:23).

The Romans had wondrous temples to all manner of gods, but they had finally deified their emperors and worshipped them as gods, but often in their wrath they rose up and slew them because of their oppressions and brutalities. The more intellectual Greeks and Romans were trying to warm themselves at the painted fires of philosophy. The stoics, who included many noble spirits, hardened and braced themselves to bear the ills of life with fortitude and, so far as they could, to maintain personal uprightness and purity.

The Epicureans said: "Tomorrow we die. Let us live today, and enjoy ourselves. Let us eat, drink and be merry." And they gave themselves over to the pride of life and the lusts of the flesh. Rome was a worse center of divorce than Reno, Nevada, and Roman matrons measured life not by years, but by number of their divorces and re-marriages. A score or more was not unusual. Society, with rare exceptions, became utterly corrupt. Paul describes it in the first chapter of his epistle to the Romans. And God preserved a sample of this corruption in the buried cities of Herculaneum and Pompeii, which were caught suddenly in a flood of lava and a tempest of ashes from flaming, erupting Vesuvius.

For centuries the buried cities lay hidden under their awful shroud, and then excavators dug away the ash and lava and lo! such pictures of vice, of licentiousness and shame were uncovered, as women and children have not been permitted to look upon. They had known God, Paul tells us, but "even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind (a mind void of judgment) to do those things which are not convenient; being filled with all unrighteousness, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers, backbiters, haters of God, spiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, without understanding, covenant breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful." They "changed the truth of God into a lie," says the Apostle, "and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator. And for this cause God gave them up to vile affections."

Among the Jews, with but few noble exceptions, religion had fallen from the lofty spirituality and passionate, pulsing vitality and devotion of Psalmists and prophets, to mere forms and ceremonies, washing of hands, saying of prayers and giving of alms, to be seen of men, with no love and pity and yearning for holiness in it.

The resistless legions of Rome had imposed law and order upon the nations, so that outward peace reigned, but the souls of men were perishing of spiritual famine and society was being slowly swallowed up by the hungry, remorseless quicksands of moral corruption.

Man's natural depravity, and his moral nakedness, and spiritual insufficiency and bankruptcy were fully revealed. God must save or man must perish. But God was not indifferent. He "so loved that he gave." He gave his best. He "gave his only begotten Son," and in him he gave himself.

It was "the fullness of times." Man had done his best or rather his worst, and his vast spiritual failure was everywhere seen. He was created to be lord of the earth, and lo! he sank in his sin and shame lower than beasts. No wonder he looked up from the weltering pit of his corruptions, and worshipped lice and lizards, crocodiles and cows. They were cleaner, sweeter than he. They had not sinned.

It was into this kind of a lost and hopeless world that Jesus came. He brought light into its spiritual darkness. He brought peace to its restless, troubled heart. He brought life into its vast chambers of spiritual death. His miracles amazed men and aroused great expectations, but his teachings confounded and enraged them. So they slew him. And those who had looked to him for deliverance and hoped that he would end the long travail of man, sank into hopeless despair. But Easter morning dawned, and lo! his grave was empty. He was risen. The Father "had declared him to be the Son of God with power, according to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead." (Rom. 1:4).

And now out of the cold, bare bosom of death, hope sprang up and came back to the hopeless, ancient world. Listen to Peter, singing his Psalm of hope: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively (living) hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away,—wherein ye greatly rejoice." (1 Pet. 1:3-6).

He revealed the reconciling, redeeming love of God in his death. The murderous, blind hate of man could kill him, but not the love he brought from the Father; that was deathless. He revealed the power of God unto uttermost, eternal salvation, by his resurrection. "Because I live, ye shall live also," he had said. And when they found him alive from the dead, heard the music of his voice once more, looked into his eyes of love and all-pitying comprehension, beheld his wounds and felt his touch, they knew they too should live again and that he would not be in Heaven and leave them behind.

They now understood his words to weeping Martha: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and he that liveth and believeth in me shall never die." They now comprehended the deep meaning of his words: "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life."

And then one day when he lifted his hands and blessed them and vanished from their sight, hope still comforted and thrilled them. They knew he lived and they were assured of his deathless love for them. They waited patiently for the fulfilment of his promise of another Comforter, and he did not disappoint them. The Holy Ghost fell upon them, and lo! they found Christ revealed within them. He had come to them, and now they understood "the mystery which hath been hid from ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints; to whom God would make known the riches of the glory of this mystery; which is Christ in you the Hope of glory." (Colos. 1:26, 27). Henceforth God was to them "The God of hope" (Rom. 15:13). And henceforth they were "filled with all joy and peace in believing, and abounded in hope through the power of the Holy Ghost." Christ was not to them a beautiful memory; he was a living, saving, comforting Presence.

During these twenty centuries since the sorrowing women found the empty grave of Jesus, and he appeared to men, the hope kindled by his resurrection has been dimmed, but it has never gone out. It has been smitten, but it has not perished from the earth, and it never will. Because he lives, hope cannot die. Some who profess faith in him may fail. Leaders and teachers to whom we have looked and listened may prove recreant. The armies of the Lord may here and there retreat before the mocking foe. Civilizations may decay, empires may totter and fall; governments may crumble before revolutionary uprisings and assaults; subtle unbelief and denial may clothe themselves in the garb of priest and prophet and usurp pulpit and platform and commandeer the press and flood the world with moral teachings which miss the secret of spiritual life and power, but this hope kindled in the despairing

Is Evolution An Established Fact?

Dr. A. P. Gouthey.

No. II.

IN our first discussion of this question we led up to some of the problems with which evolutionists are compelled to deal with if they hope to establish their theory on a firm foundation. We now proceed to consider these problems in order.

I. THE ORIGIN OF THE UNIVERSE.

Astronomers tell us there are 770,000,000 to 2,000,000,000 stars of all magnitudes. The distance across the known universe is something like 60,000,000,000,000 miles. If it were possible for an express train to travel 20 miles per second it would require 300,000,000 years for that train to cross the universe once!

Our earth weighs 6,000,000,000,000,000 tons. The atmosphere surrounding it weighs 6,000,000,000,000 tons. Our sun is 329,390 times larger than the earth. Jupiter is 88,392 times larger than the earth. Saturn and Neptune are 125 times larger than the earth. Orion is 20,000,000 times as large in diameter as our sun. Our world travels at 70,000 miles per hour. The great Andromeda Nebula travels at the unthinkable speed of 6,000,000,000 miles per year. Whence comes such a universe? If the materialistic evolution theory is correct it came into being from nothing through its own power unaided by any external force or being! What bosh!! And all in the name of science!!! Every effect must have an adequate cause. Where is the cause production of so vast an effect? Evolution is silent: Dumb with its own confusion.

When pressed too closely they tell us that evolution does not need to deal with this question. I should like to know why not. Since these gentlemen delegate to themselves the authority of explaining the how of things apart from God, it follows logically that they are obligated to explain the origin of things apart from his creative act. When confronted with the inescapable logic of this position some of them simply close their eyes and say, "I don't care if it is, it isn't." Others of them take refuge behind the statement that matter is eternal. That matter is not eternal is proven by the fact that all accredited scientists accept the degeneration theory of the universe. The conservation of matter is the basic principle of modern science. Matter is never created nor destroyed. It is constantly being transformed from one kind to another, but this change is always by loss and never by gain. Radioactive substances are constantly disintegrating into simpler substances. Uranium and thorium degenerate into radium, nitron, and lead. Elements of higher atomic weight break up into elements of lesser weight. There is a constant change from the greater to the lesser all through the universe. Viewed as a whole the process has ever been one of dissipation and decay; or, as Spencer would say, "one of gradual change from homogeneity to heterogeneity." What is true of matter is also true of energy. The planets are held in space by a form of energy which man, as Bacon would say, to "cover his ignorance" has called gravitation. Our sun throws out constantly millions of horsepower energy. It is estimated that 70,000 horsepower energy is radiated from every square yard of the sun's surface. This amount of heat energy would melt a layer of ice 2,200 feet thick all over the sun's surface every hour, or a globe of ice as large as our world every hour and a half. Moulton says "the sun loses more light and heat by radiation in one second than it will receive from all the stars in the sky in a million years, (Moulton, ibid. p. 549) thus showing that while matter is degenerating energy is disappearing. The universe is consuming itself. If the evolution theory were correct the exact opposite would be true! Energy, as well as matter, would have started at zero and increased up to the present. This is not evolution; it is degeneration, and degeneration, says Sir James Dawson, is the universal law of the universe. Page the materialistic evolutionists and remind them of their own science! But, says some one, there are many details entering into all of this discussion with which we must deal. I simply remind such that the greater includes the lesser, and until the greater is established we need not deal with the lesser. This holds good with reference to this whole discussion. We now pass to the second problem with which evolution is face to face.

II. THE ORIGIN OF LIFE.

With reference to this matter there are two schools: One, which like Darwin, admits that God may have created one or a few simple forms of life, and one, which like Haeckel and Huxley, insist that life sprang from non-living matter by spontaneous generation. Professor Woodruff of Yale states the case exactly when he says: "Since life is present on the earth we have to consider the following alternatives: Either life was transported to this planet from some other part of the universe, or life rose spontaneously from non-living matter." (Lull "Evolution of the Earth"). But whichever view one holds one is forced finally to argue from one viewpoint, namely: that where life does appear it must appear in a simple form and move forward by "resident forces according to certain fixed laws" to the complex. In the language of Professor Derham we may say, "Spontaneous generation is a doctrine so generally exploded that we need not take time to disprove it." There is no accredited scientist now holding the doctrine, or attempting to defend it. This being true we may dismiss any and all materialistic evolution theories. Not one of them can be established without the doctrine of spontaneous germination. This leaves only one theory to be considered, namely, that life was transported to this planet from some other part of the universe. In any case, as we have already said, whether this life was transported or created in one or a few simple forms the movement must be from the simple to the complex. Let's see how the theory will fare in the light of science.

Mr. Osborn says, "The question is one which has not yet been answered by science." (Origin and Evolution of Life). In other words he has written a book on the origin of life but he admits he knows nothing about it! Well, that's illuminating anyway. If he knows nothing about it we do not need to bother with him.

Huxley says, "Of the causes which have led to the origination of living matter we know absolutely nothing." (Anatomy of Invertebrated Animals). Exit Huxley!

Lull says, "I find no record of the commencement of life, and therefore, I am devoid of any means of forming a definite conclusion as to the conditions of its appearance." (Evolution of the Earth). Exit Lull!

Woodruff of Yale says, "Biologists are at the present time absolutely unable, and probably will be for all time, to obtain empirical evidence on any of the crucial questions relating to the origin of life on the earth," (Lull, Evolution of the Earth) and that's that! Evolution can give us no explanation of the origin of life, and probably never will, yet we must be counted as ignorant fools if we do not accept their empty speculations which begin nowhere and end in a fogbank!

But we still have the theory which begins with the Creator on our hands. A few simple facts, drawn from several different sources, will, I think, serve to show this theory as unscientific as the others. As far as any authoritative record is concerned there is no evidence to show that man is now essentially more than he ever has been.

"In bodily evolution," says Professor Conklin, "man has made no very marked progress during the last twenty thousand years." (Lull, "Evolution of Man." pp. 162-164).

President J. R. Angell of Yale says, "There is no reason whatever to suppose that the native intellectual abilities of the average American citizen are in any way superior to those of the Egyptians or the Homeric Greeks, or to others of the peoples of that general period in the Mediterranean basin. In other words, there is no evidence of marked development in human intelligence." (Lull, "Evolution of Man." p. 115).

So far as historic evidence is concerned then, there is no scientific reason for accepting any evolution theory whatever. If any one of the various theories advanced were correct there would surely be some marked progress in twenty thousand years.

If we accept the word of the authorities concerning what is known as prehistoric man, we shall be driven to the same conclusions.

In dealing with prehistoric man science begins with the Trinil ape-man of Java, known as Pithecanthropus. But the evidence shows him to be anything but an ape-man. Professor Lull says of him, "the cranial capacity is as great as some men today, and twice as large as that of an ape. The straightness of the thighbone indicates that his posture must have been fully as erect as in modern man." And Pithecanthropus is supposed to be 500,000 years old!

Of the Heidelberg man who is supposed to be 400,000 years old Professor Lull says, "Only a lower jaw was found, but this was complete. It is heavy and massive with receding chin. The teeth are not in any way bestial in their development, less so, indeed, than in some modern men."

With reference to the Piltown man supposed to be from two to three hundred thousand years old Professor Lull says, "The skull is as nicely balanced on the neck as is the skull of modern man implying an erect posture, and all in all is rather a modern looking cranium."

Of the Neaudertal man the same scientist says, "The skull is very large with a cranial capacity considerably exceeding that of the average modern man."

The Rhodesian man, says Professor Lull, had a head well balanced on the neck, and this together with the straight shin, and the character of the ends of the thigh-bone, imply a fully erect posture. And of the Cro-Magnon man he says he was Homo sapiens of the highest type having a skull "very large, even the female brain exceeding that of the average male today." And there you are. Man as far back as he can be traced was much as we know him today. The evidence is on the side of inspiration and against evolution.

The argument that the greater includes the lesser holds good here, therefore, we need not consider the speculative philosophies concerning survival, selection, and transmutation. If evidence is demanded I simply quote Huxley and Darwin. There is no need to quote other authorities since no new evidence has been, or is now being added. "As the evidence now stands it is not proved that groups of animals having all the characteristics exhibited by species in Nature, have ever been originated by selection whether natural or artificial." (Huxley, "Lay Sermons," p. 295). "The mule still flouts the theory of the transmutation of species." (Darwin, "Origin of Species," p. 23).

Science and history both show that we are still dealing with the problems of the cen-

The Inspiration of The Bible.

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

PART II.

IN this second paper we purpose to answer this question: How do we know that God inspired men to write the Bible? To teach that the men who wrote the different books of the Bible were inspired, but that the Book itself is not inspired, but that the Book itself is not simply playing with words. No one in his senses supposes that the mere volume received inspiration from the Holy Ghost; but we do claim that the writing was done by inspired men. We shall look inside the Bible itself for the claims of these men to inspiration.

First of all, let us take for a foundation a great big text from 2 Peter 1:20, 21: "Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation. For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." We prefer to place beside this text from Peter another from Paul (2 Tim. 3:16, 17): "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

Both of these men were referring to the Old Testament as received by the Jews; and in their opinion God had inspired holy men to write its different books. I am not unmindful of the fact that the quotation from 2 Timothy is translated quite differently in the Revised Version; but there is a footnote that reads as follows: "Every scripture is inspired of God, and profitable for doctrine, etc." which seems better. Dr. Clarke says the and in the text is wanting in 'nearly all of the manuscripts and many of the Fathers'. He translates the passage thus: "Every writing divinely inspired is profitable for doctrine, etc." It is inconceivable that the men who gave us the Revised Version were attempting to cast a reflection upon the inspiration of the Scriptures, although they have frequently been charged with so doing. Both Peter and Paul were referring to the Old Testament scriptures about whose inspiration they had no sort of question, even though Paul's Greek may be somewhat obscure. Infidelity can gain nothing here.

We are dealing now especially with the inspiration of the Old Testament, and particularly from the viewpoint of the New Testament writers. It may be in place to ask this question: Did they believe the Old Testament inspired, and did Jesus Christ indorse it? We are simply hunting internal evidence. 1 Peter 1:10-12, "Of which salvation the prophets have inquired and searched diligently, who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you: searching what, or what manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow. Unto whom it was revealed, that not unto themselves, but unto us they did minister the things, which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the gospel unto you with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven." Here we have a double statement. Peter declares the divine inspiration of both the Old Testament prophets and of the men of his day who were "preaching the Gospel with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven." There can be no question as to the apostle's meaning. Here is a quotation from Hebrews (3:7-9): "Wherefore, as the Holy Ghost saith, Today if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness: when your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years." This quotation is taken almost verbatim from the ninety-fifth Psalm. The author of the epistle to the Hebrews could make no higher claim for the inspiration of this Psalm. Permit me to quote at length again from Hebrews; for we are dealing with a disputed question, and must make sure of our ground. Hebrews 10:14-17, "For by one offering he hath perfected forever them that are sanctified, whereof the Holy Ghost also is a witness to us: for after that he had said before, This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them; and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more." One might multiply these quotations almost indefinitely, showing that the apostles believed in the inspiration of the Old Testament writers; but we have sufficient of this particular class of texts. Yet, we cannot refrain from giving a few others that are short and clearcut. Matt. 22:43—"How then doth David in the Spirit call him Lord." Here Christ indorses inspiration. Acts 18:25,—"Well spake the Holy Ghost by Isaiah the prophet." Acts 1:16,—"It was needful that the Scripture should be fulfilled, which the Holy Ghost spake before by the mouth of David concerning Judas."

Let us now look at some passages showing that the New Testament writers believed themselves to be inspired men. In Ephesians 3:5, St. Paul in speaking of the mystery of Christ says, "Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit; that the Gentiles should be fellowheirs, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ by the gospel." Nothing can be clearer than that Paul believed that the apostles and prophets of his day were inspired. First Peter (4:14), while not referring directly to the inspiration necessary for writing Scripture, shows how the early Christians were under the influence of the Holy Spirit: "If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, blessed are ye; because the Spirit of glory and the Spirit of God resteth upon you." (R. V.). St. John in telling of the revelation, says, (1:10), "I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day"; and in Rev. 4:2, "Straightway I was in the Spirit"; which statements, as we conceive, mean that he was under the Holy Spirit's control. All this is in perfect harmony with the promises of our Lord Jesus Christ, which he made to his disciples on the night before his death on the cross. John 14:16, 17,—"I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever; even the Spirit of truth." John 16:7,—"If I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you." And again in John 14:26: "But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance whatsoever I have said unto you." If Jesus were not God, that language would be inconceivably audacious. It promises all the inspiration that his disciples could possibly need for the writing of the New Testament. We take another from the Gospel according to St. John: "But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me." (15:26).

Before we take up the matter of Jesus Christ's indorsement of the Old Testament, it will be proper to turn to those writers and see how they express themselves. A few quotations will show the trend of their convictions. Concerning the Ten Commandments it is stated (Exodus 20:1) "And God spake all these words." Exodus 19:21,—"And the Lord said unto Moses." Then follows the divine statement. Throughout the entire Pentateuch such statements are constantly found; we need not quote them further. In the sixth chapter of his prophecy Isaiah distinctly represents himself as having held a conversation with Jehovah. In chapter 40:1 he says, "Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God." In chapter 41:13 he represents Jehovah as saying, "For I the LORD thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee"; and, as if Jehovah would make it more emphatic, he continues in verse 14: "Fear not, thou worm Jacob, and ye men of Israel; I will help thee, saith the LORD, and thy Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel." The prophecy of Jeremiah is interlarded with such expressions as this: "The word of the LORD came to me, saying." Chapter 10:1: "Hear ye the word which the LORD speaketh unto you, O house of Israel." Ezekiel frequently states: "The word of the LORD came again unto me, saying." No impartial man can read Daniel without seeing the finger of God throughout the entire Book. Deny it, if you so wish; but you cannot take Jehovah out of that Book. Joel begins his prophecy with this statement: "The word of the LORD that came to Joel, the son of Pethuel." We might quote on for a week, but it is useless: those Old Testament writers claimed to be writing under divine inspiration; and in many cases they, no doubt, gave the exact words of the Almighty. They speak for themselves; and we shall not impeach them.

We come now to deal with what this writer deems a very sacred matter. Jesus Christ indorsed the Old Testament. Mind you, that part of the sacred canon was made up before he was born into our world. When he says, Mark 14:49: "The Scripture must be fulfilled," and in John 10:45, "The Scripture cannot be broken," he is referring to the Old Testament; and the Jews, to whom he was speaking, so understood him. When one denies the inspiration and authority of the Old Testament Scriptures, he is calling Jesus Christ into question. Would it be too much to call such conduct blasphemy? We are afraid to use a milder term, lest we ourselves should come under condemnation. Jesus Christ indorsed Moses and Daniel, and nearly every other book in the entire Old Testament canon. He even declared that not so much as "one jot or tittle" of the Mosaic law should fail, but that all of it should be fulfilled.

The writer is not unaware of the fact that to prove a thing by itself is not always an accepted mode of argument with the critics; but in the case of the Bible there is sufficient internal evidence to arrest the attention of any candid man. The writers of that book did not write as ordinary men write. They tell a simple, straightforward story. There is almost no argument in the Book, no straining after effect. The writers tell their story, even when it militates against themselves, or against the best men concerning whom they are writing. Pray, what modern biographer writing the life of Abraham would have told so unblushingly of his lying? If David had lived during the last century, who in our day would dare to write his biography, and expose to the world his double sin of adultery and murder? That is not the way of uninspired men: most of our heroes are saints with scarcely a blemish about them. We are too merciful to expose their weaknesses, but prefer to lie by telling half the truth. Not so with Bible writers. Some of us might have said that Peter backslid a little bit; but who of us (if the facts were all covered from the world) would dare to say that he swore and lied?

Maybe I am overdrawing the case a bit; but if so, I am doing it on purpose, in order that we may think for ourselves on these

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

OLIVE BRANCH, ILLINOIS.

We have just closed a very good revival at Olive Branch, Ill., of which Rev. T. A. Shaffer is the pastor. That place has been bombarded by the devil for some years. When I arrived on the grounds and took a look at the town and felt the spiritual pulse, I could say with Rev. Green, of the Kentucky Conference, "No, God is not dead, but he is a long ways from this town."

During the last week I could not tell who was Methodist, Baptist, United Brethren, or non-protestant. They all got converted the same way, and several received the Baptism of the Holy Ghost in sanctifying power. Rev. Shaffer has been confused in the past, but he has come out of the jungles and is now on the high bank of the Jordan, looking over into Canaan and asking for prayer to help him over. Will the reader pray that he may plunge and make a safe landing on Canaan's happy shore. A nice class was taken into the church. I have April open.

GOOD NEWS FROM ONE OF OUR FOREIGN BOYS.

I recently received a letter from Robert Chung, one of our Korean boys who recently graduated from Asbury College. He spent six years in Asbury and was always a live wire, spiritually, and a most exemplary student in every respect. As many of our readers have contributed toward the support of our foreign students in Asbury College, they will be interested to hear how they do when they get to the field of active service, so am quoting a part of Brother Chung's letter for their encouragement. He says:

"Since I stayed in the States so long I have trouble in the way of sleeping, and sitting on the floor. My legs sleep all the time. Since I came out they put my picture in the papers and calls come from everywhere for speeches and preaching. I have not even rested a day since I landed here. The first meeting I held was at the Annual Bible Conference, where I preached twice a day, for ten days. In this meeting 150 were definitely sanctified and shouted as if they were Americans. There were 35 preachers in the number, and they write me that they preach with more power than they ever did before. There were 400 saved and reclaimed in this meeting. The Lord blessed us good, and they said they had never known such a meeting before."

"My second meeting, I preached three days, twice each day to 35 preachers. At first, they said it was not necessary to hold meetings, but finally they were brought under the power of the Spirit, died out to sin, and all sanctified but two. Last night I preached in the Mission, the only one in Korea, and 16 sinners were saved. I cannot rest while souls are in sin."

"My dates are packed up to October. Running meetings is harder than in the States, as I have no one to help me instruct them. I am preaching the same doctrines as Dr. Morrison preaches, and my hope is that the Lord will use me as he does him. Tell Dr. Morrison that the work he did through me, the Lord is blessing in Korea. Pray for me."

"Your Korean boy,
"Robert Chung."

HARTMAN, COLORADO.

Miss Imogene Quinn, well-known "Hoosier Girl Evangelist" has closed a very splendid revival in the M. E. Church of Hartman, Colo., in which there were a goodly number converted and the entire church greatly revived. Old and young sought God at an altar of prayer and the pastor received a very splendid class into the membership of the church on the closing day of the campaign. A splendid Children's chorus, conducted by Miss Quinn was a very attractive feature throughout the entire campaign.

She is now in the Scottdale Evangelical Church, of Berrien Springs, Mich., and will be engaged in a pre-Easter campaign in the Hall Place M. E. Church of Indianapolis, Ind., April 7-17.

A HEAVEN-SENT REVIVAL—GRAFTON, W. VA.
"And when he cometh home, he calleth his friends and his neighbors, saying unto them, Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep which was lost."

I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth."—Luke 15:6, 7.

He was not silent over the lost that was found, nor were the angels, neither should we be silent when the lost are found, the backslider returns, the believers are sanctified, and the Church shouting the praises of God.

I am glad to tell of this blessed revival at Grafton, W. Va. I was called by this good people for a two-weeks' meeting, and from the first, God's seal was on the services. There was some very earnest praying, and honest fasting on the part of the church, always necessary if devils are to be cast out, folk straighten up their wrongs with each other, and believers are sanctified. The preaching was definite, under the anointing of the Holy Ghost; and God's word went forth as "the two-edged sword" it is. Many were saved and sanctified, including some of the leading dancers, who came as they saw the evil of the modern dance as a result of presenting this subject one night.

The pastor, Rev. W. E. Johnson, a young man, is serving his first pastorate, and he is doing a heroic work. The meetings continued for five days after I came away, and doubtless a full report including the number that united with the church will be reported by the pastor. A letter today from one of the officials declares this meeting to have been the greatest in the history of this local church.

Reader, let us pray for this excellent pastor and for the revival that is on and still going, that its fires may get out of bounds and begin to flame on other altars in this city. I have open dates I will be glad to give to those wanting meetings. Will be glad to arrange with you and come to co-operate in every way to bring about a real heaven-sent revival. Have been pastor-evangelist for past twenty-two years. Can give the best of references from charges served, and from pastors whom I have helped.

FLORIDA HOLINESS CAMP MEETING.

It was the great privilege of the writer to have some small part in the Florida Holiness Camp Meeting held at Orlando, March 10-20, and to view with his own eyes and hear with his own ears the triumphs of divine grace and the shouts of victory. I don't believe I ever heard Dr. Morrison preach with as great power as in this camp, which is only about fifteen months old. The early morning prayer meetings were scenes of victory; a number were anointed with oil and healed by the power of God. Those who joined in the soul travail for a real forward sweep of divine power in the spread of scriptural holiness had their hearts enlarged and their faith increased. Dr. Paul, who gave some clear exegesis on various phases of Christian experience, was the main co-worker with Dr. Morrison. The outlook for this camp is the brightest of any I know.

The Board of Trustees is composed of men who have experienced entire sanctification in their own hearts, and who are untiringly laboring for the permanent establishment of this camp meeting that will touch every state in the Union because of the many visitors every winter to Florida. We had present at this camp meeting visitors from about forty different states, many of whom had their fires rekindled, were reclaimed or sanctified and will go back to their homes to help spread scriptural holiness over the land. This camp meeting will go down in history as a great season of refreshing for the saints and a time of salvation and victory for the sinner and believer, and out of it shall come glory to God and blessing to humanity.

The writer was elected a member of The Board of Trustees and Financial Agent for the Florida Holiness Camp Grounds, Inc., and any information desired by any one anywhere who might be interested in attending camp meeting next year, or in arranging for a cottage or a home on or near the camp grounds, will be given full information if you will address your inquiry to Rev. E. C. Wills, Box 54, Wilmore, Ky.

M. V. LEWIS REPORTS.

I should like to give a brief report through our faithful and highly-prized Herald, of the work I have been permitted to be engaged in through the fall and winter months. Am grateful to say that the Lord has given me some hard work, delightful co-laborers, and the privilege of seeing a number seek and find God in saving and cleansing power.

That I may not presume too strongly upon your time nor upon Herald space, I will summarize by giving a brief sketch of our labors. My first engagement was at Sardis, Ky., with Rev. J. R. Kendall, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, and Rev. W. E. Swann, pastor of the M. E. Church, with Rev. B. C. Gamble, of Newport as evangelist. Then with Dr. Owen Wright, pastor, Louisville, Ill.; Rev. H. E. Burge, pastor, Odin, Ill.; Rev. Stombush, pastor, Brooksburch, Indiana.

It was a pleasure to work with these men as they faithfully labored, proclaiming the power of Christ to save a man from all sin. I also enjoyed the fellowship, courtesies and co-operation of many faithful laymen. I sometimes think we preachers forget the basic and essential work that is done by faithful laymen whose sacrificing toil goes by many times unsung. Without the laymen the church is nil. I feel that while I have been trying these weeks and months to invest my life in men through song, prayer, altar and personal work, my own heart has been greatly enriched by the soul contribution I have received through the ministry of others—preachers and laymen. The Lord prosper the work accomplished, and lead us into more aggressive, victorious service.

Yours in song,

M. V. Lewis, Wilmore, Ky.

PIKEVILLE, KENTUCKY.

There has recently come to our Methodist Church of Pikeville, Ky., a gracious visitation of the Lord. Rev. E. R. Overley, for four years the successful pastor of First M. E. Church, Ashland, and now District Superintendent of the Ashland District, Kentucky Conference, did the preaching. He is a man of pleasing personality and reveals the joy of salvation both in and out of the pulpit. His preaching is well rounded, laying a strong foundation of repentance and justification and culminating in true Wesleyan fashion with clear, earnest preaching on the baptism of the Holy Spirit. We should love to see this man of God turned loose in Methodism as an evangelist. The people were delighted with him. After the first few services souls were moved to the point of surrender and almost every service thereafter was characterized by men and women finding the Lord.

No clap-trap methods were resorted to at any time. Seldom have we seen the working of the Lord in a more gracious manner. There was no hullabaloo or beating up the furniture, but the quiet workings of the Holy Spirit in such a way that saint and sinner knew that the Lord was present. The music was in charge of the pastor and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Wood, who are graduates of Asbury College.

The Church and our Methodist Hospital are working hand in hand. One of the gracious victories of the meeting was the conversion of the student nurses so that now every nurse in connection with the Institution is a professing Christian. The Hospital has been a soul-saving station as well as a place for bodily healing, and many are those who, through the nurse in charge, are pointed to the Savior, the Redeemer of the world.

WINDOM, KANSAS.

We recently closed a fine meeting at Hitchcock, Okla. The Spirit of the Lord was present in every service. Sinners were converted, backsliders reclaimed and believers sanctified. Folk who had lived in the town and community for years and left their church membership elsewhere, were renewed in their experience and came into the church. The power came on the people in a marvelous way in the last service.

Bro. Morton, the pastor, and his people are rejoicing over the victory. He is a brotherly fellow and has a fine family and a loyal people.

We began March 20, with Bro. J. H. Christian, Windom, Kan. The meeting broke on Monday night with one conversion and several at the altar for sanctification. We are expecting a real old-time meeting here. Please remember to pray for us that we may stand true and win souls for the kingdom of God.

AUSTIN TABERNACLE, CHICAGO.

A three-weeks' meeting at the Austin Tabernacle, Chicago, Ill., closed Sunday, February 27. Pastor Rev. Frank E. Arthur was assisted by John F. Knapp, of Cincinnati, Ohio., preacher, and Willard Hallman and wife of Chicago, singers and musicians. Concerning this revival, Brother Arthur writes: "We had a splendid meeting; everyone was pleased with the results. It has meant much to our church in and among our men. They met last Sunday afternoon and prayed for two solid hours. There were four at the altar Sunday night. Everyone entered into the meeting with real interest and loyalty to the end and now all are happy. The meeting proved to be a great blessing to many from other sections of the city. No record was kept of those who came to the altar, but splendid work was accomplished."

I ask prayer for my next meeting which will run on over April 17th at the Asbury M. E. Church in Cincinnati, Ohio.

ELIZABETH, INDIANA.

We recently closed a splendid revival in the Elizabeth M. E. Church, with Rev. B. G. Carnes as the evangelist. The meeting ran two weeks; in spite of the fact that we had much snow the last of the meeting, yet attendance was good and the results gratifying. Some thirteen were saved and reclaimed, five sanctified and one young man called to preach. I think he is making preparation to enter Asbury College this fall. Bro. Carnes, who is from Wilmore, Ky., endeared himself to the people and they are still talking about the revival. I can, without reserve, recommend Bro. Carnes to any pastor who has a vision of needs of his people, and who desires an old-time Holy Ghost revival that will awaken the spiritually dead, and put the holy fires burning in their hearts. He brings back Pentecost to the Church, which is the only thing that has warmed the cold world's heart for the past two thousand years. He prays through and gets his message from God, "The Devil believes in him and fears and trembles." My prayers are that God will wonderfully use him in the salvation of the lost. Keep this man of God busy.

THE INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE.

matters. This writer is perfectly willing to risk the proof of the Deity of Jesus Christ on one verse of Scripture: "Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again." That is as far from human thought as the distance from earth to heaven. No man-made religion has ever approached anything like it. It is so foreign to human thinking that even in this enlightened age, men are working all sorts of schemes to get rid of it: they must find some other way to make peace with God, and reach heaven at last. Self-righteousness is the religion of multitudes, even in America. The very doctrine of the New Birth forever stamps as genuine the Deity of Jesus Christ. Again, the Deity of Jesus Christ being established, the inspiration of the Book is unanswerable. If one stands, the other must stand. If one falls, the other must fall.

You are called upon to pray at the grave-side; the snow is on the ground, it is zero weather, the people are shivering; remember that you are not at a camp meeting in August praying for the conversion of sinners and the sanctification of believers. Have sense and learn how to adjust yourself to your God and fellowmen in the various conditions and emergencies of life.

Guard against old set phrases that were used by your grandfather. The wording of prayers is handed down from one generation to another; that is "vain repetition." Use appropriate language without getting into ruts and repeating meaningless words you heard the good old brothers use when you were a boy.

You are called upon to pray at the laying of a cornerstone of a university. If you do not guard yourself you will fall into making an address to the people on education instead of humbly and in a few well chosen words, asking God's blessing to rest upon the institution. You are asked to offer prayer at the opening of the session of the legislature. Guard yourself against a set speech on the history of the nation, the bleeding feet of our forefathers at Valley Forge, and Fourth of July harangue. While you should not yell at the top of your voice, you should not bury your face in the corner of the bench and mumble your words so no one can hear you.

You are attending a revival meeting; there is a large congregation present, and you are requested to lead in the opening prayer. Do not suffer yourself to seize the opportunity to display your learning, your eloquence, or your powers of any sort. Just pray to God for a blessing on the people. You should not brag on the pastor, tell the Lord what a great preacher the evangelist is, and then branch out on the wonderful song leader, then praise the choir, then happen to remember that a former pastor is present, and feel, perhaps, that he will be slighted if you do not compliment him, and thus ramble about praising and complimenting this and that one instead of offering an earnest petition to God for the presence, guidance and blessing of the Holy Ghost.

But I have said quite enough; these are mere hints and suggestions. May the blessed Spirit illuminate and guide you so you may be peculiarly fitted to lead a worshiping congregation up to the throne of grace in earnest, effectual, fervent prayer.

Faithfully, your brother,
H. C. MORRISON.

"WHEN IT WAS YET DARK."

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

DOUBTLESS many of us have read the above scripture time and again, always with the idea of physical darkness being spread over the material world, and of course it does refer to the natural darkness, "whose shadows still lingered about the gates of the morning," but it was yet dark in more ways than in a nat-

TO ALL THE HOLINESS PEOPLE EVERYWHERE.

The Commencement Exercises at Asbury College will cover May 25 to June 1. The first days of the Commencement will be devoted to a Holiness Convention and we are expecting a great gathering of the Lord's people. We especially invite those who are rejoicing in the fulness of salvation, and those who are longing to be wholly sanctified. Let much prayer be offered for the presence and blessing of the Lord at this time. Those who find you can attend this Convention will please to notify Mr. C. A. Lovejoy, Wilmore, Ky., at least two weeks before the opening of the Convention Exercises. Let The Herald family pray that the Holy Spirit may be graciously present with us.

Faithfully your brother,
H. C. MORRISON.

ural sense. Some one has said, "that the shadows of night seemed reluctant to recede—seemed to resist the approach of the day whose dawning was to include the infinite and eternal triumph of life over death, righteousness over sin, Christ over Satan, heaven over hell." But it was yet dark to the faithful women, the discouraged disciples and the many, many who had been lifted from the depths of sickness and sin by his mighty power.

When the Christ of Galilee was laid in Joseph's new tomb, their hopes were buried with him and the faith which had been reposed in the Man of Galilee, was shaken to its very foundation. The disciples went back to Jerusalem, sought the secluded room where they could escape the jeers and scoffs of the mocking enemies of Christ and the women returned to their homes pondering over the event which had come to pass. After the Sabbath had passed, the women anxious to empty their devotion upon their Lord, went very early in the morning, at the rising of the sun, that they might anoint him with sweet spices, but when they came to the sepulcher the stone had been rolled away and their Lord had vacated the gloomy confines of the tomb.

While it was yet dark, because of disappointed hopes, there was a denser darkness which held this ungrateful, prodigal world in its embrace, that of spiritual darkness. The redemption which they hoped for through the Man of Galilee, was to them a shattered hope. Cleopas voiced the sentiment of the little body of believers when he said, "We trusted that it had been he which should have redeemed Israel." This gives us a glimpse of their dilemma and the pall of spiritual darkness which hung over the lovers of our Lord. Truly, it was yet dark, hopelessly dark.

We thank God, that we do not have to close with this dark chapter in the life of our Lord. There lingered around the tomb, loving-hearted women who were seeking the Christ. What a disappointment to mortal eye, when they saw the empty tomb, but there was a glorious surprise awaiting these anxious hearts. Mary inquired of the gardener, as she supposed, where they had taken her Lord and then it was that the risen Christ revealed himself to her throbbing heart. He need only to speak her name, Mary, and the revelation of her risen Christ burst upon her, and she replied, "Master."

To Mary Magdalene, was given the honor of preaching the first Easter sermon, and her text was, "I have seen the Lord." This text contained the fundamental truth that has to underlie all personal work for God—a personal experience. Oh, how much these words meant to her and to the world then and now; but for the fact that she saw the Lord, there would have been no glorious Easter Day; instead of proclaiming her risen Lord, there would have been the tidings of defeat; instead of the hasty steps which quickened with accelerated speed as she went to tell the forlorn disciples the good news, there would have been the slow retracing of languid steps to buried hopes of a crucified Lord. What a difference it made, when she could say, "I have seen the Lord."

What does Mary's message mean to us today? Can we say, as did she, "I have seen the Lord"? Has he called us by name, and have we responded with the sweet word, "Master"? Have we gotten a glimpse of his bleeding hands and side, and cried as did Thomas, "My Lord, and my God." What will Easter mean to us, if we cannot say with Mary, "I have seen the Lord." Is he your risen Christ and my risen Christ? If not, this glorious Easter time will mean nothing to us, and we have counted the blood of the covenant an unholy thing; we have rejected the Christ who passed through Gethsemane, hung on the cross and burst the bars of death to set us free; yet we do not care and march onward as if we could get along without God and the atonement which was made in Jesus Christ. If this is the case with any who may read these lines, remember there will be another day, and you had better halt and think upon your ways, ere the meaning of all this vicarious sacrifice, on the part of the Son of God, dawns upon you, when it will be too late. But to us who were dead in trespasses and in sin, and have been quickened into new life, what a depth of meaning the Easter time holds for us! What an inestimable privilege to be able to say, "We have seen the Lord."

"He lives, all glory to his name;
He lives, my Savior, still the same;
What joy the blest assurance gives,
I know that my Redeemer lives!"

Dear friends, while we rejoice in the fact of a risen Christ, there are three-fourths of this old world to whom it is "yet dark." Mary ran and told it to all she could and the message was handed down to us, but our feet have not been so swift to run on the glad errands of mercy, proclaiming the good news of a risen Christ, as did Mary. Is it possible, that there are 800,000,000 of our fellow creatures, for whom Christ died, who have not gotten the message that he is risen? Has it taken us all these years to reach one-fourth of our race with this, the most glorious news that ever fell upon the ear of mortals? Yes, it is true, be it said to our shame. Does it seem that we are as glad as Mary, when we are so slow to pass on the news which shall liberate men from the bondage of sin? Oh, Father, of compassionate love and mercy, forgive us of our unfaithfulness and reveal thyself anew to our unbelieving hearts, until we shall hasten with the message of a salvation that will mean freedom from sin for all men. Is it nothing to you, is it nothing to me, when he says, "Go tell"?

"ALIVE FOR EVERMORE."

REV. P. F. ASHER, B.D.

LIFE is the key-note to the joy of Easter Day. Since Christ our Lord came forth alive from the tomb, we can understand that it is no mere sentiment or fancy that leads us to see in the reviving life of grass and tree and flower the parable and prophecy of Immortality. The God of the Gospel is the God of nature, and for those who cannot read, or who, reading, cannot understand, he writes out each year in the death and revival of the green things of earth the story of a coming springtime that shall never fade. Through the sight of the cleanwashed earth and fresh blue sky, and the sound of singing birds, he puts new pulses of life even into those who are growing old; so that in the aged we often see a bright hopefulness of outlook and gentleness of judgment, and a willingness to make new beginnings, which we look for in vain in those who still plan to do much in the world.

Christians are invincible optimists, often almost against their will. They are compelled to feel that winter cannot last, that new buds must sprout on the ice-covered branches, that flowers must spring up through the snow. To them the grave itself is but the gate of Life. To them the oft-quoted words of our greatest Christian poet rings ever true:

"Grow old along with me!

The best is yet to be,

The last of life, for which the first was made,

Our times are in his hand

Who saith 'A whole I planned,

Youth shows but half; trust God! see all, nor be afraid.'"

When we say that Easter Day is the festival of Life, we mean the festival of Human Life; for all lower life is but the vestibule of Human Life. And when we say Human life, we mean eternal life; for life that can ever end is not life but death, the mockery of life.

Jesus Christ did not create the hope of Immortality; that is stamped so deep in the instinct of man, that nothing could ever quite crush it out. But before Christ came, men needed proof of immortality. They longed so for it, groped so to find it; but even the wisest of them died only guessing that it might be true. The great multitudes of the ancient world could only beat upon the closed door of the tomb and cry out the "Vale! Vale!" of their broken hearts. But he who came from Galilee put a new value into life. The sun shone brighter as it touched his face, the flowers sprang fresher as they touched his feet, birds came to sing to him, little children ran to cling to him. The sick turned upon their crutches, and the guilty uncovered their shame-scarred faces as he passed by; nay, even the dead sat up and began to speak. And all because Christ brought a new kind of life into the world; or, rather, because he added a new life to the old life already in the world, making it an undying life. He added the life of God to the life of men, and thus made life eternal.

What Jesus really did therefore was to verify the hope of immortality already possessed by the human family with the authentic seal of actual demonstration. He took it out of the shadowy valley of may-be up to the shining peak of certainty. His pierced hands got hold of that hope and made it operative in the lives of men. It is no longer a dream, but a dynamic. The Resurrection has altered the flow, the course, of history, has changed the ideals of whole peoples, has put a song in the hearts of men, has abolished death's sting by taking away the grisly, hopeless note, has robbed the grave of its victory by shewing us that death hath no power to harm us.

Easter therefore, is not the day of a wistful hope; it is rather the celebration of a blazing and glorious fact. The flowers of Easter are not then fragile symbols of a lovely sentiment; they are the triumphant banners of an actual event. The message of Easter is an announcement: "Christ is risen!" The Lord is risen from the dead! The third day he rose! We saw him dead and buried! And we saw him, talked with him, ate with him, after he was risen from the dead, and behold he is Alive for evermore.

The Gospel records were not written to prove the Resurrection. They were written by those who needed no proof because they knew it to be a fact. They are not a series of signed affidavits; no reasonable person would expect them to be. They are not questions and answers brought out in cross-examination by skeptical lawyers on the one hand and witnesses who have been coached on the other. They are the artless accounts of eye-witnesses and ear-witnesses to whom there had come a stupendous experience which they could not but narrate.

If Jesus did not rise from the dead, then what did happen? Something happened! The gloom, the utter abysmal despair of Good Friday, changed suddenly to the indescribable joy of the third day after. Something occurred; the Jewish Sabbath with all its hallowed traditions became secondary. The first day of the week, the Lord's Day, became primary. Something transpired; the defeated companions of Jesus became messengers of a flaming evangel. And their account of what happened, of what occurred, of what transpired, bears upon its face the note of stark sincerity and reality. Jesus Christ rose from the dead on the third day; and that is the reason they all give.

Skepticism has offered three substitutes to the account of the resurrection, and the honest biblical student should face them fairly and squarely. First, it is claimed the story is a legend; but a legend wouldn't develop over-night, in an hour or two! Secondly, it is suggested that our Lord did not actually die on Good Friday, but was resuscitated; to which the obvious answer is that a first hand reading of the Gospels or of the Epistles will show anyone that these companions of Jesus were not on fire with passionate devotion to a spectral convalescent, but to a powerful Conqueror of Death. Thirdly, and finally, it has been maintained that the story of the Resurrection all came about through the vision of a hysterical woman; but any first-rate psychologist would tell you that the poorest subjects for hysteria and hallucination would be Galilean fishermen, prosaic, matter-of-fact, hard-fisted, hard-headed, practical men who expected nothing of the kind, but were, on the contrary, convinced that all their plans were ruined beyond repair.

No! The account is quite true! All down through the ages even to us today can be felt the tingle and thrill of these eye-witnesses, to whom of a sudden there came the convincing evidence that their Master was indeed risen from the dead; alive, triumphant, and still in closest touch with them; directing, instructing, inspiring, empowering them.

One thing was certain; he who had been to them the Living One, living with the Life of God, was now alive again, with a life that had conquered death. They did not argue and reason, or draw conclusions. Joy is not of necessity logical neither is it articulate. One thing they felt and knew, though they could not put it into words; that he was alive now to stay alive, "alive for evermore"; and that if they clung to him too, they would never die. Then no doubt came back to them amidst their joy the meaning of our Lord's tender farewell words, "I will come again, and receive you unto Myself."

"Alive for evermore." We know—we who are Christians—that when we call men to repentance we are calling them to the long view of a life everlasting. We know when we baptize people that we are baptizing them into a fellowship, a communion of saints which is unbroken by death. We know when we are burying our dead that we are speeding them through the gate of death into light and peace and life more abundant.

But do we know it? Is the Resurrection real to us? For whilst the prime evidence of the Resurrection is in the Gospels and Epistles, yet in another and vital sense, the evidence of the Resurrection is in the patience of the early Christian martyrs, in the undefeated joy of Christian mourners, in the supernatural holiness of Christian lives. Jesus Christ is not a dead hero; he is a living Lord, "alive for evermore." Thus Easter Day becomes "the day that the Lord hath made." May we "rejoice and be glad in it."

God's people, come and sing your praise

To him who rose from death this day,

The flowers and all living things

Their homage pay.

So bring him prayers and grateful hearts

And leave your petty cares behind;

Christ rose from death this day!

RESURRECTION HOPE.

hearts of men by his resurrection shall not be lost. "For unto us a child is born, unto us a Son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder." Our poor shoulders would be crushed, but not his, Hallelujah! "And his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. Of his government and peace there shall be no end." (Isa. 9:6, 7). Therefore, O my comrades, O my soul, be not cast down, but "hope in God; for I shall yet praise him who is the health of my countenance and my God."

The heathen may rage, and the people imagine a vain thing. The kings of the earth may set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together against the Lord, and against his anointed. But he that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision. He will give the heathen to Jesus for an inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for his possession. Let us be wise, and instructed. Let us serve the Lord with reverent fear and rejoice with trembling. "Blessed are all they that put their trust in him." Psalm 2. Hallelujah!

He has gone to prepare a place for us, and some day he will come again and receive us unto himself that where he is there we may be also. (John 14:3). Let us watch and pray and be diligent and steadfast to "hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end." (Heb. 3:6).

IS EVOLUTION AN ESTABLISHED FACT?

turies and we have hardly solved any of them. Let him deny this who can. Our government is no more stable; our society is but little improved; our education is so shot through with the impractical that it is hardly above the crude state of beginning. We commit the same sins, and make the same blunders. All in all our boasted culture has betrayed into so many mistakes that we will be fortunate indeed if it does not finally wreck Western Civilization and turn us back into barbarism. Our only hope is to find our way to God through Jesus Christ, and by paralleling his laws make our way forward along the light-bathed roads of fellowship to the prosperity and peace and perpetuity of which we have dreamed but can never know without thus experiencing God.

In our next article we shall consider some of the deeper problems of consciousness and self-consciousness with which the evolutionist must deal. And these problems must be met by all schools of evolution since, as we have said, movement of all theories of evolution must be from the simple to the complex.

"RESURRECTION."

To me, there is nothing which so beautifully symbolizes the Resurrection, as the flower bulb which, after its day of beauty and usefulness is seemingly over and it is pronounced dead, it is then returned to the dust there to await its resurrection. In God's own time, after it has rested for awhile, when the sun's rays have shone upon it, and the rain from heaven has watered it, it comes forth, not in another form other than that which was planted but, in exactly the same beauty and color and kind. What a comforting thought for those who have lost loved ones. Shall we know them? I believe we shall.

Every home has lost a loved one, And the grave has claimed them all, Still we've only parted from them, Till we hear our Savior's call.

Every grave has gained a victory, Robbed of terror and of dread, Easter means Resurrection— Resurrection from the dead.

An Easter Thought.

What is your thought of Easter? Is it a gown, a suit or a hat? Oh, my friend, your thought of Easter Should be something more than that.

'Tis the hope of a Resurrection; For those who in Christ shall die, Will come forth when he shall call them,

To be with him forever on high.
Rena B. Leap.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Would you publish my letter on page ten? My friend, Mrs. Costigar, takes The Pentecostal Herald; it is a good paper on holiness, and I like that. I am saved and sanctified. I am a young man, well physically; I belong to the Nazarene Church of Lansing. I've been a member for ten years. We're having a snowstorm today. A real Christian who is born of the Holy Spirit and has a burden for lost souls has no time to waste. A real Christian does not go to theaters, dance halls, play cards, nor buy a Sunday paper. A real Christian loves to go to church, prayer meeting, loves to read religious papers and his Bible. Best regards to all the cousins, from

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have been a silent reader of your very interesting letters, dear friends, for more than a year and I enjoy them very much. I owe my acquaintance to The Pentecostal Herald to the Mackey Sisters, evangelists. This town was blessed with their presence during three weeks last winter. They assisted the Methodist Episcopal minister, Rev. L. S. Cass, in his evangelistic campaign. During their sojourn with us, one of the Mackey Sisters handed me a sample copy of The Herald. I liked it so much that I at once forwarded my subscription and have been enjoying its weekly visits ever since. I read The Herald from cover to cover and enjoy every word of it. I am so glad that many of you are Christians. I am a Christian and belong to the Methodist Episcopal Church. Christians are supposed to be the light of the world. Light is beautiful, therefore we should not be disagreeable or unpleasant in this life, but should show to the unsaved the beauty of holiness. I have always found great joy and peace in serving Jesus and my aim is ever to do his will. The Christian life is the only life that satisfies. Jesus is such a wonderful Savior. He is always near us to guide and comfort in time of trouble and sorrow. Just let him have his way with you. I teach a Sunday school class of eleven girls twelve years old. I love the girls and enjoy telling them about Jesus and his saving power. Ridgway is a beautiful little town of approximately seven thousand inhabitants. This is not my home town, but this is the fourth school term I have lived here. I am the teacher of Commercial subjects in the local High School. I teach Gregg Shorthand, typing and book-keeping and thoroughly enjoy my work. We have a beautiful new high school building here which makes working conditions very pleasant. We also have a good Y. M. C. A. building, several churches of different denominations and many pretty homes which add to the beauty and interest of our town. My home is 220 miles from here in Granville, Pa. I have two brothers but no sisters. One of my brothers is married and lives at home. I have a Christian mother and father still living, for whom I thank God every day. I am twenty-six years old, have dark, long hair and eyes and am five feet, four inches tall, weigh 130 pounds. I shall be glad to receive letters from all the cousins who care to write. I will answer all letters received. May God richly bless you all.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am a reader of The Herald and have been for a long time. I think it is a fine paper. My husband is a Methodist and I am a Baptist; we go to both churches when we can. I think there is some good reading in The Herald. We have two sweet children that God has so blessed us with. I have had a hard time to raise them; they have been sick a lot. The girl has had leakage of the heart and flu. She was so low for about ten days it looked like the last breath was gone many times. We quit giving medicine and I prayed as never before. I thank God for sparing her life. I am still blest with mother and father.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am rather timid to ask but would like to join your good-natured band of boys and girls. You may think me too far away to join you, but even though I am on the other side of the globe from you, I am not the shady color of the sons of this land. I am a native of your own good old U. S. A., and am here working for Jesus, trying to lead these interior bushmen of Africa to the Lamb of God and eternal life. My, I wish you could see some of these tribesmen. I suppose their abbreviated dress garbs would be right up-to-date at home, and maybe their rings in the ears and nose too; then some of them wear a long stick in their nose and ears and load their necks and legs and arms down with ivory, brass, copper or iron rings so when they walk it goes clink, clink, clink all the way for miles. They say that noise keeps away the evil spirits. You see they don't know anything about Jesus yet and so they can't trust him. I wonder if any of the cousins wouldn't like to come out and help teach these poor people about the way to find Jesus and eternal life. If any of you will write me I will gladly send you pictures from here. Of course I want you all to pray every day for these poor people so God will lead them into the Light of Life. Who will pray for these boys and girls to be saved? If you will, write me and I will send you pictures of some of them you can pray for. I will not tell you this time about my hair, eyes, age and the like. Whoever can guess that or come the nearest to it will get a bunch of pictures from here. Lots of love to all my little cousins.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Good morning! I wish to thank each and every one for the nice letters, tracts, etc. I'm always writing to The Herald and making mistakes, but I feel as if I ought to write and send a poem, but I'm afraid its too long to print. Have been reading some good books by D. L. Moody, "God is Love," "In this house I give peace saith the Lord," and some wonderful sermons written by him; also the life of Samuel Morris, a Spirit-filled African. He came to America to learn more about the Holy Ghost. The life of that man will never die. Dr. Morrison must be a good man, and well educated. Aunt Bettie is a fine woman. I wish I could help them. I heard Bro. Beeler, a student at Asbury College, sing a song a few years ago. "It won't be long, it may be soon." Hope some one will send it to me, please. I'd like to hear from every state in the Union. Please send a letter, card, or something from your state. Would be glad to have your picture. If my letter is too long and silly, just put this poem in The Herald, please, as I want to see it in print soon.

The Only Hope of Happiness.

O God, my soul is pressed with envy, As men in haste run to and fro, In search of peace they cannot know, No matter where on earth they go. The restless sea casts up its mire And lifts its waves still higher and higher.

But these return to their own state Bound by the laws of heartless fate. Just so mankind in ceaseless quest In every way seek happiness. They toil and struggle night and day, But never reach the shining goal And with your loved ones you shall meet

And place your trophies at his feet.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I am eleven years old and in the seventh grade at school. I have brown eyes and light hair and am four feet and ten inches tall. I weigh sixty-three pounds. Who has my birthday, Dec. 11? We have been having a great revival at our church with Brother Swan and Insko. Who can guess my middle name? It begins with E and ends with H, and has nine letters in it. The one that guesses it I will write to them. I would like for all the cousins to write to me.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let an Ohio boy join your happy band of boys and girls? I am three feet, ten inches tall. I weigh fifty-four pounds. I have light hair and brown eyes. I have very light complexion. I was nine years old March 30. My mother lives in Cleveland and I stay with my grandmother and go to school. I am in the third grade. I go to the M. E. Sunday school every Sunday. I am just over the chickenpox. I started back to school today.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I, too, would like to join this good company of page ten in The Pentecostal Herald. I am very much impressed with the letters of the young minister who signs his name Clarence Daily. He has spoken so nice of the young people. The desire of my heart is to encourage the young folks all I can in the Christian way of living, and that is, to die to the things of this world, and live for Jesus. I know you cannot serve two masters, and when we are saved, the things of this old world have lost its charm for us. When we dedicate our lives wholly to the Lord then he will sanctify the gift, and we are clean and fit vessels for the Master's use.

Living for Jesus a life that is true, Striving to please him in all that we do;

Such love constrains me to answer his call, Follow his leading and give him my all.

Mrs. Ada Elmer.
Pennsville, N. J.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am an interested reader of page ten in The Herald and am much impressed by some of the letters written by young folks. But I should like to know what has happened to the "Jersey" boys and girls. Get busy Jersey boys and girls, and give us some testimonies for Jesus. I want to be one to say I am acquainted with the good Shepherd. I know Jesus saves from all sin and keeps us pure within. My life and all my possessions belong to Jesus because when I consecrated my life I gave up all into his keeping, and now I am satisfied to walk in his footsteps, knowing that he will lead me only in such places as I may be a blessing in. My whole trust is in my Savior. A consecrated life is truly a blessed one to live. I have tried it for over two years and I am finding joy and happiness in the service of the King that I never found in worldly pleasures, and what's more, life grows better and sweeter every day when we are wholly given over to Jesus. I will try to change the subject a little and tell you something about myself and my home town. I am eighteen years of age. Have a Sunday school class of sixteen girls, ten years of age; also I hold the office of Junior League Supt., with about 35 Juniors under my leadership. I enjoy this work as I cannot go to school because of poor health. I am trying to bring these boys and girls to see that living for Jesus pays. Pray for me, cousins, that I may bring many of these boys and girls to Jesus in their youth. I am so glad I found him while I was young. Who has my birthday, March 15? Pennsville is a small town with only one church and one school. The church is a Methodist Episcopal church. I love it dearly as it is where I found Christ. I am much impressed with the letters favoring long hair, natural complexion and suitable dresses, as I too am old-fashioned enough to favor them. Will someone please answer this? I will try to answer all I get.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Would you let a little Virginia boy join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my first letter to The Herald and I hope to see it in print. I have blue eyes, light brown hair and fair complexion. I am in the third grade at school. I am eight years old. My birthday is August 30. Have I a twin? I go to school nearly every day that I can. I like my teacher fine; her name is Miss Nell Wood. My father takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten better than any other page. I hope Mr. W. B. is eating supper when this letter arrives. I will answer all letters I receive.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Would you let a little Virginia girl join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my third letter to The Herald. I have blue eyes, light brown hair and fair complexion. I am in the sixth grade at school. I go to school every day I can. I like my teacher fine; her name is Miss Bessie McMurray. My father takes The Herald. I enjoy reading page ten. My birthday is April 3. Have I a twin? I hope Mr. W. B. is eating supper when this letter arrives. With love to Aunt Bettie and all the cousins.

FALLEN ASLEEP

JONES.

J. Major Jones was a familiar character at the Indian Spring Holiness camp ground. A resident of Fort Valley, Ga., he became one of the cottagers of the camp ground. At first an interested listener to the deep truths of the Gospel there preached, he soon became hungry, and sought and obtained the blessing of entire sanctification. The shining face and glowing testimony of Bro. Jones will be remembered, not only there, but in his home church and in many churches throughout Georgia. He was a traveling man who always sought the prayer meeting every place he visited. His earnest prayers and testimonies of fresh experiences gladdened the heart of many a pastor and sent a thrill of hope into hungry hearts.

Bro. Jones was a tither who carried the tithes to the storehouse. The consternation of the Board of Stewards can be imagined when one day there was found in the collection plate six envelopes, each containing fifty dollars. There was no name attached, but it was not long before these unusual offerings were traced to this source.

A wife, three daughters, and two sons cherish the heritage of this godly life cut off at sixty-five years of age.

As lay leader, superintendent for years of the camp ground Sunday school, his life and example enriched the church and community.

Mrs. Geo. W. Matthews.

GRIFFITH.

Brother Harrison H. Griffith, of McDonald, Pa., went out from among us to be with the Lord February 20, 1927. Brother Griffith was in Asbury College preparing for the ministry. Two years prior to his coming to Wilmore, 1923, he served a pastorate near Waynesburg, Pa., and went to school there. His passing out at the age of thirty reminds us that the old must die and the young may die. We who have felt the vacancy in our hearts because we see him here no more, "mourn not as those who have no hope," for we expect to meet him shortly where the sunshine of righteousness will be magnified to our souls. Our souls have been drawn closer to the Lord, our spirits have been so lifted that it seems that we are almost within the antechamber of heaven.

Brother Griffith's brief illness of twenty days were days of interest and heartfelt sympathy. I am reminded of his saying, when some had visited and left without having prayer, "We must have prayer before you leave." The trouble which caused his death was an inward goiter which affected his heart. All the doctor could do could not save him. The Lord had something better for Harrison and invited him up higher. He went out peaceably, without a struggle. He said, "I am willing to go, or willing to stay; either one that will glorify God the more."

My first acquaintance with Brother Griffith was during the school year of 1923, in the mission at Brooklyn Bridge, Ky. He was a stalwart young man, physically, mentally, and spiritually. He ever preached a full gospel and many were saved and sanctified under his ministry. His last message was preached in the Methodist Church at Mason, Ky., from the text, "While he lingered," Gen. 19:16, concerning Lot's warning to flee from Sodom. He poured out his soul for the salvation of the lost. Every professor, student or townsman that knew him loved him for his cheerful greetings of love for all, and he was a blessing to all with whom he came in contact. He was buried in the Nobles-town Cemetery, Feb. 24.

Following Brother Harrison's death, Feb. 20, his mother went to be with him on Feb. 27. Mrs. Griffith, a woman of sturdy Christian character, has been troubled with leakage of the heart and dropsy for the past ten or fifteen years. She was a cheerful soul enjoying the blessing of full salvation, and passed out peaceably to be with Jesus. She leaves her children, Mrs. Baron, of Washington, Pa., Mrs. Brinkman, of McDonald, Miss Elizabeth, Hazel and Grace at home, Mr. James Griffith of McDonald, and Albert, Willis and Clairton at home. She was buried beside her husband at Canonsburgh, Pa. Mr. Griffith went home April 22, 1925. We believe they are now rejoicing together and singing the songs of a mighty Redeemer "who is mighty to save and strong to deliver." Let us bear the family up in prayer before God that there may be an unbroken family circle in heaven. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." Rev. 14:13.

GRAVES.

At the request of the family I am glad to speak briefly of Mrs. W. L. Graves, who recently departed from us. Mrs. Graves was the wife of Rev. W. L. Graves, who, a few years ago, came to Nacogdoches vicinity from Shelby county, Texas. She was formerly Miss Laura Fountain, one of a number of children of whom only one is now living, I believe, Mr. Doc Fountain, of Garrison, Tex. Of her own family, Mrs. Graves leaves behind her a husband, and eight living children, viz., Prof. H. B. Graves, Mrs. B. G. Carnes, Mrs. Joe Lambert, Ira, John Rolfe, Nora, Parker, and Nona Belle.

Mrs. Graves was born June 26, 1865, and in the language of her boys, "joined the angels" about midnight, Dec. 28, 1926. She gave her heart to God when about 22 years old, at that time also uniting with the Methodist Church, of which she was a member at her death. The writer was at one time her pastor for a number of years, and found her faithful in attendance, and in heartiest sympathy with the work of promoting the Kingdom of God. Her walk with God seemed to be one of quietness and gentle peace. It was such that her children had confidence toward her and in her last hours with them, they could gather about her bed and truly call her "blessed."

She was a mother of the old type. She did not seem to think of her own comfort or pleasure, but lived for her children and what she might do for others. Sacrifice seemed to be the one word which better expressed her interpretation of a worthy life. Prov. 31:10-31 describes to my mind many of the beautiful traits of this good woman.

On the part of those of her family and others who knew and loved her I would urge faithfulness to God and holiness of life that we may join her where reigneth God the Father through one eternal day.

Her body was laid in Fairview cemetery to await the resurrection, when "The dead in Christ shall rise first." Revs. Harris and Marshall officiated at her funeral.

Rev. B. G. Carnes.

Wimberly's Messages For the Times is a splendid book that deals with many interesting questions. It will instruct and entertain the whole family. Get it for your quiet hour around the family fireside. Price $1.00.

Suggestions to Singers.

Always see that the song-book used in your meeting has a supply of good invitations and good altar songs. Our "Gladness and Praise" has a fine selection of both; and there are thirty of them.

Also see that the doctrines of the Bible, especially those touching salvation and sanctification are in the book. The songs should back up and support the sermons preached. Many song-books contain no searching gospel truths on full salvation lines. But they are in Gladness and Praise. See Nos. 2, 5, 10, 15, 25, 70, 76. Also see 103, 130, 138, 143, 146, 174, 176, 179, 208, 211. One evangelist says: "I have sold thousands of song-books in meetings, but it's best yet." Another says, "The more I use it the better I like it. It is a gem." Price, 25c. Special rates to evangelists. Round notes or shaped. Always state choice.

The Tongue of Fire, by Arthur, is a wonderfully instructive book on holiness. It stresses the need of the Baptism of Fire, and shows the results upon the individual and in his religious work. Invest a dollar in this book, and it will deepen your spiritual life.

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

"Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man; and, therefore, if a man write little, he had need have a great memory; if he confer little, he had need have a present wit; and if he read little, he had need have much cunning to seem to know that he doth not."

—Francis Bacon.

The Tongue of Fire, by William Arthur, A.M.

This book has been called a classic on Holiness. In the words of the author: "The . . . pages are the fruit of meditations entered upon with a desire to lessen the distance painfully felt to exist between my own life and ministry and those of the primitive Christians." "Its utterances are like the staccato notes of the priestly trumpet, summoning the hosts of Israel to battle." The best review of this book is found in the table of contents.

1. The Promise of a Baptism of Fire.
2. The Waiting for the fulfillment.
3. The Fulfillment of the Promise.
4. Effects Which Immediately Followed the Baptism of Fire.
 - a. Spiritual Effects.
 - b. Miraculous Effects.
 - c. Ministerial Effects.
 - d. Effects upon the World.
5. Permanent Benefits Resulting to the Church.
6. Practical Lessons.

Every preacher, and every believer in Holiness would greatly profit by reading this book. The price is $1.00.

The Life of John Wesley, by Richard Watson.

This is really two books in one. It has 345 pages on the life of Wesley, written by Richard Watson; and also 167 pages by Thomas O. Summers, which is a defense of Wesley against the so-called biography by Southey.

Mr. Watson gives us an interesting biography. It is complete enough to be authentic, yet not long enough to be tiresome. He not only gives interesting details of Wesley's life and theology, but also traces the Methodist movement in England and America during Wesley's lifetime.

The defense by Mr. Summers is written against the criticisms of Southey on Wesley's teachings and character. This is an admirable treatise, and worthy of consideration.

For a popular edition, not too large for one's library, yet large enough to give the main facts, this is good. The book sells for $1.00.

Messages For the Times, by Rev. C. F. Wimberly, A.B., D.D.

This is a book of 200 pages on various topics of interest. The author treats them in his usual charming simplicity, and holds the interest in every discussion. It was written especially to appeal to every member of the family, and we believe it will.

Some of the most interesting chapters are: "Evolution—Ten Reasons Why I Do Not Believe It." "Why I Believe the Bible." "The Penalty of Power." "Gospel Camouflage." "Will We Sell Peanuts in Africa?" "Ten Human Mysteries."

In the first chapter the author asks and answers some very compelling questions, viz: Why are we here? Why is the moral universe so strangely adjusted? Why is it so much easier to sin than not to sin? Why is the human heart so constituted that it can never be satisfied? Why is there such a diversity of talents? If we are immortal, and the life to come outweighs this, touching moral, spiritual, and eternal issues, why can we not see it more easily? The book sells for $1.00.

Fads, Fakes, Freaks, Frauds and Fools, by W. E. Shepard.

The title of this book is enough to explain it. It is a compilation of clippings, sermons, notes, and illustrations on the topics named in the title.

The book is dedicated "To all who have ever been fooled, or likely to be." This takes us all in.

There are many interesting incidents related in the stories told; and one will find various useful illustrations in them.

The regular price of the book is $2.00; special price of $1.00.

The Way of Power, by Rev. John Paul, D.D.

This is a series of ten lectures delivered by Dr. Paul in the Japan Convention for Deepening of Spiritual Life several years ago. They were taken just as he spoke them; and although lack in some few instances the literary polish they would have if he had rewritten them, they are really worth more because of the personal touch thereby retained. They are Dr. Paul—in his logical, scholarly presentation of ideas, and are solid all the way through.

There is one central thought running through the book, viz: Heart language is the same with every race of every age; therefore, holiness of heart is the only remedy for the ills of the world.

Note the chapters: "Emptied and Filled," "The Object of Power," "The Farewell Solicitude of Jesus," (This is especially good) "Pursuit and Possession," "See Yourself First," "The Great Transaction," "The Vicarious Tragedy," "My Cup," "Soul Pilots," "Victory." The price of the book is $1.00.

The Minister in the Itinerant System, by Bishop Thomas B. Neely, D.D., LL.D.

In the words of the author himself, "This book is a brief study of the itinerant appointive system of pastor supply, and, particularly, of the minister in the system—how it affects him and how it should be affected by him,—and also the relation of the layman and the local churches to this system."

Some of the most interesting chapters are: "The System," "Does the System Keep Its Promises?" "Should the System Be Destroyed," "The Pastor."

Many ministers and some laymen will be interested in this book. It was written, not for inspirational or devotional purposes, but for instruction to those who desire to know the foundations of the episcopacy. Price $1.00.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

HELPS FOR BIBLE STUDY.

Many are in need of good books to enable them to classify the Scriptures by subjects. The three we here list have proven a real aid to many.

Leaves From the Tree of Life; Or Gleanings from the Word of God. $1.50.

It contains 76 Bible readings that are helpful in the study of the Bible, in getting up prayer meeting talks, etc. A pastor said, "I always keep this book right by my Bible."

Bible Fruit $1.50

This is supplemental to the "Leaves." The readings are fewer, but longer, more full and complete.

Another pastor being asked if he had this book, responded by opening his circuit "saddle bags" and bringing out his Bible and "Bible Fruit."

The Book and Its Theme $1.50.

This is on the Bible as an inspired book and Holiness as its "theme." Hundreds have been blessed by reading it.

These three books should be a part of your library. They make a splendid gift for your pastor or a young preacher.

All three for $4.00.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson IV.—April 24, 1927.

Subject.—Peter at the Transfiguration. Mark 9:2-10; 2 Peter 1:16-18.

Golden Text.—This is my beloved Son: hear him. Mark 9:7.

Time.—A. D. 29.

Place.—Uncertain. Dr. A. Clarke says, "One of the mountains of Galilee." Herman and Tabor have both been selected for the honor. Dr. Lightfoot thinks it was a mountain near Caesarea Philippi.

Introduction.—We need consume but little time on this part of the lesson. Matthew, Mark and Luke all give account of the incident recorded in the lesson, the facts being clearly stated, although there are some variations in language which we shall notice in commenting on the different verses. Dr. Clarke supposes that the Transfiguration occurred at night, the darkness being better suited than the light for the display of its glories; and we think he is correct, judging from what Luke says (9:37): "And it came to pass, that on the next day, when they were come down from the hill." The language seems to indicate that they had spent the previous night on the mount of Transfiguration.

Dr. Clarke has a fine paragraph on the purpose of the Transfiguration: "The whole of this emblematic transaction appears to me to be intended to prove, 1st. The reality of the world of spirits, and the immortality of the soul. 2nd. The resurrection of the body, and the doctrine of future rewards and punishments, see Matt. 16: 27. 3rd. The abolition of the Mosaic institutions, and the fulfilment of the predictions of the prophets relative to the person, nature, sufferings, death, and resurrection of Christ, and the glory that should follow. 4th. The establishment of the mild, light-bringing, and life-giving Gospel of the Son of God. And 5th. That as the old Jewish covenant and Mediatorship had ended, Jesus was now to be considered as the sole Teacher, the only availing offer for sin, and the grand Mediator between God and man."

Comments on the Lesson.

2. After six days.—Luke says: "And it came to pass about an eight days after these sayings." "Matthew and Mark reckon the days from that mentioned in the preceding chapter to that mentioned in this; Luke includes both days as well as the six intermediate: hence, the one makes eight days, the other six, without any contradiction." Peter, James, and John.—The Mosaic law required two or three witnesses to any important fact; and Jesus was complying with the law, but no reason is given why these three men were chosen rather than some others of the apostles. They may have been better prepared for the occasion. Leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves.—The language is a bit emphatic, as though the Master would have us understand distinctly that some matters are too sacred for the public to witness: He would not cast pearls before swine. Was transfigured before them.—This is explained in what follows.

3. His raiment became shining (bright) exceeding white as snow.—An old form of English, meaning whiter than snow. We make a misuse of language when we say, "exceedingly white." The fuller is one who bleaches cloth.

4. There appeared unto them Elias with Moses.—Elias is the Greek form of the Hebrew name Elijah which should have been given in the English translation. They were talking with Jesus.—We learn from Luke (9:31) that they "appeared in glory, and spake of his decease which he should accomplish at Jerusalem." Neither Matthew nor Mark tells us what they were talking about. We learn also from Luke that he went up into the mountain to pray, and that the Transfiguration took place while he was praying.

5. It is good for us to be here.—Peter was enjoying the scene and the glorious company. Let us make three tabernacles (shelters): one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.—Luke intimates that Peter did not know what he was talking about. Maybe he was so impressed with the heavenly visitants that he wished to retain them so as to continue to enjoy their company.

6. Mark tells us plainly what was the matter with Peter: "He wist not what to say; for they were sore afraid." No marvel that they were frightened. Such a scene would make the stoutest heart tremble with fear. We are all more or less moved by anything supernatural. Most of us are somewhat superstitious—we are even afraid of dead people.

7. A cloud overshadowed them.—While overshadow is the literal import of the Greek verb used here, some commentators think that the meaning of the passage would be more clearly brought out by translating the clause, "surrounded them." A voice came out of the cloud.—They heard God the Father speaking. This is my beloved Son.—Likewise did the Father endorse Jesus at the time of his baptism. Hear him.—Here we meet the great turning point between Judaism and Christianity. He was the fulfilment of all that went before him. The Mosaic rites and ceremonies were to be laid aside, because they had accomplished their purpose, and were of no further use. Their office had been that of a schoolmaster to bring men to Christ—a servant who led the child to his teacher. Old things were passing away, and all things were becoming new.

8. Suddenly . . . they saw no man any more, save Jesus only.—Moses and Elijah had returned on their way back to heaven. While the text contains no such lesson, it is a good thing for us to "see no man, save Jesus only."

9. As they came down from the mountain.—On the morning after the Transfiguration. He charged them that they should tell no man what things they had seen.—The thought turns upon the expression. Hear him, in the text. The Jews said: "Hear Moses"; but if the three apostles had reported that they were in the mount of Transfiguration with Jesus, and that they had heard God say to them that they should hear him, it would have created an uproar among the rulers. At this juncture the Master took occasion to announce the fact that he would rise from the dead; but the three disciples seemed unable to understand him. How clearly this comes out in the next verse: "They kept that saying with themselves, questioning with one another what the rising from the dead should mean." We human beings are dull of comprehension when it comes to spiritual things.

16. The last part of the lesson, taken from 2 Peter, sounds like an echo from the mount of Transfiguration. The apostle is on the witness stand speaking out of his heart-convictions: "We have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus, but were eye-witnesses of his majesty." Peter, James, and John had been taken into the mountain for this express purpose; so when the time arrived they were prepared to give a certain testimony.

7. For he received from God the Father honor and glory.—It is the delight of the Father to honor his well beloved Son; but I am always at a loss as to the full meaning of the word glory. As used in the Bible it must mean much more than we commonly attach to the word, especially must this be true when it applies to the Godhead. In general usage we have debased the word, as we have many others. Peter says that this glory was conferred upon Jesus "when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory." Then he quotes from memory the words in which he supposes this glory to be expressed: This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased"; but still the meaning of that great round word Glory refuses to make itself manifest to men.

18. In this verse Peter simply reiterates what he had already affirmed, making it a bit stronger by declaring that 'they heard this voice which came from heaven when they were with him in the holy mount.' "This thing was not done in a corner," but in the presence of reliable witnesses. God does not cast pearls before swine, nor give holy things to dogs; but he does ever have his true witnesses on hand to preserve his revelations of truth, and to convey them to men.

RABBONI.

Clyde Edwin Tuck.

We hail Thee, Master! bringing lilies white
To deck Love's altar, knowing that Thy light
Of truth has banished from each grave the night:
All live in Thee.

Reveal Thyself to us, for we believe,
We who have seen Thee not, we would receive

The light that would our minds of doubt relieve,—
We look to Thee.

Be Thou to us our risen Christ, indeed;
We know that from death's fetters we were freed

When from the tomb you came, mankind to lead
To life through Thee.

"Come, follow Me," we hear Thee
pleading still,

"Your fears I would destroy, your hopes fulfill."

We seek Thy face, to know Thy holy will;
We trust in Thee.

Oh, whether to the mount of high emprise,

Or through dark valleys life's rough pathway lies—

And even to the last lone bridge of sighs,

We follow Thee!

CHRIST IS RISEN!

The flowers, the birds, the grass and trees are bursting with gladness because of this fact. It is Easter time, the time of the Resurrection without which the world would be black indeed.

Did you know that the Near East is the land of Christ and the Resurrection? Would you not like to make an offering to little children in that country who are without father, mother, country? If so send to The Pentecostal Herald, 523 So. First St., Louisville, Ky.

For Near East Relief.

EVANGELISTIC AND PERSONAL.

Miss Jean A. Reid, 4121 Burns Ave., Detroit, Mich., is open for engagements as song leader and children's worker. Miss Reid is engaged in a meeting in Detroit, where she will be until April 18, after which time she will be available for other revival work.

Rev. G. E. Phillips: "I have a man in my church who is a very capable pastor, but is so situated that he cannot leave his business at Sidney, O., for the present, but is anxious to give some church his time on Sunday. He is a man of the John Wesley type, and any church who may secure his services is to be congratulated. Any one interested may communicate with me at Sidney, Ohio."

Rev. F. L. Spindler: "I recently had the pleasure of visiting the Holiness Academy at Ava, Mo., and give them a 'two-weeks' meeting. The church under the care of Rev. T. F. Adams is doing fine, and the school under the Principal, F. C. Nicholson, is also prospering. On Sunday over twenty came forward and dedicated themselves for mission work, and a good offering for missions was taken."

Rev. W. W. McCord: "I certainly appreciate Dr. Morrison's compliment on our pecans, especially his making mention of our drive to free our camp ground of debt. Through the help of the people we have been able to send our creditors $40.00 interest and $100 on the principal. We wish to thank all who have helped us by ordering pecans."

Rev. H. L. Golden, of Vaughan, Miss., is offering his services to pastors in his special line of work of lecturing to men and boys. Those desiring his services may address him as above indicated.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Evangelist W. E. Lytle, of Wilmore, Ky., has had several dates for revival meetings cancelled and would be glad to put in the time in evangelistic work with some one desiring help in that fruitful field of service. Brother Lytle was for some years a successful lawyer, but on receiving a very gracious baptism of the Holy Spirit he gave up his law practice and has become quite a successful soul winner. Any one desiring his services will please write him at Wilmore, Ky.

Respectfully,
H. C. Morrison.

Dr. John Paul has written a very helpful series of lectures on the deepening of spiritual life in his book, The Way of Power. It sells for $1.00, and is worth it.

INFALLIBLE PROOFS OF THE RESURRECTION.

W. M. Zimmerman.

To whom also he showed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God. Acts 1:3.

St. Luke thinks the appearing of Jesus at least ten different times to his disciples and speaking to them concerning the kingdom of God during the forty days between his resurrection and ascension are infallible proofs. We wish to add a few others.

1. Nature. Every blade of grass, every opening bud, every sprouting grain testify to their belief in a resurrection. The resurrection of the Savior and our resurrection stand or fall together. His resurrection is the pledge of ours. "Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die: And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat or of some other grain." 1 Cor. 15:36, 37.

The grain must die before the tender sprout will come forth. All nature proclaims the resurrection.

2. The universal heart cry. Whether it be the ancient Egyptians, the Red Man, the Greek, the Jew, or the heathen world, all ask the old question:

"If a man die shall he live again? Cato. It must be so. Plato, thou reasonest well!

Else whence this pleasing hope, this fond desire,
This longing after immortality?
Or whence this secret dread, and inward horror,
Of falling into naught? Why shrinks the soul
Back on herself, and startles at destruction?

'Tis the divinity that stirs within us;
'Tis heaven itself that points out an hereafter,
And intimates eternity to man. . . .
The stars shall fade away, the sun himself
Grow dim with age, and Nature sink in years;

But thou shalt flourish in immortal youth,
Unhurt amid the war of elements,
The wreck of matter, and the crush of worlds."—Addison.

The heart cry of the human race for immortality will not go unanswered.

3. An old doctrine. False doctrines rise and fall, but the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead has been proclaimed by the Christian church for 2,000 years.

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again,
The eternal years of God are hers;
But error, writhing in its pain,
Dies amid its worshippers."

8,000,000 Methodists in the U. S. repeat their faith in these words, "I believe in the resurrection of the body," and "Christ did truly rise again from the dead," etc. Art. 3.

Samson pulled the two pillars down upon himself and his enemies and the whole structure fell and great was the fall thereof. The atoning death of Jesus Christ and his resurrection are the two supporting pillars to our faith. Thank God! These stand today and will never fall.

4. The Internal Evidences of the four Gospels. We wish to refer the reader to Dr. Torrey's wonderful sermon in the Fundamentals. The four Gospels all agree that Jesus rose from the dead and the fact is mentioned 104 times in the New Testament. He who robs me of this hope robs me of that which not enriches him and makes me poor indeed. Dr. Torrey deals with the internal evidences that are very convincing as to their truthfulness.

5. The untenableness of other explanations. Renan says, "Mary was in love with Jesus and reported the resurrection." Strauss said it was visionary, while Paulus said it was only a case of resuscitation. All three of these theories are false and easily disproven. How accounts for the Christian church of today, if founded upon deception? The visionary theory lacks in that the disciples were not expecting the resurrection. "Their words seemed to them as idle tales and they believed it not." Jesus actually died as all things indicated, but he rose again.

The writer was once lost in mid-winter one cold night in North Dakota. Imagine our joy at seeing a light in the home where we were going. How lost is the human race until like that light, Jesus brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel! He who obscures that light is no friend to you or me. Livingstone buried his child in Africa, believing in the resurrection of the dead. This hope enables us to follow our dear ones to the church-yard, knowing we shall meet them again.

"For bodily exercise profiteth little; but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come." 1 Tim. 4:8.

6. The reception of the Comforter gives full assurance of faith. His coming into the heart banishes doubt as light banishes darkness. Christian, let your faith hold fast.

My knowledge of that life is small,
The eye of faith is dim;
'Tis enough that Christ knows all,
And I shall be with him.

AN EASTER HYMN.—CHRIST'S RESURRECTION.

F. L. Crowson.

(May be sung to the music of "In His keeping")

With the early morning's breaking
Come the saints, their spirits sinking,
As their hearts are sadly thinking
Of their Lord who's sleeping;
Earth is rent by fearful quaking
As the dead in Christ are waking;
For the Lord his tomb is breaking:
Death can't hold him there.

I receive Christ's resurrection
And my soul his life doth share,
While, through all eternal ages,
I his form may wear.

Angels greet heart-broken mourners
With his words, not meant for scorn-ers,

"To the mount he goes before you,"
As afore he promised.
Now in power is Christ appearing
To his friends, their sad hearts cheering,
For his Godship's now appearing,
He hath conquered death.

All the mount his glory's brightening
And his angels shine like lightning,
There is no more sad heart repining
For the Lord's ascending;
Christian hearts are bowing lower,
For their Lord hath risen over
From the mount of his ascension
To his Father's Throne.

At the Father's Throne he's praying,
While the Holy Ghost he's sending,
To the hearts in grief repenting,
As they are interceding:
Now we feel his power rending
All the heart his blood is cleansing
As by faith our soul's ascending
In the Savior's love.

Something you have wanted for a long time—an interesting book on The Life of John Wesley, by Richard Watson. It will settle many questions about this great man. It is interesting and authentic. Price $1.00.

THE CHRIST OF THE BIBLE.

By The Editor.

WE have religious teachers among us today who seem to want to take the Lord Jesus Christ out of the Old Testament, out of prophecy, out of the gospels, except his own words; and they would separate him from some of his sayings. They would take him out of the epistles; they would stand him up alone, apart from the Bible, Old Testament and New, and yet claim to believe in, and worship him.

These teachers make their boast that the Christ standing alone, and apart, from God's process of revelation and manifestation, and method of teaching and leading men to the truth, is quite sufficient. They are telling you that Christ is the end of all things; throw away all the evidences, prophecies, and inspired writings, and take Jesus. But when you come to examine into their creeds and beliefs, they have a Jesus manufactured in their own imagination, and not the Christ of the Bible, before whom Thomas fell, saying, "My Lord, and my God."

The Son of God revealed in the Holy Scriptures, the true and only Savior of mankind, nowhere undertook to separate himself from the Holy Scriptures. Always, and everywhere, he quoted the Scriptures, called on his enemies to search the Scriptures, and declared that the word of God should not pass away; based his identity, and proved his sonship out of the Scriptures, and challenged men to go to the Scriptures for the proof of all he claimed for himself. If our modern religious skeptics can succeed in divorcing you from the Bible, and the Christ of the Bible, he has succeeded in blinding your eyes, and sending you out into darkness to trust in a myth of his own imagination, instead of the Son of God revealed in the word of God, mighty to save to the uttermost.

Of course, we understand that the great purpose and end of inspired revelation is to reveal Christ, and to lead us to him, and however, we may believe the written word, however orthodox and loyal we may be to the inspiration of the Bible, we certainly fail if we do not find the Christ, accept him, believe in him, and put our trust in him for salvation, but this, by no means, leads us to discount the written word of God; it continues to be to us more and more precious. Its constant study gives us larger revelations, better conceptions, and a more devoted love of the Christ it reveals to us. It seems that some missionaries in their message to the heathen would put away the Old Testament, entirely, and any part of the New Testament that seems to be objectionable to heathen scholars, and offer them some sort of a strange, mangled gospel, a Christ wholly apart from the Scriptures, who really is no more than a great philosopher, a teacher of high moral standards, of peace and brotherhood among men. This is not a Christ revealed in the word of God, to whom men must come; not simply with a reverence with which they would approach a great teacher, but they must come to repentance and confession of sin, surrender to him as the one supreme, almighty, and all holy Son of God, the only and all-sufficient Savior of men.

The true gospel does not leave out the Bible, prophecy, Psalms, Gospels, and Epistles. Jesus says, "If ye are ashamed of me, and my words, I will be ashamed of you before my Father and the holy angels." Jesus gives the Bible his full approval and endorsement. If we want a Christianity that saves, that abides, that stands all the tests, we must accept the whole of God's revelation, and give the world the Bible, the word of God, with the Christ it reveals. The many schemes to which men are having recourse to dodge issues, soften down truth, and get people to make some sort of profession, bring them into the church so they can count them and assess them for financial contributions, are all deceptions and snares, and have written all over them, and all through them, failure. The only Christ that can save, is the Christ of the Bible, and truly saved men cling to the Bible of Christ.

Monthly Sermon.

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."—Matt. 5:6.

Our text is recognized at once as a selection from our Lord's Sermon on the Mount. The Lord Jesus Christ as a preacher, would not have been called eloquent. He never engaged in anything approaching oratorical effort, neither was he a metaphysician; he used plain language loaded with profound meaning, and easily understood by the common people who thronged his ministry.

Much of the teaching of our Lord is by parable. He took the common things with which we are surrounded in our every day life with which to illustrate and bring down to our comprehension the most profound things in all the realm of the great truths of God, and his plan for our salvation from sin here, and our eternal salvation in heaven hereafter.

The Sermon on the Mount is most comprehensive; it begins by proclaiming the blessedness of those who are poor in spirit and humble in heart. Humility is always commended of the Lord; conceit and pride are hateful to him who knows the heart and searches the inner life and hidden thought. Blessed are they who know and feel their own unworthiness, their sinfulness and utter need of a Savior, who are poor in spirit; who are not trying to save themselves by their own works, or imagining that they are sufficient within themselves, but are "poor in spirit," those who have only one song to sing in coming to Christ for salvation, and that is,

"In my hand no price I bring; Simply to thy cross I cling."

Salvation is received by faith in Christ, and it can only be received by those who, realizing their sinfulness, and their dependence upon the Christ who is worthy, come to him smiting their breasts in poverty of spirit, trusting only in his atoning merit.

The Lord assures us that those who thus come mourning because of their sinfulness, shall be comforted. They are comforted with the consciousness of a free and gracious pardon. In the times in which we are living, there is a strange teaching abroad in the land entirely out of harmony with the teaching and spirit of the Sermon on the Mount. It would practically rule out conviction for sin, a profound sense of the fact that the soul is lost, without God and without hope in the world, apart from Christ, and that there is any need for contrition, for mourning over past sins, and a godly sorrow for sin.

Not long since, a preacher who believes himself to be unusually scholarly and brilliant, who had an idea that he had found a short cut into the kingdom of God, said in the midst of his discourse, "Mourners' bench! Mourners! Weeping! Crying and carrying on! What do you want with a mourners' bench? Are you mourning because God loves you? Are you weeping because Christ died to save you? Nonsense! Be done with it! Don't mourn; rejoice! Shout, and be glad."

This part of his sermon was very highly commended by certain persons who had neither mourned nor shouted, who had never been born of the Spirit, who had simply joined the church, but were bastards, and not children of the Father by the begetting and new birth of the Holy Ghost. Those who never mourned are not likely to shout. No man mourns because God loves him, and because Christ died to save him; but when he is illuminated by the truth of the gospel and the work of the Holy Spirit, and is enabled to see the sinfulness of his heart, and the wickedness of his life, he does mourn because he has sinned against a God who does love him, and a Christ who has died to save him.

There is nothing in all a man's life more important, more lasting and beneficial in his religious experience and the development of his Christian character, than the beginning with a deep sense of sin, and a profound sorrow and grief of heart that he should have sinned; in fact, we do not believe it is in harmony with the divine administration of salvation to grant forgiveness to any one who does not realize their sinfulness, feel the burden of their guilt, and so sorrow for their sins that they forsake them, with a strong

FROM MY MAIL BAG.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

ANY letters come to us with many questions, and often we are so crowded that we cannot answer many of these letters as promptly as we wish. Some of those questions have a general interest, therefore, we are going to bring out of our mail bag some letters asking questions which are of interest to a large group of our readers.

Letter No. 1 asks the following:

1. "Do you think a sanctified person can raise tobacco or use it in any way?"
2. "Do you think a sanctified person can wear jewelry of any kind?"
3. "Do you think a sanctified person can wear short dresses, short sleeves, low neck dresses, bobbed hair or powder or paint?"
4. "Do you think it would be right for a sanctified woman to go to holiness meetings, pay to that cause, take a holiness paper or buy holiness books, her husband being unsanctified?"
5. "Did John Wesley claim and preach second blessing holiness?"

Answers:

No. 1. I cannot conceive how a Christian can go into the tobacco raising business. I believe it is wrong. See the billboards today as they exploit cigarettes. They show the determined effort of the tobacco people to project the cigarette habit on the American people without limit. Any Christian (or sanctified) man who cannot get along without raising tobacco does not know how to trust God for his living and carries on his business without much prayer. Can you imagine a man getting down on his knees and praying, "O God, bless my tobacco crop. I am raising it to thy glory!"

2. Sanctified people and devout Christians will not spend their money on jewelry, and they will not wear it. It is of the world, worldly. The Bible forbids it. The rules of the Methodist Church forbid it.

3. The Dress Question is one of the shocking questions of the age. It is disgraceful how Christian people (so-called) and church people bow down to the goddess of fashion. The sight of women professing godliness adorning themselves like flappers is a burning shame to the Christian religion. Among holiness people (so-called) the shame of the low neck, short sleeves and short skirt is reaching a point where we might truly all take alarm. Quite recently we heard a woman preacher who came up from among the holiness people and who professes to be one of them. She presented an appearance on the platform that was positively offensive to devout women in her audience. Of course, her message had no effect, whatever. She beat the air, the time was worse than wasted. On the one hand, she was an offence to piety, on the other, she encouraged flappers and bob-haired, short-skirted young people to go on with their ungodly habits of attire. (I would remind my readers of my frank and unsparing treatment of the Dress Question in THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD of March 2, on "Modern Abominations and Shocking Fashions.")

4. A sanctified woman will avail herself of the privileges of holiness meetings and holiness literature, of course, and in doing so will endeavor to do her utmost to keep at peace with her unsanctified husband.

5. John Wesley preached second blessing holiness to the day of his death. Those preachers who say otherwise are ignorant of Methodist history. They should send 15c to PENTECOSTAL HERALD office and get a copy of "Plain Account of Christian Perfection by John Wesley." That will answer every question, and show exactly where Wesley stood on that great doctrine.

WHY "PRAY FOR REVIVAL?"

1. Because of Heaven's Down-Stretched Hands.

So eager is the world above for human salvation that there is joy in heaven "over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance" (Luke 15:7). What then would be heaven's joy if "All Men Everywhere" would repent, as they are commanded (Acts 17:30), and as multitudes would do—if the church were revived!

2. Because of Humanity's Out-Stretched Hands.

So eager is humanity for deliverance from sin that, says The Sunday School Times of Philadelphia, March 12, 1927: "Men are hungering for salvation as never before, even though they may not know it; and this means that all who know Christ as Savior and Lord have such an opportunity as has not been since the world began to tell out the Good News and bring men from death into life." A Revived Church is a Witnessing, and a Soul-Winning, Church!

3. Because of Hell's Up-Stretched Hands.

Upstretched in devouring greed! For so eager is the world below to people its domain that sheol never cries "Enough" (Prov. 30:15, 16, R. V.). "Hell and destruction are never full" (Prov. 27:20). So sure is "the wages of sin" that the souls of the unrepentant (for whose salvation Christ died, but for whose salvation the Church seems little concerned)—"These Shall Go Away Into Everlasting Punishment" (Matt. 25:46), but their blood will be required of a Church which sits with hands neither down-stretched, nor out-stretched, nor up-stretched—Which Alone Sits With Hands Enfolded—all but unmoved by the pleas of Heaven, the desolations of Earth, the insatiety of Hell! Oh, intercessor, Pray for the Church's Revival!

Letter No. 2.

"I wish to ask if you would write in THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD, why the picture shows are harmful. I have sent to all of our M. E. preachers and District Superintendents THE HERALD, and some of them have been speaking from pulpit of going to the shows."

Answer: The theatre and movies are bringing on a scourge of sin and immorality in this country. Any preacher who advocates the movies and goes to them destroys his influence for God and the gospel. True believers keep off the devil's territory, and church people who go to movies join the crowd that is travelling the broad way which leadeth to destruction. My reasons for condemning the movies may be set forth as follows:

1. The movies are worldly, fleshly, immorally suggestive.
2. The movies are the products of a most immoral and lawless set of actors and actresses.
3. The movies destroy the taste of the young people for the good and pure, and fill them with the jazz spirit.
4. The movies are a detriment to the spiritual life of the Church.
5. The movies are a menace to the American church and for all that it stands for.

Letter No. 3.

"I am sending you the clipping of a story which is running in one of our daily papers. What do you think of it and of Mr. Barton? and what do you think of an editor who will print such a story in the daily paper? What does it mean? What kind of propaganda is it?"

Answer: This letter has reference to Bruce Barton's book, "The Book Nobody Knows" and "The Man Nobody Knows." I have no hesitation in saying that Bruce Barton, in this book, often gets right up close to blasphemy. It is positively surprising and disgusting to see our Methodist Book rooms (both North and South) exploiting this blasphemous book.

Dr. Meek, that stalwart watchman of Southern Methodism in the "Southern Methodist," exposes these books. A few quotations from the Books show the shamedness of Bruce Barton's infidelity. Dr. Meek quotes the following from Barton's book:

FROM "THE MAN NOBODY KNOWS."

"You must love Jesus," she (a Sunday school teacher) said every Sunday, "and God."

"Love God! Who was always picking on people for having a good time, and sending little boys to hell because they couldn't do better in a world that he had made so hard! Why didn't God pick one of his own size? . . . But Jesus! Jesus was the 'Lamb of God.' The little boy did not know what that meant, but it sounded like Mary's little lamb. Something for girls—sissified."

"He (Joseph) must have been patient and friendly and fine; he must have seemed to his children to be an almost ideal parent—for when Jesus sought to give mankind a new conception of the character of God, he could find no more exalted term than the one word, 'Father.'"

Think of the blasphemy in this suggestion that Christ who was with God the Father in the beginning, and who came from his bosom in eternity to reveal him, got his conception of his Fatherhood from the fatherhood of Joseph!

This comment is made upon Adam:

"Whether you get your story of creation from Genesis or Mr. Wells (H. G.), the broad outlines are the same—a formless mass of matter in motion, evolving gradually into land and water, producing vegetation, and the lowest forms of life. Then higher forms and still higher, until finally there came one amazing individual who raised himself upon his lower limbs and dared to say, 'I am different from the rest.'"

I would put Bruce Barton, Mr. Wells, Tom Paine, Bob Ingersoll, all in the same group. To spread these books is to spread the worst kind of liberalism.

"What is meant by Full Assurance?"

Answer: Dr. Daniel Steele calls attention to a Greek word epignosis which means full, complete knowledge, certainty without doubt, exact, clear, perfect and satisfactory knowledge. "It is certain," says Dr. Steele, "that Paul did not need it to express his experimental knowledge of God in Christ, his personal Savior and Lord. As regards the assurance of Christian truth Paul was neither a gnostic, employing a conceit of spiritual knowledge, nor an agnostic, professing ignorance of revealed truth; nor a merognostic having only doubtful glimpses of divine verities; but he was an epignostic, rejoicing in perfect assurance of spiritual realities."

SALT.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

(Broadcasted from WLW Sta., Cincinnati, Ohio.)

IN these wonderful beatitudes the Master begins at the lowest step of the pedestal, in our approach to God—the poor in spirit—and leads us up the stairway of experiences until we reach the landing to which the soul may attain—"the merciful," "the pure in heart," and "the peacemaker." Then we find awaiting us the trinity leading to the realm of usefulness: Purity, Persecution, and Power. Living the beatitudes will mean persecution; it always has, and always will; "they shall deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you, and you shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake." But, observe, those who have incarnated these steps by experience, have attained life's supreme objective, and upon such the Master has pronounced the highest honor—the power to become Salt. "Ye are the salt of the earth!"

When the Master said, "Ye are the salt of the earth," he meant exactly what he said. Now that we may better understand the tremendous meaning of the words—so familiar, the meaning is lost—we shall examine some of the functions of salt: First, it has the power of seasoning, so that food is palatable; we could not enjoy our food without it. Second, salt is a preservative; but for its saving power, our foodstuffs would soon decompose and rot. Third, salt is an antiseptic; applied to wounds of the flesh, will counteract germ infection.

What does the Master mean when he says, that men and women are Salt, with power to save the earth, made up of human society and governments? It is that supernatural power attained only when we are in vital touch with God, imparted to us by the Holy Ghost; it is the thought of God, the message of God, the will of God, the God consciousness, which brings to human consciousness and conscience, the authority of God—His revelation, his gospel, his power. Christ said, that is Salt.

Now, my beloved invisible auditors, can you not see that it is the God consciousness in human experience, filtering out into the thoughts and activities of life, which makes the earth society palatable, as it were; domestic, business, or political. We may not believe in toto; but that which represents God expresses him, reveals by his message through the Gospel,—is the one and only power that makes life enjoyable—or livable.

Then, Salt is a preservative, as we have learned; therefore, this divine Salt, as we have defined it, is the only power that can save society from putrefaction and ruin. We may continue to erect superstructures of civilization—with vast corporations and architectural glories; but for the divine Salt, often unrecognized, rejected, and ignored, our material and intellectual greatness will rot and sink of its own weight.

Third, Salt is also an antiseptic; just so is the divine Salt. Just as poison will get into the blood streams of the physical body, deadening the nerve centers, and finally destroying heart action, until the body is poisoned unto death, so there are mental and spiritual poisons that may course through the body politic in superstition, false ideals, false standards, moral twists, which find expression—Modernism. There is but one power that can act as an antidote for all these social poisons in human life, and that is the divine Salt bringing to the consciousness of men, surfeited with depraved passions and selfishness, the thought and fear of God and his supreme authority.

We are appalled at the crime wave sweeping the land; criminals of high and low estate; the strong arm of the law is unable to cope with it; executive and police organizations are often the beneficiaries of law breaking. We are in constant dread of strikes and revolutions; our economic life is strained to the snapping point. Let me say to you, my friends, the bombs of the anarchists will continue to explode in our great centers; the torch of the nightrider will continue to flare against the midnight sky; the knife of Red Rule will continue its mission of blood in everwidening circles, unless we can bring about such a revival of God consciousness and fear, as will counteract the putrid streams of evil that threaten our wonderful civilization. We may legislate, we may educate; we may press the ethical programs in society, enlarge our institutions of learning; but there is no remedy that can reach our social diseases but the divine Salt. Intellectual culture, born of conceited scholasticism in college and university, which instills doubts and question marks about God, his revelation, and authority, is adding fuel to the flames of unrest and confusion. The nations that forget God will be turned into hell; but that is not all; hell will be turned in upon such nations.

One hundred and fifty years ago, France lost God; the Salt had lost its saving powers. We know what happened; the maddening crowd shouted applause to the harlot as she paraded through the streets of Paris, while the bloody guillotine beat its deadly tattoo in the Reign of Terror. "Ye are the salt of the earth," nothing else can save. Russia has lost God. The Salt in that unfortunate land no longer functions. The Soviet government launched an anti-home, anti-Bible, anti-God program; now her streets swarm with child criminals, prostitution and free love. The Red Rule allows no child taught the Bible religion, and is, instead, seeking to junk the marriage vow, the home, and the church. She is not satisfied to do this at home with self-destruction, but is silently sending her feelers into all the world, like the blood-sucking octopus of the sea. Where will it all end?

We love our country, our flag, and our institutions that have made the nation great; but we are facing perilous times. God is no respecter of persons, and God is not mocked; if we sow to the wind we shall reap a whirlwind—the cyclone. Cyclonic agencies are at work among us; we are in imminent danger of losing the divine Salt. Sixty percent of our people unchurched, and scarcely ten percent of America's religious rostra—all religions—are giving heed to the serious things of time and eternity. Our theatres are crowded every Sunday; twenty millions of people see the movies daily, and many churches with empty pews. What about our Sabbath? Baseball parks all over America—except in my own state, South Carolina—are packed, paying big admissions, while many churches are closed. We are using nine million barrels, (and one estimates it twelve million)—of gasoline every Sunday joy-riding. The big league ball players draw larger salaries than our Supreme Judges, and some of them nearly equal to the President of the United States. A movie star receives more money for making one picture than all the Governors of America get for the whole year. Our pugilists get more honor and far more money than our President. Washington cheered ten minutes when her baseball hero entered the park, and cheered one minute and thirty seconds when our Chief Executive entered. Alvin York, the greatest hero of the World War, was pressed with contracts which would have made him a millionaire, but he refused to commercialize his popularity. This humble, godly hero, has gone up and down the land trying to build a school for the underprivileged children of the mountains, and in eight years he has only raised about ten thousand dollars. When we remember what the world offered him, and of his courageous refusal, it is an eternal shame and a travesty on American patriotism, that such is the case. Our emphasis is all wrong, and it is hurrying us on to doom if we do not change.

Our church struggles, and her causes languish, and missions are straining to the limit, with danger of retraction, while sport makers and entertainers are made rich over night. We are pleasure mad; we are jazzed into thrill maniacs; we are losing God. Something must be done speedily, to restore this divine Salt to where it can function in American society, or the boasted civilization will go on the rocks. The day of opportunity is far spent and the night approaches. "Ye are the Salt of the earth." Ye, we, all of us, who claim to be God's children, must bring the Salt of God consciousness, Salt of righteousness, back to the heart life of our land, or the present status of crime, social unrest and demoralization are but vague foretokens of what may follow.

This divine Salt is not bestowed among us promiscuously; it can be had only by divine laws that are as inexorable as the law of gravitation. It is expensive, and not to be had at an ecclesiastical bargain counter. The need of the hour—and the supreme need—is not more endowments, or more facilities for higher education, (but God knows how scores of smaller colleges are struggling to live—they need help); why doesn't Rockefeller, or some of our thirty thousand millionaires give Alvin York a hundred thousand for his mountain school? No, they give it to institutions already rich, and schools, many of them that are destroying faith in God's word. Why these conditions?

No, the thing we need now is Salt, brought about by a genuine revival of Holy Ghost salvation, such as can come only by preaching an unadulterated gospel without any question marks. Much we hear about Christ; but what Christ is it? It must be the Christ of reconciliation through a blood atonement, and not the Christ of example, or Christ the teacher; not the divinity of Christ, but his Deity. We are surfeited on social service and human betterment programs; we hear about surveys, and challenges. The Pentecostal Power necessary to meet the crisis of this hour cannot be had by committees and mass formation; it must come from the "Upper Room" program—the church crying out, "Save thy people, O God!"

May we catch anew the limitless possibilities of being Salt. There is a dignity, an honor, and a trust placed upon us by the Master for outweighing the duties of earth rulers or parliaments. Shall we reaffirm in our hearts the impact of its meaning, reconsecrate and regird ourselves for the task? Let us cherish this heaven-entrusted honor, and hold inviolate the "faith once delivered to the saints." "Ye are the salt of the earth."

OF ASBURY THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

The Theological Seminary of the Future.

By W. H. Nelson.

SAINTEsoteric Theological Seminary opens the year 1930-1931 with renewed hopefulness. To equip the modern clergyman the following courses have been added:

Aeronautics. As the clergyman is by every token a Sky Pilot, what is more fitting than that he should learn how to use the flying machine? This will enable him to accept the universe even more readily than he does now: For instance, he can perform any number of aerial back-flips, and go into reverse early and often, and no one will think any the less of him—rather the reverse. As the aeroplane is now being used in sky-writing, what could be more effective than having the young clergyman announce his Sunday sermon topic in smoke-writing on the sky every Saturday afternoon? Compulsory.

Æsthetics. Mr. John Holmes Brew, the Beau Brummel of Thespians, in charge. We mention this immediately to show how progressive we are. Mr. Brew will teach: How to wear a dress suit and not be taken for a waiter; How to enter—and leave—a drawing-room; How to bow from the waist without losing your breath; How to wear short-stop pants and golf stockings so that the most discerning will haply take you for an Englishman; How to maintain your "sang froid," to say nothing of your "sauviter in modo," when the waiter empties the soup in your lap at the table—all will be told. As attendance at afternoon teas is an integral part of a young clergyman's work, how to balance the teacup on the knee without spilling it, and how to eat lady-fingers and jelly-roll without soiling the hands and clothing will be shown. This class will be conducted at tiffin-time every afternoon, thus making it attractive and practical. Daily, one hour.

Antiquarian Art. The Myth, Folklore, Poetry and Amusing Fiction of the Bible will be studied for one hour, 9 to 10, on the first Tuesday of every month. We hate for this study of a discarded book to interfere with things worth while, but as the modern clergyman must have at least a languid interest in things antiquarian, we have decided to make the venture. The charming naivete of the Folklore of the Ancient Hebrews will be, we trust, not uninteresting to the young clergyman. We bespeak as much interest in the folklore of these simple Semitic people as in the folklore of other backward and imaginative races, for the young clergyman will find that a knowledge of comparative folklore may serve him in good stead when called upon to lead in the story hour for children, which some schools and libraries in his future living may maintain.

The Art of the Auto. How to run, repair, judge, swap autos. The Rolls-Royce, the Cadillac, the Pierce-Arrow, the Fiat and other high-class makes befitting the standing of clergymen will be thoroughly dissected and studied. Class, one hour daily. Suitable adjuncts to those doing hard jobs will be supplied—as we are very liberal.

Cinema Mechanics. Care and use of the motion picture machines. As the pageant and the moving picture machine have utterly supplanted the preaching of the Gospel, it is essential that a knowledge of this wonderful instrument, this machina versus Deus, be had, clergyman now being a deus ex machinist, so to speak. May we not say that this is one of the most profitable courses, several young clergymen in other seminaries learning the course so thoroughly and becoming so adept that they were able to drop the ministry entirely, and improve their financial condition by becoming cinema operators. In addition to the prospect of this course being profitable, it is also destined to be extremely popular. To give it the proper social setting, and also to strengthen the moral tone of the Seminary, we have spared no expense in securing the best professors that Standard Oil Stock and Steel bonds could buy. We are suffocated with pleasure to announce that we have secured that great moral exemplar, Professor Fathead Beltbuckle, to head this department. This bright and particular star will have as his assistant Miss Mary Often Pickmeup. We are certain this notice will make the class sensationally popular. We are sure no young clergyman will miss a session of this class—unless forcibly detained. Classes, three hours daily. Optional—but—Homiletics. In the old days theological seminaries had the crude idea that clergymen should be prepared to be prophets and preachers. Of course this outworn idea has been discarded by us. We realize that the mission of the modern clergyman is to make himself popular, and, peradventure, useful. He must above all be entertaining, and in order to do this he must know how to construct a pleasing homily. He will not be compelled to suffer the handicap of the older preachers in selecting his texts from various and sundry sources, even as Mr. H. G. Wells intimates he should. To this end he will be encouraged to work in a well-filled library, and select his texts from Shakespeare, Browning, Ibsen, the Homely Ladies' Journal, the Saturday Night Porousknit, the Survey, the New Republican, the Howl of Pain, and, in fact, from any book, magazine or newspaper he may choose. How to make his lecturettes popular will be the great aim. Two hours weekly.

Legerdemain. To offset the high cost of living in precarious "Livings," the young clergyman will be taught the art of legerdemain. This will accomplish several things: First, it will enable him to get his living out of silk hats—rabbits, potatoes, carrots and such things—as the magician does. Also it will enable him to imitate the disappearing act of celebrated magicians. As the clergyman must be constantly on the qui vive attending meetings, social functions and whatnot, which not only occupy the most of his day, but very often conflict with each other in point of time, he will be taught how to appear in a Meeting for the Preservation of Indigent Estonians, be counted present, disappear, and be present at a social function at the same hour. How to dress and use "doubles" who can take the place of the clergyman when several engagements are timed for the same hour will be taught. Two hours weekly.

Pageantry. As stated in the Course in Cinema Mechanics, the pageant, with the cinema machine, has entirely supplanted the effete art of preaching which obtained in a cruder age. The History of the Pageant, from the Dawn of Creation to the Present, will be shown graphically. Egyptian, Persian, Greek and European Pageantry will be discussed in detail. It will be shown how the mediæval pageants, the Miracle Plays, saved the Christian world from the Dark Ages, and sanctified the heart and affection of men, producing millions of saints. Had it not been for these religious pageants during the Middle Ages the nations of Europe would have indubitably passed through the "Dark Ages," which cast a darkness over the rest of the world. But, thanks to the spiritual strength, the Godliness, the mental enlightenment produced by the Church pageants, Europe was saved from the darkness of the mental and spiritual eclipse which covered the rest of the world like sackcloth. There was not even a penumbra over Europe at that time—thanks to the pageant; for it pleased the great Stream of Tendency, whom we worship, to save Europe, and through Europe the world, in that day by the sublimity of the pageant. Nothing else could have done the work of perfecting the human race in time of stress—nothing but the pageant.

This course will be very concise, yet withal, thorough. Because a knowledge of costuming is essential, young clergymen will be required to take a course in designing, dress-making, mantua-making; with a side course in embroidering and tatting. Stage Mechanics will also be studied, including scene-shifting and the use of the calcium or "spot light." A knowledge of the Art of the Spot Light is especially invaluable to young clergymen. As it is the duty of the modern clergyman to be always sensational and always in the lime-light, the Technique of the Calcium most positively and absolutely must be mastered. No diplomas or certificates will be issued unless this essential art is complied with. Nota Bene: There will be NO exceptions to this rule. That master of the mimetic art, Miss Julia Barlowe, will have charge of the Course in Pageantry. Compulsory, two hours daily.

Poultry Judging. To enable the clergyman to be interesting to his country parishioners, a thorough course in poultry raising will be given. The difference between the Buff Orpington and the Buff Cochon will be pointed out in detail. How to tell a Barred Plymouth Rock from a White Leghorn will be carefully explained. The care, feeding and idiosyncrasies of the lady barnyard fowl, a knowledge of which is so essential to the success of the modern clergyman, will be told. This course is especially recommended to those desiring to be Rural Deans. One hour daily.

Publicity. The Rev. Doctor Isaiah Hornblower in charge. Dr. Hornblower's book, "Every Clergyman His Own Press Agent," will be used. Because the clergyman must deal continually with newspaper men, the newly discovered study of "Animal Psychology" will be taken up. How to remove the shell from a hard-boiled editor, so that the clergyman will be enabled to get his lecturettes a favorable position and next to impure scandal matter, will be demonstrated. Dr. Hornblower is no mere theorist, but today personally syndicates his writings with 57 papers. He is thus prepared to teach young clergymen how to handle, if necessary manhandle, editors. One hour daily. This course will be given in the gymnasium.

Stock Raising. In order to enable the modern clergyman to be not only interesting, but mayhap amusing, to his future clientele, there will be a class in stock raising. Poland China, Berkshire and other species of the porcine family will be studied. How to know them, and thus, how to avoid their doubtful manners, will be impressed on the young theological mind. Bovine life also will be studied to encourage, by antithesis, veracity, as the modern clergyman and the Toreador are not unrelated in hurling the stronger of the bovine species. It is undoubtedly obvious to the discerning that the work of the clergyman in this enlightened day is largely the work of a sanctified farmhand and consecrated cowboy. It is, therefore, imperative that there be an exact, practical knowledge in these important departments. This is a "strong" course, and while not yet in good odor with many, is extremely essential. Compulsory. Two hours daily. Special Notice: This course, with Poultry Raising and the Art of the Auto, lead to the much-sought-after degree of R.F.D.

Chapel. Chapel will be held for thirty minutes three times each year: to wit, in the evening come Michaelmass, and in the evening come Martinmass; also on the evening of the day which celebrates the Feast of the Retrogression. Of course prayer will not be offered, as we have discarded this innocent but ineffective idea of our childhood. How-

Is Evolution An Established Fact?

Dr. A. P. Gouthey.

No. III.

S stated in our last article, we are to discuss in this one the question of consciousness and self-consciousness.

Strictly speaking it is not necessary to discuss this question for, as we have twice stated, the greater includes the lesser, and since the evolutionists cannot give us accurate information concerning the how, or origin of life, how shall we expect them to give us accurate information concerning the origin of conscious life? The fact is, they cannot do so as we shall see by the testimonies of their own greatest leaders. This question, as do all of the questions involved in the doctrine of evolution, presents difficulties with which they have never been able to cope.

For instance, there is the wide, deep gulf lying between the vegetable and animal kingdom which has never been bridged. The honest thinker will at once admit that this gulf is impassable. The less honest thinker will, of course, take a flying leap to the other side and go blithely on his way preaching his philosophical speculation depending in the meantime upon the credulity of the unsophisticated to get him by.

If the animal kingdom had its origin in some intermediate form as many still believe, there is not the slightest trace of this marvelous transition to be found. Henry Fairfield Osborn says, "We have no idea when the first unicellular animals known as Protozoa appeared." ("The Origin and Evolution of Life" p. 111). And that isn't all, by their own testimony they never will know, for Professor Lull says, "The definite fossil record shows that the evolution of the great invertebrate groups occurred largely before the close of the Proterozoic, hence we cannot speak confidently of cause and effect." (Evolution of the Earth", p. 113). Geology is supposed to show that at the close of the Archean times only the lowest forms of protozoan life is found, but at the beginning of the next age all of the great types of structure are found except the Vertebrata. In other words, these two periods take us down across half of the entire geological record and not a single trace of positive proof of evolution is found! If it is true, as we are assured by certain scientists, that the fossil record of each period can be identified by its fossil life the admissions of Mr. Osborn and Professor Lull are a crushing blow. If we may take their testimony ad valorem then geology as well as biology is against any and every theory of evolution.

Mr. Darwin, in his anxiety to show that both animals and plants are descended from some one prototype says, "Analogy would lead me to believe that all animals and plants are descended from some one prototype." ("Origin of Species," p. 500). But geology says his belief cannot be proven.

Mr. Alfred Russell Wallace says it is "Altogether preposterous to assume that at a certain stage of complexity of atomic construction, and as a necessary result of that complexity alone, an ego should start into existence, a thing that feels, that is conscious of its own existence." (Wallace, "Darwinism", p. 475), and so say we all of us! That is, all of us who have the good sense to know when facts establish a case. And if the realm of conscious life is so difficult, what shall we say of the self-conscious? Well, to the man who rejects the account of the creation of man in the image of God there is very little to be said. All that can be said in fact is: if he denies the account of the creation of man as given in the Bible, and insists that by some evolutionary process man came to his present estate the burden of proof is on him. Let him prove his case if he can. If he cannot he will be to us vox et praeterea nihil—"A voice and nothing more."

But since what is known as "geological proof" of evolution is considered so strong by some it may be well to linger here a bit.

Historic Geology, generally speaking, divides itself into four great periods. The Archean, the Palaeozoic, the Mesozoic, and the Cenozoic. It is assumed that the animal life of each period is preserved as fossils in the rocks of that period. If such is the case there should be a fairly continuous record of past life from the beginning until the present, including a gradation of development of the members of the several species of these various periods. But alas for "geologic proof of evolution" this is not the case. As we have already seen, more than half of the whole geologic record fails to produce a single well founded fact in support of any evolution theory. And this is the first half where the best evidence should be found if it is to be found at all.

The best thinkers at once recognize the fact that their case is all but lost in the court of this period. Nicholson says, "We could never prove our theory correct unless we could produce in evidence fossil examples of all the kinds of animals and plants that have lived and died during that period." Sir Roderick Murchison said before a group of scientists, "I know as much of Nature in her geologic ages as any living man, and I fearlessly say that the geologic record does not afford one syllable of evidence of the evolution of man."

Sir James Dawson, the great Canadian geologist says, "It (geology) is utterly destitute of proof." When the rocks are found to contain the fossil remains of a new species always they are found to be distinct and separate species with no connective links between. In other words, geology knows nothing of transmutation. Whenever a species is found to become extinct its record stops at once, and a new species which in no way can be identified as a connecting link makes its appearance full grown and ready for action. As LeConte would say the change is by "substitution of one species for another, and not by the transmutation of one into another." Sir James Dawson, after examining numerous pliocene mollusks declares them to be identical with living species. Picet says that no new species have appeared since that time. If the testimony of these great men can be taken as final the rocks are silent as to the origin of any of the species. The account of creation as given by Moses is vindicated by the best evidence which can be produced in any and all of these realms. Indeed, Dana, one of the greatest geologists of all time, admits as much by saying, "The teaching of geology is that man is not of Nature's making. Man's reason, his aspiration, his free will affords fullest assurance that he owes his existence to the special act of the Infinite Being whose image he bears."

So much for geology. And with this testimony we pass to another realm of evidence of which much is made at this moment—that of embryology.

That there is a general resemblance between the structure of man's body and certain animals there can be no doubt. This is proven by the fact that the locations of the brain centers of control correspond to those in some animals, and that man is subject to certain diseases common among animals. But this does not prove the recapitulation theory of embryology any more than does the fact that the blood of an ape can be transferred to the body of a man with little or no reaction and vice versa. If this were sound argument the fact that the milk of an ass is nearest to mother's breast milk known to science would prove that we have descended from the ass rather than from the anthropoid apes!

It is contended that the human embryo passes through the main stages of evolution in its development from the egg to birth. It may be a fact that there are such stages of development, but it is also a fact that there are radical differences between vertebrates and invertebrates which cannot possibly be made to fit the theory. For instance, worms and other articulates in embryo lie doubled backwards around the yolk, whereas all vertebrates are doubled in the opposite direction, or forward. This fact is considered as the strongest kind of evidence against the recapitulation theory by Fairhurst. (See "Organic Evolution Considered"). Baer insists that he can tell the difference between the embryo of the common fowl and the duck on the second day so distinct is the process. (See his "Principles of Biology"). And Professor Agassiz says that "anything beyond a general parallelism is hopeless." ("The Other Side of Evolution." Patterson). Thus it would seem that embryology does not furnish either evidence or comfort to the evolutionists. That the beginning of life is similar for all forms is a generally conceded fact, but the moment life begins to mould protoplasm the difference is at once detected. All life reproduces according to type, and there is no deviation from this law. A sport, or hybrid, is sometimes produced, but the fact that these hybrids will not reproduce their kind IS PROOF THAT THEY ARE NOT A TYPE and may be dismissed without argument.

In the embryo certain cells are set apart to perform certain tasks, and they never deviate. "Each after its kind" is the acknowledged law. This fact kills the Theistic evolution theory as dead as it kills the materialistic theory. Theistic evolution demands that the first cell be gradually changed until it has passed through all the different cell stages. Science says this is never done. Dr. Minot of Harvard says, "We encounter no instance, either in normal or pathological development, of a cell of one kind of tissue changing into a cell of another kind of tissue."

Moreover, the embryonic life of a germ is not reproductive. The first cell of which Theistic evolution speaks could not possibly have matured without the protective and co-operative care and help of all the cells necessary to produce the species. But why argue; even prehistoric man, according to LeConte, was much as we know him today. History does not furnish sufficient evidence to establish the theory of evolution any more than does geology, biology, embryology, physiology, or the science of common sense!

And if the realm through which we have passed present such staggering difficulties what shall we say when we come to the study of man from the standpoint of imagination, love of music, spoken language, writer of poetry, conceptions of God, harnesser and user of the laws and forces of the universe, and all of this the average man has in common. How will any theory of evolution account for Jesus Christ, the most stupendous and revolutionary person and character in history? How will the Theistic or Materialistic brethren account scientifically for Plato, Socrates, Aristotle, Newton, Milton, Lincoln, Gladstone, and a thousand others who tower above the average man as the mountains tower above the foothills? And there has never been an age, from the gray dawn of time until now, which did not have these towering personalities.

Just how God created the world and all that is therein will never be fully known until we reach a world where they have clearer and better light than we have here, but that he did create all things, each after a plan

Orthodoxy versus Heterodoxy.

REV. J. L. GLASCOCK.

FOR some time now from the pulpit, and through the religious press, we have been emphasizing the indispensable necessity of preaching the fundamental doctrines of the Bible. This is necessary lest those who are supposed to be indoctrinated should forget, and that those who are ignorant of them should be informed what they are, in order that they may receive the benefits accruing from them.

In treating the subject of doctrine, one needs to distinguish the difference between doctrine and dogma. Because this distinction has not been made sometimes people have been confused, and doctrine has been in ill repute. Hence, when doctrine has been discussed, persons have sometimes been accused of being dogmatic.

Not so long ago we held revival services with a pastor whose father was one of the leading physicians in a large city in the middle west, and whose mother is a prominent official in the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The mother of this pastor visited her son during our revival, and in personal conversation with the writer stated that the Women's Club of her city invited a resident Bishop of said city to deliver an address to them, and that in the course of his address he told them that he meant to make a statement that they would not like, but that he would make it anyhow. The statement was that in the future the preaching would be on brotherhood rather than on doctrine. The preface of his statement indicated that he made the statement after mature thought, and not without deliberation.

We were not so much surprised at the Bishop's statement, since it had been made in substance before by others, but we were greatly grieved that one occupying such an exalted and responsible position in an orthodox church as that Bishop occupies should give expression to such a statement.

In meditating upon the statement of the Bishop we were more than ever convinced of the indispensable necessity of preaching the doctrines of the Bible in order to the salvation of a fallen race.

But for doctrine, how would we know anything about the eternal existence of God? His creative power in the making of the material universe; his creation of man; his fatherhood; his provision for the redemption of man from his fallen state, etc.

Without doctrine, how would we know about the divine conception of Jesus Christ? His Virgin birth; his deity; his atonement; his miracles; his tragic death; his resurrection; his ascension; his promised return; Christian brotherhood; and all the other things predicated of him in the inspired Word of God?

But for doctrine, how would we know anything of the depravity of man? The condemnation, pollution, and degradation of man? How would we know of sins forgiven; the nature regenerated; the heart made pure; the general judgment of God, or future rewards and punishment?

Why, to eliminate Christian doctrine would mean to destroy forever the very foundation upon which rests the Christian's faith and hope for salvation in this life and the life to come. Away with such damnable heresy!

Another palpable error, that is current, is that we must have a restatement of the fundamental doctrines of the Bible. That the times are changed, and that the people are changed, and that a new statement of doctrine must be made to conform to these changed conditions.

If these changes are to be made the question very naturally arises, what shall be the character of the changes, and who are to make them?

Not so long ago we noticed in one of the official papers of one of the largest and most influential Protestant churches an editorial whose caption was "Doctrine Indispensable." We were delighted with the caption of the article, and flattered ourself with the thought that in the article we would find something both informing and edifying.

The first two paragraphs of the article were orthodox to the core. The most critical could find no just cause for criticism of their contents, but the balance of the article contained the most veritable statements of Modernism. In order to give the reader some idea of the heterodoxy of the article we will give a few quotations from it. "When, therefore, we are taught that we are facing a demand for the restatement of the whole field of doctrine and dogmatics, let us not become alarmed. We are in the midst of a new life and a new period of mankind. Out of this new life and new period must come a new statement of our interpretation of life, and upon this must be based our new doctrine of God, Christ, and immortality. The nations themselves have received a new experience in their spiritual lives. Humanity has had a world experience, and thereby has entered into a new spiritual life. The church of Jesus Christ must have a new world experience and thereby enter into a new spiritual life. Upon this must be based the new message of tomorrow. By this must stand the new prophet, and the new interpreter of the coming day," etc., etc.

Not being able to decide what the new statement of doctrine would be, and who would write that new statement, we called upon the editor personally to answer these questions, but he gave us no satisfactory answer to them, we presume because he was unable to give any answer.

We do not believe that there is any need of a new statement of the doctrines of the Canonical Scriptures, or that there is any one capable of making any better statement of them than has been made.

Then let us go forth to preach with power and authority the Spirit-inspired doctrines of the Bible that have stood the tests of the ages. Let no preacher, and especially holiness preacher, put on the soft pedal, or touch the keys lightly. It is to be feared that some preachers in the Holiness Movement have been betrayed into preaching a compromising message, and that some laymen have encouraged that course for the sake of popularity. When holiness is made popular it will be assassinated. It is to be feared that radical holiness preaching, though preached in love, has been at a discount with not a few in the holiness ranks, not to say some professed holiness preachers. But the past history of the Holiness Movement is that it has never been more prosperous and potent than when it was preached without compromise.

If the holiness movement is to have a future as glorious as has been its past, it must be by the preaching of the same doctrines, and the employment of the same methods that have characterized it in the past, and that are time-honored. Though the statement, "Back to the Bible," may seem to some trite, and an indication of progress in the wrong direction, let us emphasize it by underscoring it with big black lines.

Rev. Lovick Pierce Law, one of the general evangelists of the Methodist Church, South, and a most excellent and lovable minister of the gospel, whose ministry has been greatly blessed of the Lord, has just brought out a book with the title, "Heart Talks." These are pithy, pointed sermons, full of punch and suggestion that Bro. Law has given in his morning messages in his revival meetings. Price, $1.50.

To Die Is Gain---To Live Is Christ. (Read Phil. 1:20-25).

CHAS. M. KELLY.

What meaneth life, when joy is fled,
And hope lies wounded, if not dead,
When heart seems motionless and chill,
And morbid thoughts the mind do fill;
While, spiritless, we sit and gaze
Into blank space with eyes a-daze,
And heart-ache's billows madly roll,
And storms of anguish drench the soul,
Despair's dark clouds are hanging low,
Forked lightnings flash, and bleak winds blow,

And all the world seems dark and sad,
And all seems lost—if aught we had?
Our spirit longs for heaven, blest Home!
Afar from earth's dull roar and foam,
Where souls, no longer bound with griefs,
Eternal rest find, sweet relief.

No woe shall ever enter there,
No partings sad, no pain, no care;
For Love is there, and on the throne
He sits, and aye smiles on his own—
Where hope reality's become.
The Light of Life, our Shield and Sun,
Doth drive away each falling tear,
Each heart makes glad, each mind makes clear.

For sorrow, joy; for storm, a calm;
Despair is slain by hope. The balm
Of heavenly breezes fills the air,
While joy and singing everywhere
Refresh the soul. There earth's outcast
No more roams sad. All darkness past,
Bright clouds of light go floating o'er,
And sin and sighing are no more.

Oh, wondrous land! our Father's gift,
Where the redeemed Christ's praises lift.
We fain would leave this pilgrim-shore,
Where eyes must weep and hearts bleed sore.
And take eternal rest—for aye,
To look upon our Lord, and stay,
And stay, and stay before the King,
And through the endless ages sing
His praise (for his own blood hath bought
And his great heart of love hath sought
Our wandering, sinful soul): "Thou art
Worthy alone—Thou didst impart
Cleansing within, life from the dead
To hell-bound souls. Thy blood was shed
For every human soul, that through Thy death we all might live anew."

Lord, while we long Thy face to see,
And from earth's burdens to be free,
And though "To die is gain"; we feel
This other truth is very real;
"To live is Christ." For some are here
Who know Thee not, who may give ear
To Thy sweet call, "Come unto Me
And rest", and heed indeed Thy plea
And so, though oft we may be sad,
Our Master, we are glad, most glad,
To bear our little cross for Thee:
Let us indeed Thy "love-slaves" be.
Thy peace is sweet, Thy grace is great,
And we shall not arrive too late
At Home to find the gates ajar.
Then for each soul we've won, a star
Our crown shall bear; while angel hosts
Strike up their harps, and through the courts
Of heaven our King's sweet praise shall ring,

We'll join them, and we'll help them sing;
The Master's smile our welcome home,
While he shall say, "Well done! Well done!"

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

RESOLUTION.

Resolution adopted by the Board of Stewards of the Billingsley Memorial M. E. Church, South, Fairmont, W. Va., at a called meeting held on February 20, 1927.

Whereas, Dr. C. F. Wimberly, of Charleston, S. C., is today concluding a successful series of meetings in our Church, covering a period of two weeks;

And Whereas, The Board of Stewards of said Church desire to put in concrete form an expression of appreciation of the splendid services rendered by Dr. Wimberly;

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Board of Stewards of the Billingsley Memorial M. E. Church, South, hereby expresses to Dr. C. F. Wimberly its sincere sense of appreciation of the excellent and efficient work rendered by him during the revival services about to close; that the Board is of opinion that the evangelistic work rendered by Dr. Wimberly equals that of evangelists of national reputation who have appeared in Fairmont from time to time; that the Board believes the church needs such a messenger as Dr. Wimberly in these days of easy and popular evangelism; that the church at large should recognize this and the authorities see that Dr. Wimberly is not confined to a local pastorate in view of the fact that he is so eminently qualified to serve the Church in a wider field; and that the Board feels that the work rendered by Dr. Wimberly in Fairmont will result in permanent benefit to our local church and congregation.

It is ordered that a copy of this Resolution be signed by the President of our Board of Stewards and transmitted to Dr. Wimberly, and that a copy of same be spread upon the minutes.

(Signed) Samuel E. Janes,
President Board of Stewards.

WOODLAND, MICHIGAN, REVIVAL.

The day of the old fashioned revival meeting is not past. Evangelist Geo. Bennard came to us Jan. 30, and stayed sixteen days. These were great days, fine weather, good roads and the crowds came from town and surrounding country and towns. One load came from Muskegon, several from Lansing, Lowell and Charlotte. One night eleven preachers were in attendance and another 14 denominations.

We had the full co-operation of the churches in the community, and a most efficient chorus choir; a most impressive feature was the using of a lighted cross, singing the "Wayside Cross," the "Old Rugged Cross," etc.

Bro. Bennard emphasized God's ability through his Son to save all and from all sin. A great blessing came to the church in renewal of vital experiences. About 75 or more sought and found salvation. We received 20 into church fellowship, all adults, three entire families, and expect more. Some that had previously been admitted into church membership through decision days, etc., were gloriously saved. The United Brethren received ten new members and expected six more.

We have a fine consolidated school here with three hundred students. Bro. C. J. Barnum, superintendent, and Julian Smith, principal, with their fine staff of teachers co-operated in a most splendid way and a large number of high school students were converted. Bro. Geo. Bennard is fine in handling the music, a good preacher and sweet and effective in approach.

REPORT OF EVANGELIST ROY L. HOLLENBACK.

I began the year 1927 with a two-weeks' rest at home, Cambridge City, Ind. But in addition to resting I preached thirteen times during the two weeks, for neighboring pastors, at Richmond, Newcastle, Connorsville and Centerville. Upon invitation of my home church at Cambridge City, and its pastor, Rev. I. F. Rodepper, I gave them a three days' Bible Convention, lecturing upon themes especially designed to instruct the church. I greatly enjoyed this Convention, for it was a little off the regular evangelistic line.

My rest(?) now finished, I left home on January 17th for New Mexico, where I conducted a union meeting at Moriarty. God gave us some salvation work, but it did not reach our expectation in spiritual results. Moriarty is located in the rich Estancia Valley, where the climate is most ideal the year around. Rev. and Mrs. Simon Timmons were our congenial co-laborers in this meeting.

From here I was scheduled to go to Prince Edward Island, and was only permitted time to stop at home two days enroute; but upon reaching home, one of my children was stricken with Scarlet Fever, and I was detained under quarantine for two weeks. I reached Prince Edward Island on March 11th, and have concluded our fruitful campaign at Springfield. On account of the heavy snows, cars cannot be run at this season; but have had a full house each night, and on Sunday packed to the full, and more. These campaigns are fostered by Rev. J. W. Turpel, whose name is almost a household word all over the Island. He is a most beloved, sacrificing, Spirit-filled brother; and is as uncompromising as Gibraltar.

I will be on the Island until April 17th, after which I swing back to the middle States. I have time for one meeting in May east of Nebraska; and about half of July and August are open. I can be addressed at Cambridge City, Ind., or as per my slate in The Pentecostal Herald.

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO.

We have recently had a fine meeting at Circleville, Evangelical Church. Conviction was upon the people in such degree that busy people stood on street corners and in stores and talked about religion. Splendid crowds every night and the Spirit's seal fell on the first service. No barren altars from start to finish; 123 in all sought either pardon or purity. Many splendid young people were standing beautifully when we left. One man and wife were sanctified, then had the glorious pleasure of seeing a daughter and husband, a son and his daughter, another daughter and four of her children come through. They felt it paid to walk in the light. Nearly all their connection followed in their footsteps.

All agreed it was the finest meeting they had had in years in Circleville, and invited us to return next March for another campaign. Praise his holy Name, to whom all praise is due.

Edna M. Banning.

THE LORD VISITS MELBERN, OHIO.

We have just passed through a great revival in the Methodist Church at Melbern, Ohio. The pastor preached the first week, and did his best to get the people ready for the coming of the evangelists, Prof. and Mrs. C. C. Crammond, of Lansing, Mich. They are true servants of the Lord, and were faithful in telling the people the wonderful news of the Gospel that saves the soul and cleanses the heart from inbred sin. They are a fine team. Mrs. Crammond preaches the word without fear or favor, and Prof. Crammond leads the singing, plays the trombone and piano. They won the hearts of the people at once, and thus were able to lead them into pastures green, and beside the waters still. The church moved up and accepted the doctrine of the second blessing, and nearly all of the leading members were cleansed in heart. While the devil got mad, as usual, and others said they did not believe in revivals, still the blessing fell, and the people rejoiced over the newborn souls. There were 43 seekers at the altar for pardon, reclamation, or sanctification. There were 11 family altars established, 9 started to tithe, and 22 subscribed for The Pentecostal Herald. We are praising the Lord for this complete revival. The pastor, Rev. Allan W. Caley, can recommend Prof. and Mrs. Crammond as safe and sane workers, and you need not be afraid that your church will be hurt by their ministry. Give them a call. Keep them busy. Praise God for another old-time revival.

Allan W. Caley.

SOME GOOD MEETINGS.

My first meeting this year was in St. Francisville, Ill., in the M. E. Church, with Bro. T. E. Harper. The pastor did the preaching through the revival. Bro. Harper is a man of God filled with the Spirit, and has the burden of lost souls upon him. God wonderfully blessed him in preaching the gospel. The church was filled to its seating capacity each evening. God answered prayer, sent conviction to the hearts of the unsaved and the altar was filled with seekers who found the Lord precious to their souls. Shouts of victory were heard at each service. We had a young people's choir of thirty voices and a junior choir of over fifty voices. There were 100 conversions and a great number sanctified.

Our next meeting was in my home town, Norris City, Ill., in the M. E. Church, of which I am a member. Rev. L. E. Page, our good pastor, did the preaching. Bro. Page preached some heart-searching messages. The meeting was a hard pull, but God kept sending conviction, and the power of God fell upon us; the Lord wonderfully saved over 35 souls.

My next meeting was in Lawrenceville, Ill., at the First M. E. Church with Rev. Robertson, D.D., Conference Evangelist. E. O. Allen did the preaching, and God honored his messages in the salvation of souls. The church was greatly strengthened. I am now in Allendale, Ill., at the M. E. Church with Rev. E. H. Cissna, pastor. Brother Cissna is doing some fine preaching. Allendale is located in the oil field and has many people lately come into the community which we hope to reach through the meeting. There is a fine Christian Spirit being manifested among other churches of the community. Pray for us.

Frank Doerner, Jr., Song Evangelist.

GOOD MEETING IN NEWPORT, KENTUCKY.

A three weeks' revival closed at Taylor Street M. E. Church, South, Newport, Ky., Sunday night, Mar. 13th, with a victorious service; some came to the altar weeping, but went away rejoicing.

It has been our privilege during these three weeks to sit under the great teacher, author and man of God, Dr. C. F. Wimberly, of South Carolina, who has been preaching the unsophisticated gospel with visible results; the altar has been filled more than once; there have been many reclaimed, converted and some sanctified; also several accessions.

We dare not take the space to mention all the outstanding sermons (for I fear it would mean them all), but shall mention two: On one Sunday morning he preached on the "Second Coming of Christ" to a large audience. It was marvelous! That evening his subject, "Be sure your sin will find you out," brought people to the altar until it was full to overflowing, some were kneeling around the front seats, many hearts were made to rejoice and were satisfied.

As one of our Bishops has said, "That the deepest satisfaction in the ministry is the knowledge that our efforts have been blessed of God in helping others."

We are thankful that Dr. Wimberly came to us; his exposition of the scriptures is unlike any we have ever heard; may the Lord bless him in the meetings that are to follow. He begins another meeting at the First United Brethren Church, Cincinnati, Ohio, March 20th.

Nor shall we forget to mention our faithful pastor, Rev. B. C. Gamble, whom we all love because of the character of gospel he preaches.

Carolyn M. Kendall.

A GRACIOUS REVIVAL IN CALIFORNIA.

Rev. Fred M. Essig, pastor of the M. E. Church at Mission Acres, Calif., has recently been assisted in a very gracious meeting by the Rev. Warren C. MacIntyre, Conference Evangelist. The meeting was of a very instructive and constructive character. Some eighty odd persons were at the altar of prayer; quite a number were converted, and twenty-one professed entire sanctification. Twenty-seven people united with the church and the church members were greatly refreshed and built up in their Christian faith. Altogether, it was a time of gracious refreshing from the Lord.

DUNNING, NEBRASKA.

We have just closed a meeting at Dunning, Neb. Not so many people at the altar as other meetings this year, but we feel that a great work was accomplished. The work had been blocked by many things which took place during the past three years, but the Lord helped us. Folk liked the singing and banjo music and we gave large doses. We visited the school and homes, and much prayer brought a melting time, the ice moved, and a channel is now open. We closed with a full house, a good offering, an altar service, and a request to return. So ended one of the hardest tasks of our past experience. The note we took on this meeting reads, "Ice will melt, but it takes fire."

C. P. Ellis.

PORTLAND, MAINE.

Glad to report from the Queen City of the Pine Tree State, that the First Church of the Nazarene has not gone into cold storage or are we simply singing "Hold the Fort." We recently closed a good meeting with Evangelist Preston Kennedy, of Middleburgh, N. Y., in which sinners were converted, backsliders were reclaimed and souls earnestly sought for the crucifying of the old Adamic nature within and they did not seek in vain. Anyone who knows Rev. Kennedy is aware that he belongs to that class of preachers that was graced by the membership of John the Baptist, and it is refreshing to know that in these days of easy-going methods that there are some whose trumpet gives no uncertain sound. I have not seen greater conviction in years than attended our brother's ministry while he was with us. People had little difficulty to locate themselves and the altar was filled many times. The meeting has left our church richer and stronger with a new sense and appreciation for the old rugged way. Last night we had one of the biggest attendance at prayer meetings I have had during my pastorate here. Our people are blessed folk and stand by any true man who ministers to them. Our church Board has called Bro. Kennedy for three-weeks' campaign in November.

In the Lord,

C. P. Lampher.

GRAY CENTER IN VICTORY.

One of the finest meetings in the southwest part of Kansas for a country charge was held at Gray Center on the Ingalls circuit. From the beginning of the meeting God was blessing. The people had been long in prayer for a real outpouring, and God wonderfully answered. We were there just a little over two weeks and in that time had the pleasure of seeing sixty-four souls seek pardon, and a goodly number sanctified.

This is a schoolhouse point, and the building was crowded to capacity at almost every meeting. At the close of the meeting on the last Sunday morning, several were baptized, and about ten or twelve taken in preparatory. This circuit is pastored by a young minister, Rev. H. G. Feldmann, and we believe he has one of the best prospects for a leading rural church in the Dodge City Methodist District. We were entertained in the good home of H. H. Flowers, who himself is an ardent Christian worker, and we can never forget the fellowship in that fine home.

Our meeting at Hodgeman, just before the Gray Center meeting, was interfered with by the scarlet fever, but we had fourteen saved before we closed. Our next meeting will be at Glendale on the Hans-ton circuit, and we are asking the prayers of The Herald family for success.

purpose to live and walk before God in watchful, humble obedience. In the logic of salvation, repentance comes before pardon. This must be true. When the repentance and mourning because of sin is deep and genuine, then there will be joy when a gracious sense of pardon comes.

Nothing can be farther from us than to object to the salvation of children. Judging from my own experience, and wide observation, through many years of my ministry, I am confident that children can be converted, genuinely born of the Spirit, when they are very young. The church should never lose sight of this fact, and every proper means should be used to bring them under spiritual influences very early in life, that will secure their regeneration, coming into the kingdom of God, and into some evangelical church.

It is true that the prodigal son came home. This is a wonderful and beautiful illustration of the compassionate mercy of God whose arms of love and mercy are open and extended to those who have gone into the far country of sin; but he had wasted his substance; much of his life had gone; no doubt, in his wanderings he had committed sins and set going influences which were hurtful to his fellowbeings, even after he had returned to the father. This is often sadly true of those who spend a large part of their life in rebellion and sin against God, but finally come back, are saved, and become zealous and earnest Christians. But it were far better to come back from the front gate than from the far country; to come back before the substance is wasted, and half or two-thirds of the life is gone. By all means, bring the children to Christ, but do not let it be a mere "decision" of the child; let it be repentance, the exercise of saving faith, and a consciousness of being made a new creature in Christ by the regenerating power of the Holy Ghost.

No amount of training, of studying the Catechism, of memorizing verses in the Bible, or a prompt attendance at Sunday school or the services of the church, can take the place of repentance, saving faith, and the regeneration wrought by the Holy Spirit. It is a religious farce to set a certain day, and go through with a lot of mere human manipulations, and bring into the church droves of children who have no conception of what they are really doing; who have not been taught the way of salvation; who have never repented, mourned because of sin, or exercised saving faith in Christ. The whole process is the preparation and forerunner of a dissatisfied life. As they grow up they will read of the peace, the joy, and assurance of the Christian life, but they have nothing of the sort in their hearts. The New Testament teaching on the subject has no real meaning to them; they know nothing of denying self, taking up their cross, and following Christ. They are in the church, but they are of the world; they love the world, and the things of the world. If you hold them to the church, you must bring worldly things into the church to meet and satisfy their unregenerated and worldly dispositions and desires, and thus, you come to turn the church into a sort of restaurant for feasts, a theater for play, and it comes to pass that in many churches today, there are dances, and the outsider cannot discern any difference between those who are members of the church, and those who are yet in the world; indeed, in spirit, there is no difference. We have church members so indulging in all the pastimes and amusements that the world runs after, that you must remove from your Discipline and rules for the regulation of church members, anything, and everything, that would be offensive to them, or in any way hinder their running after all sorts of worldliness. Intelligent men outside of the church, who make no pretention to Christianity, look on this farce with ridicule and contempt.

It is those who have felt true poverty of spirit, who have mourned because of their sins, who have been comforted with a sense of forgiveness, and the incoming of a new life, who have tasted of the heavenly gift, who do hunger and thirst after righteousness. A well born babe is hungry. He does not understand the psychology of hunger, but he searches for the breast and finds satisfaction in his mother's milk. A soul truly born of the Holy Ghost hungers and thirsts for righteousness, to be free from all sin, to have constant communion with the Savior, the indwelling and full assurance of the Holy Spirit. Such a soul can join the prayerful song of the Psalmist in exclaiming, "as the hart panteth after the waterbrook, so panteth my soul after thee, O God." It is on a stretch of longing. Our Savior could use no better terms to convey some idea of its state of desire, than that in the text, "hungering and thirsting."

The body must have food and drink; deprived of these, it comes to desire them with an intenseness that overrules all other desires. Every organ, every muscle, every artery, every nerve, every drop of blood, pleads with famishing earnestness for food and drink, and without these nourishments death must follow.

Jesus teaches us that it is a blessed thing for the child of God to so long for righteousness, that is purity of heart, and holiness of living, that his hungers and thirsts, all of his intellectual and spiritual faculties, are aroused and intently fixed on the one thing—Christ and his redeeming power. Then the soul discovers the blessedness of Jesus in the fulness of the atonement which he has made, the preciousness of his cleansing blood. It is only those who long for holiness, that hunger and thirst after righteousness, who can be filled with the Holy Ghost.

This hungering and thirsting is an emptying process. It is when the body is emptied of nourishment, that its hunger and thirst become so intense that all other concerns are lost sight of, and food and drink is the one all-consuming desire. It is when hunger and thirst for Christ in the fulness of his salvation so empties the mind and heart of lust after the world, desires for its wealth, its honors, its luxuries, its amusements, that the spirit is able to so concentrate itself that it cries out,

"What can wash away my sin?"

Nothing but the blood of Jesus."

It is then that the cross rises taller than all the mountains; that the bleeding Lamb of God becomes the center of attraction to the soul; that the arms of faith embrace the crucified One, and find a joy unutterable; that his promise is true that, "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."

Many inquiries come to me, verbally and by letter, inquiring, "How may I get the blessing? How may I obtain the fulness of the gospel? How shall I receive the sanctifying power?" To all such, I would say, find the answer from the lips of our Lord, in the language of the text: "Hunger and thirst." Divert the attention from other things; center the thought and desire on this one thing. Seek him, worship him, trust in him, cling to him; remind him of his promise; refuse to be content with anything less than the fulness of salvation. He will keep his promise. He cannot fail. The heavens and the earth may pass away, but his word abideth forever.

THE MUSTARD SEED.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

THE Master said if we had faith as a grain of mustard seed, we should be able to remove mountains, but many of us are so incredulous we fancy the Master spoke extravagantly; but no, for we remember the fact that the mustard seed, though very small, has life and having life, it is capable of endless development. This is why it grows until the fowls of the air may find rest and shelter among its boughs.

Why are we not more efficient in prayer? Why do we not amount to more in the kingdom of Christ? Why are we so powerless to remove the mountains of difficulty which stand in the way of the coming of Christ's kingdom? We have not the mustard-seed faith; there is not the spark of life in our praying, no faith to believe it shall be done, no travail of soul to bring forth the desire of the heart, no Jacob-like importunity which cries in agony of soul, "I will not let thee go, except thou bless me." No, the Master spoke advisedly, and with a depth of meaning which only those can understand who have gone through the agony and met the conditions necessary to the birth of a living faith.

"The Expositor's Dictionary of Texts" gives some fine ideas on this thought of the mustard seed, which I will pass on, to enrich your soul as they have mine. It says: "Your faith is like a tiny grain. You think you will never be able to produce a holy and useful life. But if only your soul can come into living union with the eternal God, there is nothing that he will not be able to effect by your instrumentality. There are five processes: First, there must be contact. As long as you are apart from God, though trying to serve God in a strange anomaly, you are missing the true power of life. Second, there must be solitude. Third, there must be death. Fourth, receptivity. There is simply nothing impossible to the man who has learned the art of being a channel for God. Fifth, individuality. The mustard seed produces mustard growth; the grain of wheat, wheat growth; the acorn, oak growth. George Muller lets God into his soul, and Ashley Downs is covered with orphan houses. Spurgeon lets God into his soul, and you have the Tabernacle, and volumes of Sermons, and the orphan house, and Pastor's College.

We are glad to give our readers a fine selection from "Electric Messages," which we are sure they will enjoy. This is a record of God's mighty workings, as related by Rev. Mr. McCune, which was taken from the Korean Mission Field. These facts should stir us to greater faith and action in sending the gospel, which is the power of God unto salvation, to the uttermost part of the earth.

LO, THESE ARE PARTS OF HIS WAYS.

It all began about 22 years ago, and it was just an ignorant country widow, who had journeyed a hundred miles and more, from home to the far northern city of Wiju (no doubt on some urgent business) who brought back the little mustard-seed.

Such a very very small one!

While in that city she had come in touch with somebody, some humble new believer no doubt, who had heard from somebody else, what the missionaries who had just been there had been teaching, and thus at second or third hand, she learned a little of the religion of the true God.

One must worship no idols, or spirits, or ancestors, but only the one great God; one must be pure and true and kind, keep one day in seven holy, and one must on that day worship, and sing, "Yesu we pee patkay ermny" ("Nothing but the blood of Jesus"). This was all she had, but she seized it with conviction, and went over the hills with it back to her country town a happy woman. She lost track of the official Sunday on the way, but she didn't know that, and when she came home to her little whiskey shop, she called in some of her neighbors and told them about this great doctrine, and how it was to be hers henceforth to live and die with. All wickedness put away, only one God worshipped, and a happy eternity. Some three other women joined her, and faithfully one day in every seven they laid aside all their work; met for worship in the little saloon praying as best they might and singing over five times, "Yesu we pee patkay ermny."

THE LITTLE SEED WAS QUITE ALIVE AND SENDING ITS TINY ROOTLETS DOWN DEEP.

So for three or four years they served and worshipped, doing all they knew, living up to the little light they had, trusting in that semi-darkness in a God not half revealed, in the blood of a Jesus of whom they knew almost nothing but what was told in the simple words of the hymn. But these women's lives were so changed, they could not be hid, and at length the impression created was sufficient to win another convert. This was no less than the most influential and wicked man in the town. Big and powerful, with a terrible temper, infuriated with drink he would bully and beat his neighbors and was the terror of the district. But the power that had brought such a change in the women made its appeal to his poor heart, miserable and hungry for God in its sin, and he announced one day that he was going to put away his wickedness and be a believer and worshipper of one true God only. And now there were five who met together and sang the old Moody hymn five times, on every seventh day.

THE MUSTARD SEED WAS BEGINNING TO SHOW ITS LEAVES ABOVE THE GROUND WITH PROMISE.

One by one the little group gained a few more adherents, and at length several years after the beginning, an evangelist from further south found this handful of people, and oh how jubilantly they received him as an angel of God, as indeed he was, sent no doubt as truly as God sent Peter to Cornelius.

This was one who could tell them more about God and how they ought to worship him. Of course, his first question was, "Do you believe in Jesus?"

"We don't know who he is, but we sing about his blood." "What, don't you read the New Testament, God's book?" "We never saw one." "Do you keep the Sabbath?" "Yes, we worshipped the day before yesterday." "But that's not Sunday, tomorrow is Sunday!" "O is it? Then we'll begin again and keep that; we're so glad you came to tell us." "Where do you worship?" continued the evangelist. "Why, right here." "What! here in a whiskey shop?" was the astonished reply. "Of course, why not?" "Why, this is a bad place, it's wicked to sell whiskey." "But why?" said the believers. "It's just a sort of food, isn't it, we don't see how it's wrong." "It takes away men's senses and makes them sin and God forbids it," was the reply. "Then if God says so, I must stop it, I'll stop it right off," said the woman. "today, right now", and without further delay or faintest sign of compunction, forthwith out went the jars of her stock in trade to be emptied into the ditch. God commanded, then of course there was nothing else to be thought of.

How happy they were to get the Book no words could tell, how happy to learn about that Jesus of the power of whose blood to wash away sin they had learned by heart as they sang it over every Sunday all those dark years.

The Theological Seminary of the Future.

Elsewhere in this issue of THE HERALD we have a very interesting article by Rev. W. H. Nelson, D.D., the brilliant Editor of The Pacific Methodist Advocate, published in San Francisco, Calif. We advise the readers of THE HERALD to hunt up Dr. Nelson's editorial and read it through. It is thoroughly interesting and suggestive. H. C. M.

ever, telepathic messages will be sent to the Divine Mind, and those who are so disposed, and able, will commune with the only god with whom we have to do—our Social Consciousness.

Important Notice. Because of the great difficulty in securing theological students, the Seminary heads will waive the old-time moral character test which obtained in the days of illiberalism, believing also that it is an abridgment of our inherent personal liberties to attempt to establish a norm of judgment as to moral acts. No embarrassing questions as to past life or future intentions will be asked candidates. Those students entering Saint Esoterics may be well assured that they will not be bored or imposed on by the professors obtruding their company on them. We have decided that it is unfair to the students for the Seminary to have more than five professors for each student, and we pledge our word that this ratio will be rigidly maintained in the future.

P. S.—N. B. It will be readily seen by those who have given the above brief statement of our Course even a cursory glance that we have protected the young clergyman against every future financial contingency. We have made it possible for him to exist without preaching the Gospel, as the Ancients so fondly termed it. There is now nothing to disturb his economic felicity in a non-functioning church. We have educated him to be economically independent should he find himself at either pole of life. He will be equally at home in the drawing-room or the drainage-ditch. "From the Salon to the Silo" is our watchword. And thus always and ever, we to the rescue of society to save them from the archaic and obsolete notion that the minister is an ambassador and a prophet.—Pacific Methodist Advocate.

wrought out from all eternity there is not the slightest doubt. That man was created in the image of God there is every evidence. That God made a cell and from that cell "according to certain laws, by resident forces" evolved a man, there is no evidence, and we may challenge the world on this issue! And by the grace of God we propose to challenge this whole accursed evolution program in school and church; fight it to a finish in open conflict; slay it with its own weapons, and finally over its dead body run up the battle flag of the God of Israel with our Stars and Stripes over every tax-supported institution in the United States!

In the next, and last article, I shall trace the effects of this teaching as it materializes into Atheism, crime, and anarchy. And when we have traced cause to effect my apology will have been made for attacking and fighting this thing so fiercely.

Dr. Morrison's New Book.

Whenever Dr. Morrison brings out a new book it can always be said, It is something worth while. In his latest, "The Christ of the Gospels," in ten great sermons the great cardinal burning truths of the Gospel are brought out with force and fire. What a message is that sermon on "The Modern Judas"! In fact, all the sermons burn with truth—such truths as "The Second Coming of Christ," "The Victory of Faith," "The Fulness of Redemption," "The Value of the Soul," "The Fruit of the Spirit," etc., etc., etc.

Dr. Morrison not only preaches the gospel with eloquence, he also writes with a pen tipped with dynamite. Let me suggest something. Let a thousand copies of this book be sent to preachers! Listen, Laymen! Send a dollar bill and have the publishing house send this book to your preacher. Many persons would read this book who would not read a distinctively second blessing holiness book.

Let me add a second suggestion: send in a dollar bill and have this book sent to your public library.

Folks who have Dr. Morrison's other books ought to add this book to their collection. Remember the title, "The Christ of the Gospels." Price One Dollar. Send to Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

G. W. RIDOUT.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you please let a little Mississippian enter your circle of writers? I have never written to any page before but have thought of writing several times. I have always been afraid of Mr. W. B. My sister takes The Herald and I spend a great deal of my time reading it. I am teaching my first school and am finding it to be a wonderful calling. To see a pupil's progress is like watching a flower grow. Paul, you surely did have an interesting letter on the Bible. I did enjoy it. Cousins, what do you think of dropping "Bobbed Hair" and "Rouge" for a while and write some of our thoughts about "love," "faith," "hope," "consecration" and "Divinity of Christ"? If I had not already written so much I would take for my subject "Faith." Faith is one of the most wonderful things a person can possess. It is wonderful to have faith in a friend, but what is better than faith in God? A person cannot have that faith in God they should without having some faith in self. What is greater than a prayer from a faithful Christian. If Mr. W. B. doesn't get this letter I'll call again and tell something about myself.

Bernice Bagley.
Wesson, Miss.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Nebraska boy join your happy band of boys and girls? As this is my first letter to The Herald I will describe myself. I have very dark brown hair, blue eyes, fair complexion. I am twelve years old and in the seventh grade at school. I belong to the Evangelical church at Blue Springs, Neb., and I go to Intermediate C. E. and take an active part and enjoy it very much. Hope Mr. W. B. is out walking so he will not get this. Who has my birthday, Sept. 4? Who can guess my middle name? It begins with C and ends with Y and has six letters in it.

Ralph C. Scott.
Blue Springs, Neb.

Dear Aunt Bettie: It has been quite a long while since I last wrote to you and the cousins, so thought I would try my luck again. Some of you cousins may not remember what I look like, so will describe myself. I am fifteen years of age, have blue eyes, yellow (bobbed) hair, fair complexion, have a pug nose, am five feet, six inches tall, and weigh about 126 pounds. I have always enjoyed the letters on page ten, especially those written by saved and sanctified boys and girls. I am able to say that Jesus Christ atones for my sins. I consider it a privilege indeed, to be able to write that. I was saved only last Christmas eve, so you see I have not been long in the way. During this short time I have had many trials and temptations, but I know that Jesus' grace is sufficient. God may not make a great missionary or preacher of me, Aunt Bettie, but I am sure that somewhere he has a place for me that no one else can fill. Cousins, let us live for Jesus and endeavor to win souls for him. It is wonderful what God will do for us if we will only let him. I would love to correspond with all you cousins, both boys and girls, for I love to write and receive letters.

Helen L. Holton.
Idaho, Ohio.

Dear Aunt Bettie: God bless you all! Won't you give this little nineteen-year-old girl a place in your circle? "For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life." Did you ever feel that this is too wonderful to be true? Well it is true and the same Christ who spoke those same precious words, hung on the cross of Calvary, with nail pierced hands, riven side and broken heart that we might have life. Oh, those hours of agony that he spent! Yet hundreds and hundreds of sinful souls are tossed about upon the rough seas of life without hope and without a Savior because they refuse to accept him. Dear dying friends, open your eyes, look ahead and see the awful doom that is awaiting you! Flee for your lives! Prepare for the judgment day. I'm so glad today that salvation's free; that it's for the poor as well as the rich, and that all may be ready to meet the Bridegroom when he comes if they'll seek and accept salvation. I'm glad today that Christ has wonderfully blessed and sanctified my soul. I aim to go with him all the way no matter what it costs. I planned to enter Asbury College this winter to prepare for evangelistic work but my parents refused for me to go. I prayed earnestly to God to open the way, and although he hasn't yet I know he's going to if he sees best for me to labor abroad. I'm now at Eastern Teacher's College at Richmond, Ky. Sometimes I have a tendency to feel discouraged because my plans were not fulfilled, but I realize that all discouragement is of the devil, so I go to God in prayer and come forth rejoicing that I can serve him here or anywhere although I'm not in the school I'd like to be in. Here's a little verse I like to repeat:

"I will not doubt, though all my prayers return

Unanswered from the still white realm above,
I will believe it is an allwise love,
Which has refused these things for which I yearn,
I will believe the heights for which I strive,
Are only reached by anguish and by pain.
And though I groan and writhe beneath my crosses,
I yet shall see through my severest losses,
The greater gain."

If this should be published I hope all that can will write to me for I enjoy letters very much. I will try to answer every letter received.

Dora Lee Wilder.
124 Lancaster Avenue, Richmond, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I enter into your happy circle of cousins? I certainly do enjoy reading the letters of the cousins. I am five feet, eight inches tall, eyes are brown, have long brown hair and am in my teens. Who can guess my age? I go to Sunday school every Sunday at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Red Boiling Springs is a little town. It is a summer resort and noted for its good sulphur water. If any of you ever visit Red Boiling Springs look me up. Would like very much to see this letter in print. Would also like to hear from some of the cousins. Will answer all the letters I receive.

Irene Hawkins.
Red Boiling Springs, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you please move over for a little Kentucky girl? My age is between twelve and fifteen. My birthday is April 20. Have I a twin? My mother takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. I heard Brother Morrison preach last summer a year ago at Tolesboro, Ky. We have a friend going to school at Wilmore, Ky. My mother and father belong to the M. E. Church. I go to Sunday school whenever I can. We live a long way from Sunday school. I have seven sisters and one brother. If Mr. W. B. gets my letter I am not going to write any more. As my letter is getting long I must close. I would like to hear from any of the cousins.

Dorthella Mason.
Trinity, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let me come in and talk with you and the cousins and join your happy band of boys and girls? I will describe myself so you will know what kind of looking girl it is wanting to join your happy band. I have fair complexion, long brown hair, blue eyes, weigh 120 pounds, am five and one-half feet tall. I am the daughter of Rev. A. R. Sanders. We are going to begin a revival here before long and I want you cousins and Aunt Bettie to pray that we may have a good old-time revival, and that many souls shall be saved.

We had a meeting here last fall and I was saved, but sorry to say I haven't lived and served my Savior as I should. I want you to pray that I might live and serve him better. Has anyone my birthday, or age? I am sixteen years old and my birthday is Nov. 24. I would like to hear from you all.

Dovie D. Sanders.
Loundes, Mo.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Maryland girl join your happy band of boys and girls? We do not get The Herald but I enjoy reading page ten. I can read it at my neighbor's house. I am glad I see so many young Christians trying to serve the Lord. Wake up, Vindex girls and boys, don't let the others beat us. I am twelve years old and in the seventh grade at school. Who has my birthday, Sept. 2? Our pastor is Rev. Russel. I think he is a good preacher. I love God, "For God so loved the world he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16. Cousins, what is the shortest verse in the Bible? I shall be glad to answer all letters I receive. As this is my first letter I hope to see it in print. I will write again if W. B. doesn't get this.

Ruby Pugh.
Vindex, Md.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little girl join your happy band of girls and boys? My father takes The Herald, and I enjoy reading page ten. I am ten years old and in the fourth grade. I have dark brown hair, brown eyes and fair complexion. I have two sisters, Mary and Naomi. We go to a holiness camp meeting nearly every summer. We have heard H. C. Morrison preach at Sychar. My papa works for the Pennsylvania Railroad. I will answer all letters I receive. As this is my first letter I hope to see it in print. I hope Mr. W. B. is asleep when this arrives.

Virginia A. Foster.
Dement, Ohio.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let an Indiana girl join your happy boys and girls? My hair is medium brown, is long but used to have it cut. The Bible says that a woman's hair is her crown of glory. My eyes are brown. I don't use powder nor paint. I wear dresses that are long enough to cover my knees. I am twelve years old and my birthday is Aug. 25. Have I a twin? I am not a flapper and am not going to be one. Girls and boys, if you're not saved by Christ you ought to come to him and accept him as your Savior.

Dorothy E. Feller.
Rt. 2, Moores Hill, Ind.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here comes a Kentucky boy to join your happy family. My birthday comes June 28. I have brown hair, blue eyes and am fourteen years old. Have I a twin among the cousins? If so, I would be very glad to have them write to me. The Herald is certainly a fine paper. I hope Mr. W. B. is fishing. I am going to school at Bethany Orphanage. I am taking the eighth grade. The purpose of the Bethany Orphanage is to educate and Christianize the poor orphans of Kentucky Mountains.

Lenox Hollon.
Hollinsville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you please give me space on your Children's Page? I take The Herald and enjoy reading the sermons. I always read page ten to see how many of the girls and boys are Christians. I love to hear of children accepting Christ in their youth. Children, hold on to God. Today is my birthday, Feb. 10; I am fifty-nine years old. I have nine children and twenty-four grandchildren. My children are all married, and my dear husband is dead and I live all alone. I get lonesome for my folks, as my children all live in another State, but one. I have good friends but Jesus is my best friend. I read my Bible every day and have family prayer twice a day all alone with my Savior. If any one has some good tracts I would be glad to have some to read.

Mrs. M. Peters.

sure does my heart good to know that so many of the boys and girls are Christians. There is nothing so noble and fine as for boys and girls to give themselves to Christ while young and live for him. Remember he hears all you say and knows all you do. I am so glad to find the cousins are interested in their school work; the best place for boys and girls to be found is the school room, church and Sunday school. What a great work the Sunday school is doing for our boys and girls. Cousins, do your very best for the boys and girls of today will be the men and women of tomorrow. I have heard Dr. Morrison preach a number of times and have heard Aunt Bettie make some splendid talks. I am a lover of all boys and girls and am forty-eight years young.

A Herald Reader.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I join your happy band of boys and girls? I have not seen a letter from Minnesota yet. I am ten years old and weigh 85 pounds. I go to church every Sunday. My Sunday school teacher's name is Miss Aldrich. I like the Bible stories best. The shortest verse in the Bible is "Jesus wept." I hope Mr. W. B. is sleeping when this letter arrives.

David Jensen.

Rt. 5, Box 7, Buffalo, Minn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I saw my last letter in print, so I will write again. I don't get copies of the wonderful Herald very often, but everyone I get I read every page of it. I have been a Christian for almost three years and oh, how wonderful the life is. How many read their Bible every day? I do, no matter how busy the day is. I can't count the number of times I have read it through. The Old Book and the Old Faith for me! How about it, cousins? How many are Christians? "Who among you that feareth the Lord, that obeyeth the voice of his servant, that walketh in darkness, and hath no light? Let him trust in the Lord and stay upon his God." How many know where this verse is found in the Old Testament? The Pennsylvania boys and girls ought to wake up. Why don't you write sometime? I am seventeen years of age. I will answer all letters I receive. Would like to correspond with some of the cousins.

FALLEN ASLEEP

QUATTLEBAUM.

We have known Brother and Sister Quattlebaum for many years and there are some pleasant reminiscences that come into our lives about this good woman and husband that we purpose to speak about.

Sister Quattlebaum before her marriage was Sarah Elizabeth Maxwell, the daughter of H. B. and S. E. Maxwell. She was born and reared near Phoenix, Abbeville County, S. C. On Sunday morning, Feb. 20, 1876, Miss Maxwell married A. J. Quattlebaum, of Edenfield County, S. C. To them were born nine children, three of them died in childhood and six now are living: W. H. Quattlebaum, C. M. Quattlebaum and J. L. Quattlebaum live in the City of Jacksonville, Fla., and O. B. Quattlebaum and Paul B. Quattlebaum live in Beaumont, Tex. Mrs. J. B. Taylor, the only daughter, in whose home Sister Quattlebaum died, is now living in Jacksonville, Fla.

Brother and Sister Quattlebaum have walked together nearly fifty-one years. On the 20th of last February they celebrated their golden wedding. They did not know that they had so many friends as visited them on that day in their home and many presents from abroad were also received.

Sister Quattlebaum's early training was of the old school type which she was never ashamed of. She was trained by good parents of the Missionary Baptist Church and at the time of her marriage she was a member of the Old Damascus Baptist Church near Phoenix, S. C., which was her father's church and which still stands as a beacon light in that community. It was yonder close by in the grove near the church that Lizzie got her education under the training of Miss Beauford Devore, whom everyone knew in those days, just after the Civil War. Those who live now days point back with pride to the good old days when we stood at mother's knee with her hand upon our brow—no touch of the hand like mother's. Miss Beauford's school trained up many boys and girls to take their places in the world and to make the world a better place to live in. Many have gone from that community and never returned. It is one of the old schools that just left us.

Sister Quattlebaum was a good wife, a good mother, and a good Christian. A bright spot in her life was often referred to by one who knew her best. The second year after she was married one child had come into the home and a mutual agreement was entered into by husband and wife to leave the country and go to town. Their first move from the country to town was in the year 1877 when they went to the little town of Ninety-six, S. C., where Brother Quattlebaum entered the business world.

One redeeming trait of Brother and Sister Quattlebaum was that when they went from the country they carried their church relations with them and became one with the church in church work. After serving the Methodist Episcopal Church in Stewardship and other official ways for several years, Brother Quattlebaum and wife would take stock and talk over their church experience, and it was then and there that husband and wife confessed to each other that they only had the form of religion without the power. No experience of pardoning grace. In the year 1882, still a Steward in the church, Sister Quattlebaum's husband was converted according to John 3:3, under the presiding of the Rev. J. W. Kelly, of the South Carolina Conference. This occurred at the old camp meeting near Newberry Courthouse, S. C. After this Brother and Sister Quattlebaum took on new life for church work. It was during the years of 1882 to 1885 when holiness meetings began to take hold of our church in the southland and men of note and prominence began to teach and preach sanctification as a second work of grace, so-called by Mr. Wesley. It was at this time, October, 1885, that a National Holiness Camp was appointed for Augusta, Georgia, with workers from the north and south, east and west in attendance. It looked popular to everyone at that time and was popular with spiritual minded people. Dr. W. A. Candler, now Bishop, was then in his first year at ministry, serving St. Johns Church, Augusta, Georgia, and in connection with St. James Church and other churches of the city this national association was invited to hold a special meeting in the city of Augusta, Ga. It was at this meeting that Brother and Sister Quattlebaum attended. We have often heard him speak of the sacrifice he had to make to attend this meeting. But he followed his own inclinations and regardless of the cost in dollars and cents and what others had to say about it he paid the price, he and his wife and for forty years they have walked together in the new found experience of sanctification as the second blessing, so called by Mr. Wesley. Brother Quattlebaum was called to preach and for forty years he has been on the lay evangelistic roll to do the little things for God, and even today down on the other end of life his heart is on fire for God. The last words of Sister Quattlebaum to her husband, who was at her bedside to kiss her goodbye leaving for a business trip out in the west, were, "If I slip off while you are gone you will know where to find me," and the curtain dropped.

Brother Quattlebaum left on Friday noon, January 22, 1927, for his business trip to the west, and on the following Wednesday was called home by a wire saying mother is failing fast. He came on the first train and arrived on Friday, Feb. 28, just 24 hours after Sister Quattlebaum had left for heaven. All was done that could be done by loving hands, and on Saturday morning, Jan. 29, 1927, after funeral services at her church, Anderson Memorial M. E. Church, South, by her pastor and presiding elder of the District, Sister Quattlebaum was laid in the west Evergreen Cemetery, Jacksonville, Fla., to await the resurrection morning.

By one who knew her best.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolutions on the death of Miss Mary Lewis, who departed this life September 24, 1926.

We, the members of the Greensburg Missionary Society, realizing the loss of one of our earliest and well beloved members and knowing that our Heavenly Father doth all things well, adopt the following resolutions.

Resolved, First, That our Society has lost a valuable and faithful member and one whose memory will long be cherished. She loved her Society and we were always assured of her deepest interest. She has rendered faithful service for many years and was always ready to do all she could for the advancement of God's kingdom. Her noble and inspiring example will be missed in her church, her home and among her friends. She left the sweet assurance with her loved ones that all was well with her soul, and we feel sure that she is now enjoying happy companionship with dear ones in that City whose builder and maker is God.

Resolved, Second, That we extend to her family and friends not only our deepest sympathy but our blessed hope of a glad reunion in the Great Beyond.

Resolved, Third, That a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the minutes of our society, and that we may treasure a precious memory of her in our hearts.

Christ Exalted, by Rev. C. H. Babcock. $1.00.

Everyone who has heard Brother Babcock preach will want this book of excellent sermons. It is beautifully bound in blue cover with title in gold. There are seventeen messages in the 162 pages. Most sermon books are shorn of the personality of the preacher, but not so with this one. The first chapter on "Christ and Christian Experience" is Babcock clear through. It throbs with the personality of the man.

In chapter two, Dr. G. W. Ridout tells how Brother Babcock was started in the evangelistic work. It is interesting.

Chapter four, on "Christ and Redemption" is vital in its appeal. Chapter five, "Christ's Sufferings and Glory" is likewise gripping.

Notice some of the themes treated: "Christ and the Incarnation," "Christ and the Cross," "Christ and Christianity," "Manhood," "Christ and Abiding Faith," "Christ and the Resurrection," "Christ and His Second Coming."

Brother Babcock does not try to impress you with scholarship, but he depends mightily on the Scriptures. These sermons are well worth reading. They will inspire faith and lead one closer to God.

Beulah Land, by Beverly Carradine. $1.00.

Many dear old saints will recall the name and ministry of this silver-tongued exponent of full salvation of other days. This book, written in 1904, has long been a favorite with the holiness people, and many have feasted on the riches contained within its pages.

Here are some quotations taken at random from the first fifty pages.

Speaking of the sanctified life he said, "The facts of the past are a jet black conviction, a blood red justification, a sky-blue conversion and a snow-white sanctification. . . . The facts of the present are that the blood of Christ has cleansed him from all sin; perfect love like a lump of golden honey drips with a steady sweetness through a nature purified and clear as transparent glass."

"It is a sorrowful fact that we have in our midst people claiming the blessing of perfect love or sanctification, who do not seem to have a drop of honey in all their composition. They are exclusively in the rock business. Every time we see them they are throwing missiles at some one. . . . On the other hand there are people who seem to think that Canaan is all honey. . . . Applying their misconceptions of holiness and perfect love to life they would have everybody who professes the blessing to live in a candied or sugared state; and nothing but sugar or candy."

"We live in a world so full of demands on our patience and longsuffering, that to do God's work properly we must be filled with love; but at the same time that very spirit of tenderness must be accompanied with the fixed principles of righteousness. Love must be embodied in truth. The honey must be in the rock."

Note some quotations from the last fifty pages.

"There is a summing up of one's life this side of the judgment, where a man's probation on earth is closing or has just terminated in death."

"All that comes to us, and that happens in and round about us, can be made tributary to the spiritual life within."

"Sometimes the very best thing for a man is to let him have what he wants, and have it outpouringly, multiplying and most abundantly."

"There is no failure in sanctification and no disappointment in Beulah Land itself, but there are miscarriages, comings short, and defeats in things and persons connected with the land and life. . . . We are not allowed to build an abiding nest for ourselves this side of the stars, not even out of our excellent intentions and undertakings."

"The only perfectness promised in the Bible to us in this life is the complete cleansing from all sin, and the perfecting of Christian love. This is the perfection spoken of in the Word of God, and called Christian Perfection by John Wesley."

These sentences reveal the nature of the book. It is rich in soul food.

Dying Testimonies, by S. B. Shaw. $1.00.

This is a book of about four hundred illustrations compiled by the author. They are given in simple style, and in most cases are backed with names and authority. The writer spared no pains to be sure that what he wrote would be authentic. He quotes from many sources.

The book deals with the dying testimonies of saved and unsaved people. In the words of Mr. Shaw, "Our book reveals the awful contrast between the dying testimonies of the saved and the unsaved. It reveals the inexpressible happiness and joy of the righteous about to be translated from their home on earth to the paradise of God. On the other hand it reveals the awful remorse of conscience and the untold mental agony of souls facing death and the judgment, unprepared."

The last words of many noted skeptics, infidels and atheists are given. Notable among these are those of Voltaire, David Hume, Tom Paine, Hobbs and others. There are given also the last words of many noted Christians, such as Ignatius, Susanna Wesley, Frances E. Willard, John Calvin, Martin Luther, Jerome, Jerry McAuley, George Washington, John Bunyan and others.

This book should prove itself very valuable to ministers and Christian workers of all kinds. It furnishes many fine illustrations. I can heartily recommend it.

The Kingdom Parables, by Rev. Len G. Broughton. 50c.

This is a small book of 121 pages written by the noted Baptist preacher, Len G. Broughton on the seven parables uttered by Jesus, and found in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew. Dr. Broughton is an old-fashioned preacher of the Gospel, and these writings have the true ring.

The subjects are treated under the following headings: "The Parable of the Sower—the Foundation Work of the Holy Spirit"; "Parable of the Tares—Jesus and Satan; Good and Evil"; "Parable of the Mustard Seed—The Kingdom and its External Development"; "Parable of the Leaven—The Kingdom and the Inner Life"; "Parable of the Hidden Treasure—The Purchase of the World"; "The Parable of the Pearl of Great Price—The Kingdom and the Church"; "Parable of the Drag Net—the Kingdom Complete." The last chapter deals with "The Coming of the King."

We miss him, but it will not be long until we shall meet again.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson VI.—May 8, 1927.

Subject.—Peter and the Risen Lord. John 20:1-10; 21:15-17.

Golden Text.—Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. 1 Peter 1:3.

Time.—A. D. 30.

Places.—Jerusalem and Galilee.

Introduction.—At the close of our last lesson we left Peter weeping bitterly because he had denied his Lord. He slipped out of the high priest's hall, and out of sight. We know not where he spent the remainder of that night, nor do we know where he was during the crucifixion—too broken-hearted, perchance, to show himself; but somewhere he found a place for weeping and praying. Let us leave him there in secret. When he comes out he will be a new man. Such hours are costly for flesh and blood; but they are rich in blessing for one's spiritual being.

God's Book does not try to satisfy man's curiosity. What a story could have been written about the happenings between the death on the cross and the resurrection; but we have only touches here and there. That is not man's way, but God's way: He was not giving us fancy literature, but making plain the way of salvation from sin through the blood of his Son.

We take columns in a daily paper to portray the funeral of some prominent man: Matthew uses five short verses to describe the burial of Jesus Christ. Mark covers six verses with the story, but uses about half the space to tell of other matters. Luke devotes just one verse to the burial, but uses six others for kindred matters. John covers the burial with five verses, but uses much of the space for incidental things.

Some little space is taken up telling about the sealing of the stone that was rolled against the opening into the cave where the body of Jesus was laid; and just sufficient is said about it to let us know that Pilate permitted the Jews to use the temple guard to keep watch around the sepulchre to prevent his disciples from stealing his body. Some of the good women who loved him dearly, were busy preparing spices for the further embalming of his body; but we are not told where the eleven apostles had hidden themselves.

Our golden text portrays powerfully the resurrection of Jesus Christ in its effect upon the apostle Peter. During the arrest and trial of the Master, he was a consummate coward; but the resurrection so uplifted him that his courage, in large measure, came back to him. There is a shout of victory in the golden text, that is glorious. When Jesus died on the cross the hope of Peter and his fellow-disciples died also; but when he arose from the dead, Peter declares that they were thereby begotten anew unto a living hope, as we would say in modern English. The resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead is the hope of the Church and of the world; for, "if he be not risen, we are of all men most miserable." Herein centers our hope for ourselves and for our loved ones who have gone on before. We shall live again in resurrection bodies, thank God.

Comments on the Lesson.

1. The first day of the week.—Our present Sabbath, or Sunday. Cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.—You will not find the same wording in the other three evangelists that we have here. Matthew says, "Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary." Mark states, that "Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had brought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him." Luke says, chapter 24:1: "Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them"; but in the tenth verse of this same chapter he tells us that it was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women." The difference in the wording need not bother us a moment; for it proves that there was no collusion among these writers. The great fact of the resurrection of our Lord is the matter that concerns us; and concerning that fact they are all agreed, and they are perfectly clear.

2. Then she runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the other disciples, whom Jesus loved.—Mary Magdalene was the one who did the running. The apostle John was the disciple whom Jesus loved. They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.—It is utterly impossible for us to reconcile all the statements of the four Gospels concerning all the visits made by the disciples and the apostles to the tomb where Jesus had lain. Matthew says that there was a great earthquake at the time of the resurrection, and that an angel came down from heaven and rolled away the stone. He says that the angel's countenance was like lightning, and his raiment as white as snow. Mark says nothing about the earthquake; nor does he tell us who rolled away the stone; but he does state that a young man was seen sitting inside the cave, "clothed in a long white garment"—the angel, of course. Luke mentions "two angels in white, sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain." If we had all the facts, we might be able to reconcile the differences; but we need not fret about it: the statements are clear enough; and they are given just about as we would expect honest men to state them. Were they inspired? Yes; the Holy Ghost gave them all the guidance needed for telling the story in their own words. We need no more; but had we needed more, it would have been given.

We shall not waste time quoting the remaining verses from this 20th chapter. They simply tell how Peter and John had an unintentional race to the sepulchre, and that John outran Peter. Although he arrived first, he only looked into the sepulchre, and saw "the linen clothes lie." Maybe he was afraid to enter; but Peter went in, and saw, not only the linen clothes, but the napkin that had been wrapped about his head; and it was lying "in a place by itself," still wrapped together. Is it unbelievable that they should take such particular notice of things under such excitement? O no. At such times men see more than at other times. The writer heard Bishop A. G. Haygood say that in his young years he stood under a holly tree during a severe thunder storm, and that when there came a brilliant flash of lightning he saw the very thorns on the leaves. Although badly frightened, the impression made upon his mind was so intense that the picture had not faded during the three decades that had passed since he saw the flash.

Let us not blame the two disciples for being slow to comprehend the doctrine of the resurrection; for we learn but slowly ourselves. Although Jesus had told them that he would rise from the dead on the third day, and although their Old Testament Scripture had made known the glorious fact in its wondrous prophecies, they understood not—"they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead."

We skip now into the fifteenth verse of the twenty-first chapter. The resurrection had become a well known fact among the disciples. Jesus had had several talks with them, appearing at one time to more than five hundred of his disciples. One afternoon Peter and some of the other disciples decided to go fishing, and there was nothing wrong in that; for they still had physical needs. They fished all night, but caught nothing. When the morning dawned Jesus was standing on the shore of the lake. He had been watching over them all night long. How kindly he speaks to them: "Children, have ye any meat?" None. "Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find." He knew where the fish were. What a fluttering mass they had. But he was already cooking bread and fish for their breakfast. We wonder how he got those fish. Never did such a cook prepare such a breakfast. He had the servant's place again. Well, thank God, he dignified all our toil. Sensible people are not ashamed to labor for themselves, nor for the good of others.

But we are specially concerned now with this conversation between Peter and his Master. Three times the Lord asked Peter if he loved him! and he answered in the affirmative every time; but why did he cower so at the third asking? In the first two instances Jesus used the Greek word agapao, a word that expresses love in its highest form; and Peter replied with the low word phileo. Then the Master dropped to the weaker word, as much as to say: "Well, Peter, if you cannot love me in this high, heavenly sense, is it true that you do think pretty well of me?" That was too much for him; it cut the grit from beneath his feet. "Peter was grieved."

There was one beautiful redeeming feature about this severe conversation: The Master honored Peter immensely when he told him to feed his lambs and his sheep. Our Lord's confidence is beautiful, and full of encouragement for us weak mortals.

WHY I READ THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD.

If someone should ask you the question the above caption implies—what would be your answer? I have read The Pentecostal Herald for nearly a decade, and it grows more interesting all the while.

A tree is known by its fruit, and The Herald has a wide circulation among both the clergy and business men. A very striking feature about this paper is that the print is large enough for an aged person to read, and therefore, is not so strenuous as the print in some other papers.

On the first page are the weekly articles by the able and experienced writer, Dr. Morrison. The writings that come from his facile pen seem to flow unceasingly, and without them the spiritual feast to be found in this great paper would hardly be complete. When I receive my copy of The Herald each week I can hardly wait until I have devoured everything that it contains—from the first page to the last.

A feast is incomplete without a little spice. The goodies that are contained in The Herald are well seasoned and highly spiced with Divine unction, as every article in it seems to bear the earmarks and the stamp of a higher life filled with the Spirit. With the bread and meat, there are nutritious vegetables that have a goodly variety from the Morrison, Ridout and Wimberly gardens, as well as from various ones who contribute to the paper. The soul-stirring contributions are well prepared and seasoned to a palatable taste.

Turning the first page, my eyes fall upon the articles written by the able and noted Dr. Ridout; who as a writer, in my estimation, surpasses many other writers. Since having heard Dr. Ridout preach I can all the more appreciate the articles he gives to The Herald. He is a tireless writer and a most capable speaker, and I feel that those who have never heard Dr. Ridout have missed a great treat. His articles are interspersed with some of the most soul-touching and beautiful poems, hymns and sayings that I have ever read; his source of these seems inexhaustible and illimitable. I think I shall never grow tired of reading the second page of The Herald.

If for no other reason, I can afford to read The Herald for the sake of satisfying my literary appetite, as the styles of writing contained in it continue to hold my interest in its matter. It is thorough and complete in a literary sense. I read The Herald because I get value received; and no one can make the mistake of subscribing to this weekly, or making a present of it to their friends.

I trust that the time is not far distant when The Herald will have found its way into every religious home. It commands the respect and implicit confidence of this writer at all times; and God grant that it shall ever continue to grow and expand. There is no reason why it should not reach the one hundred thousand mark in its circulation.

Without this weekly I would lose touch with many of my old acquaintances who have scattered in every direction over the globe. I have derived a great deal more from this paper than I have ever put into it. I am sure that every interested subscriber can corroborate my statement by the good that he has also gained from its pages in the past.

A Herald Reader.

IN HONOR PREFERRING ONE ANOTHER.

True humility is hard to find, but it is necessary in order to get the richest blessings to our souls. I remember when a child an old song the children used to sing: "It takes a very humble soul to find its way to heaven." "Big I" and "little you" are moving around in all circles. In the home circle, in society, in business, in church.

How often a "Big I" will say to "little you," if she attempts to relate an incident, "you wait until I relate this."

What "Big I" has to say, in his own estimation, amounts to so much more. "Big I" has plenty of gas to run his engine night and day. Even after "Big I" waits on the Lord and sees himself, oft-times it is very hard for him to realize "little you's" opinions are worth being heard.

This indeed would be a happy world if in honor we preferred one another. I have known children to be ruined by parents talking about them and to them when in their early teens, that they were smart enough to hold any position from the President down.

Some parents will sit up for a half day at a time and brag on the wonderful gifts of their children. No wonder the children come to the conclusion they know better than father and mother.

So much "fuss and feathers" about some parents when telling of the wonderful exploits of their children.

Such fathers and mothers generally have a poor estimation of their companions, and think they are hardly worthy to keep company of their wonderful sons and daughters. There are some good people that are not good parents.

Consistency, thou art a jewel! We need to be taught lessons in true humility, as much so as when Jesus girded himself with a towel and washed the disciples' feet.

Mrs. Robert Johnson.

HELPS FOR BIBLE STUDY.

Many are in need of good books to enable them to classify the Scriptures by subjects. The three we here list have proven a real aid to many.

Leaves From the Tree of Life; Or Cleanings from the Word of God. $1.50.

It contains 76 Bible readings that are helpful in the study of the Bible, in getting up prayer meeting talks, etc. A pastor said, "I always keep this book right by my Bible."

Bible Fruit $1.50.

This is supplemental to the "Leaves." The readings are fewer, but longer, more full and complete. Another pastor being asked if he had this book, responded by opening his circuit "saddle bags" and bringing out his Bible and "Bible Fruit."

The Book and Its Theme $1.50.

This is on the Bible as an inspired book and Holiness as its "theme." Hundreds have been blessed by reading it.

These three books should be a part of your library. They make a splendid gift for your pastor or a young preacher.

All three for $4.00

HAVE THE DAYS OF REVIVALS PASSED?

By The Editor.

WE are frequently notified by a certain class of Methodist preachers that the days of revivals are passed. It should be remembered that they are simply speaking for themselves, not for God nor the masses. The time has passed when some people believe in, or desire, revivals of true religion; but the time has not passed when there is great necessity for such revivals.

* * * *

All the evangelists worth while are great believers in the inspiration of the Scriptures, the virgin birth of Christ, the blood atonement made upon Calvary, the necessity of repentance, saving faith, and regenerating power; they are men of courage; they must be so; they must speak as in authority. The evangelist who is timid, or gives an uncertain sound, or is tainted with modernism, cannot be used of the Holy Ghost to bring men to Christ.

* * * *

The true evangelist speaks out plainly against the modernism that discounts the inspiration of the Bible and the power of a saving gospel. No true evangelist who really brings men to repentance and saving faith in Christ, is friendly to irreverent evolution, and he will say things. He talks to the multitude when they are in a mood to hear; he feels that God has called him to this work, that God is with him, and that he must not only call the people to repentance, but he must warn them against all false teachers, that he must defend the faith, that he must earnestly contend for the fundamental doctrines of our Christianity.

* * * *

The evangelist who believes the Bible is inspired, who insists on the fall of man, his natural sinfulness, his need of repentance, a broken heart and contrite spirit, the regeneration of each individual, a clean heart and a holy life, who contends with vigor and earnestness for the virgin birth, deity, blood atonement, bodily resurrection and saving power of the Lord Jesus, and who strikes faithfully and fearlessly against all opposition or contradiction to these Bible truths, is most distasteful to your modern liberalist, and to all that class of false teachers springing up among us who believe that some sort of education and training can take the place of regeneration, and who want a class of revivals where repentance is so shallow that there are no tears, and salvation is so small that there is no praise. We say, that the true evangelist of God is most objectionable to all this class of people who are the enemies of supernatural, experimental salvation. This class of dangerous, and very courteous, deceivers of people, is on the increase. They would like to silence the evangelist, and do away with protracted meetings and revivals of every kind. You may be sure that they will be insisting that the day for revivals is passed.

* * * *

There is nothing that would so completely put your modernists out of a job, out of office, out of church leadership, out of his swivel chair, big salary and loud talk, as a genuine revival of Bible religion; the outpouring of the Holy Ghost upon the people in conviction, conversion and sanctification would mean his overthrow and disaster. We have pastors who are content to take people into the church at their Easter meeting on Decision Day, to tell you that the days of revivals are passed, with backslidden worldlings in their church, and sinners dying, and going to hell all around them, simply because they do not bestir themselves and their people to call on God, to warn and witness to their neighbors, to bring in help, if necessary, and promote great revivals of religion. The day is passed when some people want revivals, but the day has not passed when there is great and crying need for mighty revivals in our churches, from the great city congregations to the neglected places where human souls are perishing because we fail to come to them with prayer and praise and evangelical messages.

* * * *

What sort of a world would we have today, but for the great revivals of religion that followed Pentecost, and Luther's discovery of the doctrine and experience of salvation by faith, and the great revivals under the leadership of Moody, Finney, and others whom God has used to awaken the people and reveal himself in saving power. There is no way to estimate the benefit that has come to churches, communities, villages, towns, and cities through the influence of revival meetings. Souls have been saved, crime prevented, the moral atmosphere purified, family altars set up, preachers and missionaries sent forth, and a mighty host of immortal souls garnered in heaven, because of, and through, the instrumentality of religious revivals. We have many ministers and churches who claim that they do not believe in revivals of religion. We do not believe in such preachers and churches; they little dream of their own spiritual state and of the souls that are being lost because of their neglect and deadness. We want every reader of this paper to become an ardent, earnest believer in, and promoter of, revivals of religion. Pray to God, talk to the people, and insist on revivals of religion and help to bring them about.

THE PASSING OF A GREAT, GOOD MAN.

ON March 28, at 7 A. M., Col. George W. Bain entered into life eternal at the home of his son, George A. Bain, Lexington, Ky. Mr. Bain was in his 87th year; had he lived about six months longer he would have been 87 years of age. He was in remarkably good health for a man of his age, his mind clear and his spirit full of sunshine and joy until about a week before his passage, when he had a paralytic stroke, gradually grew worse, until he passed away in great peace.

One of his last expressions to me was, "My work is done, the end is come and I am going to heaven." His last days were spent in the elegant home of George A. Bain, his elder son who, with his family, bestowed upon Col. Bain every attention and kindness that could be given to the object of their devoted love, and smoothed the beautiful pathway of the grand old soldier of Christ and humanity to his peaceful grave.

Col. Bain was famous for a half century as the silver-tongued orator of Kentucky. He was welcomed by thousands of people on the platform of the great New York Chautauqua, Ocean Grove, N. J., and, in fact, throughout the nation; from Maine to California, and the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico, he was known, loved and sought after as one of the most instructive and charming lecturers on any subject he chose to discuss.

Mr. Bain was most famous for the service he rendered to the nation in his labors for the prohibition of the liquor traffic. He was a man full of genuine love for humanity. His heart went out in pity for his suffering fellowbeings. His pocketbook was open and the hand of charity ever extended to those in need of help. As he saw the ravages of the liquor traffic, poverty, crime, sickness and ruin it brought to his fellowbeings, his soul would move with pity for the suffering and with righteous indignation against the traffic which was sowing broadcast the seed which brought forth such a harvest of human sorrow.

He commenced his work with the Good Templars; tens of thousands signed the teetotaler's pledge in the mass meetings he held, and the lodges he organized in the Good Templar's movement. A vast army of successful men and happy women, now gray with passing years, rise up throughout the nation and call him blessed, because under his eloquent and persuasive pleas they were led into the ranks of total abstinence of intoxicants and became a nucleus in the growing army that finally swept the saloon with its tragedy of crime out of existence.

As the battle for prohibition increased his field of service enlarged; his influence grew, his sturdy figure, handsome face and magnificent voice were always seen and heard in the forefront of the ever enlarging army of those who marched forward to the overthrow of King Alcohol. Few men who have championed an unpopular cause and stood undaunted and fearless amid howling mobs of armed men threatening his life, have lived to see the splendid triumph of the cause for which they fought and suffered so valiantly as Col. George W. Bain. Human words could not utter the joy and satisfaction he felt when the black flag of smoke waving from the breweries and distilleries of this country was pulled down to be raised no more.

In the midst of his hottest battles against the most dangerous foe of the race, he was

THE METHODIST CRISIS.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

HERE is no denying the fact that American Methodism is face to face with a very grave and menacing crisis. A few facts must be admitted right at the outset. Let me set them forth in all plainness.

First. Methodism, officially, is in the grip of the Modernists. They control things—the schools, the publications, the Boards and, to a large extent, the big pulpits.

Second. The Conservative or orthodox element in Methodism vastly outnumber the Modernists, but they are, as Bishop Berry said, “Asleep at the switch,” and while they sleep the Modernists are wide-awake and seize every advantage.

Third. Methodism, through its official heads, is no longer the distributing agent of pure doctrine and a great gospel, but has become the channel through which Unitarianism, pure and simple, is being spread broadcast over this country under Methodist labels.

Now these are grave charges but I am uttering them after having come to grips with some of the outstanding officials of Modernistic Methodism where I have met some of them face to face, asked them questions, and debated with them on the Conference floor. I think I may say that I have recently come out of one of the hottest battles with Modernists that I have ever witnessed, or had any share in, at an Annual Conference.

My old Conference—The New Jersey—met this year at Asbury Park, N. J., March 8-14, Bishop Anderson presiding. While I have always had the habit of standing for my convictions at the Annual Conference, I had no thought that this year such a battle and such a crisis would have been precipitated. We had no Memorials to the General Conference to offer. Dr. H. P. Sloan, leader of the Conservative Wing of Methodism, had no presentation to make from his “League of Faith and Life,” and none of us intended to bring on any discussion through any previously arranged program.

There were several elements and persons which entered into the discussion precipitated this year at the New Jersey Annual Conference. Dr. H. H. Meyer, Editor of the Sunday School publications, visited us for the first time, and eventually became a storm center. A representative of World Service was another element; Bishop Anderson, in his endorsement of Modernism in Methodism, brought on a discussion out of which the old New Jersey Conference came with all flags flying and possibly seventy-five percent of her members standing solidly four-square and unflinchingly for essential and old-time Methodism, and for Dr. Sloan and his League of protest against Modernism.

There were several things which led up to the crisis which Bishop Anderson precipitated.

(1) Our criticism of the social program presented by the Committee on that subject in which we reiterated that message of the Bishop of Salisbury in which he said: “We are tired of forward movements and social programs. Nothing will avail but a revival of spiritual religion.” He further said that Methodism was losing out in the great centers and nothing would save us if the Methodist preachers did not get back again the passion of preaching the great Redemption.

(2) Our question to the World Service representative as to why its literature was never written from the conservative viewpoint, and Dr. H. P. Sloan defending E. Stanley Jones from the charge of Modernism when this same representative hailed Dr. Jones’ book as modernistic. The larger elements in the crisis were Dr. Meyer and Bishop Anderson.

Friday afternoon a group of us gathered to hear Dr. Meyer in an informal conference at the hotel where he outlined the Sunday School program and aims. Dr. Meyer is a very fine gentleman and invited discussion. One question among several that we asked was, “Why in the Sunday School literature no conservative scholarship was employed?” Dr. Meyer read a list of the writers of 1927—Bishop McConnell, Dr. Rall, Prof. Lewis, of Drew, Prof. Longacre, of Iliff, Prof. Knudson, of Boston, etc. When he read Prof. Lewis’ name Dr. Sloan arose and said, “Dr. Meyer, you do not mean to say that Dr. Lewis is a Conservative?” (Now the facts are that Dr. Sloan has proven beyond a question that touching the Divinity of Christ Prof. Lewis is a Unitarian. A former Drew student told me the other day that Prof. Lewis was a Unitarian in this particular).

At this conference quite a bit of a tempest was raised; afterward, we said to Dr. Meyer, in his room: “The trouble is that you official heads of Methodism totally neglect the conservative viewpoint.”

Saturday morning at the Conference session, Dr. Meyer addressed the session in which he said that he stood ready to be transferred to the New Jersey Conference and stand trial for heresy (but we are not in that kind of business; the state of the church is such that all such trials would accomplish nothing).

Dr. Sloan arose and contended that no set of men who were not in accord with our Articles of Religion were competent to write our Sunday School literature, and after a powerful presentation of the conservative view, moved a Resolution which was eventually adopted. We had a larger Resolution ready and which was offered as a substitute in which we deplored “all teachings in our S. S. Literature that belittles Conversion and exalts Religious Education in its stead; that exalts character growth to the detriment of regeneration; that ignores human depravity in its evolutionary propaganda, and that obscures the supernatural and the miraculous in the interpretation of the Holy Scriptures.”

Dr. Sloan’s resolution which eventually carried, and which later on Bishop Anderson designated as an “insult” to Dr. Meyer, reads as follows: “Resolved that we call upon the Editor of our Sunday School Publications to be exceedingly careful to fulfil the injunction of the General Conference of 1924 and to maintain our publications under his charge in absolute harmony with the doctrinal standards established for us in the Articles of Religion of our Church.”

Let me add that this is but a reiteration of what the 1924 General Conference did when it passed a requirement that Dr. Meyer be urged to keep his publications in accord with our Standards of Doctrine.

After the unanimous passing of this Resolution Bishop Anderson said: “Now, brethren, I have not said a word upon this issue. I have waited till you had completed your business and now that the vote has been taken I am going to speak.” Bishop Anderson spoke and he said things! Hereafter we shall have no question as to where Bishop Anderson stands. He stands unequivocally, uncompromisingly for the whole Modernistic program of Methodism; in other words, I would say, Bishop Anderson is an one hundred percent Methodist Modernist. He gave a complete endorsement of Modernism from Dan to Beersheba! He designated our Theology of fifty years ago as hide-bound and narrow and would never meet the issues of the present age. Present-day Theology was vital and progressive. He threw his heavy shells at movements in the church seeking to save the church from heresy. He said he believed with John Wesley, “Think and let think.” The Bishop, after this wholesale endorsement of Modernism, called for an altar service; he invited us to come forward for prayers. He singled a few of us out; he wanted Dr. Meyer to get down, and Dr. Sloan and others of us. They sang, “Just as I am without one plea,” but this was a time the altar service didn’t work. Dr. Sloan approached the altar and stood; then he said: “Bishop, I want you to understand that I have nothing to repent of in anything I have said this morning. I also refuse to be the subject of an emotional situation created by yourself.” Dr. DeMaris was called on to pray, but no fire fell! After the prayer the Bishop started to sing: “Blest be the tie that binds,” but no fire fell! He called for a hand-shaking but no fire fell! The fact was, and is, that the Holy Ghost never falls on Modernism. No shouts and no Hallelujahs break out when Modernism is on top. Many ministers who refused to bow called the whole thing sacrilege! Modernism may seek sometimes to be garbed in Methodistic clothes, but the voice is the voice of Esau, and no blessing falls and no benediction is bestowed. Methodist Isaacs are too wise to be deceived by Modernistic Esau when it comes to a real issue.

Let me now stop to pay a personal tribute to Dr. Sloan. I have known him from the time he was a beginner among us. As a young preacher, he evinced some of the oddities of genius. When this writer attacked Dr. Mains, Book Agent, for his liberalism at the Annual Conference, Dr. Sloan was unknown to the general church. At that time he entered the fight for orthodoxy. The next year he distinguished himself with a great deliverance on the liberalistic Methodist Book Concern; from that he went on and grew great in the fight for the doctrines of the Methodist Church. He has become the outstanding leader of Conservative Methodism. As a theologian, there is hardly his equal; as a preacher, he is mighty; as a champion, of Orthodoxy he is without a peer. He has stood abuse, calumny, criticism, opposition, enough to break down any ordinary man. We have seen him in many battles but I think the stand Dr. Sloan took that Saturday morning was the bravest and most courageous of anything I have witnessed in thirty years! It takes courage sublime and convictions of steel to stand up against organized, officialized and modernized Methodism today and say, “I will not bend or bow!” Would to God Sloan’s example and spirit might catch ten thousand orthodox, but mute Methodist preachers, all over the country!

After the hand-shaking, etc., a young modernist moved that all reference to this morning’s discussion (including of course the Sloan Resolution) be expurgated from the Minutes. This was about to precipitate another discussion, but the order of the day was called for and the session was adjourned to meet again at 2 P. M., when the Sloan Resolution would be again opened, but the Modernists did not dare bring it to a head and the chapter closed with the Sloan Resolution on the Records of the Conference.

REFLECTIONS.

The average Methodist Conference is a rubber stamp which Modernistic officials use to the utmost in furthering their propaganda. The New Jersey Conference refuses to be a rubber stamp!

Orthodox Methodist Ministers are often heroic enough in their own pulpits but when Annual Conference is on they stand pat and say nothing.

The greatest thing that could happen to Methodism would be a band of men who would fear the face of no man when it comes to defending the faith.

A revolt against that tranquillity which is permitting Methodism to be suckled, fed and nourished in the lap of Modernism, would be the greatest happening in our history.

It is the purest cowardice for Methodist preachers to take the vows of fidelity to Methodist doctrines and then for policy sake fall in with Modernistic wreckers and Unitarian leaders and carry out their programs.

The greatest thing that could happen to Methodism, the thing which would bring full churches, crowded prayer meetings and prosperity on all lines, would be all the preachers ceasing to preach modern thought and going in to preach the grand old doctrines of Methodism—Sin and Repentance, Regeneration and conscious salvation, Consecration and Holiness, Heaven and Hell, Death and Judgment. Methodism loses out in proportion as she neglects her great mission. All over the country Methodism is losing out in the cities. Good-will industries will never make up for loss of a great gospel.

TRAGEDY OF DOUBT.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

(Broadcasted from WLW, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Lesson. John 14:1-13.

IT has been said that Shakespeare created the greatest villain in literature in the person of Iago. In the tragedy of Othello, the base treachery and inhuman cruelty are portrayed. He looked upon the beautiful and happy romance of Othello and Desdemona, and his evil soul quietly, but diligently, sought their ruin. At no time did he speak of Desdemona's infidelity to her husband, but by suggestion, he planted a seed of doubt in Othello's heart. How did he do it? Very cautiously, and with a show of seriousness would say, "Watch Cassio." Oh, the power of suggestion! Every opportunity—"Watch Cassio." The arched eyebrow, the shrug of shoulders, may often carry more weight than spoken words. The seed of doubt germinated rapidly in the troubled man's heart, until the green monster of jealousy drove him to a maniac, and the climax was reached when the enraged husband strangled his beautiful, virtuous wife to death in her bed-chamber.

The Bible clothes its messages in the most beautiful figures, and parables. The Kingdom is like a marriage—a wedding. Nothing in all the world is so attractive as the marriage ceremony—when two happy young hearts are united at the sacred altar as one in the divine passion of romance. Our relation to Jesus Christ is that of a divine romance; he and the church are united as husband and wife. He is the Bridegroom of the soul; those who are his by faith in his precious blood are called the Bride. The church is the "Lamb's Wife," declared so, as she prepares herself for "the marriage supper of the Lamb." I repeat, the soul's relation to our divine Lord is that of a love affair; it becomes so through faith in his substitutionary death on the cross for us. It begins by faith, and the word declares, "The just shall live by faith" and, "without faith it is impossible to please God."

It is evident that, in exactly the same manner, human romances, if they reach the happy consummation of marriage and home, are impossible without faith. Faith is the golden cord that unites the hearts in love, and the beautiful relationship of marriage and home must live by faith. For this there is no duplicate. The moment faith is shattered all happiness is wrecked. The husband cannot atone by smiles and costly gifts, once the wife doubts his fidelity, and vice versa. Making the home attractive, delicately prepared meals, cannot erase the seed of doubt that is growing in the companion's heart.

Now what do we have in all this faith superstructure called our religion—God, Christ, Heaven, Hell, Eternity, Rewards and Punishments? Upon what is it all based? How do we know that it is real? We build churches, support the institutions of righteousness, and we do it gladly, and with the whole heart, or we should. Why do we all these things? Christ lived nearly two thousand years ago, and what evidence have we that the things we believe are not all a myth? The foundation of it all is the Record we have—the precious Bible; when the Bible as God's revealed message is destroyed, or even weakened, doubts at once arise. Think of the wrong one might easily commit against the home of any one by one evil suggestion touching the loyalty or chastity of the one you love. It would bury the happiness in that home forever. One vile enough to do such a thing would do that home an irreparable wrong.

In exactly the same way, whoever by inference, suggestion, or doubtful look, implies that our Record is not authentic, or is doubtful, has done the soul faith of those affected a wrong that cannot be redeemed in time or eternity. When we are dealing in things that pertain to our faith in God, we are on holy ground. Woe be to any one, whether he stand in the sacred desk in God's church, or in the intellectual sanctum teaching the plastic minds of youth, whoever, or wherever, by word, or cynical look, or a lofty attitude, casts a reflection on the foundation of human faith, has wrought an evil comparable in comparison only to the villainy of Iago, the destroyer of Othello's happy home. Far greater is the sin, if it be directed against our faith, than against human relationship.

The Master has given out some very pointed and pertinent statements, dealing with this proposition. "Whosoever shall offend one of these little ones (and this may not necessarily mean children) who believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone be tied about his neck, and he be cast into the sea." Christ knew and said so, through his inspired apostles that, in the last days there would arise scoffers, walking after their own lusts. What comfort would there be in a message from an absent companion if there was doubt as to genuineness of its statement; such a letter would be empty mockery and, instead of giving joy, would add to the mental torture. Just so, our Bible must be God's revealed Word—his divinely inspired message—guarded and preserved through the centuries, for our every spiritual need, or else the whole religious scheme, the church's world-wide aspirations, are but a gigantic delusion, a humbug, a "pious fraud." But over against the skeptical views of many, using ruthlessly their scientific scalpel on the precious Word, our sure foundation, we read: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (2 Tim. 3:16, 17). Again, "For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

We insist therefore, that upon the veracity of our Record, rests the end of our spiritual ideals and dreams. The seed of doubt will destroy the relationship of human love; it will also undermine the settled faith and, with it the hopes of all who are seeking the ultimate of soul longings—"The city that hath foundation, whose builder and maker is God." Religion that is not supported by reason is in the crucible of unfriendly investigation. We must see, feel, taste and handle all truth. Not so with the romance of the soul; it is all predicated of faith in One, "Whom having not seen we love."

Domestic life faces no tragedy greater than destroyed faith; our religions may face the same tragedy—the tragedy of doubt. "He who steals my purse," says the great Shakespeare, "steals trash"; but he who steals my faith, steals away something that cannot be computed in earthly values, and something that cannot be restored. May I say this again with emphasis: once our Bible becomes only a human book, filled with errors and contradictions, it will linger forever as poison in the soul, and doubts will flood the mind like swarms of black vultures of the night, forever invading the citadel of the soul. We may overcome spiritual doubts; they are forever pressing in upon us, and may be swept aside by experience and prayer; but when questions arise doubting the ipse dixit of God, as the man of our counsel, there is an irreparable wrong.

The menace of the hour is facing us: Shall we have a Bible and believe it as from God? In schools and universities, many of them built and supported by consecrated believers in the Old Book, we must witness the faith of our boys and girls being insidiously destroyed by the questionmarks of science, so-called. "My soul be on thy guard; ten thousand foes arise"; but none is so dangerous as doubt, and no character of doubt is so soul-destroying in its last analysis as a shaken faith in the Record. Iago made no concrete charges against Desdemona—"Watch Cassio"—that was all. Neither do the religious Iagos openly make charges against our Bible truths. Oh, some of the bolder ones may openly scoff at the Garden-of-Eden story, the Incarnation of God's Son, miracles, and the Resurrection; but ninety-nine out of every one hundred religious Iagos do their work as the original Iago—"Watch Cassio."

Better a thousand times that our precious boys and girls never see inside the walls of college or university; than go out into the world with a diploma, and a spirit of contempt for God and his revelation. It means spiritual tragedy, which is infinitely worse than the breaking down of the home. Shun as you would the worst contagion, anywhere, everywhere, agencies or institutions that would weaken your absolute faith in God's inspired Record. Nothing else can bridge the chasm between time and eternity. There is no duplicate for the Bible—Old Testament and New—indivisible and inseparable.

We close with a paraphrase of Longfellow's line from "The Ship of State!"

"Sail on, O Guide of human fate,
The Truth of God so rich and great;
Humanity with all its fears,
With all its hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate."

The HERALD PULPIT

A People Without a Past.

Rev. Joseph Owen.

Text: 1 Peter 2:10: "Which in time past were not a people but are now the people of God."

IT is worth while to have a past. It is absolutely necessary to have a present and a future. With a good many people the most important question is, who were your ancestors and what is your pedigree? The meaning of heredity is not to be ignored. Paul was reciting the worth of a good heritage when he said to Timothy, "I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee which dwelled first in thy grandmother Lois and thy mother Eunice and I am persuaded in thee also." We are dealing with a deeper law than that which has to do with family or with kingly or apostolic succession. The devotion of parents will not make secure the child who both purposes and practices wrong. Even in Old Testament times when a son had been lifted to the throne of his father, if he sinned, the God of Israel withdrew the blessings which had been given to the father. No church generation can live on the experiences given to the generation preceding it. We are not in apostolic succession because we have been baptized after some particular mode or ordained by one who is supposedly a link in an unbroken church chain from the days of the apostles. We are only in apostolic succession when we contend for the same faith, experience the same grace, serve in the same ardor and accomplish the same essential mission as did the apostles. Apostolic succession is to be traced in spiritual kinship rather than in external conformity.

The truth is that God who presides over the lives and destinies of men pays very little attention to the notions of men as to what the past of his trusted servants shall be. Some one has said that it is but three generations from shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves. One generation toils and slaves. The next generation is idle and extravagant. The third generation goes back to shirt-sleeves and sweat-shops. How often the sons and daughters of unknown parents come to leadership among their fellows. How many times, too, the children of illustrious parents fail to sustain the great record of those who have gone before.

We cannot say that there is anything in this which particularly displeases us. It would be monotonous if in the church we had to say "Bishop So-and-So, whose father was Bishop So-and-So, whose grandfather was Bishop So-and-So." We thoroughly believe in a democracy of opportunity and feel that leadership ought to be given to those whose talents, training and devotion merit such distinction.

Our text calls upon us to consider a people who had no spiritual past. There was no yesterday of victory and devotion to which they could turn. Their past was not written in the faithfulness of prophets nor catalogued in the devotion of saints. Their inspiration was to lie in the promise of a future rather than in a heritage of a great history. They who had been without the covenants given to Israel were to become the people of God, heirs of his promises and children of his household.

1. We note that these people were to come to such a spiritual prospect by the bestowal of mercy. It was not by assuming certain joint obligations with the King of kings that these spiritual possibilities became theirs. There is nothing more positively nor emphatically stated in God's Word, whether we are attending to the Old Testament or the New Testament, than that God deals with man as a sinful creature. He is not simply a child needing guidance; he is a guilty soul needing pardon. He is more than an untaught subject needing to be aroused to the opportunities and obligations of citizenship; he is an alien needing reconciliation. I am sometimes haunted with the feeling, or else assaulted with the temptation, that this truth is too often dwelt upon in my own ministry. And yet in the face of the easy-going teaching of the day which patronizingly calls on man to recognize the divine that is in him and which complacently admonishes him to bring to flower and to fruit the seed of spirituality which is innate to the soul, how can one keep quiet? God does not treat with man on the basis of equality. The difference between God and man is not simply in majesty of character, in the fullness and completeness of being. It is not that God is infinite and man is finite. God's thoughts are not as our thoughts nor his ways like our ways. There is a difference in spiritual quality. That difference is fundamental and vital. God is holy; we are unholy. God is sinless; man is sinful. God has taken account of that fact in every dispensation, whether he dealt with individuals or with nations. If we are to accept the oft-repeated doctrine of the Fatherhood of God, then any regard for reality must give to us the place of a prodigal son. We have journeyed to a far country. Our spiritual substance has been spent in careless living. If we have found our way back to the Father's house, we are outside the gate in tatters and rags. The only language that becomes our lips is the language of penitence. The only plea we are able to make is one for forgiveness. It is just so here. These people who could not boast a spiritual past, became God's own by the bestowal of mercy. They became citizens of the heavenly kingdom by the enfranchisement of grace.

2. A second observation is that they whom God makes his own by the grant of mercy are also given a great heritage. See how wealthy is this heritage as it is revealed in the context. We read, "Ye are a chosen generation." The revised version rendering is, "Ye are an elect race." Chosen by whom?

Elected of whom? Chosen by God, whose people they have become. Elected by the King of kings, whose subjects they gladly acknowledge themselves to be. The language spoken to Israel of old is now applied to all who have found Jesus precious in believing. Israel was once an elect nation. They had their national boundaries fixed. They were enjoined against any entanglements that would compromise their spirituality. Their social integrity was guarded by strict laws against intermarriage with strange and alien peoples.

It is not thus that the boundaries of a spiritual Israel are erected. The elect race, composed of all those who are the people of God, have no national or racial borders. They are to be found among all nations. They are in the Orient and in the Occident. In many ways they are different. After the estimates men place some of them have a great past, some have none at all; but whatever may be their history or lack of history, they are now chosen of God and the future is theirs. No color lines are drawn. No social barriers are lifted. God's discerning eye runs the boundary lines of this spiritually elect people and in his remunerative purpose they all alike are called to wealth untold.

They were to be a "royal priesthood." The promise given to Israel by Moses was that they should be a kingdom of priests. That is the significance of this expression. A royal priesthood means literally a kingly priesthood. Attention is first centered on relation or position, then on mission or service. We are first of all to become the people of God, the children of the King. Then we are to know ordination as priests at the altars of God. This priesthood is spiritual; it roots in character. Let there be no substitution of lighted candles and the smoke of incense at mere human altars for that devotion which pleases God. Let no priestly robes be confused with the garments of purity.

We need no

"bleeding bird or bleeding beast nor hyssop branch nor sprinkling priest," to assist our approach unto God. Sacrifice for sin has been made once for all by our great High Priest.

Note again, that those whom God makes his own people are to be a "holy nation." Just what does that mean? It demands holy inhabitants in this nation, both in experience and character. That, however, is not the full content of meaning. It seems specially to signify that they were to be a nation whose avocation or pursuit was holiness. Their wealth as a people was to be revealed in spirituality, in national righteousness. A brilliant preacher said some seventy-five years ago that the English honored truthfulness, the French brilliancy, the Hindoos subtlety and the Italian finesse, or skill and cur-

Is Evolution An Established Fact?

Dr. A. P. Gouthey.

No. IV.

IN this article we are attempting to trace effect back to cause. That this is bound to be a more or less difficult task the writer is well aware. Many, I have no doubt, will disagree with my findings. This, of course, is not the unpardonable sin. In fact the reader is not obligated from any standpoint to accept my findings as final. All he owes me is to think. If, after reading my deductions, he can furnish a more logical, scientific reason for the things to which I call attention I shall read his reasons with interest and be greatly obliged to him for his advanced thinking. If, on the other hand he cannot furnish such logical, scientific reasons it seems to me that he is obligated to at least consider my thesis and follow the argument to its conclusion.

By way of presenting this argument I choose to begin with the history of this nation.

The history of the United States is unlike the history of any other nation; except possibly one; in that it does not begin with a man nor a company of men. It begins, properly speaking, with a principle. It was born of the deathless passion which burned in the hearts of our Puritan Fathers. We shall never know the true history of this country until we read deep enough to find this heart passion. They were not in search of gold; they were seeking God, and a place where God could be worshipped as Creator, ruler, and Savior of all. Dominated by this master passion they hewed their way into a trackless forest, endured heartbreaking hardships, and finally succeeded in laying the foundation for our institutions broad and deep in high devotion to God, loyalty to great ideals, and the finest type of devotion to Jesus Christ as the Savior of the world. And let us never forget that the thing that transformed this nation from a vast howling wilderness into a great world power was the heroism of these men and women of prayer and iron.

The decision recently handed down by the Supreme Court that this is a Christian Nation is evidently well founded in our history. That the men who wrote the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution understood it to be a Christian Nation is proven by the language used in both documents. The Declaration of Independence is a solemn covenant between Almighty God and the American Nation. The language of both it and the Constitution is calculated to show that religion, education, and morality are essential to good government. "Let us with caution," said George Washington in his farewell address, "indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion. Whatever may be conceded to be the influence of refined education on the minds of peculiar structure, reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principles." And here is our cue. If this is a Christian nation—as our history, the decision of the Supreme Court, the Declaration of Independence, the whole tone of the Constitution, and the words of Washington go to show—by what right or authority does any person in the classrooms, or on the campus of our tax-supported institutions, or anywhere else for that matter, preach or teach any doctrine which will directly or indirectly tend to undermine faith in the great fundamental principles of the Christian Religion which are the foundation of our government and of our educational system? If our whole superstructure is erected on this foundation how can we hope to preserve our building if the foundations are destroyed? This is exactly what the materialistic philosophy with which we have been dealing tends to do.

I am frequently asked, "Why do you not preach the gospel, and trust the Holy Spirit to do his work in the hearts of men?" "Why spend so much time with evolution and the materialistic philosophies of the day?" My answer is, "If the foundations are destroyed what can the righteous do?" I am not afraid that these scientists (?) and pseudo-philosophers will destroy the Bible, but I am sure that they have already destroyed the confidence of thousands in the Bible as the inspired, and authoritative word of God, and by so doing have made it impossible to reach them with the word of God. The Word is said to be the "sword of the Spirit." When we no longer think of it as the inspired Word of God how will the Holy Spirit wield it effectively upon the conscience? He cannot. He is robbed of his weapon. The Bible will mean no more to us than any other book, and therefore will not speak with authority. Without a word of authority it is impossible to involve the conscience, and if we cannot involve the conscience it is impossible to enforce any law. This "evolution business" is infinitely more far-reaching than some have supposed. It finally involves the stability of government itself. Many of our best thinkers in both church and state believe our institutions to be thus threatened at this moment. That their fears are well founded can be shown, I think, by a study of our crime, and general moral conditions. The following figures will furnish food for thought:

Shortly after the war the government put out a statistical report of "Defects Found Among Drafted Men" which gives the following facts:

About 5,000,000 men were drafted between the ages of 18 and 30. These men came from all walks in life, and they represent the best period of manhood, or at least ought to. The figures given are as follows: Mental and nervous defects—1,450,000; Venereal diseases—1,250,000; Tuberculars—1,325,000; Blindness in one or both eyes—175,000; Alcoholics and drug addicts—175,000; Inheritable diseases—348,000. In other words, out of 5,000,000 drafted men between the ages of 18 and 30 from all walks of life, less than one million were physically fit for either war or marriage!

Our crime cost the government nearly ten billion dollars for the year of 1925. This is two and one half times as much as the entire government budget for the same year. How long will any nation endure which spends two and a half times as much to punish and care for its crime as it spends to run the government? The figures show that nearly 90% of this crime was committed by juveniles. Four to six years ago the average age of criminals in the United States was about thirty. The average age is now under twenty. Juvenile delinquency has increased nearly 300% in less than five years. The homicide rate is increasing 100%. In proportion to our population we have twice as many murders as Italy, four times as many as Australia and South Africa, eight times as many as New Zealand, Ireland, Spain, Norway, England, and Wales, eighteen times as many as Scotland, twenty-four times as many as Holland, thirty-six times as many as Switzerland.

These are staggering figures. In themselves they represent a condition in society indicative of complete collapse unless we can find the cause and remove it before the gangrene of lawlessness, lewdness, and crime reaches the heart of the nation.

I do not undertake to prove that all of this is the direct result of materialistic teaching, but I do insist that directly and indirectly our Paganistic attitude must be charged with responsibility for most of it! Let him who is inclined to doubt this review the history of past civilization—and I trust as we do so that it shall not be said of us as was said by

Spencer of the people of his day, namely: "the only thing we learn from history is that we do not learn anything from history."

Every great aggressive Civilization of the past has perished. There are only two exceptions, India and China, but neither of these has ever been an aggressive civilization. Why did these great civilizations perish? History will give many reasons, but history rarely ever goes to the heart of the matter when dealing with nations and crises. History will say that the shooting of an almost unknown man was the cause of the Great War; but the deeper thinker will locate the cause in the accursed materialistic philosophy which possessed the mind of Germany whose slogan was "Might is right"! "The Superman is above law, and morality is weakness."

History says Rome perished because there was no middle class, but that says nothing. It merely calls attention to an effect. It does not locate the cause. Why was there no middle class? Because Rome had enriched herself by conquest to the point where nearly all were made rich by its plunder. Captives were made slaves to do the work while the materialistic, fat, lazy, luxurious Romans rotted the heart out of their civilization by their excessive lusts and sins! Too much wealth and nothing to do.

Every great aggressive civilization has thus perished. They found no technique by which to take the peril out of their power, and the peril of power is materialism.

Our present crisis studied from this standpoint becomes alarming in the extreme. How can we hope to set in motion such causes as destroyed other civilizations without experiencing the effect? Our educational system, as well as much of our religious program, is literally cursed by the very philosophy which kindled the hell fire of the last war in the heart of Germany. Our juveniles are losing God in high school, college and church if they go to church at all; and figures show that fifty percent of them do not.

The Leopold-Loeb trial is an example in point. Mr. Darrow in making his plea before the jury in defense of these boys said that they were the victims of the philosophy which they had been studying. He argued, and logically, that the professors under whom they had studied were more responsible than they were. And we might add, back of the professors are the school boards employing them, and back of them the criminal negligence of tax-payers who give less attention to such matters than the average old cow gives to her calf!

And this whole question finally reverts back to tax-payers—whose property the public school system of America is—who allow professors in the name of "academic freedom" to put these God-dishonoring textbooks into the hands of adolescents who are not mature enough in either mind or judgment or experience to choose for themselves, say nothing of allowing walled-in Catholic institutions to exist which refuse to fly our flag and teach behind closed doors God knows what!

How many fathers and mothers who read these lines have ever been interested enough to read a single textbook now in the hands of their sons and daughters? How many of them know that the average textbook in sociology is nothing more or less, in the final analysis, than a textbook in free love, and that probably ninety-five percent of the textbooks in the scientific departments of our various colleges and universities are built and bottomed in the evolution theory which knows no God other than natural law? I guarantee that not more than two percent have gone to the trouble to thus investigate. This is criminal negligence for which God

APPLES OF SODOM.

DR. L. R. AKERS, President Asbury College.

LORD Byron, Moore and others have referred in their writing to "the fruits of Sodom that tempt the eyes but turn to ashes upon the lips." Writers before them have averred that in the valley of Sodom strange fruits are found, some appearing like clusters of beautiful yellow apples which, when plucked, explode, leaving only a bit of bitter rind or ash-like interior. Hence, "apples of Sodom" has come to symbolize that which may appear to be desirable but in reality is only a miserable nothingness. Let us here find a spiritual application for present day conditions.

During the past three months more than two score American college and high school students have committed suicide. Psychopathic experts affirm that "a suicide wave is sweeping over our nation" and that the conditions revealed by the suicides are duplicated in almost every college and university in America.

In a recent popular magazine, an article entitled, "Why Students Commit Suicide," attempts to deal with this situation and has sought, by interviews with college presidents and professors, police officials, psychologists and psychoanalysts, to ascertain the why of this wave of death. The answers to this question make an interesting study and run the gamut of every phase of life in modern society.

Looming largely as the basic cause of this "rendezvous with death" are: (1) loss of faith in religion; (2) the destruction of ideals formerly adhered to; (3) the loss of normal home life; (4) lax discipline; (5) jazz; (6) disappointment in love; (7) "the Russian influence" and the destructive philosophies of Nietzsche, Marks and Freud.

It would seem that fully as many, if not more, of these self-destroyers are from the homes of affluence and of culture than from the environment of the poor.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that the deplorable conditions of present day life among our youth are largely due to Hedonism and Atheism, the first teaching that the only thing in life worth while is pleasure and that all moral duty is fulfilled when the desire for pleasure is gratified. This recrudescence of heathendom means that the youth is encouraged to follow his animal impulses rather than to be governed by reason and moral restraint. As a result, his senses are overworked and jaded while his emotions are starved. One has affirmed that "we are breeding a crop of neurotics with a warped and narrow viewpoint, a distorted sense of the true values of life, a doubtful set of morals, and an outfit of nerves and complexes that keep him miserable." The modern college youth has not the habit of reflection. He is after adventure and has not sufficient ballast to keep an even keel.

The second cause, which is even more basic, is Atheism. With modern universities teaching a college youth that he is only an animal he soon begins to act like one, and since he is human with a soul sooner or later he comes to grief. If he hasn't the spiritual strength to fight his way through to the right path he commits suicide.

The greatest thing in the universe is God. "In the beginning God"—yes, he is the beginning of everything worth while in life, and when from our classrooms there comes a disbelief in God then immediately there is a disbelief in man and in his divine mission, which results in an immediately descent to animalism. The seed corn of skepticism and Atheism has been sown for years and now we are reaping the dread harvest in a nationwide apostasy and a terrific sag in our moral life, in a hopelessness and despair of mind and heart which is truly appalling.

As we journey throughout this nation, we are impressed with the wholesale and universal lapse of morals and ideals. During the War we ascended to heights of noble idealism and sacrifice. Since the War we have trekked down into the miasmatic swamps of calloused greed and base materialism which is always followed by debased morals.

Only a few months ago a group of prominent educators met in an eastern city and after hours of discussion and wrestling with this problem of America's departure from her former sturdy ideals, solemnly laid at the door of a false educational system the present day looseness in thought and conduct which is felt and deplored by every God-fearing citizen of our nation. As an example of this we need only to refer to the two highly trained college men, Loeb and Leopold, whose fiendish and unnatural acts were boldly charged by them to the educational program of the university which they attended, stating the philosophy which they had been taught had not only resulted in this awful murder, but in the betrayal of the virtue of numerous young women as well as to indescribable forms of degeneracy. Having been educated to believe that they were but improved beasts, they responded by forgetting their improvement and relapsing to bestiality.

We are appalled by the juvenile crime and delinquency of today, yet there is no need of surprise. We have forbidden in our schools the teaching of the principles laid down in the Bible for humanity's salvation and conservation. While pagan nations have been studying the Bible with interest we have been studying their philosophies and classics, barring the one Book that has made America pre-eminently great. As a result we have become moral bankrupts. Fifty million American youths never darken the doors of a church or Sunday school. The name of Christ is an unknown name except as it is coupled with foul oaths and blasphemous epithets. Well might a host of modern preachers and teachers tour our nation making the burden of their message, "The Unknown Christ."

The supreme tragedy of this age is that there is not a Christian nation on our planet. While Christian men and women have been blazing torchbearers to break the darkness and gloom of sinful society no nation has yet had sufficient faith to try out in its course of procedure the life-giving and sustaining principles of him who alone was "Master of the Art of Right Living."

This indeed is a dark picture, but its shadows have not been over-exaggerated. We have but to look about us and find tens of thousands of our high school girls smoking cigarettes, shamelessly "petting," crowding the dance halls in sensual and voluptuous syncretisms, while the old-fashioned and sturdy ideals of our forefathers are laughed out of court as obsolete.

The writer of these words, in an address before the State Association of Colleges, was assailed by a modernistic university professor as being narrow and out of sympathy with the new age. "Why inveigh against youth and their pleasures?" said he. "We had our fling when we were young. Why not let them sow their wild oats? They will sober down in due time." This indeed seems to be the type of philosophy that pervades innumerable classrooms in our nation. It is a common assumption of superiority to the formerly accepted verities of Jehovah, who in the Old Testament declared, "Be sure your sin will find you out," and in the New that, "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap,"—that if he sows to the wind he will reap the whirlwind. Regardless of the fact of whether men like these laws or not, their working in the moral realm is as fixed and inevitable as the law of gravitation in the physical realm. Instead of encouraging our youth to play with that which is more dangerous than a devastating fire, we should faithfully and earnestly call to their attention that the commandments of God and his moral laws cannot be abrogated by any edict of society or popular whim of the multitude, and that he who ignores or breaks these unchanging flats of Jehovah without exception will pay the fearful consequences.

Terrible as existing conditions are, yet this is no hour for paralyzing pessimism. This is no time for a muffled Gospel. The greatness of the peril should but increase the challenge to our endeavor.

"To serve the present age,
My calling to fulfill.

O may it all my powers engage
To do my Master's will!"

To meet these conditions, there must be a fearless and continuous crusade of Spirit-filled men who will proclaim, in no uncertain tones, the Gospel of Full Salvation. Never were institutions of the type of Asbury College, which stands unflinchingly for Scriptural Holiness and human emancipation from the power and guilt of sin, more needed than at this present moment. This materialistic age cannot be successfully met with anything else than the preaching of a full and complete redemption. The trumpet must clearly sound that "where sin doth abound grace doth much more abound," that though men be bound by the shackles of sin and blighted by its foul curse, yet the blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, can cleanse from every stain.

Our hearts go out in gratitude to God for the mighty outpouring of his Holy Spirit upon Asbury College, bringing its student body of 800 almost unanimously to a consciousness of his saving and sanctifying power. With the largest Senior Class in its history, numbering 104, only three at present writing remain unsundered to him who is King of kings and Lord of lords. Little wonder that from almost every state young men and women are flocking to this institution which not only provides a high grade intellectual equipment, but which presses as the thing of paramount importance the claims of Jesus Christ upon every boy and girl. Of the 800 students recorded above, practically one-half are preparing for some phase of Christian service. From these college halls will go a stream of pure, consecrated young life to touch the far corners of the earth. Korea, India, Japan, South America, Africa, and the far islands of the sea will all feel the vitalizing touch of this tide of sanctified youth poured out in sacrificial service.

No "apples of Sodom" are found here with their deceptive coloring and bitter taste, but in classroom and in life, in faculty and in student personnel alike, the fruits of the Spirit are emphasized and are continually seen in process of development. There are no "ifs" about Asbury College's stand for a full and complete Gospel. She was raised up for this single purpose and to this ideal she will remain true. No taint of modernism will be countenanced in any classroom. No hint of destructive criticism will be permitted utterance, but true to the high calling in Jesus Christ this institution will press forward to give to the utmost of its ability, a corps of militant Christian soldiers who will fight even unto death against the evil principles that threaten to destroy our nation and send it hurtling down the dark pathway of oblivion.

We believe this present year marks the spiritual high tide in the life of this institution and that it is standing at the threshold of its largest and brightest era. May God set his seal upon the work done in his name and for his glory, and may the prayers of the Christian hosts throughout the world ascend that his will may be done, and to the end that Christ may be crowned Lord of all.

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

SOME SYCHAR SENTENCE SERMONS.

William R. Chase.

All holiness camps are rich in pungent, short, telling sentence sermons. No other where do you hear them as you do at holiness meetings. The following are a few culled out at random from some Sychar sermons delivered at this old camp. Among all that I heard that struck me most forcibly was what Bro. Wimberly said on the last day of the camp before giving his sermon. "It is not," said he, "of so much consequence to you what I shall have to say today, whatever it may be, as what you are going to do about all the messages you have heard here the last ten days." Sure enough. Five messages each day and every one of us responsible for how we had heard them. It is no small matter to sit under such sermons as heard here. Every one of them threw light across our pathway.

Here are a few more of Bro. Wimberly's sayings: "What is needed by this generation is a preaching of the awfulness of hell."

"There is a hell because God says so. That is the end of it. What God says is true."

"The most terrible word in this world is that word 'lost!'"

"To sink into hell will be to be everlastingly held in contempt by devils."

"Some say all children are born pure as angels. None such were born in my family. But all were born as it were in Jerusalem, a place of safety, which is the meaning of the word Jerusalem."

"Jerusalem is a place of bread, of protection, that is the meaning of the word. Jericho means destruction, doom. It is down hill from Jerusalem to Jericho. You go down four thousand feet in the fourteen miles. There is something in every one of us that starts us down hill; something that was born in us which has a tremendous pull, pull down hill, towards Jericho."

"There is not anything the carnal nature will not do. If you do not destroy it, it will destroy you; it will land you at the bottom of the hill."

"No matter of what culture, of what education one may be with the carnal nature in the breast there is a murderer in that breast. That soul is on the Jericho road, in danger, no matter how loving, beautiful, highly educated, cultured, and will land at the bottom if not rescued. The carnal mind is enmity against God, is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be."

"A little girl can get as much for making a picture as all our governors put together. That is how the world takes care of its folks. Jesus Christ offers us nothing now, but by and by he will give us a place in his palace."

"You need not expect an easy time here if you get the blessing. This world is not a friend to grace."

"The world will no more want you than you want it. It will not have you. When you were converted the world became dead to you. In sanctification you become dead to the world. It will cast you out."

Brother Babcock.

"It's a dangerous day when we think that anything is all right, just so we are sincere in it. We can be sincerely deceived, and sincerely lost."

"Some complain of having no joy in their Christian lives. Get rid of the 'old man' and you will have joy. When you get the 'old man' out and all his baggage there will be joy."

"Said Dr. Tindley, of Philadelphia, 'I had some special pieces of baggage that I wanted to take with me on board the boat of salvation, but the captain wouldn't let me put them on. He threw all my baggage overboard, fumigated me, and then he let me get aboard.'"

"The word redemption is no afterthought of God; it is his forethought."

"When you strike an old-fashioned geyser, brother, it will blow your rigging over the tree tops, and you will have something worth shouting over."

"A man with God enthroned in his life can whip a whole acre of skinny-winged devils. I tell you right now I'm a sworn enemy of the devil. Nor has he one bit of sympathy with me."

"The way to beat the devil today is not by a post-graduate course at Harvard, but by a post-graduate course in holiness."

"Get second blessing holiness and they can put you among higher critics, tongue people, or anywhere they may and you will still have the blessing, will still ring true."

"I am talking to some this morning who have grieved the Holy Spirit. There is a vacancy, a lack, a longing in your soul. You have failed in your testimony in the home church. If you have grieved the Spirit in this and the seal been broken, let's get back to God and have the Spirit renew the seal."

Brother Post.

"You ought to be sanctified wholly. We cannot dodge the issue. If you have been converted God has led you up to it."

"To meet Jesus in triumph when he comes we must have the carnal mind crucified. We must have been genuinely converted and clearly sanctified."

"Every error makes a distinction between the baptism of the Holy Ghost and sanctification. They are one and the same thing. To be baptized for some work is a temporary thing. The baptism is not temporary, but he comes to abide."

"Some folks are like a balloon fish; just scratch them and they begin to puff out and become like a balloon. There are so many of us that give us a little praise and up we go."

"Dynamite goes down and through whatever resists it. That is what the power of the Holy Ghost does for us, the dynamite of God, it goes down and against the carnal nature which resists him, and his power goes down through it."

"It is a bad omen when we get to struggling and struggling and pleading with God as if God was a hard one to deal with, that he did not want to help us."

"A soul seeking God will as surely meet him as two engines on the same track going towards each other will meet."

"Get a picture of God, as one who has a desire to save anybody. He is kind, loving, compassionate. Get a picture of him as Jesus gave it in the parable of the Prodigal. God our Father is the main character in that parable, and not the prodigal son. I care not how far down one has fallen that one will find God if they seek him."

"It is not the act that makes you a backslider. You are that before you commit the act. Jesus said that to look upon a woman to lust after her you already are guilty of adultery."

"You cannot be a sinner and a Christian at the same time."

"There is nothing that can stop a whole-hearted seeker from finding God."

"You cannot come up to the light of entire sanctification and turn from it and retain your justification any more than can a sinner."

"St. Augustine said they brought me the sun and moon and stars when I needed them. Many preachers are in these days open to the same criticism; they bring us material things when we need spiritual."

"If you have no hunger for sanctification you are wrong and out of order. It is a perfectly normal craving, the normal cry of a normal soul."

"That prayer, 'If there is anything more for me I want it' will never get you anywhere."

"Sanctification will guarantee you success, a happy mind, the approbation of God, and to live at ease with your own conscience, and a glorious entrance into glory."

"The man who cannot stand the test and stand true is not fit to preach the gospel. He should go to selling books. Moral cowards should hand in their parchments."

RIISING SUN, INDIANA.

We have just closed a revival in the Pilgrim Holiness Church at Rising Sun, Ind. Ural T. Hollenback, of Frankfort, Ind., was the evangelist. Bro. Hollenback was not a stranger to us though it had been some time since we had heard him preach. In a meeting which he held in a little Indiana town eleven years ago the writer was saved. Serving now as pastor of a church, we were glad to have him come for a revival. We consider him one of the finest preachers on the subject of Entire Sanctification that we have ever heard. The revival was excellent as to attendance and interest. About twenty sought the Lord for pardon or purity. We received nine new members into the church. This church has been organized only two years and has been a small church. We are praising the Lord for the people who were saved and sanctified, also for the increase in membership of the church.

Mary Friend Bolton, Pastor.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLORADO.

We have just closed one of the most wonderful meetings in St. Paul's M. E. Church in Colorado Springs, that we have had the privilege of being in for some time. God certainly did wonders in that place in convicting and saving sinners, reclaiming backsliders, the sanctification of believers, and the healing of the sick. About 150 knelt at the altar for reclamation, conversion or sanctification.

Rev. Alexander Bryans, the godly pastor of this church, had a daughter that had been given up to die with tuberculosis of both lungs and has spent the last five years in the hospital, and the last two and one-half years unable to walk. During the meeting God laid it on him and his good wife's heart to pray for her healing and to have a few of us that knew of the power of God to heal the body, go with them to Bethel Hospital to pray for her healing. God paved the way for the healing of the body by having the soul prepared, and when we prayed and the writer had anointed her with oil in the name of the Lord Jesus, the work was done. She remained in the hospital one day to go from room to room and tell the sick of the power of God to heal the body. She came out to the revival the next night with one of the greatest testimonies we have ever heard. Praise his name forever! Another woman who was bedfast, having undergone five operations, was instantly healed and came to the church and gave her testimony. We are glad to serve a God who is able to save a sinner, sanctify a believer and heal the body. To him give all the praise and glory.

In His service,

EVANGELIZING IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS.

In the providence of God, we were privileged to labor with Rev. O. Rogers, pastor of the Southern Methodist Church, Gorham, Ill., in a revival campaign. Bro. Rogers is one of the old war horses of Methodism. He has a noble band of consecrated members that love God and holiness.

The footprints of Rev. Sweeney, former pastor, were plainly visible. Forty were converted and twenty-four sanctified. God's blessing rest richly on pastor and wife and all the good people in Gorham, is our prayer.

From Gorham we went to Herrin, Ill., (noted for war and bloodshed). Here we found Rev. Dulaney pastor of the Free Methodist Church full of faith and courage. This church is composed of some of the salt of the earth. The battle was hard, but God came in power and while many of the seekers failed to pay the price, yet some thirty-four were saved or sanctified. The attendance in both meetings was excellent and at times seating room was at a premium.

For all that has been accomplished we give God the glory and press the battle on.

We opened our meeting at Fordham, S. D., Feb. 14, 1927, with Rev. H. Luther Williams, of Mitchell, S. D., as evangelist in charge, and were in progress three weeks.

We have many things for which to thank the Lord, during this revival. First, it was a real campaign for souls. We believed God was leading us into this revival; and Bro. Williams preached the eternal truths in such a way that sinners were made to see and feel their need of God. Some souls sought and found either pardon or purity. Besides these visible results, there were others which only eternity can tell. Beside being a splendid exponent of the truth Bro. Williams is a good teacher of the Word, and led us in the afternoon prayer meetings, up into the mount of God where the atmosphere became such that we could easily see Jesus, and where the Christians were greatly blessed and encouraged. These were indeed priceless moments and triumphant hours with the Lord.

Bro. Williams is a sweet-spirited example of the Christ life, and a splendid brother to work with in the vineyard of our Lord. We can gladly recommend him to anyone needing evangelistic help, as a safe, yet fearless preacher of the gospel.

REPORT OF SINTON MEETING.

It was my happy pleasure and delightful privilege to assist the Rev. J. Leonard Rae, pastor of the Sinton Methodist Church, South, Sinton, Tex., in a most gratifying revival. There were over forty who sought pardon and a goodly number seeking purity; over thirty-five were received into the church. Rev. Rae is a fearless pastor, fine preacher, and an energetic worker.

The Children and Young People's services were delightful. Every denomination was represented in our children's services; the finest group that I have ever met with. The young people responded well and a fine League was the physical results of their co-operation. A fine church, splendid people, wonderful young people and children, with the revival fires burning makes this a beautiful situation. May the richest blessings of God rest upon these people is my sincere prayer. In the meantime I am working at Lampasas in a meeting.

COFFEE, ILLINOIS.

The truth of these two scriptures: "My word shall not return unto me void," and, "For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword," has been demonstrated in a revival meeting held here recently, by Evangelist W. E. Lamp and wife, of Wilmore, Ky. Bro. Lamp preached the word in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. Sister Lamp sang the story of Jesus and his love, in such a way that all were drawn closer to him. Bro. and Sister Lamp are both great personal workers.

During their labors here, 58 souls found the Lord precious, either in pardon or purity. Those desiring the help of an evangelist will do well to engage the services of Bro. Lamp. It was through the efforts of our pastor, Rev. Hagler, that their services were secured. Rev. Hagler assisted them during week ends, being away in school the remainder of the time.

never excited or bitter against the men engaged in the fight. He was calm in the courage with which faith and love inspired him. He was an optimist of the highest sort. His courtesy, the soundness of his argument, his eloquent plea for suffering women and children, and his generous attitude toward those against whom he fought so valiantly won the respect and admiration of those who most bitterly opposed the great principles for which he contended. One of the beautiful wreaths of flowers sent to his grave came from an ex-barkeeper whom he had helped to put out of business.

Mr. Bain was a Methodist from early life, and was devoted to his church. For many years, he was a member of Hill Street M. E. Church, South, Lexington, Ky. He was one of the most liberal and substantial members of that congregation, always greatly beloved by his pastor. He frequently attended annual conference, was in close touch with the bishop presiding, and had their highest respect and regards. He was once elected to a General Conference but found it impossible to go so was represented by a substitute in that body.

No husband and father was ever more deeply concerned for the comfort of wife, children and grandchildren than was Mr. Bain. He was so pure in his life, so generous in his provision, so cheerful and winsome in his home, that he was enshrined in the tenderest love of those who were nearest to him in all the family relationships.

We have never known a man with more sunshine and happiness, good will, and broad altruistic spirit than that possessed by Mr. Bain, and was always in a good humor. He was one of the greatest orators on the continent. His great speeches flashed with wit, were spiced with humor, and full of convincing facts and were delivered with such charming grace that he always captured the multitudes and carried them with him from his first sentence to his final peroration. He had a poetic soul and would often break forth in charming flights of beautiful poetry. He was a brilliant writer and often contributed splendid articles to the press and also has given a magnificent volume of his greatest lectures to the people in book form.

No man was more universally loved than Mr. Bain. People of all sections of the country, all churches, all political parties, and in all stations in life recognized in him a great, unselfish, loving soul, living and laboring for the good of humanity. He was a lover of his Bible; the latter years of his life after quitting the lecture platform, he would read many chapters a day; wrote me not long before his last illness that he had read his Bible through within a few months past and was starting to read its sacred pages and beautiful truths again.

Having married Mr. Bain's elder daughter nearly forty years ago, it was my privilege to live in close touch with him and have ample opportunity to see and know him to best advantage. Joseph Cook, the great Boston Lecturer, once spoke of that peculiar glow and illumination which come into the faces of good men whose entire being is filled with love and compassion toward their fellows and their Christ. He called this glow

"the solar light." Mr. Bain carried the solar light in his face for many years.

I was asked to speak a few words at his funeral, and I could but repeat the words of John Wesley at the funeral services of John Fletcher: "I have never seen his like before: I never expect to see his like again." I have known no man who seemed to have so few faults and had mingled and beautifully blended in his character so many charming virtues as were possessed by Col. George W. Bain.

His funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Combs to a vast audience of loving friends and admirers. Business was suspended in the beautiful city of Lexington where all the people loved and revered him, for the short time during his funeral services. I have never seen such a mountain of flowers on any grave, to which a long procession followed, and from which the multitude turned with profound reverence, a deep sorrow which had in it a gracious comfort and a high resolve to strive for the better and higher things of life. His memory will be treasured by untold thousands; the seed which he sowed will continue to grow and bring forth a harvest of blessing to humanity. We commit him to the Christ in whom he trusted and wait to join him in the resurrection.

Notice!

We regret to learn that Brother W. B. Yates, for many years a famous singer in the holiness work, is still quite ill at his home in Marion, Ky. Brother Yates has had to cancel his engagements for many months. He improves, but slowly. Let our HERALD people pray that the Lord may bless him soul and body and bring him back into his service of song, blessed and freshly equipped for his great work. His address is Marion, Ky., and he doubtless would appreciate a word from some of his many friends.

Asbury College Holiness Convention and Commencement.

I find I made a mistake in a former notice of the Holiness Convention of Asbury College. I said it would open the evening of the 25th, but it will open the evening of the 26th, Thursday. We have Dr. Wimberly and Raymond Browning, two of our very best men, engaged for these services. Be in prayer for the meetings. We will give free entertainment to our visitors, but they must not come to the College before the morning of May 26, as we shall not be prepared to take care of them before that date. Sometimes parents come and bring a family of children. We regret to say that it is inconvenient to take care of children during Commencement week. We beg our friends to notify Mr. C. A. Lovejoy, Wilmore, Ky., ten days before the 26th, so we may be able to make arrangements for their entertainment.

Faithfully,

H. C. MORRISON.

A Chapter from My Autobiography

CHAPTER XX.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

AT the close of the school year at Vanderbilt I went at once to Stanford, Ky., where I served as pastor the year before, to assist my good friend, Rev. F. S. Pollitt, who had succeeded me as pastor of the Methodist Church at that place. The people received me very kindly and we had a gracious revival.

I preached with various brethren until the meeting of the annual conference in September, where I was again received into the traveling connection, and stationed at Eleventh Street Church, Covington, Ky. During the summer, between the close of school and conference, I held my first meeting at Wilmore, Ky. The Methodists of that community built a church and called Dr. Rivers from Louisville to preach the dedicatory sermon. On the day of dedication, twenty-five people professed faith in Christ and united with the church. Dr. Rivers protracted the meeting and sent for me to hasten to Wilmore, as he was compelled to return to Louisville.

When I got off the train at Wilmore, the depot, the new Methodist Church and three residences constituted the buildings of the village. I went up to the home of Mr. Scott, whose house stood in a large grove of trees, which is now the campus of Asbury College. When I arrived at the house I found a man in his seventies, alone. He said, "Are you the preacher who has come to help in the meeting?" "Yes, sir," was my reply. "Well, they are having a great revival of religion here. The preachers and my people have all gone to Lowrey's for dinner and I will get the buggy and take you up there." He got a horse and buggy and drove with me up the half mile to one of the most hospitable homes in old Kentucky. If a man had all the chickens, turkeys, old hams, and saddles of lambs that have been served to Methodist preachers in that home and carried to basket dinners, and camp meetings, and could sell them at the present market price, I have no doubt the proceeds would build a comfortable cottage.

As we drove up the road Mr. Scott said, "I don't belong to these people. I am not a Christian man." "I know you are not," replied I. "How do you know it?" he remarked. "Because," said I, "you said 'they are having a great meeting here.' If you had been a Christian man you would have said, 'We are having a great meeting here.' " "Well, I declare," he said with surprise, "You found me out before you had been with me ten minutes." The incident impressed him profoundly, led to an awakening and a few days later he sought the Lord, professed saving faith in Christ and united with the church. Not long afterward he died.

When we arrived at Mr. Lowrey's I alighted from the buggy at the gate and walking up through the yard, I saw Dr. Rivers sitting on the front porch. He received me most cordially. One of the books in my course of study is written by him. I had heard much of him and had come to regard him as one of our greatest and best of men. There he was before me. He was a man of large frame, massive head, and one of the most handsome, pure, and kindly faces I ever looked into. He was easily the grand old man of Southern Methodism. He was a steadfast believer in the Bible, a devoted worshipper of the Lord Jesus, an eloquent, powerful, and persuasive preacher. His sermons were full of gospel truth and warm with fervent unction. During his last days he was a great sufferer but a patient and happy saint, a blessing to those who visited him in his sick room where, all prepared, he waited in peace the summons to appear in the presence of his Savior and King.

The revival was on in full swing in Wilmore. I remained and preached twice a day for a number of days; many professed salvation at the altar and a large number united with the church, among them, our beloved Brother Askins, father of a large family, a well-to-do farmer and noted architect. He has been steadfast through the years, has been for at least twenty years, a member of the Board of Trustees of Asbury College, and superintended the erection of several of our best buildings.

This revival, with its new church, attracted great attention to Wilmore, and when Brother Hughes was seeking a place for the erection of a holiness school, he was invited to come to Wilmore by Brother Grinstead, then pastor of that church. The people received Brother Hughes very kindly. He purchased a small tract of land of some twelve or fourteen acres, and opened up the school in a little four-room building.

How often I have wished that we had called together fifty of the devout, intelligent, well-to-do laymen who had been sanctified in the beginnings of the breaking out of the holiness revival in the Southern Methodist Church, and that Brother Hughes could have laid before them plans, imparted to them something of his faith and enthusiasm. If this could have been done we could easily have purchased two or three hundred acres of land, then very cheap, cut out a campus of fifty acres, laid off the rest in streets and lots, sold it to advantage, raised a large sum of money, and opened up the school perhaps a year later, in a large, handsome building with a hundred students. Had this been done in the beginning of this great enterprise by this time Asbury College would no doubt have twice the buildings it has, and twice the number of students.

Those were days of great enthusiasm and zeal for the cause, and men were more ready to give than at any time since; but they hesitated to give to a school with such small beginnings where the property belonged entirely to one man. If we had had larger beginnings, and the school had been held in trust by a Board of Trustees for the holiness people, money would have rolled in by tens and hundreds of thousands. But it was difficult for any one at that time to realize the great need of such an institution and what the future held for us in the conflict which followed.

This is certainly not written as a criticism of the faith, the zeal, and holy enthusiasm with which Brother Hughes undertook and carried forward the work in the founding of Asbury College. Could the school, however, have had its beginnings on the larger plans suggested above, the results would have been much larger, more far-reaching and blessed.

Our Foreign Students.

Many of our readers are doubtless wondering if we still have foreign students in Asbury College. To such we wish to say that we have some as fine young men as one can find anywhere, and there are none more worthy than they. We are graduating and sending back to their native lands young men who are proving powers for good among their own people. I am writing the many friends of our foreign students who have so gladly helped in their education to say to them, if they have any of the Lord's tithe this is a most needy place to put it, and at the same time bear a harvest of fruit in the salvation of souls. These young men are far from home, coming to us believing the children of the Lord would see them through, and we must not disappoint them. I wish many who read these words would speedily send me an offering for their expenses, that they may soon be on their way to preach the good tidings of salvation to their neglected people. If you prefer, you may send it to me and I will see that it is immediately applied to their credit. And as you give, remember you are doing it "unto one of the least of these, my brethren."

A PEOPLE WITHOUT A PAST.

ning. Those were the things which as nations they most largely emphasized. Another has said "For our American liberty we owe much to the ideas of Greece, and the legalities of Rome, but more to the moralities of Judea." The contribution of the Hebrew nation to the world's civilization was not commercial nor primarily intellectual but religious. That is the most priceless contribution civilization has received. In that alone does the permanent wealth of any nation consist. We are told now that the material wealth of our own nation is near five hundred billions of dollars. But if we have more gold than grace we are poor indeed. The abiding wealth of a nation does not consist merely in its commerce nor the wealth of a life in the abundance of things possessed. The South Sea Islands abound in natural fruitage. People live there without much toil and in comparative ease, but these islands have produced no great poets or prophets or preachers or martyrs. Scotland is poor. Hers is a land of lakes and hills, thin soil and meager yield. Still her poets have sung, her prophets have foretold, her preachers have proclaimed, her saints have lived and died in such loyalty that there is scarcely another land in all the world where there is such a perfume of devotion.

This is one of the most difficult ideals we could undertake to support. Most people judge usefulness and ability by financial returns. Not many people knowingly and deliberately turn away from the offer of gold. I met a hero in South Dakota some years ago. He had been a practicing physician. The last year he practiced medicine his income was five thousand dollars. He left the practice of medicine to become a preacher of the Gospel and received for his first year's labors an income of less than one thousand dollars. Does it pay?

Nobody knows the names of any of the fox hunting, wine drinking, ease loving clergy of the 18th century in England, but the name of John Wesley is a household word in the Christian world. The common people cannot speak the names of the captains of industry in London thirty or forty years back but thousands of earth's poor in all lands where the Gospel is preached speak the names of General and Catherine Booth with gratitude. In a little while the Rockefellers and the Carnegies and even the Fords will be treated as mere business figures. But thousands will rise up to bless real saints wherever they have lived and labored. The world is slow, discouragingly slow, but it finally places the right value on men and things.

It is in this field the people of God are to enrich the world. They touch the things of earth only to make them useful. Their cry is for holiness. Their pursuit is holiness. Their greatest possession is holiness. Not business astuteness but saintliness is the greatest recommendation of the church. Not political theory nor social program is the greatest offer the church can make to a needy world but witness of the Savior who is able to save unto the uttermost all who come unto God by him.

They who had no past are to become a people for God's possession. That is the literal of the words translated in this passage, "a peculiar people." They who boast no prophet's visit are to have God with them. They who have been given no divine missions are to preach the Gospel to all peoples and in all lands. Their spiritual Zion becomes beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth. As we walk about her we may "tell the powers thereof, mark well her bulwarks, consider her palaces and tell to the generations following that God is our God forever and ever. He will be our guide even unto death." Wherever the people of God dwell and wherever they serve "the wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them and the desert shall blossom as the rose." They shall become the temples of God. He will live in them and move in them. How great the enrichment of grace! How marvelous the purposes of God!

3. We tarry for a moment to notice the result of this marvelous revelation of God to underserving men. Let us read it: "That ye should show forth the praise of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvelous light." It was he who found us when we had no past. It was he who redeemed us when no other help was nigh. It was he who showed mercy. It was he who gave heritage to those who were without inheritance. It was he who made us an elect race, a kingdom of priests, a holy nation, a possessed people. We have come out of poverty into his riches, out of our hopelessness into an eternal expectancy, out of our sin into his likeness, away from tatters and rags to shoes prepared for the feet, royal robes and signet rings. We lift our hymns of praise. We offer our petitions of gratitude. We join with the blood-washed of the ages in redemption's song and stand in perpetual wonder at the "grace of our Lord Jesus Christ who, though he was rich, yet for our sakes became poor that we through his poverty might be rich."

IS EVOLUTION AN ESTABLISHED

will call us into account in the day of judgment, and for which many of our children will curse us world without end!

But are our children losing God in college and university? The Bible is the authoritative Word of God, and his law as announced therein is the simplest statement of the conditions of best existence this world has ever had. In many states this Book has been legislated out of the public schools, and is rarely read in the home. Only fifty percent of our children attend Sunday school, and when they do attend too often they get no Bible at all except possibly a little history, and this is taught in a heartless, perfunctory manner by some worldly flip of a teacher who is altogether immature in years of Christian experience and whose only idea of making a class interesting is to call in question, parrot-like, every vital truth essential to the child's moral and spiritual condition. The result is that the average youth of today knows no more about the Bible than a crow knows about astrology.

God's Wonders of Fifty Years.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am a little girl eight years old. I am in the third grade. I love my teacher. I go to school every day. I go to the Methodist Church and love it. I love to read page ten in The Herald. I am writing this letter and hope it will not be in the waste basket. I hope to see it. Annie Laurie Sturkey.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I have blue eyes, light brown hair, and fair complexion. I am ten years old. Who has my birthday, April 26? Would like for you to write me a letter. My aunt takes The Herald. This is my first letter to page ten. School is out now. I have just been promoted to the fourth grade. I have two sisters and one brother. I go to preaching every Sunday. I belong to the Methodist Church. Who can guess my first name? It begins with E and ends with A, has four letters in it. If you can guess my name please write to me and I will answer you best I know how. Do any of you cousins know what Satan did in heaven that caused him to be cast out of heaven? E. Pauline Edwards.

Wakefield, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Was made real glad last night while reading page ten to know there were still some girls who are not afraid to stand up for the right. A Spirit-filled ministry will not approve of dancing and no one else that loves God more than the pleasure of this world. I would be glad if every holiness girl would write me. Girls, what did we do in 1926 that we were proud of? What are we going to do in 1927? Now let's keep a Diary of all our transactions and at the close of the year we can look back and see where we have made a success or a failure. May God in all his goodness bless each one of you. Mrs. J. W. Cooper.

Montezuma, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here comes a little Kentucky boy to visit some of the cousins. This is the first letter to The Herald. I enjoy reading page ten. My grandmother takes The Herald. My school was out yesterday. I had a good school teacher; her name is Imogene Hurley. I go to church every third Saturday and Sunday. We have a good preacher. I like my Sunday school teacher. I live on the farm. John Emerson Crowe.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I am fifteen years old, have reddish brown hair, blue eyes, weigh 105 pounds, and am five feet, two inches tall. I am a Christian and try very hard to do as I think God wants me to do. I go to the Baptist Church although my parents are Methodists, but the nearest Methodist Church is six miles away. I live on a farm and like farm life fine. Grandma takes The Herald and I enjoy reading it, especially page ten. I have four sisters and one brother. I am staying with grandma and grandpa. I would enjoy hearing from all the cousins, both boys and girls. I will answer the letters of all who write. I hope Mr. W. B. won't get this letter for it is my first one to The Herald. Todd Fitzhugh.

Diamond Springs, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Do you have a space large enough for my letter? I am a little girl ten years old and am in the fifth grade. I have dark brown, long curly hair. I do not believe in wearing knickers and using lip-stick. I like to go to Sunday school. Mother takes The Pentecostal Herald. I am learning to cook, bake, sew and to keep house like mother does. I like to read the Boys and Girls' Page. Georgia Coble.

Clarksburg, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: As I don't see any letters from Ohio I thought I would write one. I am not young any more but I love to read the letters. I saw a letter sometime ago from a widow that lived in Texas and she said she had lots of pecan trees and said come over, and go a pecan huting with her; as I am a widow I just thought how I would like to go with her. I am living by myself and it is very lonesome, but I trust God to take care of me and help me each day to live better. I would love to hear Dr. Morrison preach. I think The Pentecostal Herald a wonderful paper. Mrs. Huston.

Lancaster, Ohio.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here comes a Michigan girl. I am a Christian and I am glad to see there are so many others. Let us all be like Gladys Niehegall, be true and faithful even in sickness. I am glad to see Everett McGee's letter in print. I wish more boys would become Christians and write to Aunt Bettie. Daisy Moss, you have my weight and just three inches taller. I will answer any letter I receive. Bessie Lamb.

Box 77, Frankfort, Mich.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will the cousins move down and let me sit down with them? How are all the boys and girls? Who has my birthday, May 30? I am eleven years old. I have brown eyes and light brown hair. I am three feet, nine inches tall. As this is my first letter I hope Mr. W. B. is at the grocery. I will close. Ruth Wilson.

Bethel Ridge, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I wonder if I could join your happy band. My uncle sends The Herald to my father and I read page ten every week and I like it very much. I go to school. I am in the sixth grade. I have a very nice teacher. She has been teaching school thirty-six years. She taught my father. I am thirteen years old. My birthday is Dec. 29. I have two sisters and two brothers. My mother and father are living. I have brown eyes, brown hair, and dark complexion. I go to Sunday school nearly every Sunday. I weigh 85 pounds. I live on a farm. We have a cow. Well as my letter is getting long I will close hoping to see this in print. Florence E. Chappell.

Rt. 2, Box 165, Tyner, N. C.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Kentucky boy join your happy band of boys and girls? I am thirteen years old. I am in the eighth grade. I go to Sunday school about every Sunday. I am five feet, four inches tall, and have light hair. Have I a twin, Sept. 7? Whoever guesses my middle name I will write to them. It begins with M and ends with E and has seven letters in it. Charles M. Hughes.

Trinity, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl join your happy band? I wrote one letter to The Herald and I had the pleasure of seeing it in print, and I hope to see this one printed too. I am nine years old and the baby of a family of eleven. I have gray eyes, fair complexion, rosy cheeks, light hair, weigh 60 pounds, four feet and two inches short. I am promoted to the fourth grade. My school was out in January. My teacher was Luther Hilton, I liked him fine. Who can guess my middle name? It begins with R and ends with E and contains five letters. My birthday is Nov. 18. Who is my twin? I would like to hear from some of the cousins. I hope Mr. W. B. is watching the ducks swim when this arrives. Lillian R. Perkins.

Perkins, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you and the cousins move over a bit and let one of your old cousins from the State of Mississippi, have a seat with you awhile? Thanks. It has been quite a while since last I wrote to you and the dear Herald cousins. I wish to thank you for printing my letter. I also thank each and every one for the nice letters that I received. I especially thank the cousins for the tracts and pieces of poetry; they did me lots of good, and I passed them on to others so that they might benefit by them too. I have dark brown hair (bobbed), fair complexion, gray eyes, am five feet and four inches tall, and weigh 114 pounds. Will leave my age and date of birth for you to guess. My age is between seventeen and twenty-one. My birthday is between June 23 and 30. As I told you before, I do not use lip-stick or rouge, and do not wear knickers. You that do read Deut. 25:5-11, 12 verses, and then turn the leaves until you find 1 Tim. 3:9. I live one mile from town, although I was born and lived about thirteen miles out among the "Old Red Hills of Mississippi" about fifteen years. Yes, a country girl. I liked the country life very well. I joined the Methodist Church, South, when I was eleven years of age. I was converted and sanctified last August at camp meeting. Am now ready and willing to go where Jesus would have me go, and do what Jesus would have me do. The path grows brighter each day. Cousins, if you have not yet given your heart and life to Jesus, don't put it off any longer. Tomorrow's sun may never rise to bless thy long deluded sight. Now is the accepted time. Jesus said, "Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out." When Jesus said, "Whosoever will may come," he meant you, too. He does not leave anyone out. I am interested in missionary work, and I do hope that the way will be opened for me to take up that work in my future life. Page ten is getting more interesting every day. Sylvia Jacobson, I answered your letter but did not get an answer.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Have you just a small corner for me? I would like to join your happy band and be numbered on page ten. Daddy takes The Herald and I enjoy hearing it read. I like to go to Sunday school. I enjoy being with good boys and girls. I am eight years old and in the second grade. Coy McKinney.

Lashmeet, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Indiana boy join your happy band of boys and girls? I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. I like hunting and fishing better than anything. My birthday is April 3. All who read this letter I would like each one to send me a card. Herald cousins, when you write to The Herald tell your birthday, and if you say you want a postcard shower for your birthday we will send you a card, won't we, Herald cousins? My two favorite verses are the fifth chapter of Matthew and the twenty-second chapter of Revelation. I have read the New Testament through once and can name all of the books of the New Testament. I hope W. B. is out feeding the horses when this letter arrives. Paul McNeely.

Deputy, Ind.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have been reading some of the letters from the boys and girls and decided I would try to write again. This will be my third letter sent in. My grandmother takes The Herald. I sure enjoy reading page ten. How many of the cousins are Christians? I am and want to be a soul winner for him. I belong to the Nazarene Church. We have a fine Junior church and prayer meeting every Tuesday afternoon. We sure have some fine times. I am twelve years old, have blue eyes, light brown hair. Who has my birthday, Sept. 7? Vera E. Dear Aunt Bettie: I visited a badly afflicted man whose talk helped me. For over twenty years he had remained in one room, in one bed upon his back unable to turn himself over. Most all his joints were ossified and completely set. His hands and feet, his fingers and toes, were drawn and twisted in various directions. His jaws were firmly set together, he could eat only soft foods passed through the space from whence a tooth had been removed. He said he became so very tired ever in the same position, that the pain in those limbs was so acute, that tooth-ache was no comparison. He said as the disease attacked a fresh joint the pain was most severe, he could not make known the great suffering. Asked what brought such suffering, he answered, "Myself! Disobedience!" One bitter cold day, when a boy, his god father forbade him to leave the house, but with another boy he went anyhow, and took to his bed with rheumatism. So disobedience brings bodily suffering as well as mental anguish. Ere I left him he feelingly said, "Bring my life before the boys. Let them beware of disobedience, which has sad consequences. May they do right because it is right, and be happy. My earthly father loved me, knew the best for me, wanted me to do it and not suffer. I ignored and suffer. Their heavenly Father knows the best for the boys, wants them to be happy, tells them to glorify him in their bodies and in their spirits, which are his, tells them to be clean from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, tells them to eat and drink, do all things to his glory. They must well consider all this means. May they learn and obey the laws of health, the will of God, and be well and happy, for Christ's sake, for others' sake, for their sake. They must reap what they sow. May they obey the kind heavenly Father, use the Sword of the Spirit, as did the Great Exemplar, never heeding Satan's suggestion to cast themselves down from God's temple. Their bodies must be the temples for the Holy Spirit." I am sure his counsel is excellent and I must obey. The cousins will, certainly. Wm. C. McGinnis.

FALLEN ASLEEP

ASH.

Charles H. Ash, one of Susquehanna's stalwart and exemplary citizens, has passed to his reward. Death claimed him after a long illness, although he had been seriously ill only about two weeks. Just before 12 o'clock noon, with his loved ones about him, and with his pastor, Rev. Harry L. Renville of the First M. E. Church at his bedside, he passed into the dreamless sleep of death, as serenely and quietly as he had lived.

Charles H. Ash was born in Pleasant Mount, Pa., 75 years ago the coming month. He came here in his youth, and learning the carpenter trade he embarked in the business of contracting and building, following this vocation for nearly 55 years.

Mr. Ash was a quiet, unassuming man who found his greatest pleasures in his home. There he was always to be found when not engaged in his vocation. He was of a friendly disposition, a gentleman of the old school, and his entire life seemed like a benediction. He was a Christian not only in name, but in deeds, for he was charitable and kind, generous and considerate, and never asked for himself anything he was not willing to concede his fellowman. He was a devoted and consistent member of the First M. E. Church of Susquehanna and a member of the Official Board for many years.

In his death Susquehanna loses one of its best citizens. The family home on Jackson avenue, noted for its comfort and hospitality, has lost a precious member of the devoted family. The sympathy of the community is with Mrs. Ash, who has been seriously ill, and the family in their great bereavement.

Besides his wife, deceased is survived by four children seven grandchildren, one sister and one brother.

TAYLOR.

Another devoted reader of The Pentecostal Herald, Mrs. M. A. Taylor, passed to her reward April 2, at 11:50 P. M., being in her 77th year. She had been a member of the Methodist Church for 59 years and was a devout follower of the Lord. Sister Taylor was the mother of nine children, all of whom survive her, also three sisters and two brothers. While they will miss her loving greeting, yet they know where to find her.

Sister Taylor's home-going was like one "who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams." She passed away like one retiring for the night, to awake in that land where night never comes and death is unknown. Her funeral was conducted in Wesley Church, Louisville, Ky., by Rev. Cantrell, a former pastor, and Brother Butler, pastor of Wesley M. E. Church, at the family residence.

"Death doth hide, but not divide
Thou art on Christ's other side—
Thou with Christ and Christ with me, Therefore together still are we."
A Friend.

LOY.

Clara May Buchholz, daughter of John and Sarah Buchholz, began her life near Watson, Ill., Nov. 15, 1890. She completed her earthly life Feb. 19, 1927, near Mason, only staying here 36 years, 3 months and 4 days. Three years of her life was spent in Oklahoma, eight years in Kansas and the remaining time in Illinois. She grew to womanhood near Watson. She became a teacher and taught five years in these different states.

She was married to Rev. Amos Loy, August 10, 1910. Two children came into their home, Harold and Marjorie, who survive her. She gave her heart to God in youth and became a member of the Methodist Church. In her were blended consecration, capacity, earnestness, usefulness and joy. If duty or opportunity called she answered "Here am I." She shared heartily the ministry of her husband and graced the parsonages in which they lived. She specialized in work with children in every place, training them in religion and teaching them art. She had a class of seventy-five in the Junior League at Lake City, Kansas, their present pastoral charge. At times she occupied the pulpit of her husband, when he was ill or absent. The profusion of beautiful flowers sent by the Methodists of Lake City, Kansas, shows the eloquent testimony of their love and appreciation.

She leaves her devoted husband and two children, her parents, two sisters, four brothers, many other relatives and hosts of friends.

Clara caught her father's spiritual vision, found the great salvation and made the world better by her having lived in it. She placed the stamp of truth on the gospel her husband preached by living it among the people they served. Her love is a priceless legacy to Harold and Marjorie, to bless them as long as they live. Clara Buchholz Loy walked with God and she was not for God took her. The lovely flower is gone but its sweet fragrance remains.

A short service was held at the home Sunday morning after which the remains were taken to Watson, where the funeral service was held at the M. E. Church, Rev. Ritcherson, of Newton, officiating. A large crowd was in attendance to pay a tribute of love and respect to this loved one, Clara Loy. The floral tributes were beautiful and spoke of the high esteem in which she was held. Interment in the Watson Cemetery.

LUTTRELL.

John A. Luttrell was born Oct. 5, 1867, and went to his reward Dec. 21, 1926. He was the son of John B. and Emeline Luttrell, deceased. He was married to Minnie Porterfield, Dec. 22, 1891. He leaves a wife, six sons, and four daughters; one son preceded him to glory 26 years ago. He united with the Methodist Church 27 years ago and lived a devoted Christian until death. He had been a reader of The Pentecostal Herald for 26 years and looked forward to its coming each week. We do not grieve as those who have no hope, for our hope is in him who said, "Whosoever believeth in me shall never die."

While we keenly feel the loss of our dear one, yet we bow in submission to the Father's will, saying with David, "The Lord hath given and the Lord hath taken away; Blessed be the name of the Lord."

His wife,
Mrs. J. A. Luttrell.

TERRY.

The death of J. T. Terry occurred Feb. 8, 1927. While he had been afflicted for some time, his death was sudden. He suffered very patiently for a number of years, just waiting the call to come home. He had been a faithful member of the Methodist Church for forty years, and had enjoyed the experience of holiness since 1889. He helped to build the Hurricane camp meeting in 1889 and was a camper until his health failed him, but would come to the camp meeting to see his brethren and many friends every year. He enjoyed the preaching of holiness, and was a beloved brother in the Lord. In a few years I shall meet Brother Terry with the host of saints who have gone from Hurricane camp meeting where I have attended for more than thirty years.

Brother Terry leaves a devoted wife and two half brothers, besides many relatives and friends. How happy we shall be to meet him again.
J. J. Smith.

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

Jerry McAuley, An Apostle to the Lost, by R. M. Offord, L.L.D. $1.50.

This is the life story of Jerry McAuley, whose name is known from coast to coast. When I began to review this book, it was so interesting that I read a hundred pages before I could stop. In writing these articles, it is not my chief purpose to recommend these books (it is merely to let you know what they contain) but this is one I heartily recommend to every Christian, and especially to every Christian worker. It will increase your faith, deepen your devotion, and make you more zealous in your labors for the Master.

The book was compiled by Mr. Offord. Part of it was written by McAuley himself, and part by others. It tells of Jerry's early life; his fall into sin; his term in Sing Sing prison; his conversion; his troubles; his final desperate return to God and salvation; the establishment of the wonderful Water Street Mission in New York; many wonderful conversions that occurred there; the growth and widespread influence of the mission work; and the triumphant death of this modern "Apostle to the Lost."

This story is a marvelous record of the depth of human depravity and the possibilities of God's grace. You will never regret paying the $1.50 that it will cost you.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life, by Hannah Whitall Smith. $1.00.

This is an old book that has been published for years, but seems as popular today as ever. It deals with the question, Is a happy life possible? The author takes this question up from the Scriptural viewpoint, and treats it as it relates to Christian experience.

The book is happily divided. Part 1 considers "The Life." It is taken up in the following order: 1. Is it Scriptural? 2. God's Side and Man's Side. 3. The Life Defined. 4. How to Enter In. Part II deals with "Difficulties." They are treated relative to the difficulties concerning Consecration, Faith, The Will, Guidance, Doubts, Temptation, Failures. Part III tells of the "Results" of such a life. Some of these are Liberty, Growth, Service, Joy, Divine Union, etc.

This is a treatise on Sanctification, and is written in a simple style, interspersed with apt illustrations. It is interesting and instructive.

Christine's Ivory Palace, by Mrs. Lula M. Dudley. $1.25.

In the introduction the author states that she wrote this book in the form of an allegory like Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress but that this is the "allegory of Christine and her household in a spiritual Kingdom—fulfilling the Word that Jesus Christ 'hath made us kings and priests unto God.'"

Those who enjoy reading Pilgrim's Progress will likewise appreciate this splendid story. It takes Christine from the time of her marriage to the "King's Son" until her final triumph.

It is written simply, interestingly and definitely.

To give you some idea of the book we call attention to the following representative chapters: "Christine At Home," "A Battle in Red Light District," "The Rescue of Proud Look," "Mr. Swindle Makes a Confession," "Mr. Humble Goes to Prison," "A Call to Eagle's Nest," "Rev. Ruling Elder Falls," "Very Pliant Lays All On the Altar."

The book has thirty-four chapters, 215 pages, and is beautifully bound in blue cover, with Gold title.

The Way of The Cross, by J. Gregory Mantle, D. D. $1.00.

Dr. Mantle was an Englishman. For years he preached in his own country. Later in life he moved to the United States and gave his time largely to Evangelism. He was Assistant Editor of The Pentecostal Herald for a time.

This book is a thorough and constructive treatment of the subject of the Cross in the Christian's life. It follows somewhat the style of Stanley Jones in that it centers everything around the Cross, and shows its place in the making of vital Christian character.

There are twenty-one chapters. Some of the most suggestive are: "A Mixed Life," "The Light of the Cross," "The Idol Self," "The Inward Cross," "The World and the Cross," "Beauty For Ashes," "The Pathway of Rejection," "The Indwelling of Christ," "The Cross Day by Day." In his treatment of these the author gives some very refreshing illustrations; many of them are valuable for preachers. At the beginning of each chapter is some poem or quotation. Many of these are striking.

Morning Faces, by Rev. George McPherson Hunter. $1.25.

Another book of sermons to children—yes, and it will grip your interest also. The writer is a splendid story-teller, and these fifty-two short sermons abound in illustrations. They are illustrations taken from literature of all kinds as well as from actual life. Many of them are intensely interesting.

The author divides the book in the following manner. 1. General. Some of the most interesting topics treated under this heading are "Morning Faces," "A Little Pinch of Salt," "Our Great Outlaw," "The First Easter Morn." 2. Questions. "Where Does God Live?" "What Is God?" "What Is Stronger Than a Lion?" 3. Soldiers. "Three." "Timothy the Timid." "Andrew the Discoverer," "Barnabas the Encourager." 4. In The School. "God's Multiplication Table," "Subjunctive May, Imperative Must," "P's in a Pod." 5. On the Playground. "A Hiding Place," "Follow the Leader," "Pewter or Gold," "A Three-Ply Rope," "The Man With the Four Names."

The pastor will find this book wonderfully helpful. The Sunday School teacher can find great use for it. Mother can do much good with it by reading it to the children.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

not getting one cent for my service while I am over here. I am so glad that God has called me to preach his blessed word to these poor souls in this country, and I am glad to tell you that there hasn't been one service held since I came here but what somebody got saved or sanctified. To Jesus we give all glory and praise. Bless his dear name! I love him with all my heart. I will also go to Bulgaria with Bishop Nuelsen where he will hold their Conference. I shall preach twice each day during the conference. From there we will come back to Yugo-Slavia to hold the Conference here, and then we are going to Hungaria and Austria, to hold their conferences. I shall be home about May 15. May the Lord bless you and yours and keep you all in his perfect love. Amen.

As ever yours in his service,
"Sam the Methodist."

A modern story told like that of Pilgrim's Progress; interesting, amusing at times, instructive in the deep things of God—such is Christine's Ivory Palace, a book written by Mrs. Lula M. Dudley. Price $1.25. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

(By mistake we got May 8 Lesson in last week's Herald. I trust this may reach those who study it in time for May 1).

Lesson V.—May 1, 1927.

Subject.—Peter's Denial and Repentance. Mark 14:53, 54, 66-71; Lu. 22:61, 62.

Golden Text.—Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. 1 Cor. 10:12.

Time.—A. D. 30.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Introduction.—The fall of Peter was pathetic. The Master had done so much for him, and he had made such great promises, that one would have expected him to stand till the last moment. After promising so much, his chagrin at his fall must have been fearful. What a lesson for all of us mortals. Matthew says that it was Peter who answered when the Lord asked the apostles: "Whom say ye that I am?" He replied: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." It would seem that such a conviction, brought to him through the eternal Father, should have established him somewhat. One is prone to ask: How could he deny his Master after having witnessed the splendors of the Transfiguration? Some have charged that it was the purpose of God that Peter should fall. Never! That would be to charge God with Peter's sin; but God leads no one into sin. Peter was acting of his own free will. For some reason he had a place within the small circle near the Master with James and John, closer than that held by the other nine.

The last night before the crucifixion was momentous for Peter. He alone seemed to feel some smarting of conscience when Jesus began to wash the disciples' feet. There was no servant present to do this menial work. One of the disciples might have done it; but, as some one has intimated, they all wanted high places in the kingdom, and were afraid to lower their dignity. However, it does not appear that any of them, save Peter, saw anything out of place in the Master's lowering his dignity. Peter felt so mean about it that he absolutely refused to permit Jesus to wash his feet until almost forced to submit; and then he begged to have his feet, head and hands all washed. Impulsive Peter, running straight and crooked at the same time. Will he ever be settled? Yes, Pentecost will come in about fifty days; and Peter will get established.

We wonder how Peter felt when Jesus stated during that last passover supper that one of those reclining with him at the table was about to betray him? Judas may have been astonished to discover that the Master knew all about his defection; but it must have been a terrible shock to the other eleven. Judas seems to have feigned innocence; for after Jesus had stated that one of them would betray him that very night, he had the audacity to ask: "Master, is it I?" It was the same question put to him by the rest of his apostles; for Matthew says they "began every one of them to say unto him, Lord, is it I?" Peter went so far as to request John who was leaning in the Lord's bosom, to ask him who it was. One of the most astounding things connected with the matter was Peter's big boasting: "Though I should die with thee, yet will I not deny thee." The boast must have been somewhat infectious, for the record states: "Likewise also said all the disciples." Maybe they would not have been so rash, if Peter had not led the way. But they were sincere; perhaps having little realization of what the next few hours had in store for them.

Jesus was sufficiently kind to warn the disciples, as best they could understand it, of the terrible fate that awaited him. The Shepherd would be smitten; and the sheep would be scattered abroad. They were advised to watch and pray, lest they should enter into temptation. Peter was told positively that before the crowing of the cock he would deny his Master thrice. He was fully forewarned, but fell at the critical moment. How weak we mortals are. We set ourselves to stand, forgetting that we cannot stand in our own strength, and fall into sin. We feel so secure that we sometimes lead ourselves into temptation, and then wonder why we fall. Our only hope of standing against temptation is in Christ Jesus through the Holy Comforter, the Divine Spirit.

As this writer sits this spring evening meditating and writing about Peter's fall, it seems to him that he never before realized so deeply the need of entire sanctification for the human heart. Why do men, realizing the presence of carnality in their own hearts, that causes them to stumble along the way, refuse to have God sanctify them wholly? And each answers, WHY? Peter and his brethren in the apostolic college knew no better; Pentecost had not yet come; the Holy Spirit in his baptismal office was not yet given to the Church; but we should know and do better. We are living in the times of the Dispensation of the Holy Ghost, wherein God intended that there should continually be such displays of glory and power as were never known in the Church prior to the day of Pentecost. We should be doing the things that Jesus did, and greater things, because he has ascended to the Father, and has presented his coronation gift to his Church on earth.

Comments on the Lesson.

53. Read the preceding context, so as to keep the connection. Immediately after his arrest in the garden of Gethsemane "they led Jesus away to the high priest." Of all men in the world, the high priest should have been the friend and protector of Jesus Christ; but he and his assembled company of chief priests, elders and scribes were in league with Satan to murder him. As we are dealing specially with Peter's fall and repentance, we cannot discuss the illegality of this mock trial of Jesus.

54. Peter followed him afar off.—While there is no warning here to those who follow Jesus afar off spiritually, the comparison is sufficiently close to make us think on our ways. Peter was a mixture of courage and fear. Few of us have any reason to condemn him in this regard.

66-71. We need not quote the words of these verses. They deal with Peter's tests and denials. Out in Gethsemane he was bold enough to chop off the ear of Malchus, the high priest's servant; but that was before his Master was arrested. Now he is in the hands of the mob; and while Peter still has sufficient courage to enter the hall of the high priest, with a little help and persuasion from John, he is too much of a coward to tell an accusing maid the truth, but denies that he even knows what she is talking about. When another maid asked him if he was not a disciple of the Prisoner, he failed and lied again. When the final test came: "Surely thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilean, and thy speech agreeth thereto," it was too much for the poor fellow, and he "began to curse and to swear," saying, "I know not this man of whom ye speak." Put yourself in his place before condemning him too harshly. He was scared; and scared men cannot be trusted. We imagine that it took a brave man to face a Roman cross.

61. The Lord turned and looked upon Peter.—We have sometimes endeavored to imagine the expression on the Lord's face at that time, but cannot. Maybe some one else can do so. It is hardly fair to suppose that it was one of scorn and condemnation. Perhaps it was one of mingled reproof, and rebuke, and love, and grief, and pity. We cannot tell; but whatever it was, it broke Peter's heart, and made him remember the words of his Lord: "Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice." The Master has a way of dealing with us that is both severe and tender. Were it not for his tenderness that tempers his reproof, we would die of despair.

62. Peter went out, and wept bitterly.—Do you not wish to go out with him, and weep at his side, not only for sympathy's sake, but for your own defections by the way? Thank God, there is rich forgiveness for the backslider. There is far more hope of the restoration of an old backslider than there is for the conversion of an old man or woman who has never known God in the pardon of his sins. Watch this statement in your work: One unconverted at forty years of age is seldom ever saved.

REVIVALS.

We enjoy your paper; the articles and editorials are great. We recommend and present The Herald wherever we go.

We go to help Bro. Tyler at Soul's Chapel on the Pulaski Circuit, beginning Easter Sunday. Ask The Herald family to pray for the meeting. We have some open dates in May and June, and while up there if the brethren have some hard places none is inclined to go to, we will; we build everything around the pastor and take what they give in a freewill offering.

Yours in Him,
Robert Johnson and Wife.

A WORTHY PREACHER.

Rev. C. A. Peters, Nora, Ky., a preacher in the Mountains of Kentucky, has a large family, and is very much in need of clothing. We wish to suggest to our readers as house cleaning time is here that they lay aside any clothing they may wish to dispose of and send this family a box that will help them in their sore need. Anything can be utilized, as they have all ages of children, and he and his wife will be glad for anything that may be useful to them. Dr. Morrison and I have sent frequent boxes to them and they are always very grateful. Remember that, "He that giveth to the poor, lendeth to the Lord."

His slate for the summer is full, except two camp meeting dates, July 7-17 and July 21-31. Those interested may address him 1045 Worcester Ave., Pasadena, Calif.

A Spring Convention held by the Holiness Association, co-operating with Schenley Heights M. E. Brotherhood Bible Class, will be held in Schenley Heights M. E. Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., May 20 to 29. Rev. T. M. Anderson will be the preacher and Emmy Berge song leader. Let those who can, plan to attend this meeting and help to push the work for holiness.

Rathdrum, Idaho, is badly in need of an evangelistic meeting. We want some good evangelist, a man who is not afraid to blast the rock, dig deep and work with the preacher; a man who can stay three or four weeks, if necessary. We plan for a tent meeting in a town where churches have been united into one, where worldliness is strong, but where there are some consecrated, God-fearing people. Will the right man get in touch with the preacher, C. B. Madsen.

C. B. Madsen wishes to hear from some brother who can sing the old revival songs, lead a chorus and stay for the summer in upper Idaho. This is a beautiful country, healthful, and promising. C. B. Madsen, the preacher at Rathdrum, Idaho, invites correspondence with such an one. If you can preach the gospel as well as sing, so much the better.

Evangelists Wade House (preacher), Jeff Wall (singer and trombonist), Mrs. Wall (concert pianist and vocalist) will lead Tabernacle Baptist Church, Waco, Texas, in an old-fashioned city-wide tent revival, April 17 to May 29 with services at 7:45 P. M., featured with Bible preaching, gospel singing by a volunteer choir of 250 voices and special music by the Walls. All people are invited to attend these meetings. All Christians are counted upon to help, as soul-winning is the aim. The tent is 165 feet long, 90 feet wide, comfortable seats, located at 1510 Clay Avenue, on Cotton Palace car line. Pastor R. Reilly Copeland earnestly requests prayers from Christians everywhere for this revival.

The Pilgrim Holiness camp of the Southern District will be held at the usual place in Greensboro, N. C., May 20-29. Rev. W. R. Cox, our General Superintendent, and Rev. Harry Hays, of Beloit, Ohio, are the preachers in charge. Music will be in charge of the Greensboro Bible School Band, with Byron Crouse as song leader. One of the special features of the camp will be the music by the Bible School Mixed Quartet and also a Ladies' Quartet. Board and entertainment for free-will offerings. For entertainment write to F. H. Tormohlen, Chairman Camp Meeting Committee, 720 Silver Ave., Greensboro, N. C.

Rev. Albert Reed and wife are open for calls in evangelistic service. Bro. Reed and his wife are devout and earnest people. They are ready for the highways and hedges. They will go out to neglected churches and school-houses where there are precious souls being neglected. The Lord blesses them in their work. They do not demand any fixed sum for service. They want souls. There are many neglected districts and precious souls that are hearing no earnest, evangelistic gospel. Brother and Sister Reed will do good in communities that have been a long time without a revival. Address, Rev. Albert Reed, Wilmore, Ky.

S. B. Goff: "We have just had a successful campaign at Rushford, N. Y. Three churches united in the campaign at the Methodist Church. There was a fine spirit of co-operation. Am now in a fifteen-day campaign at the Berry Memorial M. E. Church, Philadelphia. There were forty-four conversions and transfers of church letters in the first three days of the campaign. We are combining the visitation plan of personal work with the evangelistic meetings. Twenty-five teams of trained personal workers are going into the homes to win people to Christ and the Church. I now have the date beginning May 1, open for a campaign."

"Morning Faces," a book of sermons for children, would be very helpful to you as pastor, Sunday school teacher, or Mother in the home, if you would read it. Send for it, and if it does not interest you, return it undamaged and we shall be glad to refund your $1.25. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

NOTICE!

Brother W. W. McCord writes that a number have ordered pecans from him, the proceeds of which he has used to help pay the debt on his camp ground. He desires us to state that his offer to send a pound of paper shell pecans to any one who may send him a dollar for the camp, still holds good; or, he will send a pound of pecans for every dollar sent to him. His address is Sale City, Ga.

THE RISEN CHRIST.

F. B. Pierpoint.

We honor the risen Christ today,
As we come to the glad Easter time,
How he break the bonds wherein he lay

And made his exit sublime.
He is not here, the Angel said,
To the two Marys and Salome,
He has burst the bars of his prison bed,
And will go to his heavenly home.
It was hard for them to understand
That their Lord was not carried away

By some enemy with unfriendly hand,
Their fears he could scarcely allay.
But Mary saw Jesus standing there,
Heard again his own dear voice,
She must go tell others that they might share

The glad news, and likewise rejoice.
The disciples' hearts were strangely warmed
On the road to Emmaus that day,
Fond thoughts and memories fairly swarmed

Round each, as he walked in the way.
But Jesus could no longer stay,
Must go to his Father above;
No longer remain from the home away

That was prepared by the Father's love,
There to intercede for you and me
That for our sins he did atone,
And from their thralldom we'd be free
To enter that blessed home.

He is risen today, O let us rejoice,
Accept him with gladness and cheer;
Listening closely for his welcome voice,
Whenever our work is done here.
He is risen today, so we, too, shall rise,

If faithful to the trust he has given,
What wonderful visions will there greet our eyes,
When we reach our home in Heaven.

There to bask in the sunshine of his love,
When we hear his welcome "Well done,"
"Enter thou the joys that are thine up above, There's a crown here for Thee, faithful one."

Would you know the secret of happiness? You can find it by reading "The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life." This little book teaches simply and interestingly the practical side of the experience of sanctification. It will be a help and blessing to you. $1.00 will bring it to you. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

SOLDIERS OF THE CROSS.

By The Editor.

"Soldiers of Christ, arise
And put your armor on,
Strong in the strength which God supplies,
Through His eternal Son."
* * * *

The Christian life is a warfare. Those who essay to engage in it with any other understanding are quite likely to meet with failure and defeat. Saint Paul, that champion of the Cross, was wont to express the mind of the Spirit in military phraseology. He directed Christians to "put on the whole armor", taking "the sword of the Spirit." We must have armor, defensive and offensive, if we would persevere and make progress in Christian experience.
* * * *

We fear many professed Christians of the present day fail just here. They seem to think that time has wrought such changes that the friendship of the world is no longer death, but a sort of means of grace and notwithstanding the plain teachings of the Word of God, they never look upon the world as an enemy in arms against them and they fail to "put on the whole armor" for battle against the deceptive and wicked world under the control and direction of the enemy of their souls.
* * * *

They join the church; in some instances, they are soundly converted, but they find the church and the world on good terms with each other. The world comes and enjoys with the church its festivals, fads and entertainments. The church goes with the world to its theaters, balls, card parties and various means of entertaining its lost souls. The church seeks to avoid giving offense to the world and the world seeks to draw the church away in all of its frivolities and methods of pleasure seeking, money getting and so almost unconsciously the young convert is drawn away from Christ.
* * * *

The only possible way to have victory over the world is to declare war against it from the very first, to be an open, avowed and well-equipped soldier of the cross. That does not mean that you are the enemy of sinners, but it does mean that you will not participate in their sins. It does mean that you love them, warn and exhort them, pray for them, but keep absolutely free from any and all things in which they indulge that are out of harmony with the teaching of our Master and the true spirit of a soldier of the cross. It does mean that you have denied yourself, taken up your cross, and that you are following Jesus and that you cannot and will not be subject to or enticed away by the world into its sins, pastimes and amusements. You have within the blessed assurance that your sins have been forgiven. You have a holy, hungering and thirsting after righteousness. You are pressing on for the fullness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ. Nothing can satisfy your soul but communion with the Lord Jesus. The world, with its sins and follies, has lost its attraction for you. You are set free from its enticements; the things you once loved you now hate; the things you once hated you now love. You have become a soldier of the cross. You are heaven-bound. You are living in the world, striving to bring those who are in bondage to its spirit and wickedness to repentance and saving faith in your blessed Lord and Saviour. You have become a soldier of the cross and advance with a drawn sword against sin. May God grant you wisdom and grace.

An Open Letter to Governor Al Smith, Honored Governor of the State of New York.

Governor Al Smith, Honored Sir:—

FOR a number of years, since you have become prominent in the political life of your great state, I have been a visitor in the City of Brooklyn for some days prior to, and during, the November election.

Your wide political influence and elections to the Governorship of your state, have given you a large place in the columns of the daily press, and I have read with interest something of your rise from a humble and obscure position to the highest office in the great Commonwealth of New York, and to the position of wide influence among the most prominent men of the nation.

If a man of my obscurity could hope for your attention for a moment, I would gladly congratulate you on the heroic struggle you have made, the worthy ambition and native genius which have enabled you to come to such an exalted place in the confidence and love of your fellow-citizens, and the service of your great state.

It is with reference to your candidacy for the nomination of your party for the presidency of the United States, that I am now writing. It will be remembered that the efforts of your friends to secure for you the nomination of your party for this high office as the last Democratic national convention well-nigh wrecked the Democratic party, and is still the occasion of contention and very wide disagreement among your party leaders.

If the reports given out in the daily press are to be trusted it seems evident that your name will again be brought before the next national convention of your party for nomination for the high office of President of the United States. There is a widespread opinion among many good citizens that if your friends insist on bringing your name before the convention of 1928 with the persistency with which they contended in the convention held in New York four years ago it will so completely wreck the Democratic party that it cannot be reorganized and that the organization of a new political party will become necessary. As a patriotic citizen and a lover of the party which has so highly honored you, it would seem that you should give this matter serious consideration before consenting to have your name brought before your party convention for nomination.

I am not an avowed, whole-hearted member of any political party. For a number of years I have voted for men whom I believed to be capable of legislating or administering law, regardless of their party affiliation. I am practically indifferent as to which one of the two great political organizations of the nation administers the affairs of our government at Washington. I am deeply interested that our high officials shall be men of pure personal character, true patriotism, and that they shall consider with impartiality the interests of all the people in all sections of our great nation. In short, I vote for the man, rather than voting with a party.

If you should be nominated for the presidency those opposing you in your party will raise at least the following objections, that I am confident would cost you many votes. They will insist that you are local; that your influence is confined to the City of New York; that you have never been elected Governor by the American people of your State, but through the powerful influence of Tammany Hall and the foreign-born voters of the City of New York, a people who do not understand, and who are by no means, in sympathy with the best and highest ideals of the best brand of American citizenship. Whether this be true or not, it will be very generally believed and used against you with considerable effect.

Another serious objection will be offered that you are thoroughly opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment, that you have no sympathy with prohibition in any form, and that you will rally under your standard all of the very worst and most dangerous elements of society in all the great cities; that men and women who contribute very little to the financial and commercial welfare of the nation, and nothing to its moral and spiritual interests, will be eager champions of your cause with the feeling that if you should become President of the United States the Eighteenth Amendment will be practically annulled and the saloon with all of its degradation, poverty, disease, moral ruin and crime will be thrust upon us. Of course, the men made wealthy by the liquor traffic, who have robbed untold millions of sobriety, intelligence, character and hope would be ready to pour out their millions of wickedly gotten gain for your support. These money lovers who care nothing for the welfare, happiness and souls of their victims have never ceased to fight prohibition in any and every form. There is a very large element of devout, intelligent people in this nation, members of your party, who will not go to the polls and vote the ticket of their party with that mob of humanity who clamor for the

THE OLD-TIME RELIGION.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

I am never ashamed to confess the old-time religion; nor am I ever ashamed to confess that I belong to old school Methodism. I consider it as one of the great providential events of my life that I was converted in the old fashioned way at the mourner's bench in a Methodist revival meeting.

Bishop Ryle, that great saint of Liverpool, England, some years ago said:

"The true remedy for all the evils of our day is the same remedy that proved effectual a hundred years ago—the same pure, unadulterated doctrine that the men of whom I have been writing used to preach and the same kind of preachers. I am bold to say that we want nothing new—no new systems, no new school of teaching, no new theology, no new ceremonial, no new gospel. We want nothing but the old truths rightly preached and rightly brought home to consciences, minds, and wills. The evangelical system of theology revived England a hundred years ago, and I have faith to believe that it could revive it again. There never has been good done in the world excepting by the faithful preaching of evangelical truth."

I. The Old-Time Religion is the religion of the precious blood. "A single flight of the soul to the wounds of our Lord is worth more to God than all the bells and organs and vestments," said John Tauler, a preacher of long ago. Some time ago we passed a big church and it had on its cornerstone the words, "The Church of the Precious Blood." Every church should be a church of the precious blood. Where the pulpit is silent on the blood, where no testimonies are ever heard as to the cleansing blood, where Calvary and the Cross are never honored—this is one place on earth where God is dishonored and the great salvation discounted. Let us make much of the blood—the precious blood.

II. The Old-Time Religion recognizes and preaches the fact of sin and depravity.

In one of the Methodist Sunday School Quarterlies for 1921, one of the writers referring to the old-time doctrine of depravity said: "There was a time when people believed that, but today nobody accepts such dreadful teaching." The fact of sin and depravity is illustrated by the following:

"Leonardo de Vinci's great masterpiece, 'The Last Supper,' is a great teacher in more ways than one. It is not only an exhibition of the marvelous achievement of human genius, the almost miraculous power of portrayal of human passions, the play of emotions and of character betrayed in the lineaments of physiognomies, but it has a deeper and more striking lesson for us than all these. This lesson grows out of an incident connected with the painting of the great picture which required long years of arduous toil. History relates that the great artist, in painting the faces of the apostles, painted the countenance of eminently good men whom he knew. When he came to paint the face of Jesus, however, he knew of nobody who could fill his conception of the need. The face that would be required as a model for the face of Christ would necessarily have to be one of combined dignity, simplicity, sweetness and majesty. After several years of careful searching he finally met one Pietro Blandinelli, a choir boy of exquisite voice who sang in the cathedral. Struck with his beautiful features and his tender, gentle manner which to him seemed to bespeak an angelic soul, the artist persuaded the boy to be the study for the painting of the face of Jesus in the great masterpiece. He was delighted with his success, but one further duty remained to make the great picture complete. He had to have a model from which to paint the face of Judas, which was the last picture to be accomplished in the painting. He set about in earnest search for a countenance that would answer for the face of the traitor. This search required several years before it was finally rewarded in the discovery of a man whose features were sufficiently stamped with the sinister, depraved, the diabolical and execrable to meet the requirements. He drew the face of Judas from the model and was elated with his artistic triumph. In dismissing the wretched man who had served as his model for Judas it occurred to him that he had not inquired his name and asked the man for his name. The man replied to him: 'You have painted me before.' The artist was horrified to find the man was Pietro Blandinelli. During the intervening years Pietro had been at Rome studying music but had fallen into evil associations and had fallen from purity and innocence to baseness and degradation and with the flight of years had gone deeper and deeper until his very face became a fit model for the awful monster of sin who betrayed our Lord.

III. The Old-Time Religion announces and proclaims a great Redemption and the soul's sanctification.

Rev. John A. Wood, writing on the work of sanctification said:

"Christian sanctification involves two principal items—consecration and purification. Consecration alone is not purification; it precedes it and always accompanies it. Entire sanctification is a state of entire consecration attended with purification through the soul-cleansing power of the Holy Ghost. We maintain that sanctification, or heart-purity, wrought in the soul in part in regeneration, and completed in entire sanctification, strictly speaking, is instantaneous and never gradual."

IV. The Old-Time Religion is a religion and experience of Holiness.

Bishop E. S. Janes said: "To the regenerate man there is nothing so lovely, there is nothing so winning, there is nothing so precious as goodness, as holiness. Oh, how he admires it in the angels! And how he admires it when he sees it in his fellow-Christian! How attractive it is! How winning! How it captivates the heart! How it excites his desires! How it inspires his aspirations to be holy! How he hungers and thirsts after righteousness in its fullest fruition! How his heart pants after God! How his very nature cries out for the fullness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ! He cannot be satisfied until he realizes it, any more than a famishing man can be satisfied without food and drink. It is hunger and thirst; it is hunger of the soul and thirst of the spirit. It cannot be satisfied without a realization of the good it craves. It is a new need created by his conversion, and he must have it satisfied or he cannot be at perfect peace. His heart, his soul, cries out for the nature and image of God! His soul is continually saying, 'Ah, who that loves can love enough?' Can we realize this full salvation? Is it attainable here and now? Can we be made perfect in love? May we be strengthened with all might, according to His glorious power?"

V. The Old-Time Religion is a religion of answered prayers:

It is said of Augustine that while in his home in Carthage he resolved to visit Rome, but his mother wished to prevent him from going. He resorted to subterfuge to succeed in his plan. He went to the seashore one evening. His mother followed. Augustine pressed his mother to spend the evening in the church dedicated to the memory of the martyr Cyprian while he accompanied a friend on board the ship to say farewell. While she was in the church in tears, praying and wrestling with God to prevent the voyage, Augustine sailed for Italy, and his deceived mother found herself alone the next morning. She returned to her home in quiet resignation, and continued to pray for the salvation of her son. The mother meant well. Though at the time she failed to realize it, God answered her prayer of denying her request; for the journeying of Augustine was the means of his salvation. "Instead of the husk, God granted rather the substance of the mother's petition in the conversion of her son." Augustine said: "Therefore, O God, thou hadst regard to the aim and essence of her desires, and didst not do what she prayed for, that thou mightest do for me what she continually implored."

VI. The Old-Time Religion promotes a high type of spiritual ministry.

Think back of the godly and powerful men who have moved multitudes for God—Knox, Luther, Baxter, Bunyan, Spurgeon, Wesley, Moody, Inskip, etc. They have been men who have steadfastly adhered to the old paths of redemptive truth and experience.

VII. The Old-Time Religion has produced beautiful Christian characters in all ages. A certain writer has said: "Physics teach us that all the primary colors in nature coalesce to make pure white; so does religion teach us that all the Christian graces combine to make that 'holiness without which no man shall see the Lord.' Objects that are purely white perfectly reflect all the prismatic colors of the rainbow; so does a holy heart, all those prime Christian graces which conspire to make perfect Christian character."

A certain writer speaks of the moral omnipotence of holiness. He goes on to say: "There is a moral omnipotence in holiness. Argument may be resisted; persuasion and entreaty may be scorned; the thrilling appeals and monitions of the pulpit set forth with all vigor and logic and all glow of eloquence may be evaded or disregarded; but the exhibition of exalted piety has a might which nothing can withstand. It is truth embodied; it is the gospel burning in the hearts, beaming from the eyes, breathing from the lips and preaching in the lives of its votaries. No sophistry can elude it, no conscience can ward it off. It speaks in all languages, in all climes, and to all phases of our nature. It is universal, invincible and clad in immortal panoply goes on from victory to victory."

Lastly. The Benefits of the Old-Time Religion are given without respect of persons, to high and low, rich and poor, learned and unlearned.

Bishop Morris was present at one of the Inskip camps and after a sermon by Father Coleman the Bishop testified thus: "I came to this meeting hoping God Almighty would grant me a clean heart and give me his favor and image, and restore unto me the joy of his salvation. I have been earnestly seeking this grace here; and when the invitation was given at the first meeting I came forward as a seeker, and when it was again given in the tabernacle I went forward and every time I have done so and expect to keep on seeking until I get it. Ask God in my behalf to give it; brethren, I want you to pray for me. I do not feel satisfied with my preparation for death and am now in my seventy-eighth year. I came here to seek for a better preparation for death; and I pray God he may give it to me."

So the blessings of salvation are to be sought in the humble way and all the benefits of Redemption are by the way of the cross and the altar.

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

BISHOP JAMES M. THOBURN.

CHAPTER XII.

THE parents of J. M. Thoburn came to America from Ireland in 1825, and finally settled in the state of Ohio. They were devout people, members of the Wesleyan Methodist Church.

There was a family of ten children, of which James was the seventh, who was born March 7, 1836, at St Clairsville, Ohio. He prepared himself for college in the public schools of that little city, and at the age of fifteen entered Allegheny College, from which institution he graduated in 1857. He was genuinely converted when a lad at home, and in his youth felt the call to preach; in the year 1858 he was admitted into the Pittsburgh Conference on trial of the M. E. Church. He traveled a circuit for one year in Stark County, Ohio, and one year later was accepted by the Board of Missions and sent to India.

In the fall of 1859, James M. Thoburn arrived in the city of Calcutta, but was sent at once to Naini Tai, an out-post far up in the Himalaya mountains, a venturesome position for a young man only twenty-three years old, and unable to speak the language. He remained at this post for six years, and was then sent to a mountain district far away from any sort of English civilization into the Garwal country. He remained there for two lonely years, and then transferred to Moradabad, the leading city of Rohilkhand; he spent two years there, and then went to Lucknow, where he spent four years. Truly he was in the "Traveling connection."

At this point of his career, though well established as a strong missionary and well acquainted with the vast country of India, he was assigned to Calcutta where he spent the larger part of his remaining years. He became pastor of the English church in Calcutta, which church under his ministry became one of the largest of its kind in India. Calcutta was the leading metropolis, and the travelers and missionaries passed through that city to all parts of India, and in this way Thoburn had the most conspicuous pulpit in the land.

While located in Calcutta, he invited William Taylor, the greatest missionary evangelist of the M. E. Church, to visit the country. Through the introduction of Thoburn, Taylor toured the entire country with remarkable results. Then Thoburn became an evangelist, visiting all the contiguous cities and countries. He was a delegate to the General Conference in 1888, and at this session was elected Bishop of India and Malaysia; with headquarters still at Calcutta he evangelized his entire episcopal district—all India, Malaysia, and Burma.

While Thoburn was a missionary to India, he did his greatest work among the English-speaking people of all those countries; he evangelized those of his own tongue in Rajon, Burma, Singapore, Malaysia, Borneo, Java, and Sumatra. At this time there was but one city of prominence closed to the gospel in that vast area, and that was Manila, the largest city of the Philippine Islands. Bishop Thoburn prayed until the doors of that benighted, priest-ridden city were opened to the gospel of full and free salvation.

Bishop Thoburn was a great pioneer and path-finder; he seemed to have a sixth sense as to needy places that could be opened for the gospel. Like Paul, he sought continually the regions beyond, and wherever he went the gospel of the Lord Jesus was fully exemplified. In the city of Singapore he founded a great work, and a flourishing English church, besides making it a base for missionary activities among the heathen peoples. This quiet, saintly man became one of the greatest exponents of missionary truth and conditions, not only within his own denomination, but in great world problems.

James M. Thoburn was small in stature and insignificant in appearance, and the soul of modesty and humility; there was nothing conspicuous about the man. When he returned to America on his first furlough, he visited various Annual Conferences throughout the church, but no one paid any attention to him. It was with much difficulty that he was given even a few moments before the sessions of the conferences. Here is a story worth repeating: He was at the session of an Iowa Conference, and was told very kindly by the "Committee on Public Worship" that they were very sorry that they were unable to make a place for him, as they had all the hours and anniversaries provided for as to speakers. However, the Woman's Missionary Society, at the night service of their anniversary, was disappointed at the last moment by the speaker failing to show up when the time drew near at hand. They were much confused and embarrassed; whereupon, some one suggested that Thoburn, a returned missionary from India was there, and as a make-shift, was asked to deliver the address.

This occasion proved to be the sunrise for James M. Thoburn, and the great Methodist Episcopal Church discovered him by that slip in the program. They had heard many dry-as-dust missionary addresses annually by secretaries and now then a missionary; but when this quiet man of God opened his speech on India it was a surprise, a shock, a sun-burst. For over an hour the great audience was held breathless and overwhelmed with a message that was not only packed with startling information, told in a new way, but the unction of the Holy Spirit was upon it. The church knew him only as James M. Thoburn, one of the missionaries in India, but now they knew him as a mighty prophet, with a world vision, and with a grasp of things far out of the ordinary.

From that time until his death, Thoburn was a conspicuous figure in Methodism; calls and invitations far beyond his ability to fill, poured in upon him from all over the church. He was the attraction at all the conferences, and missionary conventions; by his long, careful study of the fields, and the Spirit of God on him, he measured up to the highest expectations wherever he went. When he came to America, they conferred upon him the honors of the episcopacy.

Following his great victory at the Iowa Conference, the church budget being insufficient to carry forward the enlarged program for India, as the needs demanded, he went throughout the church and put the needs of India upon the conscience of the people, and thereby raised an extra $25,000 for the work in his chosen field. With these funds the work went forward with unusual success. Thoburn was a great organizer, and the large measure of success was due to the native workers he equipped. He also saw that it would require consecrated white women to break through the barriers of that land of harems and submerged womanhood; whereupon, he induced his sister, Isabella Thoburn, to give her life to India. The story of this woman's great work is like another chapter to the Acts of the Apostles.

Bishop Thoburn lived in Calcutta until 1896, and then changed to Bombay. When the Philippine Islands came under the protectorate of the United States his district was enlarged to take in that Island Empire. During the administration of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, the advice and counsel of Bishop Thoburn carried more weight than any other man, relative to many of the great international questions. Bishop Stuntz said of him: "In all he said and did, there was the prophetic note. He looked into the future; he looked at totals, not items. He sought the currents because he was not satisfied with the eddies." At the Laymen's Missionary Congress which met in Chicago, he was introduced by the chairman as "the greatest missionary statesman of this generation." At the Missionary General Conference which met in New Orleans in 1901, of the M. E. Church, South, Bishop Thoburn was an honored guest and speaker.

The New York Christian Advocate said of him editorially: "Without spectacular qualities, with no special gifts of dramatic eloquence; nevertheless by sheer force of spiritual endowments, breadth of sympathy and administrative skill, he won recognition in India and America, and the world, as perhaps the greatest missionary leader Methodism has ever produced." The Indian Witness, of which he was the editor for many years, gave this testimony: "Bishop Thoburn walked with God, not ahead of him, not behind him; but with him, in such familiar, joyous fellowship and service, that his aims and utterances were inspired. He knew the Lord, and knew His Word; he knew the human heart, and the only cure for sin, and spared no effort to make Christ known. The Living Christ was his favorite theme. 'It is not enough,' he declared, 'to proclaim the fact that Jesus rose from the dead; but to add to this the supreme assertion, that he who was dead and rose to life again, is still living; that he is King of the nations, the Savior of sinners, the helper of universal humanity.' This conviction characterized his whole life."

Bishop Thoburn wrote many valuable books; his first, "My Missionary Apprenticeship," a work which covered his experiences during the first twenty-five years on the field. Then followed "India and Malaysia," "The Deaconess and Her Work," "Light in the East," and "The Christless Nations." His last book published was: "The Church of Pentecost."

He married first to Mrs. Minerva Downey, in 1861, the widowed daughter of a missionary at Bareilly. There was one son born to this union, Crawford R. Thoburn, who became a prominent minister of the Methodist Church, and when he died in 1899, was the chancellor of the Portland, Ore., University. The wife died in a short time after the birth of this son, and the Bishop lived a widower until 1880, when he married the second time to Anna T. Jones, of Kingston, Ohio. Bishop Thoburn retired from active work in 1908, and lived in quietness and peace at Meadville, Pa., until his death, November 28, 1922, at the age of 87. He lived a saintly life and died as he lived, a saint of God.

"FOR THEIR SAKES."

Rev. Charles Milton Griffeth.

Text. John 17:19. And for their sakes I sanctify myself.

THE words of this text are a part of the greatest prayer that has ever been offered—the prayer of Jesus Christ in behalf of his followers.

And it is in this text that there stands revealed to us the great determined purpose of Jesus to offer himself a sacrifice in behalf of the redemption of the sinful world.

As we linger over his momentous utterance we are certain that Jesus is thinking of the vast multitude of the lost whose helpless and shepherdless condition so wrought upon his compassionate heart. It is for their sakes that he will sanctify himself.

Do we realize the extent of the sacrifice to which Christ was determined to go? By his use of the word "sanctify" Jesus meant to say that he might devote himself to this one thing—the acceptance of the horrible cross—"for their sakes."

Beneath the words of this heroic determination of Jesus Christ there is a basic fact upon which the Christian life and especially Christian service is founded, namely, that only in proportion as we consecrate ourselves unto God are we enabled to be a spiritual benefit to others. In other words, the more I am consecrated to God, the greater influence do I have for good over others who know me.

Ask thinking people who it is among the members of our church that impress them the most and who have the most influence over them for good and in whom they have the most confidence and they will all tell you that it is not Mr. Here Now-and-Then in whom they have confidence, it is not in Mrs. Come Once-in-a-While in whom they take any stock, but it is in old John Faithful.

Why old John Faithful?

Because he thinks enough of his church to sacrifice all his own desires of selfish ease, the Sunday paper, the comfortable chair, the radio which furnishes a modern excuse for an old-time habit of sinful negligence. Old John Faithful brushes all these aside, gets ready and comes to church on the same principle that his Master went to the Cross,—"For their sakes, I sanctify myself."

When Mr. Now-and-Then gets up to give a lengthy testimony, knowing people smile. When Mrs. Once-in-a-While offers an elaborate prayer they begin to watch the clock and wonder how soon she will be done. But when old John Faithful begins to thank God for salvation they begin to wish they could get the same joy out of religion that he does.

This sanctifying ourselves for the sake of others is like the sacrifice which is made by a keeper of a lighthouse out upon some submerged rocks, cut off from all the world by a surrounding sea. For such a light-keeper to maintain a light upon that dangerous place, to safeguard the lives of countless seamen he must forsake the comforts of a home, the pleasures of the town, the attractions of the world, and journey out across the waters to that isolated lonely tower. Such a light-keeper is a living illustration of the text, "For their sakes, I sanctify myself!"

In a similar way, for a Christian to be a faithful keeper of that particular Light which the Holy Spirit has lit in his own soul, and to be a safeguard of the souls of many others who pass by him, he must forsake the lure and call of the worldliness that surrounds him, and even in many cases the legitimate pleasures which are his right to enjoy, give up his desire for a longer rest in bed on Sunday morning, give up that pleasure trip off to see some relatives and to isolate himself within the lighthouse tower of his duty to his God.

There are some who have the impression that to sacrifice one's pleasures and to forsake worldliness is to narrow one's life.

A story is told of a certain student of art who fell asleep before the picture that he was painting. While he was thus asleep, the Master entered the studio and stood behind him and studied the half-finished picture on the canvas. He saw that the picture was marred by being cramped and so he took a crayon and wrote across the canvas the Latin word, "Amplius," meaning larger. When the student awoke, he saw the criticism of the Master and began the picture again in larger proportions.

A great many of our young people think that their lives filled as they are with worldly pleasures are large lives. Like the student they cannot realize how cramped they are. Such lives are lived for one narrow purpose, self-indulgence, the gratification of one's own sweet self.

It is only when one begins to live for others that his life begins to expand from the narrow confines of selfishness. "For their sakes" strikes at the root of that selfishness that like a child grabbing the playthings of life and refuses to lay them down in order to do serious tasks that lifts the lives of others.

And today what is it that we need more than anything else but sacrificial living? What we have today is selfish living. But what we need today is sacrificial living.

I ask you to look out upon the world in the midst of which you live, a world that is lost in the quagmire of negation and unbelief, a world deluged with selfish sinful pleasures that are sweeping away the structures which our parents by sacrificing toil and patience have erected for our safety and happiness, a world of which it may be said, "God is not in all their thoughts."

Should not a vision of the world, lost, move our hearts as it did the heart of Christ to compassion? Should not we in all earnestness and in all sincerity purpose, "for their sakes, to sanctify ourselves?"

A vision of the tragic condition of this world, lost in sin, should convince us that it is not right to live less than our best. If you are living at less than your best, you may be sure that some one else is living less than his best,—as a direct result of your inferior living. When you begin to let up you are directly or indirectly causing some one else to let up. When you become careless and indifferent you will be the means of another's becoming careless and indifferent.

An engine worming its way up the mountainous grade with its long string of cars cannot slow up without slowing up the whole train. Each and every car in that train will feel the easing up of the pull from the engine. Behind you is someone else, if not several, who have been pulled up the grade toward a better life through the power of your influence.

Begin to slow up and these who have been drawn to a higher grade will begin to slow up and never, in fact, attain any higher level than that to which the power of your influence will pull them. And when you begin to stop your speaking about spiritual things, they will begin to stop thinking about spiritual things. When you begin to stop your testifying, they will suffer the loss of the inspiration which they get from it. When you stop your praying, they no longer get the help which came from the radiancy which shone on your face.

A case in point came to my observation when a backsliding Christian was reclaimed. He was a foreman in the coal mines and his renewed interest in salvation was so strong that he carried his Bible to work with him in his hip pocket as he went down into the mines. Now his wife was but a mere church member. She was living less than her best—far less. Instead of taking advantage of her husband's renewed interest in religion and encouraging him by coming to church with him, she was careless, indifferent, unconcerned, with the result that he became discouraged, disheartened, and went back to drinking. Instead of the Bible he now carried the flask, instead of the family prayer, there was now quarreling and fighting in the home. I have often thought of the foolishness of that woman. She has no one to blame for her present unhappy home but her own negligent self. Her neglect was more than foolish, it was sinful. What a different story could have been told had she the purpose of the Christ, "For their sakes I sanctify myself."

Oh, think of the blessed results of sacrificial living! Think what it means for others when we live for their sakes!

Think of that precious soul, in your own family perhaps, that by your sacrificial living will be safeguarded while passing over slippery places! Think of the contribution which you can make toward the happiness, the joy, the peace, and the victory which serious souls crave to possess and to enjoy! From your sacrificial living they will be encouraged to mount above their discouragements. From your sacrificial living they will be inspired to live at their best.

Oh, how my heart leaps as I think of it! How well the words of Paul describe the blessed result of sacrificial living, "Being poor," he declares, "yet making many rich."

At one time there was a very saintly man, a preacher, who by his sacrificial living was the means of the increasing enrichment of

Is Evolution An Established Fact?

Dr. A. P. Gouthey.

No. IV. PART II.

THE following facts taken from the Literary Digest for April 21, 1923, are significant:

"Ignorance of the Bible is often astounding, and a most flagrant instance is reported of a body of students of the University of North Dakota. Eight quotations from the Bible were asked of 139 students, we are told, and only eight and one-half percent of the students passed an average of seventy-five percent, the average for the whole body being less than forty percent. As analyzed by The Watchman-Examiner (Baptist) from an article in the Journal of Education by Professor Vernon P. Squires, the examination figures show that

"Seven percent could not name a book of the Old Testament, and less than fifty percent could give ten books of the Old Testament. And some doubt as to this is caused by the spelling of some of the books, such as 'Deuteromy', Deuteromoty, Deuteromeny, Goshua, Salms, Nehimiah, Joob, Jobe. Fourteen name 'Hezekiah' as one of the Books of Moses.

"Among original ideas were the mentioning of Old Testament books, 'Paul', 'Timothy', 'Titus', '1 and 2 Romans', 'Philistines' and 'Xerxes'. The answers in regard to the New Testament were still more unsatisfactory. Twelve—eight and one-half percent—were unable to mention a single book; only forty-six—thirty-three and one-third percent—mentioned ten, as requested. Five put Samuel in the New Testament, three the Psalms, three Ruth, and two Esther. One mentioned '1 and 2 Judges'. Seventeen mentioned 'Paul' or St. Paul, or Paul's. Three suggested Simon, two Jacob. There was the mention of Thelesians, Phillipi, Thomas, Lazarus, and Samson Agonistes."

"We are weighed and found wanting."

Also the following taken from the Associated Press News under date of October 18:

"Lack of religious knowledge among high school and college students, evil influences affecting children by virtue of modern ideals and apparent lack of proper environment in many homes were deplored by Rev. C. A. Wendell, instructor in the Minneapolis Lutheran University, in an address before the seventeenth annual conferences of the association of English churches of the Augustana Synod of North America. The conference closed a four-day session here today."

Rev. Wendell stated results of a test, conducted among thirty-nine high school students, revealed that:

"Two said that Adam built the Ark, one declared Eve was the mother of God; three believed the Ten Commandments were given on the Mount of Olives, seven asserted Jerusalem is in Egypt, and six said the prodigal son failed to return to his father."

Also the following taken from The Literary Digest for December 2, 1922, under the caption "Woman Losing God at College." The Digest is quoting from Mary Briarly's "In His Own Image":

"The modern university knows but one god, the scientific spirit, and teaches that 'evolution is a fact and God a possibility'."

"These conclusions were reached by the writer during a study of the psychological effects of certain tendencies in modern university training. Mary Briarly, we are told in a biographical note, is the pseudonym of an author living in Salt Lake City, the wife of a well-known judge. She first began studying the educational problem in the interests of her three children, the youngest of whom has completed her sophomore year in college, and has helped to verify some of her mother's data. Science, continues the writer, is striving to explain all spiritual cravings, love, reverence, friendship—all human tenderness—in terms of physical reaction, so that "every human longing, from the desire for immortality to the mother's love for her child, has been classed as either self-preservation or sex. Judged by its effect on the undergraduate student, the modern college course is an almost continuous propaganda for materialism. Here and there some professor who still believes he has a soul tries to reconcile Darwinism with a Creator, or mechanistic psychology with immortality. But the usual academic dictum is that the relating of these theories to religion and character must be left to the individual." And the consequence:

"The majority of college graduates take the easy course of leaving such problems unsolved. They begin life strongly tinged with materialism, not knowing what they believe as to the existence of God or as to what moral teachings are really obligatory. And despite the popular depreciation of the modern home, statistics would reveal that a large percentage of these students entered college with a more or less definite religious creed of some kind, and with very definite moral ideals—whether they lived up to them or not.

Youth, it is asserted, has been taught that adaptation to environment is man's highest law; and woman is being instructed that "there is no god to protect her; that no righteousness on her part can help her; she must control environment or be controlled according to Nature's law." And in a last analysis, says the writer, "this is merely the law of the jungle energized by human intelligence." As she views it, then, it is a case of man's materialistic concepts overriding woman's religious and emotional instincts, leaving her to "follow her primitive impulses armored with the full panoply of science." Adaptation to environment has become the keynote of living. Conscience has been taught to be a delusion, and obligation to God is being replaced by a "species of noblesse oblige. . . . The church is a refinery agency, the family the most practical method of caring for children so far devised, no existing human institution is conceded any quality of permanence. For better or worse, education is discarding both authority and the spiritual."

With authority in the discard how shall we hope to have regard for law? Are not we getting exactly what we might look for? Some of us think so, and we trace responsibility to the same source as does Mary Briarly and a host of other deep and serious thinkers.

The Associated Press is just now running a questionnaire concerning these matters, and I doubt not but that we shall be told that a great majority answering the question, "Do you believe in God" answered in the affirmative. But what kind of a god? The answer to this question is the important answer. Unless it be the God of the Bible, and belief in him go deep enough to grip and hold the conscience, belief even in the true God is of no value whatever as regards the matters with which we are dealing. And this is the thought with which we close the discussion.

It is impossible to enforce law except back of law we have authority. A revival of religion which will put God into the American conscience and consciousness is the most urgent need of the hour. The government itself could well afford to set aside large sums of money for such evangelism. Money thus appropriated would bring the largest returns of any appropriation now being considered by Congress. The government is responsible for this Christian nation. The decision of the Supreme Court necessarily implies this. The government must do something about the growth of materialism in any tax-supported institutions which are the very cornerstone of our national life, or be false to the highest ideals of the Fathers who gave their very life to bring forth this government "conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are equal" in the sense of having the right to pursue happiness, home-building, business and the rearing of families in the most wholesome atmosphere possible.

If the present attitude of lawlessness continues neither life nor property, nor liberty will be guaranteed to any of us.

The slogan of "my personal rights" will become the battle-cry of the selfish mob who have been educated in the materialistic philosophy that desire fulfilled is the only true religion; failure to get what we want the only hell, and evolved man the only deity.

There is no such thing as "personal rights" when the highest good of the group is involved, and this question of keeping God in the conscience of the Nation in order that law, order, and religion may be maintained involves the highest good of the group, therefore it is a question to be dealt with by way of the altar of prayer, the public school, and legislature. Congress and State Legislatures may not "pass the buck" to the church, and the church may not "pass the buck" to legislature, but both must recognize the responsibility and work out the problem. Ministers who will not be true to the Bible as the authoritative word of God must be made to go. Schoolteachers who will not be true to the Christian principles of our government must be dismissed. Politicians who play with our sacred ideals must be sent to the brush by voters who love God more than party, and the fundamental thing of government more than power. Tax-payers, who make our institutions possible, must be made to understand that these institutions are ours to preserve, and not the playthings of pseudo-scientists who seem to have little to do only protect their "academic freedom" even though it damn our youth, and destroy the government.

The question is: Are we brave enough to put this program into action, or will we stand idly by and witness the wreck of western Civilization? The next few years will tell.

THE PRICELESS GIFT.

DR. L. R. AKERS, President Asbury College.

HE Book of Acts has well been called, "The Gospel of the Holy Spirit," for here, as in no other place in God's Word, is recorded the transforming power that comes to believers who have received the gift of the Holy Spirit. We are impressed with the frequency of the emphasis placed upon his coming throughout this marvelous narrative of the early church. In fact, the dominant question asked the early church seemed to be, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed?" This question is made in a frank, matter-of-fact way, in expectation of a direct answer.

One cannot read this Book of Acts without being impressed by its definiteness. It is not a book of theories. It is a record of facts. The early Christians recognized the gift of the Holy Spirit as an essential part of the Christian experience, not to be received in a vague and uncertain way, but as a matter of definite consciousness and at all times susceptible of proof. To appreciate this primitive conception and the apostolic clearness of the blessing above mentioned, let us note this threefold truth. First, the gift of the Holy Spirit is a distinct and real blessing, instantaneously given subsequent to the work of regeneration, and is easily and clearly known. Second, this gift of the Holy Spirit was generally bestowed upon the disciples of the early Church. Third, the same gift of the Holy Spirit is the privilege of every believer today and is absolutely essential for the fullest accomplishment of Christian service.

It is as truly sad as it is sadly true, that at the present time a large portion of the Christian church has taken the Pentecostal story, embalmed it, and placed it among the dead, while in almost every church there is an occasional prayer for the presence of the Holy Spirit, or less frequently, for the baptism of the Holy Spirit, yet even while the prayer is made the simple conditions that would bring about such an answer are utterly ignored.

Referring again to the first phase of this triple blessing, let us affirm that the gift of the Holy Spirit is a distinct and real blessing, instantaneously given subsequent to the work of regeneration, and easily and clearly known. We hear often the objection made to the term, "second blessing" because it is unscriptural. Whether we like this term or not, the fact remains, and it is undeniable, that there is a second blessing promised to every believer and that second blessing is the gift of the Holy Spirit. In this gift lies the real power for fruitful service and for vigorous spiritual growth. To receive this gift, or this experience, changes the life of the disciple from a more or less unsettled, and up-and-down state, to a steady and continuously joyful life. In the Spirit-filled life every service rendered, every word spoken, every sacrifice made, becomes a joy where before it may have been a cross. This experience is quite distinct in its purpose and in the results that follow. A person may be converted or regenerated and yet know nothing of the baptism of the Holy Spirit. This experience of purity, or of entire sanctification, is a tangible fact, an experience of which the receiver is as conscious as he is of his own existence. It is an event to be spoken of in unequivocal terms. Men did not simply hope or trust that they had received the Holy Spirit. The language of the Scripture is clear-cut that the outpouring of the Spirit was a clearly discernible fact. When they received it, they knew it and they could tell about it. In the case of the Ephesian disciples, the outpouring of the Spirit was described in terms as plain as those which recorded the baptism with water. There was nothing inexpressible or intangible or uncertain about this definite endowment of new power producing definite results. Previous to Pentecost we note the apostles and other disciples waiting and praying. They undertook no Christian service except the transaction of some incidental matters of business. They did not even attempt to preach the Gospel. Why? Was it because of discouragement, or depression? Not at all. It was because Jesus had said unto them, "Tarry ye in Jerusalem until ye be clothed with power from on high." After Pentecost, however, they went forth by unanimous consent to the work of proclaiming the Gospel to the world. They had received the power for which they had been waiting. Now for the first time they were fitted to work effectively. Note again the reality of the gift of the Holy Spirit in the account of the preaching of the Gospel in Samaria: "When the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the Word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John; who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost for as yet he was fallen upon none of them, only they had been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. Then they laid their hands on them and they received the Holy Ghost." Let it be borne in mind concerning this experience that it is no mere exaltation of feeling, of deep stirring of the emotions, or simply a blessing, but it is a distinct work of grace, an actual gift of power from above.

The popular notion that a disciple may grow into this experience is without foundation in the Scriptures. One may grow in grace, but not into grace. Growth in grace is a matter quite distinct from the baptism of the Holy Spirit. That gift never comes in the way of imperceptible growth. In every instance where this experience is recorded there is an immediate, sensible reception of divine power producing in the receiver unspeakable joy and a vastly increased efficiency,—yes, a holy, new efficiency in Christian service.

We have no case on record where this gift came as a result of gradual growth, but invariably those who received it were presented with unmistakable tokens, evidencing its reception, as for example the sound of a rushing, mighty wind, or in another place the record of the place being shaken wherein they were gathered together and the immediate infilling of the Holy Spirit resulting in the preaching of the Word of God with boldness. And yet again the record that "they of the circumcision which believed were amazed as many as came with Peter because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Spirit for they heard them speak with tongues and magnify God. It is then apparent that the results of this work of the Holy Spirit are to be determined to a great extent by the needs of those who receive it. We should therefore carefully distinguish between the essential elements of the gift and those things which are merely incidental.

From a careful study of Christ's promises and the record of their fulfillment we discover five essential elements in this gift of the Holy Spirit. First, light. Second, power. Third, cleansing. Fourth, courage. Fifth, joy. The gift of the Holy Spirit is designed to bring to the disciple divine illumination of mind that he may discern and rightly divide the word of truth. Again, it brings to him new power to prevail with God and with man. There is also the cleansing of the heart from sin, the courage to serve the Master under any and all circumstances, and a new joy in Christian life and service. These all came to the apostles and they came at once. After Pentecost you hear of no denials like that of Peter, no desertions from the standard, no false teachings from those who had received the Spirit, no sinful courses of action in the ranks of the apostles, no striving as to who should be the greatest, but everywhere the hot-headed sons of Zebedee, impulsive Peter, and Paul, the fierce Pharisee, alike displayed a meek and Christlike spirit, forgetting selfish ambition, losing all fear for personal safety or comfort in their deathless zeal to proclaim the unsearchable riches of the gospel of Christ.

Let us note again that this gift of the Holy Spirit was universally bestowed upon the disciples of the early church. Quite contrary to the commonly accepted view that this experience is for the chosen few, the fact remains that the gift was everywhere received with evidences of great joy. Peter in preaching to the multitudes said, "Repent ye and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." Following this, there is the record of the bestowal of the gift upon the disciples in Samaria and the little band at Ephesus, and upon Paul and Cornelius, so that it would be impossible to avoid the conclusion that every true disciple of that day received the baptism of the Holy Spirit.

This brings us then to our third and concluding point, namely, that this same gift of the Holy Spirit is the privilege of every believer today and is absolutely essential for service. The promises sustaining this point are varied and not limited to any special class of disciples nor to any particular age. They were freely given and apply as truly to the disciples of today as to those whom Christ addressed in person. What could be more general or far-reaching than the promise, "If ye then being evil know how to give good gifts unto your children how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?" Or than this promise: "He shall give you another comforter that he may be with you forever?" Peter positively declares the perpetuity of this gift when he said to the multitude assembled in Jerusalem, "To you is the promise and to your children and to all that are afar off even as many as the Lord, our God, shall call unto him."

That this gift has been and is being received by a large number of men at this present time cannot be gainsaid. It is the testimony of evangelists, pastors and Christian workers in all parts of the world today. The great Finney of the last generation clearly testified to the baptism with the Spirit. John and Charles Wesley emphasized this in their preaching and living. Equally clear and explicit is the declaration of the late Rev. A. J. Gordon. Dwight L. Moody attributed his success to the baptism of the Spirit which he received after he had been a recognized Christian for a number of years. In the so-called Holiness Movement today there are such outstanding preachers as Joseph Smith, Henry Clay Morrison, C. W. Ruth and a vast army of others who clearly and definitely testify and experience this heaven-sent experience of purity and power. In the mouth of many witnesses shall not the truth be established?

Let us then recognize the indubitable fact that if we would put on the whole armor of God, if we would be at our best in Christian service, if we would carry a message convincing, compelling and comforting, we must experience first the indwelling presence of him who cleanses from all sin and who gives us unmistakable power from on high.

How then shall we obtain this priceless gift? What was the first condition fulfilled by those who received the blessing at Pentecost? "Prayer," says one. "Faith," says another. "Eager desire," says a third. But there was something that went before any of these that must come first in the life of every one who would receive spiritual power. That is self-surrender. Let us remember the com-

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Fundamentalist Association will hold its regular annual business session at Wilmore, Ky., sometime during the Asbury Commencement for the election of officers for the ensuing year. The Association is an independent organization, in no sense officially connected with Asbury College, but has its National Headquarters at Wilmore. All Fundamentalists of whatever church or institution are invited to become members. If one believes in the Inspiration of the Bible, the Genesis account of creation, the Virgin Birth, the atonement, the Deity and the Resurrection of Jesus Christ and is opposed to modernism and the unfounded theory of the evolution of man from the lower animals, he is eligible to membership in the Fundamentalist Association. The membership fee is only one dollar per year. Send name and this amount to Miss Amy Person, Secretary, Wilmore, Ky. All true evangelical, orthodox Christians ought to line up with the Association in its fight against the modernists who are trying to undermine the faith of our fathers.

Andrew Johnson, Pres.

P. S. Our new book entitled, "Facts For Fundamentalists," will soon be out. It will be good campaign thunder in the fight against Evolution.

A TABERNACLE IN THE MOUNTAINS.

The Bible speaks something to the effect that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains and shall be exalted above the hills. (Isa. 2:2). While this is general and refers to the last or millennial days, we come now to speak of a local condition in the present day. We conducted a tent meeting on Terrill's Creek in the mountains of old Kentucky last Fall, at which time we made plans to build a Tabernacle on one of the hills overlooking the Terrill's Creek Valley. It is located at the junction of three mountain counties—Clay, Jackson and Laurel. The Tabernacle, when completed, can be seen far and near from hillside and valley. It will mean the greatest blessing that could possibly come to the mountain people who, on account of bad roads, have been deprived of many advantages, privileges and opportunities. Last year during the entire revival there was only one automobile seen on the grounds. Good roads will soon come to this community, but before the roads reach the people we want the Gospel Tabernacle to appear on the hilltop where it can stand as a light-house for hundreds of Kentucky's most loyal, patriotic, but to a great extent, unfavored citizens.

About one mile from where we are going to locate the Tabernacle the writer first saw the light of day. He is proud of the fact that he was born in the rugged regions of the dear old Kentucky mountains. As a barefoot boy he roamed up and down the old Terrill's Creek road, plowed corn, mowed grass, stacked hay, hauled wood, maled rails, drove cattle, fed hogs, cleared new ground, cut weeds, milked cows, played in the merry green fields, chased the chipmunk and the gold-winged butterfly and studied reading, writing and arithmetic, taught to the tune of the hickory stick.

People have subscribed about one thousand dollars for the Tabernacle. We are going to hold a three-days' rally, May 6-8, and organize a committee, perfect plans and start the work. Remember it takes grit, grace and greenback to carry on God's work.

Andrew Johnson, Evangelist.

FIELD GLEANINGS.

Our first meeting of this assembly year was with Rev. Haughtaling, Nashville, Mich. This was a good meeting in many ways, some earnest seekers who got through in the old-fashion way. This meeting was well represented from Hastings and other towns.

Our next battle was fought with Rev. Ralph Beaulieu, Elgin, Ill., where a modern ministry has been performed. A short time ago, Bro. Baurele went into that city of over thirty thousand people with a tent, stayed on the job until today they have a thirty-thousand dollar property in the central part of the city; not a large membership, but the most encouraged crowd you ever saw. We held noonday meetings at the Elgin Watch factory where they have four thousand employees, at the clock factory, watch-case factory, and thread factory. Had fine services in the church building with seekers and happy finders. Elgin will soon be a strong church.

We next joined Rev. W. L. Brown at Kewanee, Ill. Bro. Brown is a fine man in that needy field, has a splendid wife to labor with him and a good work is coming along there.

We then made our way to St. Bernice, Ind., where Rev. Harry Carter is the splendid pastor. We had an old-fashion revival from the start. We had conducted a revival here some months before and apparently took it up just where we had closed the previous meeting. A burden of prayer came on the saints, conviction settled on the people, splendid altar services followed. It was a common thing to be called out in the night hours to pray with folk who could not sleep and would call for help. What an inspiration to thus pray with folk who had never been saved. Thanksgiving Day we had twelve preachers on the platform and a full house. It was a great day in St. Bernice. A splendid class was taken into the church. The last Sunday morning we took an offering for the indebtedness on the church property which was $4,500; without any fixed plans or stated amounts promised, $5,000 was raised, fifteen hundred of that amount coming from the outside. About fifty got through to victory in the meeting.

North Side, Indianapolis, where Mrs. C. W. and Miss E. W. Jay are the pastors, was our next meeting. We certainly enjoyed working with these sisters. Professor G. S. Harter officiated at the piano; the meeting was well attended and the services highly spiritual. More than sixty bowed at the altar. Our Sunday afternoon services were well attended by the Nazarenes from throughout the city and were spiritual feasts.

REVIVAL NOTES.

We have held several meetings since we reported last, the first with the Nazarene Church at Mohall, N. Dak. It was during the month of January, the coldest part of the winter, in the coldest part of the United States, near the Canadian border. The thermometer went down to 35 degrees below zero and was stormy most of the time. On this account the attendance was never very large, but the Lord gave us a good meeting. Rev. H. E. Titterton, the good pastor, has a fine class of young people in his church, a number of school teachers among them. There are some good singers and musicians, and it was a delight to hear them sing. Quite a number of young folk prayed through during the revival and the church was greatly benefited.

Our next meeting was with Pastor Hegstad, of the Church of the Nazarene, at Mandan, N. Dak. Bro. Hegstad is doing good work in this city and has some wonderful people who love God and sacrifice to keep things going. Our district superintendent, E. E. Wordsworth, had preceded us in a two-weeks' meeting at this place. Bro. Wordsworth is a great booster and inspirational preacher and the revival was on when we got there. Evangelists, pastors and laymen alike, love Bro. Wordsworth. He is a big brother to all of them and we believe he is God's man for the place. God gave us a good meeting with good attendance, and souls praying through to victory. Bro. Hegstad is planning on putting on a campaign just across the Missouri River at Bismark, N. Dak. Pray for this good man that God will give him souls during the campaign.

Our next meeting was at Ellendale, N. Dak., preceding and going into the Annual District Preachers' Convention of the Minneapolis District. We had a fine time, a gracious spirit prevailed, and the revival was in good swing when the various delegates and pastors arrived. It was a great gathering and God's presence was manifested in all the sessions. Bro. E. E. Wordsworth presided to the delight of all, and Dr. J. B. Chapman's lectures and sermons will never be forgotten. It was the great privilege of the writer to bring both the opening and closing messages of the Convention and the closing altar service was blessed with souls praying through to victory. Rev. Herman Lintz and wife are the pastors at Ellendale. They are spiritual, congenial, and have the confidence of the people.

At this writing we are in a meeting out from Claire City, S. Dak., with Rev. O. E. Marsh, pastor. Remember us in prayer.

HARRY S. ALLEN REPORTS.

I am now in a tent meeting in this growing Florida city of four thousand people and God is giving us a great victory. We spent March at Dixiana, Ala., and Bowling Green, Fla.

At Dixiana, Ala., Rev. S. R. Lester is pastor of the Methodist Church. He is a most remarkable man; though seventy-six years old he is more active in looking after the interests of the church than many pastors in their forties. He has served for over forty years in the North Alabama Conference. He has been presiding elder and has filled some of the important stations of his conference. He has never taken a chew of tobacco, smoked a pipe, cigar, or cigarette in his life. Has never drank a bottle of Coca Cola or a glass of soda water, has never seen a game of professional or college football, baseball, or a moving picture. Has never played a game of cards, or tasted whiskey, or cursed an oath. Has never been on a Sunday train but twice and that was when going to the bedside of some one supposed to be dying; does not drink tea or coffee and numerous other things that make him a truly remarkable man indeed. He has never started a service late a minute in forty-eight years of his ministry. He even began a funeral service at the hour announced before the corpse had been brought in. What a lesson for promptness to every preacher. He has fine terminal facilities as well as his promptness for starting. He will stop short in his sermon if the hour has arrived for the end of the service. Truly he is a wonder in this age, of doing things in a loose, haphazard way. He magnifies God's work and puts first things first. It is no wonder God has blessed him through his ministry and continues to bless him, though he is in his ministry where many men his age have long ago laid aside the active duties of the itinerancy.

The revival we held with him was wonderful in many respects. The Baptist pastor, Bro. Jones, and his people dismissed all their services and attended and assisted in every way possible.

About as many people were converted and united with the Baptist as with the Methodist Church. Wherever a spirit of co-operation can be had of this kind God always blesses and gives success. The first Sunday the revival started the town deputy sheriff was called from the congregation to arrest a young man who was drunk and causing a disturbance in the negro part of the town. He was carried to Birmingham and lodged in jail. The Judge released him on the promise he would attend the revival services. He was brightly converted and joined the church. He was separated from his wife and sin had just about wrecked his life. The result of his conversion was, his wife came back to him and they set up a family altar and started a Christian home. Nothing but the mighty power of God can change a life like that. He was only one of the hundred or more saved and blessed during the revival. Scores were baptized and received into the churches of the city.

Possibly the most remarkable revival I have held this year was the tent meeting at Bowling Green, Florida. Here, as at Dixiana, the co-operation given by the other churches was beautiful. Bro. Judah, the Baptist pastor, dismissed all his services and was present at nearly every service under the big tent to pray and do personal work, and God mightily saved and blessed his people, about forty joining the Baptist Church and over sixty uniting with the Methodist Church during the revival. People attended for miles around in the country districts and the large tent at times would not hold the people who crowded around on the outside.

We have never worked with a sweeter spirited man than the pastor of the Methodist Church, Rev. J. L. Bourn, and much of the success of the revival is due to the fact that he had made such splendid preparation for the campaign in advance.

From Wildwood, Fla., we go to LaBelle, Fla., for a tent meeting, then to Williston, Fla., following with meetings in Georgia, Kentucky, Virginia, Texas, and Mississippi. My permanent address is Route 1, Macon, Ga. I have a few open dates for the summer and fall, if any of the brethren wish to write me relative to revival work. I prefer to hold union meetings under a tabernacle or my big tent.

THE PRICELESS GIFT.

mand, "Tarry ye here in Jerusalem until ye receive power" and they obeyed.

"Theirs not to reason why, Theirs not to make reply."

Obedience is the keyword to every victorious life, yet how rare it is to find an unquestioned obedience. The "Here am I" of Abraham in the Old Testament and the "Not my will but thine be done" of Christ in the New Testament furnish us supreme examples of this prerequisite to spiritual success.

The gift of the Holy Spirit involves a great deal in the way of personal consecration, a great deal in the way of self-sacrifice, a great deal in the way of arduous service. It is not simply an ecstasy to be enjoyed; it is a power to be used. To the early Christians this meant persecution, suffering and death. To us it means no easy-going, comfortable life of fashionable religion, but real devotion that may call us into very uncongenial surroundings, that may overturn all our plans of life, that may upset our most cherished ideals. Are you ready for this? For everything worth while an adequate price must be paid. In this supreme spiritual achievement that price is the abrogation of the human will and the complete dominance of the divine will. This transaction, however, is invariably "the step without regrets."

What would the result be were the Christian Church willing to tarry until the new Pentecost comes? Columbus discovered a new world. Greater than this would be the result of the church's waiting before God. The morning stars would sing together and the angelic hosts would shout aloud with rapturous joy over a new-born world in which the Prince of Peace becomes the acknowledged sovereign of men's hearts, and the nations of the world would join in the glad refrain,

"All hail the power of Jesus' name,
Let angels prostrate fall.
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown him Lord of all!"

saloon. They feel, and rightly so, that prohibition has been one of the most helpful, uplifting forward movements in the progress of our nation in all of its history. They feel that one of the greatest calamities that could possibly befall us, would be to replace King Alcohol upon his throne of disease, crime and the wreck and ruin of humanity.

There is a feeling among the better element of our citizens that we should have a president of such high ideals, such reverence for God, such love for humanity, and such strong conviction with reference to drunkenness and the train of evils it carries with it, that he must not only be a believer in the prohibition of the liquor traffic, but he must with strong conviction and determination, insist on the enforcement of law, and the punishment of all that criminal class who have insisted upon trampling upon the Constitution, in their effort to ignore all laws prohibiting the liquor traffic. There are millions of Christian men and women in the southland who fear God, keep his commandments and love humanity, who will never vote for any man with sentiments and a record in sympathy with the bar-room, the people who advocate it, and the ruin it has always wrought among human beings.

There is another objection that will be brought against you, whether it be properly so or not, nevertheless, it is inevitable, and that is, that you are a Roman Catholic. I absolutely deny any charge that may be brought against me of intolerance and personal prejudice. I have too many loving friends who are Roman Catholics, to be for one moment guilty of having any personal hatred for people who are members of that church. But as you well know, it is very generally claimed among Protestant people that the Roman Catholic church, in addition to being a church, is also a powerful political organization, and that this organization is under control and operation of the hierarchy in Rome. Whether it be true or not, many people in this country believe and will insist that with members of the Catholic Church the will of the pope is supreme.

We have many citizens in every part of the country who insist that the domination of the church at Rome is largely responsible for the illiteracy, poverty and lack of progress found in Mexico, Cuba, and the Philippine Islands. They contend that for hundreds of years the Roman Catholic Church has had the people in their educational and religious interests almost completely under their control, and that conditions there do not reflect credit upon the influence of the church. Whether these are facts or not, they will all be brought up as an objection to placing this country under the influences of the hierarchy at Rome, Italy. I have no doubt that many unreasonable and radical charges will be made, but your opponents will hark back to the Dark Ages, to St. Bartholomew, to the Reign of Terror in France, to the decline of Spain, to unsettled conditions in South America; all of this will be brought into the campaign in a way to provoke unpleasant and hurtful discussion and contention among our fellow citizens in every part of the nation.

Your nomination would furnish an excuse for the organization of Ku Klux Klans everywhere, and would bring on a situation between that organization and the Knights of Columbus which would certainly be most unfortunate. In view of these facts, it is to be profoundly hoped that the coming Democratic Convention will not nominate a man for the Presidency whose nomination would rend this country with a spirit of strife and animosity that has not been known since the days of our great Civil War.

Begging your pardon for any annoyance this letter may give you, I wish to say that I shall ever admire the energy, and endeavor that have lifted you to your high position, and if you should ever be elected President of the nation, I will be a true and loyal citizen and remember you at a throne of grace in prayer.

Respectfully yours,
H. C. MORRISON.

They Cannot Do Better.

I see that Ex-Governor, Ex-United States Senator Beckham has announced himself as a candidate for Democratic Nominee for Governor of Kentucky. I think the other candidates had as well withdraw from the race. Now let the Republicans put up the very best man they have and we shall have a decent campaign and a good Governor. I wanted Judge Quinn for the Republican candidate, as I said some months ago, but he writes me he will not be a candidate; he has all the qualities of a good Governor. I judge Commissioner Lucas, Republican candidate, is a fine man and in every way worthy and well qualified.

FRIENDS OF THE FRIENDLESS

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

It was George S. Hilliard who said that "Books were the friends of the friendless," and he made use of no extravagant statement when he uttered these words, for when we come to consider the matter, we are forced to exclaim, "Thou hast well said."

Another has truthfully said that perhaps no other things have such power to lift the poor out of poverty, the wretched out of misery, to make the burden bearer forget his burden, the sick his suffering, as books. This being true, we can easily see how they can be the friend of the friendless in comforting in times of despondency, supporting us in solitude and keep us from being a burden to ourselves.

We are frank to say that we do not believe there is a single point at which the highest and most lasting interests of children are neglected, than in the matter of providing the proper kind of literature for their entertainment and development. Parents are in the habit of getting those things which the uncultured and uneducated whims of their children desire, instead of placing before them that which they, in their judgment, know they need. You say, well my children do not have any taste for reading, and it does no good to buy books and papers, all of which may be true, but there is such a thing as teaching children to love to read, just as you teach them anything else. Take time to read to your children, calling their attention to the striking parts of the story and arouse an interest in what otherwise they would not see. We do not think it unwise to offer inducements to get children to read. If you can pay them to read long enough they will get into the habit, and when once fixed, you have brought to your child, that which will mean incalculable good, provided you select the right kind of books. There is another advantage you have in reading to, and with, your children; you can decide what they shall read, and thus while they are learning the habit, you are shaping their tastes in selecting their books and papers.

Just to say you have read books, is not all; it were better to have never learned a letter than to be switched off on that which is full of poison to mind and soul; therefore, we would emphasize the importance of parents keeping an eye on the literature that lies upon their tables and rests upon their shelves. Nothing truer was ever stated than that some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested. This being the case, the parents should discriminate between the questionable and the safe, and when an unreliable book is found, discard it at once ere it contaminates the good seed which may have been sown.

Do not be anxious to have a large variety of books, but be careful to select the most wholesome and helpful. A man of experience once remarked that all the books necessary to a liberal education could be placed on a four-foot shelf. It is not the quantity, but the quality that must be looked after; one book may change the whole trend of a child's life. Robert E. Speer said one of Bushnell's books falling into his hands suggested a line of thought regarding Christian evidences which had been the controlling principle of thought ever since.

It is not mere chance that we have the leaders in the great world movements of today; back in the days of long ago, influences were brought to bear upon their minds and hearts which are now blooming out in the glorious fullness of developed impressions received from quiet hours spent with master minds, whose inspiration caught the clinging tendrils of childish thought and today they shine before the world as giants of intellect and heroism. On the other hand, there are multitudes of criminals who date their fall to the fact that they received their ideas of daring, desperado exploits from the concocted schemes laid in yellow-back novels and other books they were ashamed for their mothers to catch them reading. Boys and girls, beware of a book you have to hide when your mother or father comes around. "There is death in the pot" and you had better flee from it as you would a viper. This is where parental responsibility can wield its most powerful influence, in directing the mind of the child. This will determine whether the habit of reading will prove a blessing or a curse. You can very easily determine what kind of minds are in a home, by noticing what kind of books are lying on the table, and the kind of papers that come to the home week after week. Often we hear people say, we cannot afford to take a paper, when they throw away on trash and foolishness, ten times more than the paper would cost. What is the result? The foolish whims are gratified, the appetite for unwholesome things cultivated, and the mind starved and dwarfed until the capacity for appreciating the high and good, if cultivated, is buried beneath the debris of abnormal and sinful proclivities which have been gratified in preference to the highest and best.

Give your boy or girl a good book instead of some foolish thing that will perish with the using and no lasting benefit will remain. It is always a bad indication when a good book fails to be appreciated. Can you not see the reason why? There is a vacuum that has been filled with something else besides that which contributes to intellectual development and culture. Of all poverty, the spiritual excepted, to be most dreaded, that of the mind is paramount. It were far better to have no money in the bank, than to have no ideas in the head. It is no wonder the wisest of men said, "Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding; for the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold. She is more precious than rubies, and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared with her."

others. In speaking of him one man asked of another, "How is it," he inquired, "that Bramwell always tells us so much that is new?"

"Bro. Bramwell," replied the other man, "lives so near to the gates of heaven that he hears a great many things which the rest of us do not get near enough to hear."

In the remark of this man concerning Bramwell, we have revealed to us the fact that sacrificial living not only enriches the lives of others but it also enriches the life of him who lives for others. Bro. Bramwell's own life was the one that was first enriched with the things that were newly revealed from heaven.

It was through his sacrifice for us on the cross that Jesus found himself to be greatly enriched by joy. As the Scripture declares, "Who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross." To live at your best for others cannot help but be enriching to one's own self, for to live at our best for others will mean to stop squandering our time on the empty things of life and to devote ourselves to the best in pleasure, the best in associations, the best in reading, the best in speaking and the best in our own secret thinking.

In this determined purpose of Jesus Christ, he has set for us an example that challenges the heroic in our manhood. In embracing the horrors of the cross for the sake of others, he appeals to us to embrace for others' sake the cross of sacrificial living.

Shall we not then, following the example given us by our Master, with a shout of Christian triumph, and with a heart burning with a passion for the salvation of the world, and with a spirit on fire to lift that precious soul whom we love, shall we not so dedicate the remainder of our lives to Christ and in sincere consecration pray:

Forth in thy name, O Lord, I go,

My daily labor to pursue,
Thee, only thee, resolved to know,

In all I think, or speak or do.

For thee delightfully employ

Whate'er thy bounteous grace hath given,
And run my course with even joy,

And closely walk with thee to heaven!

"RAISED WITH CHRIST."

CHAS. M. KELLY.

"In time past ye walked according to the course of this world . . . and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others. But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ . . . that in the ages to come he might show the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus." Eph. 2:1-7.

Hundreds of Easter Sundays have come and gone. Another has just passed. What does Easter mean to you? To the world at large, and to many professed Christians, it means little. But to those who are truly "born again" it means everything. We hear it said that Christ's death means everything to us, and it does. But if he had not risen on that first Easter morning, his death had been in vain. "If Christ be not raised, your faith is vain, ye are yet in your sins." But, thank God, the cold grave could not hold our Christ, the monster Death had to give way to him; for he was, and is, the Son of God.

When he was crucified, "He bare our sins in his own body on the tree." But this is made a reality to us only as we believe on Christ as the risen Son of God who bore our sins for us. Then, as the new-born chick emerges from the egg-shell and leaves it behind him, so do we, by the all-power of the risen Christ, pass out of and leave behind us our condemnation, our sinful lives and our rebellious hearts, to walk with him in newness of life, —yea, in a new life. And now, through faith, our sins have been removed as far from us as the east is from the west, placed behind God's back, cast into the depths of the sea, blotted out; and we are assured that the great Judge of all the earth will remember them against us no more forever. We have become "dead indeed unto sin," "crucified with Christ," "buried with him by baptism into death"; and as death hath no more dominion over him, so sin shall not have dominion over us. We do not live our old lives of sin any more, but the risen, living Christ is living his divine life within us and through us. "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature; old things have passed away, and behold, all things are become new."

How wonderful! How beautiful! How exceedingly precious is this new life in Christ Jesus! Among all the incomprehensible wonders of God's great universe there is nothing that will compare with this. Praise be to our God and his Christ forever! "Cry aloud and shout, thou inhabitant of Zion, for great is the Holy One of Israel in the midst of thee." By faith we are now "in Christ," and not only that, but we have "Christ within, the hope of glory."

God, even our God, "hath called us out of darkness into his marvelous light." He "hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light, and hath delivered us from the power of darkness and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son, in whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins." "Partakers of the inheritance"—what inheritance is this? Can it be that we have fallen heir to a great fortune? Yes, yes indeed! Jesus, being the Son of God, is heir to his Father's throne. And—wonder of wonders!—"what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God!" "He [Jesus] is not ashamed to call them brethren." He gives us a share in his inheritance to the throne. We are made heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ, and we shall reign with him forever and ever.

The Christ of the Gospels.

There is no end of sermon literature scattered about; some of it good, and much more of it mediocre and below. Published sermons, as a rule, are dull reading unless the personality of the preacher is so well known that it can be supplied in the printed page; or if not, the sermon must be saturated with fresh, startling truths, and illuminated by telling illustrations, giving point and purpose to the message.

In a beautifully bound volume bearing the above title, Dr. H. C. Morrison has given us the cream of his Gospel messages. His rank as one of America's greatest pulpit orators is too well known for need of further mention. As a preacher, Dr. Morrison is in a class all alone, and in this volume he has put his greatest thinking, and his personality beams from every paragraph. Those who may own this book of sermons—which are "the beaten oil of the sanctuary," and are messages that have thrilled and blessed the thousands up and down the land—they are his best.

A true and faithful Christian does not make holy living a mere accidental thing. It is his great concern. As the business of the soldier is to fight, so the business of the Christian is to be like Christ.—Jonathan Edwards.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

My Dear Boys and Girls:

If you will spare me a little space on "Your Page" I will greet you from my busy desk, and assure you that your letters are all read and every one of you seem like a blood relative.

I am glad to tell you that I am going to soon start a treat for you. Mrs. Brown, better known as Abbie C. Morrow Brown, has promised to give us the "Life of Lincoln" for our Page, which I am sure you will each enjoy. I bespeak for you a happy time reading a chapter each week. I shall give it in the first column of Page ten, and follow with as many letters as space will allow. I am not sure when the first chapter will get to me, but be on the lookout and probably within another month you will be reading the first chapter.

My dear Boys and Girls, I feel like the "Old woman who lived in a shoe, who had so many children she didn't know what to do." I can manage you very well, by letting you come in your turn, although I fancy you think it is a long time for you to speak, and maybe conclude that Mr. Wastebasket has been feasting on you. I congratulate myself on thinking I have the finest "bunch" of Boys and Girls in all the world. I think you all want to make useful men and women, and in order to do this, you must give your hearts to Jesus, who alone, can make you what you ought to be.

Lovingly,

Aunt Bettie.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you move over and let a Louisiana girl join your happy band of boys and girls? My father takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten very much. I am a girl of fifteen years and in the eighth grade, have dark hair, fair complexion and blue eyes; weigh 114 pounds. Who has my birthday, Oct. 22? How many of you cousins go to Sunday school? I go to Sunday school when I can. I live on a farm. I have three sisters and three brothers and still blessed with both father and mother. I would like to have any of the boys and girls to write me. I will answer as many as possible.

Myrtle Mixon.
Crowville, La.

My Dear Aunt Bettie: Tonight after getting all of my lessons ready for recitation tomorrow I decided to write you, if you would permit a West Virginia old-fashioned girl into your band of happy boys and girls. Why do I call them happy boys and girls? For this reason only: If they are real Christians and are living for our blessed Lord and Redeemer they are happy, because he makes them happy by helping them to do his good work. I am a Christian worker myself and I know when we do something good that the act makes us rejoice. I became a worker for Jesus about three years ago, during the revival of Rev. P. W. Arbogast and Rev. Don Nicolas in a Methodist Episcopal Church. The sweetest peace I have ever enjoyed, I enjoyed it that night. I shall never be sorry that I entered the cause for Jesus. I will never depart from the Christian life that I have chosen, not if I was offered ten million rubies and diamonds and all the riches for it. No, it is far more precious to me than all of the gold. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and loses his own soul?" The boys and girls who are living for Jesus should be training their lives to be leaders of tomorrow. My dear cousins, our fathers and mothers, aunts and other religious leaders are not going to live forever. Well then, who will take up the responsibility of Christian leadership, if we don't? It is we who must be prepared to take up that great responsibility of leading the next generation. In order to do this we must begin now. My father, mother and sister are living. There are only four of us in our family. We are all Christians. Isn't that nice? We live on a farm of 115 acres. I like the farm much better than the city, although I do not intend to stay on the farm always. I walk eight miles to school every day through snow and rain, but I'm nearly always on time at 9:45. When I have completed High School I think I shall attend Asbury College. I expect to be a teacher. I am five and one-half feet tall, weigh 140 pounds, have dark complexion, blue gray eyes and straight, unruly, long, unbobbed brown hair. My age is near eighteen and my birthday is in the eighth month of this year. Your cousin and niece, Betty.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Texas girl join your happy band of boys and girls? My father takes The Herald and I always look forward for it to read page ten. I have brown (bobbed) hair, blue eyes, fair complexion, five feet, four inches tall, weigh 125 pounds and am sixteen years old. Who has my birthday, June 2? I am a member of the Nazarene Church. I have five brothers and two sisters. I had better quit for this time as it is getting rather long. As this is my first letter I would like to see it in print.

Myrtle Keene Curtis.
Box 61, Floresville, Tex.

Dear Cousins: If Aunt Bettie does not object I will say a few words of encouragement to the dear girls and boys who have told us they are Christians. My heart rejoices that there are so many. This is the most important decision you will ever have to make, and the very wisest step you could possibly have taken. It is a decision you will never regret. It will bring you peace and joy evermore. You will have battles to fight against sin, there will be many temptations from the world, for Satan wants you to serve him, but Jesus is stronger than the evil one and is always present to help us in time of need. Only be faithful, trust and obey Jesus and "he will carry you through." It is many years since I accepted him as my Savior, and my Lord and Master and I know his blessed promises do not fail. My faith grows stronger and the way brighter as the years go by.

My dear mother passed away very peacefully sixty-four years ago, but I cherish the memory of her beautiful Christian life and faith in Jesus. Just a few days ago I wrote some verses in memory of her, which I will enclose for your page. I have several original poems I will send occasionally if you would enjoy them and Aunt Bettie will permit. I will be so glad to hear from any of you. Here are the verses.

Fond memories of my mother
Linger still, and give me joy,
For she loved me as no other,
Nothing could her love destroy.
She told me early of the Savior,
Taught my childish lips to pray,
Prayed that I would love and serve him

Who had been her Friend always,
Then God called my precious mother,
Bore her in his arms of love,
From this world of sin and sorrow,
To her heavenly home above.
Years have passed, still I remember
The parting kiss, the promise given,
"Yes, I will meet you mother dear,"
I'll surely meet you up in heaven.
There I will find my sainted mother
When my life on earth is o'er,
She will greet me at the portal
When I reach the other shore.

Mrs. S. H. Doughty.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am a young man 26 years old and a member of the Salvation Army. I enjoy receiving letters and pictures. I am saved. My favorite verse is John 3:16. What is yours? I will answer every letter. I don't believe Christians should go to movies or dances. What do you think? Everybody write. Arthur Grunden.
428 Ninth Ave., Beaver Falls, Pa.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Hello, everybody! This is my third visit so I think we are well acquainted by now, dear cousins. What are you doing these lovely days? It sure has been nice and warm here in the Southwestern part of Michigan. Oh, it will be so nice when the warm summer days come again and with them the birds and flowers. I love to gather wild flowers, don't you? It has been quite a while since I last read The Herald, and I hope to have it to read again soon, for it is one of my favorites, and cannot be without it.

Marie E. Lancaster.

Lake Shore House, Allegan, Mich.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Georgia girl join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my first letter to The Herald. I have light hair, blue eyes and fair complexion. I am sixteen years old and weigh 125 pounds. My birthday is Dec. 26: if any of the cousins have my birthday and will write to me I will send them one of my pictures. I belong to the M. E. Church. Mary E. Holcomb.
Apalachee, Ga.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am sure no one enjoys page ten more than I do. I seldom ever see any letters from my states—Pennsylvania and West Virginia. I claim them both for I live in Pennsylvania and attend school in West Virginia. I am seventeen, have dark hair and blue eyes. I am five feet, six inches tall and weigh one hundred and thirty-four pounds. I am a Junior in High School and I think that a good education is worth while. Will some of the cousins my age write me? I love to correspond.

Gladys McAdoo.
Bethany, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you please let me join your happy band? I want to join your band of Christian cousins as I am a Christian too, and have been for over three years. I was converted in a flower service at Cosby church, of which I am a member. I go to church every time I can. Our pastor is Bro. B. M. Dewitt. We like him fine. I am fifteen years of age and have my diploma for high school. Cousins, please write me as I am so lonesome. Will answer all letters. I hope to see this in print.

Gladys Slaughter.
Rt. 2, Hardyville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Tennessee girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I have blue eyes, brown hair, am five feet, seven inches tall, and weigh 113 pounds. Beatrice Rosenut, I have your birthday, Sept. 30. Please write to me. I am a Christian and belong to the M. E. Church. I want all of the girls and boys to write to me. I will answer all letters I receive. I hope Mr. W. B. is fishing when this letter arrives.

Idella Norfleet.
Indian Mound, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: How are you and the cousins? I have one sister. I do not take The Herald, but my aunts take it. I suppose you are all waiting to see what I look like. I have dark complexion and dark brown hair and brown eyes. I am ten years of age. Who has my birthday, March 23? There were camp meetings last June. Bro. Miller and Bro. Suffield were leaders. This is my first letter. I would like to see it in print.

Helen Dier.
Westport, Ont.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Tennessee girl join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my first letter to The Herald. How many of you cousins like to read The Herald? Do you cousins like to go to school? I am trying to finish the eighth grade this term. We have a new schoolhouse and it is a nice building. My teacher's name is Mr. Lester Moore; he is a good teacher. Mrs. Irene Moore is the other teacher. How many of you cousins like to go to church? Who has my birthday, April 22? I am sixteen years old. I have medium light hair, blue eyes, fair complexion, and five feet, six inches tall, and weigh 125 pounds. Bonnie Plunk.
Star Route, Finger, Tenn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I come in for a few moments? I am glad so many of the cousins are Christians. I think it would be much better if the cousins would tell what Jesus was doing for them and their hope of heaven in the place of giving their weight and color of their hair. God doesn't look on the outward appearance but at the heart. There are two songs that I would like to have: "I believe Mary C. McDonald.

Rt. 1, Laurelville, Ohio.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am just a nine-year-old lad, that lives just about one hour's drive from your fair city. We very often drive into the city and sometimes go around to The Pentecostal Herald book store. Dad takes The Herald and I read the letters quite often on page ten. Some of the cousins write very interesting letters; but I wish they would tell more worthwhile news, besides the color of their hair and eyes, and also age. We live on a farm; most of the cousins know what farm life consists of. Just at present I have a baby lamb for a pet. I help dad all I can with the farm work, but am in school most of the time. I have two certificates for two perfect years in school, and was working hard for one this time. Was a regular at school until the 7th of this month. Whooping cough got in the school and I was one that had never had it so of course I will be out of school several weeks. I am getting along very well; want to get back to my studies just as soon as I can. I am in the fourth grade. I want to work hard and do my work well and if the Lord spares me I expect to be an Asbury boy when I complete my high school work. Pray for me for I do want to live right. Would love to see you and the cousins all together. Aunt Bettie, we know some of your folks over at Jefferson-town, Mr. and Mrs. D. Leichhardt. Dad thinks a great deal of Mr. Leichhardt. Hope my letter makes the trip safely and will meet your approval for I will be on the watch for its appearance on page ten.

Sermons in a Nutshell is a splendid book of about 100 sermon outlines that would be profitable to any minister who desires the best preparation for his work. It gives the main thoughts as suggestions for further study.

REV. FRED ST. CLAIR, Evangelist.

I was born in Marion County, S. C., 1867. My father, Col. J. W. St. Clair, was a Kentuckian, educated in the Transylvania University, also in the Lexington Law School. Mother was from one of the best families in South Carolina. Her grandfather, Rev. John Honour, was a member of the M. E. Conference and is mentioned very favorably by Bishop McTyre in his history of Methodism. He died a martyr to duty and faithfulness. My maternal grandfather was also a Methodist preacher, the Rev. John Honour, D.D., of Charleston, S. C. So you see as far as blood is concerned, I had a fair start in life.

When about sixteen years of age mother went to heaven and I drifted into bad company and away from my early training; but when about nineteen, the Lord blessedly saved me in the very county where I was born the first time. Eleven months later, under the preaching of Rev. Thomas Leitch, I was gloriously sanctified. Immediately I conferred not with flesh and blood, but began to preach. In 1889, I joined the South Georgia Conference on trial, and was at once transferred to the State of Washington, when Bishop Haygrove read me out for "Big Bend, Columbia Conference." God gave me many revivals, and I organized four Methodist churches. Beyond my highest expectation, I was promoted rapidly and was soon filling some of the best stations in the West; but I always preached holiness and hell; it created a stir, but the Holy Ghost gave me gracious revivals everywhere. In 1908, I felt divinely called into holiness evangelism. I united with the Pentecostal Church of the Nazarene soon after the union. From that time, I have been busy all the time; have conducted revivals in 28 states, holding great campaigns in Portland, Me., Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Seattle.

Yes, I am married; have one wife and three splendid grown children.

As my temples grow whiter, I find the way grows brighter. I am confidently expecting my Lord to soon burst through the skies. I am also a believer in divine healing, but not the wild, inconsistent kind. Greater than all, is old-time, middle-of-the-road holiness, the "Second Blessing, properly so-called."

Fred St. Clair.

Sixty sermonic studies on the ministry of Jesus that will give one material for many valuable sermons are found in Sermon Notes From the Ministry of Jesus, by Boteler. It will cost you $1.65, but you will never regret buying it. Try it and see. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

FALLEN ASLEEP

POOR.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Poor was born in Garrard county, March 22, 1849; died August 16, 1926, aged seventy-seven years, four months and twenty-four days. She was married to John J. Poor in 1869. Three daughters and one son were born to this union. Only two daughters survive her, Mrs. Wm. Broadus and Mrs. Ed. Ballard, both of Stanford, Ky. Their husbands and four grandchildren mourn with them the loss. She united with the Methodist Church when a girl and was converted in the old-fashioned way while young, and lived close to the Lord and was faithful to her church.

When about the age of thirty, Rev. W. B. Godbey, "Father Godbey," she called him, came to old Mt. Olivet Church preaching holiness. She sought and obtained the experience of entire sanctification in the shouting way. She never wavered in her testimony to this blessed experience and exemplified it in her life. In her greatest trials and testings, she never hesitated in her testimony. She was earnest in her dealings with all she met, inquiring about their spiritual welfare and urging them to accept Jesus. She was also earnest in her work in her church, and her home was always open to the preachers. She was devoted to her Bible and read it daily. After her husband's death she moved to Stanford to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Ballard. For the past ten years she was not able to attend church but gave her support and prayers to the end. She never compromised between right and wrong and taught her children to shun the very appearance of evil. She was a constant reader of The Pentecostal Herald, and always treasured its teachings and the principles for which it stood.

Mother lived a beautiful Christian life. Oh, what a legacy she left her loved ones, not in worldly goods or fame, but a Christian influence which will live throughout eternity.

Her request for years had been that Rev. A. P. Jones, a former pastor, preach her funeral sermon. The service was held in her old home church, Mt. Olivet, where, many times in years gone by she had shouted the praises of God, and had helped scores of young people to Christ.

Mother is gone but we expect to meet her where there will be no parting and where good bye's are never said.

"Rest, dear sainted mother, from thy labors,

Rest, there tried and true,

Rest, from sorrow, sin and suffering,

Rest, through eternity with Jesus.

"When mother prayed, she found sweet rest,

When mother prayed, her soul was blessed,

Her heart and mind on Christ were stayed,

And God was there when mother prayed."

I need only add, as her pastor, that I always found her bright in her experience, and glad to talk of the things of God. She always rejoiced in her experience and love of God's word and the privilege of prayer. It was always a blessing to me to visit her.

On Dec. 24, 1879, he was united in marriage to Sarah Elizabeth Douglas, who preceded him in death about thirty-two years ago. Two children died in infancy and his oldest son John preceded him in death. He is survived by three daughters and two sons, and many other relatives and a host of friends.

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

This week we are listing a number of sermon outline books. This is done for the benefit of those preachers and Christian workers who desire to know the nature of such books before they buy. The writer will be glad to answer your letter if you desire further information.

Book of 750 Bible and Gospel Studies. 35c.

This is a small vest pocket book bound in Morocco. It gives a topic and then lists several main headings, with Scripture reference for their support. It is not a fully developed sermon outline, but rather suggestive thoughts from which an outline may be made. An index in the back makes it easy to find the subject desired.

500 Bible Studies, by Harold F. Sales. 35c.

This little book is bound in paper. The outlines contained therein are on the order of those mentioned in the book above, but are somewhat fuller; they are arranged according to subject, topic and sub-topic. Since they were gathered from many sources they do not follow one certain style of arrangement, but in general they are brief and suggestive.

In the back is found a list of the preachers who contributed to the book, and also an index of the subjects. One knows from whom he is quoting if he desires to do so in these outlines.

Sermons in a Nutshell, by J. Ellis. 75c.

This is a small cloth bound book containing about a hundred sermon outlines and addresses. The sermons are given in regular homiletical style. Most of them give the headings, topics and sub-topics. There is no illustrative material, but rather the complete sermon outline, ready for development according to the thoughts of the individual. The addresses generally give the main thoughts to be used and leave the rest for development.

The Holiness preacher will find several sermons in this book that are to his liking. They suggest outlines for holiness sermons.

A topical index is appended, and also an index showing Scripture references used throughout the book. This is a splendid little book.

Pulpit Germs, by William W. Wythe. $1.50.

This is a nicely bound book of usual size. It contains 455 sermon outlines. They are given in the following manner: The subject or title is stated. Then the text is quoted. The main divisions are given in order, with their sub-topics listed properly. The sermons are logically arranged in homiletical order, and each point stands out very clearly.

There are no illustrations used, but the reader is left to take the suggestions and fill in as he likes best. Any preacher will find these helpful, but they seem to me to be of special value to the pastor.

Outlines and Illustrations, by J. Ellis. $1.25.

This book contains 600 outlines and 250 illustrations under four general headings: 1. Sermon Outlines. 2. Pegs of Thought. 3. Sunday School Addresses. 4. Advice and hints to open-air workers and temperance advocates.

The outlines are brief. They do not go into detail, but rather suggest topics for discussion.

The Pegs of Thought are suggestive thoughts for various occasions.

The Sunday School Addresses contain many items of interest and value for the S. S. teacher and worker.

The illustrations are concise, definite and illuminating.

There is an index, which makes it easy to find any subject desired. This is really a compilation of about four small books by the author, and the fact that this edition runs to the fifty-fifth thousand shows its popularity. It was printed in London.

Sermon Notes From the Ministry of Jesus, by M. W. Boteler. $1.65.

Here are sixty sermonic studies taken from the ministry of Jesus. They take the various significant acts of the Master and treat them sermonically. For instance, the Sermon on the Mount is shown in its main divisions, and these are briefly discussed.

The plan of the author is unique. The subject is given, a complete sermon outline is placed in the beginning, showing the main and secondary divisions, and then follows a paragraph or two on all the topics suggested. This gives the advantage of leading one's thought into the depths of the suggested topics so he can see what the author really intends to convey.

As a book suggestive of material for Bible study centered around Christ, this is splendid. You will like it.

Outlines of Sermons on the Old Testament, Edited by Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, M.A., LL.D. $1.00.

"This volume contains one hundred and thirty-nine outlines of sermons by forty-six famous American and English preachers, with a complete index of subjects treated and texts used."

The editor has arranged these outlines in the following manner: The subject and text are given. From the sermon the editor seems to have arranged an introduction to lead up to the main points of the discussion. These main divisions are treated one after another. There are very few sub-topics stated. From reading the short discussion the individual is supposed to gather material for his own sermon. A list of the authors is given, so one will know from whom he is reading.

Outlines of Sermons for Special Occasions, Edited by Sir W. Robertson Nicoll, M.A., LL.D. $1.50.

This book follows the same style of the one mentioned above. "There are eighty-seven skeleton discourses by fifty-five English and American pulpit leaders."

The subjects are given for almost every special occasion in the church calendar. They are treated in the same manner as the sermons in the book just referred to, but a little more fully.

There is a list of the preachers found in the front. In the back a complete index is found; and also an index of the Scripture texts used.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson VII.—May 15, 1927.

Subject.—Peter at Pentecost.—Acts 2:12-14, 32-41.

Golden Text.—Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. Acts 2:38.

Time.—A. D. 30.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Introduction.—At the close of our last lesson, we left Peter shouting over the resurrection of our Lord. Courage had come back, because the blessed Father had begotten him and his brethren unto a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. Fifty days elapsed between the time of that lesson and the present one. During the first forty days following the resurrection Jesus tarried on the earth, appearing ever and anon to his beloved disciples that he might encourage them and teach them those things that were left behind at the time of his crucifixion. You will recall the conversation between him and Peter on the shore of the Sea of Galilee, as recorded in our last lesson. Those were blessed times of communion with the glorified Master; but there must have been some hours of embarrassment to Peter. He would of course remember his rather blatant boasting of loyalty to his Lord, and certainly his cursing and swearing that he did "not know the man" could not be driven from his mind. But Peter had repented, and was back in favor with his Master. If one does fall into sin, the only sensible thing to do is to repent and receive forgiveness. There is no good in moping and pining away precious time about it; for "if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." Time may deaden one's sense of guilt and shame; but only repentance and faith can remove the sin from the soul.

Our lesson cannot be understood without reference to the preceding context. The Master had invited and commanded his disciples, of whom there were more than five hundred, not to leave the city of Jerusalem, but to tarry for a certain endowment of power which he would send upon them in answer to the Father's promise made through the prophet Joel. This was a renewal of the promise made in the seventh, fourteenth and sixteenth chapters of the Gospel according to St. John. The Master renewed the promise in the first chapter of Acts (verse 5); and in the eighth verse he promised that the baptism with the Holy Ghost would give them power to be his witnesses. Immediately after his ascension one hundred and twenty of his disciples began tarrying in an upper room in the city of Jerusalem for the fulfillment of this oft-repeated promise. We wonder why the other three hundred and eighty-odd did not tarry, but they did not. Failing to tarry for the baptism with the Divine Spirit, they passed out of sight; and we never again hear anything of them.

The promise was fulfilled on the morning of the tenth day about nine o'clock in the morning, and Peter was one of those who received the Holy Ghost. The outpouring was preceded by "a sound as of a rushing, mighty wind from heaven." Cloven tongues, "like as of fire" sat upon the heads of the hundred and twenty; "and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance."

The writer has sometimes heard it said from the pulpit that this was the regeneration, or conversion, of the hundred and twenty disciples; but if that were true, then there had never been any regenerated people in the world before that hour, an unbelievable thing. Surely such men as Enoch and Abraham, Moses and Elijah, Isaiah and Daniel were regenerated. If Pentecost means regeneration, then Jesus at one time ordained a dozen unconverted sinners to preach his gospel, and at another time he ordained seventy others, and sent them out to preach. He gave all of them power to heal the sick, raise the dead, cast out demons and heal lepers—strange power to be given to unconverted sinners. But he told the seventy to rejoice because their names were written in heaven. Salome and Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Jesus were in the upper room, and all received the baptism with the Spirit. Who believes that Jesus was born of an unregenerate woman? No, no; they were all converted before the day of Pentecost, and that was something else. Mr. Wesley used to call it "the second blessing properly so-called"; and the writer has no inclination whatever to change the name. Spiritual birth precedes spiritual baptism, as certainly as physical birth precedes physical baptism.

Comments on the Lesson.

12. They were all amazed, and were in doubt.—The multitude of Jews who were drawn to the temple by the unusual excitement. What meaneth this? They could not understand what had happened to the disciples. We often witness a similar thing at great camp meetings and revivals. Spiritual things are spiritually discerned by spiritual people.

13. Others mocking said, These men are full of new wine.—This was sarcasm. "Glucose," meaning unfermented grape juice, was the word they used.

14. Peter, (he is lion-hearted now) standing up with the eleven.—It is a good thing when one is preaching a high gospel to have some sample goods on exhibition. Peter calls upon the men of Judea and Jerusalem to give attention to what he is about to say. It is a pity to have to skip so much of that great sermon; but readers of the notes can read for themselves the verses that intervene between fourteen and thirty-two. Read carefully, and get the connection. The sermon is short; but greatness is not always measured by length.

32. This Jesus hath God raised up.—Some modern critics tell us that the resurrection of our Lord is not essential to Christianity; but the inspired writers believed and taught to the contrary. They could see no Christianity without the resurrection. In this verse Peter claims that he and his fellow-disciples were witnesses of the resurrection.

33. Therefore being by the right of God exalted.—At the right hand of God. Having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost.—The Spirit proceeds from the Father and the Son; and yet in some sense the Father promised him the Spirit for his Church. Christ gave the Spirit to the Church in his baptismal office on the day of Pentecost.

3. David is not ascended into the heavens.—Peter is careful to show that certain prophecies refer to Christ, instead of David; and to make his proof strong he quotes from David: "The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, until I make thy foes thy footstool." The quotation is from Ps. 110:1, where the word translated LORD is Jehovah in the Hebrew of the Old Testament.

36. Here Peter applies his teaching by telling his audience "that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye crucified, both Lord and Christ." We lose much unless we keep before our minds the meaning of these names. Lord means Master; Christ, the anointed One, the Messiah of Jewish prophecy.

37. Men and brethren, what shall we do? The Holy Spirit put the hearers under conviction for sin, exactly what Jesus said he would do when he came to the church. Sinners cannot be saved without the convicting and the regenerating power of the Holy Ghost.

38. Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins.—If this were the only passage bearing on this subject, it would be easy to prove baptismal regeneration; but fortunately there are many other passages that make this one clear. It is faith in Jesus' blood and not water, that removes sins. "For the remission of sins" should read, With reference to the remission of sins. And ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.—Of course, they would receive the Holy Ghost in his regenerating office; but Peter was referring to his baptismal office. It is the duty and privilege of every converted soul to so receive him, but it must be done by a special act of faith exercised subsequent to conversion.

39. Some one, like some modern folk, must have objected to the universality of this promised blessing; for Peter declares: "The promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." Would God that his words might ring in the ears of the modern Church.

40. Save yourselves from this untoward generation.—That preaching is applicable to our generation as well as to Peter's. Much of the world has invaded the ranks of the Church to such an extent that thousands are being led away from their Lord by following in the footsteps of worldliness and folly.

41. That was a great day's work: "There were added unto them about three thousand souls." Why do we move so slowly? It does seem that we are doing almost nothing, when one considers our equipment for the work whereunto we have been called. Nothing but a repetition of Pentecost upon the Church will ever quicken her pace. She cannot do God's work without the fulness of God's Spirit. She prays for power, but it does not come. It cannot come, except through the incoming of the Holy Spirit.

EVANGELISTIC AND PERSONAL.

Rev. D. L. Griffin, Box 1595, Shreveport, La., is ready to assist any one in church, community, or union revival meetings. Brother Griffin can furnish satisfactory references if desired. We trust parties in need of evangelistic assistance may consider this worthy brother.

Rev. W. A. Vandersall, 1208 N. Cory St., Findlay, Ohio, is open for calls for summer work. He can furnish tent equipment, with, or without singer. Any church or committee who can use this brother may address him as above.

Rev. L. E. Williams, Wilmore, Ky., has open dates in June, July and August which he would be glad to give camp meetings whose workers are not yet secured. He is willing to give this time to churches or tent work, if such work presents itself. Brother Williams has been very successful in revival work and should be kept busy for the Master.

Revival meetings will be held at the First Wesleyan Methodist Church, 312 N. 23rd St., Birmingham, Ala., May 12 to June 5. Rev. Preston Kennedy, one of the outstanding evangelists of the Holiness Movement, will do the preaching. Brother Edson Crosby, "the man with the silver bells," will be with us for the latter part of the campaign. Let the people of God plan and pray for a gracious ingathering of souls. Rev. H. R. French is the pastor.

Rev. Wm. Kelley: "I had three good meetings in Big Sandy Valley, and recently closed a good meeting at Wallingford, Ky., in which 14 were saved, two sanctified, and eleven united with the M. E. Church. I am now in a meeting at Berea, Ky., after which I go to Wallins, Ky., and then to Louisa."

Rev. S. W. Phillips, pastor-evangelist, is ready for meetings anywhere the Lord may need. He has a tent which can be used, if needed. He has had seven years experience in the pastor-evangelistic work, also was a student in Asbury Theological Seminary. His address is Fairview, N. C.

Rev. J. H. Lott recently closed a three-weeks' meeting in Florence, Ala., in which 45 professed conversion and 40 united with the M. E. Church. About 400 young people pledged never to use tobacco in any form. Every one who sought regeneration at the altar claimed to receive the experience, and a number sought definitely the blessing of sanctification.

Dr. W. H. Nelson, the editor of the Pacific Methodist Advocate, San Francisco, is bringing out a book called "Alluring Arizona." It will contain descriptions of the Grand Canyon, Painted Desert, Petrified Forests, Indian Picture Writing, Cliff Dwellings. These articles were written by one who has spent a great deal of time in that country for the past thirteen years, traveling up and down the length and breadth of it many a time and oft, seeing these marvels of Nature again and again before attempting to write on them. Those who have read the articles and have seen these interesting wonders, say that the descriptions are true to life, and could not be improved upon. The General Passenger Agent of the Santa Fe, Mr. James B. Duffy, of Los Angeles, said that the description of the Grand Canyon was, to his mind, the finest description of the canyon that had ever been written, and he had read everything on the subject. The articles were written by one who sought to give the reactions he had while viewing these evidences of God's handiwork, and he attempts to put you in his place,—to cause you to feel that you are looking at these things as you read about them. He feels that these outstanding creations speak of God, and he brings out the spiritual lessons to be found in them. Also there will be articles on the Hopi Indians and the Snake Dance, which takes place in Arizona every summer; Spanish Explorations in Arizona, and a view of Arizona Today. You will be interested in knowing some of the great things connected with this youngest State in the Union. This book will be well illustrated, with good binding, and will make a very suitable gift. It will be out in time for the vacation season,—about the first of July. Eight hundred and forty advance orders have already been received. The cost will be $1.00 plus postage. Send no money, but send an order to W. H. Nelson, 307 Pacific Bldg., San Francisco, Calif.

Where can you find a book with 600 sermon outlines, 250 illustrations, equipped with an index for ready reference, that sells for $1.25. We have it. Order Outlines and Illustrations, by J. Ellis. You'll like it. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

TRIBUTE TO H. C. MORRISON.

I read everything that Dr. Morrison writes. His books of Sermons are models of spiritual power. His editorials in The Herald constitute a standard of spiritual life and doctrine which Methodism would do well to stand by. I have the portrait of this mighty preacher on the wall of my study as an inspiration to my eye, and I read his paper and books to cause my heart to burn with zeal for the gospel.

REPORT FROM REV. AND MRS. E. L. SANFORD.

My first meeting this year was in the M. E. Church, South, Combs, Ky. Rev. P. S. Elam is the splendid pastor. It means very much to have a good pastor that will stand by the evangelist when he preaches against sin. The Lord gave us a great revival at this place; more than one hundred prayed through at the altar and about eighty-five came into the churches. Several prayed for the second work of grace and the Lord satisfied their souls.

Our next meeting was at Greenup, Ky., with Rev. E. F. Burnside, pastor M. E. Church. We had large congregations and several were saved and taken into the church. Rev. Burnside knows how to have things done at his church. We had a fine meeting.

From Greenup we came to the Second M. E. Church, Ashland, Ky. Rev. J. F. Burden is the pastor of this beautiful new church; everything was ready for the opening of the meeting and we had nothing to do but to go ahead and preach, pray and sing. We made the first call for seekers and five came forward and were gloriously sanctified, and from that time they came and were either saved or sanctified until 58 were blessed; 25 were taken into the church. It was said to have been the best revival in the history of the church.

Our next engagement was with Rev. Carl Hill, at Tollesboro, Ky., Mt. Tabor Church. We preached two weeks and the Lord saved and sanctified a few precious souls. Rev. Hill is a man well liked by his people and is doing a good work. We were entertained in the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fernlee. We enjoyed being in their home. From this place we came on to Lothair, Ky., with Rev. Elam. Our crowds are nice as any and we are expecting a great revival.

We certainly do enjoy The Pentecostal Herald. We give out sample copies and take subscriptions at every place we go, for meetings.

REVIVAL NOTES.

Since our last report we have held two meetings, one at Pittsburgh, Pa., at Everybody's Mission, a holiness work, in the heart of the city, and is doing a great work. All who know about this mission know that it stands for holiness. Rev. O. O. Watson is leading them on to blessed victory. We had good results and enjoyed being with them very much. Our next meeting was at Osage, Okla., with our Nazarene Church. This was a hard meeting but God gave victory; we had a good round-up the last week, and closed with souls at the altar, and with a request to return next year. We enjoy being in Oklahoma; will hold two more meetings then go north, and return again next fall. We are in the fight to stay, are enjoying good health and religion. Remember us when you pray that God will keep us on fire, humble, and true to our calling. Any one desiring to correspond with us write us at 2923 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

THE HIGHER LIFE.

By The Editor.

THERE is a higher life than most Christians have yet attained; this is true of those who have obtained the blessing of entire sanctification. John Fletcher once said, "With me it is a small matter that I should be cleansed from all sin. I would be filled with all the fullness of God."

* * * *

Let us press on to the higher things. There is wonderful room and outlook up among the higher altitudes of Canaan land. There is growth, enlargement, deepening of humility, sweetening of spirit and outreach of love over in the land of Canaan.

* * * *

There are elevations high above foolish jesting, hurtful gossip, common chatter, the fault-finding habit, murmurings and complainings. There is communion with God and close Christian fellowship with saintly souls and good books and meditations on the mercies of God, the sufferings and patience of Christ and his second coming.

* * * *

There is a higher life above fretfulness and bickerings and confusion and accusings. Let us get way up into the mountains of Perfect Love and bathe our souls in the abiding presence of the Infinite. Strange as it may seem, these higher altitudes lie in the streets of our city, the shops, and offices, and homes, all about us. These quiet resting places are in the midst of the crowds, the noise and human battles. Within the secret chambers of the soul where the Holy Spirit abides there is wondrous quiet, and rest, and love, and peace, too deep for speech. Upon the wings of his Holy Word and believing prayer, let us rise into the higher altitudes.

* * * *

We are not thinking here of "third" blessings, of miracles, or anything of the sort. We are thinking of the development and growth that is the blessed privilege of every sanctified child of God. We are thinking of the testing, the spirit of meekness, of submitting ourselves with patience, of doing good for evil, of trusting God and going forward in the path of duty and finding in that path peace and rest and joy.

* * * *

There is such a thing as believing a doctrine, seeking and obtaining a gracious blessing, holding on to the doctrine and growing lean and stale in experience. Let us be watchful here and see that we grow in all the graces of the Spirit; that we reach the altitudes of constant sunshine and holy warmth by going down into the valley of humiliation, of guarding against resentment, of watching against any Pharisaical spirit, of loving and forgiving our fellow-beings rather than resenting and accusing them. May the Lord bring us up into the high places of holy quietness of soul, fixedness of faith, and perfection of love.

An Open Letter to My Dear Bishop

My Dear Bishop:—

I suppose you have read the following, which I clip from one of the Memphis papers, of February 11.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 11. (AP)—"Science is not being hurt, but the church of the country is suffering immeasurably from the effects of 'ridiculous legislative measures' prohibiting the teaching of evolution in schools and colleges, Dr. W. E. Hogan, secretary-treasurer of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, declared last night following the adoption of a resolution by the Educational Association of the church opposing anti-evolution legislation as 'futile.'"

"Educators realize that the mind cannot be legislated," declared Dr. Hogan. "The whole thinking process of our students is thrown out of gear when they are confronted with such controversies as the Tennessee anti-evolution law has brought about. Members of the association felt it was high time they were heard on the subject of evolution."

"Dr. J. C. Roper of the Upper South Carolina conference declared he would not vote against the resolution, which was signed by 13 members of the association before it was presented for action, but added that he wanted to 'register my fear as to the wisdom' of the resolution."

"This is a bold move; it may be the bravest," said Dr. Roper. "I want all the help scholarship can give, but I am afraid the resolution will be misunderstood. I am concerned about the reaction. Does this move serve the cause of religion?"

"The resolution was adopted without change and with but two dissenting votes. The negative votes were cast by two delegates whose names could not be learned."

"The full text of the resolution follows:

"We, the members of the Educational Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in session at Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 10, 1927, hereby put ourselves on record as opposed to all legislation that would interfere with the proper teaching of scientific subjects in American schools and colleges."

"Whether we have been in position to form opinions on current scientific theories, or whatever opinions we may have formed on these subjects, in any case we are opposed to legislation because we believe it will be futile and can serve no good purpose."

I can but question the wisdom of resolutions of this character at this time. In the first place, there are no legislative actions suggested that would in any way interfere with church schools; there has been a law passed in Tennessee that no school supported by the taxes of the people shall teach theories of science that contradict the teachings of the Bible.

It is a well known fact that a very large percent of our great universities are centers of a skepticism that is openly hostile to evangelical faith and vital Christian experience. From these universities an army of students go out every year who are practically anti-Christian. They not only have no vital faith, trust in, or connection with, the Lord Jesus Christ, as a personal Savior, but their attitude is hostile to the true spirit of Bible teaching and the terms of salvation offered to mankind, as laid down in the New Testament Scriptures.

The situation is becoming serious. The evangelical churches of the country with their faith, teaching, experience and life, are the moral and spiritual salt of the nation. It is unfortunate indeed that many of our schools are centers of influence that antagonize evangelical religion which really changes the hearts of men, makes them in Christ new creatures, and furnishes a healthy moral and spiritual atmosphere.

Millions of the very best Christian people in the land are distressed over the rising tide of unbelief, of a bold and blatant infidelity. You know, Bishop, that recently an organization of infidels in the State of New York was granted a charter, and that one of their leaders in a declaration of their principles and purposes has said they propose a determined and aggressive propaganda against the Christian faith. Among other things, they will remove "In God we trust" from the United States coin. They will, if possible, prevent any officials from issuing calls to times of thanksgiving or special occasions for prayer. They propose to send their agents throughout the land making addresses and scattering literature, with the fixed purpose and determination to destroy the Christian faith. We also hear of the organization of blasphemous groups of students in colleges who propose to set at naught the word of God, and the whole scheme of revealed religion.

It seems to me that at a time like this it would have been appropriate for the meeting of the representatives of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church, South, to have passed strong resolutions against the sacrilegious spirit of the times, and assuring the people that the schools of our church in teaching and spirit, are, and shall be, a powerful bulwark against every phase of modern unbelief, and great centers for the cultivation of the spiritual along with the intellectual life, and the rooting and grounding of the rising generation in the fundamental truths of the word of God.

It is a well known fact that hosts of students are going out from homes where they have been raised at family altars, taught to believe the Bible as the inspired word of God, have sought and found the regenerating grace of the Holy Spirit, to colleges and universities where their faith is undermined, their Christian experience lost, and they are returning to their parents with a sneer at

NOTES ON VARIOUS ISSUES.

I.

THE Old-Time Revival and the New Methods are matters worth thinking about. The church press is exploiting the house-to-house visitation method, handpicking as they say, "selling" religion as some prefer to call it in the same manner as the business man would sell goods.

Now it is not for us to say these methods are not without some good results. Somebody will come to a decision and some few may be saved, but on general principles all these methods do not constitute a Revival.

Finnery has defined a Revival as follows: "The Revival of the first love of Christians, resulting in the awakening and conversion of sinners to God, arousing, quickening and reclaiming of a more or less backslidden church and general awakening of all classes to the claims of God."

"In a true Revival Christians are awakened to a more spiritual mind, to more fervent prayer, and to more earnest endeavors to promote the cause of Christ—seasons when the impenitent are aroused to the concerns of the soul and the work of personal religion."

Now, too often these methods culminate in a church joining objective and hundreds, perhaps thousands, are brought into church membership who are not converted, who have no religious experience and who only add so much "dead wood" to the church, and only increase the dead already in church membership. Furthermore, these movements too often wind up in "decisions" and cardboard, without any real work being done in the heart life of the signers.

Finally, these movements do not make any change in the spirit of the church. A real Revival means a renewed, revived, Spirit-baptized church. It quickens believers into newness of life, increases the spirit of prayer, develops the piety of the membership and begets new power in the pulpit, while joy and assurance abound in the pew.

Quite recently we were in a Methodist Church where a great holiness evangelist was doing some great preaching. The church was well-to-do, prosperous, but dead as a graveyard. The evangelist was waking up the dead, church members were beginning to seek a new experience, some were being sanctified and the church generally was being stirred. What profit would there have been in a modern "selling-religion" type of revival (?) there? To bring converts into an atmosphere of a dead church is only to stifle them to death.

The greatest need today is a protracted Revival meeting in a thousand Protestant churches which will bring in a house cleaning, raise the dead, restore to a state of grace backslidden church members and baptize with pentecostal fire the whole outfit.

II.

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

My esteemed friend and brother, Rev. Samuel Chadwick, of Cliff College, has been writing in Joyful News of the Religion of the Methodist; among some rich things he says:

"John Wesley's Methodist is a New Testament Christian. I cannot see that he differs in character, experience, and doctrine from the believers in the Acts of the Apostles. Methodism is Apostolic Christianity aflame with the fire of Pentecost. It is no business of the Churches to judge one another. The affirmation of the one is no reflection on the other, and when John Wesley claims that Methodism is Pentecostal Christianity he speaks for Methodism without denying the claim to others. He claims for the Methodist nothing more than that he is a New Testament believer in Christ, who

SOUL REST.

Holiness is soul rest. Rest from indwelling sin, rest from doubts and fears, rest from "corroding care," rest from the self life, rest in God.

Finnery illustrates some phases of Soul Rest in his relation of an experience he had in 1843. He says:

"The Lord lifted me above anything that I had experienced before, and taught me so much of the meaning of the Bible, of Christ's relations and power and willingness, that I often found myself saying to him, I had not known or conceived that any such thing was true. At times I could not realize that I had ever before been truly in communion with God. Since then I have never had those great struggles and long, protracted seasons of agonizing prayer that I had often experienced. It is quite another thing to prevail with God from what it was before. I can come to God with more calmness because with more perfect confidence. He enables me now to rest in him, and let everything sink into his perfect will. I have felt since then a religious freedom, a religious buoyancy and delight in God and in his word, a steadiness of faith, a Christian liberty and overflowing love, that I had only experienced occasionally before. My bondage seemed to be at that time entirely broken; and since then I have had the freedom of a child with a loving parent. I can find God within me in such a sense that I can rest upon him and be quiet, lay my heart in his hand, and nestle down in his perfect will, and have no carefulness or anxiety."

loves God with his whole heart, soul, mind, and strength, and his neighbor as himself. Wherein, then, does he differ from other Christians? If that is all, why should there have been a Methodist Church?"

Then Mr. Chadwick says:

"There are signs that the distinctively Methodist features are challenged by the Methodists themselves. The theology is openly repudiated. Sudden, conscious, assured conversion is denied, or 'reserved for burglars and cut-throats.' Entire sanctification is judged to be theologically false, experimentally impossible, and psychologically untrue. The Methodist attitude to the world is dismissed with a gesture as ridiculously narrow, utterly tyrannical, and socially absurd. There is no difficulty in knowing what a Methodist is. I wish some one would tell us if the Methodist is still a Methodist."

"There are still Methodists alive, for Methodism is New Testament Christianity ablaze with the fire of Pentecost. There is still a Methodist Gospel, a Methodist experience, and a Methodist passion for the salvation of souls. It is still at work, and it works. That is my testimony. Let the new sort of Methodist show me his faith, and I will show him the old faith by its works."

III.

DOES PRAYER CURE WORRY?

A great deal of the nervous prostration and sickness people are suffering from today comes from worry. We fully agree with the poet when he sings:

"O Lord, how happy should we be
If we could cast our care on Thee,
If we from self could rest,
And feel at heart that One above,
In perfect wisdom, perfect love,
Is working for the best!"

Dr. Orchid, a very eminent English preacher discussing this matter of worry, says a few wonderful things:

"Is there a cure for worry? And if there is, what is it? Most people would say that work is the remedy. That is to say: Get your mind off your worry by putting it on your work! But this is no real remedy. It means at the best only a postponement of the trouble, for when you are through with your work the worry returns. You are back at the old spot. You have to face up to the old difficulty after all. To ignore a thing is not to get rid of it. It will return, probably with greater force than before. St. Paul does not say, 'Work off your worry!' What he does say is, 'Pray it off!' (See Phil. 4:6)."

Perhaps what I have written is more paraphrase than quotation. But anyhow, it conveys the gist of what was said.

"To pray is to turn the mind out," said the Doctor, and affirmed it a most healthful thing to do. We were told that it is good psychology as well as good religion. People with worries are encouraged to talk them out with their psychological confessors. The act of laying bare the soul brings relief. A friend is one who can listen well. And often, as the talk proceeds, the thing that produced the state of worry shrinks into a very charming illustration. He said:

"When you take your little child to bed, you take off its things. The child rests better afterwards. So, when you go to God in prayer, take off from your soul all the things that worry you. You will rest better afterwards. The peace of God will come to you imperceptibly. The peace of God always comes as a surprise. You say, 'A minute ago I was worrying! I'm not worrying now! This must be God!' All this is very wonderful. All this is very true."

And now listen to a man's story:

"I don't often talk about myself, but as you know, I've been through a lot of trouble lately, and I would like to say something to God's glory. My son lay very ill, and night after night we got no rest. After five nights I felt clean exhausted, and worried to the point of despair. I said to myself, 'I will go upstairs to pray!' I threw myself down by my bed, and I said, 'O God, I'm finished!' I could not say any more. Immediately God came to me in peace and gave me strength and assurance. I got up with a calm soul. The lad slept well that night. So did we all. I have felt ever since that I want to tell people who God is, and what He can do. All that has been said tonight about prayer being the cure for worry I have proved to be true."

IV.

PHILOSOPHY AND THE GOSPEL.

This is a day when philosophy has a high place in educational affairs. Students now are not content with their A.B. or their M.A., they move on to their degree in philosophy. We are not saying that this is entirely wrong. A man may be a good man and a good Christian as a Ph.D. The trouble today is that too many of our preachers are reading philosophy instead of theology and they preach philosophy instead of the gospel. It is a pitiful sight to see a young graduate occupying the pulpit and wasting sacred time in preaching some vagaries of philosophy instead of the certainties of the gospel.

Bishop Henderson speaking at Pittsburgh on the work of Evangelism said that, he observed that ministers who were read up on philosophy were no success as soul-winners. We once asked Dr. H. H. Meyers, of The Sunday School Board, why he used a certain philosophical writer so much in writing on the lessons and asked, "If we needed so much philosophy in the literature?"

The best that Greek philosophy could do in the matter of religion was to rear a monument to the "Unknown God." Modern philosophy is leading exactly in the same direction. It destroys Christian experience. It destroys faith and assurance, and it finally lands the soul where the best it can do is to bow down before the altar of the unknown God.

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

CHAPTER XIII.

PETER CARTWRIGHT.

(This chapter belonged earlier in the series, as he was a preacher in the days of Asbury and McKendree; but among the great characters, should not be left out.—Author).

HE Methodist circuit rider holds a unique place in the pioneer program; he did not follow the pathfinders, but he was a pathfinder above all others. The true history of America will not be written until the "Knights of the Long Road" be given their true place and accredited the honor due them. Among those sturdy apostles of righteousness, who for nearly three quarters of a century, was a powerful factor in moulding the thought life of a parish which covered three or more states, there was none more spectacular and dramatic than Peter Cartwright. He was a physical giant, and a veritable terror to evildoers, and at a time when pioneer life was at its roughest stage.

It is interesting to glean some of the lights and shadows which marked the early career of this renowned character. He was born in Amherst County, Va., September 9, 1785. His father was very poor, having spent seven years as a soldier in the Revolutionary War; and at the time, just after the surrender at Yorktown, before the poorly paid veterans could establish homes, Peter was born. Hearing of the glowing reports of the country beyond the Allegheny Mountains, and hoping to find better facilities for a homestead, the Cartwright family immigrated to Kentucky, and settled near what is now Lancaster, in company with some two hundred families. In a short time they pushed further on into the wilderness of Logan county which covered a vast area.

Places and names have changed in a large measure, and the exact location of their settlement is hard to find. But of this we are not concerned; but the mother being a Virginia Methodist, induced the circuit riders to make their cabin home a regular "appointment" for preaching. A rude church was soon built near a place known as "Rogue's Harbor", and having another name cannot now be located. It took its name from the character of the people who gathered there; they were renegades, thieves, gamblers, and murderers fleeing from justice elsewhere. There was no school, no papers or literature of any kind, and scarcely any communication with other settlements. Sunday was a day given over to drinking, fighting, gambling, horse racing, and dancing. Social life was at its worst, and young Peter Cartwright was a part of all that vile rowdiness. He was but a lad in years, yet was large and well developed, and in fighting and gambling well able to take care of himself.

Just before his seventeenth birthday, life assumed a serious trend, and he began to think on his way; no doubt the earnest prayers of his devout mother figured in his change of mind. The crisis came while attending the Cane Bridge camp meeting (somewhere in Logan county, Ky.,) which resulted in his radical conversion. He claimed always, that he heard an audible Voice which spoke to him: "Thy sins which are many are all forgiven." With his conversion came the call to preach, and this was in the year 1801, the beginning of the great camp meeting movement which swept all over Kentucky and Tennessee. He was known as "The Kentucky Boy" wherever he appeared at a camp meeting.

In the year 1802 he was granted "exhorter's" license, and he exercised this authority at every opportunity in what was then Lewis county. The same year he asked for authority to travel and hold revival meetings, and this was granted him, on the condition, that he report his labors at the "Fourth Quarterly Conference," the body granting him this privilege. With this new commission he traveled over a vast section of country throughout Kentucky and Tennessee.

Th next year he was received into the "Traveling Connection" and assigned as preacher on the Livingston Circuit of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The salary allowed for a single preacher was eighty dollars a year, and once speaking of his early remuneration, said: "Nine times out of ten, not half of it was paid."

In the year 1804 he was appointed junior preacher on the "Salt River," and Shelbyville circuits, and after traveling for two years was ordained deacon by Bishop Asbury. His next charge was the Scioto circuit, covering the greater part of Ohio. He traveled this work for two years, and was ordained Elder in 1808 by Bishop McKendree; he was married the same year to Frances Gaines.

Peter Cartwright's itinerary had given him a wide experience, as he had traveled over three states, and had developed into a very popular revival and camp meeting preacher. From every angle he was a typical product of the pioneer life at its best and worst. He was unusually endowed as a preacher; his voice was like the "Son of Thunder," and it struck terror to the sinners. His physique towered above his fellows, and born with an innate courage so indomitable, that he never looked into the face of a man he feared. With such an unusual equipment, he blazed a pathway of salvation and righteousness wherever he went.

In the year 1812 he was appointed presiding elder by Bishop Asbury in the Tennessee Conference, which covered more than the present state. In the office of presiding elder Peter Cartwright served longer than perhaps any other man in the history of Methodism; he was presiding elder for fifty years. One of the rare books of early Methodism is his book: "Fifty Years a Presiding Elder." In the year 1815 he was elected a delegate to the General Conference and we doubt if any man, other than a bishop, ever sat in that body as a member so often; he was honored as a delegate to thirteen General Conferences, and was an active force in all of them but one, and then was hindered because of illness in his family. We believe this record to be without a parallel in Methodism.

In 1824 he moved to Illinois, and cast his lot with the sentiments of the North which, even at that early date, were beginning to foretell the coming rupture. He gives as his reasons for leaving the Southland, which he loved, and politically remained a Democrat, loyal to the Union, as follows: 1. "I left the South to avoid the evils of slavery. 2. I could raise my children where work was not thought a degradation. 3. I thought I could better my temporal needs, secure land for my children when they grew up. 4. Carry the gospel to destitute souls in a great needy region."

He settled in Pleasant Plains, Ill., and was assigned to the Sangamon circuit for one year; this being the only break in his service as a presiding elder. He became interested in local politics, and was a member of the Illinois Legislature for two terms, and he did this without hindering his ministerial duties. Because of ill health, he was granted the superannuated relation in the year 1832, but the action was reconsidered, and he was appointed presiding elder.

In the General Conference of 1844, he fought to the last against the division of the Church, and did not give up until the final vote of separation was taken. A divided Methodism grieved him greatly. He was bitterly opposed to slavery; but contended that the negroes should be colonized in Africa, under the supervision of the white people. He fought vigorously against any effort to do away with the itineracy, or to limit its powers. In a speech on the General Conference floor to this end, he said: "I have enjoyed membership in our beloved church for nearly sixty-nine years, and for sixty-five years have been a regular traveling preacher, and have filled nearly all the offices in the church, from class-leader to presiding elder; have been in thirteen General Conferences, and in sixty-five annual conferences, and all these have seen the practical working of her rules, in almost every possible way, and have never seen the time when they proved a failure."

He was the most renowned pioneer, backwoods preacher in the history of Methodism; his preaching was evangelistic, pure and simple. No man ever used his faculties and meager opportunities to a greater advantage. A biographer says this of him: "Of the few books of science and general knowledge that were accessible to him, by loan or purchase, he made good and noble use, until his mind became a vast storehouse of valuable information; although without order or system, perhaps, known as a collegiate education, yet so perfect was his command of that knowledge, that at a moment, and under any emergency, in argument, in debate, or proclaiming Christ from the pulpit, he could bring into requisition to vanish an enemy, or convince a sinner of the error of his way."

He was a tireless worker; he organized congregations, built churches, and looked diligently after every interest of the Cause in a manner excelled by none; he was felt in the higher councils of his church without a peer. Physically, mentally, and morally, he was one hundred percent a man. "Without losing dignity and grace, he maintained his ministerial integrity, usefulness and influence. In the cabinet, or in the conference; in the pulpit, or on the rostrum; in the legislative halls, or among the people; in the church, or in the world, he possessed a wit and grace, mirth and dignity, yet of these strange combinations of character, his fame remains untarnished."

In his book: "Fifty Years a Presiding Elder," many and unusual were his experiences. This story is apropos of the sterling character of the man. A young preacher had been appointed to a circuit, far up in the breaks of the mountain foothills of Tennessee, and the country was wild and rough, without schools or any kind of religious advantages. On the first round, at one of the churches, a big bully gave the young preacher a severe beating, and was told to move out, that they were not going to have any lazy preachers in that neck of the woods. Of course, the young man reported to his elder, the situation, and wanted to give up the work. But the presiding elder told him to go home and visit, until he heard from him, that he would go up there, and he went.

He was riding within a few miles of this particular church, where the big bully had persecuted the circuit rider, and an appointment had been sent there by the elder, without saying who the preacher would be. He fell in company with a strange man on the way to the appointment, that Sunday morning. They, of course, conversed. Finally, the stranger remarked, that "Right here I gave a little Methodist preacher one of the d— whippings a man ever got." Mr. Cartwright said: "You did?" "I sure did." "Well, sir, then you are the very man I came up into this country to see. Right here I am going to give you the same kind of a whipping you gave that preacher." "Get down," he shouted to him, "or I'll pull you off, you dirty coward." Having gotten off his own horse, he seized the bridle reins of the other,

GRIEVING THE SPIRIT.

Evangelist F. Lincicome.

Text—Eph. 4:30: "Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God."

THE Holy Spirit is called by name twelve times in the book of Ephesians, and when those twelve passages are classified they fall into three groups. We have four facts about the Holy Spirit, four instructions of the Holy Spirit, and four results of the Holy Spirit. My text is one of these instructions. The Holy Spirit is a person and may be grieved; in this sermon we will call your attention to six ways by which he may be grieved:

I. We grieve the Holy Spirit by a Misplaced Emphasis.

Most churches have failed through one of two contrasting faults—either they have lost their force or lost their field. The large church has lost its force or power through compromise. The holiness churches have lost their field through an exaggerated and misplaced emphasis on incidental truth. So we have the big church with the field but no force, and the holiness church with the force but no field. Which is the worst, for a church to lose its force or its field? If it loses its force, it is ruined, and if it loses its field it is useless. The holiness churches in many places have lost their field by preaching a negative gospel. If we are to maintain both the force and the field, it must be done by the preaching of a positive gospel upon the fundamentals of our faith and behavior; by putting the emphasis upon essential truth. All truth is equally inspired, but it is not equally important. What we eat and what we drink and what we wear play a definite importance in our salvation, but if undue emphasis is placed on them they hinder the whole range of divine truth, for truth is a unit and is symmetrical, and undue emphasis on any one phase spoils the symmetry. So the Holy Spirit is grieved by a misplaced and exaggerated emphasis on secondary truth.

II. We grieve the Holy Spirit by our Treatment of the Bible.

The Bible is the product of the Holy Ghost. "Holy men spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." "All scripture is given by inspiration."

There are four ways the Bible is treated that grieves the Holy Ghost: 1. By neglecting to study it. 2. By putting it out of the public schools. 3. By the ministry preaching so little of it. 4. By trifling with its contents.

Many of the "high brows" (a high brow is a man who is educated above his intelligence) have gotten together and decided that the Holy Ghost didn't know enough to write a book; so they have given us an up-to-date Bible. They tell us that our fathers were good enough men and doubtless went to heaven when they died, but their old foggy notions would never do for this advanced age.

As I hear them talk this way it reminds me of some college boys who caught a dozen different kinds of bugs and dissected them and constructed one big bug out of the various parts of the twelve bugs, and after they had made it asked the old professor of Natural history to tell them what kind of a bug it was, and the old professor told them that it was a humbug. So likewise many of the modern divines have from various sources gathered various theories, and when they have them put together they have a very peculiar looking creature. Its body is Higher Criticism; its head is Evolution; its legs are Liberalism and Agnosticism; its wings are Theosophy and Spiritualism, and its tail is Christian Science.

III. We grieve the Holy Spirit by confining Him to certain Cut and Dried Methods.

The Holy Spirit cannot be confined to certain methods. When the Holy Ghost really comes he makes his own method. On the day of Pentecost there was no thought of methods—everybody was up and at it, doing the will of God. All this talk about methods makes me a bit tired. It is not a question of methods—it is a question farther back. Give us something of the same old-time power, vision and soul burden that our fathers had and we will see something of the same kind of results.

Evangelism is more than a method—it is a consecrated personality set on fire by the Holy Ghost, with both arms outreaching after a devil-captured, sin-enslaved world. The character as well as the fortunes of the gospel is not committed to methods—it is committed to men. The Holy Ghost does not flow through methods—he flows through men. The Holy Ghost does not come upon machinery—he comes upon men. It is not better methods the churches need—it is better men—better men in the pulpit and better men in the pew.

IV. We grieve the Holy Spirit by Placing Inferior Estimate on His Agency in the Work of Salvation.

I have a growing conviction that the person and work of the Holy Ghost have never received the prominence in our ministry that their relative importance demands. For everything that has to do with our salvation now comes directly under his administration. Take away the powerful efficacy of the Holy Ghost from the administration of the gospel and it proves a dead letter and of no saving advantage.

In the work of salvation nothing can be substituted for the Holy Ghost. Modernism has knocked at the door of the churches, and, sad to say, many of them have thrown their doors wide open and said, "Come in," and when it came in it found an immense deposit of old, worn-out doctrines and methods that it said would have to be either modified or relegated to the scrap pile; but in most cases have been modified until we have only a modified Christianity.

Modern evangelism is worshipping personality and machinery. It is putting the laurel on intellectuality as the prime qualification for the soul-saving work. The church is right in principle, but wrong in emphasis. The emphasis must not be put on Boston, Princeton and Yale, but on Jerusalem. We receive at Pentecost that which gives us our most essential qualification. A church without the Holy Ghost may be ethical, but it is not spiritual; it may be economic, but not organic; it may be reformatory, but not regenerative. You ask me why there is such a wholesale decline in spirituality throughout this country, and I will tell you it is because there is a wholesale grieving of the Holy Ghost in this country.

V. We grieve the Holy Spirit by Thwarting him, and we Thwart him by Failing to Walk in the Light he Brings.

God has many agencies through which he reveals his light—nature, good books, preaching, testimony, holy living, the Bible, and also by the Holy Spirit. There are degrees in light. God does not hand down the blue prints of his entire plan for our life the day he saves us. Abraham went out not knowing where he was going. He had no knowledge of the ultimate goal, but did have some knowledge of the present direction. Because there are degrees in light some people are going to get to heaven cheaper than others. The little babe, the idiot, the heathen, the member in the big church, will all get to heaven cheaper than the holiness crowd. How many can say that they have walked in all the light God has flashed on their pathway. I believe that 85% or more of professed Christians are more or less out of divine order because of a failure to walk in all the light.

VI. We grieve the Holy Spirit by Living Experimentally in the Wrong Dispensation.

Multiplied thousands providentially, chronologically, nominally and historically are living in the Holy Ghost dispensation, but experimentally are living in some other dispensation. Many are like the twelve men Paul found at Ephesus. They were experimentally in the wrong dispensation. There is a host of people living religiously at Sinai. The man who sins and repents and repents and sins is an Old Testament Christian. He has not reached the New Testament yet. Oh, his head may be in the New, but his heart and life are back in the Old, with the old Jews everlastingly tramping around Mount Sinai. There is a numerous population living at Calvary. They have been converted, but they are conscious of a civil war going on in their hearts. "The flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit lusteth against the flesh." The Holy Spirit is grieved to have us live at Sinai or at Calvary. He wants us to go on to Jerusalem and receive the sanctifying power.

God's Wonders of Fifty Years.

The above is the title of a most interesting book from the facile and charming pen of Rev. George H. Means, D.D. The book contains 302 pages, good print, on excellent paper, and covers a wide range of subjects. Dr. Means, in this book, gives experiences, observations and incidents covering fifty years of his ministry. It will be read with great interest, especially to those who know something of the history and men of the Kentucky and Louisville Conferences. The book may be purchased of The Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky. Price, $1.00, postage 10c extra.

Bishop H. C. Morrison—An Appreciation.

Rev. George H. Means, D. D.

AMONG my friends, and I trust there are many, I place Bishop Morrison at the head of the list. Not because he was a bishop, but because of a long, unselfish, and unbroken friendship of fifty years.

When I first joined the conference as a traveling preacher, I preached the funeral sermon of the Bishop's father-in-law, and from that time we became as intimate as brothers in the flesh.

When I passed through the Course of Study, the Bishop was the chairman of the third year. His report of my examination was so flattering that I will not record it. Suffice it to say that on the strength of his report Dr. Messick, who was chairman of the fourth year, after asking me one question, said he would examine me no further. I had brought up the third and fourth year, and by the unanimous consent of the Committee, I was indorsed and passed after I had answered one question.

In the long years of our friendship I came to know the Bishop well. Not a year passed he did not visit me, and often with his wife. When he was first elected Bishop I said to him: "Bishop, I never intend to take an advantage of our long friendship to ask you for any kind of a favor, and I don't want to be consulted concerning my appointments. But there is one request I hope you will grant. I will ask that you treat every preacher as familiarly and brotherly as you would treat me. God knows that Methodist preachers have a hard time at the best—especially their wives. They will come to you with their wants, their cares, their difficulties. Be patient, be kind, be sympathetic, and make them feel that you are 'touched with the feeling of their infirmities.' Just remember that you are only a preacher like the rest of us, placed in power by a few votes. I insist on it; be brotherly to the humblest preacher on a mountain mission. If you do this your brethren will die for you. If you don't they will get up early of a morning, and sit up late at night, so as to have a long day to express their contempt for you." Whether the Bishop was seriously impressed with my social homily I do not know, but convulsed with laughter, he slapped himself on the knee, a characteristic gesture, and said, "Well, did you ever know me to be unbrotherly to anyone?" I replied, "No, but I have heard you say many times that an elevation to the Episcopacy swelled up some preachers like an inflated balloon; there are many exceptions of course, and I hope you will be free from that grievous fault."

With all my undying love for the Bishop's memory, I am very far from believing that he was perfect. He had his faults—who has not? He had his enemies—who has not? He made mistakes—who does not? He was impulsive—so was Peter. He was dynamic—so was Luther. God has always honored the work of many servants in the church who were perfect storm-clouds of unspent thunder; and Morrison's work had scarcely a parallel in the church.

Several years ago the Bishop requested me to write his biography. I said, "Every man can write his own life better than anyone can write it for him. You write it; I will edit it. I will write the introduction, and the concluding chapter, with as many comments as I see proper to add. He reluctantly consented and in a short time he sent me his first installment which I refused to accept, saying, "I will not incorporate this in your book, because it is an account of the escapades of your boyhood, and would detract from the dignity of your narrative. The people are not interested in your boyish freaks, and follies. They want to know what you were in your ripened manhood."

The Bishop did not like my refusal, and the matter was dropped for four years. One day in my home he asked me if I was still unwilling to edit his book. I told him I was, but was still unwilling to use that first chapter. He studied for a moment and then said playfully, "Oh well, leave it out then, you sap-head; you never did have much sense anyhow." I was not disposed to dispute his statement, but I had my own way, and the work began. But I was soon sorry that I had done all the work, principally because he left out all the most striking incidents of his career, and also because his talent was in his tongue and not in his pen. He was not a writer; his sentences were weak and awkwardly expressed, and I had hard work whipping them into shape.

Sometime previous to this, he was tried at the General Conference for maladministration, and I wrote an article on the Trial of a Bishop, in which I defended him. The Bishop was tried for removing presiding elders after they had served four years in that office. He had done just what the law authorized him to do, and his trial for doing it was like giving a man snuff and punishing him for sneezing. I am not disposed to revive a case that with all its errors is past history and is sunk into oblivion. I will only add that to the credit of the General Conference be it said that body unanimously acquitted Morrison; and since that time the offence for which he was tried has become the universal custom of the church.

The article defending Bishop Morrison was published in nearly all our church papers, and many editors wrote to me for more. But as the Bishop had furnished all the facts and I had furnished the law the subject was exhausted. When the Bishop wrote his Autobiography he asked me if I would incorporate my article in his book, I consented, and it is there today full and complete for all who care to read it.

It has been the impression throughout the church that Bishop Morrison and I were related. But this is not true. We were not related in any way, neither by the ties of consanguinity nor the laws of marriage. That false report was started for a purpose. That purpose is not necessary for me to explain, because the reason for it is now generally understood.

Doctrinally, Bishop was orthodox to the core; religiously, his piety was deep and genuine; theologically, he was not a great preacher, but was one of the greatest Masters of Assemblies of his day; officially, he often made mistakes, but everything he did, he believed to be for the best interest of the church.

Late in life he said to me, "I can truly say that since my conversion in my eighteenth year I have done all I can to build up the kingdom of God." I did not doubt his statement, knowing him as I did; he was always about his Master's business, with never-tiring zeal.

We corresponded nearly every week during our long friendship of fifty years, and only a few weeks before his death he wrote me saying, "The outlook is glorious as I near the end of my earthly journey."

His had been a faithful journey and I was not surprised when at its end he "stood on Pisgah's top, and the Lord showed him all the land."

I had been his successor in the pastorate, and knew of his incessant labors in the field. I had seen him in adversity when the clouds above him grew black and ominous. I had been in his home, when the shadows of death crept over the threshold; three children had been taken from him, and his devoted wife had lingered for years unconscious of her earthly surroundings; in a word many sorrows had crossed the life-line in his palm, but his faith never faltered. In life's storms his anchor never dragged; so I was not surprised that in the end he said "the outlook is glorious." From time to time in his last letters he repeated, "the outlook is glorious."

What he saw, of course I do not know; he did not say. It may have been he beheld the spires of the Celestial City, and the Trees of Life, waving their fronded palms in the balm-breathing gardens of God. It may be he heard the lute and harp pealing forth their heavenly hallelujahs to greet him a welcome to his Master's Joy. That ante-room to heaven is sealed to all earthly eyes and ears; its silence is sacred; and the sentinel's slow, sullen tramp forbids our entrance into that sanctuary, until we ourselves are ready to "enter into the rest prepared for the people of God."

Evangelist E. L. Hyde at Asbury College.

The Culpepper Lectures on Evangelism this year were given at Asbury College by Dr. E. L. Hyde, of New Jersey. They were a wonderful series of the most eminently practical lectures on Evangelism we have ever heard. Dr. Hyde is an evangelist of forty years' standing and has held some of the largest revivals in the East; he has held over one hundred revival meetings in Philadelphia. He is now President of Pitman Grove Camp Meeting, and a Director of Ocean Grove, and is in charge of the holiness meetings there in the summer.

The Lectures were of the most eminently practical character, taking up the subjects of Evangelistic Preaching, How to Conduct the Altar Service, Personal Work, Illustrations, etc., etc.

Many evangelists and lecturers have come to Asbury but no man endeared himself to the students more than Brother Hyde. He helped the young preachers and evangelists by showing them how he did it in revivals, in all kinds of churches, under all kinds of conditions and with all kinds of people to deal with. Bro. Hyde has a great record as a soul winner. He can tell out of a rich experience how to do it. Thank you, Bro. Hyde, for coming to Asbury.

A Splendid Bible for Young People.

The Oxford University Press has sent us, for review, a beautiful new Bible especially designed to meet the needs of young people. It is 5x8, about an inch and a half thick, printed in nonpareil type. It has 77 illustrations and 5 maps.

The special feature is the section of Bible Helps for Young Folks. This takes up such questions as, "What the Bible Contains," "Characters of the Bible," Some of the leading Parables, Miracles, Bible countries, Rivers, Seas, Cities, etc.

The last section takes up constructive Bible questions, such as the construction, teachings relative to morals, the church, personal decision, etc. There are also many topics discussed by the question and answer method. For one who desires more knowledge of the Bible, this is a splendid text book.

It is nicely bound in French Morocco, with divinity circuit and gold edges. We can supply it to you for $3.50. Order of The Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

Friend, are you walking with God, or are you a stranger in this lonely world passing down to the lonelier tomb and the great unknown beyond? That heavenly Friend in human form with a heart like yours and a nature that understands you, is stretching out his hand to you now and saying to you, "I will dwell in them and walk in them, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God."—A. SIN AND ITS REMEDY.

DR. L. R. AKERS, President Asbury College.

IT was John Stuart Mill who said, "If there is one fact, the reality of which is certain, it is that of evil." Any candid mind viewing dispassionately humanity today, recalling the bath of blood through which the world has recently passed, beholding the backwash of the great war with its suspicion, greed, hatred, and hopelessness,—whatever may be his nationality or creed, surely cannot but acknowledge the fact of sin.

When we ask, "What is sin?" we are at once led into a maze of mystery. There are three answers that might be given,—that of Scripture, that of philosophy, and that of modern science. The Bible speaks of sin as a transgression of the divine law originally given in the conscience. Philosophy sees sin in its essence as selfishness. Modern science holds sin to be due to the conflict of the "lower man" with the "higher," or the struggle of the ape with the angel.

It is not for us in this brief discussion to attempt to enlarge upon these theories. The thing we would emphasize is the fact of sin, and the remedy for sin. Sin has been the theme of the ages. It has engrossed the minds of the world's greatest thinkers from the early dawn of history to the present day. To find the solution of the riddle of sin has been the theme of poets, philosophers, seers and sages throughout the ringing changes of the centuries. Many interesting and unique hypotheses have been presented; all sorts of remedies have been tried; but there remains more hideous, more menacing than ever—the fact of sin.

From the old Persian and Manichæan idea which held that sin is eternal, to the Christian Scientist who declares that sin is only an illusion, we have run the gamut of every variety of thought, creed, and philosophy. The Grecian Gnostics held that sin was inherent in matter alone; that the soul was an emanation from God, not susceptible to sin. Unlike Christian Science, it did not deny the existence of matter.

The mountain-minded Plato speaks of our natural wickedness; Pythagoras of "the fatal companion, the noxious strife that lurks within us, and was born along with us." The silver-tongued Cicero declared that a man was brought into life with "a soul prone to divers lusts"; while Seneca, wisest of sages, observes that "we are born not subject to fewer disorders of the mind than of the body." Juvenal, a famous Latin writer, says, "Nature unchangeably fixed, tends, yea, runs back to wickedness, as bodies to their center."

Evidently these great heathen minds of yesterday were more orthodox in their Christian view of sin than many preachers of today who ridicule innate depravity. Poets of our own era as well as the leaders of ancient thought testified throughout their writings to man's deadly heritage of sin. The empire-minded Shakespeare in Hamlet makes the king exclaim,

"O wretched state!
O bosom full of death!"

From the tomes of literature we turn to the great commentators of the Church and find the same spiritual malady of sin recognized and deplored. The saintly Fletcher declares that "Inbred sin is the capital and most mischievous work of the devil." Whedon affirms that "There is a state of evil as well as an evil action which, in the Scriptures, is called 'sin'"; while Adam Clarke, the peer of all commentators, says, "Sin exists in the soul after two modes or forms: guilt, which requires forgiveness, and pollution, which requires cleansing. In order to get a clean heart a man must know and feel its depravity, acknowledge and deplore it before God, in order to be fully sanctified." Doctor Hodge, of Princeton Seminary, discussing the subject, remarks, "All sin is not in agency or act; it may be, and is, also a condition or state of mind." Practically all known churches affirm their belief in original sin, and six methods are advanced for its removal: the Pelagian, the Zinzendorffian, the Roman, the Calvinistic, the Wesleyan, and the Modern. The Pelagian would cure the malady by simply denying its existence, being in close accord with the Christian Scientists of our day. The Zinzendorffian remedy is that both the state of sin and the guilt of sin are removed at conversion, making regeneration and sanctification practically identical. The Roman Church creates its purgatory as a purging agency; while Calvinism finds relief from original sin in physical death. The Modern view is to modify the idea of original sin by calling it racial tendency, fleshly susceptibility, or some similar phrasing.

The Wesleyan method differs from all these in not denying the existence of sin, as does Christian Science, nor affirming its destruction at conversion, according to Zinzendorf; purgatory is set aside as unscriptural; the physical death is rejected as the cure, because the disease is that of the spirit rather than of the body. Wesley declared that the only complete, perfect, and divine cure for sin is a distinct, definite work of grace, subsequent to regeneration, and obtainable here and now by simple faith in the cleansing blood of Christ. Says he, "As we are justified by faith, so are we sanctified by faith." And, continuing, he says, "Sanctification is an instantaneous deliverance from all sin, which includes a power to always cling to God."

But Wesley is not the discoverer of some new truth or novel doctrine; rather does he re-interpret and re-emphasize in clearer terms the "faith of our Fathers living still." Back of him is an army of the sun-crowned elect of God—fathers, patriarchs, theologians, martyrs, saints,—all proclaiming the power of Christ to cleanse the heart of man from all sin.

Polycarp, disciple of St. John, Bishop of Smyrna, and Christian martyr, said, "He who is possessed of love is free from all sin." Irenæus, Bishop of Antioch, declares, "Faith is the beginning, love is the end, and these two taken together, all that pertains to perfect holiness follows." Clement, mentioned by Paul in Phil. 4:4-6, affirms, "By love were all the elect of God made perfect." Ignatius, noted bishop, speaking on Paul's prayer in 1 Thessalonians, "The very God of peace sanctify you wholly, and I pray God your whole spirit, and soul, and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ," says, "He who presents these three to God without fault is, therefore, perfect." Macarius in the fourth century tells of being "captivated by love and elevated to God." And down through the centuries the torchbearers of God's truth have held aloft, amid the sodden despair and blighting sin of the nations, the light of hope, the lamp of perfect love, that all who would might see the King's highway of Holiness and walk therein.

Hear their testimonies, their profound convictions as to Christ's power over sin. Says George Fox, founder of the Friends Church, "After I was converted I found something in my heart that would not be sweet or good. Jesus Christ came in and cast it out, and then he shut the door."

Golden-tongued Thomas Chalmers, of Scotland, exclaimed, "It were selfishness to sit down in placid contentment with the single privilege of justification. It is only the introduction to higher privileges."

Martin Luther once affirmed, "I have had a second conversion."

Matthew Henry, famous commentator, commenting on Christ's prayer for his disciples, in John 17, says, "Jesus prayed for all that are his, that they might be sanctified."

Adam Clarke speaks of this act as the cleansing by the Blood from all that has not been cleansed, the washing of the soul of the true believer from the remains of sin.

Richard Watson, master of polemics, says, "We have already spoken of regeneration, adoption, and the witness of the Spirit. We proceed to another experience as distinctly marked and as graciously promised in the Scriptures, namely, the entire sanctification, or perfection, of believers."

The sainted John Fletcher speaks time and again of the "blessing of perfect love."

Alexander Campbell, founder of the Campbellite, or Disciples, Church, made this declaration, "Nay, I esteem it the peculiar excellence of our religion that it is spiritual, that the soul of man is quickened, enlightened, sanctified, and consoled by the indwelling presence of the Spirit of the Eternal God." Again, "After our regeneration the Holy Spirit is shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Saviour." In the mouth of many witnesses shall not the truth be established?

The writer of this article would pause here to give a word of personal testimony to the power of this gracious work of grace. It is with gratitude to God that we record being rocked in the cradle of a Methodist parsonage by a sainted mother who experienced and lived a life of heart purity before she knew what to term it.

Some years later my father who was an evangelistic pastor, heard Dr. Beverly Caradine preaching with great unction and power on the experience of "entire sanctification" and it was then that he said, "I know now what your mother has, and I shall seek the same endowment of power." He received the baptism of the Holy Spirit in sanctifying power, and the change in his preaching was electrical. There was greater conviction, more fruitful altar services, and a spiritual awakening that was unusual.

Coming to Asbury College as a Christian son of a Methodist preacher, I found the atmosphere of the school entirely different from anything I had ever known and there arose in my heart a hunger for the fullness of God. Under the preaching of Dr. Shepherd this unworthy writer bowed at the altar to die out to self, to plans which ran counter to the Divine will, and after a soul struggle terrific in intensity there came the unconditional surrender and with it the peace that passeth all knowledge, the rest of faith. Is it not indeed true that the Spirit-filled life means first an agony and then the anthem? Never shall we get away from that hour with its sense of soul cleansing, when the ocean tides of divine grace and heavenly love seemed almost overwhelming.

Twenty years have passed in the pastorate of the Methodist Church, in every church there have been revivals led in every instance by some holiness evangelist or by the pastor. Almost every year we have been refreshed by a stay at Camp Sychar, Sebring, or Hollow Rock. However, not until our coming to Asbury College have we appreciated to the fullest extent the great need for a Spirit-filled ministry with a great message of full salvation to grapple and contend successfully with an age that is worshipping mud gods of lust, pleasure, and worldliness. In this hour when the sense of God, like the sense of sin, seems to be well-nigh lost, when men glory in their doubts, and seemingly delight to unsettle the faith of our youth in their fathers' Bible and their mothers' Christ, when the Virgin Birth is slightly spoken of, the Deity of our Lord questioned, hell relegated to the limbo of the mythical, heaven called a beautiful phantasy—when those immortal truths that

RAYMOND BROWNING'S LETTER.

Some of my friends remind me that it has been some time since I broadcasted anything from The Herald station. As one of the schoolboys once remarked, "Tempus do fugit" and four months have slipped by since my last message. During that time I have held revivals for the Quakers at Alliance, O., and Salem, O., and then a revival in East Grand Boulevard Church in Detroit, Mich., and now we are in the second week of a splendid revival in First Methodist Church of Lansing, Mich. One of the glorious things about being an evangelist is that it is just one continuous adventure and interesting events and interesting people crowd upon one another in such swift succession that one could make a very readable book using the events of just a few real revival meetings. As I sit here in my room and unroll the panorama of memory and the scenes of the revival at Alliance, Ohio, I hardly know what to select for the brief space of a few paragraphs in this letter. First and most important is the fact that people were saved and sanctified at almost every night service after about the middle of the first week. This is not surprising when you see the great band of folks in that church who will pray and testify and do personal work on a moment's notice. Their pastor, Brother C. A. Roane, was formerly in the evangelistic field and he has carried his evangelistic fervor right along in his pastoral work. This reminds me that this dear brother has had a nervous breakdown recently and we must pray for him that he may soon be restored to his usual vigor and activity. His church is a spiritual oasis in that city. It is like the second week of a camp meeting to hear the folks sing and pray and testify.

My next meeting was in Salem, Ohio, in the Friends Church of which Brother Chas. Haworth is pastor. He is a gentle, unassuming, spirit full of wisdom and discretion and yet firm in his convictions and loyal to the truth. Conditions were a little harder at this place and finally we had a day of fasting and prayer before anything unusual happened. Some fine talented young people were saved and sanctified and the revival closed with the church encouraged and uplifted. Miss Alma Budman led the singing for us. Her messages in song were pleasing and inspiring, and her work at the altar unusually effective. Next day after this revival closed I took a severe cold and tonsillitis developed and five days I was in bed most of the time. My doctor thought I ought to rest for awhile but my pastor, Brother O. C. Seevers, and Brother George Fuller came around and prayed for me so I got out of bed and caught the evening train for Detroit.

The East Grand Boulevard Methodist Church, of which Brother William Pellowe is pastor, has a large number of staunch holiness people many of whom came into the experience of entire sanctification under the preaching of the late Dr. Nixon who was in former years pastor of that flock. It is refreshing to find a scholarly young man like Brother Pellowe holding steadfastly to the old Methodist conception of full salvation and it was a great privilege and pleasure to work with him. We were there three weeks and after the third night of the revival there was hardly an altar call that did not bring souls to the altar. Almost any night there would be eight or ten saved or sanctified and the last night of the revival there were about thirty blest at the altar. Rev. Alvin Young, of Northville, N. Y., led the singing for us. He is a good preacher, a beautiful soloist, and a capable altar worker. He is to be with me through this revival at Lansing, of which you will hear later.

Let me add a little exhortation to this letter. In the last revival I picked up thirty-six subscribers to The Herald. That will mean more than a hundred new readers who will fellowship with The Herald family. We evangelists ought to remember that this paper furnishes wonderful pasturage for holiness people. Every subscription will make friends for the next evangelist who comes to preach full salvation.

REVIVAL AT FAIRVIEW, KENTUCKY.

On March 26th, we began a revival at the Fairview Methodist Church of the Pine Grove charge. Rev. T. W. Beeler, Conference Evangelist, came on Monday to assist in the meeting. Under his earnest presentation of the gospel, the prejudices of the people were soon conquered, their keen interest enlisted and the meeting moved off at a good pace. The meeting lasted from March 26 to April 10. During this time the church was greatly quickened and revived. Several sought God at an altar of prayer, either in the home or at the church. On the closing night about fifty claimed that they had been definitely blest. Six came forward to hand in their names for membership. We hope to receive more names later. The people of the Christian Church attended and supported this meeting as heartily as the Methodists. Throughout there was perfect harmony.

Brother Beeler stripped himself of all ecclesiasticism and preached the sincere milk of the word until people of different denominations received the word gladly and freely. They said that they had never been favored with such great preaching as that which this man of God gave them. The Christian people as well as the Methodists urged that he come back next year for a month's meeting. Bro. Beeler is an able preacher, able to win the people and get the gospel to the hearts and minds of the people in such a way that definite results are sure to follow. He is a soul winner, a man loyal to the church, and which any pastor would feel glad to have in his church for a meeting, once he could listen to his ministry and see the results that come from his labors. If you want a man who can preach the truth, build up the church, and get the people revived and working in better harmony and fellowship, call Bro. Beeler at Wilmore, Ky.

Rev. A. D. Houglin, Pastor.

A GOOD CAMPAIGN.

We are closing tonight at Escatawpa, Ala., one of the best campaigns of our experience. For more than two weeks we have labored here and the results have been particularly satisfying. The community is small in itself, but around it are scattered some of the best villages and towns of Washington county and our attendance was drawn from these. We were using the tent and every night saw it filled to capacity. The pastor, Rev. B. F. Brown, was untiring in his faithful assistance to the evangelist. We are to help him at Uniform, Ala., beginning April 10. The meeting was really a union revival, as both the Baptist and Methodist churches co-operated fully and worked together in delightful harmony. Between twenty-five and thirty were converted, mainly young men and women. Our work is principally with the young people and children.

From Uniform we go to Blountstown, Fla., and then back to Mobile where we are to hold a campaign during the month of May. The Lord has been especially good to us this year and we give him the praise.

MICHIGAN MEETINGS.

Am dividing a twenty-one day date between two places: Lulu, Mich., and Samaria, Mich., two adjacent towns under the same pastor. Just finished the allotted time at Lulu, and the Spirit of mighty conviction was surely on the people. Splendid altars every service. Because of the press and the lack of helpers some did not come through clearly, but there were many beautiful sights and wonderful cases of victory. One night, three brothers with their wives, got through to the blessing at the altar. You may know it was a shouting point in the service, especially when we learned that one of the men was about to lose his wife to another man, and she confessed her sin and disloyalty to her husband, and a wonderful "making up" followed and they almost had their "honeymoon" all over again. This is only one of many beautifully wonderful things which happened in ten days.

We go on to Samaria next, beginning there next Sunday. Nearly all of the Lulu folks will attend the Samaria meeting and thus be further established and strengthened.

HILL STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

April 24 we closed a blessed meeting at Hill Street Methodist Church, Louisville, Ky. It was thought best to run a week longer than was announced. Rev. T. B. Bandy stood by the evangelist all the way through. He had laid a good foundation for the revival, and God honored his efforts. Rev. A. S. Beck and brother, Rev. Horace Booker, and Brother Fred Koschewa (a sanctified German who is on fire for God) helped much in the meeting.

The following table will show some of the visible results of the services:

Number of services held	27
Average attendance	225
Requests for prayer	243
Number seekers at altar	82
Number converted and reclaimed	43
Number sanctified	11
Number subscribing for Pentecostal Herald	10
Number uniting with the church	15

We give God the glory and take courage in pressing the battle against sin and the Devil. The glory holds and the fire still burns—thank God!

CLAYTON, ALABAMA.

Mrs. Glenn and I have just closed a gracious meeting at first Church, Eufaula, Ala., with Rev. P. S. Hudson, the gifted pastor. The old-time gospel was preached and, as always, when it is accompanied with the Holy Spirit's power, results followed. Some forty persons applied for membership on profession of faith, the prayer life of the saints was enlarged and enriched, the spiritual life of the church deepened, and multitudes in the community and surrounding country brought to a more sympathetic attitude toward a full gospel. The great day of final accounting only can reveal the far-reaching effects of the meeting. We are just beginning a meeting in one of the most cultured towns of South Alabama. Spirituality, prayer and personal work are scarce articles, but we are trusting the Lord for real victory.

ADVENT MORAVIAN CHURCH WINSTON SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA.

We are glad to give a report of our revival meeting which came to a close Sunday night, April 10th. We were fortunate in having with us the Evangelist Harry H. Waller and wife, of Orlando, Fla., for 12 days. He preached clearly and forcefully, every night, much to the edification of all. We are glad that Rev. Waller preaches the blood of Christ and believes in the old-time mourner's bench. The attendance increased with every service, while on Sunday night we could not take care of the crowd. The evangelist not only preaches the gospel, but he sings it as well. Many were blessed by the solos before each sermon. As a result of these meetings there were 28 conversions, 31 united with the church, 7 have applied for church membership, the entire congregation and community were richly blessed and revived.

The congregation and friends gave the evangelist and his wife a love gift of $225.00 the last night of the revival.

We have just closed what many people say is one of the greatest revivals ever held in Milbank, S. D. Dr. Jordan Witt Carter, General Evangelist, Lexington, Ky., did the preaching. He is truly one of Methodism's great preachers. A man of wide experience, ripened thought, highly educated, a deep thinker and forceful speaker. He preaches the unadulterated gospel of Jesus Christ in its fullness. Dr. Carter speaks out in no uncertain way against sin in all its forms, declaring its fearful and certain consequences, but shows plainly that Christ has tasted death for every man, and that in him is pardon and cleansing for all who will come to him. There is nothing shallow or chaffy about his work. He is a firm believer in the inspiration of the Scriptures and preaches their glorious truths with eloquence and power. Sinners are converted and the church is truly built up under his ministry. We unhesitatingly recommend him to any needing evangelistic help.

In our meeting scores came forward to the altar, gave up their sins and found forgiveness and peace in Christ. A class of 60 was received into the church, among them some of the leading business men of the city. Our church has been lifted to a new spiritual plane. Many who had a "name to live" have now a lively testimony. We truly thank God for Dr. Carter's ministry among us. May the Lord graciously bless him in his work.

RISING SUN, INDIANA.

The Lord gave a good meeting in this old conservative city on the Ohio River. It is off from the railroad and has more aged people in it in proportion to the population than any place I have been in in a long time. Some are waiting for hell and a few for heaven.

The meeting was in the Pilgrim Holiness Church of which Revs. Mason and Mary Bolton are the pastors. They live right, stand by the truth of holiness and do not throw rocks at everybody that does not agree with them. But they never compromise on the doctrine and experience.

We had Bible Readings almost every day and service every night for seventeen days. Several of the members were rejuvenated, one or two had their souls fumigated and some really got saved and sanctified. Nine united with the church. They did the best they could for me, treated me fine, helped their pastors to make a payment on a used car and sent me home with provisions in the car.

There were delegations from the Pilgrim Holiness churches at Lawrenceburg, Aurora, and East Enterprise and from the Methodist Church at Rising Sun and Aberdeen of which Rev. H. L. Holden is pastor. On Monday night I preached with the blessing of the Lord at Aberdeen Methodist Church, ten miles from Rising Sun.

Yours for holiness,
Ural T. Hollenback.

OLYMPIA, WASHINGTON.

We are grateful to God for his continued blessing upon us. Since returning to the West Coast we have been kept busy in the revivals winning precious souls for the Master. Fields are so white and the need is so great we cannot answer the calls for help. Our hearts are mightily stirred for a great work for the Master. We earnestly desire the prayers of God's saints that the power of the Holy Ghost may make us very fruitful in the great work of saving souls. God has given us a most gracious revival at Monroe, Washington. Conviction of the old-fashioned type gripped hearts, and clear and beautiful cases of praying through were witnessed.

We are now engaged in a revival in Olympia, the Capital city of Washington. We never preached with greater liberty in the Spirit, and earnest seekers are praying at the altar in every service. May God give great victory in this campaign. "Pray for us, that the Word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified." 2 Thess. 3:1.

their faith, having practically given up all respect for the Bible and its teaching with reference to creation and the plan of salvation for mankind.

Not long since, I was entertained by a highly educated, cultured minister of the gospel who was in charge of one of the large and important churches of his denomination. He told me he had labored diligently and given to the limit of his means to build up his church school, from which his eldest son had recently graduated, and that his son had come home with his faith destroyed, full of conceit, and would sit with him until midnight arguing and denying the great essential truths of salvation as taught by Christ and the apostles. Not only so, but this same son was showing in his life and conduct the evil effects of the skepticism that had been drilled into him.

This is one instance in thousands where students come home with their faith and experience gone, and parents grieve beyond words to express as they see their children robbed of their faith, to be swallowed up in a materialistic age, while they are swept from their moral and spiritual moorings by the tremendous currents of unbelief and disobedience to the laws of God and man.

I have no doubt but the schools of Southern Methodism are as religious, taken as a whole, as the schools of any denomination in the land, and that the presidents and professors of these schools are as devoted to the church, and all for which she stands, as those of any other denomination; but it does seem that it was unwise to have passed the resolution which we have quoted above; it gives the appearance, and will make the impression, that they are quite friendly to a theory of evolution which is antagonistic to the doctrine of divine revelation. If such a resolution had been passed a few years ago, when the great Drive for Education was being made for the endowment of the colleges of the church, it would have had a fatal effect. I am confident that it is going to cause considerable controversy, and while it will be of no real benefit it will be hurtful to the best interests of church and schools, and will raise serious questions in the minds of many good people with reference to the attitude of the Board toward evangelical Christian faith, and modern liberalism which is so bold and aggressive at the present time, and is giving an uncertain sound on every vital question of Christian doctrine and experience.

Dull, indeed, must be the man who does not realize that we are approaching a great crisis in the religious history of this nation. Most all scientists who have been prominent in the teaching of the theory of evolution have been infidels, at least, agnostics. Their attitude toward evangelical Christian faith is no better than that of infidels.

The daily press is generally thoroughly friendly to evolution, in fact, to any and every theory of teaching unfriendly to saving faith and experimental religion. It is also true of the monthly magazines, also of the popular novels. Much of the preaching today is so modernistic and liberal that it practically ignores the whole matter of sin and redemption as taught in the Holy Scriptures. All of this is the sowing of seed that is bringing forth a harvest of disobedience to parents, extravagant, reckless young life, and a fearful tide of crime committed by the youth of the land. It does seem it is a most unfortunate time for the leaders of our educational institutions to have given expression to sentiments that will meet with the hearty approval of unbelievers, everywhere, and thoroughly offensive to the more devout element of Christian people in all denominations.

It is generally understood that a skeptical teacher who strongly advocates and teaches the theory of evolution in the school as if it were an established science, destroys the faith of his students in the Bible, and the God and Christ of the Bible. Are we to understand that we must pay taxes to support the schools, that we must be compelled to send our children to the schools, and that we have absolutely no right to utter protest against their having hammered into them through the years of their education, a theory which is not a proven science and, at the same time, is destructive to Christian faith?

Pray For This Good Man.

We are very sorry to hear of the serious sickness of Mr. John F. Benson, of Nashville, Tenn. He is closely connected with Trevecca College in that city, a most excellent man. Let THE HERALD family pray for him.

H. C. MORRISON.

Revive the Revival.

Let's have a revival of the revival of Holiness. It is greatly needed. The camp meetings are a great means of grace in spreading scriptural holiness over these lands. By the help of the Holy Ghost, let's make the coming summer a great camp meeting summer. These gatherings of people offer a splendid opportunity for sowing the gospel seed of full salvation, and the combating of many false doctrines now being broadcasted among the people.

Begin to advertise early; get the date of your camp and the workers before the people by sending them to The Pentecostal Publishing Co., who will publish them free of charge and help in every way possible to make your camp a success. One important thing is to get the people to attend, and in order to do this, advertise. Let the people know about your camp meeting and get them to thinking and praying about it. There are distressed souls and hungry hearts all over the land; let them know of your camp meeting and they will go and be blessed. Send in dates and names of workers at once.

Yours for a great camp meeting summer,
H. C. MORRISON.

Special Note.

Dr. W. E. Harrison will spend the summer in camp meeting work. He has been for a long time on the Asbury College staff where he teaches Bible and Holiness. With the close of the school in June he will be open for camp meetings. Dr. Harrison is an experienced holiness evangelist and will do good work wherever he is engaged. Write him at Wilmore, Ky.

THE MIND OF CHRIST.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

HAT was a wonderful seed Paul dropped through the inspiration of the Spirit in Phil. 2:5, when he said: "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."

The word "let" suggests that it all depends upon us whether we have the mind of Christ or not; that is, we are to give the Holy Spirit the opportunity of putting the mind of Christ into us. After all, it is not anything we can do in the way of adding to our Christlikeness, but simply "letting" God make the change that may be necessary in order to make us like unto him who "made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men," yea, he even "humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross."

How are we to "let" the mind of Christ be in us? What was his mind, and is it possible for us to so pattern after him that we may manifest his mind, or disposition to others? The secret of this work is found in vs. 13 of this second chapter of Philippians: "For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure." Our part is to disrobe ourselves of all things earthly, climb upon the operating table, submit to the anesthetic, and let the Divine Surgeon perform the operation. He will extract the mind of carnality and put in its place the "mind of Christ."

As one thinks upon this marvelous change that is possible through self-abandonment and trust in Christ, we wonder that every one who knows of this mystery made known by revelation, Christ in us, would not eagerly, gladly, and immediately submit themselves for this one thing—to be so filled with the Spirit of Christ that we should have his mind.

But, as some one has said, "The things that make the life of Jesus attractive to us are just the things we find it difficult to reproduce in our own lives." The better way would be to have Christ reproduce his mind in us for we, of ourselves, can do nothing.

Christ's mind was one of humility. He left all, and was subjected to the mockery, spitte, and ridicule of the jeering mob. He drank the cup of human suffering to its dregs that we might be saved from sin's consequences. He, who was rich, for our sakes became poor, that we through his poverty might be made rich. The stable at birth, the "no place to lay his head," the loneliness of the night watches in prayer, the steeps of Calvary, the nails and crown of thorns, the vinegar and gall, the spear and "My God, why hast thou forsaken me"—all tell of his humility!

Then the mind of Christ was one of gentleness. How patient he was with the erring, the one who did not understand him nor his mission. Never a cry for help that he did not stop to answer that cry. He suffered that he might know what it meant when we suffered. How he loved and carressed little children, and how he defended those who were imposed upon. Behold, the gentleness of Christ!

Jesus had a mind that was forgiving. Before the aggressor asked for pardon the stream of forgiveness began to flow. On the cross, he remembered to pray for his enemies: "Father, forgive them; they know not what they do." His forgiveness reaches from the uttermost to the uttermost. What a tender, forgiving Jesus have we!

Jesus had a mind of mercy. But for the never-failing stream of mercy where should you and I be? His mercy is like his forgiveness, never ceasing, never failing, and is available for every seeking soul. What a Friend we have in the merciful Christ!

Jesus had a mind to love. Having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them to the end. His was an endless love that forsook all he loved to win the unlovable and unloved, among whom are the readers and the writer of these lines. The love of Christ is everlasting, unchangeable, and follows us to the end. Matchless Lover, is our Christ!

We could go on showing the different characteristics of the mind of Christ, but space forbids. Think on these things for yourself and see how Calvary's Victim will win you to himself. In a strange, sweet way, he will draw near to you as he did to the two as they walked, and were sad, and we shall find our hearts saying:

"Dear Christ, this dawn I ask of thee
To walk this coming day with me!
Then every life that touches mine
Thine unseen presence will divine,
And so in turn will seek to share
This nameless glory in the air,
And each will leave a shining path,
A glowing, loving aftermath,
Because this day with Christ my Lord
My soul walked forth in sweet accord."

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

and made him get down, and he beat him almost to death, and made him go to the church and confess and ask forgiveness.

Once when he was to preach at Old McKendree Church, Nashville, Tenn., the pastor whispered to him, that General Jackson was in the audience, and cautioned him about his message. When he arose to preach, he said: "I understand that General Jackson is in the congregation. Who is General Jackson? He will die and go to hell the same as any other man if he does not repent of his sins."

As a revivalist in that day, he had no superior. Marvelous manifestations of divine power often attended his preaching. Once when he was preaching on the "Gates of Hell," the power of God fell on the congregation, and men and women fell in every direction, right, left, front and rear. Not less than three hundred fell like dead men in mighty battle. Loud wailings went up to heaven for mercy, while the saints shouted. This meeting lasted two days and two nights; two hundred were converted, and two hundred joined the church.

Peter Cartwright died September 25, 1872, at the ripe age of 87. He was a prince of God who had prevailed.

SIN AND ITS REMEDY.

have quickened to life and action a glorious host of saints, martyrs, and dynamic preachers throughout the ages, are calmly set aside as outworn creeds, or out-of-date theology, and in their places there is substituted an impersonal, passionless, prayerless message, ethical or philosophical, rather than convicting, convincing, burning words calling men to repentance, to regeneration, to cleansing from all sin, to a life of self-sacrificing intercession and service, when the multitudes everywhere are being fed on the husks of German rationalism rather than on the bread of life—it is then that we thank God for Asbury College that, like a lighthouse set on a hill, shines with undimmed light casting a beam of hope across the darkened waters. "Faith of our Fathers living still, we will be true to thee till death!"

The purpose of Asbury College is not to shatter but to strengthen faith, to send back to the homes of the parents who have entrusted their sons and daughters to its care Christian youth with their trust fixed upon him who can save to the uttermost. Young men and women filled with the Spirit of God and who find their highest joy in giving their lives to Christian service, whether that means among Greenland's icy mountains, India's coral strands, or the festering slums of our modern Babylons. We rejoice to know that in this spiritual atmosphere one of our own sons, the fifth preacher in direct line, is preparing to proclaim "the unsearchable riches of the Gospel of Christ," while another son is expecting to teach in some Christian College wherever God may lead.

Our one great objective here at Asbury College is to send out into the world an army of strong, healthy young people with well trained, well balanced minds, wholly sanctified, Spirit-filled, with a quenchless passion for the salvation of souls, the perfecting of the saints, and the carrying of a full gospel throughout the nation and around the world.

This is the hour of whipped spirits! This is the age of discouragement. Divine power is needed. The keyword of the New Testament is "power." Power is promised them who tarry, believing. Jesus is declared to be the Son of God "with power." The imperative need is not eloquent preaching, not rhetorical, nor brilliant, preaching, but powerful preaching.

It was Charles G. Finney, famous evangelist of a past generation, who lectured on "How to preach so as to convert nobody."

Would that lecture apply with equal force to the preaching of today? Is it not as sadly true as it is truly sad that America is full of able and scholarly preachers who are past masters in the art of converting nobody? The fact is that often the best preaching is the worst, and poor preaching is sometimes exceedingly good. The reason is simply that the former is without power; while the latter is dynamic because it comes from a heart blazing for God and breaking in its passion for the redemption of a lost world.

Under the "Lost" column of our daily press we might truthfully shout in black scare-heads, "LOST. A SENSE OF GOD!" "LOST. A SENSE OF SIN!" "God belief" may be well-nigh universal, but the "sense of God" is waning, and because of that the sense of sin is lost. The unprecedented, audacious, shameless sins of callow youth, as well as the flagrant evils of so-called "higher ups", may be clearly traced to a lost sense of sin.

When God is nigh us sin is as black as midnight. Only when Uzziah died did Isaiah see the Lord. Content with himself while in the king's court, when he "saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up," then he saw himself, and cried out in the agony of his soul, "Woe is me, for I am undone: because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King, Jehovah of hosts."

Sin is mighty, but Christ is Almighty. Sin is powerful, but Christ is all-powerful. To the despairing one comes the message, "Sin shall not have dominion over you." "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world!" "The blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin." For the one who is faint of heart there is the valedictory prayer of Christ for his disciples, "Sanctify them through thy truth; thy word is truth. I sanctify myself that they themselves may also be sanctified in truth." "Wherefore, Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, suffered without the gate. Let us therefore go forth unto him without the camp bearing his reproach. For we have not here an abiding city, but we seek after the city which is to come."

Who can estimate the results, the spiritual revolution that would take place if preachers, evangelists, missionaries, Christian workers everywhere would begin to preach with a flaming passion on "sin and its cure"? If from tens of thousands of pulpits men heard thundered the changeless truth that "the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life"? What if the text, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world!" should be preached for only thirty days by the prophets of today? Is it too much to say that we would behold our modern Ninevehs, our twentieth century Babylons, in sackcloth and ashes, that the glory of our God would shine in our midst, that Christ would indeed be acclaimed as King of heart and life? Sublimely daring was the quiet statement of the Galilean who wore the seamless dress, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me." Dare the church of the living God accept the challenge? May God make us white-plumed heralds of his sin-curing, energizing truth, crusaders of a new day when the righteousness of Jehovah shall cover the earth, as the waters cover the sea!

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

My Dear Boys and Girls:—

Last week I wrote you that we expected to have the "Life of Lincoln" on our page, but since then I have found out that I was a bit hasty in my promise, for it may be I shall not be able to run this. But there are many other good things with which we shall fill our Page, so don't fail to read it each week.

I am going to make it possible for you to secure one of the prettiest New Testaments you ever saw. It is in beautiful black leather binding, the words of Christ are printed in red, and it is simply a "beauty" which I want every boy and girl who does not own a Testament to secure one. We are offering this beautiful Testament to any boy or girl who will sell $1.50 worth of our beautiful mottoes. We propose to send you the mottoes, let you sell them, and then send us the money for them, and the Testament is yours.

You will not only be earning a beautiful New Testament, but you will be placing the helpful mottoes in the homes of the people which will speak to them of God and his love as they move about the house.

If you want to secure a Testament, write to J. H. Pritchard, Pentecostal Publishing Co., and ask him to send you a selection of $1.50, and he will see that you get them. As soon as you have sold them, send him the $1.50, saying you wish the Testament and it will be sent immediately. Take my word for it, you will never regret it. In order to assist you in making the order, I am asking that you simply fill out the following coupon and mail to Mr. Pritchard.

Lovingly,
Aunt Bettie.

Pentecostal Pub. Co.,
Louisville, Ky.

Please send to me by mail postpaid Mottoes which I agree to sell within the next two weeks and mail you remittance at rate of 15c each for which you are to send me the Testament postpaid free of charge. If for any reason I should fail to sell the Mottoes I will return them to you in good condition at the end of the two weeks.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl join your happy band of girls and boys? I am eight years old. My birthday is Jan. 20. I have black hair and black eyes. I hope Mr. W. B. is reading. As this is my first letter I will close.

Josephine Dunn.
McDaniels, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let an Arkansas girl join your happy band? I have been taking The Herald for several months and enjoy reading it very much. I am glad so many of the boys and girls who write to page ten are Christians. I am a Christian and have been a member of the M. E. Church, South, for more than seven years. I'm writing this letter because I have a request to make. I began to receive light on Holiness almost a year ago. Since that time my heart's desire has been to be sanctified. You who read this please pray for me that I may receive the blessing of entire sanctification. I should like to receive letters from all the boys and girls who care to write. Will answer all I can.

Thelma Williams.
Rt. 1, Beebe, Ark.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am very much interested in our Boys and Girls' Page. Will say for your encouragement I think you are doing your full part in conducting Page Ten wisely and well. I have a conviction that our boys are not doing their part in giving their experiences in Page Ten as do our girls. I don't see as many letters from the boys as I'd like. I wonder what could be done to get them interested so we might hear from more of them. I love to read the excellent letters from the girls and once in a while a good one from a young man. Let's have more of them and strive to make each one better than the one before. Let's do all we can to make it the best paper published and thus help the editors. I will say in conclusion, I surely do enjoy the good things that come to me weekly through the dear old faithful Herald. I enjoyed Dr. Morrison's piece. Let's heed it and the end will be well.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I join your happy band of boys and girls? We do not have Sunday school around here so mother has it with us children at home. I am ten years old and love Jesus and hope to grow more and more like him. I am in the fifth grade at school. I have one brother, three sisters. I live in the country now but I used to live in town. We have lived in the country about two years. Who has my birthday, June 25? I have an aunt in China. We hear from her quite often, and we like to hear about the boys and girls in China. How many take the "China Millions"? We take The Herald. I like to read the Boys and Girls' Page very much. Love to Aunt Bettie and the cousins.

June Armstrong.
Rt. 3, Sherwood, N. Dak.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Have you room for a little Virginia girl aged ten years? I stay here with Mrs. Cash for company. She heard Dr. Morrison preach in Norfolk at Conference and said that he was fine. I have a father, mother, two sisters and five brothers. I am in the third grade at school. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. Mrs. Lowe is our teacher. We also have a League every Sunday night unless too bad weather. We enjoy page ten of The Herald and after we read it we give it to some one to read. Our Methodist preacher is Bro. Mac Thomason. He has a wife and a dear little baby. Our parsonage is at the Minnehaha Springs, W. Va. We are not very far from the Hot Springs. As this is my first letter I will close.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have written to The Herald before. My letter was in print. I have a fine idea. We can all write to The Herald and tell what we are going to be when we get big. I have decided to do something for the Lord. I am going to be a missionary. My sister takes The Herald. The letter written by A. W. Orwig was wonderful. It was in The Herald that came out Feb. 16, 1927. I would like to see some letters of some of the other cousins telling what they are going to be. I would like for some of the cousins to write to me. I would gladly write to any of the cousins who write to me. I think I hear Mr. W. B. coming. May God bless the cousins.

This is my first letter to The Herald. I would be glad to hear from any of the cousins who will write me. I have been sick ever since January. I am in bed now and cannot go to school nor Sunday school.

Dear Aunt Bettie. Here I come again with a letter to the dear old Herald. I have written to The Herald once before and saw my letter in print so I thought I would write again if you will permit me. How are all of the cousins getting along? If anyone who reads this letter, should have that hymn, "We're Marching On, a Happy Holiness Band," will you please send it to me. I certainly do think it is a pretty hymn. My father takes The Herald and I get a lot out of it. I love to read the letters that the boys and girls write. I am fifteen years old, have long brown hair. I am saved and sanctified and am a member of the Pilgrim Holiness Church. I would love to hear from some of the cousins who care to write.

I live near the school and enjoy going. I am in the sixth grade. I take music and hope to be a musician some day. My father is an evangelistic singer. We take The Herald and mother enjoys reading it. I also like it, especially like page ten. Can anyone guess what my middle name is? It is the name of a month. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. My hobbies are skating and reading. We all have fun skating. Hoping to see this letter in print as this is the first one.

FALLEN ASLEEP

McLEAN.

Margie Josephine, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McLean, Nimrod, Texas, left us to live with Jesus, Dec. 20, 1926. Our hearts are crushed with grief. Still we are saying, "Thy will be done." God knows all about how lovely, how gentle, and sweet she was and how brave, how bright her possible future. He knows how sweetly she could sing. How she loved her Sunday school. She always had a perfect lesson. God knows all about those who loved her, and how bitter their trial must be. She leaves behind a father, mother, brother and a host of other relatives and friends. Her precious life of six years and five months will always linger a bright spot in our hearts that will cheer and help.

Her loving grandmother,
Mrs. F. D. McLean.

PIGG.

Sallie Jane Culpepper was born in McMinn Co., Tenn., 1859; died at Vernon, Texas, March 14, 1927. She, with her parents, moved to near Savoy, Texas, at the age of ten years. Here she was married to B. A. Pigg in 1876; to this union were born eight children. Two sons and four daughters survive. Four of these children were present when the end came and home at the funeral which was at her son's Enoch Pigg, at Vernon, Tex.

She leaves a brother, sister, twenty-three grandchildren, one great-grandson, a host of friends and relatives to mourn her departure.

Mrs. Pigg was a faithful member of the M. E. Church. Funeral was conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. R. Bright, pastor Wesley Chapel Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor First Methodist Church at Vernon, Tex. Mrs. Pigg lived a beautiful life. She was a devoted mother and a beautiful neighbor. Many will rise up and call her blessed.

We sorrow not as others who have no hope, but we look forward with great anticipation to the day of great reunion where there will be no more sad partings.

"Life's labor done, as sinks the day,
Light from its load the Spirit flies,
While heaven and earth combine to say

How blest the righteous when he dies.

So when life's sweet journey ends,
Soul and body part like friends,
No quarrel, no murmur, no delay;
A kiss, a sigh, and so away."

CHICAGO CENTRAL DISTRICT.— HOME MISSIONARY ACTIVITIES.

We are glad to report the best year, we believe, in the history of the District from every standpoint. In the most important realm of spiritual things there has been decided advancement throughout the district. There has been a continual revival spirit on in the public services and special revivals. Many of the churches are doubling their membership this year and we are expecting from five hundred to a thousand increase in membership. Our money matters have been in keeping with the spiritual program. During May, we are going to have a special campaign among the churches to bring up the finances in our district budget in order that tents may be purchased and that a number of Home Missionary propositions may be inaugurated. Our good pastors never fail us in these special drives.

In our department of new work we are making a special drive to put on from twenty-five to fifty Home Missionary meetings from early spring to the first of December. J. D. Roach and the good people at Chicago Hts. are going to enter Kankekee for us this year. Rev. Harry Morrow, of Woodlawn, is contemplating putting on a meeting around Seventieth and Cottage Grove, in Chicago. Rev. James Miller, is with H. B. Jensen, of Decatur, will enter Elmhurst, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. Rev. J. H. Morgan and wife, pastors at Rockford, are going to hold a Home Missionary Campaign at DeKalb, Ill. Evangelist J. E. Hughes, of Kingswood, Ky., will put a meeting on at Monmouth, Ill., with the intention of getting a new church. Rev. A. J. Mitchell is going to enter Kampsville Territory and get us a new church. In Southern Illinois, I. G. Young and Condon Arms, two of our good pastors, are contemplating putting on Campaigns at Johnson City, Marion, Herrin, and Hillsboro. Evangelist J. M. Huff will enter Mattoon and Pastor J. E. Williams, of Olivet, will look after the territory as to new places around Newton, Fairfield, Robison and Flora. Over around Champaign Rev. H. B. Garvin will be assisted by his brother, Rev. Noah Garvin, and Sister Burton in putting on campaigns at Monticello, Gibson City, and Farmer City. We are intending to stir every church, pastor and layman to push out in New fields in Illinois with a population of 7,000,000 this coming summer.

Up in Wisconsin we are making some plans to take advance steps. We have secured Pastor R. L. Morgan to go to that great city of Milwaukee, with its 500,000, and put on a Campaign. Also in southern Wisconsin Evangelist P. A. Dean, Pastor Ralph Rice and Andrew Desmidt are planning to help us around Beloit, Monroe, and Madison. In Northeastern Wisconsin Evangelist L. J. Rice and wife are putting on a Home Missionary Campaign at Whitman and Hope.

We are going in to scatter holiness literature, preach the gospel of full salvation over these two great states of Illinois and Wisconsin with eleven million people. We will use about twenty tents on the district and hope to organize between fifteen and twenty-five churches between now and early fall.

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

Our pastime and our happiness will grow.

Bishop Charles Betts Galloway, by Bishop Warren A. Candler, D.D., LL.D. $1.50.

Nothing appeals to one like the life of a great man. All the world likes success, and the story of a man who has risen to the heights attracts attention.

The subject of this book was one of the best known men the Methodist Church has produced in all her history. Bishop Candler gives him unstinted praise. One can easily see that the book has been written by an intimate friend. When Bishop Galloway died in May, 1909, Dr. H. C. Morrison said in The Pentecostal Herald, "He loved the nation with all its people. He had the missionary spirit. He loved the world. He had those qualities that would have made him a great statesman in politics. He would have easily stood in the front rank of the brilliant politicians of his section. He would have commanded the highest respect as U. S. Senator. He could have represented the nation with grace in the Court of St. James. He was in every way one of the great, broad, strong men of his times."

Bishop Candler has, as far as possible, permitted Bishop Galloway to "write his own biography in this volume." As a result the book abounds with interesting incidents given firsthand by the great Bishop. Every phase of the man's life is treated. One may see his early surroundings, his college life, his rapid rise in the ministry, his labors as a Bishop and author, and his triumphant death.

One of the most interesting chapters in the book is the one which gives the letters exchanged between Bishop Galloway and Jefferson Davis on the prohibition question. It is indeed a revelation of the depth of wisdom of the Bishop on the questions at issue to see how his position has been vindicated by actual events in this country.

The volume is illuminating, gripping and inspirational. It was published by the Cokesbury Press, Nashville, Tenn.

Autobiography of Peter Cartwright, edited by W. P. Strickland. $1.50.

In the days of the settlement of the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys there occurred some of the most thrilling events of all history. This applies to the church as well as to ordinary life. It was during this period that Peter Cartwright lived. He was born in 1785, lived most of his young life in the wilds of Kentucky, and preached all over several nearby states during their growth into civilized organizations.

The story of this man's life reads like a romance. He tells of the dangers encountered on the Indians. He records the wild fanaticism that sprang up in different sections because of pure ignorance. He gives some historic data about the different denominations of the times that make valuable reading. He tells about the first camp meetings of the country, and describes some of the strange scenes, such as the jerks, jumping, dancing, etc.

Some of the sketches given in the book are worth while. He tells of his impressions of Bishop Francis Asbury, the first Bishop of the Methodist Church in America. He tells of several preachers whose names are precious to the memory of Methodism.

The book abounds in illustrations of things that happened in this unusual life. He tells of different clashes with other denominations; of the conversions of infidels, scoffers, etc. He gives numerous instances of conflict with men who desired to whip him because of his strong preaching.

The book is simply written, with no pretence to style and fine words. It is vigorous, pointed and plain. This very fact gives it personality. Every Christian should read this book as a faith tonic. Every preacher would profit by knowing it.

Out of Doors With Jesus, by Bishop Wm. A. Quayle. $1.50.

Those who have read Bishop Quayle's books know something of their nature. If I were to try to describe his writings in a sentence I would say, "They are pen pictures of poetic eloquence, run riot with vivid imagination." His language is as pure as the limpid waters of a mountain lake.

This book contains twenty chapters that deal with Jesus as He appeared in His out-door life. It is not a biographical sketch, but it does show the love of nature that possessed the Master. Quayle says we cannot study Jesus like anybody else because, "He is not like anybody else. He is the Great Solitary. He is the Vast Ambiguity, not from any intention of his, but because of the Unknown Land of which he is the dim outlines, whose amazing shores can only come into sight as the slow cycles wheel through their stupendous orbits." He shows how Jesus regarded the desert, the birds, the river, the wind, the night, the sea, the mountains and trees, the grass and wild flowers, the sun and the sky.

In telling of Jesus in the desert he says, "There is room many a time for God and everybody else, yet there are times when there is room for God and nobody else. It was that time with Jesus . . . and somewhere wandered the Saviour of the world in solitude and not solitary." With dramatic imagination he says, "Jesus put a caressing hand on the shoulder of the wind." The book abounds in such appealing expressions.

Those who like eloquence, who respond to imaginative pictures and who thrill at the "beautiful cadence of poesy," will like this book.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson VIII.—May 22, 1927.

Subject.—Peter Heals the Lame Man. Acts 3:1-10; 4:8-10.

Golden Text.—Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is no other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved. Acts 4:12.

Time.—A. D. 30.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Introduction.—Careful reading of the latter part of the preceding chapter will open the way for the study of today's lesson. Peter's sermon was not what men term a learned discourse, but a plain simple message concerning Jesus Christ the risen Savior. The results following the preaching were all out of proportion to the sermon, if we consider them from the human viewpoint alone; but when seen from the divine side, they were perfectly normal. Peter did not count for much by himself, but when filled with the Holy Ghost his power was almost unlimited. He could remove mountains.

Preaching is not a human affair, but God preaching through men. Men may do some very fine lecturing from the pulpit and the platform; but no man ever preaches unless he has the unction of the Holy Spirit. The writer used to hear the old brethren term it the afflatus of the Spirit, by which they meant a sort of inbreathing and outbreathing of the divine presence and power. Spiritual sheet lightning used to play around the pulpits of such men as Lovick Pierce and John S. Inskip; and ever and anon there were flashes of forked lightning that did tremendous execution in the ranks of sinners. The writer remembers well how his hair used to stand on end, while cold chills pranced up and down his spinal column. Such preaching was common a good many years ago, but one does not witness much of it in the present time. God has not changed; we have quit praying in the old-fashioned way. Peter had good backing, without which good preaching is impossible. He had a hundred and nineteen who were, like himself, full of the Holy Ghost. They stood by, and endorsed all that the preacher said. Nothing is more sorely needed today than large groups of Spirit-filled saints who uphold the preacher with prayer and faith while he is giving the people his message from God.

The sermon of Peter was marked in the results that followed. Three thousand souls were converted that day. These became at once a glorious Church. As we read the account we learn that they had blessed fellowship in the Lord's supper—breaking of bread meaning that. They had two special points around which they rallied: The crucifixion of Jesus and his resurrection from the dead. We note that they were constantly praying and rejoicing, and that their liberality was commensurate with their ability, even to the selling of personal goods, in that every hungry brother might be fed. Surely such a church could have reached the entire world long before this day, had she continued to enjoy the fullness of the Holy Ghost. There has been, and there still is, much deadness along the run of the years since Pentecost. Would God that the Spirit might once more come back to the Church, so as to equip her for the gigantic task before her; for sinners are increasing faster than saints.

Comments on the Lesson.

1. The hour of prayer.—Nine o'clock in the morning. The temple stood open for worshippers; and Peter and John were entering for that purpose. Here and there we find churches open all day long for prayer; and we enjoy the privilege of entering for a season of worship. Our churches should be places of prayer seven days in the week.

2. A certain man lame from his mother's womb.—This poor fellow was a beggar. His friends carried him daily to the temple, and laid him down at the Beautiful Gate, in order that he might beg of those entering for worship. The temple has always been a favorite place with mendicants. May I warn my readers just a little: Give to the poor, and give liberally, but give intelligently; for there are many impostors who are professional beggars—some of them own large property. Know well the applicant before you give him God's money.

4. Fastening his eyes upon him with John.—They looked steadfastly upon the beggar, while they called for his attention: "Look on us." They meant business.

5. Of course he expected to receive something; but Peter disappointed him gloriously.

6. Silver and gold have I none.—Peter and John were both poor men who had left their little all to follow the Master. But such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.—That was better for a beggar than money. It is always better to help men find work than to give them alms. It was a fine saying of one of the Roman popes, that in Peter's day the Church had neither silver nor gold, but she could say to a lame man rise up and walk; but that in his day she had an abundance of both silver and gold, but could no longer command the lame man to rise up and walk. Too much wealth kills the faith of the Church: she comes to trust more in money than she does in God.

7. Lifted him up.—It is best to stimulate faith by a good lift. It is important to note that the healing was immediate. One could have more faith in modern "divine healing", if the brethren who operate did not take so long to help the sick. If God does a thing, it does not take long to accomplish it.

8. One likes the movements of this healed man. He entered the temple "walking, and leaping, and praising God." A blessing of the real sort is always rather contagious. A brother remarked that he always got saved and sanctified all over again every time he saw a soul enter into the fullness of the blessing.

9. All the people saw him walking and praising God.—One always feels a bit doubtful about the souls that are ashamed to tell the Church and world what God does for them. Get the real thing and it will tell itself. "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

10. They were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.—Why not? People are just as tremendously stirred up today when they witness a genuine conversion or sanctification as the Jews were when they saw that this man had been divinely healed. Still-born converts seldom mean anything either to the individual or the multitude. Give us healthy churches, and we shall have shouting babies.

8. Read the connecting verses by all means. Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost.—We suppose that he received a fresh infilling. We need but one baptism with the Spirit unless we soil our souls with sin; but need many refillings for special service in the Lord's work. Has yours leaked out? Maybe the reason why you are so tame and lifeless lies just at this point. Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel.—They had arrested Peter and John for the healing of the lame man; and courageous Peter is going to tell them a few things without mincing matters. He has no apology to make. Not long ago we heard a preacher tell his people a little straight truth, and then apologize for what he had said. Poor business. Maybe he was a coward, because he needed Pentecost.

9. If we be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole.—There was the crux of the whole matter: "The means by which he is made whole." They would not have Jesus as their rival in the hearts of the people. Jealousy is a pretty bad sin.

10. Peter comes squarely to the point without so much as an introduction to soften matters. "Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole." That was bold; but neither Peter nor any other Christian could do less, and stand uncondemned in the presence of the crucified, but risen Christ. Prudence may serve to save our necks; but it is a very poor means for advancing the kingdom of God among sinful men. A few men as rash as Peter and Paul and Stephen, as forgetful of self as Luther and Knox, and Wesley, would be a God-send to the Church and the world in the present century.

When you are called on for that special commencement sermon, or college address, or Easter message, what will you do if you have no ready reference to help you? Outlines of Sermons for Special Occasions, by Nicoll, were gotten up in book form to meet that special need. It sells for $1.50 and is well liked. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

DANVILLE, ILLINOIS.

We have just closed a splendid revival meeting with Rev. T. M. Anderson, of Wilmore, Ky., as evangelist. His messages were illuminating and heart-searching and the crowds came to hear and to obey God's call. Over a hundred sought the Lord for pardon or for purity. We feel that the church is miles up the road and we expect to take in a fine class of new members next Sunday. We praise God for sending Brother Anderson our way. The music was in charge of Prof. Roy F. Stevens, of Olivet College. His sweet messages in song were a great blessing to the meeting. He was assisted by the Olivet Brass Quartette and other musicians from the college. Danville church is moving on and we expect to keep active as a church in the Lord's work throughout the summer. Pray for us, W. S. Purinton.

REV. G. B. F. HALLOCK, D.D.

The Manual for 1926 created an insistent demand for a new volume each year. The 1927 Manual is better than the first one. As before it furnishes material for a complete program for the regular Church services of the entire year. In addition there are prayer meeting discussions, Christian Endeavor topics, and services for baptisms, marriages and funerals. Thousands of ministers testify to the constructive value of the Manual.

FROM DR. POLING.
"It is a book that could not have been written except by long and careful study of all the books of the Bible. Its references are well classified and furnish interesting data for men and women of all trades and professions."—Daniel A. Poling, D.D., Marble Collegiate Church, New York City.

FROM ONE OF PHILADELPHIA'S MOST PROMINENT CHRISTIAN BUSINESS MEN

"I am more than pleased with it. Have carefully read it through and have discussed it with others with the result that others have become as interested in it as I have. I do not think you ever published a more helpful little volume."—John Gribbel.

EVANGELISTIC AND PERSONAL.

Rev. John O. Grose, Conference Evangelist of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be free to accept calls for meetings in grove, tent and church after July 10. The following testimonial speaks in behalf of Brother Grose, as a successful evangelist: Rev. James H. Haley, pastor of St. John's M. E. Church, South: "This is to certify that I have known the Rev. John O. Grose for about seven years and was pleasantly associated with him at Shepherdstown, W. Va., for two years, he being pastor of the M. E. Church, and I of the M. E. Church, South. I know him to be a consecrated man, a good preacher and a staunch advocate of those fundamental doctrines that have been the glory of the Methodist Church. He is fearless in his preaching and does not hesitate to speak the whole truth of the teachings of our Lord and Savior. Any one securing his services in revival meetings will have no cause to regret his choice." Brother Grose may be addressed Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Rev. J. A. Dooley: "We recently closed a fine meeting at Ottumwa, Ia., a city of 30,000. The meeting continued four weeks; sinners were saved and believers sanctified and the sick healed. Nazarenes, Free Methodists and a few more denominations stood by the meetings. The altar was full the last service."

Rev. D. H. Sawyer, President of the Shiloh Holiness Association would like to get in touch with some evangelist and singer who are willing to hold a two weeks' meeting in August or September at Shiloh, N. C., for the salvation of souls. Will give entertainment for two workers.

J. Henry Good: "Having had four years' training in Chicago Evangelistic Institute preparatory to evangelistic work as song leader, soloist and altar worker, I offer my services to any pastor, evangelist or camp meeting committee needing such help. For reference, write to Rev. Frank Arthur, former Dean of School. My address until June 8, is 1754 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill."

S. E. Polovina: "Just a few words to let my friends in America know that I am still alive and preaching full salvation. Bishop Neulsen was with us and held our annual conference and we had a blessed time. I preached four times during the conference and in every service the altar was filled with hungry souls. Sunday night the altar filled before I got through preaching and thirty were sanctified. The conference voted for me to stay and hold camp meetings in Novi Sad in June, and by the help of God we shall start camp meeting after our school closes May 30. Remember me in prayer."

R. W. Randolph: "I take pleasure in recommending Bro. Lee Baker, a young man who is engaged in the Normal School at Lawrenceburg, Tenn. He is desirous of getting with some evangelist to lead the singing during the summer. He is a good singer and all-round worker. Address him as above."

S. S. Nelson: "The Lord gave a splendid revival in East Radford, Va., and a number prayed through to pardon and sanctification. The church is in good working order and moving. Rev. E. I. Shemalie and wife are doing a good work as pastors of this church."

C. K. Spell: "I am engaged to begin a meeting with the pastor of Southern Methodist Church, Rev. J. H. Hoffpauir, at Estherwood, La., May 22, to run ten or fifteen days. I should be glad to make other dates in the southland for the summer. I am working toward securing a tent and truck to carry a full gospel to the needy fields of the southland. Write me, Crowley, La., care Rev. J. H. Hoffpauir, Box 127."

The seven parables found in Matt. 13 are ably treated by Dr. Len G. Broughton in his book called Kingdom Parables. Fifty cents will bring you this little book, and you will enjoy it. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

XENIA, OHIO.

We just closed a very fine meeting in Xenia, Ohio, with the Church of the Nazarene. The attendance was good from the start to the close; the meeting lasted four weeks and four days. I suppose as they reckon these days, we could say that there were two hundred seekers, for two individuals were at the altar, I think, twenty times each, and then did not get through. There were, however, around fifty definite seekers, and quite a number of these came through fairly well. The meeting, as a whole, was a success. Much of the credit was due to the faithful pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Landgrabe.

W. G. Bennett.

Dying Testimonies of saved and unsaved is a splendid book of illustrations that will enrich the sermonic material of every preacher who reads it. Order one, and if you do not think it is worth the money, we shall gladly re-imburse you. It sells for $1.00.

MISSOURI MEETINGS.

I have had four meetings since I last reported, all in Methodist churches. The first one was at Bethel, Mo., a town of five or six hundred. The church was revived and several converted. Charles A. Fisher, of Kokomo, Ind., took the pastorate and the people like him very much.

We went from there to Browning, Mo., a town of 1,000 population. Rev. W. W. Clay is their pastor, and stands for a "full gospel." There were sixty-five or seventy forward for pardon, or purity. The town and community were spiritually awakened.

Our next meeting was with Brother John Hubbs, at Gladstone, Ill. Fifty or sixty were forward, most of them for Pardon. Brother Hubbs baptized and received into the church a class of twenty-four.

Our last meeting was with Rev. Virgil Bolen, at Middle Grove, Ill. Brother Bolen was converted in a meeting I held seven years ago at Sepo, Ill., so of course we enjoyed working together very much. We closed with five at the altar. At the close of the service, Brother Bolen baptized, and received into the church forty. The unusual part of this meeting was that the converts were most all men and women. Husbands and wives came to the altar and prayed through. Address us, Bowman Evangelistic Party, Hillsdale, Ill.

TWO FINE REVIVALS.

We just closed our second meeting with Bro. F. T. Nichols, pastor of the U. B. Church at Attica, Ohio, since the first of the year. Bro. Nichols and wife are consecrated people, and it is a delight to work with them. We had charge of the singing, and the Boys and Girls' services, preaching only a few times as the pastor did most of it.

These meetings were well attended, and great interest was manifested by the boys and girls. We teach them some splendid courses, and give them Scripture verses to learn each evening giving out celluloid symbols to go with each verse, like crosses, hearts, shields, reapers and etc. Then we give them either an object or chart lesson. One mother said, "My children generally cry when they have to go to church every night, but now they cry if they do not get to go." Many of them bowed with penitent tears at the altar being genuinely converted. About thirty bowed at the altar, several were baptized and joined the church.

We have some open dates we could give to anyone desiring help in our line. Will do the preaching too, if desired.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF Henry Clay Morrison

Editor of "The Pentecostal Herald."

By C. F. WIMBERLY, B. A., D. D.

THE MAN AND HIS MESSAGE.

The subject of this biography is a man of remarkable force and personality. The influence that for many years he has exerted in his native state, and throughout the entire country for that matter, has been of an altogether unusual sort.

In a volume for which Dr. Morrison's admirers have long waited with expectancy and eagerness, Dr. Wimberly narrates the chief events in the life of a genuine moulder of public opinion, a veritable leader of men. The figure he portrays in picturesque, yet faithful fashion is that of a notable editor, a fervent believer, a consecrated preacher of the Gospel, and a Christian gentleman.

If the Foundations be Destroyed, What Can the Righteous Do?

By The Editor.

IT is a dangerous thing to take issue with the Lord Jesus Christ on any subject. No doubt, the true disciples of our Lord regard his word as the last word on any subject. He has spoken very definitely and positively with a "verily, verily," on the subject of the new birth. It would seem that reasonable men would regard his teaching as the end of all controversy on this very important subject. Sadly, however, this is not true; we have men going about everywhere teaching that regeneration, or the new birth, is unnecessary.

* * * *

One of the interesting features about these false teachers is the fact that when public attention is called to their false teaching and the various substitutes they offer for the regenerating grace of God, they deny, evade, excuse, and try to cover up their heresies and yet continue in their propaganda of false doctrine. They are congratulating themselves that they are doing away with revivals of religion, where men preach on sin, judgment, the future punishment of the wicked, awaken the conscience, bring on conviction, repentance, and regenerating power, and are bringing into the church a host of young people on their mere decision, who will be the easy victims of their modernistic teachings.

* * * *

One of the fundamental doctrines of Methodism is the witness of the Spirit; the witness of the Spirit to our pardon, regeneration and acceptance with God, the unmistakable testimony of the Spirit within us that we have passed from death unto life; a salvation within our hearts so clearly witnessed and assured by the Holy Spirit that we become unhesitating, bold, happy witnesses to men that Jesus Christ has power on earth to forgive sins, and that we know this to be true, because he has forgiven our sins. Mr. Wesley was careful to distinguish between the witness of our own spirits and the witness of the Holy Spirit. The Methodist Church was so insistent upon this gracious experience, and was so determined to preserve this doctrine in its pulpits, and this experience in the hearts of its people that, for many years, it received its members on trial, and held them for a term of months without full reception into the church, in order to prove that they had indeed been born again, had received the witness of the Spirit to their new birth, and were proving by their changed lives, as well as their testimonies, that they were in Christ new creatures. Those were days of power. If some smart fellow, claiming to be an expert Sunday school man, had come along among the Methodists telling them to keep their children and young people away from revivals of religion, he would have been dismissed at once from any sort of office in the church, and sent back to his fishing tackle.

* * * *

One of the chief reasons why there is so much lawlessness, wickedness, immorality, lewdness, divorce, and crime among young people of the land arises out of the fact that true revivals of religion are disappearing from our Methodist churches; hosts of children are being brought into the church on "Decision Day," and grown-ups at Easter time, on a profession of faith, without hearing preaching under the unction and power of the Holy Ghost on the exceeding wickedness of sin against God, the importance of repentance, the need of the new birth, and a life of self-denial witnessing to Christ's salvation and devoted service. When Methodist preachers were the true sons of thunder, and brought the fear of God before the people, the young, those in middle life, and in old age, were powerfully saved, and the restraining power of godly fear came upon the whole community. Men were restrained from crime, and Christian people were indeed the salt of the earth, permeating, purging, purifying, and preserving society. They were the light of the world, illuminating the minds and hearts of the people with the truth of God and reverential fear. The whole nation felt the gracious and salutary effect.

* * * *

Those smart, glib people who are going up and down the church discounting the regenerating power of the Spirit, the importance of repentance, and the witness of the Spirit to the forgiveness of sins, who are jocosely talking about salvation with no tears and no praise, warning the people against revivals of religion, or allowing their children to attend protracted meetings where they are liable to become convicted and seek salvation, are shallow, ignorant heretics and a curse to the church. They are destroying the bulwarks of faith and lifting up the floodgates of iniquity. Their entire philosophy and plan of salvation is shallow and false, and true ministers of the gospel ought to rebel against their leadership, condemn them to their faces, refuse to support them, or to permit them to instill into the minds of their Sunday school teachers their false teachings that paralyze the spiritual life of the church, destroy the reverential fear of God, and lead the people to grieve the Holy Ghost, to sin against him and go stumbling on in wickedness and finally, falling into the pits of damnation.

* * * *

The time has fully come for men who have been regenerated, who know Jesus Christ in the power of his salvation, and who have been called to preach, should draw their swords and go into a holy war against the driveling nonsense that is rising up about us everywhere, destroying the souls of the people, and discounting the atonement wrought upon the cross by Jesus Christ. No man of God dares count his life dear unto himself, nor surrender his conscience to any one roaming about the church cunningly undermining her doctrines, destroying her faith and the souls of the people. The word of God is the sword of the Spirit. Out with the sword, and into the holy war for the Church of God, and the salvation of souls.

Monthly Sermon.

Text: "For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted of the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify unto themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame." Heb. 6:4-6.

The apostolic writings are largely made up of instructions, exhortations and warnings against backsliding. I think it is safe to say that if it is impossible to fall from a state of grace, much of the writings of the apostles have little or no intelligent meaning, and are incapable of a clear and practical interpretation and application to Christian life.

tical interpretation and application to Christian life.

The teaching, "once in grace, always in grace," or the impossibility of falling from a state of salvation, is somewhat akin to the old Roman Catholic doctrine of indulgence. There was a time in the Dark Ages when, for a given sum of money, a certain official in the church would give a written permit to a member of the church to commit a certain sin with the understanding that no guilt would accrue because of the sin. The official receiving the money was supposed to make an arrangement with God whereby the party purchasing the indulgence could commit sin without being held responsible or accounted guilty.

This doctrine that, if once you are pardoned and regenerated, no sin that you commit will forfeit your pardon, but that however sinful you may become you are sure of heaven, is somewhat akin to this Romish superstition of the Dark Ages. It is an assurance that, having repented, sought and found pardon, you may fall into grievous sin without any fear, uneasiness, or possibility of the loss of your soul. Is this not a sort of permit to commit sin with a sense of safety, and assurance that this thing cannot and will not lead to the loss of pardon? Does it not teach that a man may be at one, and at the same time, a sinner against God and in a state of justification before God?

The apostle clearly teaches us that the carnal nature remains in babes in Christ. No one can be a babe in Christ who has not been born again, and this carnal nature is at enmity against God; it is prone to wander, it is a strong inward tendency to do things which our Christian intelligence knows to be wrong, and our Christian conscience con-

A SCHOLAR'S TESTIMONY TO PERFECT LOVE.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

ONE of the greatest saints of Modern Methodism, as well as one of its finest Greek scholars, was Dr. Daniel Steele who, for many years, was Professor of New Testament Greek in Boston University. He was to the Holiness Movement what John Fletcher was to early Methodism. Dr. Fowler said of him:

"In many regards he was the John Fletcher of the modern Holiness Movement. Like Fletcher, he maintained a high water-mark in his own personal Christian experience—a glance at his 'Mile Stone Papers' reveals the fact. Hear him as he testifies: 'The hemisphere of my soul which has been turned toward Christ has been filled with perpetual sunshine. He has unlocked every apartment of my being and filled and flooded them all with the light of his radiant presence. I wish I had a thousand heart power to love, and a thousand tongue capacity to proclaim Jesus Savior. Blissful, indeed, is the consciousness of the wholeness of my love to Jesus flowing from all the hidden fountains of my heart like the Mississippi to the Gulf. O, the indescribable sweetness of this perfect love after many years of love painfully imperfect and divided. . . The Man of Calvary, the Son of God, treads all the avenues of my soul, filling its emptiness, melting its hardness, cleansing its impurity and pouring upon my head

"The blessed unction from above—comfort, life and fire of love."

It is a significant fact that Daniel Steele, the Methodist preacher, was led into the experience of Holiness by A. B. Earle, the Baptist evangelist. After being in the land of Canaan he wrote his experience under the head of "Seven Sabbatic Years." This appeared later in "Mile Stone Papers." In this article we shall take the liberty of extracting some of the more telling items in that remarkable testimony; or, in other words, we shall analyze it and set forth its more salient points.

First. Holiness was to Dr. Steele Soul Rest. He says:

"On this glad day the glorious Sun
Of righteousness arose;
On my benighted soul he shone,
And filled it with repose.

"Sudden expired the legal strife;
'Twas then I ceased to grieve;
My second, real, living life
I then began to live."

"The chief characteristic of the seven past years of my Christian life is soul-rest, running through every day and hour, like a golden thread. 'For we which have believed do enter into rest.' Since there are many misconceptions respecting this rest, I wish to testify to my own experience in this regard:

"It is not a cessation from Christian activities, and a sitting down in the chimney-corner, with folded arms, enjoying the dreamy ecstasy of a mystical devotion. Instead of this, I find in this soul-rest an amazing stimulus to unremitting effort to glorify Christ in the salvation of all for whom he died, and especially in the perfect restoration of those believers who are only partially healed of the malady of sin.

"Rest is not quitting the busy career; Rest is the fitting of self to its sphere. 'Tis loving and serving the highest and best; 'Tis onward unswerving, and that is true rest."

Second. Holiness was to him a Deliverance. "It is a deliverance from unsatisfied cravings.

"Man has a soul of vast desires,
Which burns within with quenchless fires."
"In this unappeasable longing for something yet unattained I trace the features of God in the human soul. If man is in the image of his Creator, there must be a capacity in his nature which only the Infinite can fill. When filled with all the fullness of God, the soul for the first time experiences rest from unsatisfied desire. But only so long as we continue to drink from this overflowing fountain shall we be satisfied. 'He that believeth (perpetually—see the Greek) on me shall (by no means—strengthened negative) never thirst.' It is the instinctive feeling that soul-thirst will follow, if we cease drinking.

"Release from that irksomeness of Christian service which characterizes a subtle legalism. The yoke of Christ chafes when sin still lurks in the soul. When we do not in all respects freely will what God wills, we are carrying a burden up hill. But when full trust in Christ brings us into perfect harmony with God, both the burden and the hill suddenly vanish, and we begin to sing:—

"I worship Thee, sweet will of God,
And all Thy ways adore;
And every day I live, I seem
To love Thee more and more."

"Was not Jesus addressing justified souls still wrestling with inbred sin when he promised rest to those who labor and are heavy laden? Unawakened sinners feel at ease under the yoke of sin—the ease of spiritual stupor. Only the initially saved feel the pressure of the yoke and their own inability to throw it off. Christ completes their deliverance from a sense of servility when they come to him, as the Giver of rest, as well as the Forgiver of sins."

Third. This blessing was to Dr. Steele a present victory here in this life, without waiting till we get to heaven to enjoy it.

Says Olshausen: "The discord in man is not immediately removed after his entering into the element of the good. For this reason the Redeemer speaks also of a yoke and a burden which he himself imposes, which is only felt by man so far as he is still encumbered by sin; his nobler nature feels Christ's Spirit and life to be a homogeneous element." Hence the entire removal of sin is easement from Christ's burden. We are then no longer yoked, but free oxen in infinite clover. This is the idea of this celebrated annotator, only he would put the broken yoke of inbred sin and the clover beyond the river. 'There is rest beyond the river.' May a new order of anointed poets arise, who will bring back to mortals on this side the river the good things which by a sad mistake have been transported to the other shore! May the revisers of the Bible correctly put a comma instead of a period between the ninth and the tenth verses of I Cor. ii, so that the English reader may no longer be led astray from the true meaning of the Spirit, the description of the believer's heaven on earth, when Christ is spiritually manifested to the soul in all the fullness of his love by the abiding Comforter and Sanctifier." (See John 14:21, and 16:14).

Fourth. This Full Salvation brought release from inward sin and corroding care. He says:

"Rest from that original tendency to sin inherent in fallen humanity. This is our testimony, not our mere theory. We no longer read with incredulous wonder the definition of the full assurance of faith written by the German, Arvid Gradin, at the request of John Wesley: 'Repose in the blood of Christ; a firm confidence toward God, and persuasion of his favor; the highest tranquillity, serenity, and peace of mind, with a deliverance from every fleshly desire, and a cessation of all, even inward sins.'

"Salvation from doubt, the disturber of the soul's peace. This is an element of the uninterrupted Sabbath of love made perfect, and it differs from the ordinary witness of the Spirit in two particulars—it is abiding and not intermittent; and it attests purity as well as pardon.

"Rest from worry and fear of future ill. Why should I go about like fabled Atlas, carrying the world on my shoulders, since I have found the real Atlas, the divine Burden-bearer, Jesus Christ? 'Casting all your care on him.' Alford's comment is precious, because by his critical scholarship he brings out an idea not expressed in the English version: 'Casting (once for all, by an act which includes the life) all your anxiety, the whole of it, not every anxiety as it arises; for none will arise if this transference has been effectually made.' This is what I term rest from worry, rest attained by a single act of trust, and retained, not by spasms of faith, but by a habit of reliance on the Son of God, the King of Glory.

"Now rest, my long-divided heart;

Fixed on this blissful center, rest."

"The reader will fall into a great error if he infers that I have had no tribulations and bitter cups during these Sabbatic years. Jesus was a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief arising from the sins of men, yet he ever carried in his bosom a repose too deep for human plummet to sound—the peace of God which passeth all understanding. The disciple is as his Lord. St. Paul was cast down, but not cast away; sorrowful, yet always rejoicing. Thus the hemisphere of my soul which has been turned toward Christ has been filled with perpetual sunlight, while that turned toward sinners has been in the shade. Thanks be unto God, the joy of heaven will not be hemispherical, but spherical and full-orbed. 'There the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest.'

"Meanwhile, this happy pilgrim pillows his head upon his knapsack in the lengthening shadow of his seventh mile-stone, and, with his face toward the new Jerusalem, snatches a moment's repose.

"Here in the body pent, absent from him I roam; Yet nightly pitch my moving tent a day's march nearer home."

Fifth. To prevent anyone from misunderstanding the human side of Sanctification he says:

"Nor is this rest a release from the burden of souls unsaved and unsanctified. In fact, in my years of spiritual unrest my own soul was my greatest burden, leaving me little time or strength to devote to others. But now that I have "A heart at leisure from itself

To soothe and sympathize,"

"I find myself drawn away from the unprofitable and unhappy self-introspection and medication of my own ailments to the unalloyed bliss of ministering the healing balm to the wounded and dying souls about me. I have been brought into deep sympathy with Paul in his willingness to be accused from Christ; that is, to make an additional atonement for his kinsman according to the flesh. I have shared his continual sorrow of heart from this cause.

"Nor do I find this perfect rest of a soul in full trust in Christ an easy-going, lazy optimism, which occupies the rocking-chair, indifferent to all coming events, and believes that everything, even gigantic social and political evils, are all working out the highest good. I find myself, by tongue and pen and vote, antagonizing every movement of Satan in society, in politics, and in literature. I have forebodings when selfish and wicked men are lifted into power; and I can claim the promise that 'all things work together for good' only after a vigorous resistance to sin in every form."

"The world has yet to see what God can do with a man who is absolutely yielded to him."

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

CHAPTER XIV.

BISHOP W. R. LAMBUTH.

VERY few people of Southern Methodism appreciate the life and character of Walter R. Lambuth. This perhaps is in large measure due to the quiet, unassuming demeanor of the man; he was not great in appearance; meeting him on the street, no one would look at him the second time. He attracted no attention in the crowd; even his public deliverances lacked the dramatic fervor and eloquence to make him a master of assemblies. A cultured Japanese, writing in Collier's recently, gives us a close-up of the man, and the secret power he possessed, in an article: "Why I Became a Christian."

"We walked nearly three miles from one end of Hyogo to Kaigandori in the foreign settlement of Kobe. The room was filled with wooden benches. At one end of the room seated at a table, I saw a man of slight build, with the finely chiseled features of a man of learning. He had an open book in his hand and was reading from it. Presently he knelt down to pray.

"We sat there bolt upright with our eyes wide open, and watched him. We could not understand much of what he said. We saw tears start from his eyes and course down both his cheeks. Nudged my schoolmate and whispered to him, 'See that? Foreigners cry too, don't they?' After that the man preached for about half an hour—all in English.

"I was face to face with a miracle. And I knew it. That strange-looking man before me, with his blue eyes and sharp, pointed nose, from beyond, Heaven knows how many countless miles of sea and land, was as human as we were. More, there was a bridge between us. Suddenly I felt my world expand by a couple of continents and half a dozen oceans.

"This, then, was the way I met the late Dr. Walter R. Lambuth, who became afterwards a bishop of the Methodist Church, South, one of the really great men of his age and far and away the ablest missionary America has ever given to Japan."

This young Japanese fell in love with the gentle, unaffected, saintly life of the good doctor, and wanted to be like him.

Perhaps no missionary during the past one hundred years was so well equipped for foreign service as Walter R. Lambuth. The difficulties and handicaps of all missionaries going to a land of strange customs and languages, were never a hindrance to him. He had superior advantages in this regard. His father, Rev. J. W. Lambuth, of the M. E. Church, South, was a pioneer missionary to China. His illustrious son was born in Shanghai, China, Nov. 10, 1854; the "foreign field" was therefore, the land of his nativity. He lived and breathed the Oriental atmosphere as naturally as an American boy becomes a part of American life. His playmates were Chinese children; their language was his language, and he knew the viewpoint of the Mongolian better than he knew that of his own people of the homeland.

We can imagine how well rooted and grounded one would become, spending the first seventeen years of his life among a foreign people. His educational preparation was received in the Mission Schools of Shanghai, and at the age of seventeen entered Emory and Henry College of the Holstein Conference; from this institution he was graduated with honors in 1875. He then entered Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., where, after two years study, received both his M.A. and M.D. degrees, as he had chosen as his lifework the medical missionary. Being familiar with the needs of heathen people, he saw that the greatest open field would be—along with the religion of Christ—to minister to their physical diseases.

Walter R. Lambuth entered Bellevue Hospital, immediately after his graduation from Vanderbilt, and from this celebrated school of medicine, he received his diploma in 1881. Then, in order that he might better serve his needy constituency in the Orient, he took a post-graduate course at London and also at Edinburgh, specializing in the diseases of the eye. Walter R. Lambuth had the best training available in two of America's standard literary schools, and two of the best schools of medicine: viz, Emory and Henry and Vanderbilt—medicine, Vanderbilt and Bellevue; besides post-graduate work in two of the leading schools of medicine in the British Empire. We repeat, that it is doubtful if there was from any country, or any denomination on any foreign field, a better equipped missionary, than Walter Russell Lambuth.

Then he carried to the field still other credentials besides the endorsement of colleges and the Board of Missions. While a student at Vanderbilt, he was licensed to preach. He had no special training in the seminary for the ministry, but being born in a Methodist parsonage, under the tuition of his preacher father, he absorbed the essentials of Methodist theology, just as he had absorbed the atmosphere of the Orient.

So, we see the man equipped to teach any of the college branches; a physician qualified as a general practitioner in the whole curriculum of the science of medicine, with special training for diseases of the eye; and, above all, a preacher of the gospel with ability to preach to the Chinese in their own language as fluently as he spoke his mother tongue. We are quite sure, that these unusual facts concerning our sainted bishop are known to but few in the church. The opinion of the young Japanese, comparing Bishop Lambuth with all others, is not such an extravagant statement, after all, when we know the many-sidedness of the man; then combining with this the larger fact, that his life was consecrated to the glory of God, and in service to humanity.

In the year 1877, Walter R. Lambuth sailed for the Orient, where, but for the nine years spent in American and English schools, he had lived always. His first labors on the field were in Shanghai, as a member of the Hospital staff of surgeons. He spent several years at this station, preaching the gospel and giving his superior skill for the healing of the sick. It was through his zeal and leadership that the Methodist Hospital was founded at Peking, China, and it was opened for service in 1885.

In the year 1886, the Board of Missions decided to open a new mission in Japan; whereupon, both Dr. J. W. Lambuth and his son, transferred to Japan, and Dr. Walter R. Lambuth was given the superintendency of the Japanese Mission. One of the greatest constructive works of this ten-talented statesman of the Cross of Christ, was the founding of a college at Kobe, Japan, known throughout the world as the greatest of its kind—Kwansei Gakuin College. Not only has it grown to be the largest mission school in Japan, but it is the largest, in the point of attendance, of any school of the M. E. Church, South.

Dr. Lambuth was called to America in 1892, and because of his almost inexhaustible fund of missionary information, was appointed by the Board of Missions as their field secretary. In this capacity, he served the church until 1910, when he was elected to the Episcopacy. He took up his residence at Oakdale, California, serving the conferences on the Pacific Coast, giving special attention to the foreign peoples from his beloved Orient.

In 1913, Bishop Lambuth took a group of Vanderbilt students on a tour of investigation, far into the heart of darkest Africa. He became known as the "Pathfinder of Southern Methodism." A Mission was opened in the Belgian Congo at Wembo Niama, named for the big chieftain of the tribe at that place. Perhaps, this is one of the big achievements of his life, as the new field has met with the most optimistic expectations, and is a most fruitful field.

In addition to his labors as field secretary, for seven years before being elected bishop, Dr. Lambuth was editor of the Review of Missions. He was an honored member of several Ecumenical Conferences which met in this and in other countries. He took first rank in all the big missionary gatherings of all denominations, as well as his own; his counsel was given the highest consideration by missionary leaders everywhere. In 1907 he was a delegate to a meeting in Japan, looking to the unification of Japanese Methodism, and was a factor in the consummation of that program.

Bishop Lambuth delivered the Cole Lectures at Vanderbilt University in 1915. He was an extensive writer on missionary themes, and no man in the church was better informed on every phase of the subject. He published a book: "Winning the World for Christ," and "Side Lights on the Orient." He compiled and edited the "Japanese Discipline."

During the World War, Bishop Lambuth served on an important commission in Paris, which had to do with international relationship of the United States Army in France. His broadmindedness and his sweet, generous spirit, lifted him beyond the limitations of any ecclesiasticism, and made him, thereby, a world character. In the year 1892, both Emory College, at Oxford, Ga., and Randolph-Macon College, of Ashland, Va., conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. While a student at Vanderbilt, he became acquainted with Miss Daisy Kelley, the daughter of Dr. D. C. Kelley, of the Tennessee Conference, stationed then in Nashville, and this courtship was consummated in a happy marriage. Bishop Lambuth died in Yokohama, Japan, Sept. 26, 1921, and when he died, left a great void in the world's missionary cause.

The Christ of the Gospels.

There is no end of sermonic literature scattered about; some of it good, and much more of it mediocre and below. Published sermons, as a rule, are dull reading unless the personality of the preacher is so well known that it can be supplied in the printed page; or if not, the sermon must be saturated with fresh, startling truths, and illuminated by telling illustrations, giving point and purpose to the message.

In a beautifully bound volume bearing the above title, Dr. H. C. Morrison has given us the cream of his Gospel messages. His rank as one of America's greatest pulpit orators is too well known for need of further mention. As a preacher, Dr. Morrison is in a class all alone, and in this volume he has put his greatest thinking, and his personality beams from every paragraph. Those who may own this book of sermons—which are "the beaten oil of the sanctuary," and are messages that have thrilled and blessed the thousands up and down the land—they are his best.

Bible Reading on Holiness.

Rev. C. W. Ruth, Evangelist

IN this study we will undertake to prove that the disciples were regenerated prior to the day of Pentecost; and we would insist whoever admits that they had a definite Christian experience before the day of Pentecost, must of necessity admit the Wesleyan teaching of a second work of grace; for we think no one will deny that they received a very definite experience on the day of Pentecost; an experience which marked a distinct crisis and epoch in their lives: they were not the same after the day of Pentecost they had been previous to the day of Pentecost.

THE DISCIPLES PRIOR TO PENTECOST.

We undertake to say they had been regenerated, and were clearly justified prior to the Pentecost,—during the three years Jesus was with them. Naturally the question arises, When were they converted? Since it is not definitely stated in the Scripture, we can only say, we do not know. However, it seems quite probable that they had repented during John-Baptist's revival; for it is clearly stated that at least some of them had been the "disciples" of John. See John 1:37-40. While the time or place of their regeneration is not given, the fact, is nevertheless most conclusively stated.

St. John 1:11-13 tells us: "He came to his own, (referring to the Jews) and his own received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power, (or, privilege, marg.) to become the sons of God, . . . which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." They had received him, and here is the plain statement, they were "born of God."

Jesus called them, commissioned, and empowered, and ordained them, and sent them forth to preach his gospel, and heal the sick. See Matt. 10:1; Luke 9:1. It is incredible that Jesus would thus ordain and sent forth unsaved men, themselves still unconverted, and give them power to cast the devil out of others; no, Jesus said to them, "Behold I send you forth as sheep ('lamb' Luke 10:3) in the midst of wolves," thus indicating that they had a different nature; and then said, "When they deliver you up, Take no thought how or what ye shall speak: for it shall be given you in that same hour what ye shall speak. For it is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father which speaketh in you." Matt. 10:16-20. If they had not been regenerated "the Spirit of your Father" would still have been the spirit of the evil one.

Of the seventy it was said, "Rejoice not that the spirits are subject unto you: but rather rejoice because your names are written in heaven." Luke 10:20. Surely this could not be said of unconverted sinners. Nor did "the seventy" have any advantage over the "twelve."

In the 17th chapter of John, Jesus testified concerning them, saying "They are not of the world even as I am not of the world;" v. 14, 16, "they have kept thy word," v. 6; "while I was with them in the world, I kept them;" v. 12; "they are thine: and all thine are mine;" v. 10; "none of them is lost," excepting Judas; v. 12; "and I am glorified in them." v. 10. None of these statements would apply to unregenerated sinners.

After Jesus had risen from the dead, yet prior to the Pentecost, "He led them out as far as to Bethany, and lifted up his hands, and blessed them . . . and they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy; and were continually in the temple, praising and blessing God." Luke 24:50-53. If this is descriptive of unregenerate sinners, we confess, we would like to see some such sinners. They were "blessed" and "led" by the Savior: had "great joy" and "worshipped" him; and continued in the temple, "praising and blessing God." Surely, this is not characteristic nor descriptive of unregenerated sinners. Also, Jesus differentiated them from sinners, after his resurrection, by speaking of them as, "my brethren." Matt. 28:10; John 20:17; certainly, Jesus would not thus designate the unsaved.

Many other proof texts might be given, but we think the aforesaid sufficient to convince any unprejudiced mind that the disciples were truly regenerated prior to the historic Pentecost,—some noted divines teaching to the contrary, notwithstanding.

SOME OBJECTIONS ANSWERED.

It has been said that these disciples could not have been "born of the Spirit" prior to Pentecost because the Spirit was not yet given. While it is true that the Dispensation of the Holy Spirit was not ushered in until the day of Pentecost, "the Spirit of God" was present in the world on the very morning of creation, bringing order out of chaos, and light out of darkness. (Gen. 1:2). The Holy Ghost is co-existent, and co-eternal with God; he is God. Hence it is said of the prophets during the prophetic age, "Holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." 2 Pet. 1:21.

Others have contended that the disciples were not converted because Jesus said to Peter, Luke 22:31, 32, "When thou art converted strengthen thy brethren." The confusion here, is due to the fact that they use the word "convert" as a synonym for regeneration,—which is not correct. See Jas. 5:19, 20. The Revised Version gives the correct thought: "And when thou art turned once again, strengthen thy brethren."

Jesus had just told Peter "Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not." And the prayer of Jesus was answered, in that he did not utterly apostatize, as did Judas. But why should Satan "desire" to have him if Peter was yet unregenerated, and he already had him? And why should Satan "sift him" as "wheat", if there was no wheat in him? Although Jesus knew, and told him he would "deny" him thrice before the cock would crow, and therefore would need to be "turned again" this does not indicate that Peter had not been previously regenerated; rather it confirms the fact that he had been.

Now the question arises, Was Peter restored and reclaimed before Pentecost? Yes, he at once "went out and wept bitterly." v. 22; and then on the shores of the "sea of Tiberias," John 21:15-17, Jesus led him to confess his love for him just as often as he had denied him,—three times,—and then renewed his license to preach—both to the "sheep" and the "lamb", and thus fully restored him. And now Peter is the first one mentioned in the pre-Pentecost prayer meeting; Acts 1:13.

Also, it is urged concerning the rest of the disciples that according to the record given by Mark, ch. 14:50. "They all forsook him and fled," hence they could not have been clearly justified prior to Pentecost. But John tells us, after the resurrection, they met Jesus: "And then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you. And when he had said this, he breathed on them." John 20:21, 22. Here he restored their "peace," and, in breathing on them, renewed and quickened their spiritual life; ("breath" signifies life); and re-commissioned them to preach; and all this took place before Pentecost.

Some Strange Leadings of the Lord.

RICHARD W. LEWIS, D.D.

THE call came for a union meeting in Tillar, Ark., away down in the south-eastern corner of the State. It meant a journey from the hill-tops of the North-western Arkansas Ozarks to the lowlands of the Mississippi delta. The rains for weeks had been excessive. The streams were swollen, and most of them out of their banks. The great Arkansas River was on a huge rampage—five miles from bank to bank at Ft. Smith. But the preacher could hear business men planning to brave the widespread waters for mercenary ends, why not he persist in reaching his destination for the glory of God? It was settled: "The children of this world," in this case, should not be "wiser in their generation than the children of light." "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the violent take it by force"—it should be a forced journey, forced with as much vehemence as any "drummer" would force.

The first link in the chain was only 60 miles short—from Siloam Springs, Ark., to Sallisaw, Okla. There we found our first stone wall of hindrance to our journey—the Arkansas River was not passable beyond that point. We were allowed to keep our seats in the car from the hour of arrival, 2 A. M., to the hour of departure on our return trip, 6 P. M. We were few in number. One passenger sat opposite the writer. His voice was husky, and suggested over use, not to say abuse. His face might have been that of a business man. In a word he betrayed his identity—he too, was a minister of the gospel. Then introductions followed. When the writer gave his name as "Lewis," the preacher sprang up and asked if it was "Richard W. Lewis," to which the owner of the name had to reply in the affirmative—nothing else to do! He had owned the name too long to repudiate it, even to a stranger in Oklahoma. Grasping my hand Brother Evans said, "I have long wanted to meet the man whose articles I have been reading in THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD." Soon we were friends, and jolly with each other. A brakeman who had been freely using the Lord's name in vain, asked us a question about Revelation. By the way, how strange that the unsaved persist in confining their enquiries about God's Word to "where did Cain get his wife"? "Who was the beast"? and kindred questions, even the right answering of which never could lead them an inch closer to the Savior!

This gave us an opportunity to turn our batteries on this unsaved employee of the road. If we did not get him over on the Lord's side it was due, confessedly, to his fear that he "would not hold out after professing it." This is the devil's stronghold. Here thousands of sinners are stranded. This is their sinkhole. As if the God who saves is unable to help one live a saved life.

Then we met another railroad man, dead-heading his way up the line to take an engine. He was apparently in good standing in the Methodist Church, South, but we wondered at his lack of testimony. He, too, had listened to the brakeman's profanity, and without a word of rebuke, leaving the witnessing against it to us, two stranger preachers! When will our blessed laymen come to understand that the world is lost, and that God looks to them to let their lights shine, so shine that other men may be won to Jesus?

The third railroader we discovered was a Baptist, and as strange as it may appear, he was the backsliding member of the crew! There we had three men, and the three distinct classes into which the world is divided—the saved, the unsaved, and the backslider. These three were “hobnobbing” in a most congenial way, and there was seemingly not the least care or thought for glorifying God in the association.

We reached our junction point, where we were to take a new route and so detour as to escape the flood barriers. At this town we soon discovered that the Church was “pulling off” a church dinner, and little boys were going up and down the streets ringing bells and calling attention to the dinner to be served at noon. The sidewalks were covered with arrows pointing towards the vacant store wherein the feast was now spread, and the word “eat” was to be seen here and there in big letters. It was easy to reflect how that all our human cries of agony harked back to “eats” in the Garden of Eden! The doctors tell us we are a nation of invalids, and the common sophorism of our times is, “we are digging our graves with our teeth.” And the tragedy of it all is that the two classes who should lead in a reform against improper eating, namely, the doctors and the preachers, are both so guilty that neither dare speak out lest they condemn themselves! How remarkable the fact that the only animal willing to eat when physically out of trim is man, the climax of them all!

It was the writer's good fortune to meet a dear brother of one of the churches, and a merchant, who invited him to share his hospitality at the church festival. There we found the aged and honored pastor mixing agreeably with the women—the ubiquitous women—(God bless them!) last at the cross, first at the tomb, leader in the fall. She seems to be always trying, in her own way, to make up for her false leading. She has abundant energy, and never refuses to lay it out for certain work the church claims is needed. There they were, perhaps a score of them, and every one looking the serving part of Martha. The meal was good—it is always good when a lot of blessed church women prepare it for their church! But we looked around in vain to find the Lord! Rather we could hear the licks from the whip he held in his divine hands as he rid the temple of the money changers. We could hear him saying, “Freely ye have received, freely give.” We could see in Matt. 23:23 his approbation of the tithe, and we could not but wonder if these good women should not have followed his notable and glorious example in declining to turn stones into bread. If that had been idle and condemnable expenditure of divine power, what was this but misdirected energy, energy which had it been spent on soul-winning would have improved the tone of the church membership, snatched many brands from the burning, and so strengthened the membership by additions that all the money needed could have been raised by freewill offerings!

An old sinner in Western Texas once said to the writer, “Brother Lewis, I'll pay the church $10.00 every time they won't have one of these festivals.” Dear soul; he did not realize that I could be, on these good terms, stopping one every few days! Is our Lord so poor; is our church so hard run; are we in such dire extremity; is the emergency so very great that we must make God's house a place of merchandise, or humiliate our Father by advertising to the world that we are dependent upon their help to carry on our work? For the first time in many years the writer has his family in a church which has no suppers that are not free, runs no rummage sales, and resorts to no claptrap whatever for money, and the finances are the easiest feature of the church life. Why not? Is not God able to pay his own running expenses? When a business is unable to finance itself it had better cease. The tithe; the tithe; the tithe—O, that all Christians would accept God's plan for financing the church.

From the feast we went with the undertaker to inspect his stocks of caskets, his parlor, etc. He was a man of God, and announced to us that he was underselling his neighboring competitors by a commendable margin. The cheapest box he priced us was $150.00, and on they soared to $350.00, in this small village, and these prices perhaps 25% lower than prices in nearby towns! Then what of the city prices? Who can afford to die these days? Once it was cheaper to die and get out of it all, but not so now. It is far less expensive to live than it is to die, for on top of the casket charges are the accessories, making the average funeral in the small towns run up to something like $500.00! Jesus slept in a borrowed tomb, but no such relief may we find today from the great expense of funerals. Nor have we mentioned the flowers. O that these might be given to the living! Turned into bread, into clothes, into books, into toys—what joy!

After much phoning, enquiring, switching about and trying out various methods of exit, we got away on a nine o'clock train for Ft. Smith. After 24 hours we were less than 20 miles away from home!

It was Sunday morning when we at daylight crossed the five-mile wide Arkansas on a Frisco train and looking out the window saw the mad torrent surging under the big steel bridge, swishing and whirling as it rushed on to its work of destruction and death down stream towards “the father of waters.” There was not six inches, seemingly, between the great basal beams of the bridge and the water, and the volume of that speeding stream no man could compute, yet there was not a shiver, no sign of vibration, no quivering rods, so steady were the mighty steel arms that held us out of death and destruction. At once our minds ran to the blessed Book, and we remembered, “The everlasting arms are beneath thee.” O, what rest! What blessed assurance! Not only arms of steel, but arms of divine power were about us in that hour of danger with death and disaster all about us.

After the second night without sleep, the writer was stupid, but rushed to a hotel and took a hot bath, jumped into bed at five P. M., and out at nine for Sunday school and church. It was Easter Sunday. The preacher had on no new clothes—good example to his flock! We are in great danger just now of putting the stress of Easter-time on the eggs and the rabbits and the new rags we wear! The music was so sweetly simple! No show in that fine soprano. How clear! How well trained that voice, naturally wonderful! It surely was a song to his glory, rather than to hers. We worshipped God in that Easter music. The new members came forward, among them two children and a father to whom the writer had preached not so long ago. Then the family was under a tremendous load. The man hesitated. Now he had yielded. Thank God. A family united! An unbroken circle. O, if only every home were just so!

Friends of years gone by rushed up, coming from various quarters of the State, offering their greetings, among them one of the Lord's best of women who proposed the hospitality of her home. While she prepared the meal it was the writer's privilege to preach a sermonette to a host of splendid mind, considerable reading and some advance thought—perhaps too much of the latter. He was a man hungry for truth. This friend of years has watched the formalism that has been creeping into the church, and expresses his heart-hunger for “a pure gospel that feeds the soul,” in a most pathetic way. Thank God he can find this in every city, but in far too few pulpits. Why should any man who represents God preach anything less than God's truth. If lecturing will do, why not brand our lectures as such? Why call a lecture a sermon? Who is fooled? Only the lecturer, and at heart he is not deceived.

One of the great, heart-rending tragedies of our times is the departure from the simple gospel Paul preached and insisted that others should preach. That gospel is God's good news to lost men. That gospel saves. That gospel satisfies. That gospel glorifies God. That gospel reflects credit on the preacher. That gospel is the crying need of this hour. May God help us stick to it and have nothing to do with any other.

A REMARKABLE PAMPHLET.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

There recently came to my desk a pamphlet entitled “A Layman's Sermon to the Preachers,” by Edmond L. Brown, which is so full of wholesome counsel and admonition that I am going to give it by installments to the readers of THE HERALD.

This sermon was delivered by invitation before the Ministers' Association of Youngstown, Ohio, and by request was published in the two local papers; later, by request of Dr. Hammaker, it was published in The Christian Work and The Christian Advocate, of New York City. This broadcasting brought numerous appeals for its publication in pamphlet form, which I shall give to our readers, in sections, but will not detract from the value of the suggestions contained therein.

“A LAYMAN'S SERMON TO THE PREACHERS.”

I want first to confess that it involves some embarrassment for me, a church layman, to presume to be able to contribute anything helpful to a body of men who have devoted their lives to the preaching of the Gospel; but I believe you have invited me to speak, without fear of giving offense, the convictions of my heart.

I come here today to emphasize these words of Jesus. “And I will pray the Father and he shall give you another comforter, that he may be with you forever; even the spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive because it beholdeth him not, neither knoweth him. Ye know him, for he abideth with you, and is in you.”

Could there be a more definite line of demarcation drawn between the church and the world? These are the words of the very Christ of God himself, and I cannot understand why you preachers do not more earnestly exhort us laymen to enter into the experience of this fellowship. To press this question is my motive this morning. Why do you not exhort us to enter into this fellowship?

In an address delivered before the Philosophical Union of the University of California, by Prof. John Wright Buckham, he said, “The deeper thought of our time is turning away from religion as dogma, as theory, as ethics, to religion as experience.” The Philosophy or theory of Christianity is only intellectual and without experience we may be intellectually alive, but spiritually dead.

Prof. Buckham says, “Too long have ideas and doctrines of God been substituted for God, himself. Hence, have arisen skepticism, revolt, agnosticism, atheism, all of which have been rejection of ideas, (of interpretation) of God, rather than of God, himself.”

MY CONVICTION.

I wish to state my conviction that the world will not believe and receive the Gospel of Jesus until the church is more serious and more fully believes and demonstrates that Gospel in life, and that if in these United States the government treasury should be open to the

MAN'S MIGHT OR GOD'S DYNAMITE

DR. L. R. AKERS, President Asbury College.

"Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts." Zech. 4:6.

SOME one has remarked that an institution is but the lengthened shadow of a man. There is much truth in this thought, a truth which is equally applicable not only to institutions but to epochs in human history as well, for every age in the history of human affairs has been marked by some dominant personality with mighty girth of brain or reach of soul.

The history of Israel is checkered by periods of light and shadow. Called by God to be a peculiar people and to exalt the pure worship of monotheism among nations whose spiritual life was vitiated by debasing servility to innumerable deities, the Israelitish story reveals instead of a sustained loyalty to the principles heaven-given for their national uplift and conservation a fluctuating or vacillating record. As a check to the backsliding periods, God raised up a succession of mighty prophets whose ringing and fearful utterances still resound through the corridors of the centuries.

Among the notable minor prophets was Zechariah. He lived in a time of great discouragement and distress, in that pathetic but heroic crisis when a remnant of Israel had returned to the beloved homeland from their long captivity in Babylon. Few of this number had ever seen the hills and vales of their native land, but through the narratives of their fathers their imaginations had been kindled and their spirits fired with a deathless determination to possess again the land of their dreams with its holy city and encircling mountains. The return, however, proved to be a cruel disillusionment. Jerusalem was in ruins, her temple in desolation, enemies abounded on every side and their spirits almost fainted as they faced what seemed to be an impossible task of restoration. But a law of God is that a great crisis always creates a great man, and the man at this critical hour was the prophet, Zechariah.

In clarion tones, he summoned the discouraged band to a faith in God and a courageous endeavor; and the call did not fall unheeded. Their hearts leaped to the challenge as they girded themselves for the work. They would rebuild and restore Jerusalem along the old lines. But the prophet's was greater than the people's vision, for standing by the side of Zechariah was a shining messenger who bade him stop the young man with the measuring line, for the new city was to be builded upon a larger scale and to transcend in glory even Solomon's capital with its glorious record of achievements and treasured traditions of the past.

Zerubbabel, the princely leader of the Jewish exiles numbering about fifty thousand, promptly began work on the second temple. But so small were the resources, so vast the undertaking, so large the numbers who opposed and so few those that helped, that he and his people became discouraged and ceased from their labors so that for full fifteen years nothing was done. It is here that Zechariah comes with a challenging call for faith and action. He has had a symbolic vision of a golden candlestick and two olive trees, the candlestick of pure gold having seven lamps on the tops of seven branches, all connected with the central stem, and to the bowl above by a golden pipe. A living olive tree was on the right side of the candlestick, another on the left, and from these trees there came an unfailing supply of oil into the central bowl of the candlestick. When the prophet asked the meaning of the vision, the reply was in the words of the text: "This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, not by might nor by power but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." In these words is enshrined a profound spiritual truth, namely, the supremacy of the spiritual over the material, and this is the message which the angel of the church of the twentieth century would still convey. We may not dispense with the material, but the spiritual must be always supreme. No truth is more difficult to implant in the minds of men than is this, yet in the proper planting of this fact the very issues of spiritual life or death are involved. The power and might of the temporal ever flaunt their intriguing forces before our thoughts and purposes. The world is so real and it is so powerful. In addition to the natural forces which we capture, tame, and bend to our own uses, as the power of wind, water, electricity, and steam, there is the power of social position, of wealth, of combination, of custom and of fact. Easy it is to be so hedged about and controlled by these ever evident forces that we are in great danger of forgetting that we who are pilgrims on our way to a heavenly city must walk by faith and not by sight. After all, it would seem that religion is essentially an emancipation from a deadening slavery in the realm of things. The wisdom and the experience of the centuries, together with the revealed Word of God, have not yet taught the large part of humanity that spiritual interests transcend those that are physical or that the most complicated machine is not to be compared with the humblest flower that grows. The spirit must ever be above the body and the chief concern of the citizen of the Kingdom of God must not be eating and drinking, but "righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." In a word, religion must ever teach us the supremacy of the spiritual.

"Not by might." The world has yet a long way to go before it can catch up with him whose sandalled feet threaded the thronged marts of human activity and, amid the selfish din of those who schemed and bartered, called men to a new appraisal of life's values and re-emphasized the truth that in the affairs of life the soul must ever be regnant. Sad indeed, is our failure to learn the lesson of the centuries, that Alexander, Attila, Cæsar, Napoleon and Hindenburg are futile in their efforts to establish kingdoms that endure. The conflict of the ages still rages. Shall it be Cæsar or Christ? As Professor Fleming, concerning the World War, well said, "The struggle will not end until men have learned that physical force in the long run is impotent unless backed by those spiritual forces which spring only from loyalty to the everlasting difference between right and wrong." It is significant for us to remember that the man who declared Providence was on the side of the biggest battalions died defeated, a prisoner in exile, while he whose sceptre was Love, and whose throne was Mercy, and who, at the end of his earthly career died in apparent failure upon an emblem of shame between two brigands; yet has blazed a pathway of glory across the pages of human history and today holds the hearts of men enthralled, by the sublimity of his faith and vision.

The worship of physical force should be an anachronism, yet, alas, it is anything but obsolete. A perusal of the modern newspaper would indicate that nine-tenths of the thoughts of men are upon that which is purely physical. The names that are upon every one's lips are the kings of the physical realm: Babe Ruth, Gene Tunney, Red Grange, Wrestler Lewis, et. al., while the real makers of history walk in obscure paths, largely unseen by the multitudes. The death of a Valentinian occupies columns upon the front pages of our metropolitan dailies while Charles W. Eliot, our greatest scholar, after more than a half century of invaluable service to the making of America and its marvelous educational system, at his demise receives a scant three-inch obituary notice. The flash of a rocket catches the thoughtless glance of the multitudes while the steady shining of a star is unnoticed.

To be captured by the glitter and fanfare of life's parades is characteristic of those with undeveloped souls,—a mark of spiritual childhood. When we consider how old ideals, old customs and old beliefs are tumbling before the skepticism and scoffing of the present age, of how we are blinded and choked with the dust of things, we can truly say the age of rank materialism is upon us. It is quite the fashion to sneer at mid-Victorian ideas and traditions, but in repudiating them what have we to offer as a substitute? Our great universities and colleges are demanding of us open minds, critical minds, and unbelieving minds. As a result, agnosticism stalks through the length and breadth of our land, while the spiritual emotions chill and atrophy. It is a tragic thing to note that our wild and reckless youth seems utterly ignorant or unmindful of the price paid in human suffering and sacrifice that made it possible to bring this nation into existence. If America is to endure, her foundations must be upon the moral and spiritual principles advanced by him who alone was the Master of Life, rather than on the false support of material prosperity and mechanical luxuries.

At a recent state educational gathering attended by the writer, the statement was made, "The greatest crime of today is neurasthenia." A question then came from the audience, "What causes the neurasthenia of this age?" The answer was, "Largely, fast living." The economist claims lack of home influences and the divorce; the physician affirms that this disorder may come from the non-functioning of the ductless glands; the preacher declares the breakdown of morals is responsible. But may we not come back to the source of the disease which is simply the thing we call, SIN,—sin that is innate, and sin that is actual? No amount of philosophizing or of rhetorical white-washing can effect a change in the diseased body politic. This is an incurable and ineradicable disease from the standpoint of human agencies. Only a super-human Physician can reach the seat of the malady. Physical force can do nothing. Money is empty. Even courage cannot encompass the desired results. The fact is it cannot be done by human power, but only through the Spirit of the most high God. It is by the operation of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of sinful men that human nature is regenerated and sanctified, and to the work of the Holy Spirit alone may we attribute the church's measure of victory over infanticide, slavery, cruelty, injustice and intemperance, the sins that have darkened the centuries. The men and women who have fought these evils in Christ's name have one and all confessed that it was not they who won the victory themselves,—not they, but a Power within them, stronger than themselves, inspiring and energizing them and rendering them capable of achievements beyond their natural scope. That Power they knew had been no other than the Holy Spirit. Truly, "Power belongeth unto God." The Romans with pick and spade could do little in making roads through rocks and mountains. The use of gunpowder in the seventeenth century ushered in a new era of road building. The introduction of dynamite, three times as powerful, again revolutionized science. Following this, nitro-glycerine, twice as strong, has increased scientific achievement.

In the spiritual realm, the only power sufficient to subdue sin and achieve Holiness is through the gift of Pentecost which has ever been the source of the church's strength and its only ultimate hope of victory. Let us remember that we are living after Pentecost, not before it; that the Holy Spirit has come

NEW YORK MEETINGS.

It has been sometime since we have written any account of our evangelistic itinerary for publication in the holiness papers, but desire to report that we are still prosecuting the work of pentecostal evangelism.

Recently we held a convention in Syracuse, N. Y., under the auspices of the County Association there. The services were held in the First Church of the Nazarene. The pastor of that church, the Rev. Henry Stebbins, and his efficient wife, together with the members of other churches, and the officers and members of the Association stood by us in the work.

Special mention should be made of the untiring efforts of Miss Florence S. Kunz, the secretary-treasurer of the Association, through whose efficient labors the meeting was planned and promoted. She is the daughter of our lamented Brother George J. Kunz, the former President of the National Association for the Promotion of Holiness. It was at the home of his good wife that we were royally entertained during the convention.

Twenty years ago we held a very remarkable meeting with Brother Stebbins, in an opera house, in Aurora, S. Dak. It was wholly through his efforts, and against the expressed judgment of the people there that the meeting was planned and propagated. It was delightful to review with Brother Stebbins some of the scenes that transpired in that meeting. Plans are on foot to hold another meeting with him in the not distant future.

Some of the members of the Church of the Nazarene in Syracuse asked us to remain with them and continue the work after the convention closed, but our plans for other meetings were such that we could not accept the invitation. Then Brother Stebbins had resigned his pastorate there, and we did not think it best to continue the work alone.

From Schenectady we hastened on to Schenectady, N. Y., where, a quarter of a century ago, we held a meeting in Albany Street Methodist Episcopal Church, in which some hundreds of people professed to be converted or sanctified. It was said that no extensive revival has been held in that church since then. It was delightful to meet with that dear people again, and take some part in the preaching, and in the Lenten services. They certainly gave us a great ovation.

From Schenectady we went on to Baltimore, Md., to visit a brother of ours. While there, on Sunday morning, April 10, we preached in the First Church of the Nazarene. The Rev. D. E. Higgs, the pastor, was attending the closing session of his District Assembly, and hence we did not get to see him. However, his people and Brother Lewis, a Nazarene evangelist, gave us a most cordial reception, and expressed themselves as greatly blessed and edified with our humble ministry. Twice we have held meetings with Brother Higgs in his charges.

On our way home we stopped off in West Virginia to visit another brother of ours, and some other relatives there.

Our next meeting will be in Bargersville, Ind., May 1 to 15. After that we have a vacant date that we can give some one if he will write us promptly. We also have some dates for camp meetings not yet taken. Persons desiring to correspond with us relative to dates should address us, 1350 Grace Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio. J. L. Glascock.

SAMARIA, MICHIGAN.

Have spent the date April 3-22, with Rev. F. M. Purdy, in his charge in Michigan. We divided the time; ten days at Lulu M. E. Church, and after a three days' rest, ten more at Samaria M. E. Church. The Lulu meeting was gracious and blessed; it has been already reported, but Samaria was surely wonderful! Delegates came from all the surrounding towns. Church packed to its utmost capacity both Sunday night and Tuesday night when we closed. No barren altar at any service. Very definite altar work was done and many came into victory, marked and glorious.

Free Methodists, Nazarenes, Baptists, pastors and people, all made themselves at home, and when the blessings came, the Methodists were just like the others; rejoicing greatly in God their Savior. People presented their pastor, Rev. Purdy, with a splendid love offering at both places; this came freely, and past all the other expenses of the meeting. Twenty new subscriptions for The Pentecostal Herald were taken. God is still on the throne, and the old-fashioned revival is still in evidence, thank God. Edna M. Banning, Evangelist.

GREAT REVIVAL AT WILDWOOD, FLORIDA.

I am now in the midst of a tent revival at Wildwood, Fla., with Rev. Paul Redfern, pastor of the Methodist Church and his people, although all denominations are attending; over 100 have professed conversion and applied for membership in the different churches of the city. For old-time conviction for sin and heart-searching altar services and shouting around the camp I have not seen this revival equalled for years. They said Wildwood, a railroad town of four thousand people, was one place where you could not have a real revival. Thank God, you can have victory anywhere God's people are willing to meet conditions and pay the price in heart-searching, fasting and travelling prayer and earnest work to bring it about.

April 23, 75 professed conversion and applied for membership in the different churches of the city.

At the night service 35 knelt at the altar in the sawdust, and prayed through and then went up on the platform and testified that God had saved them that night.

Some were shouting; Baptists shouted like people at the Indian Spring Holiness Camp Meeting; some were singing, some working, and some shaking hands and the entire tent was under the influence and power of the Holy Spirit. There was a great movement, but at the same time perfect order and God was so glorified that the people did not want to leave, but continued as though they could stay there all night.

Old grudges have been buried, men and women who have not spoken for years have made friends, restitution has been made, drinking and profanity, Sabbath desecration and adultery broken up in many cases, and the entire city toned up spiritually. We give God all the glory and take courage to press the battle for greater things. God saves in the same old way. The blood will never lose its power.

TWO FRUITFUL MEETINGS.

The following is a brief report of a number of meetings. The first at Medora, Ill., with Rev. Paul Brown; the second with Rev. Roy Decker, Tionesta, Pa., both of which were splendid. It cannot be truthfully said that God has no real salt left on earth. These men are devout, fearless and tactful. It was a great pleasure to work with them. Medora is a place of wealth and culture, having a beautiful church with some real saints to carry forward the work of the Master. Their importunate, agonizing prayer was honored and souls found the Lord. They have a choir of beautiful singers and a ladies' quartet which held the attention of the audience and was a very helpful feature of the meeting.

Tionesta, Pa., is located on the Alleghany River north of Oil City, surrounded by mountains. The church is a magnificent cut stone structure built as a memorial by three rich lumbermen. Here, too, were praying saints who, like Jacob of old, did not let go until victory came and souls found the Lord in pardon and purity. Each day I was privileged to talk on heart purity, and in nearly every service definite results were obtained. Bro. Decker delivered some wonderful messages resulting in gratifying results in sanctification and edification. His brother, one of the finest singers I have heard, has directed some of the largest choirs in the East, and should be kept busy all the time. He is a devout man. Address him, Walter Decker, Corry, Pa.

For the next twelve weeks my field of labor will be in Louisiana. Pray that we may have a bountiful ingathering.

Yours in song,

M. V. Lewis.

IN THE MICHIGAN DISTRICT.

We spent from March 4 to April 3 on the Michigan District, Church of the Nazarene. The first two weeks were put in with the Richfield church of which Rev. C. L. Harwood is pastor. As this is a country church and the roads became very bad, the attendance was not large. However, a number sought the Lord and some found him. It was said to be the best meeting the church there has had for several years, and was continued for a while by Rev. W. G. Martin, of Lapeer, after we left for our next appointment.

Following this we spent a profitable week with Rev. L. A. Wilson and his church at Durand. Here we had souls in the fountain and blessings on the saints.

The last week we were at Jackson. Rev. A. J. Bush has been pastor of this church for eight years and still has the love and respect of the congregation. Jackson is the home of Miss Margaret Catterlin, who is considered the best singer in the district. Her special singing and the music rendered by the orchestra were a great blessing to the meeting. We had a splendid week here with seekers and finders. While here we visited the state prison; and henceforth we shall even more appreciate the liberty vouchsafed by salvation.

Our association with each of the above named pastors was pleasant, and we found them congenial yokefellows. God bless them. We are at this time in a battle at Warrington, Ind., and see indications of victory. Pray for us.

JACK LINN AND WIFE REPORT.

We began our meeting in Spartanburg, S. C., on Friday, April 1. This was my birthday. You see, I am an April Fool. I was a fool for the devil for a good many years, but when God saved my poor soul, I fooled the devil. And since that time I have been a fool for the Lord. He says, you recall, that he will take the foolish to confound the wise.

The meeting in Spartanburg was conducted in the North Side Baptist Church. The pastor and his wife, Rev. G. M. Reeves, had met Mrs. Linn and me at the Revivalist camp in Cincinnati. We found them choice people, and a blessing to many. The meeting was good from the beginning. At each invitation, many souls came to the place of prayer. God wonderfully undertook. Many came to be saved; not a few to be baptized with the Holy Ghost, and a number to be healed. Some genuine trophies of grace and healing were won in this meeting. We continued only ten days and the last night found the church far too small.

The great feature of this meeting was the work with the children. I suppose no one follows the same methods with the little ones as we do. We have the children's service right in with the regular meetings, during the song services. This gets the children to church to hear the preaching, and it also has a great pull on the parents. The children at Spartanburg proved to be unusually bright. How they could sing and shout and recite Bible verses. Many of them gave their hearts to God. The last night of the children's meeting, which was a Friday, we had 106 of them under twelve years of age. Praise the Lord for the children at North Side, Spartanburg.

We were beautifully entertained in the home of Bro. and Sister I. T. Williams and their fine son, Henry. Bro. Williams is city official, and a staunch advocate of the full gospel. God has especially blessed him in teaching about the coming of our Lord. We shall never forget the kindness bestowed upon us in this hospitable home.

Another interesting feature of this meeting was the tentative organization of a Camp Meeting. Bro. Reeves, the pastor of the church, has a piece of ground near the city, which is ideally located for a good camp. We went out and laid off the proposed Tabernacle and had a prayer meeting on the site. Many were enthusiastic over the project, and we trust it shall go forward in his name to bless untold thousands. Pray for us. Address us at Oregon, Wis.

ALABAMA CITY, ALABAMA.

It has been some time since I reported through your columns, but I am glad to say that I have recently been engaged in some very blessed meetings. Just closed out a very good meeting at Wister, Okla., with the Rev. E. M. West, pastor. We had several hindrances; first, it rained quite a bit which interfered with the services, then there was an epidemic of measles, but our attendance was excellent all the way through. At the closing service some were turned away. We had splendid co-operation from many of the good people from other churches. Rev. Porter, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was a real brother and stood by the meeting. Brother Porter is a fine man and has a burden for the people of his town. The writer is a native of Mississippi and so is Brother Porter and we had good fellowship with each other. Rev. West and his good wife are pastors of the Church of the Nazarene, and have some most excellent people associated with them. We never had the whole town converted, but we did have some fine services and some were helped in their Christian experience and a few were up for prayer.

May God bless The Pentecostal Herald and its faithful and fearless editor, Dr. Morrison, who has done so much for the great Holiness Movement. The time has come when all of God's people must rally to the cause of true religion. Evolution and all aspects of modernism is getting desperate and the forces of righteousness must rally unitedly and work harder than ever for the spread of the kingdom.

I have a few open dates that I could give for camp meetings or church revivals this summer and fall. Any desiring my help may address me as below. We are now in Alabama City in a real conflict with the enemy, but God is helping and we expect a real break soon.

Crossing the Deadline.

This booklet is one of the most interesting and suggestive of present day conditions of anything written by our editor, Dr. Morrison. It sounds the note of warning that ought to be heeded by a reckless multitude who are losing their faith in the Bible, and at the same time, their reverence for God, their respect for law, and a disregard of all things sacred. Send for this book; get a number of copies and scatter them about over your town and community. Make the people think, and then you may be able to lead them to repentance and salvation. The price is only 25 cents and may be had of The Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

demns. We are nowhere taught to encourage or yield to this inward inclination, but everywhere to strive and war against it, and bring it to crucifixion.

It seems to me to give God's children an assurance that they can yield to these inward tendencies and indulge them, and surrender to outward temptations without involving their state of grace, or the possibility of separation from Christ, and the final loss of their souls, is most dangerous, contrary to the teachings of the Scriptures and to sober reasoning.

How could God speak more clearly on this subject than in the Old Testament Scriptures, Ezek. 18:23: "When the righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and doeth according to all the abominations that the wicked man doeth, shall he live? All his righteousness that he hath done shall not be mentioned: In his trespass that he hath trespassed, and in his sin that he hath sinned, in them shall he die."

It is a poor dodge to undertake to say that this scripture simply teaches that the Christian man will suffer physical death because of his sin. God says here that he shall die in his sins. That means the loss of the soul. Men who die in their sins, die in a state of condemnation, die out of Christ, die without hope, and go out into darkness.

I want you to notice the clearness and force with which the apostle states the case of regeneration. There are no scriptures anywhere in Old Testament or New, that bring out the wonderful change wrought in the soul by the regenerating power of the Holy Ghost more clearly. "For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened," Illuminated, taught by the word of God, brought to see their sins by the power of the Holy Spirit, led to repentance, to a consciousness of their condition, and a turning away from sin. "And have tasted of the heavenly gift"; the gift of forgiveness, the heavenly peace that comes with it. What an excellent description! The human soul receiving pardon, all aglow with the sense of forgiveness, has a gracious taste of heavenly peace and joy. "And were made partakers of the Holy Ghost." He illuminates. He renews. He bears witness. Notice how the apostle goes forward, "and hath tasted of the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come." This is indeed a new birth. "A new life, a glorious revelation, a joy unutterable, a redeemed soul receiving a foretaste of heaven itself, and the wonderful powers of the eternal world of grace and glory; the very word of God becomes a feast to such a soul."

How different this from a mere human decision, a mere profession of faith, of joining the church, taking some vows and receiving some ordinances. The prodigal in the far country made a decision, but it was a decision to go back to the father with a humble confession, the embrace and kisses of the father, the robe, the shoes, the ring, the fattened calf; the music and joy represent the gracious pardon he received.

It will be granted that the apostle in this wonderful description of what takes place in the regenerated, is going far beyond mere human religion. This is Christianity in earnest. This is the mighty work of the Spirit of God. The regenerating power bringing in the joys of salvation to the human soul. The apostle tells us that, if such souls shall fall away, "it is impossible to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame."

Pray, tell me why the great apostle should place this tremendous warning before us if falling away is impossible? If one cannot fall away, it seems impossible to give an intelligent exegesis or interpretation of the words of warning he places here. It must be understood that the apostle here is not speaking simply of the loss of the joy of salvation, or a lapse of spiritual life, or of the actual sin and backsliding of a Christian; we are profoundly thankful that the Scriptures plainly teach, "If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father." We have examples in the Scriptures of persons who backslid grievously, repented deeply, and were restored to the divine favor.

The apostle in this exhortation no doubt has in mind those converted under his ministry who, under the influence of Judaizing teachers were drawn away from their faith in Christ, repudiated him as the Son of God, the Messiah and Saviour of men. Such a denial of Christ was to recrucify him; this left them entirely without a Saviour; their condition was hopeless. Having rejected the only Christ that God has ever, or will ever, give to the world, they were lost beyond hope or help.

Remember that they had been regenerated, made partakers of the Holy Ghost, had tasted of the good word of God and the powers of the world to come. There can be no doubt but they were saved, but now they have been drawn entirely away. They have not only backslidden, but they have recrucified the Lord Jesus and gone into such unbelief that it is impossible to renew them again unto repentance. These unfortunate, wretched people are a powerful proof that the regenerated cannot only fall away from Christ, but they can fall away from the possibility of repentance and restoration.

Not long since in conversation with the pastor of one of the great churches in these United States, he spoke with great earnestness and deep sadness of preachers of his acquaintance. He said they were once men of faith and zeal; there was every reason to believe they had been soundly saved. They not only manifested the good fruit of a genuine Christian experience, but they had preached the gospel with such unction and power that they had made many converts to Christ; but they had been caught in the current of modern skepticism; they had denied the virgin birth of our Lord, thus repudiating the doctrine of the deity of Christ. They had denied that he ever performed any miracles, thus discounting the inspiration of a very large part of the New Testament. They had denied that he had made a blood atonement for the sins of the world, thus they had denied the entire scheme of human redemption through the sacrificial death of Christ. Not only so, but their hearts had become hardened; they now look with contempt and ridicule upon their brethren who faithfully preach the gospel of repentance and salvation in the Lord Jesus.

They were puffed up with pride and imagined themselves to be paragons of wisdom, and in their whole attitude were much more in sympathy and harmony with blatant infidels, than with evangelical Christian preachers. They seemed to have entirely fallen, and to have no desire or disposition whatever, to repent and come back to the Christ. This pastor called attention to the fact that this fearful apostasy was becoming common, and that a startling number of persons who had evidently been once converted were departing from the faith and becoming antagonistic to every essential doctrine of the atonement.

It is most dangerous, in fact, impracticable and unscriptural, in these times when unbelief is so rampant, when there is such a remarkable drift away from Christ and the saving gospel truth, to teach men that they cannot fall; that, having been once converted, they are now, and forever, absolutely safe. Jesus did not so teach. Read his parable of the man who went forth to sow. He tells us that, "Some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it." In his interpretation of the parable, he tells us that, "The seed which fell among thorns are they, which, when they heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection." Who has not seen this scripture fulfilled in the lives of those who were converted and started out earnestly in Christian service, but they drifted away, sought after riches, neglected the house of God for business, went into worldly pleasures and finally, became unfruitful and fell away from the faith.

The Apostle Paul tells us that he "labors to keep his body under, lest after he has preached to others, he himself become a castaway." It is not worth while to try to convey or explain away these earnest warnings and instructions of the inspired writers. We dare not fall into carelessness and indifference under the delusion that, having been regenerated, we cannot fall into sin, drift away from our Lord, and finally die in sin and go out into darkness.

St. Peter gives us a most earnest exhortation. We find him saying, "For if after they have escaped the pollution of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning. For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them. But it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, the dog is turned unto his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire." There can be no doubt but the apostle is here speaking of the falling away of those who were once converted, and he is so earnest to impress upon young believers the possibility of their fall, that he uses a disgusting illustration in order that he may make a profound impression upon their minds that shall not be forgotten.

We send out this sermon at this time of widespread apostasy, and the great popularity of false teachings and the hosts of unfortunate people who are following after them, with an earnest plea that God's children watch with sobriety and prayer against the enticements and delusive, destructive teachings that are flooding the land, drawing away thousands of followers of Jesus from the true gospel.

We are frequently startled at the statements of ministers of the gospel who have been powerfully converted, and have had a fruitful ministry, preaching repentance and regeneration, who are now being caught with many heresies; that regeneration is unnecessary for the young, that it is of no special consequence whether we believe in the inspiration of the Scriptures or not; that it does not matter what our attitude is toward the virgin birth and deity of our Lord. We can but believe that numbers of preachers and people are becoming entangled in the meshes of these fearful heresies and are crossing the deadline, where they are being left by God to believe a lie and lose their immortal souls.

It is a time for watchful, prayerful, steadfast devotion to Christ and the teachings of the Holy Scriptures. Believe the truth, witness for Jesus, defend the faith; do not hesitate in your steadfastness because of the sneer of skeptics, that you are an intolerant heresy hunter. Contend against sin; stand up bravely in the love of Christ and speak out plainly against the teachers of falsehood, everywhere. May God so root and ground your souls in the faith of the gospel, in the sacrificial death of our Lord Jesus, and the fullness of the atonement made by him, that you shall be steadfast and unmovable; your house founded upon the eternal Rock of Ages, that it matters not how the rains may fall, and the winds blow, you are secure and safe amidst all the tempests of unbelief and wickedness of every sort, remembering that our Lord Jesus has said, "Many false prophets shall arise, and shall deceive many. And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved."

The Secret of Paul's Power.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

FOR I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day." These were the words of a man in desperate straits, shut up in a Roman dungeon waiting for the day of his execution. We would expect of one in such a condition, to have the spirit of retaliation, but instead of this we have the note of triumphant victory making the corridors of the prison resound with the highest notes of a glad doxology. How are we to account for Paul's serenity of spirit? In no other way than that Jesus Christ had become the one great fact to Paul. He was the center around which all other interests revolved, and to which all his ambitions aspired.

Paul meant a great deal when he says, "He knows Christ." His knowledge of things changed and he saw life from an entirely different angle. Philosophers deny all that lies outside of man's mind, all within that radius being the point of contact between persons. From our human way of looking at things, the moral man is the ultimate man, but to Paul there was a higher, broader, and deeper knowledge than that of which the scholar and philosopher boast. His knowledge took hold of the Eternal and with the key of faith, he unlocked the storehouse of God's mysteries of divine grace and power.

Faith has been variously defined, yet it is the most simple thing in the world. In Hebrews 11, we have faith in action, stepping out on nothing, seeking an unknown country, and enduring as seeing him who is invisible. Faith needs more than natural religion; it needs to have the immutable promises of an infinite God to support its twining tendrils, as it climbs up and reaches out after a mightier power than lies within the reach of the merely human.

Paul found two things in this knowledge of Christ: First, the ability of Jesus; for he declares that, "I know that he is able." Paul met Christ in the heavens. In trying to tell his experience he said, "I knew a man above fourteen years ago, whether in the body or out of the body, I cannot tell." With such an experience to begin with, is it any wonder that Paul could not be shaken in his faith, nor be made to doubt the almightiness of this divine personage he met on the Damascus road?

Christ's miracles have proven to the world the fact that in him was power of more than human origin. Nor did he do his mightiest works in the very beginning of his ministry, but began with the miracle at the wedding in Cana where he turned the water into wine; this was the lowest rung in the ladder of his mighty works. Then we have the account of the man in the tomb who met him, and out of whom Jesus cast the demons and left him clothed and in his right mind. Later, he moves on to the grave of Lazarus, where he wields the scepter of power over the grave and, by the word of his power, commands it to give up its occupant. Yet, we have not reached the limit of his wonder-working power. Paul on the road to Damascus was brought into immediate touch with the almightiness of Christ, as he was on his way to persecute those who had identified themselves with the lowly Nazarene.

Sin is being minified in this age of the world, and brought under new conditions; they are shading the blackness of sin into a dull gray, until it does not appear in its hideousness as in the days when God thundered his awful judgments upon those who broke his least commandments. We are inclined to lay the blame upon heredity, and environment, and on every side is heard the pessimistic wail of hopelessness. But there is a higher law than that of heredity; however powerful the law of heredity may be, it does not stretch over the universe and usurp the throne of God. The power of Christ can break the shackles of environment and heredity and set the captive soul at liberty. To Paul, Jesus was the apex of the universe, and his uplifted cross eclipsed all else.

In the second place, Paul found the moral reliability of Jesus. "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right?" Job had this knowledge of the divine One when he declared, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." The word commit, in this passage, literally means to "deposit." He is able to keep that which I have deposited with him. This bears out the thought that we are to deposit our life with Jesus; and when it is once lodged in his keeping, we are not to be running to him every few days to see if it is being kept all right. We are only to draw upon the deposit as we have need of strength to perform the duties which he places upon us. Why should we doubt, when the material universe is organized for the benefit of the soul who trusts in God; for did he not say that, "All things work together for good to them who love him?"

That is a dark, pathetic picture from a human viewpoint, as we behold the aged, time-worn apostle, with lashed back and bleeding feet, finishing out his earthly pilgrimage in a Roman dungeon, but amidst it all he has the presence of him who makes the setting of life's short day radiant with divine glory. The last testimony we hear him give is: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." What a victorious closing! What a triumphant entrance into the New Jerusalem! Yes, he knew him then, but now he knows him better, for faith is lost in sight.

churches and there should be handed over to the churches all the hospitals and all the educational institutions with their endowments, it would still be impossible for the church to win this nation for the Kingdom of God in our present spiritual condition. I believe in preaching. Christ declared it his way for the conversion of the world, "for how can they believe without they hear and how shall they hear without a preacher?"

You preachers hold in your hands the initiative for the conversion of the world but I believe that the present spiritual condition of the church is just about what is demanded by most of the preaching of this generation.

For fear you may think I have lost my balance, listen to what Dr. Andrew Gillies has to say: "The world is dying for lack of a living faith. Humanity is nervously sick, mentally befogged and morally adrift, because it is spiritually bereft. The name of God remains in our language, but the consciousness of God is absent from our lives. Talk about the absentee God of the fathers, in spite of all the preaching, the average man today thinks of the Creator as a billion miles away." Dr. Gillies asks, "How many Christians can claim the Unseen Companion?" and further says, "A conception of him as impersonally present in all things has taken the place of the vivid consciousness of him as present in the individual life, guiding, guarding, stabilizing, comforting and controlling." My personal conviction is that the churches of today take Jesus Christ only at a very great discount and that they are not exhorted as they should be to take him seriously.

Government and church statistics show that for years in this country the increase in church membership, including Protestant and Roman Catholic, has but little more than kept pace with the increase of population, and that about 60 percent of our population have no church relation whatever. Forty percent of a nation surely is not the maximum conquest of the gospel of him who, if lifted up, promised to draw all men unto him. Reports further show that 75 percent of the Protestant preachers made no converts during 1920. Is it not time to ask, What is the gospel of Jesus and are we preaching it?

Taylor University Convention and Commencement.

Taylor University is closing one of its best years in many respects, especially along spiritual lines. Revivals have been conducted by Dr. S. H. Turbeville, Dr. Monroe Vayhinger and Rev. Joseph H. Smith. A brief convention full of interest and attended by visitors from many states will lead up to the Commencement Exercises.

The opening sermon of the Convention will be preached by Rev. T. M. Anderson the evening of June 7, following a people's meeting conducted by Rev. and Mrs. John Thomas. Included with these workers in the convention will be Dr. William H. Huff and Professor Kenneth Wells. Dr. H. C. Morrison, editor of THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD, is expected to be with us in the closing and to deliver the Commencement Address on the morning of June 15. A number of other strong evangelists and pastors will have some share in the services, including Dr. John Paul, the President of Taylor University.

MRS. NEWTON WRAY.

The Cross of Christ is his greatest glory. Because he humbled himself to the death of the cross therefore God hath highly exalted him. Take time, O soul, that Christ through his Spirit may reveal himself as the crucified one!—Andrew Murray.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Nebraska boy join your happy band of boys and girls? I am between nine and thirteen years. Anyone that can guess my age I will write to them. This is my first letter to The Herald. Herbert Helton, I guess your name to be Carl. If this is it do not break your promise. I enjoy reading The Herald very much, especially page ten. I like school very much. Well, I hear Mr. W. B. coming so I will run.

Howard Stinnett.
Enders, Neb.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Please let me join your happy band of boys and girls. My mother takes The Herald, and I like to read the Boys and Girls' Page. We just closed a gracious revival at our church. Bro. E. P. Swan was the evangelist. Bro. Insko is our pastor. There were several children converted. I was one of them. I have one brother and one sister. I am praying that they will be saved. My sisters' name is Wanda. She is going to school at Berea, Ky. My brother's name is Harry. My birthday is Oct. 16. I am eight years old.

Pauline Fearis.
Trinity, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you permit me to have a little chat with you and the cousins? Who has my birthday, Sept. 9? I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. I have gray eyes, brown hair, and am four feet and nine inches tall. I will write to any of the cousins who can guess my middle name. It begins with R and ends with A, and has seven letters in it. Flora Knight, I guess your middle name to be Belle. Am I right? As this is my first letter to The Herald, I hope to see it in print.

Ethel R. Feeze.
Columbia, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Would you let a little New York girl join your band of boys and girls? I have light brown hair, blue eyes, fair complexion. My birthday is Jan. 18. I am ten years old and in the fifth grade at school. I go to Sunday school every Sunday I can. Who can guess my first name? It begins with A and ends with E, has six letters in it. Whoever guesses it I will send them a card. Flora B. Knight, I guess your name to be Belle. If so, write. With love to Aunt Bettie and the cousins.

A. Florence Downing.
DePeyster, N. Y.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little New Jersey girl join your happy band? I hope I may as this is my first letter. We have not been taking The Herald very long, but we certainly like it and I enjoy page ten. I have read "Beautiful Girlhood" and have been benefited by it. It is a wonderful book and I trust more mothers will give that book to their daughters as mine did. I am a Christian; was converted in the M. P. Church, September, 1926. Alice Thayer, I think your name is Ruth. If so do not forget your promise. I am thirteen and in the eighth grade. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. I hear Mr. W. B. coming so I will say good by.

Elaine Michterlein.
Tuckerton, N. J.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here I come; look out so I don't scare you, for I believe I am a stranger among you cousins. I live up north in the State of Minnesota. I thought I would have to write and see if I can't wake up a few of Minnesota Christian boys and girls, for it seems I see all other states but not ours. If you will just give me a little room this time I shall not bother you again, unless I learn to know you better. I want to say I sure enjoy reading the letters where they say "I am saved." Yes, praise the Lord, he dug me out of the pit too, and washed me white in the blood. Oh, is it not glorious to be saved from sin and ready to meet Jesus when he shall appear? When will he come? As a thief in the night, the Bible says, so it behooves us to watch and keep praying and pressing on, for the old devil is doing his best to even deceive the very elect. And God says unless those days were shortened not even the elect should be saved. But we don't have to be afraid of him, for if we look to Jesus he will see us through. "In that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted." Before I close I want to say I am just a little 23-year-old boy. All who want to write to me may, and I'll try and answer, but I don't think I'll come again for God has called me to preach, so will leave for God's Bible School soon. Be faithful unto death and you shall receive the crown.

Royal Elofson.
Richville, Minn.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you make room for an Ohio girl on page ten? I am fifteen years old. My birthday is on August 13. Who has my birthday? I have dark hair and eyes and have dark complexion. I am five feet, two, and weigh 100 pounds. I am a Sophomore in High School. I attend Sunday school, church, and Epworth League regular. I have a sister who graduates from college this year. Mother and I live with my grandparents. We are all Christians. I was wonderfully saved about three years ago. We are readers of The Herald. This is too stiff for W. B., so I'm trusting to see it in print. I will answer any letters that I receive.

Clarice Shockley.
Jeffersonville, Ohio.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here comes a little Kentucky girl to join your happy band of boys and girls. Wake up, Kentucky boys and girls, don't let the other states get ahead of us. I have brown hair, brown eyes, and dark complexion, and am five feet, three inches tall and weigh 90 pounds. I have long hair. I am twelve years old. My father is a Pilgrim Holiness preacher. Would like to see this in print as it is my first letter. Would love to hear from any of the boys and girls; will answer all letters received.

Minnie Maddox.
Rt. 4, Flemingsburg, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I want to tell you about Mother, a member of The Herald family for over thirty-five years, beginning when it was Kentucky Methodist. Mother was the fifth child in the home of John and Elizabeth Martin McKinney, born Feb. 15, 1852. A church and schoolhouse stood close together on her father's farm. Perhaps her first excursion was up the hill through the vineclad forest to church. She was just a little bundle of pleasure, strong and healthy; her chief heritage was undaunted courage. She was just entering real happy life, loved music and books. When young she was forced to play her part in the sternest bit of tragedy ever acted in domestic circles. In less than a day she saw two of her mates die, and in another year was called in to receive the farewell blessings only a dying mother can give. Besides her household duties she found time for study. She was trained early to love the Bible. Mother never departed from her early training. At thirteen she joined the Methodist Church. When the Civil War was over she was able to mount the platform at a great banquet and perform upon the dulcimer to the pleasure of soldiers and all. One Mr. Washington was the most cherished of her teachers and that old master seems to have admired her very much, since I have seen a volume of poems by that teacher he dedicated to Miss Mariah Elizabeth McKinney. On the eve of July 8, 1868, mother told her father she wanted a cool drink. He said no, he had just been to the branch, but she eagerly went to her neighbor's spring to get a bucket of cool water. She set the water in her neighbor's yard and a cloud came up and detained her in Clarksville, Tenn., getting married to William Riley Wright.

Father and Mother came back to Kentucky and became home builders, showing interest in church and school. Things moved on pretty well for a long time. In all, seven children came. The ship moved on, and enjoyed a steady calm until the fourth child, a brave fellow, thirteen, always daring and doing things out of the ordinary, called us to his sick bed and announced his death. He had prayed that it might be otherwise, but it could not be so; now he was going where it would be glory always. That plunged us into black night but mother stood it well. Father was there. Six years later father's health broke and he went to his grave in a year, and that left the family burden on mother; yet she was a fearless saint. When she felt the weight of a burden she thought of Jesus, "He'll help me when I call."

The kingdom of God was on her heart and she refused to offer anything less than the best. More than one time she gave for missions, saying, all she had was the Lord's. After mother became an invalid, ten years ago, we showed her how the kingdom was advancing among heathen and asked her if she was sorry she spent her money in that way. "No, no; I am glad," she tried to say, then she laughed; her heart was full of joy.

Few days ago feeling the hour of her departure was almost come, we knelt before her and asked, "Mother, isn't it about time to take that bucket of water home?" She laughed, "Oh," she said, "Let it go." You left that bucket sixty-nine years ago and all but you are dead—do you ever want to see them? Ever get homesick? Her answer was, "Yes, I want to go."

Another stroke of apoplexy was followed by total paralysis. When she could no longer talk she pointed, looked, or smiled and we tried to understand. We were helpless. Slowly she went down. At half past ten the night of Feb. 4, 1927, with my arm around her and her hand in mine, we hobbled up to the gates of Light, our hearts broken, bleeding, where we kissed her good night, telling her it would soon be morning. With a sweet loving smile on her dear face she stepped into heaven and we turned away in tears. It was then we wanted to tell her so many things.

Next morning we sat beside mother's lifeless form too hurt for utterance. In the afternoon followed her to the church where she was given a very tender funeral, singing her favorite songs, "Home Over There," "Shall We Gather at the River," and preaching from her choice text, "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live." Then they laid her to rest just outside the west window close by Providence Church under a cover of flowers that had all the appearance of summer in the midst of winter.

Mrs. Mariah E. Wright is gone, but we know where to find her.

Jas. E. Wright.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am really delighted when I look over page ten and see how large a number of boys and girls are actually interested in the work of the Master. I was first introduced to The Herald last Christmas when a kind-hearted old man had it sent to me as a Christmas present. I sure did appreciate his kindness. I hardly see how I could get along without it. I enjoy the great Biblical themes discussed week after week by the great writers. I am at work for the Master in my church. When I go to Sunday school I don't know which one of the eight classes I will be called upon to teach, or sometimes to superintend the Sunday school. I don't mind it. I really enjoy it, because I know I am helping the Master's cause to advance, even though I am not much of a teacher. I also lead a great deal in our Epworth League. Our church has built a new building. It is indeed beautiful. Last Sunday we bid farewell to the old one hoping to occupy the new one next Sunday. We are going to make it a grand occasion. Although I place social gatherings in second place I don't leave them out of my program altogether. No one enjoys good, clean entertainments more than I. I am five feet, seven inches high, weigh 140 pounds, have blue eyes and brown hair, and fair complexion. Cards and letters will be appreciated and answered if possible.

FALLEN ASLEEP

HUTCHINSON.

Mrs. Susanna Elizabeth Hutchinson was born in Bath county, Va., May 31, 1855. Departed this life April 1, 1927. She was reared in Kerr's Creek, Rock-bridge county, Va. She was the daughter of the late George William and Elizabeth Brooks; was married to William Gorgan Hutchinson of Lexington, Va., Nov. 23, 1876. To this union were born four children; three boys and one girl: Rev. James Myers Hutchinson of Portland, Ore., Rev. John Edwin Hutchinson, of Pasadena, Calif., George William and Nora Hutchinson, of 1801 Ninth Ave., Huntington, W. Va., with whom she made her home. Mrs. Hutchinson has been a Christian since about fourteen years of age. She has been a resident of Huntington, W. Va., for about 21 years, and a member of the Pilgrim Holiness Church, 20th Street and 9th Ave., being one of the first members taken into this church. Besides her children, she is survived by seven grandchildren and one adopted grandchild, and one brother, James David Brooks.

Funeral service was conducted at the Pilgrim Holiness Church, 20th St. and 9th Ave., J. C. Brillhart, pastor, officiating. Interment was made at the Lexington, Va., cemetery.

PAUL.

On April 12th, as the sun was rising in the Eastern sky to say good morning to all the earth, the spirit of Rev. J. F. Paul passed into that home of the soul at the home of his son DeWitt D. Paul, Wills Point, Tex. April 11, the day before his death, was his 74th birthday. He was born near Atlanta, Ga. When he was three years of age his parents moved to Texas and settled at Leesburg, where Rev. Paul grew to manhood. He was married to Miss Julia A. Taylor, Nov. 25, 1874. Mrs. Paul passed to that home beyond March 18, 1926.

This couple traveled life's pathway together for over 50 years, celebrating their golden wedding in 1924. Thirteen children blessed this union; one died in infancy, twelve lived to be grown and married; three daughters having died who left families. He is survived by four sons, five daughters, one brother and five sisters. He was a devoted husband, kind and loving father, and a friend to the poor and needy.

Rev. Paul was converted in early life, uniting with the M. E. Church, South, serving as a local preacher in this church since he was 30 years of age. This family lived at Greenville, Tex., for a number of years, and attended the first Holiness Camp Meeting near this city, more than thirty years ago. We always looked forward to the time when we could hear the wonderful sermons preached by Dr. Morrison and others at this camp. Rev. Paul had been a reader of The Pentecostal Herald for 25 years, and loved its pages next to his Bible.

His funeral was conducted by Rev. Alonzo Monk in the Methodist Church at Wills Point, and was buried in White Rose Cemetery.

As we wander round the old home,
And we think of days gone by,
How our hearts are filled with sadness
For our Daddy's gone on high.

We will miss you so, dear Daddy,
As we do our mother dear,
Who preceded you to heaven,
Just a few days more than a year.

For we know that she has greeted you
Over on the golden shore,
Where the angels sing forever,
And the parting days are o'er.

We will miss the kind instruction
And your loving, guiding hand,
For you always told us children,
Of a brighter, better land.

When our life's work here is ended,
Then we're coming by and by,
There to join the happy family
In that home beyond the sky.

Praying Clear Through, by W. J. Harney gives many interesting illustrations of how God answers prayer. It will help you. Price $1.00. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

A REMARKABLE TESTIMONY.

We print herewith a remarkable testimony of the powerful influence of the printed page on its readers. It gives us unbounded joy to receive such letters as these.

"The Pentecostal Herald has been a great help and blessing to me. I came into the experience of Sanctification a few years ago while reading The Pentecostal Herald. I had been reared a Catholic. In your Herald it explained and compared the difference between purgatory and Sanctification. The Herald explained to me just what I needed, as I was hungry for the truth, and I had been converted in a Methodist Church a few months before. . . . Hope you will excuse these lines, but I had often felt that I would like to express my gratitude for the help that has come to me spiritually through The Pentecostal Herald."

We thank God for the privilege of sending out a paper that stands for Full Salvation—and that makes its messages so personal that men and women are led into the light through reading it.

BERRIEN SPRINGS, MICH.

The Scottdale Evangelical Church of Berrien Springs, Mich., was indeed fortunate in securing the services of Miss Imogene Quinn, well known "Hoosier Girl Evangelist" of Indianapolis, Ind., for a three-weeks' campaign during March. Miss Quinn preached the old-time gospel with such simplicity and power that the entire community was stirred and it was the statement of life-time residents that never before had such deep conviction rested upon so large a congregation. The Holy Spirit was a real personality and his power was felt in every service. Large delegations from Benton Harbor, St. Joe, and Niles were present to help push the battle. April 3rd marked the closing up of this splendid meeting. Three great services were held with a basket dinner and a Fellowship love in the basement at Noon. A goodly number were converted, most of whom were received into the membership of the church. The congregation unanimously voted the return of Miss Quinn for another campaign at an early date. She has kindly accepted our invitation and we are looking forward to another great season of refreshing from the presence of the Lord and earnestly solicit the prayers of The Herald family.

Yours in the Master's service,
Rev. M. R. Everett.

RUSHFORD, NEW YORK.

It is with a feeling of gratitude and pleasure, as well as a privilege, that I write a word of commendation concerning Dr. Goff and his splendid work as an evangelist. The meetings were most helpful and successful. An exceptional spirit of unity and co-operation and personal endeavor prevailed. The results were greater than at first thought, 80 recorded conversions, with at least 10 more not recorded, but later found. The influence on the community is very encouraging.

Dr. Goff is a man of magnetic personality and a powerful preacher. He depends on the Holy Spirit for guidance. His methods are business-like and sane. He is always optimistic and in good spirits, which radiates through the audience. Dr. Goff is a good organizer, but always gives right of way to the Holy Spirit. Much

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

"No man can be called friendless who has the fellowship of God and of good books."

Charles G. Finney Memoirs. $1.50.

One of the most remarkable lives of the century came to a close in 1875 when Charles G. Finney died. He left an imprint on the world as few men have been able to do.

This book of memoirs of his life was written when he was seventy-five, about eight years before he died. It is well written, simple in style, and almost compels interest. There is at times a dramatic tenseness that thrills one to the depths of his soul.

The first four chapters give in detail the early life of Finney as a young lawyer; his conversion; the beginning of his life work and his education under his pastor for entrance into the ranks of the ministry. If there were no other chapters than these, this would be a valuable book.

The remaining chapters tell of the remarkable blaze of evangelistic glory that went wherever Finney went—in the country; in large cities, such as Boston and New York; across the ocean in England; and finally in his effective position as pastor in the church and professor in Oberlin College.

Every preacher, and especially every young preacher, ought to read this book.

Handbook of All Denominations, by M. Phelan. $1.25.

As the title indicates, this is a book in which one finds concrete information concerning the tenets, polity and sizes of the different denominations. It gives a short history of each denomination, tells the principal doctrines upheld by each, gives the number of members and preachers of each church, etc.

As a pastor I sought for a long time for a book of this nature. When this one came to my notice I found it was just what I wanted. If one wants the facts about different denominations, here is the place to find them. Every denomination found in this country is briefly explained.

The book has 186 pages and is beautifully bound. It is a valuable working tool for the man who wants to be informed along these lines.

Amazing Grace, by G. W. Ridout, D.D. $1.00.

I know of no writer who can pack a subject so full of useful illustrations than Dr. Ridout. He has read widely, and in all his writings he gives to his readers the benefits of his research. This is true of this book.

Amazing Grace has thirteen chapters on various topics of spiritual life. I have just been reading it so I could call your attention to some of the most striking chapters, but as the fellow said, "They all struck me." Some of them are noted here, however, so you can get some idea of what the book contains. Those which seem most helpful to me are: "Amazing Grace"; "God's Skies Are Full of Pentecosts"; "Deeper Yet"; "The Beauty of Holiness"; "The New Theology and the Old Time Religion"; "If I Lose My Faith."

These are like sermons, but I would not call them sermons. They seem more like discussions that one would have with a small group of friends who have gathered together to learn of the deep things of God. They are full of interest.

Praying Clear Through, by W. J. Harney. $1.00.

The subject of prayer can stand much discussion, and when it is all over, the depths will still be undisturbed. This book on prayer was printed in 1915 and many copies have been sold.

This is not a scholarly book; I doubt that the author ever intended it to be. It is not a book of sermons on prayer, with its firstly, secondly, etc., but rather takes the topic of prayer, makes observations about its need, treats of its different phases, and backs these up with the varied experiences of the author. Many of these are personal, and thus are vouched for by Mr. Harney. Many interesting experiences are told.

The book has 253 pages, is nicely bound, and is printed in clear, readable type.

Historic Christianity and the New Theology, by Harold Paul Sloan, D.D.

Dr. Sloan is recognized today as one of the staunch defenders of fundamental faith in this country. For years he has been studying the questions of Modernism, and is well qualified to write a book on the subject.

In the introduction he states, "Civilization is giving birth to a new era. Two philosophies are in conflict to dominate it. The one is Supernaturalistic Christianity. The other is naturalism in many forms. The minds of men are confused. . . . We have been thinking on the surface; we must be forced to think down in the depths again."

The author believes that the fundamental truths of Christianity can be summarized in the following: The Bible; Depravity; The Incarnation; The Atonement; Justification by Faith Alone; Regeneration; The Second Coming of Christ. He then takes up certain books in the Course of Study prescribed for their preachers by the M. E. Church, (the book was written in 1922) and shows the fallacies of their teachings. There is much food for thought found in these discussions.

The book is in its second edition. In cloth binding it sells for $1.50; special price now is 75c. In manila binding it costs 75c; special price now is 50c.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

is made of the prayer meetings, and by this means lives of people are deepened and strengthened. He has the ability to discover personal workers, train them, and to send them out. Through the Booster meetings he was able to win the boys and girls, and so organize them that there is a demand strongly that these meetings be continued. In fact, the personal workers, and the Booster meetings, will continue. The community rallied to his support. Yet in it all he kept himself in the background, doing his best to strengthen the position of the pastor and of the church.

His addresses before the high school were greatly appreciated. He presented the Pocket Testament League, and over 70 signed up, to read a chapter a day in the Bible. The boys and girls are reading their Bibles as never before. I believe that a thorough lasting work has been done and I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Goff to my brother pastors, and I shall have him again if the opportunity comes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson IX.—May 29, 1927.

Subject.—Peter Undaunted by Persecutions. Acts 5:17-42.

Golden Text.—We ought to obey God rather than men. Acts 5:29.

Time.—A. D. 30.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Introduction.—Our last lesson told of the healing of the lame man at the Beautiful Gate of the temple, and of Peter's preaching to the multitudes in the temple. They were charged with the murder of the Lord, but were told that they did it through ignorance, both themselves and their rulers. But they were informed that salvation could come only through him. Peter may have been a bit severe, but not too much so. The truth went home with great force. It aroused the jealousy of the Jewish rulers who soon had the apostles before them as prisoners; but Peter, being filled with the Holy Ghost, did some bold preaching before the high court. They were threatened with direful punishment, and commanded not to speak any more in the name of the Lord Jesus; but imprudent Peter was equal to the hour, and John joined him in his boldness: "Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye. For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard." Pretty bold, but shot through with divine courage.

Then followed a great prayer meeting when the place where they were assembled was shaken as with an earthquake. There was a fine spirit of liberality among them; many sold their goods and brought the money to the apostles, that it might be used for the care of the poorer brethren. Ananias with Sapphira, a stingy pair, wished to have a reputation for generosity without paying the full price; so they sold a possession, and brought a part of the price, but declared that they had given all. Such a sin put the entire reputation of the Church in jeopardy, a thing that the Holy Spirit would not suffer to be done. He came upon Peter, and led him to pass sentence of death upon the lying couple; but the execution of the sentence was carried out by the Spirit himself. It was awful; but we must remember that the Almighty was under tremendous obligation to protect his Church, and that he was under no obligation to protect hypocritical sinners who would even dare to lie to the Holy Ghost. Great fear came upon all who witnessed, or heard of this transaction. The working of miracles followed. Multitudes of sick people were brought to the apostles to be healed. Peter seems to have taken the lead in the healings. No case was too hard; for it was not Peter, but God, who was doing the work. Of course, excitement ran high. How could it have been otherwise?

At this juncture "the high priest rose, and all that were with him, (which is the sect of the Sadducees,) and were filled with indignation." Envy knows no bounds: religious jealousy is merciless. The apostles were thrust into prison; "But the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison doors, and brought them forth, and said, Go, stand and speak in the temple to the people all the words of this life." No wonder there was consternation among the rulers the next morning, when the prison doors were found locked with all safety, and the prisoners were gone. "It was the Lord's doing, and it was marvellous in their eyes." They were brought before the rulers from their preaching place in the temple. It is amazing how bold the devil can make his people in their persecutions against the children of God; and he has not yet gone out of business, but is even now doing some of his meanest work against the saints all the world over, even here in America.

Notes on the Lesson.

Had Peter been a prudent man, he might have made less trouble for himself and his brethren; but he grew worse and worse. However, we are reminded that prudent men seldom accomplish anything worth while for humanity or for God; wherefore we shall excuse Peter, and stand by him till the last hour comes.

27. When they had brought them before the council.—Another mock trial was at hand, and the apostles must stand before the Sanhedrin of which the high priest was president, or judge.

28. Did not we straitly command you that ye should not teach in this name?—They thought they were directing their efforts against the disciples; but in reality they were fighting against the Holy Ghost—dangerous work. Ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine.—That argues well for the zeal of the preachers. Good Lord, give us some more of the same stamp, and give them speedily, for we are in dire need. The next charge against them is a falsehood: the apostles did not intend to bring the blood of Jesus Christ upon Jerusalem. The devil seldom fails to overdo things in his madness.

29. The table turns. Peter and the other apostles speak, and what fine discrimination they show: "We ought to obey God rather than men." That sentence will stand forever, and in all worlds.

30. The God of our fathers raised up Jesus.—Modern critics may be silly enough to deny the resurrection of our Lord, and still claim to be Christians; but Peter had seen him after he came out of the tomb, and so he speaks with confidence and boldness. Nothing short of direct evidence could have induced him to charge the Jewish rulers with his murder.

31. What a full verse this is. The Father had made the Son to be a Prince and a Savior, the Giver of repentance and salvation to Israel.

32. We are his witnesses of these things.—Only saved men can witness to his saving power; and they are glad to testify. So is also the Holy Ghost.—He was witnessing through miracles, and through the divine unction given to the disciples: they had imparted power, the need of every one who attempts to preach the Gospel.

33. They were cut to the heart. Men cannot stand against the Word of God "preached with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven"; and these rulers were no exception. The greatest need today in our pulpits is the manifested presence of the Spirit of God. Took counsel to slay them.—When the devil and his imps are outwitted by the servants of God, their next step is murder, or something worse.

The Sermon on The Mount

BY

WILLIAM DAVID GRAY, A.M., Ph.D.,

The "Straight Edge Preacher."

This is a book of 21 sermons on the fifth and sixth and seventh chapters of Matthew. The sermons are expository and practical and devotional. The book was written while the author was pastor in Wichita, Kansas. The Wichita Eagle, reviewing the last chapter of this book said: "The Sermon on the Mount by William David Gray has set the Evolution pot to boiling in Wichita."

The author says, in this book: "The Sermon on the Mount, by the Great Teacher, is the basis of all New Testament teaching."

Again he says: "Christ's Sermon on the Mount is the fountain of all true theological life."

On page 61 of this book, the author says: "The four great cardinal doctrines in the Sermon On The Mount are the Fatherhood of God, the Deity of Jesus Christ, the Inspiration of the Bible and the Personality of the Holy Ghost."

The book also contains a number of poems that bring a message of life and stir the soul.

The last chapter is devoted to the Evolution controversy. The author is a fundamentalist and stands four-square for the doctrines of the Bible and of the Church.

The price of the Sermon on the Mount has been $1.50, but is now being offered at the very low price of ONE DOLLAR.

34. Gamaliel, a Pharisee, Paul's old teacher, comes to the rescue. He had more good sense than all the Sanhedrin combined; and the people respected him for his upright manliness. God can nearly always find some proper man to accomplish his work at the right time.

35. Ye men of Israel, Take heed to yourselves what ye intend to do as touching these men.—They were about to run into terrible danger, not from men, but from God; for his hand was on those apostles. "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God."

38. Read the intervening verses to keep the connection. Refrain from these men, and let them alone.—Here we have good sense followed by sound reasoning: "For if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought. (39). But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God." That was nearly two thousand years ago; and all the intervening years have gone to prove the truth and wisdom of Doctor Gamaliel's speech. It never pays to fight against God, for he never loses a battle.

40. To him they agreed; but Satan was not done. Those devil-like rulers still had the audacity to beat the apostles, and to command them not to preach any more in the name of the Lord Jesus. But they had just as well commanded the wind not to blow.

41. This verse is fine. "Rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name." Read between the lines, and you will see the depth and power of their Christianity. He who is like his Master, must expect to suffer for him. The sort of religion we have today has become too popular to be useful. We hobnob too much with the world and the devil. We are often so much alike that it requires a chemical analysis to discover the difference; and then the devil exults, and the world laughs and declares that there is no difference.

42. This verse exhibits a zeal for the spread of the Gospel and the salvation of men, that reminds one of Wesley and Asbury. "Daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus." Such service now would win the world to Jesus in a generation, if not sooner.

EVANGELISTIC AND PERSONAL.

Rev. F. D. Swanson: "I am planning to be in a meeting in Rockbridge County, Va., this summer and would be glad to hear from the pastor of any church in Virginia or West Virginia, or Maryland who would like to have me assist them in a meeting while I am over that way. Address me, Wilmore, Ky."

The United Holiness Association will hold a Holiness Convention in the Shenley Heights M. E. Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., May 20-29. Rev. T. M. Anderson will be the evangelist and the Berg Sisters song leaders. Take car 82, Lincoln, walk up Bryn Mawr Road two blocks to the church.

Mrs. Julia A. Shelhamer has several calls as singer and young people's worker in Ohio, New York, and Pennsylvania, during the summer. She has a few open dates which she would give to any one desiring her services. Address her, 5419 Bushnell Way, Los Angeles, Calif.

The first Evangelical Methodist League camp meeting will be held at Argonia, Kan., June 3-12. Rev. H. C. Morrison, D.D., will do the preaching. Rev. J. W. Dibbens will lead the singing. Let all who can plan to attend this meeting.

Rev. J. E. Hewson, 127 N. Chester Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., is available for revival work. Brother Hewson is one of our most earnest and successful evangelists and should not be idle. Any one needing a splendid gospel preacher would do well to communicate with him at above address.

The all-day and all-night meetings in charge of Brother S. B. Shaw, held in Los Angeles, Calif., were a great success. Many stated that they were the best they had ever attended. In the all-day meeting, some thirty-five organizations were represented, with over forty preachers and evangelists. Although it was a stormy day, both the church and galleries were full. By unanimous vote an all-night meeting was held at Peniel Hall, seating about eight hundred, which was filled. It was a miracle of grace, and great good was accomplished. Nearly one hundred preachers and evangelists were present and took part.

A DOUBLE HEADER.

Some Questions and a Protest.

Sometime since I read on the front page of The Central Methodist where a preacher was traveling on a passenger train out west, when a lady passenger approached him with the assumption that he was a preacher, to discuss with him some subject of interest to her.

This preacher informs us that he had done everything he could, in the way of dress, facial expression, and conduct, to prevent anyone from drawing the conclusion that he was a minister of the gospel. I am wondering why he felt impelled to pursue this course. What has brought preachers into disrepute? What have they been doing to bring shame upon their calling or profession?

I had been under the impression that they were a very worthy group, somewhat in the lead among men. If this case in point were an exception, we could let it go unnoticed, but alas it has come to be well-nigh the rule. The bobtailed coat, his mannerism, his facial expression, all go to show the general mind of the clergy, as to his attitude toward these things.

A preacher's wife told me she didn't want her husband to dress and act like a preacher, and believe me, he did not. Even Peter, at his worst, betrayed the fact, by speech and dress, that he belonged to Christ's party. He had to go farther than that to disprove it.

Be warned my brother, all this sort of thing is taking you in the wrong direction. The clerical garb of the dignified frock-coat, and the sober, kindly face of the minister of the gospel, was but a means of approach for the man or woman needing the helpful advice and sympathetic ministrations of the man of God. Even Christian "drummers" felt the need of some badge of demarcation, for the very reasons I am giving, that those in need of sympathy or a word of encouragement might safely approach them. So they bethought them to wear the Gideon button, and great good has come of it.

We have just heard Dr. Wedder- spoon in his great lecture, "Beside the Bonnie Briar-bush." His Prince Albert coat was not the least of the essentials contributing to the dignity and elegance of this princely minister of the gospel. Oh! let us get back to the days of the dignified frock, and the man of God who wore it.

The other question in my mind, and carrying with it the suggestion of the devotional reading in the Sunday School lesson of February 20th, found in Matt. 23-1-12. Why the lesson committee thought it timely, and Jesus thought it worth while I could easily see. Jesus is condemning the Scribes and Pharisees for many things, but he seems to be getting at the root of the matter when he reaches the seventh verse, "Greetings in the market, and to be called of men Rabbi." (Master or Doctor).

I don't know a more prevalent or contagious epidemic among our preachers, than this same love of being called "Doctor." Jesus said, "All ye are brethren." A brother in the Gospel now is getting to be as hard to find as a "second-hand" store. They must have misunderstood the injunction "to continue" steadfast in the Apostles' doctrine, and thought he meant Doctor-ine. Brother is a term of endearment to me, and I am always sorry when one of our preachers reaches the place in age, dignity of station, honors, and all that makes a D.D. worth while, has that degree conferred on him by some institution of learning, because it removes him just a bit from that close-up place in my affections that he held when he was just a "brother." Jesus knew that was the most endearing term in the world when he said, "Ye are all brethren."

Cheap colleges are hunting up cheap men who happen to have twenty-five dollars about them, and bringing this otherwise fine thing under reproach. Jesus further said, "Call no man Father"; our children are following the injunction and all of them instead say "Dad." Bah! It's all of a piece. Again, I say, let us hark back to the things that are real and true, and away with a lot of this twentieth century rubbish. R. M. Smith.

CHRIST OUR SUFFICIENCY.

By The Editor.

THE religion of our Lord Jesus Christ does not promise us that there shall be no clouds, that the sun shall shine always, that there shall be no sorrows but always shouts of joy, that there shall be no disappointments but always triumphant victories over all difficulties and all foes. But it does promise us that the love of our Lord will shine upon us in the time of darkness, that he will come to us and comfort us in the midst of our disappointments, that in our hearts we shall have rest and triumph in the midst of the defeat and confusion of our plans.

* * * *

Job was a faithful soul, but he passed through great sorrow. But he kept on shouting. Saint Paul knew what it was to endure storms and stones and prisons, but he could say, "None of these things move me." This is the beauty and charm of the religion of our Lord Jesus, it is so adaptable to all conditions, so adjustable to all circumstances. Whatever comes, we can know that in him we are secure, and that all eternity stretches before us loaded with countless good.

* * * *

Devout Christians may sometimes find themselves in hard circumstances and shut up to scanty fare, but then they shall remember that "Man shall not live by bread alone"; that there are no vicissitudes in life, no depth of destitution or affliction where the infinite hand of God cannot hold us, and where we may not find inward peace and comfort by trusting in the Lord Jesus. While Lazarus lay among the dogs at the rich man's gate the outlook was gloomy indeed, but we learn that beneath the rags of a beggar there may be the peaceful faith of a saint; that one may be a pauper when the sun goes down and a millionaire through all eternity when the evening star comes out.

* * * *

The sufficiency of our Lord Jesus Christ for all our needs and under all conditions has been tested in the depths of poverty, in most excruciating pain, humiliation and sorrow, in prison cells, on beds of affliction, under the lash of persecution and at the very gates of death. The soul that has anchored itself by faith in the atoning merits of our crucified Redeemer triumphs over all and can cry out with the old Apostle, "Oh grave, where is thy victory? Oh death, where is thy sting?"

* * * *

Blessed is the man who does not get discouraged when things go awry, when his friends seem to have forgotten him and his enemies press him hard; those who owe him pay no attention to his appeals and those who have accounts against him insist upon payment. He hardly knows which way to turn; he seems hemmed in on every side. Blessed is the man that in these conditions looks up, holds steady, trusts in God, lays up his treasures in Heaven and looks confidently forward to the "rest that remains."

Blessed is the woman with poor health, noisy children, a negligent husband and but little of the comforts of life, who holds on to Jesus in humble, obedient, clinging faith; who keeps the blessed Comforter in her heart and rejoices in the thought that there is coming a time of deliverance, the ushering into a world of peace and rest and eternal joy.

A Chapter from My Autobiography

CHAPTER XXI.

MY PASTORATE IN COVINGTON, KY.

MY first appointment after rejoining the conference was Eleventh Street Church, Covington, Ky. This was a most interesting charge for a young man. The church was a commodious brick edifice; the congregation was large, many of them most excellent people, but very few of them people of wealth. The large, expensive building was something of a burden to the congregation. We had a good meeting during the year, but not a great revival.

I assisted a number of brethren in revivals and had some profitable meetings. The great meeting of the year was with Rev. W. F. Noland, at Hill Street Church, Lexington, Ky. There were many professions of faith, and a number were united with the church. The people packed the house night after night, and many were turned away for lack of room. Brother Noland was one of the best pastors I ever worked with, a man of very superior intelligence, who did things quickly and accurately. He never dragged and wheedled and frazzled things out. He could pack a strong exhortation into fewer words than any man I ever knew. He would shoot out a few strong sentences just before pronouncing the benediction, that would go ringing through the hearts of the people, expressing his pleasure at the gracious results, and insisting that they should press the battle. The men who rallied around me and helped me in every way, were George Spencer, Charlie Myers, Brothers Young, White, Woodard, Overstreet and Harvey Bain.

During the year I was with Brother T. F. Taliaferro in a meeting at Smithfield, Ky., and with Rev. D. B. Cooper at Nicholasville, Ky. The Lord gave us souls in both of these revivals. I was also in a meeting with Brother George Froh at Hughes Chapel, and Brother Buffington at Independence.

Covington is just across the river from Cincinnati and I saw much of the big city, and frequently heard distinguished preachers. Dr. Joyce, afterward bishop, was then in the prime of his manhood and ministry. He was stationed at one of the large churches in Cincinnati, and was one of the greatest preachers in the nation. Dr. Joyce invited Sam Jones, then in the zenith of his power, to hold a meeting for him, but finding his church too small, rented Music Hall and moved the meetings into it. The city was stirred from center to circumference; preachers and people came for a hundred miles round, thousands were packed into the large building, while many were turned away. It was my privilege to hear the great preacher many times. His wisdom, wit, humor, eloquence and pathos seemed almost beyond the power of mortal man. I suppose no other man ever had such a voice as Sam Jones possessed. He could speak in a conversational tone to six thousand people and all could hear without difficulty.

Hundreds were saved in this meeting, and thousands of Christians quickened to better living, while scores of preachers were stimulated to a more practical and zealous ministry. I suppose no man ever lived who could sway an audience more completely at his will than Sam Jones. Now they were leaning forward in breathless silence to catch every word he uttered; now they were convulsed with laughter, while thousands bowed their heads and wept, and multitudes were on their feet pledging the preacher, by the help of God, to "quit their meanness." I have no doubt but some of those wonderful nights twenty-five hundred people would go home from Music Hall to lead a better life. His preaching lifted multitudes close to God. I loved Brother Jones from the first time I ever saw him, until he fell on the field of battle. Blessings on his memory and his loved ones. It is difficult to realize that his great loving heart is still forever.

In after years I had some long talks with Bishop Joyce about this revival and he gave me many interesting details connected with it. I recall that he said forty thousand pennies were thrown into the contribution box during the meetings. Bishop Joyce was one of the greatest men I ever met, and one of the best friends I ever had. I was with him in two annual conferences and a number of camp meetings. The morning he fell under the stroke from which he died, we had a long conversation together, in which he told me many things that laid close to his heart. I sat near him when he preached his last sermon, and caught him in my arms when he fell. The friendship and love of such a man is next to the love of Christ. He loved the doctrine of perfect love with a fervent soul, and loved the holiness preachers with a father's heart. But he, too, is gone! By the infinite mercy of God, we shall meet again.

Did you ever stop to think what inspiration there is in the love and confidence of true, strong men? Have you ever experienced the ungirding and letting down when men, whom you trusted implicitly, failed you? Who can estimate the value of a true friend, the unselfish love of a steadfast, noble heart that will commend you when you are in the right, reprove you when in the wrong, but who will stand unflinchingly by you when you are wrong? Such a friend is one of the greatest assets in life.

WHAT SOME EDUCATORS ARE SAYING.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

HE educational world is very much alive these days. If our age and civilization can be saved by Education we ought to be on a fair way of achieving that salvation. Educators never made more stir in the world than now, and the educational program is being pushed to the limit. But one of the great dangers of our present educational propaganda is that so much of it is being carried on without God, in the energy of the flesh and through might of intellect.

The best that Greek philosophy could do when it came to the great ultimate questions of the soul was to erect a monument in Athens to the unknown God. This seems to be the inevitable trend of learning and philosophy that is being carried on without any dependence upon the Holy Spirit, and it leads to uncertainty, paganism and infidelity. Today America is being inundated with infidelity of the most dangerous kind—the infidelity of culture and of an educational system from which God is dismissed and the human intellect becomes the arbiter and human reason the god. The facts which face us in the realm of education are startling.

Investigation in nine colleges proved that fifteen percent of the sophomore class, thirty percent of the juniors and forty-five percent of the seniors had given up the Bible and the Saviour as a real Redeemer; that of 5500 teachers of Science, sixty-seven percent of the teachers of Physics, seventy-seven percent of the teachers of History, eighty-three percent of the teachers of Sociology and eighty-six percent of the teachers of Psychology had given up the Bible as God's Word and the Saviour as a real Redeemer.

I do not presume to vouch for these statements, but they certainly indicate certain positive dangers in the educational world which are not to be ignored. They show that there is a sad moral sag somewhere in our educational system. Our educational program certainly needs readjustment if Protestantism is going to be saved, and if America is to be delivered from the present paganistic trend of things. We must keep Christ and the Bible in the center if our educational movement is going to produce godliness as well as culture.

Our so-called Christian Education program is failing to meet the situation mainly, because so much of this is in the hands of Modernists—those who no longer are Theistic in their thinking, evangelical in their theology, or evangelistic in their methods. Many of our great church schools where Christian Education is supposed to obtain are in the hands of scholars who are in constant revolt against our doctrines, and whose teachings are absolutely opposite to our standards; indeed, it seems that the "powers that be," in looking for their professors, pay no regard to the question of their spirituality or Christian experience, but engage them almost wholly upon the basis of their scholastic attainments and degrees. A Baptist writing on this subject, reports the following case:

"I know a Baptist college which recently, in an attempt to reach the 'requirements', turned off a great teacher of thirty years' experience whose example has been a mighty factor in shaping the lives of hundreds of Baptist students who are now matching their training with the best in all professions. The 'inspector' said this honored teacher must go because he did not own the 'required' degree from a modern 'Standardized' University. The man put in the place of this honored teacher indeed has a 'degree,' but he has no sense. He is a self-centered bigot whose example is a moral detriment. My sense of moral justice, not to mention my sense of intelligence, revolts at such an outrage committed in the attempt to 'standardize', a Baptist college."

Our church schools are involving themselves into serious trouble in some sections because of their disregard of the church standards of doctrine when placing certain men on their faculty. The North Indiana M. E. Conference is one of our most solid and evangelical Conferences. Its leaders are men who believe in Methodist doctrines and standards and they object to the Conference being sponsor of a University which permits the teaching of destructive criticism by its professor of Bible. They took strong action on the case of Professor Bundy, professor of Bible at DePauw University. The press has this item about the case:

"Rallying to his defense by crystallizing alumni and graduate opinion, friends of Dr. Walter E. Bundy, professor of English Bible at DePauw University here, are seeking to persuade the university trustees to keep him on the faculty. If Bundy is saved, however, the trustees must reject a demand of the North Indiana Methodist Episcopal Conference, that he be dismissed because of liberal theological beliefs.

"The faculty practically is one that Bundy be retained. His colleagues respect the young professor's scholarship and with them he seems as popular as with undergraduates and younger alumni. Dr. Bundy himself declines to be embroiled. 'If I am asked to by the university I will make a statement of my faith,' he says. The situation at this old school, founded just ninety years ago by Bishop Asbury, is eagerly watched on several other Hoosier campuses."

Speaking recently with a member of the North Indiana Conference who was present during the Conference debate on the Bundy case, he told us that Professor Bundy is teaching the most Modernistic things concerning the Bible and sadly undermining the faith of the students. Our big Institutions of learning are tolerating the most dangerous teachings by their Theological Professors. Professor Lewis, of Drew, questions the Incarnation and the Pre-existence of Christ. Professor Rall, of Garrett, is teaching that Jesus was mistaken in respect to his religious message and expectations, and that he was in the dark as to the meaning of Calvary.

A RECENT UTTERANCE FROM THE SOUTH.

The meeting of the Educational Association, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, held at Memphis, Tenn., was significant in many important regards. The Christian Education Magazine of the M. E. Church, South, is before me as I write. Among the things done was the adoption of a Resolution against any legislative action on the subject of Evolution. The Resolution embodies opposition to "all legislation that would interfere with the proper teaching of scientific subjects in American schools and colleges. . . . We are opposed to such legislation because we believe it will be futile and can serve no good purpose."

In his address on "The Contribution of the Church College to the work of the Church," Dr. J. R. Countiss, of Grenada College, has this to say about colleges that stress revivals: "Church colleges should give Christian Education. They should be definitely evangelical without being too ardently evangelistic. A revival atmosphere may be redolent with sacred memories, but it is hardly conducive to accurate scholarship, nor is it considered the best type of preparation for mid-term examinations. In their struggle for protective coloring perhaps as many schools have camouflaged themselves with the garb of piety as with the gown of scholarship. Double daily chapel and multiplied prayer meetings may impress the parents while destroying genuine religious interest in the students. There is a time to work and a time to pray." Further statements of Dr. Countiss are on this wise: "Much of the so-called faith reported as lost in college was never more than superstition. Some men fight for the 'faith of the fathers' because they have none of their own. Professing the Bible from cover to cover they practice it never; never one's claim to salvation should have better foundation than the unction with which they can say Lord, Lord, or the ardor with which he can call down fire from heaven on those who refuse to entertain his vagaries."

We confess to having no personal acquaintance with Dr. Countiss or his college, but as we read these items from his address we could hardly restrain ourselves from thinking that the speaker was uttering a rather sneering criticism on our Bible Schools, Holiness Colleges, etc., where Revivals of Religion have a rightful place in the course of the year's work. Note this fact: The big colleges like Yale, Princeton, etc., in the long ago used to have powerful Revivals of Religion. Our Methodist Church schools used likewise to have gracious outpourings of the Spirit of God in great Revivals. Now those same big schools never have a Revival. It is a thing repudiated. Very few of the Church Schools have Revivals any more, and almost the only schools where Revivals are looked for is in the Holiness Colleges and the Bible Schools. I am wondering, as I write, to what extent Dr. Countiss stresses vital religious experience and Revivals of Religion in his school.

Touching the matter of students losing their religion at College, Dr. Countiss is thinking it is not religion they lose but "superstition." Well now, let us see. Here is a young woman coming to college from a godly home. She has praying parents. She has been taught from childhood to pray, and to believe the Bible. At an early age she was converted; she grew up through high school holding fast her faith in God, in the Bible (including Genesis). She has believed all the doctrines of the Methodist Church; in sin, repentance, pardon, holiness, heaven, judgment and hell. She has professed Christ as her Saviour and never doubted his Divinity and his Saviourhood. She goes to a Modernistic Church school where her Bible is reduced to a human book, where many of the old doctrines concerning sin and the need of repentance, etc., are being repudiated. She finds her faith giving way. She doesn't pray as often; she neglects to read her Bible; she loses her assurance of salvation; she gives up her ideas of religion learned at mother's knees and at the mourners' bench. Now let me ask the learned Doctor, Was it only superstition the girl lost? If it was, we may as well go to smashing up every mourners' bench, shutting up every family altar, silencing family prayers and discourage the making of godly fathers and mothers. No, Doctor, there is a wide difference, I contend, between a genuine religious experience and superstition. Nine times out of ten when a student loses his and her religion at college it is through the teaching of Modernistic professors who have no sympathy with genuine heart religion, and who treat the old-time religion as only superstition.

Let me mention one further remark of the learned Doctor. He says: "The day of the uneducated exhorter, noble and useful as he was, has passed . . . The untrained exhorter may bring conviction for sin, but the college-bred man is fitted to give a larger instruction in righteousness."

Now, this would be fine if it always obtained. It is a singular fact that many of the greatest soul winners of Methodism were not "college-bred"; nor was Moody, the greatest of evangelists! My observation leads me to say that the average college-bred preacher is no soul winner because he has been trained the wrong way. This was Finney's complaint against the college-bred Presbyterian ministers of his day. He said they were all trained in the wrong way. One advantage that the college man coming from our holiness schools has, is that during his training he has been taught how to promote revivals; he has witnessed them in the college, and he has tarried till he obtained the Baptism from on high. This is the secret of E. Stanley

Jones' success. When a student at Asbury College he knew what the sanctifying and baptismal power of the Spirit of God meant and when he went to India he went in the fulness of that blessing.

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

CHAPTER XV.

SAM P. JONES.

It is the confluence of a score of great rivers that produces the Mississippi at its biggest. When we see an outstanding character like a Wesley, a Savonarola, or Knox, we forget the contributing factors, often from sources to the third and fourth generation removed. Piety and strong personality were dominant from both the paternal and maternal lineage of Sam P. Jones. His father, Capt. John Jones, was a prominent lawyer and a Christian gentleman; his mother was a woman of superior intelligence, combining all the feminine virtues of beautiful motherhood. In the two families there were four ministers of the gospel.

Sam Jones' mother died when he was eight years old; but in some way she had bestowed upon her little son an indelible benediction, and always when speaking of her "my precious mother" was always associated with angels. The father was ambitious to see the son enter the legal profession and prepared him for that career. As a young lawyer, having the prestige of his father for a beginning, his prospects were bright indeed; but his temperament so led him into social excesses, which were so mastering in their effects upon him, that early in life were hurrying him toward doom. Drunkenness and profanity, with the kindred evils, were rapidly destroying this child of genius. His heart-broken father exhausted every avenue of approach in his efforts to redeem his boy; but appeals only drove him nearer the vortex of ruin. This great sorrow doubtless hastened the death of his father. He called his son to his dying bedside, and with his last breath begged him to reform and, on his knees, promised his father he would give up the evil life. The father's death resulted in the boy's salvation, as he cried for mercy, and repented until he found peace. The conversion of Sam P. Jones marked the beginning of a career that is without a duplicate, perhaps in the history of the church.

The subject of this chapter was born in Chambers Co., Ala., Oct. 16, 1847, but was reared from childhood in Cartersville, Ga., where he spent the last twenty-five years of his life. He felt the "call to preach" as soon as he found the pardoning grace. No one believed him suited for the ministry; his wife said she would leave him if he did; but God was with him and in October, 1872, he was received on trial in the North Georgia Conference of the M. E. Church, South. For eight years, beginning on the Rome circuit, he was an obscure itinerant minister. But very early his individuality and unique personality gained for him a local reputation, and his services for revival meetings were sought continually by his brethren. His power of denunciation became so pronounced that the church officials warned him to be more careful or the church would not support him, but none of these things moved him.

In 1880 he was appointed financial agent for North Georgia Conference Orphanage—which was at that time greatly embarrassed, financially. The position opened a wide field for him and his leadership and power over assemblies were evidence. The debts on the Orphanage were paid and new buildings erected. He accomplished this success for the orphanage, while developing a type of evangelism that placed him before the whole nation.

His first great city-wide campaign was in Memphis, Tenn., and then the phenomenal success was duplicated at Nashville, after which, Sam P. Jones, the Georgia evangelist became the most noted preacher in America. The calls came to him from every part of the nation. Up to this time his work had been among his own southern people, and it was doubtful that he could succeed in the northern cities. Cincinnati was his first great venture; through the influence of Rev. Joyce, a pastor who afterwards became a bishop of the M. E. Church, the meeting was held in the Cincinnati Music Hall, and the great building was packed from the opening night, and forty thousand people tried to hear his last sermon. This was in 1886. Mr. Moody stopped off between trains one night to hear him. At the depot he wrote a note as follows: "Dear Bro. Jones: God has put in your hands a sledgehammer with which to shatter the formalities of the church and batter down the strongholds of sin and he is helping you mightily to use it. God bless you."

From that time on he held great meetings in New York, Brooklyn, Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Buffalo and Boston. Of course his crude wit, coarse stories, and rural life drollery would not "get by" with the cold philosophers and stoic professors of cultured Boston. "Sam Jones will meet his Waterloo in Boston." The great Joseph Cook had this to say about it: "Nothing could equal the study of that Boston audience as I knew them and saw them under the strange spell of Sam Jones' humor and ridicule. Their faces were a curiosity. At first, they wore a look of cold criticism, which changed to disgust, then pleasure, then surprise, then smiles, then determination not to be moved; then a sudden dry grin was followed by a broad laugh, after which a complete surrender to the strange powers of this uncultured, unphilosophical lecturer who swayed them as he would the rudest audience of the west."

We hear of public men who are called "Masters of assemblies"; Sam P. Jones was just that to a greater degree than any man to whom we ever listened. Often, as he delivered his disconnected tirade on some public wrong, or sin in high places, he would pause, thinking of something else to say, and the longer he paused, the stiller the audience became. The multitudes in the great cities would pack the largest hall to hear him say things he had said in their hearing many times before. Let us say this, by way of comparison, Billy Sunday draws the greatest crowds, perhaps, of any preacher in America today; but he has behind him an organization, touching every phase of religious and industrial life of the city. He refuses to go where he cannot solicit the co-operation of all the Protestant churches. At any rate, he requires that; an office is maintained and the organization is carried to the humblest girls of the department stores, and the cotton mills. He gets the crowd—why not? But Sam Jones got his crowds without any organization. He went to cities without any invitation. He once went to St. Louis over the protest of the ministerial association; he rented the Music Hall at three hundred dollars a day and had no backing but Dr. W. B. Palmore, of the St. Louis Advocate. This meeting swept the city and without finance committee, or "money speeches," was given $6,000.00 above expenses; an amount equivalent to $20,000.00 today. As a commanding personality, Sam Jones had no superior before or since his day.

A critic has said that the supreme test of oratory was its power to move the hearers. Then Sam Jones was America's greatest orator. The Chief of Police of St. Louis said of him, "He is a dangerous man; one word from him and five thousand men here tonight would form a mob and destroy every saloon in the city, and my officers could not prevent them."

A writer said this about him: "His logic is broken, but it is the logic of the shop and not the school. His wit degenerates into humor, but it is the humor of the fireside, and his fun and drollery run into ridicule, which he uses with telling effect. Irony, sarcasm, all the extreme powers of speech he scintillates with humor or makes them glow with fiery denunciation, terrific in power and withering in effect; such combination of exceptional powers cannot be found in any other man."

Another said of him: "There is a wonderful unity in this unique character, but it is the unity of the mountain rather than the unity of the sea. It is the sharp, jutting crag; the steep frowning precipice; the deep, wild gorge; the tall cloud-piercing peaks, ribbed with rocks and crowned with snow, all blending into the unity of the mountain, solid, broken, grand; touching the heavens above and generating the mightiest forces of earth beneath. Sunshine and showers, 'cyclones and cataclysms, wait on his bidding.'"

Here is his answer to a question as to what he thought of Bob Ingersoll: "Personally, Mr. Ingersoll is no doubt a genial gentleman, physically he is fat, intellectually he is bright, morally there may be worse men, but theologically he is a bad egg."

For twenty-one years he was a member of the North Georgia Conference; but in 1893 the presiding bishop gave him one of three courses, as to his appointment—take a pastoral charge, remain within the bounds of the state, or locate. He located, as the world was now his parish. He was pre-eminently endowed as an evangelist, an office of the church as much as the pastor. The church that opposes the office of evangelist, and refuses it authority, will be opposing a New Testament organization. "He gave some evangelists."

We wish to close this resume, with one discordant comment. The first time we ever heard Sam Jones, we paid seventy-five cents: no one ever paid an admission to hear Mr. Moody. Had Sam Jones refused to commercialize his genius, and remained only an evangelist preaching the gospel and stayed off the lecture platform, we believe his influence would have been enlarged a hundred-fold. Mr. Moody's work abides—Bible schools, colleges, a great church, literature, and Bible conferences; of this constructive work of Sam P. Jones, nothing remains. As to natural endowments, there was no comparison in the two men. Moody was a man of one Book and one job; Sam Jones had he done likewise, might have gone down in American history as her greatest son.

The believer's one, simple, offensive weapon, which the Spirit teaches him to keep bright by constant use, is the Word of God.

CHRIST'S ONE WRITTEN MESSAGE.

Rev. Percy F. Asher, B. D.

"Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground." John 8:6.

DR. J. D. Jones, the leading Congregational Divine of Bourne-mouth, England, relates an experience of his during the Great War. His son, a Doctor of Medicine, married during this period, and because of the scarcity of houses, he and his wife went to live with his parents. Late one night Dr. Jones, Sr., was awakened by the ring of the telephone; he promptly answered the call and the following conversation ensued: "Is that Dr. Jones?" "Yes," was the reply. "But," continued the voice at the other end, "which Dr. Jones is it? Is it the Dr. Jones who preaches, or is it the one who practices?" As Dr. Jones, the preacher, left the phone in the care of his son, he meditated upon the inquiry. For days afterwards he could hear the voice asking, what to him, was a most searching question, "Is it the Dr. Jones who preaches, or is it the one who practices?"

The Pharisees of old were 'Doctors' who preached but did not practice. With them, as with many others, it was a case of profession without possession. They knew the letter of the law perfectly, but did not possess its spirit. Essentially a Religious party, they were fanatically opposed to whatever was non-Jewish. Their leading aim was to keep themselves separate from everything that would defile them; hence their name 'Pharisees', meaning 'separated ones.' This purity and holiness they sought to attain by the most rigorous and scrupulous observance of the written law and unwritten traditions down to the smallest minutiae. These Pharisees sprang from the people, were justly revered by them, and had the greatest influence over them; but they were theocratic in their conception of life instead of democratic. They had no true sympathy with the people as struggling souls. Their interest lay rather in binding the yoke of the law upon them, as is well shown in the description of the incident from which our text is taken.

We are indebted to John for the one account that we have of this encounter of Christ with the woman 'taken in adultery.' It is a very realistic picture of this incident from our Lord's experiences at Jerusalem. A howling mob had dragged the woman before Christ, and she stood convicted. One can almost picture the smug look of self-satisfaction upon the faces of the accusers as they regarded the victim whom they had almost 'hounded to death.' In harsh tones they addressed our Lord: "Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act. Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned; but what sayest thou? This they said, tempting him, that they might have whereof to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground. So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself and said unto them, he that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her. And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground. They went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last." Such is the record which the Gospel, according to John, furnishes.

THE SINLESSNESS OF CHRIST.

In considering this incident let us keep in mind the full facts of the case. Jesus had preached the perfect oneness of husband and wife, and he abhorred adultery; but his abhorrence of cowardly spies; of the violence of merciless men; of the impudence of sinners who would set themselves up as judges, was greater still. Our Lord knew that "we have all come short of the glory of God." Jesus would not absolve this woman who had broken the law of God in so loathsome a manner; neither would he condemn her, for he knew that these, her accusers, had no right to demand her death. Our Lord alone possessed the power of Judge, for his by sole right was the title—"The Sinless One."

It behooves us to bear in mind that we are all, in a body, guilty of our brother's sins. From the highest to the lowest, we are all sinful. Sometimes the sin is personal, as in the case of an ungodly life. Sometimes, too, it is social, as when we criminally neglect the transformation of the lives of other of God's children. So we must ever bear in mind—knowing our own weaknesses and shortcomings—that the guiltless alone have the right to judge others. But on earth there are no guiltless, and were there any, their pity and sympathy would outweigh their sense of justice, as with our Lord.

The merciless accusers of this wretched woman had never entertained any such thoughts as these, but they were nevertheless troubled by the words of our Lord. Each was reminded of his own misdeeds, some of which probably were of recent date. The soul of each was soiled. The oldest were the first to turn away—because they had the recollection of the most sin—and after them one by one, the others took their departure, each ashamed to meet another's glance. The square was soon empty. "Woman, where are those thine accusers? Hath no man condemned thee?" inquired our Lord. "No man," replied the accused. Then said Jesus, "Neither do I condemn thee; go, and sin no more." How utterly do these last words portray the greatness of the heart of the Saviour of the world.

THE SILENCE OF CHRIST.

"Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground." Immediately the dust was illuminated with a radiance surpassing that of the sunset sky. There Christ wrought into the common clay a glorious message it had never before borne. We know not what the message was; we do know it was written by the Christ. The writer never wishes to become a "Sky-Pilot"—not while Christ writes on the ground. He never desires to be so high up in the world that he misses the simpler messages of his Lord. Sometimes we do miss his messages. We live on such heights of worldly wisdom that when Christ makes manifest a simple truth we miss it. For Christ spoke unto the people in parables. He talked of every day subjects, presented them in an every day manner, for every day use. He spoke in parables so that he could easily point out the "way of holiness" regarding which the "wayfaring men, though fools, should not err therein." We need to come down from some of our intellectual stilts—which by the way ill befit us—and then we shall be able to grasp the spiritual meaning of the message which Christ writes on the ground. Delay will be disastrous; for soon the wind cometh along and the message, so rare, so precious, but yet so fleeting, is gone.

Why did Jesus write on the ground? Some think it was to avoid controversy; it may have been; we do not know for certain. But we are led to believe the written message achieved its purpose, and the silence of our Lord on this occasion was certainly impressive, significant, and we are led to believe, most effective. Was our Lord showing that the best way to combat controversy is by an impressive silence? Was there a "Be-still-and-know-that-I-am-God" philosophy in his action? Was he showing us a common danger—that of saying too much? We do not know; we must read into his actions what meaning we will.

Ecclesiastes writes of "a time to speak, a time to keep silent." Especially is this timely today when mob thinking is so general; when thousands are muttering platitudes galore with the crowd, when they should be thinking out their problems in silence. Silence, stillness, and then cometh the peace of God "which passeth all understanding" with the thought and knowledge of him.

THE GREATNESS OF CHRIST.

"Neither do I condemn thee; go, and sin no more." Jesus did not justify this woman; he condoned her. What else would you have had him do? Would you have had him condemn her; would you have had him upbraid her as did the Pharisees, and thus, in all probability, send her back to a life of shame and sin? No reader, you would not! We prefer to think of our Lord as "the help of the helpless." The Christ this woman stands before is the Healer of the Lame; the Restorer of Vision to sightless eyes; the Physician of Souls, who cooled the fevered brow with his masterly, but gentle touch. It is the Christ who allowed his feet to be washed by the tears of a sinner; it is the Christ who, by the greatness of his life and love, shewed himself of a truth "the Savior of the world." He who came to "seek and to save that which was lost." Such is the Christ portrayed also by Charles Wesley:

"He breaks the power of cancelled sin,
He sets the prisoner free;
His blood can make the foulest clean,
His blood avails for me."

Again I repeat, Christ did not justify this woman; he condoned her. That word condoned—is derived from the Latin word "donum", meaning a gift. Our Lord gave this woman the great gift of pardon and peace of soul as he said, "Neither do I condemn thee; go, and sin no more." Do we possess that gift? If not, God grant that we may soon meet the Christ and get it.

THE CALLED MAN.

DR. L. R. AKERS, President Asbury College.

RECENTLY the writer was entertained for a day by a former parishioner in Ohio. In the course of conversation during the noon hour, the host, who was engaged in the oil business, spoke of the hazardous employment of the "shooter", who, with nitroglycerine, brought in the gushers. He mentioned a very deplorable accident which had occurred two weeks before, in which a friend of his with whom he had been conversing was blown to atoms along with the derrick, rigging and other paraphernalia. He stated that there were no undertaker charges because there was nothing found of the man's body after the explosion.

Well-shooting is classified as extra-hazardous work. We know of only one thing more hazardous and that is the handling of the loaded truth of Almighty God which is a savor of life unto life, or death unto death. To be called of God to proclaim the unsearchable riches of Christ is life's crowning honor. Yet with this call there comes also life's supreme responsibility. The messenger of the Most High God should be a "called man." The ministry should not be a "profession." It should ever be a calling. Only the man who is conscious of a God-call can hope to do God's work most effectively. It was the supernal summons that transformed Saul of Tarsus, destroyer of the church, into Paul, the Great Apostle, leader of the church.

Truly it is of momentous importance how a man enters the ministry. There may be various motives which prompt one, but only one is justifiable, and that is when the call of the eternal God rings as clearly as a silver trumpet through the corridors of the soul. A minister who is not God-called has a vision that is purely horizontal. He is like any other man of the world. His constraining motive is ambition, and his coveted goal, success. There is no "looking unto the hills from whence cometh strength." He is one who may have decided his calling, but "God was not in all his thoughts." Well has Dr. Jowett said that "the called man will be constantly wondering, and his wonder will be a moral antiseptic, that he has been appointed a servant to make known the 'unsearchable riches of Christ.' His work never altogether loses its halo, and his road never becomes commonplace and grey. His sense of surprise will keep him humble and also make him great, and become the glory of his vocation. The manner of his call may be very different from the manner of another man's call, yet it is always essentially the same."

After his summons, Paul was never "disobedient to the Heavenly vision." No man is fitted to be an evangel of the Cross who has not first followed the marks of the nail-pierced feet even though they may lead to the olive trees in a Garden, or to a skull-shaped hill.

Paul was not only a called man, but he was one set apart and consecrated to a life-absorbing task. "This one thing I do" was like the needle of the compass ever pointing to "the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." One of the most insidious and persistent perils to the called man is the temptation to yield to the gravity pull of the world. Too often there is taken the half cynical counsel described in Ecclesiastes in "Be not righteous over much . . . be not over much wicked." God's Word is clear and unmistakable, "Keep thy garments always white." But great is the temptation when among mundane folk to wear grey garments and to talk grey in our conversation. Grey is such a useful color. It is equally appropriate at either a wedding or a funeral. It is far less likely to reveal the stains of soiling contacts than is white. How often has the man of God camouflaged an illicit spirit of compromise by calling it such agreeable names as "tactful," "expediency," "diplomacy," "geniality," "expediency," or, even "friendship." But despite this fine borrowed attire, the soul has been robbed of its spiritual fineness, and suavity or urbanity has been purchased at the price of relaxed moral ideals. Surely there is no sight more pathetic than that of a preacher of the Gospel who, by the guiles and wiles of the world, has been separated from his God. What a spiritual tragedy is revealed in the words, "And he wist not that the Lord had departed from him." How often is preaching with "the enticing words of man's wisdom" rather than "in demonstration of the Spirit and power." The man with the horizontal vision may be eloquent but not persuasive, reasonable but not convincing, preaching much but accomplishing little in the real transformation of human lives. He may hear his people say, "What a fine sermon!" but never "What a great God!" Ruskin says, "If you were to cut a square inch out of any of Turner's skies you would find the Infinite in it." Should it not be so that if men took only a square inch out of any of our preaching they would find the Infinite in it?

Paul's preaching was ever Christocentric, and all his words reveal his passionate devotion to Jesus Christ: "For me to live is Christ"; "Christ is all and in all"; "For I am determined to know nothing among you save Jesus Christ and him crucified"; "I count all things but refuse that I may gain Christ"; "Christ in you, the hope of glory." Everywhere his letters are shot through and through with these and kindred expressions.

The called man must ever be guided by a singleness of purpose which will keep him free from compromise and worldly entanglements. Many a one has joined some worldly club or fraternal organization with the thought of lifting its standards, only to find that the real outcome was but the lowering of his own ideals.

Nature abominates hybrids. God abhors neutrals. Some one has said, "I know what becomes of the sheep and also of the goats, but what can you do with the alpaca?" There is but one answer: the alpaca must be classed with the goats. Safety in spiritual things is found only in the life with a wide margin. The greatest hardships come to those who live on the border lines. The stillness of death hath fallen upon the prophet whose ears no longer register the sound of "the still small voice." It is then that the preacher becomes an echo instead of a voice; a ditto mark instead of a figure. "Hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown."

Marvelous is the result of a God-and-man partnership. As one has well said, "God is a tremendous worker, but he likes human help." The genius of preaching is truth filtered through personality. Truth on the printed page is mighty, but truth flashing from the eye, quivering from the throat, pulsating from the heart is well-nigh almighty. It is said of Savonarola, the great reformer, that his arguments were like a chain of logic, but, backed by his flaming heart, they became chain lightning. Grecian mythology speaks of Zeus hurling thunderbolts from the heights of Olympus. This was only a fancy, but the called prophet of God in fact may wield thunderbolts of truth which perchance may shatter the strongholds of superstition and sin.

No man is a great preacher who simply discovers truth. He must empower truth as well. To succeed in preaching, three things should be emphasized at the outset: earnestness, earnestness, earnestness. It is better for a preacher to be dead in earnest about a mediocre truth than to handle listlessly and apathetically a score of outstanding concepts.

Both God and man put a tremendous premium upon an earnest personality. The truth has ever been powerful, but became all-powerful only when the Word became flesh. In the case of Jesus, note his wonderful Words of Life,—vascular words, so full of life that when you dissect them, they bleed. Some one has asked the question why Jesus did not rise up and destroy the tyranny and oppression of Roman rule. That was not his method, but there was enough social dynamite in his utterances to blow to smithereens every tyranny and oppression, every wrong and injustice, however hoary with age and buttressed with custom. Happy, thrice happy, is the man who can say, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me because he hath anointed me to preach the Gospel." Let us find our highest joy in being good ministers of Jesus Christ, rightly dividing the Word of Truth.

INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE.

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

No. III.

Iwish to refer again to the mooted passage in 2 Timothy 3:16, feeling that in a former article, I was perhaps too mild in my strictures on the revised version of that verse. While Dr. Clarke claims that the word kai, translated and in King James' Version, is not in many of the best Greek manuscripts, I note that it is present in older manuscripts, discovered after Dr. Clarke wrote his commentary. Permit us to quote a short paragraph from Dr. William Evans' "The Book of Books", with reference to the Revised Version of this verse: "The great rationalistic scholar, DeWette, confesses candidly that the rendering of the revisers here adopted cannot be defended. In his German version of the text, he gave the sense thus: 'Every sacred thing, i. e., of the canonical Scriptures, is inspired of God and is useful for doctrine, etc.' Bishops Moberly and Wordsworth, Archbishop Trench, and others of the Revision committee, disclaimed any responsibility for the rendering. Dean Burgon pronounced it 'the most astonishing as well as calamitous literary blunder of the age.' It was condemned by Dr. Tragelles, the only man ever pensioned by the British government for scholarship." While one does not desire to criticize the revisers unkindly, he must admit that the criticisms of these great Greek scholars make it look rather dark for their honesty.

Writing on such subjects, and usually with no chance to consult a library while holding meetings here and there, one makes some errors, in spite of all care. In a former article it was stated that the oldest manuscripts known at the time of the making of King James' Version were made some eight hundred years after the birth of our Lord. There were some manuscripts running back farther than that; but still earlier ones were discovered at a later date, and these were in the hands of the committee of revision who published their version in 1881.

One hears no little about the making of the Canon, as it is termed, by which we mean the selecting of the books composing both of the Testaments; and that is no small question. The word canon means a rule or standard; and in this sense it is applied to the books of the Bible. In the opinion of the men who selected the books composing the two Testaments, certain books measured up to their chosen standard, and became a part of the sacred canon; other books did not so measure, and were rejected. Some of the re-

Address of Joseph H. Smith to The National Holiness Assembly

HE National Association, among the outstanding products of the Holiness Movement, holds place much as that of a father or, perhaps of an elder brother, in the midst of a good-sized family.

Many of the children of this family are now full grown, doing business on their own account, and keeping house for themselves. This Assembly is therefore a sort of Homecoming as when the children are gathered together for a Thanksgiving dinner, talk about their childhood days and tell each other how they are getting along.

As no one of the institutions of Christianity is Christianity itself, no, not even its ecclesiasticism, so no one of the organizations of the Holiness Movement is the Movement itself, no, not even its National Association. Just as Christianity is the soul of all the legitimate institutions and products of the Church, so also is the Holiness Movement the life-giving spirit of this and all other proper organizations of the Movement. In fact, we would like to think of these all as but the various parts or members of the organism, which a great Spirit-impelled Movement assumes and adopts as a body corporate for its manifold functioning in the Church of Christ.

John S. Inskip used sometimes to play on the word "Movement" somewhat thus: "We are not a church, but are parts and parcels of many churches. We are not an Association, for we have not even a constitution or a by-law to our name. We appear before you as a simple Committee, and as such we represent a Movement. And I like the word, for, first it is meant to move—move in, upon, and through the churches of this land, as a force and a propaganda to uplift their spiritual life, and as a light to shine upon the Way of Holiness and radiate the life of Christ which is the Light of the world for every believer in the Lord Jesus Christ. And secondly, I like the word because this is truly a Movement. Meant of God and meant by us to carry the tidings of a full salvation in peace and with power, as far as Christianity has gone, and wherever the doors of churches and the hearts of men may be opened to receive it."

The development of the "Committee" later into an "Association" has neither deterred nor diverted the Movement from its continued onward extension as far beyond the boundaries as the Mississippi is now beyond all dykes and mere channels. Churches, even on this side of the Atlantic and beyond, have risen as floodtide deposits of its current; though this was as far from the thought of the early committee as was the institutions of a Methodist Church by John Wesley when he organized the "classes" and "societies."

Besides infusing added life, and furnishing both consecrated means and men to the foreign missions of the various denominations, a number of very distinctive Holiness Missions are now established throughout the darkened world, as direct products of the Holiness Movement in America. It has planted Schools and founded Colleges throughout the land which are serving as breakwaters to the tides of infidelity and anti-Christ-ism that are coursing through the educational world. It has established publishing houses that are circulating holiness papers by the hundreds of thousands and thousands of holiness books throughout America, Canada and beyond.

Now it happens that but one of these Missions and none at all of these Churches, Colleges, Schools or Publishing Houses is federated in any official, organic, or dependent way with the National Association: nor are they federated with one another. Each is its own separate and individual unit. Self-founded, self-administered, and self-sustained, yet they are all integral parts of the great, growing Holiness Movement, and, as such, they are all closely affiliated. One in doctrine; one in purpose; and to a very large extent, one in method. Their patrons, their constituencies, and their several beneficiaries very largely overlap, so that, instead of carnal rivalry and business competition, a true and sincere spirit of fraternity pervades them all.

The trend of the Holiness Movement is ever towards individualism with unity, and towards absorption in the one all-pervading and all-embracing theme of Holiness, rather than to diversion in either selfish, sectional, sectarian, or even good, but secondary things. And the spirituality of the Movement is seen in this, as it is also in the fact that its uppermost and constant note is neither Ecclesiasticism, nor Educationalism, nor even Humanitarianism, but Evangelism.

In fact we sincerely believe that the Church of our day has in the Holiness Movement represented in this Assembly the greatest and truest demonstration of Christian Unity that is presented in this generation. No Church Federation nor any Uniting of Denominations nor amalgamation of various schools that we have seen can at all compare with it. In fact, most of these supposed unifications have been bought at the price of surrender or of silence upon some essential principles or vital truths of the gospel, whereas the "Unity of the Spirit" maintained and manifested in the Holiness Movement is in attestation of the truth of a whole Bible, a salvation from all sin, and the Spirit's liberty and authority over and above all, even rightfully ordained, ecclesiastical power and officialism. Greater still and deeper and stronger than even a Fundamentalist Convention, is an Holiness Assembly such as this in its possibilities for maintaining "The Faith of the Fathers."

We note here another evidence of the inherent spirituality and virility of the Holiness Movement, in its seeming spontaneous self-divestment of barnacles, unanimity against heresy, and exclusion of fanaticism and excesses. Holy Rollerism and latter day Tongueism soon find themselves out of their element in the direct channels of the Holiness Movement. Brethren who have drifted towards Modernism soon slough apart from the recognized Holiness Ministry without any disciplinary processes to excise them. Popularity or place-seekers who might broaden our platform and emasculate our terminology to escape persecution or discredit, soon find we are too set in our ways to suit them. Hobbyists with various views distantly related even to some good subjects which some of us believe in, soon find we are not on a race-track but drawing a load on a straight road with no time for the circus. And next to unity the movement's immunity to the Anti-Christ modernism and the various different "isms" in the religious world of the day is proof of its spirituality.

And now we repeat the institutions we have mentioned are in no sense or measure federated with the National Association as such. Nor do they ask to be. Nor do we ask them to be. Our union is already intact. It is superior to that of any organization. It is dependent upon no bands but the bands of Perfect Love.

Still closer perhaps to the National Association than these worthy institutions even are the hundreds of evangelists, and scores of Associations, and the great chain of Annual Camp Meetings which have come up within the past fifty years as direct products and offering of the work of the original National Committee, and the later National Association for the Promotion of Holiness. And the simple truth is that even of these, there are comparatively few that are officially or organically connected with the "National." Yet by far the larger number of these, like the Churches, Missions, Colleges, and publishers mentioned, are closely affiliated with the work of the Association and actively and ardently identified with the Holiness Movement. Indeed, they are all ready to acknowledge that they owe their existence, their sustenance, and their success to the honor and blessing with which the Holy Spirit is pleased to attest and approve the preaching of entire sanctification as a second distinct work of grace. From the very beginning, beloved brethren, the Holy Spirit himself has been the Bishop of this movement and is so until this day. The Heavenly Father has been its provider, and the free-hearted benevolences and the true self-sacrifice by which the whole work has been advanced and supported is another living demonstration of the practicability of New Testament Christianity in our own land and times.

As a native of Pennsylvania I look upon the map of the United States and see that even the Keystone State is but one of the 48 in my great country. And as an humble member and life-long beneficiary of the National Association I look this day upon the great Holiness Movement of our day and generation and am reminded that though an honored unit in itself we are still but a modest part of the Movement as a whole. And it is in recognition of a respect for this larger Movement that this Assembly has been planned and projected in connection with the Annual Session of the National Association. Some four years ago during the Presidency of Brother Kunz, it was consented and perhaps resolved, that such an Assembly be contemplated for some four years from thence, under the auspices of the National Association. Thus with no design whatever of an effort at amalgamation, or of a federation, or absorption of any of these units, the National Association is here as host to the whole Holiness Movement. As President of the National Association I am here to extend the hand of hearty fellowship to representation of any and all Holiness Churches, Missions, Schools, and Associations, and to every man and woman who loves the Lord our God with all the heart, and soul, and mind, and strength. We trust that our fellowship may be of mutual benefit and redound greatly to the glory of God and the advancement of the cause we all hold dearest to our hearts. Our Parliament Sessions may give us suggestions for a still greater Evangelistic Program.

And perhaps, most of all, we shall depend upon our seasons of supplication and intercession together, to further within us and through us, a fresh impetus to the Second Rise of the Holiness Movement in the United States of America. And to this end let us now pray.

Crossing the Deadline.

This booklet is one of the most interesting and suggestive of present day conditions of anything written by our editor, Dr. Morrison. It sounds the note of warning that ought to be heeded by a reckless multitude who are losing their faith in the Bible, and at the same time, their reverence for God, their respect for law, and a disregard of all things sacred. Send for this book; get a number of copies and scatter them about over your town and community. Make the people think, and then you may be able to lead them to repentance and salvation. REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

POST AT SYCHAR.

Rev. E. Hilton Post was a new voice for Sychar and, like all Sychar workers through the years, this voice had the right ring. Clear, distinct, without a flaw, he rang true to Sychar's note of full salvation from all sin all the time. As he said one day in addressing a company of preachers that, "a man to preach the gospel should be God-called, Spirit-filled, industrious, evangelistic, have a passion for souls, avoid extravagances, never be unduly familiar with members of the opposite sex, and avoid indiscretions of every character." That all was good advice. I would have added one word and that is, one must be sent as well as called. I fear many who are preaching, of whom there is no doubt as to their call, have not waited to be sent, but hastened off after their call. Look it up. Think it over.

The hour was 2 P. M. The people had sung Nos. 69 and 23—"All I need," and "I will make the darkness light"; Rebecca Bell Griffith had prayed; two young women from Taylor had sung a duet, "Have you received the Blessing"; Brother Osborn had represented Cleveland Bible Institute, Mrs. Williams sang "The faithful Shepherd, Jesus," and then Bro. Post preached, taking for his text Matthew 5:8. His theme was the happiness of the pure in heart. That was a good theme and a good text for the first appearance of an evangelist at a holiness camp meeting. The happy people of this old world are the holy people. It is not sin, nor worldliness, but holiness that brings happiness. Among other things the preacher said, "All are in quest of happiness. It is a normal craving, God given. God never made a desire that he did not provide a way to it. No wing has been made in nature or spirit that God has not provided a way for it. The trouble with the multitudes is, they are seeking for happiness in the wrong direction. To be pure in heart is the one way to happiness. God lays down in the fifth chapter of Matthew a fundamental law, an adjustment of the external and internal life. The adjustment, as he gives it, is purity of heart. It is an inner heart adjustment that means entire sanctification." Under the following heads he then proceeded to unfold the meaning of the text.

- 1st. What does purity of heart imply?
- 2nd. How is it received?
- 3rd. When is it received?
- 4th. The happiness of it.

Purity of heart demands our attention. Throughout Christendom folks are thinking of the expression of heart purity. When I go to a church to preach I take it for granted that every man before me preached it and proceed on that ground, and do this, when I know they did not. This is gospel anyhow, and what are you preaching if you are not preaching the gospel. I want to die rather than live and not preach it. What is it that this experience means? It is no mere outward purity, but an inward. They who have had their heart sprinkled from an evil conscience, they are the ones who have this inward purity. A Baptist says it is purity of thought and desire which leads to purity of life. Wesley says, "How little has the expression, 'pure in heart,' been used and by not guarding against this we've lost much." What does it involve? Not outward purity only, but that is involved. It is to live a clean exterior life. I wish all our folks did this. Had all our big men been clean in exterior life the work of holiness would have been far ahead. The Lord help us to live higher than the profession, to live louder than we shout. Could we get a whole crowd to live holiness what an influence they would have. This experience is in contrast to outward purity. You will remember the Pharisee expected to be pure by washing of the hands and dishes and so forth. But Jesus told them they must have inward purity. Outward purity, standing alone, by itself, is not ground for inward purity. It is not the keeping of the commandments only; you must keep them all, not the fourth only, but all of them. There are those who major on the seventh day. When asked me if I kept the fourth I said to them, yes and all the other six, too. This made them look gloomy when they had shouted when I told them I kept the fourth. You can keep all the commandments and if you do not have this inward purity it will not avail. Heart purity does not mean physical strength, to be strong and well; but it does the body good to be pure in heart. Nor does it mean perfection of conduct. One can have a holy heart and yet do things that other folks will criticize. You may have a perfect motive and yet not do the perfect thing. Every day our heavenly Father is helping us to live holy, and yet we may do things that others may think we should not, and perhaps we really should not. It is everlastingly improving the conduct. Holiness means an old-fashioned amen corner in your heart. That means that when God called him that Isaiah at once answered "yes." That is what you will do. This experience takes out of us the bent to sin. That is the thing we need to be cleansed from. There is an alien enemy on the inside and the only way to get rid of it is to have your heart made pure. This involves not only something going out, but also something coming in.

When is heart purity received? Not in the article of death, for death is an enemy, and enemies do us no good. Just before we die? Such as hold this view are the most encouraging of all the bunch. But if we can get it then we certainly can before that time. No, it is not dying grace, but living grace. If God can give you this experience just before you die he may give it to you here and now.

The blessedness of the experience is spoken of twice, "blessed" and "see God." The consciousness of purity brings a feeling of being blessed. It is the only thing that answers the inner cry of the soul. It brings full adjustment to our fellowman and this brings a joy otherwise unknown.

To see God is to possess him. God reveals himself to his own as he does not to others. You will remember of Madam Guyon when in prison she felt just like a little bird in a cage and had nothing to do but sing. Even the stones of her cell God made to look like precious stones. Real happiness comes in no other way than by having the heart made pure. Let God do this work for you right here and now.

There are very few services held at Sychar at which no one seeks the Lord. After this sermon, which was close and heart-searching, as my notes do not nor can show, folks made their decision for God and holiness. Of course we make a specialty of holiness here. And why not? Where else these days do you hear of folks being exhorted to get clean hearts. If holiness camps do not hold steady to the one line of "Holiness unto the Lord" that subject will be neglected entirely. And you never see folks moved to seek the blessing of entire sanctification that in that same congregation there are sinners who are moved to seek forgiveness of sins. The preaching of regeneration does not move folks to be sanctified wholly, but the preaching of entire sanctification does lead sinners to give their hearts to God. So the thing for holiness camps is to hold steady to the preaching of full salvation. Amen and amen.

REPORT OF LUTHER A. HORN PARTY.

We have just closed a very successful revival at Uniform, Ala., which resulted in over one hundred conversions and reclamations. The big tent was filled to capacity every service and many turned away. On the second Sunday over a thousand folks had gathered from all sections of Washington County. The big saw-mill company provided a barbecue and we held five services. At ten o'clock Mr. Marshall preached to children, and at six forty-five at night also. Bro. Horn spoke at the other services.

Wednesday night of the last week, saw over sixty people, practically all grown men and women, at the altar seeking pardon. Over forty were satisfied that night and before the close of the meeting all had been saved.

The community gave evidence of renewed religious life. Tuesday morning, after fifteen volunteer workmen had removed the tent and packed it away, we gathered amid the sawdust which for two weeks had been a hallowed spot, and with bared heads and tear-filled eyes those rough, strong men of the timber pledged themselves to God that the revival should not depart with the evangelists, but that they were on the job from thenceforth. To prove it, they are turning the dance hall into a church, where Rev. B. F. Brown, pastor of the Chatham circuit, will preach once a month.

Just a word about Bro. Brown. At the present he has eleven appointments. The Conference blessed him with about seven, among which was his boyhood home of Escatawpa where we had just closed a great meeting; the dear brother couldn't be satisfied with seven; so he went out in the woods and gathered four more. He covers practically a whole county. The church needs more old-time circuit riders like him. The Party has been with him in three meetings already—one of which resulted in the building and organizing of a church. He has built two nice churches this year. We are expecting to help him in two or three more campaigns before the end of the year. God bless him. While there the people made it possible for us to buy a splendid new grand piano which we are carrying with us.

We are looking forward to a great camp meeting at Healing Springs, Ala. Plans for a $10,000 tabernacle are under way. Don't forget the date, June 30-July 10. We are inviting all of the Christian people to come if you possibly can, and to pray for us if you can't come.

We are now in Blountstown, Fla. From here we go to Mobile for a big tent meeting in the city.

R. P. Marshall, Sec'y.

A SPLENDID MEETING.

We closed a splendid meeting in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Arlington, Kan., April 10. Rev. Ernest D. Bartlett is the good pastor. We had splendid crowds from the beginning which increased until the close. The interest was good, and a goodly number of souls found pardon, reclamation, and a few sanctification; about thirty came into the church on Easter day. Sister Watkins, who has seen the trees grow over a half century in Arlington, and who is 84 years of age, and who has been a member of that church for fifty and more years, said, that it was the best revival that she had ever seen in that place. We found a fine people at Arlington, and never had a better time ministering to people in our work as an evangelist. They treated us royally on all lines. I was entertained in the parsonage, and had a delightful time with Brother and Sister Bartlett. No finer souls live than they. Both of them are graduates from college, and are uncompromising on second blessing holiness. Bro. Bartlett attended Southwestern College, graduated from Asbury College, spent a year or two in Garrett Seminary, took his B.D. degree from Drew Seminary. Sister Bartlett got her Masters degree from Drew too, so you see that they both are well fitted for work in the Kingdom.

Brother Grosdidier, pastor of Abbyville Methodist Church, and his wife were over to see us. I held a good meeting for them in January. Brother Donald Herald and wife, pastors of Partridge Methodist Church, attended several times. They are fine young people, and were both gloriously sanctified. Brother Herald brought us several Messages in song which all enjoyed greatly. Brother V. L. Darby, pastor of Langdon Methodist Church, and his excellent wife were with us for the all-day holiness meeting. There are no straighter people on holiness than Brother and Sister Darby. Brother and Sister Everett, from Partridge, were in the services from time to time helping to push the battle for souls. Brother and Sister Dunn and a number of the fine Abbyville people were over to help us in the battle.

My good friends, Brother and Sister Harry Graham, from near old Sego Methodist Church where I stayed when I held a meeting there six years ago, were in to the meetings, and had us to drive out to their beautiful home, and eat a chicken dinner with them. They are not saved people, but one would think they were, for they stand by the work as well as any one in the country. When we begin to count up our many friends over the land, we are made to realize how many good people there are in the world. Brother Bartlett led his own singing, and he is fine in leading, and also in solo work, and the people enjoy his singing. His good wife is one of the finest children's workers, and most capable women in our Holiness Movement. They have time to give to some camp, or meeting where a singer is needed, in Kansas or adjoining states. Write them Arlington, Kan., Box 227.

A GREAT REVIVAL AT WILMORE, KY.

Dr. J. M. Glenn and wife from Young Harris, Ga., assisted the pastor, Rev. O. C. Severs, and they made a splendid team. I feel perfectly safe in saying, all things considered, it was one among the excellent meetings that has been held at Wilmore, both in the church and the College. Brother Glenn's methods of preaching and conducting the services were, as they always should be, peculiar to himself. His preaching was clear and strong, preaching a complete gospel. As I see it, he wisely preached for a number of days on sin, repentance, faith and right living, and then he pressed home splendidly the doctrines of repentance, regeneration, the witness of the Spirit and entire sanctification as a second work of grace, always received subsequent to regeneration, instantaneously in answer to complete consecration and faith in Jesus Christ. His preaching was clear, logical, strong and unctuous; his methods in manipulating his crowd were sane, versatile and helpful. Any man that needs an evangelist is perfectly safe in calling Dr. Glenn and his excellent wife, who does splendid work, particularly among the young. Some of her methods were unusually efficient. It gives me great pleasure to write this note, recommending this most excellent couple for evangelistic work.

LYNCH, KENTUCKY.

I have many friends and acquaintances who are scattered throughout the country, and no doubt they wonder concerning my whereabouts, labors, etc. The fall after coming out of Asbury, I entered the pastorate of the Kentucky Conference, M. E. Church, South, and from 1921-25, served the Saltwell Charge in the Maysville District. At the Conference of 1925 I was appointed by Bishop Darlington to the Lynch Charge, which is in the Southeastern section of the state, in the Danville District. This is a large mining town of about 8,000 people. During the 19 months of our ministry here, we have seen something like 175 persons saved, reclaimed or wholly sanctified, and have received about 125 into the membership of the church. Certainly the Lord has been with us as we have condemned sin, exalted righteousness, and called the people to clean, holy living. We have a Sunday School with an average attendance of about 200. Our church attendance is good, mid-week prayer meeting well attended, and a regular program of cottage prayer meeting is being carried on. I still believe in, preach, and experience the gospel of a full salvation. During these years of ministry I have assisted my brethren in revival meetings, and whenever my work permits, I am still ready and willing to answer calls for evangelistic services. We recently held one week of Pre-Easter services in our Church, in which the pastor did the preaching, and was assisted by Bro. Russell K. Mawson, of Wilmore, Ky., the son-in-law of my presiding elder, Rev. W. S. Maxwell. Bro. Mawson has a thorough technical training, both along literary and musical lines. He is very congenial, consecrated and untiring in his efforts for the salvation of the lost. We had blessed fellowship together.

Yours for a full gospel,

Warner P. Davis.

OUT EVANGELIZING.

I spent two weeks with my good friend, Rev. Fred Jones, pastor at Harrodsburg, in a revival meeting. M. Dorff, a ministerial student from Asbury College, led the singing. He had a good choir and they furnished fine revival singing. We had fine attendance; when it was not raining the auditorium and Sunday school room were filled with people. Many of my friends came from Danville, Perryville, Salvisa, Chaplin and surrounding country. The good people of Harrodsburg showed me every courtesy.

We did not have the revival we had hoped for, but a good meeting. A few people professed to find perfect love, several sought pardon, many were reclaimed and the people, generally, were renewed in their experiences. Twenty-two united with the church. The pastor informs me that the spiritual benefits are very visible. I was entertained at the parsonage and will be under lifelong obligation to Brother and Sister Jones and their daughters for the kindly way in which they cared for me. May God bless and keep them.

This was the third revival I have held at Harrodsburg. I was there about forty years ago with Dr. James Henderson; then about thirty years ago with Rev. Jimmie Vaught. Very few people are members of that church who were there at that meeting with Dr. Henderson. Dr. Henderson and Brother Vaught, and the majority of those living in the days of those revivals, have passed away.

Harrodsburg is an historic town. It is on the site of the first settlement in Kentucky and has the famous old fort of the days of the Indians. It was here that General Clark planned his famous march of exploration into the great west. There is an historic park here, and in it a graveyard which is being well kept. The dust of many early settlers sleeps here. Here are buried the bones of the woman who brought the first spinning wheel into Kentucky; the remains of the first white child born in Kentucky also sleep in this cemetery. In this park is the log cabin in which the father and mother of Abraham Lincoln were united in marriage. A group of citizens, having received an appropriation from the State, are rebuilding the old stockade fort, with the log cabins in it in which the early inhabitants of the settlement found protection from the Indians. It will attract the attention of thousands of visitors and tourists from all parts of the nation.

Harrodsburg and its people will always have a warm place in my heart. I sought in my gospel messages to show them that God commands holiness, that in Christ he provided for holiness, and that on the day of judgment he will require holiness. May God bless and save those dear immortal souls from all sin. If I should live another ten years, I hope to go back and hold another meeting in Harrodsburg.

H. C. MORRISON

God formed man to be the agent of unmingled good to his fellows, but Satan made man the agent of unmingled evil.—T. Baird.

"THE STINGLESS BEE."

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

We note that science is able to take the thorn out of the blackberry bush, and now it has learned how to take the sting out of the bee. Mr. Burrows claims to have obtained a species of bee which can be handled by a child in perfect safety. It appears that the new product has a sting, but it does not hurt, and is useless as a weapon of offense. Yet the bees die when they lose it. The Christian Herald in commenting upon this further says: "As civilization advances the sting will be taken out of men's dispositions and lives, and many of the pains that come to men by the stings of misfortune will have been prevented."

After reading the above we were reminded of the expression, "The world do move." The investigations and discoveries of science are handing out so many strange and unthought of things in these latter days, that we live in constant expectancy of "some new thing." We can hardly agree with the above prophecy in regard to the sting being taken out of men's dispositions and lives by scientific discovery, for the root of that sting is sin, and no power, save that of the blood of Jesus Christ, can make the guilty conscience clean.

This is but an expression of what the world is tending toward today. Twentieth Century religion is being put down on the plane of finite understanding and human provision, thus materializing the things of the kingdom of grace, leaving Christ and his blood out of the matter, save as an historical figure who once moved among men, and to whom the world then looked for deliverance from sin; but now men have grown so "wise" that they have decided there is no necessity for a hell, and consequently are trying to remove it from the teachings of Jesus. They claim to have the solution of the sin problem, by making the environment more sanitary, providing the proper physical exercise, having free lunches and educating men in those things which pertain to the aesthetic, thereby hoping to change the individual.

These are all good in their place, but they are the mere veneering of the real trouble. Out of the heart proceed evil thoughts which find expression in outward acts of sin. The sting in man's life does not come from outward causes; but the day that man sinned, the sting of a guilty conscience began to burn within his breast, the remedy for which, was the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world, and without the shedding of whose blood, we should never see the face of God in peace.

Oh man, how vain is thy search after a human remedy for sin! This vain quest reminds us of the futile attempts of the blind, superstitious Hindu who measures his length for miles and miles in order to reach the sacred Ganges where he bathes in its waters hoping thereby, to wash away his sins. How the world needs to have their hungry hearts turned toward Calvary's Victim, one drop of whose blood can make them whiter than snow.

Dear readers of THE HERALD, we would warn you against the strange isms of the day; discard everything which does not honor the blood of Christ above every other remedy. "Contend for the faith once delivered to the saints," viz., "Ye must be born again." "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins," and "Follow peace with all men and holiness without which, no man shall see the Lord." With these in your heart, you have nothing to fear in this world or that which is to come. The gospel is still the power of God unto salvation, and the atonement for sin lies in HIM "who suffered without the gate that he might sanctify the people with his own blood."

Isaac Watts knew the source of healing for the sinful soul when he wrote:

"Not all the blood of beasts,
On Jewish altars slain,
Could give the guilty conscience peace,
Or wash away its stain.

"But Christ, the heavenly Lamb,
Takes all our sin away;
A sacrifice of nobler name,
And richer blood than they."

A REMARKABLE PAMPHLET.

EDMOND L. BROWN.

A LAYMAN'S SERMON TO PREACHERS.

If you preach so effectively as to persuade men to live, or honestly endeavor to live, according to the moral code, you certainly do commendable work, but it is not the gospel. If, in addition to this virtue, you persuade them to minister to the temporal wants of their fellowmen, you will have enlisted their efforts in the acme of human endeavor, but it is not the gospel, for the gospel is not what man can do, but what God alone can do. The publican going up to the temple to pray did not ask for clothing, nor food, nor education, nor a bed in a hospital. He wanted what God alone could give.

If by your preaching you further persuade your hearers to join your church, neither is joining the church the gospel. And if, in addition to all these commendable virtues, you persuade them to endeavor earnestly to imitate the life of the Man of Galilee, even this mechanical effort is not the gospel. A church which does not go beyond these things and which refuses to accept Jesus for whom he claimed to be, will never get very far in the work of converting the world.

This has been very fairly tested under the most promising circumstances during the past 100 years or more, by an organization many members of which were men highly educated and of moral character beyond reproach—men whose memory we love to honor, who are beacon lights in American history—and the present membership of their church will compare favorably with any other church in good citizenship, intelligence, morals and philanthropy. With their slogan, "Love to God and Man," it was predicted that they would sweep the country with their successful growth.

About the time of their organization, there was another new movement composed mostly of men of ordinary attainments and little known. They preached "Christ and him crucified, the Saviour of the world," with the result that one year's growth at the present time of the latter, equals the aggregation of all the membership of the former.

Even with the imitation of Jesus, you will make little or no progress in converting the world, for it is not the gospel.

In the great art gallery in Florence, I saw beside a masterpiece of Carlo Dolce, a most perfect imitation, but the imitator never knew Carlo Dolce. I want you to get the significance of the fact that the perfect imitator of Carlo Dolce never knew him.

It was the gospel that enabled Paul to say, "I know whom I have believed." Jesus did not say, "I came that ye might have a code of morals," nor "that I might lead an exemplary life for you to imitate," but "I came that ye might have me; that ye might have life—I am the life."

He is the gospel. Jesus did not say that morals, or philanthropy, or anything that man can do, is the way unto the Father, but "I am the way and the only way." He is the gospel, not the historical Jesus, but the living Jesus. Cease to preach the living Jesus, and you cease to preach the gospel. Doctor Jowett says: "Our religion is dead unless it becomes a personal relation and vital communion with Christ." Unless you can lead the people to live their lives in fellowship of the living Jesus their religion is dead. Dr. Merle N. Smith says: "The problem of today is not the high cost of living but it is the high cost of not living."

Jesus was not crucified for the morals he taught, but for claiming to be who he was and is. And the world now is no more willing to receive him as such than it was then. Today they applaud his morals and his exemplary life, both Jew and Gentile, but when you ask, as Pilate asked, "What then will ye do with Jesus?"—the multitude still rejects him.

Jesus craved followers more than you crave church members but he preached his gospel regardless of offense. It was so objectionable to his disciples that once many of them left him and followed him no more; and even to the twelve he said: "And will ye also go away?" "Unless ye eat my flesh and drink my blood, ye have no part in this matter."

So great is the mystery of our wonderful salvation, that "even angels desire to look into it." John said, "Lo! in the midst of the throne stood a Lamb, as it had been slain." Not a teacher, nor an exemplar, nor a healer, but a Lamb as it had been slain. The first time the real gospel was preached on this sinful earth was when John the Baptist cried out,—"Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world." . . . Jehovah, over and over repeatedly, by his prophet, demanded of Israel that they should be Holy because Jehovah their God was Holy. And Jesus said, "Be ye perfect even as your Father in heaven is perfect."

Have you preached many sermons of exhortation to holy living during the past five years? Shall I pause for your answer? The scriptures abound with such assertions as this—"They that are in the flesh cannot please God." Is this the Gospel you are preaching? There is a high cost of not preaching as well as a high cost of not living. The trouble is the church of today is a terminal and a terminal Church cannot win the world to the faith that saves.

When individuals join the church in this generation they find that church life consists of contributing to the support of the work of the church, at home and abroad, and of having an obedient regard for its rules. Do this and all is well. I ask if your preaching is calculated to disturb the complacency of such members? In other words, the church is a terminal. Contrast this with the Apostolic Church, in which every member heard the commanding voice of Jesus saying: "Be ye Holy, be ye perfect."

Where are the unseen powers of darkness that they wrestled with in that age? Has sin lost its power in the individual heart. How Paul struggled to attain! How he exhorted the members of the church to battle for this attainment! This made the Apostolic Church a church of progression, not a terminal. I wish I could more strongly emphasize the vital significance of this comparison of the terminal church of today and the progressive church of the Apostolic Age.

jected books contain much truth; but for other reasons they were left out. Romanists accept as canonical the books written by Jews between Malachi and the birth of Christ, and known as the Apocrypha; while Protestants reject them. They are rich in the Jewish history of that period, but, in the opinion of the best Protestant scholars, do not bear the marks of divine inspiration.

The formation of the canon of the Bible was a necessity for the well-being of the Church. Some of the wisest and best of the men of those days found it needful to select the books that would forever compose the sacred text, in order to prevent everlasting confusion. The canon had to be closed forever to prevent certain parties from injecting into it false gospels and epistles, such as the Book of Mormon and Mrs. Eddy's Key to the Scriptures. The friends of the Devil and the enemies of the Book would destroy it if possible: so that it became necessary to put it into such form as could be best protected. It was in this way that it escaped destruction at the order of Diocletian in A. D. 302. His purpose was to destroy all the sacred writings; but the Bible was preserved intact, although many copies went into the fire.

The canon of the Old Testament was formed gradually by the best men who lived from Moses to Malachi. The writing of the books covered a period of several centuries, many books having been written, that were not allowed to enter the sacred volume of the Jews. "The canon of the Old Testament in the form we now have it, was the work of Ezra and the Great Synagogue. This fact is borne witness to in the most ancient Jewish writings. The Great Synagogue was composed of Ezra, Nehemiah, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi. There is no doubt but that such a collection of books existed in the time of our Lord and the apostles." We refer you to Luke 24:27: "And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he (Jesus) expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself." Luke seems to pile up the evidence to convince men that Jesus Christ endorsed the Old Testament scriptures. Again (24:44) Jesus says: "These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the Psalms, concerning me." The Jews divided their Scriptures into the Law, the Prophets, and the Psalms, by which they meant the entire Old Testament as we now have it. Jesus endorses that old Book: how dare any man dispute him!

The canon of the New Testament, like that of the Old Testament, was not formed suddenly, but during several centuries. As far as we know, not one line of the New Testament had been written before Jesus ascended to heaven after his resurrection. In those early days the apostles and other disciples delivered the message of salvation from memory, or by divine inspiration; but soon it became necessary to put the gospel into writing; for their leaders were being martyred, and were otherwise passing away from earth; and it would not do to leave the message to tradition. Wherefore the Holy Spirit inspired holy men to write the books that now compose the New Testament of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. The books are not given in the order of their writing, some of the epistles having been written before any of the Gospels were written. Of the twenty-seven books composing the canon, twenty were readily accepted at an early date as being canonical; but the other seven, —Hebrews, 2 and 3 John, James, 2 Peter, Jude and the Revelation, were rejected for some time, but by the end of the fourth century they were all accepted by the Church. Martin Luther, however, rejected the epistle of James, terming it "an epistle of straw." Those seven books were rejected, not altogether because of their contents, but because their authors were unknown—a matter of little moment; maybe, none.

Let us now come to a matter of large importance. Supposing that good men were inspired of God to write books for the coming ages, how do we know that the sixty-six books now called the Bible are the inspired ones? There were numbers of books written among the Jews prior to the coming of Christ, that are not in the Old Testament canon. Am I going too far when I assert that the same God who inspired the writing of the books gave direction to the men who selected the books that he desired them to put into the Book designed for the guidance of his Church and the salvation of the world? Surely the good God who saw fit to give us his truth would not, and did not, desert his work in so crucial an hour. To a Christian, such a thing seems incredible.

Dr. William Paley made his fight against atheism among the English people from the standpoint of design in creation. Taking the ground that a watch was designed to measure time, and that it could not design itself, he needed no argument to prove that it was designed and made by some intelligent jeweler. Proceeding from this vantage ground, he dissected a human eye, and found that all its mechanism was designed for the purpose of seeing; and he argued that, inasmuch as the eye could not design and create itself in the dark and prior to its own existence, some supremely intelligent being must have designed and created it. This being he called God. His claim was unanswerable. Atheists had either to admit the truth of it, or advertise themselves as fools.

We take the same sort of position with reference to the Bible. It does what no other book ever did, or can do—it shows men themselves, saves them from sin, and civilizes them. We are reminded of the Chinese scholar who, when assisting Bishop Boone in the translation of the Bible, suddenly rose to his feet and began walking the floor with a troubled expression on his face. When asked what was the matter, he exclaimed, "O Bishop, that Book shows me myself."

Barring all discrepancies, and admitting that they are there, the Bible is a veritable miracle of harmony. Having been in process of writing for some 1600 years and by thirty-odd writers, one is amazed to find that the Book contains but two themes:—Sin and Salvation. Of course many things are said about other matters, but these two subjects compose the one great purpose of the Book. The scarlet thread of a blood atonement runs through the entire volume from Genesis to Revelation. It is passing strange that the long list of writers during all those years never lost sight of this purpose. It is more than human, when men, good and wise, were selecting the writings that were to compose the sacred volume, God through the eternal Spirit superintended their work. We make the statement openly and boldly, because no man can account for the Bible and its results among men on any other basis.

The New Book By Dr. Morrison.

"The Optimism of Pre-millennialism" is now ready for the press. This discussion of the subject of the Second Coming of our Lord approaches the teaching from a new and most interesting angle. It will be read with great interest. It will be ready for the readers by the early summer. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dear Aunt Bettie: How are you and all the cousins getting along? This is my third letter to The Herald. My school was out last Friday. We had an entertainment. I enjoyed it fine. I was promoted to the fifth grade. I love my teacher. She gave us stars for standing head five days, and be perfect five days. I got three gold stars. I received some letters from the cousins, but I lost the addresses, but I appreciated them very much. I live on a farm in Florida.

Beulah Mattie Pulliam.
Rt. B, Box 89, Madison, Fla.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I join your happy band of boys and girls? I am eight years old, have brown hair, blue eyes and fair complexion. I go to school and am in the second grade. Who can guess my name? It starts with C and ends with E, and has seven letters in it. My mother takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. I have four sisters and five brothers. I hear Mr. W. B. coming down the road so I will close.

C. McVeigh Carson.
Arcola, Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here I am again after about a year's absence. Most of you cousins do not recognize me so I will say that I am a high school girl of sixteen and a Christian. Not long ago I volunteered for life service to my Savior and King. What a glad feeling to know you are going to live a life that will count with the Lord. Just think of the many souls in distress who will be counted saved or lost on that great Judgment Day. I like that song which says, "Do a little work for Jesus, any time and anywhere." I do not know what branch of work I will take up but am content to let God lead. I have thought it all out and it seems to me that I would reach more people by becoming an evangelist. How wonderful to have a God who will give us strength to resist temptation if we but ask, and who will not allow us to be tempted above what we can bear. It seems to me that the dance is the greatest snare for the young people of today. Friends, where God's name is never praised, is that the place for us? It isn't for me, my friend. How about you? Your Savior did so much for you, what have you done for him? God hears and answers prayer. Can you pray? Let us make sure of our eternal home while it is yet day, for we know not how soon it will be night.

Florence Wilcox.
Rapelje, Montana.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here I come again. I saw my first letter in print. A boy wrote to me; he said he had my birthday, Jan. 12. Our school was out last Friday. I was promoted to the fifth grade. I go to Sunday school and like it very much. I go to preaching every fourth Sunday.

Wilber Pulliam.
Rt. B, Madison, Fla.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I live in the "Cracker State," and it is a good State to live in. I am thirteen years old and in the sixth grade. I go to the M. E. Church Sunday school. We have The Junior Epworth League at church every Sunday evening, except when our teacher is out. My aunt, Mrs. Rhoda Duckett, heard Bro. Morrison at Indian Spring camp ground, and she said he was a great man. I long to hear him some day. I am thirteen years old, have fair complexion, and light red hair. Anybody that guesses my middle name I will write to them.

J. C. M. Wood.
126 Hamilton St., Dalton, Ga.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I wrote a letter about a year ago to The Herald and saw it in print so thought I would write again. I wonder if all the children who write to The Herald received as nice letters as I did. I enjoyed the letters from Mr. McGinnis and the Little Bible Book League. How many of the cousins play a musical instrument? I play a violin. We live on a farm and I have a lamb and a goat and some other stock of my own. How many of the children are Christians? I am and want to go to the Holiness School in Portland as soon as I am through school here. I was eleven years old April 18. I weigh about 90 pounds, and am five feet, one inch tall. How many of the boys and girls take a children's paper? I take The Sparkling Waters and it is a fine paper. Best wishes to The Herald friends. Walter Foote.

Box 176, Halsey, Oregon.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you move over and let a little Virginia girl join your happy band of boys and girls? I go to Sunday school every Sunday. My father is a preacher. I am a girl of eleven years, have dark hair, medium complexion, weigh 74 pounds. Who has my birthday, March 5? Whoever has it write to me and I will write to you, and any other boys or girls that write to me. I sure do enjoy reading The Herald, especially Page Ten. My father takes The Herald and likes to read it, also.

Alice Bradshaw.
High Street, Walters, Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Please let a little Mississippi girl join the cousins. We have only been taking The Herald a short while, and I think it is a grand paper. I sure enjoy reading it. I have a brother and a sister in college. My brother Norris is in Asbury College preparing for the ministry. I want all the cousins to pray that he will be a real soul winner for the Master. Sister Nena is in State Teachers' College at Hattiesburg, Miss., and is planning to be a music teacher. I am thirteen years old, have light long hair. I am helping my papa keep house while my mother is in the hospital. We have family prayer which I think every Christian home should have. I am reading the book, "Beautiful Girlhood." I think it is a fine book, and sure helps me.

Blanche Loper.
Stratton, Miss.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let me in for a little chat with the cousins? I am a little girl from Elizabethtown, Ky. I have light brown hair and brown eyes. I was thirteen Jan. 16. Have I a twin? My mother takes The Pentecostal Herald and I enjoy reading the letters found on Page Ten. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. My teacher is Mrs. Jones. My pastor's name is Rev. C. G. Prather. There was a revival started at our church March 16. Rev. Humble preached for us. I hope Mr. W. B. is out of town when my letter arrives for I would like to see it in print and surprise my grandmother at Owensboro.

Mildred Pearl Faught.
Elizabethtown, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a girl from Virginia join your happy band of cousins? I live in a very historic place about ten miles from Jamestown, Williamsburg and Yorktown. I go to the Methodist E. Church and am secretary of the Sunday School. I am a Christian and enjoy living and working for God. I am fifteen years old and have dark auburn hair, (bobbed), hazel eyes and a light complexion. My birthday is August 17. Have I a twin? If so, please write. Please, all of my cousins that like sports write, and all the others write also. I will answer by return mail.

Elaine Shreves.
Crittenden, Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here comes a Kentucky girl. I hope you will let me sit among you and the cousins for just a few minutes to chat with you. I read The Herald and think it is just a wonderful paper. I like Page Ten best of all. Say, Kentucky boys and girls, wake up! Don't you see the other States are getting ahead of us, so let's get busy. Clarence Dailey, your letter was fine. I am just back from a visit from Ohio; had a most wonderful time. I think I like old Kentucky's mountains best of any other State. My birthday is August 26. Who is my twin? Please write to me. I have brown hair, brown eyes, very fair complexion, weigh 135 pounds, and am five feet, four inches tall. I go to the M. E. Church. Bro.

Otis Wolford is our pastor. We all love to hear him preach. He is a wonderful man. How many of the cousins like to ride horseback? That is my main hobby. I am between fourteen and eighteen years of age, and my middle name begins with B and ends with E, and has eight letters in it. Pardon me for staying so long, I really forgot myself and just kept chatting.

Thelma B. Foley.
Sano, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: As my second letter was in print I am writing again, and I hope to see this one in print. Our school was out March 16. Evelyn Tipton, I wrote my letter two or three times before I sent it and I got my height mixed up. I am four feet, eight inches tall, and weigh ninety-two pounds. The last time I weighed was Christmas. I was thirteen years old Feb. 18. Who is my twin? We do not take the paper but my Aunt Elizabeth Cosby does, and I get it from her. I go to Sunday School and meeting every Sunday I can. Do any of you cousins ride horseback? We have a horse and every time I get a chance I ride him.

Edna B. Cosby.
Bondville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Would you be so kind as to let a girl from the West Virginia hills join your happy band? I am sixteen years old, have blue eyes, brown hair and fair complexion. I am five feet and five inches tall and weigh 107½ pounds. There is an M. E. Church about a mile from my home. I attend church here. Rev. Powers is our pastor. He is a fine preacher. I am the oldest child of our family of seven children, four boys and three girls. My first name begins with M and ends with Y. It has four letters in it. Whoever guesses my name I will write to them. I would like for all the cousins to write to me. I promise to answer every letter I possibly can. I would like to exchange snap-shots too.

Genevieve Henderson.
Littleton, W. Va.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here I come again. I live in Garrett Co., Md., on top of Backbone Mountain. We are having some very cold weather, but sure is a good place, after all. We have no dances or movies. Our pastor, Rev. C. G. Russell, preached Sunday. His text was the Ten Commandments. We opened Sunday school by using the hymn, "Where the gates swing outward never." I love music. Edith Barker, I read your answer why Moses couldn't enter into Canaan land. I am sending a question to all your cousins. How many of the Israelites got into the Promised Land? And Why?

Bernice Barnard.
Bloomington, Md.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I wonder if you would give me a seat in the choir of your happy band of cousins? I will appreciate it so much if you will. I enjoy reading Page Ten. How many of you are living for the Lord? I go to Sunday school and prayer meeting every chance I get. I go to the Nazarene Sunday school here. This church was recently organized here, we are now building our church. Won't it be grand to have another church in South Carolina that stands for real Scriptural Holiness? This is the first Nazarene church organized in South Carolina. I am saved and am trying to live for the Lord. My birthday is May 20. I will be fifteen years of age. I have light hair, brown eyes, fair complexion, and weigh about 107 pounds. Some of you cousins write to me and I will try to answer your letters. I would like to see more letters from dear old South Carolina.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Please let a little Kentucky girl have a place in your circle. My mother takes The Herald and I enjoy reading Page Ten. I am ten years of age and in the second grade. I have light hair, blue eyes and fair complexion. I have a dog named Sport. Who has my birthday, Jan. 11? I hope Mr. Waste Basket is taking a nap when this arrives. You cousins write to me. Will answer all letters received.

Elizabeth Cummins.
Parksville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have enjoyed reading your letters and as I have never seen one from this State thought I would write. Some one suggested asking Bible questions. I think that a good idea as it will help us search the Bible. Here are a couple. Who were Moses' father and mother? What became of the brazen serpent that Moses made for the Israelites to look upon, when they were bitten by serpents? I am glad so many are Christians? It is the only life worth living. I would like to hear from some of the older cousins and will be sure and answer all letters received with addresses.

Gladys M. Temple.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have always heard the third time is the charm; if that's so maybe I'll see this letter in print. What have you cousins been doing these days? Or what do you like to do best? I enjoy waiting on the sick and helpless, giving to the poor and needy, doing something to cheer a sad heart. I attend church and Sunday school as often as I can. Which chapter in the Bible do you all like best? There are lots of good ones, but my favorite one is the 90th Psalm. Who knows the riddle in the Bible, and where is it? Well as Mr. W. B. was greedy and caught the other two letters I hope he doesn't get this one.

FALLEN ASLEEP

CONRAD.

Wesley Conrad was born June 6, 1833; died April 12, 1927. Two sons and one daughter survive him. Charles Conrad, Ohio, S. C. Conrad, Oxford, Kan., Della, wife of Charles Reichelderfer, together with grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. A. Marvel, of the M. E. Church. Military honors were granted him by members of the American Legion. Burial was made in the Oxford Cemetery.

Brother Conrad was an outstanding Christian character. He was loved by all who knew him. Had he lived until June 6, he would have attained the ripe old age of 94 years. Many of us had hoped the Lord would spare him here to round out the century of life, but it pleased God to call him "up higher."

He was regenerated at the age of thirteen years in a United Brethren revival; about thirty-seven years later, under the preaching of Dr. Keene, he came to the Kadesh-Barnea of Christian experience, and found the cleansing of the heart and infilling of the Holy Ghost.

Bro. Conrad was truly a "Prince in Israel" and a living monument of God's grace. From his own testimony, his father must have ruled his household well, for he was brought up to respect and honor God's name, to keep the Sabbath holy and restrained his children from the evil of the world. Bro. Conrad never swore, never used tobacco in any form, and liquor found no place in his life. These deadly agencies, which are so largely used of the Devil to destroy mind, body and soul, were by God's providence not permitted to wreck his body and, at the advanced age of 83 years, he was able to do the manual labor of a carpenter, as that was his trade, and at which he was a craftsman of marked ability.

As a soldier of the Cross he walked and talked with God. He lived and adorned the gospel of Jesus Christ and was strong in his God-given convictions and had a good grasp and insight on the fundamental doctrines of the Bible. "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine." He was a matured Christian, ready for his call, which came suddenly. While our loss is Heaven's gain, I am sure that Paradise is richer for his coming. He was a subscriber, for years, of The Pentecostal Herald, and at one time had The Herald sent to one of his brothers, who later came into the light of its teaching. He was a member of the Kansas State Holiness Association and attended the Wichita Camp as long as he was able. At one time under the searching preaching of the Rev. John Matthews, he went to the altar, and the substance of his prayer was, "Lord, is there ought between thee and me?" and God turned loose a landslide of glory upon his soul, and dear Bro. Conrad "shouted" for the first time in his rich experience of years.

As one of "like precious faith" I have enjoyed his fellowship, benefited by his counsel and prayers, and blessed by his testimony as he "spoke the language of Canaan" with no uncertain sound. His face in death showed no ravage of disease, but seemed to still retain the holy glow, the stamp and seal of God upon it, that he bore in life. "Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever." Amen.

Claude Miller.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.

W. T. C.: "Please to pray that the Lord may heal my diseased body and help me to hold on to Jesus for salvation."

Prayer is requested for a revival in Broughton, Kan., and for a husband and son that they may be saved.

Mrs. W. L. C.: "Pray for the healing of my husband, and that he may be blessed in his soul; also for me, that I may receive a deeper work of grace."

One of the most remarkable lives of the 19th century was that of Charles G. Finney. Its dramatic tenseness, spiritual depth, and fervent evangelism is a challenge to the souls of men today. Get it. Read it. Your soul will expand under its charm. It is found in his Memoirs, priced at $1.50. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

SOULE'S CHAPEL REVIVAL.

The Lord gave us a glorious revival at Soule's Chapel on the Pulaski circuit with the pastor, Brother Tyler. Many of the saints shouted aloud the praises of God. Brother Tyler is a good man and the most popular with the people they have had for years. Many spoke of petitioning him back, but we told them the best petition was the financial one—everything in full. The presiding elder, Brother Maxwell, is in favor with the people. Soule's Chapel has been built for nearly one hundred years and the people had drifted away, but the revival brought them back at the night and Sunday services, the largest they had seen there for years. The Baptist attended and entered into the services and will get several additions to their church, the M. E. Church one, and a number for Soule's Chapel. Some received the sanctifying power of the Holy Ghost, some were reclaimed, some saved, and a number of children were blessed. A Sunday school was organized.

We were entertained in the home of Sister Rachel Bryant at night. They were very kind to us. They are leaders in every good thing that comes along. We expected to go from there to Sweeney's Chapel, but they decided they were too busy with their crop planting. We have an open date in May and June which we would be glad to give some one who wants a revival. Address us, Vine Grove, Ky. Robert Johnson and Wife.

If you want a book of data on the historical problems of Methodism, Bishop Neely's book on American Methodism will give it to you. It treats of the divisions and unifications of the Methodist bodies. Price $1.50. Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Ky.

NOTES FROM THE FIELD.

Since my last report I have been continually on the go. I was with Brother Insko in the Second M. E. Church, Maysville, Ky., for three weeks in March. The Lord gave us fifteen souls, among whom was the daughter of the pastor, an intelligent girl of seventeen years, and the other a backslidden woman preacher who at one time was a power in the hands of the Lord.

My second meeting was with Rev. A. R. Williams, of Richland, Okla., for three weeks in April. We were completely rained out the first five nights and one Sunday. Such washouts, storms, and tornadoes were new to me. I am now at Troutville, Pa., and conviction is settling on the people. Five souls have prayed through to date. I go from here to the Holiness Convention at Wilmore, Ky. I have a few summer dates that I can give any one desiring my services.

L. E. Williams.

Every preacher needs to know the fundamentals of public speaking and sermon arrangement. The Making of the Sermon, by Pattison, was written

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

The Making of the Sermon, T. Harwood Pattison, D.D.

The writer studied this book several years ago. He was so impressed with the suggestions received from the course that he adopted the method of homiletics given by the author. It has been wonderfully helpful in extemporaneous speaking.

The author treats the subject of preaching in a very practical manner. After a chapter on "What is Preaching?" he gives two chapters on "The Text," three chapters on "The Treatment of the Text," three chapters on "The Theme," three on "Parts of the Sermon," six on the "Rhetorical Elements in the Sermon," four on "The Delivery of the Sermon" and one concluding chapter on "The Preacher and His Hearer."

That you may see how thoroughly Dr. Pattison treats the subject, we give herewith a summary of chapter one on "What Is Preaching?"

Definition. Preaching is the spoken communication of divine truth with a view to persuasion.

I. The Matter of Preaching. "Divine Truth."

1. The limit of preaching.
 - a. The delivery of a message from God to man.
 - b. It should be founded upon Scripture.
 - c. It must be in Sympathy with God and man.
2. The extent of preaching.
3. The authority for preaching.

II. The Manner in Which the Communication is Made.

1. As to the speaker.
2. As to the audience.

III. The Purpose of Preaching. "With a View of Persuasion."

1. The Principal kinds of pulpit address.
 - a. Familiar discourse. Two words used for this in the New Testament, "talked," "preached."
 - b. Rhetorical discourse. Two words used for this. Both translated "preach."
 - c. Argumentative discourse.

You can readily see the value of a book like this to a preacher, and especially to a young preacher. The price is $1.50.

Soul Winning Stories, by Louis Albert Banks, D.D. $1.50.

This is a book of stories giving the experiences of Dr. Banks as an evangelist and pastor in his earnest work of personal evangelism. It was first published in 1902, but proved so popular with Christian workers that it has now been republished.

The book contains twenty-six stories of the winning of souls, largely through the personal efforts of the writer. They are simply told, with a mixture of pathos that makes them highly interesting. As the title indicates, this is not a book of illustrations, but plain, true stories giving some of the most difficult, yet most triumphant efforts of the author in his work. Some of the stories, however, make useful illustrations for use in preaching.

Lord, Teach Us To Pray, by Alexander Whyte, D.D., LL.D. $1.00.

A book of twenty-three sermons on prayer that has gone through ten editions is one well worth our attention. Dr. Whyte was considered the greatest Scottish preacher of his day. His books were very popular.

This work is divided into three parts, with Luke 11:1, "Lord, Teach us to pray" as the central theme. Part one has three chapters: "The Magnificence of Prayer," "The Geometry of Prayer" and "The Heart of Man and the Heart of God." Part two has eleven chapters on "Some Bible Types of Prayer." Some of the most interesting of these are, "Jacob—Wrestling," "Moses—Making Haste," "Job—Groping," "Our Lord—Sanctifying Himself," "Our Lord—In the Garden," "The Man Who Knocked at Midnight." Part three gives some aspects of the way of prayer. Among these nine chapters some of the best are, "The Costliness of Prayer," "Reverence in Prayer," "Imagination in Prayer," "The Forgiving Spirit in Prayer," and "The Endless Quest."

This book is a classic on the very practical phase of experimental religion—prayer. Preachers would find it useful in their work. Laymen would find it very helpful to their devotional life.

American Methodism, by Bishop Neely, D.D., LL.D. $1.50.

This is a 395-page book on the divisions and unifications of the Methodist Church. It is historical in nature, and is valuable for data in that respect. It gives valuable information in the early movements in American Methodism; the Northern and Southern withdrawals; the work of the M. E. Church in the South and the reasons for the same; the history of the attempts to bring about Unification, and in chapter 34 gives the statistics of the Methodist bodies in 1914.

Bishop Neely was well qualified to produce a book of this kind and "has ransacked the annals of Methodism and brought together many historical facts, never before issued in book form. It is written, of course, from the Northern viewpoint, but nevertheless should be of interest to the Southern reader. There is an exhaustive index in the back that makes it easy to find any topic desired.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

especially to meet this need. It will help you in the preparation of your sermons. There are many splendid suggestions in it. Price $1.50. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

BEAVER DAM, KENTUCKY.

Dr. Andrew Johnson recently closed a series of doctrinal sermons in the Methodist Church, this city. He discussed Infant Baptism, The Mode of Baptism, Women's Rights, Free Will, The Possibility of Apostasy and Which is the True Bible Church? Our day services were seasons of rejoicing, not only among the Methodists, but Baptists, Disciples and Presbyterians united with us in financing the meeting. It is the consensus of opinion that the meeting has meant more to the church than any meeting held here for years. Our doctrines are not to be ashamed of, so let us preach them more. M. D. Allen, Pastor.

A NEW BOOK.

Brother Pickett's latest book, "Why I am a Pre-millennialist," was written with a purpose. He felt that a small, pointed, unanswerable demonstration that the Bible absolutely teaches pre-millennialism, was needed. So he prepared this book, and he challenges the whole post-millennial confraternity to answer his arguments. He says, "They won't, for the very simple reason, they can't." Read it and see if he is right. 35c, three for $1.00. Give it to your pastor and to other friends.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson X.—June 5, 1927.

Subject.—Peter Preaching to Gentiles. Acts 10:34-48.

Golden Text.—For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him. Romans 10:12.

Time.—A. D. 41.

Places.—Joppa and Caesarea.

Introduction.—It was not easy to deliver Peter from his Jewish prejudices. Jehovah's call to Abraham had been misunderstood and misused by his descendants. His purpose was to make them world-wide missionaries of salvation; but they chose to confine his blessings to themselves, and to look upon the less favored children of men as dogs and outcasts. Peter inherited this feeling; so to speak, it was born in him; and what was lacking by birth was educated into him as he grew to manhood. He was a pure-blooded son of Israel, with every Jewish notion in him full grown. Prior to the time of our lesson, it is barely possible that he had realized the import of the Master's command to go into all the world and preach the Gospel to all men. It is true, that the Jerusalem church had sent him and John up into Samaria after Philip's great revival in that place, and that they held a holiness meeting among the converts and saw many of them receive the baptism of the Holy Ghost; but the Samaritans were a hybrid people, being half Jew and half Gentile. With all the prejudice of the Jews against them, Peter's little stay in their country did not serve to introduce him to his ministry to the Gentiles. He had to have the sheet let down from heaven, filled with unclean animals, and the divine command to slay and eat, before he could go in to the Gentiles; but he is hardly to be blamed: it is hard for one to break caste bonds at one blow.

The study of Cornelius and his devout household is interesting. Since the great fight against holiness has become strong in the Methodist churches, it is common to hear certain preachers state very loudly from pulpits that neither the centurion nor his household had ever been converted before Peter went to see them. Of course, the animus of such a statement is born of a desire to get rid of the Bible doctrine of a second work of grace, as it is often termed, and so it is. It is paralleled to the teaching that the one hundred twenty were not converted before Pentecost; but a more absurd position could scarcely be assumed in either case. Sinners do not live as Cornelius and his household lived. He was a "devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God always." Any man who now has those marks is called a Christian, and a pretty good one at that. May be this man had heard the Gospel before he listened to Peter. Philip on his tour of evangelism had visited Caesarea (Acts 8:40); and as Cornelius was a devout praying man, and was leading his house in the same way, it is altogether possible that they went to the revival meetings, and heard the Word preached by the evangelist. They were converted people; and Peter was sent down to Caesarea for the same sort of purpose that had before that time carried him and John up into Samaria: To have a holiness meeting. He did not, perhaps, understand definitely the import of his call to Caesarea; but he had been in the upper room at the Pentecost, so that his spiritual eyes were open to the needs of his audience when he started to deliver his message.

That was a beautiful service, and it was perfectly normal—the Spirit was poured out while Peter was preaching. It reminds one of a case down in Georgia. A leading divine was delivering a fearful tirade against holiness; but he became so rampant and inconsistent in his rabid vociferations, that a young preacher sitting out in the audience got sanctified in spite of the devil and the misleading preacher. People should be saved and sanctified while we are preaching to them. That is God's plan. An altar service is fine for late comers and slow folk; but at best it is hard to manage and is unsatisfactory in its results. Cornelius and his family got the blessing in the proper way.

34. I perceive that God is no respecter of persons.—All right, Brother Peter, you are moving. The lesson may be hard for you, but after a time you will learn that a Gentile is as good as a Jew.

35. But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.—Did it ever occur to you, that Peter had no sort of doubt as to the conversion of his hearers? Others who wish an excuse for fighting entire sanctification doubt it as a second work of grace, may doubt it, but Peter did not. Yes, they were converted.

36. The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ.—Peter is laying the foundation for some good preaching; but it requires the parenthetical clause to make it applicable to Gentiles: (He is Lord of all). In those words Peter was reaching out after his Gentile hearers.

37. That word . . . ye know—Now then, Peter was not preaching to perfectly raw recruits; for the Gospel had been preached over all Palestine from the days of John the Baptist, and Cornelius and his household were no ignorant strangers to the heavenly message.

38. Peter plunges right into the subject that was uppermost in his heart and life: "How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power." The Church had passed into the dispensation of the Holy Ghost on the day of Pentecost, and Peter had been sent to tell Cornelius and his family about the wonderful grace; for having been begotten of the Spirit, they were now heirs to the promised baptism with the Divine Spirit.

39. We are witnesses of all things which he did.—We do not have to make or discover Christianity: it comes through the blood of the cross. Our business is to testify to its saving power. Like Peter, WE ARE WITNESSES. That is about all we shall ever be fit for in this life; and we must have "Christ formed in us the hope of glory," and the Holy Spirit bearing witness to that blessed fact, before we can be his witnesses.

40. How God raised him up the third day, and shewed him openly.—The resurrection of Jesus Christ was

The Sermon on The Mount

BY

WILLIAM DAVID GRAY, A.M., Ph.D.,

The "Straight Edge Preacher."

This is a book of 21 sermons on the fifth and sixth and seventh chapters of Matthew. The sermons are expository and practical and devotional. The book was written while the author was pastor in Wichita, Kansas. The Wichita Eagle, reviewing the last chapter of this book said: "The Sermon on the Mount by William David Gray has set the Evolution pot to boiling in Wichita."

The author says, in this book: "The Sermon on the Mount, by the Great Teacher, is the basis of all New Testament teaching."

Again he says: "Christ's Sermon on the Mount is the fountain of all true theological life."

On page 61 of this book, the author says: "The four great cardinal doctrines in the Sermon On The Mount are the Fatherhood of God, the Deity of Jesus Christ, the Inspiration of the Bible and the Personality of the Holy Ghost."

The book also contains a number of poems that bring a message of life and stir the soul.

The last chapter is devoted to the Evolution controversy. The author is a fundamentalist and stands four-square for the doctrines of the Bible and of the Church.

The price of the Sermon on the Mount has been $1.50, but is now being offered at the very low price of ONE DOLLAR.

the great theme of the early Church. Of course, they preached the crucifixion; but they rallied around their risen Lord. Without this their preaching was vain—men were doomed forever without a risen, living Savior.

41. Not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God.—God does not cast pearls before swine, nor give holy things to dogs. Many souls get little from him because they are unfit to receive it.

42. This verse contains, in some measure, the sense of good preaching. It is Jesus Christ the risen Lord, the God-appointed Savior, the Judge of the living and the dead. This is the Gospel. Jesus Christ is the Gospel. Jesus Christ, the crucified but risen Son of the Father, is Christianity.

43. To him give all the prophets witness.—Some of our modern wiseacres have discovered to their own little satisfaction that the prophets simply wrote of things happening in their day; but the inspired apostles who walked with the Christ what time he was on earth, found out that the prophets told of him that should come, and that whosoever should believe in him for salvation from sin would be saved. Thank God. Multitudes have tried it, and proved it true.

44. While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on them.—Glory! We have seen the same thing happen time and time again. The Spirit is always poured out upon hearts that are prepared to receive him. Only last evening it was verified at the church next door to us.

45. They of the circumcision which believed were astonished.—These were converted Jews who had come with Peter from Joppa. They simply could not believe that God would pour his Spirit upon uncircumcised Gentiles.

46. They heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God.—The baptism with the Holy Ghost brings liberty, and sets men to praising God. Speaking in other tongues did not always follow the baptism with the Spirit, not even in apostolic times. When he was poured out upon the converts in Samaria, no one had the gift of tongues; at least there is no record of it. The passage in the last chapter of Mark, so much relied upon by those wishing to prove that tongues always accompany the gift of the Spirit, has no reference whatever to the subject. It simply says: "These signs shall follow them that believe." But unfortunately for the bewildered brethren, that passage is spurious, and interpolation.

47. Peter was in no hurry. He would have things done decently and in order. "Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we." Certainly they could not, for baptism is the privilege of every converted soul. But the chief thought in the verse is, that Peter confessed that the Holy Spirit had been poured out upon them. They had been converted sometime before, but had not been baptized; now they are sanctified through the outpouring of the Holy Ghost.

48. Although the Master had commanded them to baptize in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, we find that in this verse and in the passage telling of the baptism of the twelve disciples at Ephesus the full formula is not given. It may have been used in the act of baptism, but not given in the text. It matters little.

Do people go to revival meetings in Florida? This picture was taken during a campaign conducted by Evangelist Harry S. Allen, of Macon, Georgia, in a Florida community. People came for fifty and sixty miles to attend the services and hundreds were reached for God and the Church. Anywhere you get a fire started people will come to it. A revival has just been closed in Hardee County, Florida, at The College Hill Tabernacle where scores wept their way to the foot of the cross and gave glad testimony to the saving power of Christ. Evangelist Allen is now at Zolfo Springs, Fla., in a tent meeting. He has some open dates in June and July and any of the brethren wishing to write him about revival work address him at Route 1, Macon, Ga.

OLD TIME RELIGION.

In these days of scepticism and unbelief nothing else but an old-time revival will convince the people that are halting between two opinions; unless God answers by fire as he did in the days of Elijah, multitudes will be left in the Valley of indecision.

After three weeks with the Salvation Army at Muskegon, Mich., they reported fifty-five converts, among them an old backslidden preacher who had been in the dark for fifteen or twenty years, who came to the altar with his son and his son's wife and children and prayed through in the good old-fashioned way and publicly denounced several secret lodges that he had joined.

Nearly all of the Christian people as well as the unsaved who attended were brought under deep conviction and came forward for help.

Thirty-six joined the Army at the close of the meetings. Rev. George Bennard, of California, held a very successful meeting in the Temple Methodist Church, and also Rev. A. B. Ost, of Minneapolis, Minn., held one in the Swedish Mission, both of which closed same time ours did, in the midst of great interest. All three should have been continued. What a pity to close such meetings just when the people are ready for the battle. My heart cries out to God for greater love and fellowship among all Christian workers. At times it seems I cannot live unless I see greater victory in the churches.

THE FOUNDATION OF PATIENCE.

By The Editor.

AN unwavering faith in God, in his Word, in his Son and in the presence and comfort and keeping of the Holy Ghost, is the foundation of true patience. With a faith like this, one can afford to wait with calmness the outcome of any and all things.

Much is said of the patience of Job. He certainly possessed that excellent grace in a remarkable degree. The secret of Job's patience was his faith. He had such a strong, unshaken faith in God that he could wait for an explanation of his troubles until the Resurrection; if necessary, he could get on without any explanation.

Faith and patience are twin sisters. To have a sweet, enduring patience one must have a steadfast, immovable faith. The day was very dark for Job. His children were gone, his property gone, his friends had turned against him, his wife suggested to him that he curse God and die, but he was possessed of a faith which enabled him to say in the midst of it all, "I will trust in him though he slay me." He knew that he had a living Redeemer and he could wait in the midst of his sufferings for the Resurrection morning.

Faith makes patience comfortable in the promise that "All things work together for good to them that love God", and so it abides with happy anticipation of the coming of promised good. Doubt and impatience go together. Doubt cannot sit and wait, for it does not believe that good is coming along the road where it sits. It is restless and miserable. It is the companion and fast friend of Sin.

All truly sanctified people, those who have been cleansed from all sin and have an abiding faith, also have an enduring patience. They have a hopeful view of any situation. With the eye of faith, they see the mountain covered with the horsemen and chariots of God and they rejoice that they that are with us are more than they that are against us. There is to them a silver lining to all clouds. They may carry burdens of sorrow for the lost. They may grieve over spiritual desolations. They may wonder why things are as they are; but they comfort themselves with the thought that we are now in a state of probation; that Satan is ravaging the flock; that sin is on every hand, but they are full of a glad, undying hope that cannot be conquered. They know that God reigns, that he moves forward, that in the end the banner of the Lord Jesus Christ shall float in perfect peace over a world conquered by and subjected to him, who is indeed King of kings and Lord of lords.

"The blood of Christ cleanses us from all sin." But there are some lessons that God can only teach us in the school of adversity, opposition, persecution, suffering and sorrow. Will our faith be strong enough to make our patience sufficient to remain in this school until we shall come forth victorious over every foe, until we have learned to say with the great Apostle, "I have learned in whatsoever state I am therewith to be content." Remember that the Apostle teaches us that, after suffering comes strengthening and settling. "Let patience have her perfect work."

Open Letter to Mr. Henry Ford.

Mr. Henry Ford,
Detroit, Michigan.

My Dear Sir:—

Regretted to hear of the accident in which you were injured, but am thankful the injury was no more serious. I feel that you are filling an important place in the economic life of our nation, and your death would be nothing short of a calamity.

I believe that you are largely responsible for the introduction of a new era in the adjustment of Labor and Capital in this nation. You were one among the first of great manufacturers to make the adventure of larger wages for labor, and you led in the very commendable procession in this particular.

I felt more interested in your securing the control of the great Alabama Power Plant than I did in the election of the President of the United States. I believe if you could have secured control of this plant it would have worked wonders in the progress of agriculture all over the south where cheap fertilizer is so necessary to the farming interests.

Some time ago, I read with interest one of your contributions in the Dearborn Independent. You were writing on charity, and took the position that the best charity was to provide labor with remuneration sufficient to enable the people, the entire working class, to be self-supporting, to build their own homes, schools, churches and various institutions. It occurred to me that perhaps the word "charity" was not the proper word in your article, and the position you had taken. If labor is bringing great wealth to those by whom it is employed I hardly think it can be properly denominated as charity.

It must be remembered that a large percent of the population of the world at any time, is incapable of productive toil. The aged and infirm cannot earn wages, however remunerative wages might be. We always have in every generation millions of people who are physically or mentally crippled and are not able to take care of themselves. Then, there are untold millions of people who must be fed, clothed and educated, who are too young to earn wages, who are at a period in life when they should not be sent to the factory to earn their support, but should be cared for by those who have family ties and obligations, or those who have been successful in business and have secured more money than they can use for their own comfort and are generous enough to support those who are dependent upon their fellowbeings for support, education and training for good and useful citizens.

Our great nation, because of wars, accidents in railroads, workshops and factories and untimely deaths of overworked and undernourished parents, has many tens of thousands of orphan children who must be cared for by those upon whom they have no blood ties or claims. There is nothing finer than for those great men of large mental capacity who have been able to secure vast sums of money than that they should give housing, clothing, food and the means of education to these unfortunate children.

There is a vast difference between what ought to be, what might have been, and actual conditions. There are great populations of people living in poor countries, in backwoods districts far away from the thoroughfares of life where there is but little money and small remuneration for labor of any sort. What could be finer than for men of capacity for making large sums of money than that they should assist such communities in the building of schools, churches, and hospitals for the developing of the rising generation and the care of the aged and sick?

I was reading in an old Book remarkable for the accuracy and profoundness of its statements, which says, "Where much is given, much is required." You have received much. I trust that you may be blessed of the Lord and make such wise and charitable disposition of your vast wealth that your name will be kept a precious memory among many, and that you may in the end, meet your Master in great peace.

Respectfully yours,
H. C. MORRISON.

EIGHTY-TWO TO SIXTY-TWO.

SOME time ago a proposition was before the legislature of Missouri calling for legislation to prevent the teaching of evolution in the public schools. Sixty-two of the members voted for the bill; eighty-two voted against it.

I clipped the following from an issue of the daily press:

"Missouri shows 'em. Common sense returns to legislation in certain places. The Missouri house of representatives by a vote of 82 to 62 killed a bill to prohibit the teaching of evolution in the schools of the state. Children in that commonwealth may study what theories science has evolved. The mind is not to be chained. There is to be freedom in education."

THE ABUNDANT LIFE.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

JESUS speaks about it in John 10:10. "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

Years ago we heard a minister preach on the above subject. We noticed that nobody shouted, no one got happy, and no hallelujahs were raised during the sermon. We think the reason was that the preacher lost the point—that is to say, he used the text to discuss Deism, social service, etc., and never used for a single moment the opportunity of the text and subject to set forth the glorious truth of life in Christ and its glorious abundance.

The Abundant Life, as we think of it and have experienced it, has the following things about it:

- It is a justified life. Rom. 5:1.
- It is a consecrated life. Rom. 12:1.
- It is a cleansed life. John 15:3.
- It is a sanctified life. 1 Thess. 5:3.
- It is a joyous life. John 15:11.
- It is a fruitful life. John 15:5.
- It is an empowered life. Luke 24:49.
- It is a Spirit-filled life. Eph. 5:18.

The Abundant Life is none other than the life of sanctification as taught by Jesus, and by Paul, and Peter, and holy men of God throughout the ages.

This work of Sanctification is preceded by a work of consecration in which the soul speaks to God in the following language:

"I do, O my God, solemnly surrender myself to Thee, and do give and consecrate to Thee my soul and body, my mind, my faculties, my talents, my time, the members of my body, my influence over others, all my powers of thought and exertion—everything to be used just as Thou chooseth, until death and through eternity. I beseech Thee, give me the power, disposition and will to confirm and ratify this act."

This work of sanctification is defined very definitely in the following terms: Webster says, "Sanctify, to make free from sin; to cleanse from moral corruption and pollution; to purify. Sanctification, the act of God's grace by which the affections of men are purified or alienated from sin and the world, and exalted to a supreme love to God." The Century Dictionary says, "Sanctification, in theology, is the act of God's grace by which the affections of men are purified, and the soul is cleansed from sin and consecrated to God." The Standard Dictionary says, "Sanctification is the gracious work of the Holy Spirit whereby the believer is freed from sin and exalted to holiness of heart and life."

All of the dictionaries say that entire sanctification purifies or frees from sin. It is an instantaneous, cleansing work. Now one says, "It is the gracious work of the Holy Spirit whereby the believer (not the sinner) is cleansed from sin;" therefore it is a second work, subsequent to regeneration, as all Scriptures teach. All of the dictionaries declare that the work is wrought by God. So it is not of growth or striving; it is not produced by education or culture or self-discipline or death or purgatory. It is the work of God. We may define entire sanctification, then, as the cleansing of the believer's heart from inbred sin, or depravity, wrought instantaneously by the baptism with the Holy Spirit and fire, and filling it with perfect love.

Sanctification is a great Bible truth and doctrine; the standard Scripture upon the subject is 1 Thess. 5:23.

Dr. E. M. Levy, a noted Baptist holiness preacher, gave a great message upon this subject in one of the big camp meetings. He said: "If justification be the root of this heavenly plant—the life of God in the soul—

KEPT FOR THE MASTER'S USE.

Keep my life, that it may be Consecrated, Lord, to Thee.
Keep my moments and my days;
Let them flow in ceaseless praise.
Keep my hands, that they may move
At the impulse of Thy love.
Keep my feet, that they may be
Swift and "beautiful" for Thee.
Keep my voice, that I may sing
Always, only, for my King.
Keep my lips, that they may be Filled with messages from Thee.
Keep my silver and my gold;
Not a mite would I withhold.
Keep my intellect, and use
Every power as Thou shalt choose.
Keep my will, oh, keep it Thine!
For it is no longer mine.
Keep my heart; it is Thine own;
It is now Thy royal throne.
Keep my love; my Lord, I pour
At Thy feet its treasure-store.
Keep myself, that I may be
Ever, only, ALL for Thee.

—Frances Ridley Havergal.

sanctification is the beautiful blossom and the delicious fruit." The preacher next went on to divide up the text thus (and behold what a good division it maketh):

First—The Author of Sanctification;

Second—The Instrumental Cause of Sanctification;

Third—The Great Importance of Sanctification.

Furthermore, the Abundant Life is nothing less or more than the Holy Life.

Bishop McIntyre, preaching on holiness at one of the conferences, said, among other things:

"There is a peculiar misunderstanding about holiness. First, as to the nature of it; it is a work of grace. The first work of grace is called regeneration, or justification. Both are Bible terms and mean the same thing. They are based on life. God drops into the penitent and believing soul the germ of a new life. Afterwards, a few days or weeks. God, through the Holy Ghost, does another work, which is based on death. As far as the poles are from each other, so justification and sanctification are from each other. Sanctification is based on death, what Paul calls the old man, the carnal mind, the sinful nature. It takes these two works to complete salvation. The Bible compares salvation to a song. Now, a song has two elements, the words and the music. In justification, we get the words, and in sanctification, we get the music. These two put a new song into our hearts even praises to God."

Then again, the Abundant Life is the life lived within the will of God.

Dr. Meyer, speaking of the solar look in the face of the pure in heart tells this story:

"There was a learned man, who, for eight years desired that God would give him the secret of the blessed life, and he was directed to a poor and ill-clad man whom he greeted with 'Good day!' The other replied: 'I never had a bad day; for if I am hungry, I praise God; if it freezes, hails, snows or rains, I still praise God. If I am wretched and despised, I praise him. I never have ill-luck, for I know how to live with God, and I know what he does is best. What God ordains or gives, I take cheerfully from his hand. I am never unhappy, for my one desire is to live in God's will, and what God wills, I will.' Then the inquirer asked, 'What brought you to this condition?' And this was the reply: 'My silence, my high thoughts, and my union with God! For I could not rest in anything that was less than God. Now I have found God; and in him have eternal rest and peace.'

"Let us seek these three things. Detachment from dependence on outward circumstances, which is true poverty of spirit. Purity of heart, open in every affection and desire to the Love of God. Obedience, which has yielded its will to the Divine Will, and is willing in all things to be made willing."

Furthermore, the Abundant Life is the divinely-protected and guided life.

When Charles Wesley was preaching at Devizes (England) he was attacked by a tumultuous and wicked mob. His life was in danger, but God intervened and saved his servant. Afterwards Mr. Wesley sang about it thus:

"Lo! to faith's enlightened sight
All the mountain flames with light;
Hell is nigh, but God is nigher,
Circling us with hosts of fire."

An English writer, speaking of the saints, says:

"The saint walks by faith, not by sight. Look at Stephen. He is surrounded by an infuriated multitude. One would say that he saw only a persecuting mob. But hearken, 'He, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing at the right hand of God.' To the carnal eye John at Patmos had for environment a gloomy island, a lonely sea, a few unfriendly soldiers; but John really knew little of all this, for a celestial universe unfolded above him, and his island was filled with strange music, peopled with angelic shapes, and blossoming with unwithering roses. To the carnal eye John Bunyan dwelt within the narrow walls of Bedford jail with only coarse and painful things to contemplate and suffer; but he dwelt in the Palace Beautiful, climbed the hill Beulah, heard golden trumpets, saw the city of gems and crystal lighted with the glory of God."

Lastly, the Abundant Life is a changed life—from the life of defeat and self to a life of completeness in Jesus. Col. 2:10. That beautiful hymn of Theodore Monod states this transformation very beautifully:

"Oh the bitter shame and sorrow,
That a time could ever be
When I let the Savior's pity
Plead in vain, and proudly answered,
'All of self, and none of Thee.'

"Yet he found me! I beheld him
Bleeding on the accursed tree;
Heard him pray, 'Forgive them, Father!'
And my wistful heart said faintly,
'Some of self, and some of Thee.'

"Day by day his tender mercy,
Healing, helping, full and free,
Sweet and strong, and oh, so patient,
Brought me lower, while I whispered,
'Less of self, and more of Thee.'

"Higher than the highest heavens,
Deeper than the deepest sea,
Lord, Thy love at last hath conquered,
Grant me now my soul's desire—
'None of self, and all of Thee.'

CHAPTER XVI.

AMANDA SMITH.

HE miracles of God's power and grace were not withdrawn when the early Church organization was finished; that the work of Christ was to be carried on, there can be no doubt, if we believe the New Testament. A physical miracle is regarded as a much greater feat, than a miracle of spirit; such is not true. If Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today, and forever, then we have only to study his power and ministry while here on earth to know what he can do now. To open blinded eyes—eyes that had never known the light of day—was a miracle requiring supernatural, creative power; only the Omnipotent God could do it; but this manifestation is no more a miracle than the transformation of a blinded, sinful soul into holy intelligence. As spirit is greater than matter, so we believe that miracles in the spirit realm are greater than in the physical.

We are going to undertake a brief introduction to a character that has passed to her reward which, when all things are considered, will reaffirm the truth now almost obsolete, that the power of Jesus Christ is the same today, as when he walked upon the shores of Galilee, Amanda Smith, Bud Robinson, Jerry McAuley, "Madge of Pickadella Street," all of them miracles. But we want to tell the story of Amanda Smith, the slave girl. God had some great ministers and missionaries during the Nineteenth Century, but we believe that on no one did he pour out a greater measure of power than upon this black woman.

Here is a little glimpse into her cabin home. Her father worked all day for his master, and nearly all night, to earn money with which to buy his freedom. Amanda's mother and grandmother were both devout; though ignorant slaves, had great faith in God. They both prayed for the salvation of their mistress—"Miss Celia"—as they called her. Their faith was rewarded and shortly afterwards, was stricken with a disease from which she never recovered; but on her dying bed, she begged for the freedom of "Nancy and the children," which was granted, Amanda being one of the children. The family after securing their freedom, moved to Pennsylvania. Until her father died, Amanda was active helping run-away slaves to hide, giving them food and protection. This will give the reader a little perspective; but it can in no way explain the marvelous career of Amanda Smith.

She was born at Long Green, Md., 1837, many years before the emancipation of her people. As soon as she was old enough she worked in the homes of white families as a helper to feed and clothe the family. When very young, not more than fifteen, she was married to a trifling negro boy named Devine. In a short time she was left a widow with a child to support, along with her other responsibilities. During her early years, before her first marriage, she spent three months in school.

The experiences of her childhood slavery, her unhappy marriage, and the wrong she felt concerning the slavery of her people, hardened the heart of this poor black girl. But the religious influences of her godly mother and grandmother could not be thrown off easily. Camp meetings were held by her people, and the Methodist Church gave religious attention to the colored people who came above the Mason and Dixon Line. Amanda's conviction for salvation, struggling with doubts and rebellion, was a long, drawn-out process, but she was finally converted.

She tells the story of her conversion, which is unique. She had no faith in her own prayers, and knowing no one in whom she had confidence, as she was separated from her mother, she felt the praying had to be done by some one that had not sinned. She could think of no one, and in her desperation, she tells how she sought help. "I knew," she said, "that the sun had never sinned, and had always obeyed God, and I said, 'O sun, ask God to save my soul.' I knew the moon had never sinned, and I said, 'O moon, pray for me.' I knew the stars had never disobeyed God, and I begged them to pray for me; then at last, I knew the winds had never sinned and begged them to help me." This will give some idea of the childish ignorance of Amanda.

Before she found the light to her soul, she married James Smith, a local preacher of the African Methodist Church. This, she thought, would be a great help to her, as he promised her that he would join the Conference and be an itinerant preacher. How she longed to be a useful minister's wife; but her second marriage proved to be as great a disappointment as the first. This was his method to win the love of Amanda, but he proved to be a worthless hypocrite. Amanda Smith became a washer-woman, a drudge, washing day and night to support her home. But amid her other struggles she found God, and the illumination that came to her, as told in her biography, is simply marvelous.

For some years, she became a favorite in revival meetings where she sang and prayed with an unction that carried the genuine stamp of the Holy Ghost. In the year 1869, God led her into definite religious work. Think of a negro woman thirty-two years old, without education—except she had learned to read her Bible—entering into public work. At first, she worked among her own people, holding revivals for the negro pastors, for which services she scarcely kept soul and body together. Scores of times as she tells us, she had no money to pay her fare to some church where she was called. Gradually, the name Amanda Smith became well known all about New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Under the preaching of John Inskip, she received the blessing of entire sanctification; the most interesting chapter of her wonderful biography is the way she struggled with the Tempter before she got the blessing. After Amanda Smith professed sanctification, she attended the great camp meetings, where she came in contact with such great spiritual leaders as McDonald, Inskip, Woods, Phoebe Palmer, and others. Her singing and prayers became a camp meeting attraction, as great as the presence of Bud Robinson, twenty-five years later.

Big Methodist churches were opened to her in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and Jersey City. Then came the call of wider service. Through influential people this black woman was called to England, and her ministry produced a sensation. The largest Halls in London, Liverpool, Manchester, and Edinburgh were packed to hear Amanda Smith the "Ex-slave Evangelist." At all those places she was a staunch exponent of entire sanctification as a definite, second work of grace, and this she proclaimed at the great Keswick Assembly.

Following her great evangelistic tour in England, her calls came from the "Regions beyond"; whereupon she started for the Orient, visiting all the great cities and historic places, such as Paris, Rome, Florence, Naples, Pompeii, and then Cairo, Alexandria, Jerusalem and on to India. We have read many descriptions of noted scenes of places in Europe and Egypt, but the details of the things she saw in Paris, Rome and every other place, were astonishing. A scholar versed in the history of those places could not have done it better, yet the story of all she saw is given in a style so simple that it is charming.

At the invitation of Bishop Thoburn, she visited India. The bishop says of her visit in Calcutta: "During the seventeen years I lived in Calcutta, I have known many famous strangers to visit the city, and some of them attracted large audiences, but I have never known any one who could draw and hold so large an audience as Amanda Smith." Speaking of her power of penetration, he says: "I have never known any one who could go to the heart of a problem or difficult situation like she; at a glance she could see the weakness in men and systems. Once she quelled an Indian mob by falling on her knees and praying." Her poise and absolute faith were a miracle of God's power.

Her evangelistic labors carried her in all parts of India and Africa. She spent eight years in Liberia, where thousands were saved under her ministry. On her return to America by way of London, her reception in that city was an ovation, and letters of greeting and welcome came from the greatest men and women of Church and State, among them, Lady Henry Somerset, and Frances E. Willard, who was in England at the time.

Her autobiography is a marvel, over five hundred pages of fine print making more than a thousand pages of books today. She did this at the urgent request of her friends and admirers. One feature is amazing; recalling her experience from childhood, she gives the names of hundreds of individuals—sometimes a dozen who figured in one event—white and black. For more than thirty years of her life, she kept no diary, and how she records the details of people and events is almost unbelievable. Amanda Smith was one of God's chosen vessels. Her presence at a camp meeting was a benediction. Bishops and great scholars sat at her feet and were taught the marvelous truths of God. The life of Amanda Smith was a miracle. She died in Sebring, Fla., in a vine-clad home provided for her by the late George Sebring.

President's Annual Report.

AS President of The National Association for the Promotion of Holiness, I desire to submit the following as my Annual Report:

By the grace of the Lord and the graciousness of my brethren, I have had as your representative, my busiest, my most blessed, and (perhaps) my best year in efforts to spread Christian Holiness over these lands. I have felt deeply the loss to myself, personally, that has come to us all as an Association in the passing to their rest of some of my dearly beloved brethren of both the ministry and the laity. I have been pained beyond expression by the dropping out of some from the ministry and laity of the direct lines of holiness teaching and service.

I have been rejoiced at the preservation of all our work intact from the inroads of some unscriptural and irrational aggressions that have infested some other movements and have been the means of misleading not a few good holiness people in their individual capacity. I have had my own hands strengthened and have seen good things for the work ahead in the coming to the front of some new forces for the evangelistic field. Not regretting nor discrediting the moulding of many in our schools for educational and other professional careers, I have nevertheless been specially appreciative of those who from our camps and training schools are responding at once to the call to direct Missionary and

THE TREACHERY OF BACKSLIDING.

Rev. John F. Knapp.

Surely as a wife treacherously departeth from her husband, so have ye dealt treacherously with me, O house of Israel, saith the Lord. A voice was heard upon the high places, weeping and supplications of the children of Israel; for they have perverted their way, and they have forgotten the Lord their God. Return, ye backsliding children, and I will heal your backslidings. Behold, we come unto thee; for thou art the Lord our God.—Jer. 3:20-22.

HERE are no people who are in so great peril of backsliding as holiness people. Satan has bent his bow, and the flesh makes its boast that no man or no woman can live in this world without sin. When people are bold enough to say that the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin, they become a target for the attacks of the devil. Wherever I go I am struck with the fact that great groups of people that were once living a holy life have cooled down in their spiritual ardor, have become indifferent to the pull of the Divine and to the things that pertain to a life of godliness. My heart is continually wrung by the fact that those who once had spiritual power, today seem to have nothing but a form of godliness and seem to have so little sense of the reality of holy things. I talked to that old saint of God, Dr. Godbey, a man of learning as well as piety, and he said to me: "You know the holiness people of today are more worldly than the Methodist people of fifty years ago. There is an encroachment of the world coming in upon them, and it is becoming increasingly hard for people to live a holy life."

I don't say these things to alarm you, but I believe it is the duty of the prophets of God to stand at the cross-ways of the world and flash the danger signals. God paints the picture of the backslider under the picture of the treacherous and disloyal wife. It is a terrible thing for one who has been sanctified to so far forget his pledged loyalty that he will crucify the Son of God and put him to an open shame. It is terrible when we think of treachery to an employer. It is still worse when there is disloyalty in a home, for a home is, next to the heart, the greatest thing God ever made. The wife has been chosen to represent the Bride of Christ and the husband to represent Christ himself. The children are the picture of those who are spiritually born through this union. "As a wife treacherously departeth from her husband, so have ye dealt treacherously with me, O house of Israel, saith the Lord." He has brought them out of the wilderness, through the Jordan and into the land of Canaan—all this he has done for them—and yet, deceit, disloyalty, has been their attitude toward him.

Can you picture what this means in a household? The husband comes home on Saturday night and greets his wife with a kiss of affection and hands over to her the earnings he has toiled so hard to receive all week. The children gather around his knee and nestle up close to him. All the time the wife is planning how she can rid herself of this companion who has been so loyal to her. There is no other treachery to be compared to that. Then on the other hand, think of the wife going about her tasks, making a home for her husband and her children. But, instead of his heart being fixed on his home, there is a disloyalty in it that if his wife discovers, it will strike like death to her soul.

There never was a time when the world was so attractive as now. Appeals are made that seemingly would be beneficial to physical, intellectual, moral and social life, but if we yield to them it will be ruinous to our spiritual life. "Know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity against God; whosoever, therefore, will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God." Wherever I go God has laid it on my heart to warn men and women of this fearful danger. Years ago this came to my attention in a church of which I was pastor. You know many Christians pride themselves on being broad-minded and discriminating. But they visit places that the Lord Jesus Christ could not go with them; they see things that the Lord Jesus Christ would not look at, in their attempt to be regarded as free from a certain narrowness of outlook and practice. On one of my first pastorates, there was a Sunday school teacher in my church who used to tell his class of young ladies that there was no harm in going to the theater, provided one learned to discriminate, in other words, learned how to tell a good play from a bad play. But the members of his class gathered from this remark that their Sunday school teacher went to the theater, and of course, if it was right for him to go, it was right for them to go. He told them one Sunday about the play, I think it was, "Damaged Goods." The whole class went down in a body to see this play. One of the girls met a young man at the theater and he took her to another. He did not "discriminate," and so she was led astray, and in about two years it ended up by her being carried out a corpse in the Red Light District. No child of God can afford to let his influence be used in a way like that.

I used to think I had to preach intellectual sermons. I found out that there were only three percent of an audience that were college graduates so I began to try to discover how to get down to the hearts of folks, to be a soul winner. Yesterday morning I woke up about 5:30. I turned over and thought I would sleep another half hour. Almost immediately I fell asleep and dreamed I was at home in my study at the Bible School in Cincinnati and that it was about 7 o'clock in the morning, and that I lay down on the couch for a short nap as it would be time for my Homiletics Class in thirty minutes. As I went to sleep, it seemed to me that I was wafted up toward the Glory World. At first I felt afraid and then I realized that underneath me were the Everlasting Arms. When I reached what seemed to be a certain height, I saw a Figure similar to the One described in Revelation. It was Christ, the God-man. As he stood there a rainbow played about his head and his face shone as the light, while in his hand was a mighty sword. From his face seemed to radiate in every direction beams of brightness beyond the sunlight. My uppermost thought at the moment was, "Thank God, he is come, and I was ready for him and he took me after all my doubt and materialism, to that Holy City." For as I looked at him, I saw him point out before him and there in the light of his countenance was the Holy City, New Jerusalem; it seemed to stretch away over hill and valley until its scintillating towers and steeples, walls and palaces touched the outermost horizon. The City was alight with its own brilliance that shone out upon the void where I seemed to be standing and yet its greatest brightness seemed to come, not from itself, but from him who stood there at my left hand.

And then I looked away from the City, back to him but it appeared that his heroic figure had diminished in size and that he had laid aside some of the resplendent glory that before had shone from him. I no longer saw his mighty sword but instead, there was a human figure with a crown of thorns on his brow, nail prints in his hands and feet. "And he tenderly looked at me." And then a new thought surged up into my consciousness, "I am alone; I have brought nobody with me," and I heard the words, though whether they came from the lips beneath the crown of thorns, I could not tell, but here was the message, "You better go back now: your class needs you this morning." And so I dreamed that I went back and found my class in danger and led them away and taught them, and I awoke and it was six-thirty on Saturday morning, Feb. 19, 1927—an hour had passed and I had seen my Lord, (for what was the Holy City beside him?) and he had sent me back to my task for I had come alone!

This dream is so new and so vivid that I wanted to tell it while the details were fresh in my mind. What it would mean to be there in that city—but to go in alone, taking no one with me! The thing that hinders us from bringing men and women to Jesus Christ is ourselves. Perhaps the reason that you, wife, have not been able to lead your husband to Jesus Christ is that you have not been leading an exemplary life before him; so it is with children and parents and with all of us. It is yielding to the treachery of the world and of sin that makes us unfit to witness and to win for our Lord.

Turn now to the 21st verse, the prayer of the prophet of God's people. The reason they are weeping and praying there is: "They have perverted their way and have forgotten the Lord their God." Perverted means to double back on a thing. What is it to go back on that way? Just this: if you had to give up a certain way of life in order to get the fulness of the blessing, you can never go back to that way without losing the fulness of the blessing. But there is no need for us to backslide, that we should pervert our ways. There is no need that we should forget the Lord our God. The perversion of

BIBLE READING ON HOLINESS.

Rev. C. W. Ruth.

PART II.

IN the preceding lesson we endeavored to prove by the Scriptures that the disciples were regenerated and clearly justified prior to the Pentecost; we now proceed to show that the carnal mind co-existed with the grace of God in their hearts; and that the baptism with the Holy Ghost purified their hearts, as a second work of grace.

THOUGH REGENERATED, THEY WERE YET CARNAL.

That they needed a second work of grace, as do all regenerated believers, is evidenced by the following: They still had a carnal ambition for greatness, and official positions. "There arose a reasoning among them which of them should be greatest." Luke 9:46; Mark 9:33-35.

At times they were troubled with a carnal unbelief. Jesus said to them plainly, "Because of your unbelief" they had failed in casting out a devil. Matt. 17:20. And in Mark 16:14, we read, "Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief."

James and John still had a carnal selfishness, secretly saying to Jesus, "Grant unto us that we may sit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory." Mark 10:37.

The ten still had a carnal envy, and jealousy. "And when the ten heard it, they began to be much displeased with James and John." Mark 10:41.

They still had a carnal sectarianism. "John answered him saying, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us; and we forbade him, because he followeth not us." Mark 9:38.

They still had a carnal resentment, and vindictiveness. When the Samaritans "did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem," James and John said, "Lord wilt thou that we command fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did?" Luke 9:52-55. "Simon Peter having a sword drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear." John 18:10.

They still had a carnal, man-fearing spirit. "The same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst." John 20:19.

All these carnal manifestations were purged away by the fiery baptism of the Pentecost, and the doors came quickly open, and they were at once ready for a street meeting.

THE DISCIPLES AFTER PENTECOST.

"They were all filled with the Holy Ghost," and Peter explains, "This is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel." Acts 2:4, 16. Here we need to distinguish between the birth of the Spirit and the baptism with the Spirit. They had the birth of the Spirit when they were "born of God," John 1:13; but now received the baptism with the Spirit, which the world cannot receive. John 14:17. Sinners are never baptized with the Holy Ghost and fire. Later in explaining what took place at the house of Cornelius, Peter said, "The Holy Ghost fell on them, as on us (disciples) at the beginning;" "the like gift:" (Acts 11:15, 17). And then in Acts 15:8, 9, says, "and God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us, (disciples,) and put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith."

As Peter was present at the Pentecost, he surely knew what took place; and he says it was "the like gift," in both instances, "purifying their hearts." Hence, we would insist that the primary purpose in the baptism with the Holy Ghost, is the purifying of the heart; and they who seek "power" before they receive the purifying of their hearts, are evidently on a wrong trail. Purity comes as a result of subtraction; it is not so much receiving something we never had, to begin with, as being delivered from some things we have always had; whereas, power comes by addition: something added. People do not object so much to the "addition" process, as they do to the "subtraction" process, —which means the giving up of all their idols. We would in no sense gainsay the fact that the baptism with the Holy Ghost carries the promise of power; for Jesus distinctly said, "Tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high." "Ye shall receive power, (the power of the Holy Ghost coming upon you, marg.) after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you." Luke 24:49; Acts 1:8. We are simply insisting that the negative aspect of the baptism with the Holy Ghost, is the purifying of the heart; and that until men consent to the purifying of their hearts they cannot receive the power.

The baptism with the Holy Ghost not only gave them pure hearts, and power, but a fulness blessing: "they were all filled," and a loosened tongue: "they began to speak;" and a holy boldness: "they saw the boldness of Peter and John . . . and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus." (Acts 4:13) it loosened up their purse strings; they "had all things common; and sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need;" (v. 46) and it gave them perfect love," "they continuing daily with one accord," "steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship," (v. 42, 46) and were happy, "Praising God!" All this was epochal and marked a most distinct crisis, as a second work of grace, in their Christian experience. "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed?" Acts 19:2 This was the fulfilment of the promise Jesus gave to the disciples, when he said "If ye love me, keep my commandments, and I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever; even the Spirit of truth: whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you." John 14:15-17.

They had Holy Ghost religion before Pentecost, for Jesus said "He dwelleth with you," but he made the distinction, and gave the added promise, "And shall be in you." The relation of the Holy Spirit to the church in the three dispensations is fairly well expressed in the three words, "upon," "with" and "in." During the dispensation of the Father the Spirit of the Lord came "upon" certain individuals,—"Balaam," Numb. 24:2; "Saul," I Sam. 10:10; "David," I Sam. 16:13). During the dispensation of the Son, while Jesus walked with his disciples, he said the "Comforter," "the Spirit of truth," "dwelleth with you;" but during the dispensation of the Holy Ghost,—in which we are living—He "shall be in you." This bestowment of the Spirit was not to be a transient, or evanescent experience, but a permanent and abiding experience. Jesus said he would "abide" forever, and would testify to us about Jesus; John 15:26; would "teach" us all things, and "bring all things" to our "remembrance" that Jesus had said; John 14:26; would "shew" us "things to come," and would "guide" us "into all truth." John 16:13. While a person may not always have the consciousness that the Comforter abides, he can always rest in the confidence that he abides,—so long as he has not been grieved away by some act of wilful sin. Thank the Lord! "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed?" Acts 19:2.

Are all Christians Real Workers For God?

A. W. ORWIG.

Can any one be a real Bible Christian without being more or less of a worker for God? Can any one be a Christian at all without obeying God? "Go work today in my vineyard" is God's positive command. And Jesus says, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." Certainly, then, no enlightened Christian will neglect holy toil in God's vineyard. He will crave and enjoy it. He will be possessed of the ardent spirit of Jesus who declared, "I delight to do thy will, O my God." And the divine will and command is, "Every one to his work." And to those not willing to work is addressed the warning words, "Woe to them that are at ease in Zion." With all this Scripture for our consideration, it is nevertheless true that to many professors of religion are the words applicable, "Why stand ye here all the day idle."

Work is the lot of man by divine decree. Both brain and brawn need to be employed even from health considerations. Yet they can be quite serviceable in promoting the kingdom of God. But above all the heart should be enlisted. Are all the powers of our being thus enrolled? Can we truly say

"Take myself, and I will be Ever, only, all for Thee?"

We have a fine example of "every one to his work" in the case of the dauntless Nehemiah and his helpers. Each one did the work assigned him. Discouraging circumstances did not deter any one from performing his task. Critics and hinderers were met with watchfulness and prayer and all the greater activity. And these same qualities should characterize all Christians. Not all have the same work, nor have all the same capacity for work, but the weakest can do something.

While the church in general has various spheres of work, yet everything should combine for the glory of God in the salvation of souls and the spiritual well-being of all its members. It has also a mission for the bodies of suffering humanity. Would that there were never an occasion for asking the question, "Are all Christians real workers for God?" But may it be true of all professors of religion, as the apostle Paul declared of Timothy, "He worketh the work of the Lord."

As for the young people of the church, their opportunities for Christian work are almost boundless, especially among those of their own sex and age, but by no means confined to these. May God reveal to them their great responsibility! Young people have many common interests. Often their experiences in many things are much the same. They largely have the same temptations and trials of various sorts. The lure of the world is sometimes difficult to overcome, especially when its power is manifested inside of the church itself, which, sad to say, is somewhat prevalent in some quarters.

The various subsidiary societies of the church are channels through which much good may be accomplished. Thank God for them. But is there not some danger of losing sight of direct personal work for the salvation of souls amid the more general activities of such organizations? With some persons the social or literary element awakens more interest than the loftier service of earnest endeavor to win souls. Oh for new and larger conceptions of the real spiritual work of the church as a whole and of each individual member! Living more fully in the Holy Spirit and his blessed Word will secure it.

None of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself. Romans 14:7.

Evangelistic work. Several reinforcements and rising recruits are at the present time appearing on the horizon of our National Evangelism. Together with these I have been made thankful by the manifest continued acceptance and even growing effectiveness of some of our older, true and tried evangelists.

The whole field and outlook seem more promising and encouraging for a new evangelistic rise in the Holiness Movement than even a year ago. As already stated our evangelists for the most part are kept busily employed and their number is multiplying. All of our Holiness Colleges and Schools are centers of revivals and besides securing the conversion and sanctification of most of their students, are radiating an influence for holiness over extensive areas by means of College Gospel Teams. The holiness papers, both our own interdenominational organs, and those of the several holiness churches, are contributing much to the information of the people at large and much to the intelligence of the holiness people themselves on the great theme. More doors seem to be opening of late in Methodist Churches and some in Presbyterian churches for Holiness Evangelism, while the Friends, the Evangelical, the Wesleyan Methodist, the Free Methodist, the Nazarene, the Pilgrims, Mennonites and some other churches, together with some Christian Alliance, and various Mission Bodies, are not only wide open for the work of holiness evangelism at times but are for the most part pressing holiness themselves much of the time.

Our Holiness Training Schools still remain the educational unit of our mission, and the interdenominational camp meetings the center and power-house of the Movement. These camps—both those auxiliary and those affiliated with the "National"—are multiplying somewhat in number, improving in equipment, increasing in attendance, and losing none of their fervor in evangelism or of their fidelity to the Gospel of the Kingdom as a whole, or to the doctrine of Entire Sanctification by faith alone as our special depositum. All their preachers and other workers are chosen with reference, first of all, to their correctness, clearness, and courage on the matter of holiness. Any that are indistinct, indefinite or indifferent upon the matter of full salvation somehow automatically drop out of the camp meeting programs, as do also any that are come-outive, censorious, abusive, fanatical or eager to project side issues or matters that would divert from the main issue of the camp. There is an increasing demand for Expository as well as Hortatory preachers at these camps; and for School of the Prophets and Bible Conference hours.

Every area seems able to find and furnish capable and consecrated song leadership, and musical help for our camps and conventions; and sacred song is a great and forceful factor in our Holiness Evangelism. Am pleased to report in this connection, a growing return to, and revival of, some of the older hymns and songs of the earlier days of the Movement, as well as an improvement in the worshipful and prayerful type of our music, with some lessening of the more artistic on the one hand, and the lightly entertaining upon the other.

Am glad to announce some most encouraging signs of development along the Pacific Coast. Before many more sessions may have passed we shall probably have some good news to bring of a rising branch of the Holiness Movement along that border land between our own country and the regions beyond which may tell much for a worldwide extension of the Holiness Movement. I might add that the part of the "National Association" in this great work of the Holiness Movement throughout America can perhaps be considerably augmented whenever our Treasury can be so reimbursed as to warrant a more aggressive and somewhat of a Home Missionary policy in the matter of conventions and evangelistic ventures. At present the Foreign Missionary obligations have prior claim and in deference to this the President has felt that we should confine our call for pledges for the convention work to the conventions themselves and leave the Auxiliary Camps clear for the presentation of the Foreign Missionary interests.

Those Associations which stand related to the "National" as "Auxiliaries" (we think without a single exception) are in a true sense "Auxiliary" and faithful to the support of the work of the National Missionary Society (which latter society as the report of the President will doubtless show has had by far the best and biggest and most eventful year of its history). This has been notably so at Oskaloosa and at Mooers. Some moreover, of these Associations have also seen their way to be practically Auxiliary to the Homeland work of the "National." They have aided in the management and support of Winter Conventions and have through these, contributed somewhat to the General Fund of the Association. They have also opened the way of some of our evangelists to conduct series of holiness revivals within their respective territories.

Much similar aid to the work of the "National" has also come from such camps as "Sychar," "Douglas," "Alexandria," "Eaton Rapids" and others which, while not enrolled as "Auxiliaries" are nevertheless practically so, and several of them like the Auxiliaries themselves, are substantial supporters of the Foreign Missionary Society. The reason for some withholding from entering avowed Auxiliary relations I have not sought to penetrate nor those of some who had released themselves from this relation under a previous administration I have refrained from asking. It is certainly not from any defection as to doctrine nor any cessation of zeal for Holiness Evangelism; and as the most fraternal relations continue to exist between us all we simply bid them Godspeed.

Our policy of maintaining our National Conventions on a self-supporting basis has proved not only eminently successful but eminently satisfactory where such conventions have been held. (We do not know of a single exception to this). This policy has not only been necessitated by the conditions of our Treasury, but has been adopted by us as more in accord with the Spirit's usual economy in the history of our Holiness Evangelism. It has had the effect of reducing the number of such conventions; but at the same time of increasing the openings for evangelists to conduct quite similar meetings on their own initiative. All of the brethren who might have been chosen for a National Squadron have themselves been steadily employed and their meetings have been self-sustaining and greatly blessed of God.

The President has himself entered various doors that could not have been opened for either an A or B Grade of National Convention and none of the "C" Grades have been any draft upon the funds of the "National" other than the usual stipend of the Administration allowance. Besides this present National Assembly at Chicago, "National" Conventions have been held at Plattsburgh, N. Y., Indianapolis, Ind., Providence, R. I., and Grand Rapids, Mich. All of these conventions have been marked by gracious outpourings of the Holy Ghost and some of them with some quite unusual results. They have all been self-supporting and have added some in pledges to the "National" Treasury. Out of one of them has grown a county Association of something like 100 members with plans already for a camp meeting the present season under safe and strong leadership. At another important center a committee appointed by your President is now planning to organize as a County or Area Association. Another has given rise to a stated holiness meeting in the Methodist Church where the convention was held. Correspondence is at present pending for conventions in the near future in Michigan, Canada and Oregon.

In every one of the conventions held we have not lacked for excellent help. Not at all to underestimate the valuable assistance from local and nearby pastors, evangelists and lay workers; nor to overlook the very great asset we have found in that every area has been able to provide us competent and consecrated singers and musicians. I take special pleasure in mentioning the excellent colleagues. I have had at Grand Rapids Brother Miller of the Nazarene Church and Brother John F. Knapp, of Cincinnati. Brother Knapp with ever growing acceptance and effectiveness was also my co-worker at Plattsburgh and at Providence, and at Indianapolis he served for half the time. Here also I was reinforced by the yokefellowship of Brother C. W. Ruth whose labors and fruitfulness are ever more abundant and who nowhere seems more acceptable and beloved than in his own resident city of Indianapolis. The Treasurer's Report will show an available balance of some $2,000.00.

I would be unmindful or ungrateful if I did not here express my genuine appreciation of the most valuable services rendered the work of the "National" by several of our official newspaper organs in their ready and generous publishing given to our work and our announcements. Particularly too, I wish to make mention of the special voluntary and valuable services of Brother Knapp in sending from his office postal card announcements to all such "Revivalist" subscribers as lived within an area of a proposed National Convention. This has been of most manifest and effective service.

Then too, the Association and all this Assembly are, with me, under obligation of highest appreciation of the valuable labor and service of Sister Millie Lawhead as Corresponding Secretary in the work of the year and particularly her arduous labor for this Annual Meeting and Assembly.

Personally, I am much helped by the Secretarial aid to myself as President, of Miss Florence Schleicher who is a coming handmaiden of the Lord in the ministry of holiness. I have not accepted from the Treasury a perquisite adequate to employ the services of a Secretary regularly, seeing much of my written work is not of "National" obligation, but as a work of faith and labor of love without financial compensation, this daughter in the Gospel is easing my task in many of the details of this office and my literary and correspondence work.

In conclusion let me confess my need of, and desire for, a much deeper acquaintance with God and with the things and the ways of the Holy Spirit for the prosecution of this holy work. There is throughout the churches and throughout the Holiness Movement a great need of, and some crying out for an outpouring of the Holy Ghost that will both carry us out farther in the Movement of Holiness and carry us down deeper in holiness itself than ever we have known, and I would in closing this report, sincerely present myself and all the interests of the National Association as subjects of prayer for such a reviving as the obligations and opportunities of this great day present to our lives.

In His love and service,
JOSEPH H. SMITH,
President.

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

REVIVAL REPORT.

The blessing of the Lord was on the revival meeting conducted by the writer in the Christian Union church at Zanesville, Ohio. The pastor, Rev. M. H. Russell, had preparations made for the meeting, and we witnessed a gracious outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Brother Russell led the singing, and put some life into that part of the services. The attendance was good at most of the services, and there were somewhere around forty seekers at the altar, some to be converted and some to be wholly sanctified. They nearly all testified to having received the blessing they were seeking. I received a nice club of Herald subscribers that will help to conserve the results of this good meeting. Bro. Russell and his good wife took care of me in the parsonage during this meeting.

My next meeting was in the United Brethren Church (Old Constitution) near New Philadelphia, O. Rev. Edith Dodge is the pastor. Indifference was our greatest enemy at this place. I do not think I have ever seen a more apathetic or lifeless meeting than this one. The meeting continued for three weeks, but the attendance was small all the way through, and sometimes it was very small. I gave them the Truth as best I could and left the results in the hands of the Lord. A few testified to getting help from the services.

I went from there to another one of Sister Dodge's churches near Strasburg, Ohio. We were handicapped some in this meeting by the bad roads, but in spite of that, the folks were very faithful in coming. The Lord gave us some very gracious services during this meeting. Several seekers came to the altar, but the altar services were pretty hard and dry. Several of the seekers gave good evidence of having come in touch with God, and gave good testimonies. The last night of the meeting I baptized about twelve persons, and the pastor received them into the church. Ten Herald subs in this meeting.

I want to thank all the readers of The Herald for the praying you have been doing for me, and I want you to continue to remember me at the throne of grace. The battle is a hard one, and it must be prayed through. I am ready to go anywhere there are hungry souls wanting help. Blessings on the great Herald family!! F. D. Swanson,

INDIANA MEETINGS.

Since closing our three years pastorate at First Church Indianapolis, Ind., we have had but little time at home. Shortly after the Indiana Assembly we conducted a short revival meeting at Fort Wayne, Ind., with Rev. Morris Himler, Pastor. The meeting lasted but five days but there were some gracious results and during the convention several thousand dollars were raised for the Budget of the Church.

Following this meeting we spent several Sundays in all-day meetings in different churches including Hagerstown, Morristown, Stringtown etc. In January we assisted Rev. M. Crider in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Kirklint, Ind., in a three weeks campaign. This meeting resulted in gracious awakening and some good results. We had a very strenuous time fighting our way through snowdrifts, ice, sleet and fog, driving 70 miles nearly every night in the most extreme weather. In spite of this the attendance continued excellent and we feel that much good was done.

The meeting at New Castle, Ind., in the Church of the Nazarene continued three weeks. This was one of the most remarkable meetings we have labored in for some time. The attendance was such that at all times the house was full and often hundreds were turned away. On the last night of the meeting we had an overflow in the basement Auditorium, Mrs. Lillenas preaching in the main Auditorium, Haldor Lillenas in the Basement with both Auditoriums filled. The meeting resulted in the conversion and sanctification of about 200 persons and a substantial number united with the church.

Rev. Ira Akers, the hustling and aggressive pastor, is doing a most excellent work in New Castle. His ministry is of the constructive type and the church is steadily gaining ground as a result.

We have recently closed another short meeting at Kirklint, and are now engaged at Crawfordsville in a two weeks meeting with Rev. Guy C. McHenry, Pastor. The prospects are good for a fruitful revival. In all of our meetings Mrs. Lillenas is doing the preaching and the writer directing the music. Much of my time is devoted to writing and publishing sacred music in which ministry God has greatly blessed me these past twenty years. To him be all the glory. Breathe a prayer for us when you can find time amid the rush of your busy life to enter into the secret place with the Master.

Haldor and Bertha Lillenas.

REPORT OF EVANGELIST W. W. LOVELESS.

I have engaged in two revivals since my last report through The Pentecostal Herald. My first one was with The Pilgrim Holiness Church in Arcanum, Ohio. Rev. James R. Siders is the efficient pastor of this fine church. My own soul was much enriched as a result of the blessed fellowship I had with these good people and their pastor. The campaign lasted over three weeks, and there were over 56 seekers at the altar, counting them as they come. However the altar services seemed a little hard; although the saints did some wonderful praying. But we had some good cases of salvation. Among the seekers was one old Catholic man. He certainly had a hun-dry heart, and we believe that he found Jesus a satisfying portion. Another revival was going on in the town at the same time; and of course in a small town of 1,200 that divided the crowds. However we had fairly good crowds, and all in all we count it a very good revival.

Our last revival was with God's Holiness Mission, in Columbus, Ohio. Rev. H. C. Henslee is the fine superintendent of this Mission. We had just 60 seekers in the two weeks' campaign, and I feel safe in saying that at least 50 of them prayed through to a good experience. They surely did some hard praying and digging at the altar, and as a result got the answer from heaven. This was my third revival in this Mission in the last three years.

At this writing I am with The Church of The Nazarene in Lake Charles, Louisiana. We are just getting started, but a good spirit prevails; conviction is settling on the people; a few seekers have bowed at the altar, and the outlook is good for an old-fashioned revival.

My slate is filling up for future engagements. However I have a few open dates. So if any one desires my services, I will be glad to hear from you. My home address is London, Ohio. R. F. D. No. 5. W. W. Loveless.

REVIVAL AT WILDWOOD, FLORIDA.

Rev. Paul Redfearn, pastor of the Methodist Church at Wildwood, Fla., on April 10th, began a tent meeting. He was most fortunate in securing Evangelist Harry S. Allen, of Macon, Ga., and his singer, L. J. Derk. From the first service there was great interest manifested. In the last twenty years we have heard among the best preachers of the United States, and we are frank to say we have never heard better preaching than Evangelist Allen does. The secret of the work seems to be that, like the Apostles of old, he lets the Holy Spirit have his way. Sometimes he preaches; sometimes he does not. Like the Welch Revival, we never know what is going to be done. No set program, but everything in order, and without confusion.

Something like one hundred have joined the several churches; there being no distinction between churches, the new members joining the church of their choice. As many, or more, possibly, have been converted. Eternity alone can reveal the good done, for which we are profoundly thankful.

EPWORTH METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Easter Sunday marked the closing day of special evangelistic meetings at EPWORTH METHODIST CHURCH Louisville. Sixty-five cottage prayer meetings were held with a total attendance of 780 during the three weeks' campaign. A religious survey was made of the community, showing that more than 300 people within seven blocks of the church are either a member of a Methodist church elsewhere, or have Methodist preference. More than 100 children give Methodist preference who are not in any Sunday school.

The territory was divided in districts and personal workers assigned to each district with their helpers. Upwards of 500 calls were made, which has resulted in much definite good.

Prof. S. H. Prather of Henderson, Ky., was song evangelist and endeared himself to the people. His leadership with children and young people is sufficient commendation, and mark of his success. The pastor was his own evangelist. Capacity houses were in evidence in many services, and the main auditorium was well filled at most every service. The crowds increased all along.

"Old fashioned" altar services were held most every service, and between fifty and sixty knelt and received pardon of sin, and many testify to a deeper work of grace. Forty have been received into membership, and 48 into membership since conference. Most all come by profession of faith, many of whom are heads of families.

Palm Sunday and Easter morning the Sunday school was turned into an altar service and a large number of the Sunday school students surrendered to Christ. The Epworth League held a six o'clock service on Easter Sunday, at which Rev. Smith, assistant pastor of Trinity church, gave a most inspiring address on Life Service, and upwards of 20 young people offered themselves for service "Wherever, Whatever, Whenever" Jesus shows the way. The main auditorium was well filled at this service, and all present felt the "Easter Spirit" of worship. Dr. L. R. Akers of Asbury College preached to a packed house Sunday evening, April 10.

The former pastor, Rev. J. T. Martin, built better than he knew at Epworth, and the seed sown is now coming to fruitage. Here is one church in South Louisville where the FULL gospel is preached, and people are saved in the old fashioned way.

T. M. Davis, pastor.

EVANGELIZING ON THE COAST.

We have just returned from a five months' evangelistic trip through Washington, Oregon and California. It was the big time of our life. To visit the land of sunshine and flowers and see our good western neighbors was a real joy to us.

On our arrival in Everett, Washington, we were told that we had gotten as far west as we could go. We were glad they did not say as far south as we could go. We soon found that we were in the midst of some fog, cloudy weather and rain but we felt assured that the sun was shining behind the clouds. The Evangelical Church, the Church of the Lighted Tower, was the sphere of our labors there. God gave us a people eager to hear the word who stood for the old-time religion and the faith of our fathers. Rev. W. S. Plowman worked nobly with us. The last night of the services made a wonderful break among the forces of the Sunday School. The church has a great future, while the folks are pressing onward and upward.

Among the many visitors and friends present was Sister V. Florence Lewis, whose home has been known as the Brushwood Station for outgoing and incoming missionaries to unload, rest and refire. It seemed good to be in her home. China and the foreign fields do not seem so far away since we conversed with this saint of God.

Thence forward we went to Portland, Oregon, to meet Dr. C. C. Poling, of the Oregon conference. He is a man of great spiritual vision and stands for holiness. Eugene, Oregon, was our next field of operation, A. W. Curry pastor. He was genial, kind and a man who appreciated our efforts to advance the work of the Lord. We had some seekers, but the bondage was so great that some failed to pray through. Brother Rust did the singing and rendered good service. Eugene has a great future in a good place, in a good city and is one of the important fields of the Oregon Conference.

Adna, Washington, was our next place of meeting. Rev. F. F. McClure proved to be a Spirit-filled man. He was formerly from Indiana and served a pastorate at Everett, Washington. He was wonderfully used of God for the furtherance of the work and the encouragement of the people. The saints were of the good old type and after much personal work had been done and some midnight praying, God opened the windows of heaven and let the sunshine in. We shall never forget this faithful band.

After two days' of rest and visitation at Ilwaco, Wash., with Rev. Robert Broadbooks, we again renewed our energy for a special effort at Vader, with co-operation of Charles Whelchel. Here we had the encouragement of a lot of young people and especially some schoolteachers. With the plans for a school night with some other special occasions we had a very successful closing week. There were some good samples of substantial work done. The next move there will be the erection of a new church which will put tone and moral fiber into the thought life of the people.

Our last Campaign was held at Junction City, Oregon, with the Methodist Church, South, at the McFarlan Chapel, Rev. William Burgoyne, pastor. Here we had a most blessed meeting with an unusual band of self-sacrificing and God-fearing people. This was our first experience with such a people and while they made us feel that we wanted to come again we are on the search for more of their kind. At the close of this itinerary we saw California. Since we were not in line with the regular tourist we passed over some of the big things and places and looked after spiritual things. We did not need to go west to see snow. The pine and fir trees were most beautiful. The thought came to us "what do you want in California?" We felt it was not a leap in the dark, but a step of faith. We were soon made happy to know that we had not gotten into a strange land. It seemed as though we were in God's country. One day we met our Brother Ruth in Pasadena who said to us, "They are all here."

We visited some of the Nazarene and Evangelical churches. The Nazarenes of Pasadena and Los Angeles are surely being used of God. We had the opportunity to preach at Whittier, Cal., for Brother Frank Stevens.

As we looked upon the Circuit Rider statue at Salem, Oregon, and visited the many homes of our friends in that beautiful country, we were made to feel somewhat of the spirit of the old pioneers. What sacrifice they must have endured and what self-denials! We called and visited the homes of the Revs. Boelter, Father Orwig, Clarence W. Hensel, John T. Hatfield, B. S. Taylor, Clarence, Mina and Mother Ranck, of Los Angeles, Rev. F. A. Zeller, of Torrance, Otto Spreng, of Hermosa Beach, E. L. Weatherwax of Long Beach and our brother Bud Robinson at Pasadena. This latter place is most beautiful.

On going to Los Angeles you will not know where the end is. You can say of it "the end is not yet." While we were visiting the various missions of the city and saw the scattered forces that might be harnessed up to the saving of a lost world, it made our heart burn within us. Oh, that God might give us such unity and concentration of purpose to spiritual ends for a gracious revival. We hope that the day for a Godsent religious awakening will soon be here. Yes, when the King of day will illuminate and broaden the rays of light now so dimly shining, not only in dark places, but in the sunlit centers of civilization, trust and responsibility. Yes, that the Day Star might arise in some one's heart, moved by the Holy Ghost to, "Let Go and Let God."

Rev. W. Austin Vandersall.

Note comment of the editor: "The mind is not to be chained. There is to be freedom in education." The sixty-two representatives who voted for a bill preventing the teaching of the theory of evolution in the public schools of the State have no desire to chain the minds of the children. They object to the teaching of an unproven theory as if it were a scientific fact, and they object because it has been found that this teaching has a very strong tendency to destroy faith in the authenticity and trustworthiness of the Holy Scriptures. They have had opportunity to note that belief in the inspiration of the Scriptures, the God and Christ of the Bible, is one of the most powerful influences for the development of good citizenship; citizenship which builds up society and gives impulse and power to all true progress of civilization and brings peace and happiness to mankind.

Infidelity has never proven a power for good. It would do away with the Bible, the church, and all the blessings that come to humanity through faith in the Bible and the influence of the church. That would mean the breaking up of the home, lawlessness, the destruction of life and property. It would turn the wheels of all true progress backward; schools would become centers of unbelief and immorality; credit would fail, weeds would grow between the cross-ties of our great railroad systems, the sails of commerce would flap idly in the wind, property would lose its value, life would be unsafe, wars would break out, our great Republic would fall from its foundation and chaos would reign supreme.

The eighty-two men who voted against the bill have no proper appreciation of the unscientific teaching of evolutionists; the many missing links in the theory that would connect the human race with the animal kingdom. They, by vote, would turn the immature minds of the children over to skeptical teachers with a theory of teaching that destroys faith in the Bible and leads on to a state of doubt that breeds discontent and, in the end, anarchy and strife.

The editor of the above clipping says, "There is to be freedom in education." He is mistaken. There is no freedom in any of the schools to make the Bible a textbook to instill into the minds of the rising generation the essential truths taught in the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, and the profound teaching found in the twelfth chapter of Romans. If the eighty-two citizens in Missouri who voted against the bill had have been well informed on what the theories of evolution are, how unscientific they are, how poorly they have stood the acid test, and the evil effect upon the young mind, developing rebellion against family government, school discipline, and the laws of God and man, they would not have voted as they did. No doubt they strutted about with their heads on high, and in their ignorance believed themselves to be voting for progress in education and the advancement of science, when in fact, they were voting for the teaching of unbelief in the schools and against the Bible, the God who inspired it, and the Christ who reveals it. They, with many others, were sowing to the wind, and as sure as God is true, and his word is true, in time, we must reap the whirlwind.

Our Tent Campaign.

In a very short time the brethren of The Evangelical Methodist League will be out in their tent meetings. Let every member of The League pray earnestly that the Holy Ghost may lead and empower them for their work. Pray daily, that thousands of souls may be converted, reclaimed and sanctified under their ministry this summer.

You Are Wanted For The Gap.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

And I sought for a man that should stand in the gap before Me for the land, that I should not destroy it; but I found none.
Ezek. 22:30.

WE have often heard it said that whenever a man was wanted for a place there was one to be found, but there was a time when the Lord wanted one to stand in the gap, when none could be found.

It seems from the rapid strides that evil is making over the land, that there are wanted men to stand in the gap. We do not believe that it is the purpose of the Lord, that so many hundreds of years should have passed before his gospel should have been sounded over the world. It seemed when the early disciples first started out, with their holy enthusiasm and fervent zeal, the world would soon be won to Christ, but alas, time has borne us on and on until the whole world seems to be in a consternation and an indescribable unrest. In their blindness, they are hungering, longing, seeking, but can't find the door.

We often hear this and that referred to as the need of the times, but there is but one need, and that is Jesus Christ. As William E. Gladstone said, "the greatest question which concerns the human race is the gospel of Jesus Christ." When this human sea of restless multitudes learns the fact that, in him we live, and move, and have our being, it will have found the secret of individual and national happiness.

The great Burden-bearer once looked out upon a care-worn world and said, "Come unto me all ye that are weary and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." They were so blinded by the misty clouds of their perplexities they could not define their needs, so he, the only one who would dare extend such an invitation, bid them come to him as the panacea for all their human and spiritual ills.

How we need men whom the Lord can trust, to stand in the gap of the marching millions of human souls and cry, "This is the way; walk ye in it." Countless thousands of human lives have been thrust out upon the tempestuous sea of life, without chart or compass, who wonder what is the meaning of it all, and what is to be the end of these labyrinthian ways. Oh, that there were heralds of the cross who might stand at the parting of the ways and show the people the way to glory and to God.

The condition of the people in Ezekiel's time, when this language was uttered, was much like it is today, for we read "The people of the land have used oppression, and exercised robbery, and have vexed the poor and needy: yea, they have oppressed the stranger wrongfully." So few were the faithful, that the Lord said he sought for one man who would intercede for the land, but none could be found.

Who are standing in the gap today? Who among us is so in touch with our Lord, that he can trust us to intercede for his oppressed and wronged people? Can he say of us as he did of Job, "Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil?" Are we so established in the grace of God, that the devil can be challenged to test our integrity? or do we fall down under the least trial and chafe beneath the slightest temptation? Let us examine our hearts, look into the secret chambers of our soul and see if the Lord can count upon us, as one whom he can trust to stand in the gap in this day of awful apostasy and infidelity. Can the Lord point us out to the devil as a sample Christian, a monument of his saving and sanctifying power? If not, there are depths we need to fathom, and pains of self-crucifixion we need to endure, and a furnace we need to be held in until the image of our Master is reflected in the metal of our profession. May the Lord give us a holy ambition to be all that his blood can make of a pardoned sinner, that we may be a faithful witness in the gap which lies between the plodding, restless millions as they march toward an eternity—somewhere.

A REMARKABLE PAMPHLET.

EDMOND L. BROWN.

A LAYMAN'S SERMON TO THE PREACHERS.

In the far distant past there was such a thing as the struggle of the soul. Jacob wrestled all the night. Jesus wrestled in Gethsemane and "Peter went out and wept bitterly." But today we have about as completely repudiated it as do the so-called Christian Scientists. Today we are long on the organize, but very short on the agonize.

What are you doing with this specific command of Jesus? In it is involved the life of the church. How poorly is a call to prayer responded to these days, for the reason that our life is not a battle, for we have arrived at the terminal. No battle, we feel no yearning need of prayer. Does your church take this command of Jesus seriously? Or do they consider it optional? Can there be two standards of Christian living? It is my firm conviction that far too many of our church members test their lives by the demands of the civilization in which they live, and the present-day preaching fails to convince them that anything more is required.

The great mission of the church in the world is the cultivation of holiness in the individual heart. You profess to believe in the Holy Catholic church. There can be no Holy Catholic Church without Holy Catholic individuals. You confess your belief in the communion of saints. There can be no such communion unless you cultivate the saints. Where is your emphasis? Is it on being, or doing? Doing should be the fruit of being. If our salvation is through ministering to the wants of our fellowmen, we had better thank God that some of our fellowmen are in temporal want. "Neither by the works of the law shall any flesh be justified."

Once I heard a preacher criticize a layman for being too intense in his religious life. Is the weakness of the church today intensity or complacency? In Holy Writ we are exhorted to be "fervent in spirit" and the Greek word translated "fervent" means "boiling." This reminds me that a prominent Chinese convert asked if all Christians in America had the burning heart. I challenge the genuineness of the "God call" of any man to preach the Gospel of Jesus, who has not the burning heart. There was a time when Jehovah said, "I will make the words I put in thy mouth fire." Is there no sin today? Or has Jehovah changed?

Recently, a young woman rendering some service for a friend of mine was asked where she attended church and, with some apparent embarrassment said: "Not for a long time anywhere, but I suppose I should." After further conversation she reluctantly told of the last time she was at church. She said, "I was in great distress; life hardly seemed worth living. Looking over the church advertisements in a Saturday evening paper, I thought I found a sermon that might have in it something for me, and Sunday morning, I went to hear the sermon. Probably it was a fine address but there was nothing for me."

If there is such a thing as preaching for a reputation, this girl's story from real life, should be a knock-out blow. Over the desk in every preacher's study, would it not be well to frame these words: "He humbled himself and became of no reputation, and took on himself the form of a servant, and was obedient even unto the death of the Cross."

Gentlemen, I want to be helpful, and I suggest that in your consideration of next Sunday's sermon you be guided by this: Suppose you knew you had but a few days to live and next Sunday was to be your last chance to preach. What would be your sermon? This may seem an unfair test, but I offer it for its stimulating effect. In a church in New Jersey where it cannot escape the eye of the preacher are these words, "Sir, we would see Jesus." May your preaching satisfy this longing of the human heart.

This is the day of the questionnaire, and with as much tact as possible, I used one on my own account recently. I asked a number of prominent laymen what would be their answer if they should be asked if they were Christians; and every answer was a quibble.

Should this not disturb our complacency? Paul did not say, "The Lord to whose church I belong, nor whose gospel I preach, nor whose life I imitate," but "The Lord whose I am." May the day soon come when a campaign shall sweep the country with this slogan, "Belonging to the church and belonging to God must mean one and the same." Is this not a very reasonable demand? And is it not imperative that it be made and made now?

What a church that will be! Striving to live the overcoming life. Repenting of everything that is short of the perfect as a sin before God. Seeking to live continually in the fellowship of the living Jesus. All our problems would soon be solved, and the Kingdom of God surely would be at hand. The progress of science with all its seeming contradictions could not disturb us; we could welcome and rejoice in every truth. For experience is reality with which all claims of truth must eventually harmonize or be discredited. Real science eventually leads to truth, but experience is truth.

The claims of the Gospel must be demonstrated by living witnesses, for no amount of logic can prove its claims, for the Gospel is experimental. A case of "Taste and See." "Try me, saith the Lord." Let an "Andrew" of today declare to his brother that he has found the Messiah, and a Philip tell some Nathanael that he has found the Christ, and no evolutionary of Creation or alleged mistakes of Moses can be a serious permanent diverting interest. For as the Greeks of old would see Jesus, the world today hungers for the fellowship of the personal living God. Jesus revealed the Father. We are to reveal the Redeemer. Philip said to Jesus, "Show us the Father," and our neighbors are saying to each of us, "Sir, we would see Jesus." The mission of the church in the world is primarily to make real the Christ-promised Comforter to the individual.

In the great book stores of New York City, there are piled high by the ton, so-called religious books of very many kinds, and the great demand and sale of these books are very expressive of the condition as seen by Dr. Andrew Gillies: "Humanity dying for the lack of a living faith, nervously sick, mentally befogged, and morally adrift, because it is spiritually bereft." This reveals the yearning of humanity to find some solution of the great problem of life and it would not exist if we had not failed to make real to the individual the fellowship of the living God. Today we still have the record of the exemplary life of Jesus and of his miraculous healing and of the precepts he taught, but as for the person of Jesus himself, what was an illusion on that first Easter morning, has now become a reality, "for they have taken away our Lord and we know not where they have laid him."

the heart or mind also means that something comes in that shuts God out. Everyone of us has a door that we can shut against him. A man said once, "I have not been able for years to pray and praise God as I once did." The truth was that his father had died and the two brothers had quarreled over the father's will. They lived and died without setting the matter right. A little sin will shut out the grace of God. It need not be much; some people might not call it a sin, but you know what it is that comes up between you and God when you pray. You perhaps have heard the story of the man who was seeking God for his blessing. Finally he broke out, "Yes, Lord, let the codfish go." He and some others were trying to get a corner on the codfish market, and the poor would suffer, but he said, "I had rather lose all the codfish in the Atlantic Ocean than lose the blessing of God." There will be things that you cannot do that numbers of good people will engage in, but the glory of God and the power of the Holy Spirit sweeping through your soul will be worth every sacrifice. A man of wealth who had spent years accumulating a fortune said, "You think I am a successful man, but I would give every cent I had if I could pray like I did when I was sixteen years old." He had sold his birthright for a mess of pottage.

In the 22nd verse, God says, "Return ye backslidden children, and I will heal your backsliding." You say, "That man went to the theater and backslid." He backslid before he ever went to the theater. I want to give just this one personal experience. I think it is Joseph Smith who says, "Men seldom fall at their weakest points, for they guard these points." There was one thing I used to pride myself upon and that was my disregard for money. Money seemed not to have any attraction for me. But the time came when I was intrigued by a scheme for making money. My daily food was neglected. My thought and attention were all taken up on how to make a success in this money-making scheme. There came a letting-down in my obedience to God. I was willing to compromise. But God's Spirit was faithful to me. I would lie awake at night planning how I was to get money out of this scheme. One night about the midnight hour, my thoughts were deeply engrossed with my money-making plan when suddenly I became conscious that I was sinking between two walls. They pressed closer and closer. I looked up and saw Jesus; saw his nail-pierced hand. I thought, "It is not yet too late," and God so spoke to me and influenced my heart, that I said to myself, "I'm going to close out this business. If I continue in it, I am going to lose my soul."

They tell me that in one of the Assembly Halls at West Point there are tablets all around the wall. These tablets have been placed there to commemorate our great military heroes and other great heroes of the past. There is one tablet in the midst of them which is perfectly blank, and if you ask why it is there and what it represents, you are told that it was erected to the memory of Benedict Arnold. It is, in fact, the tablet that is erected to a traitor. His name might have been that of a great man. But now he is only remembered as the man who sold his country. It will be a terrible day in which the Book of Life will be opened, if the place you might have had in it will only be blank for all eternity. God says to the one who has been wandering away, to the one who turned traitor, to the one who has become a friend to his enemies, "Return ye backsliding children, and I will heal your backsliding."

The Shining Path.

The life of the Christian is like a trail winding up the side of a great mountain, the end of the trail being at the summit. The mountain is high, majestic, beautiful. The trail is narrow, rugged, steep, toilsome. Egyptian darkness—the darkness of this world—lies all about like a great pall, being sometimes "felt" by the travelers up the narrow path.

But Jesus, the Light of the world, is at the summit of the mountain, at the end of the journey. He is looking down the rugged path: He sees every traveler thereon, he knows all his difficulties, conflicts and griefs. The way is rugged, still it is a bright way, for it is lightened with the light of the Master's protecting presence. That light shines down along the pathway, dispelling the gloom and blackness for those who will walk in the middle-of-the-way of God's will.

As the traveler approaches nearer and nearer the end of his pilgrimage, the heavenly glory grows brighter and brighter, the Light of life more and more real. Finally, when he shall round the last curve and arrive at his destination, his eternal home, he shall see Jesus, the King, face to face, in all his glory and majesty. Then he, with millions who had preceded him, shall look upon him who dwells in the light that no man can approach unto, and praise him, and dwell in his wonderful light throughout all eternity. Truly, "the path of the just is as the shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

The Living Dead.

It has been said and often said,
A man still lives when he is dead.
He passes to another state
But still remains with those who wait—
That is, The memory of his ways
Affects the lives through all their days,
Of few or many—if just one—
Live carefully! I have a son!

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dear Aunt Bettie: Would you let me join your happy band of boys and girls? I thank God I am on the right road. Christian friends, don't let any one lead you into sin. Take Jesus for your Savior and follow him, for he will guide you. I like to read page ten. My brother takes The Herald. I go to Sunday school nearly every Sunday. Our pastor of Hutchison Church is Rev. A. T. Puntney. He is a good preacher. We have prayer meeting every Wednesday night. I want to see my letter in print.
Edna Hay,
Rt. 1, Hutchison, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Please move over and let a Kentucky girl join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my first letter to The Herald so please put it in print. I enjoy reading Page Ten. My mother and father take The Herald. I am fourteen years of age, have dark hair and fair complexion. I was saved a year ago under Rev. Benis A. Carnes. He is a fine preacher. I belong to the Methodist Church. Rev. J. F. Moore is our pastor. Doris Whetstone, "Jesus wept" is the shortest verse in the Bible.
Geneva Comley,
Rt. 3, Nicholasville, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Have you all forgotten me? Cousins, I want you one and all, to send me your picture. Those who send one shall get one in return. My favorite flower is the tulip. My authors are Zane Grey and Ernest Lynn. Kentucky boys and girls, wake up, do not let the others beat us. You all know we have the nerve to write if we only will. Maurine Downard, why did you quit writing to me? Please write for I certainly do enjoy your letters. Kentucky people wake up, don't all together fall asleep. With love and best wishes for the year.
A Cousin,
Minnie Perkins,
Perkins, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: It has been quite a long time since I wrote. Which of you cousins think that David is the greatest biblical hero of the Bible? I am fixing to go to the Epworth League so I will have to finish my letter when I come back. Georgia boys and girls, wake up, most of the letters are coming from other states. I go to Gray School and I am in the seventh grade. We are fixing for a play at our school. Who has my birthday, May 15? I am going to let you guess my age, between eleven and fourteen. My favorite flower is chrysanthemum and my favorite poet is Sidney Lanier. Mabel Fugate, I guess your second name to be Lillian. Aunt Bettie, I saw in The Herald where you could sell six Scripture Text Calendars and get a Bible free. I think I will try to get one. I surely enjoy reading The Herald, especially page ten. Ruth Richardson, I guess your middle name to be Eugina. I am longing to see your picture so I hope I have guessed right.
Martha M. Graham,
Rt. 2, Gray, Ga.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I have just been reading some of the good letters and articles of The Herald. I always enjoy reading and feel uplifted after reading it and especially do I like the Editor's writings. A few weeks ago Dr. Ray, a blind preacher, spoke at the Baptist Church here. He has two degrees and most of his education was attained by his own efforts, his father and mother both dying when he was quite young. As there were no universities or colleges for the blind, he hired students to read his lessons for him at night and then he recited them from memory. I was made to think how very, very few are the people who, being placed in the same position, would do as he did and accomplish what he has. How wonderful is his faith and trust in God. He does not complain at all, but leaves all to the will of God and knows that he has a purpose and that he knows best in everything. I am a member of the M. E. Church, South. Rev. Swilling is our pastor. We all think a great deal of him. Here are a few lines of poetry I composed.

If you have said one kind word,
Or done one noble deed;
Have helped to lighten someone's load,
Or helped some soul in need;
If you have helped to comfort some bleeding, breaking heart;
Or lift some poor, lost soul out of the dark;
If you have sacrificed one pleasure for the happiness of another,
Or helped to rescue some shipwrecked brother,
At the eventide of your life you can safely say,
My life has not been in vain.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let me join your happy band of boys and girls? I have never written to The Herald before and I hope to see this letter in print. I am a girl five feet and three inches tall. I have wavy hair and blue eyes. I will be fifteen May 7. I have been saved and cleansed by the precious blood of Jesus. Some day I hope to meet you all on the other shore. I will be glad to hear from any of you.

Ethel Mae Stone,
Meehan, Miss.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I am a boy eleven years old and in the fifth grade. I belong to the U. B. Church, and I try to live as our Savior Jesus would have me to live. I am an orphan, but I stay with my aunt. She is a song evangelist. Maybe you know her, Pearl Wilcox. To be sure we take the good old Pentecostal Herald. I have a sister thirteen years old. When I grow up I wish to be a preacher and get more souls brought into the kingdom of God. I was born in Columbus, in 1916. I have heard many things about Camp Sychar, and my aunt is going to take my sister and me there next summer. I live in the Muskingum Valley and the Muskingum River flows right back of our house.

When I was only ten years old,
I gave my heart to him,
And I am glad that I was told,
He'd save me from all sin.
And when I grow to be a man,
I want to preach and sing,
For I believe it is God's plan,
If souls to him I bring.
So cousins, let us watch and pray,
And to the Lord be true,
Then in some glorious future day,
We'll meet beyond the blue.
Freddie Wilcox,
Box 164, Stockport, O.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a boy from Ohio join your band of happy boys and girls? I am fourteen years old, have light brown hair, blue eyes and weigh 105 pounds. I have two sisters and one brother. My mother died six years ago. I have been in bed for the past five weeks with a broken leg. I am now up again on crutches. I had been going to school in Butler, four miles from here; am a Freshman in High School. I will not be able to go to school again for a week or two. I go to Sunday school every Sunday I can. I hadn't missed a Sunday all summer until I got my leg broke. My father takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. I would be glad to hear from any of the cousins and will try to answer all their letters.
Paul Forst,
Rt. 2, Butler, Ohio.

Dear Aunt Bettie. Will you allow me room in your pleasant corner to thank the kind friends who have sent me messages of comfort and cheer? A short time ago I wrote a letter to The Herald requesting the Christians to pray that I might be healed of T. B., and also that I would be glad to get messages of comfort. I have received a great many letters, cards and lots of tracts, papers and other things. It is impossible for me to answer them all. So with Aunt Bettie's permission I will answer through the paper. Dear Christian friends, I want to thank you all for the comforting messages and the tokens of love you have sent me. They have encouraged my heart, inspired my faith and helped to lighten my burdens.

Praise God from whom all blessings flow. Praise him for the dear ones who are praying for me, and sympathizing with me. I love you all as sisters and brothers in Christ and I am praying that he will bless you all. I feel sure that our Father touched their hearts to send them for he knows my every need. I want to especially thank the crippled boy who sent me a copy of Holy Ann. It is wonderful! I also want to thank the sister who sent a copy of "The Prayer of Faith", and the one who sent a copy of the "Nightingale of the Psalms." My husband read the latter to me last night and I wept and rejoiced and could scarcely refrain from shouting aloud while he read. I think it is just simply grand and I wish everybody could read it. I must thank the dear sister who gave me a year's subscription to the Full Gospel Advocate. God bless the little girls and dear old Mother Hustley who wrote such a dear letter to me. I wish I could meet you all face to face, and I hope we will all meet around the great white throne, and I am sure we will be no strangers there. Keep praying that God will send a Holy Ghost revival to our little church and that my dear companion will be sanctified. Much love to all The Herald family.

Mrs. J. W. Poynter,
Rt. 4, Cave City, Ky.

Dear Aunt Bettie: It has been quite a while since I have written to The Herald so I thought I would write again. I am graduating from the eighth grade this year. I hope to go to high school next year. We have a Junior and Primary Department in our Sunday School. Last Sunday this Department gave a program in the place of preaching service in our church. Our pastor's wife, Mrs. Hayes, is our superintendent and she gave us children a fine talk. Thomas Chandler and I were on the program for a vocal duet. We have an attendance of near forty-five in our Department. When I read a letter from Orange, Cal., in The Herald, I wished I might have been there to eat some of the nice oranges they told about. I sure love oranges and English walnuts.
Carroll Dockendorff, Danville, Iowa.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a Kansas girl join in your happy band of boys and girls? I like to read The Herald, especially page ten. I am a Christian and belong to the Friends Church. Our church is in the country; we have from 80 to a 100 at Sunday school. We have seven Sunday school teachers. Mrs. Hanson is my teacher. Cora Gregory is our pastor and we all like her fine. We had a fine revival meeting this winter. Sylvia Frazier was the evangelist. I will be eleven years old July 7. I am in the fifth grade. I ride a Shetland pony to school. Velma Munger is my teacher. We went in a car from Kansas to Kentucky to celebrate my father's parents' golden wedding. We camped along the road.

Irene Ballard,
Box 66, Rt. A, Plains, Kan.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Spring has arrived with the singing of birds and blooming flowers. How we enjoy these blessings sent by our Heavenly Father, to cheer the hearts of his children. They remind us of his great love for a lost world. It is so sweet to steal away with him in the early hours of the evening, away from the rush of life, there to talk with him in prayer. Friends, let us in our imagination, wander back to the crucifixion of Jesus, and if possible, realize the suffering of that hour as Jesus waited in Pilate's Judgment hall. How he endured the pain and agony, that you and I might be saved from eternal Hell, that we might enjoy with him the blessings of his Father in that celestial city. Jesus was on trial in Pilate's judgment hall at that time, but today he is on trial in the human heart. What do you say? Give us Barabbas or Jesus? worldly pleasure, or a life of service for our Master? You remember the character of the two—yet they said crucify Jesus and release unto us Barabbas; just so today, give us pleasure, regardless of the cost. There is coming a day when we will be on trial, and he will be our Judge. God warns us thirty-two times in the New Testament of the danger of neglecting or rejecting salvation. "How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation?" My friend, how will you answer this question? Eph. 2:12 tells us that without Christ we are aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenant of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world; while the 19th verse of the same chapter tells us that with Christ we're no longer strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints and of the household of God. Be ye therefore ready, for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh. As you live so will you die.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Won't you please move over and let me into your sunshine corner? I am a constant reader of The Herald and think it is a very fine paper. I live on a farm three miles from town. I like farm life very much. I have light hair, blue eyes, light complexion, and am five feet and four inches tall. I go to school and am in the seventh grade. My teacher is Miss May Alice Yoder. My birthday is Jan. 4. Have I a twin? I have three sisters and three brothers. My oldest sister is married and has a little baby girl. She sure is sweet. I am thirteen years old. I am a Christian and go to the Presbyterian Church. How many of the cousins know how to use the Bible so it will mean much to you?

When in sorrow, read John 14.
When you have sinned, read Psa. 51.
When men fail you, read Psa. 27.
When you worry, read Matt. 6:19-34.

Before church services, read Psa. 84.
When you are in danger, read Psalm 91.

When God seems far away, read Psalm 139.

When you forget your blessings, read Psalm 103.

Why not follow Psalm 119:11 and hide some of these in your memory?

FALLEN ASLEEP

MOORE.

The people of the Dermont vicinity were greatly shocked by the sudden death of Miss Margaret Moore, May 6, age 44 years. Miss Moore was a splendid type of consecrated Christian womanhood, and was greatly beloved and highly respected by all who knew her. She will be missed because of her sweet singing and effectual, fervent prayers. Miss Moore professed religion when 15 years of age, and later united with the M. E. Church at Waitman, Ky. She was sanctified a few years later and lived a holy life.

The funeral was held at Macedonia Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. Jagers, pastor of Mt. Zion M. E. Church, and Rev. J. K. Moore, under whose preaching she was converted. She is survived by her father, mother, two brothers and one sister. She was buried in Rose Hill cemetery.

"We may not gain so much of wealth, But what is better far, Is just to know our conscience clear, When we shall cross the bar."

Her sister,

Elizabeth Moore.

CARLTON.

Mrs. Martha A. Carlton was born in Berrian Co., Ga., Feb. 18, 1858. Her parents were George Anson and Adeline Peeples. The family moved to Polk County, Fla., in 1877. She was married to Rev. J. B. Carlton, Jan. 26, 1879. She passed to her heavenly home, May 4, 1927.

She was the mother of eleven children, two sons and nine daughters. One girl died in early childhood; the others survive her decease and mourn their loss.

Mother Carlton, known among the younger people of the community, as "Aunt Mattie", was converted and united with the Methodist Church, South, in Milltown, Ga., in 1874; received the blessing of entire sanctification in the spring of 1887; and, throughout her long life, was a devoted and consistent follower of Christ. In each sphere of life, she demonstrated daily a constant, abiding faith and a consecrated Christian conduct. Starting in pioneer days in that part of Florida, she endured many privations, in the midst of which she manifested the true spirit of Christ and was ever found faithful. In every condition, she stood loyally by the side of her husband, aiding him in his efforts to build a home and support their family. In his work as a local preacher, she was a true helper, assisting him in conduct of revivals and in winning souls for Christ. She was gifted in prayer, and sang the hymns of the Church with unction from on high.

In the home, among their children, she was a tender, affectionate mother, firm in discipline, careful in her teaching, striving to rear them in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Daily, she took them to God in prayer, imploring his guidance and help, and his protection and blessing upon them. Often has the writer heard her pray for them by name around the family altar.

Mother Carlton firmly believed the Bible and appropriated the gracious promises found therein to herself. She definitely sought and received the experience of entire sanctification; and, for forty years, lived and exemplified that manner expected of those who enjoy this high privilege. In her heart lurked no doubts of the reality of salvation through faith in Christ. To her, Jesus was a living, reigning, abiding Savior who understood and supplied her every need; a Savior who fully satisfied each longing of her soul. She expected him to return to earth again, to take his own people shouting home to glory to be with him forever. In this confidence, she accepted whatever came as his will, sweetly acquiesced in all his plans, having gladly surrendered herself and her all to him, without reservations.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. M. H. Norton, presiding elder of the Bartow District, and Rev. J. L. Bourn, her pastor. In the midst of a large concourse of relatives and friends, her body was laid to rest in the Bowling Green cemetery to await the call of Christ at his second coming, when she will arise in the first resurrection, to that glorified life which Jesus has promised to those who love and follow him.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER.

E. G.: "Please to pray that I may be baptized with the Holy Spirit; also be healed, if it is the Lord's will."

H. H. H.: "Please to pray for a revival to come to Poplar Bluff, Mo. It has suffered so terribly from tornadoes that it is in a fearful condition."

L. M. P.: "Please to pray for my brother that he may be healed soul and and body."

Mother: "Please to pray that my son-in-law may be contented to remain in his present position, and that he may secure employment for the summer, as his school is out."

A HEALING TESTIMONY Raymond Browning.

Recently came a letter from one of our friends asking about the health of our boy. She knew the lad when he was grievously afflicted and had prayed much for him and was wondering about his condition at present. Before answering this good woman's letter it occurred to me that many others who had prayed for the lad would be interested in knowing the story of his healing which is nothing short of a miracle and will be told for the glory of God and the encouragement of those who believe in the power of prayer.

Our oldest child and only son was as strong and healthful as we could wish until he was past seven years of age but while I was away from home on a two months evangelistic tour the trouble came. All of a sudden he was stricken with what is known to medical science as Jacksonian epilepsy. It began with light spells affecting his speech and his facial muscles but soon it increased in intensity until the spells became violent and he was having as many as three a day. We took him to the osteopaths, physicians, nerve specialists, and others but no relief came. The prospect of having our only son thus afflicted was so terrible that for awhile it seemed to me that it would have been easier to have buried the child than to see him incurably epileptic. Finally the doctors told me that there is no cure for epilepsy. They prescribed some medicine but when I found that it contained a large per cent of chloral the effect of which on the nerves is described as being "hurtful and deplorable" I refused to give the medicine to the child. My wife wept and said "Ray, what are you going to do?" I said "We haven't followed all the directions yet and we are going to follow prayer. That day is indelibly stamped in my memory. That was one of the times in my life when I really gripped the horns of the altar. I climbed the mountain back of our home and threw myself on the moss under the trees and wept before the Lord. At length the tears dried on my cheeks and there came a sense of peace. I went back to the house and said to my wife "Mollie, I don't understand it exactly but while I was on the mountain praying I felt the burden lifted and I couldn't be sad any more." She said "While you were gone I was in my room praying and the same thing happened to me. I just feel that the Lord is answering our prayer." In the evening some friends came whom we had invited

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

Books—lighthouses erected in the great sea of time.—Whipple.

Fox's Book of Martyrs, Edited by Wm. B. Forbush. $1.50.

This book has been popular for over three hundred years as a book of references and illustrations for Christian workers. It tells of some of the most thrilling periods in Christian history. Dodds said, "After the Bible itself, no book so profoundly influenced early Protestant sentiment as the Book of Martyrs. Even in our own time it is still a living force. It is more than a record of persecution. It is an arsenal of romance, as well as a source of edification."

Mr. Fox was born in 1517. He lived during the halcyon days of the latter part of the reign of Henry VIII., of Edward VI. and during the persecutions under "Bloody Mary." This gave him first-hand information about many incidents of which he writes; and he himself underwent severe persecution. He was well educated and his interest in such matters gave him opportunity to write this splendid book.

He gives such incidents as the following: The history of the deaths of the Apostles; the persecutions under Nero; the Papal persecutions, and among these he gives the story of the Massacres of Saint Bartholomew; an account of the inquisition; the lives and persecutions of such men as Wycliffe, Jerome, Huss, Martin Luther, William Tyndale, John Calvin, John Bunyan and John Wesley.

This is really a marvelous book. It contains much valuable historic information that one can hardly find elsewhere. It would make a valuable addition to any library. It sells for $1.50. It is beautifully and substantially bound.

Sermons on Old Testament Characters, by Clovis G. Chappell, D.D. $1.60.

This is a series of seventeen sermons written by one of the most popular pastors in the M. E. Church, South. His sermons have proven to be very widely read. This book is now in its second edition.

Some of the most interesting and suggestive of these messages are: "The Volunteer—Isa'ah"; "In His Place—Ezekiel"; "The Mayor's Wife—Lot's Wife"; "The Angelic Devil—Balaam"; "The Self-Made Fool—Saul"; "The Dry Brook—Eli'ah."

Dr. Chappell has an interesting style. His sentences are at times terse; at other times flowing with eloquence. He numbers and names the points of his sermons. This makes it easy to follow his thought. There are many apt quotations of prose and poetry that lend charm to the book.

Bible Truths Illustrated, by J. C. F. Pittman. $1.75.

This book of illustrations has a unique arrangement. The author has listed the subjects alphabetically beginning with "Affliction" and ending with "zeal." He gives a brief introductory note on the subject with a few Bible texts, and then lists a number of illustrations bearing on that subject.

There are eighty-eight subjects treated. There are about 900 illustrations given. Some of the subjects listed are: Affliction, Amusements, Backsliding, Consecration, The Second Coming, Death, Faith, God, Miracles, Prayer, Temptation, Zeal. The author is Calvinistic in his teaching, and to my mind mars some of his best subjects; but regardless of this, there is much material in this book that is of value to the Christian worker.

In giving the illustrations, the names of the parties concerned are used; that is, if John Wesley told the incident, his name is appended, etc. This makes the illustrations more valuable. Most any preacher can put this book to good use.

Must We Sin? by Rev. Howard W. Sweeten. $1.25.

This is a timely discussion of an interesting subject. In such days as the present, this question needs careful consideration. It is a problem that is as old as the race, and one that has been lightly considered by thousands.

The author takes up the question from various standpoints. He considers the origin of sin; the nature of it; sins vs. mistakes; temptation vs. sins; must we sin? what saith the Lord? and ends the treatise with a discussion of the consequences of sin. For one just converted, or recently sanctified, this book will prove a blessing. It is written in a plain, convincing style. Here and there a point is clinched with an apt illustration. The chapter dealing with sins and mistakes is worth the price of the book.

The book is bound in green cloth with gold titles, has eight chapters and 180 pages. It has had a large sale.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

to pray with us and then we followed the simple directions given in James 5:14—"Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord." We explained to the little fellow what it was all about and then he knelt down by his little chair and we put the anointing oil upon his head and laid hands on him and prayed for his recovery. He had one violent spell a few days later and then a few light ones and then the affliction vanished and never returned. More than six years have passed and he is now strong and healthful. Some day when I have gone from this vale of tears I hope that he will stand in a pulpit somewhere and say "Friends, years ago when I was a child I was afflicted with what science calls an incurable disease but my father and mother believed in prayer and in God and in his word. They prayed for me and anointed me with oil which is one of the symbols of the Holy Ghost and God heard and answered and gave me health and strength to use for his glory."

A FRESH CONTRIBUTION YOU WILL WANT TO READ MODERNISM!

What It Is

What It Does

Whence It Came

Its Relation to Evolution

BY J. M. STANFIELD

With an Introduction by Leander S. Keyser, A.M., D.D.

The author of this book has done a splendid work. Although a number of good books on Modernism and Evolution have recently appeared, Mr. Stanfield's book has merits of its own and presents the subject in an original way. The book is written in a kindly spirit and opponents are treated fairly. It should be widely read, as it is a clear statement of what Modernism really is. 217 pages. Net, $1.50; postpaid, $1.65. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson XI.—June 12, 1927.

Subject.—Peter Delivered from Prison. Acts 12:1-17.

Golden Text.—Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the Lord delivereth him out of them all. Psa. 34:19.

Time.—A. D. 44.

Place.—Jerusalem.

Introduction.—In our last lesson, we left Peter at Caesarea. After the outpouring of the Holy Ghost upon the household of Cornelius, they besought him to tarry with them certain days. How long he tarried there we do not know; but it was only a short time till the news of the gift of the Holy Spirit upon Cornelius and his household at Caesarea reached the ears of the brethren in the church in Jerusalem; and Peter went up to explain the matter. Their Jewish prejudices were at the front, and they were ready with an accusation: "Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, and didst eat with them." That looks very little to us; but to them it was an awful thing. Peter had broken caste, thereby bringing disgrace upon himself and his people. India can furnish a parallel. One would hardly expect such a thing in America; but we have it. While holding meetings in the far North and in Canada, the writer has sometimes sat at the same table with Negroes; but upon returning to the far South, he has found it needful to say little about it, lest he should be marked as polluted. Race prejudice is very strong in the human family; but caste prejudice is possibly still stronger.

Peter explained his conduct at the meeting in the home of Cornelius; and the Jerusalem brethren seemed to be fairly well satisfied. No doubt some of the ultra Jewish ones felt just a bit hurt about the matter; but as the leading brethren accepted the explanation, they were forced to acquiesce, at least, for the time being.

At this juncture we lose sight of our hero, and he does not appear again till we come to the 12th chapter. Where he went we do not know. Some Roman Catholic writers have claimed that he went to Rome and established a church in that city; but the entire fabrication falls to the ground for want of evidence. Dr. Adam Clarke gives a remarkable quotation from the Codex Bezae where the second verse of this chapter begins thus: "Now Peter had a desire for a considerable time to go to Jerusalem: and having spoken to the brethren, and confirmed them, speaking largely, he taught them through the countries, and as he met them, he spoke to them of the grace of God. But they who were of the circumcision, disputed with him." This may turn some light on the subject, as these things appear, in the opinion of the writer, to have taken place while he was making his way to Jerusalem by a circuitous route, possibly to avoid trouble with the authorities, and to make good use of all opportunities for preaching the Gospel to the people.

Peter was destined to get into trouble, for Herod was king, and he was a bad character—a blood-thirsty monster. "This was Herod Agrippa, the son of Aristobolus, and grandson of Herod the Great; he was a nephew to Herod Antipas who beheaded John the Baptist, and brother to Herodias."

If ever a man had a right by inheritance to be a devil incarnate, he had it. He must have been born with the heart of a beast, which nature had grown upon him as the years had passed over him. This villain had decided "to vex certain of the church"; so he beheaded James the brother of John. The Jews were immensely pleased; and he decided to please them further by killing Peter also; wherefore he was cast into prison, Herod expecting to bring him before the rabble and behead him after the days of unleavened bread—after the pass-over had been celebrated. The word Easter here is wrong. It was copied from earlier Anglo-Saxon versions of the New Testament, and is misleading. The early Christians kept no such feast as Easter. This brings us to our lesson proper.

Comments on the Lesson.

5. Prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him.—The word translated without ceasing defies our English speech. It has a sort of threefold significance: Earnestness, fervor and perseverance. God used the power of those prayers to deliver Peter from the hands of Herod. He would do many great things now, if we would furnish the prayer power.

6. Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains.—That was a Roman regulation. Four quaternions of soldiers (16 men) kept Peter, four of them being on guard at a time. It is rather ridiculous to think that it required sixteen men to keep one little Jew from escaping from a Roman prison, and that he had to be chained to two of them at the same time.

7. The angel of the Lord came upon him.—Came to him would be a bit better. A light shined in the prison.—Some would say, "A supernatural light." Supernatural to us, but natural to the angel. He smote Peter on the side.—This was to arouse him from sleep. While no time is lost, there is perfectly good order in the whole proceeding. When Peter rose up quickly at the command of the angel, his chains immediately fell off. Locks meant nothing to God's messenger.

8. This verse should possibly have been a continuation of the preceding verse. It simply continues Peter's preparation for leaving the jail. He had removed his girdle, slipped off his sandals, and laid aside his cloak, in order that he might rest more comfortably; and it was necessary that these should be replaced before leaving the room. Follow me.—The angel would lead the way, but Peter must obey orders. So God deals with us.

9. Thought he saw a vision.—Peter seems a bit dazed. He could not understand his miraculous deliverance; but he followed the angel guide.

10. They came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city.—This verse is somewhat obscure. If it be true that ancient Jerusalem was surrounded by three walls, the matter is clear enough, the iron gate that opened by its own accord (by the influence of the angel) being in the inner wall, and the prison outside the outer wall. Or it may be, that the prison itself was surrounded by three walls. Passed through one street.—Crossed one street.—Fortwith the angel departed

The Sermon on The Mount

BY

WILLIAM DAVID GRAY, A.M., Ph.D.,
The "Straight Edge Preacher."

This is a book of 21 sermons on the fifth and sixth and seventh chapters of Matthew. The sermons are expository and practical and devotional. The book was written while the author was pastor in Wichita, Kansas. The Wichita Eagle, reviewing the last chapter of this book said: "The Sermon on the Mount by William David Gray has set the Evolution pot to boiling in Wichita."

The author says, in this book: "The Sermon on the Mount, by the Great Teacher, is the basis of all New Testament teaching."

Again he says: "Christ's Sermon on the Mount is the fountain of all true theological life."

On page 61 of this book, the author says: "The four great cardinal doctrines in the Sermon On The Mount are the Fatherhood of God, the Deity of Jesus Christ, the Inspiration of the Bible and the Personality of the Holy Ghost."

The book also contains a number of poems that bring a message of life and stir the soul.

The last chapter is devoted to the Evolution controversy. The author is a fundamentalist and stands four-square for the doctrines of the Bible and of the Church.

The price of the Sermon on the Mount has been $1.50, but is now being offered at the very low price of ONE DOLLAR.

from him.—Angels come when they are needed, and stay till we can help ourselves. It makes one stronger to walk alone.

11. When Peter was come to himself.—When he recovered from his dazed condition. I know.—Doubts as to what had happened were gone, leaving him satisfied that an angel of God had delivered him from the "hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews." They were eager for his blood, but lost their prey.

12. He came to the house of Mary the mother of John, whose surname was Mark.—This was the same John Mark who started with Paul and Barnabas on their first missionary journey. He wrote the Gospel of Mark. Where many were gathered together praying.—We judge that this home was somewhat after the order of Phoebe Palmer's home where the saints used to gather for seasons of prayer. We need many such.

13. Peter knocked at the door of the gate.—Knocked against the door that closed the opening in the wall. This was the door to the outer court, or open space before the house. Rhoda.—Her name means a rose. It was given to her according to the custom of her people to name their girls after beautiful flowers. She went to answer Peter's call, but was so full of joy when she recognized his voice, that she forgot to open the door, but ran back to tell the friends that Peter was at the gate.

15. Thou art mad.—That reminds one of the old woman who asked God to remove a mountain that obstructed the view from her front door. She arose the next morning, and looked at the mountain still standing there, and exclaimed: "Yes; there you are, just as I expected." Do we expect God to answer when we pray? Not very often. Shame on us for our doubts. It is his angel.—They may have meant his guardian angel, for that was in accord with Jewish beliefs; or they may have meant his spirit, thinking that he had already been killed.

16. But Peter continued knocking.—Blessed is the man who keeps on knocking; for the gate shall surely be opened unto him in due time. But when they saw Peter, they were astonished. The same old doubting. Had his body been brought in minus the head, they might not have been astonished. But, thank God, he answered their prayers for Peter, even if they did doubt.

17. This verse gives us to understand that Peter made a short explanatory speech about his deliverance. But he did not forget to send word to James and the other brethren that he was out of prison. Then he hid out somewhere.

One lesson we must learn: Peter neither claimed nor exercised any sort of supremacy over the Church in his day. All this idea that he was selected by the Lord Jesus to be the first pope is pure foolishness. There is not one word in Scripture to prove a syllable of it. It is purely a Roman Catholic invention without a semblance of truth in it. It would be laughable, were the matter not believed by such multitudes who have been deceived into believing it to be the truth. From all such nonsense, good Lord, deliver us and our American people.

EVANGELISTIC AND PERSONAL.

Rev. G. W. Ridout has an available date for a camp meeting or church revival. He may be addressed, Wilmore, Ky.

Rev. Will Hill, 316 Candler St., Atlanta, Ga., has an open date, June 6-20, that he would be glad to give to some pastor or camp meeting in the Carolinas or Virginia. Brother Hill is highly recommended by those whom he has assisted in meetings.

Rev. S. E. McCreless, 419 Peck Ave., San Antonio, Texas, is available for calls as preacher, song leader, young people's worker, and personal worker, during the summer months. Brother McCreless is an Asbury young man, full of the Holy Spirit and zealous for souls. We would that parties in Texas, especially, would secure this young man for their revival meetings.

Rev. Herbert J. McNeese, 634 13th Ave., New Brighton, Pa., is open for calls anywhere his services may be needed.

G. W. Wright: "We have closed a great revival in the M. E. Church at Evarts, Ky., in which many were saved and a few sanctified. I took a fine class of fourteen into the church. Many began to pray in public and a number of family altars were set up. Rev. T. S. Lacks, of Wilmore, Ky., did the preaching and it was well done. To God be all the glory."

Rev. S. S. Nelson: "It has been our privilege to conduct revivals at Elizabeth Chapel, Mt. Vernon and Janes Chapel, all of which were held in Methodist churches. The weather was rainy, but the meetings went on regardless of rain and mud. A number prayed through to victory. The pastor, Rev. R. L. Maness, is an old-time Methodist and believes in old-time revivals. The Lord is working on his charge and souls are being blessed."

A. J. Smith: "We wish to announce to our friends that we will arrive in Seattle on the President Grant June 6th, and from there proceed to California. Our address will be 1128 South San Joaquin St., Stockton, Calif."

Rev. B. F. Pritchett: "Having recently been appointed Conference Evangelist of the Eastern Oklahoma Conference, I am ready to slate meetings with any church or community needing my services. I have had 17 years' experience in evangelistic and pastoral work. I prefer to labor with preachers who are in sympathy with the Wesleyan doctrine of full salvation. Address me 607 W. 7th St., Ada, Okla."

The Eastern Indiana Holiness Association will have a Holiness Convention and "Home Coming" on their camp ground in Cleveland, Ind., June 24-26. Preaching each night and an all-day meeting Sunday with good preaching and music.

A LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

(This letter was written by Brother Coward to one of his friends in Kentucky in response to an inquiry from her regarding the Penney Farms in Florida.—Editor).

We were tickled not to "death" but to our delight to have your letter. I sent you today a book about the Penney Farms. If you should want to know more, write me.

Doubtless you will see this is not a "real estate venture" but a desire to build up a great Christian community. Mr. Penney wants on farms only families who stand for church, home, school and prohibition. He will have no one who has anything to do with whiskey; he does not allow dances and asks that they have nothing to do with tobacco, especially the cigarette. He has about 100 farmers now and has owned this 120,000 acre tract only two years. These farmers have a community church with a big Sunday school and a Methodist pastor.

We have a grammar school, high school and agricultural school. The agricultural school helps to give information to farmers. The company buys seed by carload lots, and sells to farmers at cost, they also help to market the products of the farm. Irish potatoes, corn and poultry are the big crops this year. I suppose there are 400 acres in potatoes, and the same in corn to ship when in roasting ears. There are probably 25,000 chickens here, nearly all White Leghorns. I have a pen of twenty Barred Rocks, and they have made a reputation for outlaying the Leghorns. If you want to know more than I have told you and you find in the book, write out your questions.

Our postmistress has a cottage with four rooms and rents two lightly furnished rooms for $15 per month. She has a garden, poultry yard of 150 hens. She is a young maid, not old maid, of somewhere around 40 or 50 years. Come, rent rooms and see Florida. Our ministers' homes are a different movement. I will tell you about them. Remember farms are run by the J. C. Penney-Gwinn Corporation, Green Cove Springs, Florida. The ministers' memorial homes are managed by the J. C. Penney Foundation, 330 West Thirty-fourth St., New York.

Mr. Penney commenced the dry goods business twenty-five years ago in a western town and now has nearly 800 stores in United States. He is worth about $15,000,000. His father was a Primitive Baptist minister, and was dismissed from the church because of his advanced views in reference to paying ministers, educating ministers and Sunday Schools.

Mr. Penney has built these homes in memory of his father and mother at an expense of about one million dollars and has planned for these homes to go on after he is gone. These homes are in Clay County, eight miles west of Green Cove Springs, county seat on the beautiful St. Johns River. Green Cove Springs is 30 miles south of the city of Jacksonville and this city is in the northern part of Florida, about 30 miles from the Georgia line. About 50 acres are set apart for our homes. We have 22 apartments and four to five families to each apartment. Our homes are built of stucco, English style. We have 5 rooms, light and water and heat. We are to have Fridgidaire and steam heat soon, but it has been a treat to build fires in the large fireplace out of pine; the first fireplace I have wintered by for half a century.

We have folding beds, opening into the family room and folded back in dressing room during the day. The little wife loves her kitchenette with a folding iron board, sink and all a housekeeper needs. In fact, the home is complete and all you need in home is furnished free.

We have about sixty ministers and their wives representing fourteen different churches. About one-half are Methodists and some eight to ten Presbyterians, and the rest among the smaller churches. We have three to four Baptists here also. The fourth Sunday in April our $125,000 church was dedicated. The church is modeled after English Gothic style. It is built for the ministers' homes as the farming community have a church out one and a half miles.

We make the following most liberal offer to the readers of THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD. Read about the books listed below. We offer to give you absolutely free, postage paid, any one of these books for ONE SUBSCRIPTION to THE HERALD for a year at the regular price of $1.50. If you send TWO subscriptions you will get TWO books; THREE subscriptions will get THREE books, etc. Send us TEN subscriptions and get the whole set. Your renewal may count as one of the list.

Wesley's Sermons. VOL. III AND IV.

This edition of sermons is now out of print. We have a number of rare copies. Vol. III has 37 sermons. Among these is the one preached on the death of George Whitefield. A hundred of these are bound in sheepskin. The first to send for them will be favored with this special binding. Vol. IV has 37 sermons. One of them is on the death of John Fletcher. Some of Wesley's best preaching is in these two volumes. You will find here exactly what the founder of Methodism believed and preached.

The Making of Methodism by Jno. J. Tigert.

This is an old book, printed in 1898. It tells of the rise of the episcopacy, of the presiding eldership, of the itineracy and of the annual and general conferences in Methodism. A splendid, authentic source of information on these subjects. It has 157 pages and is bound in a beautiful blue cover with gold titles.

Sermons, by Bishop E. M. Marvin.

If you want something worth while, read some writings several years old. Some sermons are so old that they are new. This is a new book, but the sermons were first written in 1876. The language is simple, forceful, and eloquent. Read them.

Life of Francis Asbury by Bishop DuBose

This is a biographical study of the first bishop of Methodism in America. Bishop DuBose is a forceful, scholarly writer, and with such a subject as this he has done his best. A wonderfully interesting and enlightening book of 240 pages. It is beautifully bound and will grace any library shelf.

Life of Robert Paine by R. H. Rivers

The rise of an obscure young preacher to college president and on to the bishopric is the highly interesting story told in this volume by Dr. Rivers. Bishop Paine rose to the heights through dangers, seen and unseen, and through sorrows and suffering in many instances. The sketch is well worth your reading.

William McKendree by Bishop E. E. Hoss

Fifteen chapters on the life of McKendree. "The earlier history of American Methodism is easily divisible into three periods, each represented by a name that will long survive,—Asbury, McKendree, and Soule. This book tells the part Bishop McKendree took in this formative period of Methodist history.

There are 206 pages, every one of which teems with interest.

The Christianity of Christ and His Apostles by Jno. J. Tigert.

This is a discussion of historical studies of fundamental New Testament problems. The author deals with "The Nature of the Christian Religion;" "The Vocation of Jesus the Proof of His Godhead;" the Foundation of Criticism and the Christian Faith." The purpose of the book is to show Christ as the all-sufficient one in the face of all destructive criticism.

A 202 page book; well written, and worth reading.

Life of Joshua Soule by Bishop DuBose

Bishop Soule, a master in Israel, Cavalier and Puritan. One of the most interesting books of a decade is this one. It tells of some of the incidents of the storm around Bishop Andrew and the split of the two Methodisms over slavery. Read it.

Studies in the Life of John Wesley by E. B. Chappell

A series of studies in the life of Wesley, so arranged that they give an outline of his life and labors. It was written especially to appeal to the young people. This makes it doubly interesting, of course, to older readers. 239 pages, cloth bound.

Note that there is not a "shallow" book in this set. If you want real, live, instructive and interesting reading, get every one.

"Will Ye Go Back From Following After Me?"

By The Editor.

THERE was a time in the ministry of Jesus when the multitudes ceased to follow him. They were unable to receive and appreciate the high standards he had set up for daily living and they were drifting away from him. He would not, he could not, change his attitude or retract his statements and he asked his disciples if they, too, would go back from following after him. It was Peter who said, "Lord, to whom shall we go. Thou hast the words of eternal life."

We are living in times when many people feel that while they would like to be church-members and receive any benefits that can be derived therefrom, but do not want to deny themselves, take up their cross and follow Christ. They would like to have some sort of a cheap religion. They would like to avail themselves of any advantages that may be derived from association with good and devout people, but they have no thought or intention of a surrendered, obedient, consecrated life.

We have a very strange adulterated religion in the world today. Men are boasting of their intellectuality. They believe that they know more than the ancient prophets and the inspired apostles. They have a condescending attitude toward the Lord Jesus. They insist that he taught things that were unscientific and untrue, but that he had the same ideas and conceptions possessed by the ignorant people about him, and that much of his teaching is not at all applicable to the times in which we are living. To them, the old-time faith is nothing more than a sort of ignorant fanaticism entirely unfit for any place in the teachings and life of today.

There is no question but we have multitudes of people who are members of the church, who claim to be religious and, in fact, they are religious—we could hardly say they are Christians,—but they have a religion which is not all in harmony with the teachings of Jesus; it is not based upon a biblical foundation; it is not the result of a new birth through the direct operation of the Holy Ghost. It is a man-made religion. It cannot save the soul from sin nor can it open the gates of glory to a human soul. It is, however, quite popular. It claims the intellectuals for its devotees. It looks down with a kind of pity, not unmixed with scorn, upon the faithful who hold tenaciously to their Christ. It is appealing for followers. It would make disciples of its new ideas and notions of what faith should be and the objectives of life. We can but think of these words of our Lord at the head of these paragraphs. It will be remembered that when the multitude was turning away from him he gave this challenge to his disciples, "Will ye also go back from following after me?" And so he speaks today. Let those who will take up the new ideas, turn from the Bible, reject the Virgin Birth of our Lord, deny that he performed miracles, substitute training for the new birth, human culture for sanctification, but let us who know the secret of his grace, hold steadfast and be faithful to the end. This is a question that Jesus is asking of his disciples in this day, when multitudes are repudiating self-denial and the taking up of his cross, "Will ye go back from following after me?"

A Chapter from My Autobiography

CHAPTER XXII.

MY FRIEND COCKRILL.

THE year I was stationed in Covington, Ky., Brother H. B. Cockrill was pastor in the Highlands, back of Newport, and we were much together. Cockrill was hungering and thirsting after righteousness, and had much to say in our walks and talks about a higher religious experience.

Horace Cockrill was the most sensible, serious prayerful young man of all my young preacher associates. He was too matter of fact, blunt, and severe to be a popular preacher, but he was a deep thinker, with a clear, analytical mind; he got at the truth and spoke it out in most dogmatic, positive fashion.

We were quite unlike in many particulars. He was serious to the border of moroseness, and I was cheerful to the verge of frivolity. He used to rebuke me for my laughter, and I exhorted him to be less severe; thus we blessed and helped each other. We had both grown up in sections of Kentucky where a coward was looked upon with as much contempt as a horse thief: where, to fear the face of man, was next to the unpardonable sin. I don't think there was a particle of hatred in Cockrill's breast, but if a man undertook to meddle with the things of his conscience, faith, or religious convictions, he squared himself for battle. I care not how serious, calm, and thoughtful he might be, if occasion arose for a conflict for the truths he loved, at once his face lit up, his eyes sparkled, and he would arm himself with enthusiasm for the battle.

For some years before his death we were together but little, but our last visit was most delightful, and leaves a sacred memory. I was on my way to hold a camp meeting in Texas, and had been warned by a certain ecclesiastic, and threatened, if I held the meeting. I knew the brother had the law manufactured for the purpose, in his favor, and expected to be turned out for good. My heart was sore, but my duty was as clear to me as high noon without a cloud. As I went through St. Louis, I called on Cockrill, and we were soon out for our last long walk together in this world.

The Exposition was then on in full swing. "Have you been out to the Exposition?" he asked. "No," I answered, "and I cannot go."

"Why can't you go?" said he. "Because I am passing through one of the sorest trials of my life. Those people are going to turn me out of the dear old church at whose altars I was converted, and which I love with a fervent heart, and I am suffering, but Christ is graciously comforting me. I feel like it would be sacrilegious for me to turn aside for pastime or amusement." "Certainly, you are right," said he. "I would not have you go." A few minutes later we clasped hands for the last time and directly, he was no more, for the Lord had called him. The same Lord delivered me from the hands of all my enemies in Texas, and so broke up the preacher dragnet that I doubt if it was ever patched up for use again.

During the year at Covington, I fell under deep conviction for the use of tobacco. I did not chew, but had become addicted to the smoking habit. One night after retiring, the Lord had an interview with me on the subject. My conscience was thoroughly aroused and my suffering intense. Then and there I quit tobacco absolutely and forever, and some weeks after, the Lord destroyed all appetite for it.

My health was poor in the heavy, damp, smoky atmosphere of Covington, and at the next conference I was stationed at the Highlands, Brother Cockrill going to White Hall, near Richmond. I was glad to go to the Highlands, not because the salary was larger, but for the high, pure air, and the excellent opportunity for study. I found one of the most beautiful countries, and one of the most delightful peoples in all the conference. They were merchants or manufacturers in Cincinnati, business men of Newport, and large gardeners and small fruit growers in the beautiful hills. I had a pleasant home with the family of Brother Taliaferro, a delightful gentleman, and a devout Methodist, father of Rev. T. F. Taliaferro, who had been my friend in my boyhood days, and had licensed me to preach.

We could stand in the front door and look into Eden Park, and the great Art Gallery on the Cincinnati hills was in plain view. This proved to be a happy year in my ministry. I did some reading, prepared my sermons, and held some revival meetings, one of them being with Dr. J. H. Young at Winchester, Ky. The meetings lasted three weeks, and more than 150 souls professed salvation, 97 united with the Methodist Church, while 58 joined other churches in the city. We organized a men's daily prayer meeting which was kept up for years. This meeting started the question of locating Kentucky Wesleyan College in Winchester, and I went back, spending more than a week in the city, holding mass meetings in the Opera House at night, and visiting business men during the day, and thus raised several thousand dollars for the college which afterward, was moved to Winchester.

I also assisted Brother A. Redd in a meeting at Paris, Ky., and the Lord gave us a

The Doctrine and Experience of Perfect Love.

Rev. G. W. Ridout, D.D., Corresponding Editor.

WHEN John Wesley was misunderstood, misinterpreted, and ridiculed for his preaching and propagating the doctrine of Christian Perfection, Bishop Gibson, of London, sent for him to explain this doctrine to him. "After Mr. Wesley had propounded the great truth to this master in Israel, Bishop Gibson said to Wesley: 'If this is what you mean, publish it to all the world.'"

Now everybody will admit that there have been many unfortunate misrepresentations and misinterpretations of the doctrine of Perfect Love. The subject has suffered not only at the hands of its enemies, but too often at the hands of its friends. We shall endeavor to set forth in this article some of the main points in the great truth and experience of Perfect Love.

As I am writing this in Chicago, on the walls of the room assigned to me in the Chicago Evangelistic Institute where the National Holiness Convention is being held, there hangs a motto which reads like this:

"Do nothing that you would not like to be doing when Jesus comes. Go to no place where you would not like to be found when Jesus comes. Say nothing that you would not like to be saying when Jesus comes."

As I read that motto I said to myself, it takes Perfect Love to live in the spirit of that motto. This really is practical holiness. But in order to live in that spirit one must have a deeper type of Christian experience than we see on the average.

Let us examine some of the fundamental things about Perfect Love.

First. Perfect Love presupposes a real experience of converting grace. Before one is eligible for Perfect Love there must be a clear witness that you are born of God, regenerated by the Spirit and adopted into the family of God. Rom. 8:15-17.

John Wesley said, "Sanctification begins in the moment a man is justified. Yet sin remains in him, yea, the seed of sin, till he is sanctified throughout . . . There does still remain even in them that are justified a mind which is in some measure carnal." This leads us to our next point.

Secondly. That Perfect Love is a second distinct work of grace wrought subsequently to regeneration, and witnessed to by the Holy Spirit.

Mr. Wesley asks in connection with regeneration; "Are we wholly transformed into the image of him that created us (at conversion)? Far from it; we still retain a depth of sin, and it is the consciousness of this which constrains us to groan for a full deliverance to him that is mighty to save."

"Perfect Love," says Bishop Hamline, "is a new state and not the mere improvement of a former state, or of regeneration."

Perfect Love is that high and holy state of grace in which the soul experiences an entire cleansing from "indwelling sin", "inherent sin", "inbred sin", and that corruption, deformity and depravity which remaineth in the regenerated. In regeneration the believer enjoys victory over sin subdued; in Perfect Love he has glad victory over sin exterminated and cast out, and the graces of the Spirit (Galatians 5:22, 23) "exist in the soul without alloy, without mixture, in simplicity; there is nothing contrary to them and they exist in measure corresponding to the present capacity of the soul possessing them."

Thirdly. As to the attainability of Perfect Love let us note a few important facts. Let us think of it in the light of certain command and promise.

The command is: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." Deut. 6:5.

AN EXPERIENCE.

Although I was born and educated and trained in Methodism, I had never really studied the doctrine of entire sanctification. Nor do I ever remember hearing a minister, or even my class-leader, speak clearly and distinctly of this blessing as one to be received by an act of faith and in the moment we believe. Nor do I ever remember hearing any of our ministers testify to their own enjoyment of this blessing. My class-leader certainly did not, because he himself was like one altogether in the dark.

However, with an increase of earnestness there came an increase of light, and as the end of the year drew near I determined not to enter the New Year until I could say that the Lord had given me this blessing. I was spending the last moments of the watch-night service in silence upon my knees, when a hymn in the Wesleyan Hymnal came to my mind. I carefully repeated to myself the fourth and fifth verses. Just as I reached the sixth I heard the boom of the Town Hall clock! My soul said:

"Tis done, Thou dost this moment save,
With full salvation bless;
Redemption thro' Thy blood I have,
And spotless love and peace."

Oh, how my soul clung to the word "FULL salvation"! From that day to this my faith has never wavered. I can say joyfully with the Apostle John: "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth (me) from all sin." And the more clear and distinct the testimony I have borne in my class-meeting and elsewhere, the more clear and distinct has been the assurance of God's Spirit.—English Exchange.

The promise is: "And the Lord thy God will circumcise thy heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul." Deut. 10:6.

Perfect Love is implied in such a prayer as Paul makes in Ephesians 3:14-19. Here is Perfect Love in four dimensions—breadth, length, depth, height. "Broader is it than the measure of man's mind." Its length no man can measure; its depth goes as deep as the heart's cry and need, and its height reaches to the highest heaven.

To every converted soul there comes the deepest longings after the fulness of God and the richness of Perfect Love. The soul cries out in such language as:

"O, that I now from sin released,
Thy word may to the utmost prove,
Enter into the promised rest,
The Canaan of thy perfect love!"

"Come, O my Joshua, bring me in;
Cast out thy foe, the inbred sin;
The carnal mind remove;
The purchase of thy death divide;
And O, with all the sanctified,
Give me a lot of Love."

And the soul finds no real abiding rest till it can say in the language of attainment:

"Tis done; thou dost this moment save,
With Full Salvation bless;
Redemption through thy blood I have,
And spotless love and peace."

In order to avoid putting the standard too high, or imagining that Perfect Love is absolute, let us call attention to a few of the limitations of the blessing.

A certain writer has put it this way:

1. "It is not a state in which we do not sympathize with the joys and sorrows of others.

2. "It is not a state of exemption from physical or mental suffering.

3. "It is not a state of exemption from the Christian warfare or a state of inglorious ease from labor and Christian duty.

4. "It is not a state in which the soul is exempted from temptations.

5. "It is not a state free from the liability to err, make mistakes, or to fall from grace." Let us always remember we have this treasure in earthen vessels. 2 Cor. 4:7.

In Perfect Love the soul released from the burden and thralldom of indwelling sin craves only the spiritual, the holy, the divine, and the tastes, motives, communings and the enjoyments are not of earthly origin.

"Let worldly minds the world pursue;
It has no charms for me;
Once I admired its trifles too,
But Grace has set me free."

A question arises at this point. How may a person lose the experience of Perfect Love?

1. By such conversation as is not profitable, not to the use of edifying, not left to minister grace to the hearers.

2. By relapsing into bitterness or want of kindness.

3. By wrath, lasting displeasure or want of tender-heartedness.

4. By anger, however soon it is over; want of instantly forgiving one another.

5. By clamor or brawling, loud, harsh, rough speaking.

6. "By evil speaking, whispering, tale-bearing; needlessly mentioning the fault of an absent person, though in ever so soft a manner."—Wesley.

Lastly. Evidences of Perfect Love. Perhaps I cannot do better in discussing this aspect of this rich experience than to give to my readers from one who preached and wrote extensively on this subject the seven-fold blessing which Perfect Love brought to him:

1. "A sacred nearness to God the Savior.
2. "A sense of indescribable sweetness in Christ.

3. "A deep realizing sense of the reality of spiritual things.

4. "A surprising richness and fullness of meaning in the Scriptures.

5. "A complete satisfaction and resting in Christ.

6. "A great increase in spiritual power.
7. "A clear and distinct witness of purity through the blood of Jesus."

"O glorious Hope of Perfect Love!

It lifts me up to things above;

It bears on eagle's wings;

It gives my ravished soul a feast,

And makes me here a constant guest

With Jesus, Priests and Kings."

Pastor's Ideal Funeral Book, by Arthur H. DeLong.

The design of this volume is to supply a diversity of material for use by the preacher in this sad part of his ministry.

There is too much in the book to tell all. We give, however, some of the most suggestive material. There are 180 Scripture texts given, about 1500 themes for use on funeral occasions, about 150 choice quotations and about 100 short illustrations.

There are several divisions in the book. There is one giving material for funerals for children; one for young people; one for middle-aged folk and one for the aged. Each of these contains appropriate Scriptures for reading, suggested themes and texts for preaching, prayers, illustrations and quotations. There are divisions on immortality, Heaven, the Judgment and the Resurrection. Then comes the ritual for the burial service, followed by lined pages for notes and records of funerals.

The book is bound in leather; has a very fine grade of paper with gold edges; is light in weight, and just the right size to fit in the pocket. One preacher says, "I do not know how I could get along without it." Another says, "I have preached forty years. This is one of the finest helps for the pastor I ever saw." We have sold hundreds of them. The price now is $1.75. Order of the Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

Rev. C. F. Wimberly, D.D.

CHAPTER XVII.

RUSSELL H. CONWELL.

AMONG America's great men, on a close examination made of things accomplished for the good of humanity and the cause of Jesus Christ,—there is no name deserving a higher place than that of Russell H. Conwell. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis places him in a list of the world's foremost One Hundred Men, not selected of this generation, but in all history. We know no man more competent to make such selection. Dr. Conwell was also selected by a committee, appointed by the governor, as one of the greatest men in the state of Pennsylvania, deserving to be especially honored by the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

In 1913, a committee, of which John Wanamaker was the chairman, and the governors of nine states were members, selected him as "Philadelphia's foremost citizen." The occasion was an ovation for the man. "Seldom is a man so highly honored in life," declares a Philadelphia paper. The District Attorney, acting for the Governor of the state, presented him with a golden key, placed in a cedar of Lebanon box; the key was engraved with words which granted him the "Liberty of the State."

In 1923, the Philadelphia Award, founded by Edward K. Bok, conferred upon him the honors. It was a gift of $10,000, and a beautiful medal, upon which was inscribed the services he had rendered the City and the Commonwealth. He was one of the few men who, before death, reaped the golden harvest of a grateful citizenship, rewarding him for over fifty years of incessant toil for others. It was said, that Dr. Conwell was the only multi-millionaire who had no bank account. The proceeds of one lecture—"Acres of Diamonds," which he delivered over six thousand times—all over the world would, if invested at legal interest, have netted him over $8,000,000. But every penny received from the lecture platform of over fifty years, was given to poor boys to assist them in their education. What did this mean? It meant that he, personally, assisted in this manner about ten thousand worthy young men!

"This is not all; a leading educator has this to say about "Acres of Diamonds." "So many villages have become cities in consequences of your lectures; so many individuals and societies started to do something for their town; so many manufacturing enterprises were begun by your hearers; so many rivers harnessed and banks started; so many schools and colleges opened; so many churches founded and others built; so many young men and women started into study; so many discouraged men began again; so many found wealth in their 'back years'; so many books written; so many charitable institutions begun; so many orators sent on the platform; so many of our best teachers sent into schools; so many reforms made triumphant; indeed, so much good done by that lecture, that I stand amazed at the accumulation."

The motive had its origin in his own struggles with poverty, trying to educate himself at Wilbraham Academy and Yale College: He tells about it in a conversation with a friend, while in a reminiscent mood: "I had been visiting the scenes of my college days at Yale. I stood in the room where I lived in such poverty, as I went through the dining room and kitchen of the house, where, in the old days, I had to be up at four-thirty in the morning to help make everything ready; as I went through the college halls and classrooms where I had shunned my classmates because of my shabby, ragged clothes, I thought of those hard, bitter days of work and poverty; of the long exhausting hours I was compelled to spend working and struggling; of my humiliation and keen suffering of mind and spirit at my appearance and need, compared with the rich boys about me."

It was those hard, bitter trials that inspired him to devote his life to helping others to better their equipment for the inevitable struggle of poverty. Dr. Conwell's theory was, that the major cause of poverty grew out of their inability to better themselves, due to ignorance.

Russell H. Conwell was born Feb. 15, 1843, near South Worthington, Mass., of the best Anglo-Saxon stock; Martin Conwell, his father, had an ancestry dating back to William the Conqueror. There was a blending of the temperamental South with the less demonstrative New Englanders, as his mother,—Miranda Wickham, came from central New York. Martin was a poor Massachusetts farmer, as he bought a farm of a few hundred acres for $1200, and it took him exactly twelve years of hard work and rigid economy to "pay off the mortgage."

The Conwell home was devout, and the three children breathed the atmosphere of early Methodism, under the regime where they lived up to its ideals. While Martin Conwell was poor, he was a man of culture and influence, and it is doubtful if any lad was ever so fortunate in coming in contact with the nation's leading men who were friends of the Conwells. William Cullen Bryant was a neighbor of John Brown—the man who did more to bring the national situation to a crisis than perhaps any one else—was a friend and a visitor in their home.

On the day that John Brown was hanged, the Conwell home remained in silent prayer during the hour between eleven and twelve (the time of the execution) and the church bell tolled the whole hour. Brown was known and loved throughout New England, even though few agreed with his extreme views. Fredrick Douglass,—the greatest man of the negro race, (almost white) was a visitor at Martin Conwell's humble home. Later in life Russell H. Conwell made friendly acquaintance with Whittier, Oliver Wendell Phillips, William Lloyd Garrison, and others of the near great. Though poor and struggling, fortune favored this boy destined to such an unusual career, by getting inspiration from personal contact with the nation's greatest characters of literature and government.

Russell began his public speaking by selling the life of John Brown; his method was unique. He would visit the schools and deliver his speech on the "Great Martyr," and then the community would be already "canvassed" by the time he called at the homes. His next public service was when a lad of nineteen, he attracted wide attention by speaking to arouse volunteers for the army. He organized a company, and because of his success and leadership, was commissioned captain, not yet twenty years old. When Russell H. Conwell was mustered out at the close of the war, he held the commission of Lieutenant Colonel.

Russell and his brother attended Wilbraham Academy and then entered Yale where the hardships were more severe than they had ever known before. In a bare, almost unfurnished room, they ate the "left-overs" which were given to Russell for helping the cook in the dormitory. Life was hard, and when the boy thought of the Christian devotion of his over-worked parents, the whole problem of life became saturated with the spirit of atheism, and Russell H. Conwell became a member of the Infidel Club of Yale. When he informed his pious father about the change of belief, he said: "Son, I would rather see you in your coffin, or live in ignorance, than for you to forsake the God of your father and mother."

Young Conwell entered the war an avowed infidel—the by-products of his studies at Yale. His conversion was brought about by a most unusual turn of Providence. In his company was a neighbor boy, John Ring, who attended him as orderly. This Christian lad wanted to read his Bible in the tent, but Captain Conwell would not allow him to do it. When Conwell returned home for the second enlistment, the people presented him with a gold-mounted sword. Near Newbern, N. C., Pickett's brigade surprised them, and drove the Union Army across the river; as they crossed they set the bridge on fire. John Ring knew that his Captain's sword had been left in the tent, and he ran back through the Confederate lines, got the sword, and started across the burning bridge. The Confederate officer ran to the front, waved a white flag, and the firing stopped. He shouted: "Tell that boy to jump in the river and we will save him." But John did not hear; his clothing was all ablaze. He fell exhausted; they rolled him in the water, but it was too late. He died in a hospital at Beauford, begging for the Captain. His dying words were: "I wanted to give him his sword, and then he'll know how I loved him."

The pathos of that lad's sacrifice never left Capt. Conwell; six months later he was left for dead at Kennesaw Mountain, but was rescued, and when he came to himself in the hospital, he said: "I am going to die, and meet John Ring, and his Master, whom I have scorned." He cried to God day and night for mercy, until the peace of salvation entered his soul. He was never able to return to service. That sword was the means in God's hand to save this great man. He kept that sword hanging over his bed, and it was a daily reminder, as he knelt in prayer: "O Lord help me to do my work, and the work of my dear heroic soldier boy also." He felt that he must do the work of two men. When Dr. Conwell was buried, this sword was placed in his hand, and as it was a guiding star in life, he holds it in death.

When Colonel Conwell was regaining his health, he entered the law office of Judge Shurtliff at Springfield, Mass., and surprised all the local bar by quoting from memory all of Blackstone—a feat unknown in the legal profession. He then entered the Law School at Albany, N. Y., and as soon as he finished, and was admitted to the bar, he was married to a beautiful girl—Miss Jennie Heyden—whom he had known for many years. With just enough money to pay his fare—leaving his wife behind—he went to Minneapolis, Minn., where he worked in gardens, chopped wood, helped in the kitchen for his board, until he had secured a position, and could send for his wife.

His first good job was with the St. Paul Press, as reporter from Minneapolis, and it was not long until he had secured backing, and established the Minneapolis Chronicle, which is today, the Tribune. As lawyer, editor, and real estate dealer, his career was most promising in that bustling young city. In addition to his work, he lectured, worked in Sunday schools, and for the Y. M. C. A., which was then just beginning.

In 1868, his house caught on fire while he was away at a G. A. R. meeting. He ran almost a mile through a temperature thirty below zero. He fell ill, bleeding at the lungs. The outlook was dark; his friends secured for him a commission as Immigrant Agent to Germany, thinking the change would cure him. On reaching Germany, his health continued to fail; he gave up the commission, and joined some surveyors traveling in the Holy Land. He was unable to continue with them, and returned to New York and underwent a most serious operation, removing a brass bullet from his lung, which had worked down from his shoulder. At last he found

St. Paul's Pen Picture of the Christian.

Rev. G. Whitefield Simonson.

Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ: By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God. And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also; knowing that tribulation worketh patience; and patience, experience; and experience hope: And hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us.—Romans 5:1-5.

MUCH of the business of the world today, the selling of goods of every kind, from a flower seed to a frame house, is carried on and carried through by means of letters and the printed page with pictures in black or in colors. And most of the manufacturing plants which make wearing apparel or modern household appliances, send their salesman out to the public or to the retail dealers, with a sample case of goods or with a working model of the machine.

It will be interesting for us to notice that St. Paul is setting forth the practical, valuable, powerful points of the Christian life in the first five verses of the fifth chapter of his Epistles to the Romans. In this presentation that Paul is making, we see him as the authorized representative of God, bringing to a needy human race the garments and the other goods, the food and the spiritual machinery that will make the soul of man strong and beautiful and useful under the Kingship of Christ. We may fairly say that we see here in this passage the great apostle as a good salesman, setting forth the very points of life, experience and character that will appeal to every soul as such desirable—indeed, they are really indispensable—spiritual possessions as will make the heart of every one long to acquire them.

THE FIRST FEATURE IS PEACE WITH GOD.

With the first stroke of the apostle's pen, he brings out most clearly the fact that peace with God is the portion of the soul that gets right with God. And to get right with God, when the human mind and heart are so certain of their insufficiency to measure up to the standard which Christ sets, is to accept the life of Jesus as the divinely sufficient filler of every line of our human lives. I am thinking of what the printing compositor does when he makes the line of words that he is setting up fill up the standard measure of the whole piece of composition so that it will hold together, as the master printer designs and desires it to do, so that under the flying pressure of the press it will faithfully imprint again and again on whatever sheets with which it comes into contact, the message of those lines of type. Those lines of letters and words are only readable when they are properly spaced with lead helpers called spacers and quads by which those words are kept in proper relation one to another and also kept in full relation to the standard of measurement for every line. That work is called "justifying" in the print shop. So we may see our friend, the printer and St. Paul the lawyer, both using the same term in their different line of thought, and yet both meaning the same thing. Both are thinking of making right; filling up a measure that is too short; imparting strength to stand and give forth a message, rather than to fall to pieces and so fail to transmit the truth.

The fingers of faith may take from the Lord Jesus Christ all that is needed to fill up the various lines of human experience and so find peace with God. As Charles Wesley so beautifully sang:

"Peace! doubting heart; my God's I am!
Who form'd me man, forbids my fear:
The Lord hath call'd me by my name;
The Lord protects, forever near.
His blood for me did once atone,
And still he loves and guards his own."

THE SECOND FEATURE IS STANDING GRACE.

Paul wants us to know that the soul who is made right with God not only has peace with God, but also is enabled to stand, when the world is looking for that soul to give way or fall. So he says: "We also have had our access by faith into this grace wherein we stand; and we rejoice in the hope of the glory of God." It is one thing to gain a good position, the vantage-ground to which our faith in Christ will raise us; but it is quite another thing to maintain that position, overcoming influences and circumstances to that degree that we "stand and rejoice in the hope of the glory of God."

Yet that is the very characteristic to which St. Paul calls our attention. He would have us see that, though the peace which God imparts through our Lord Jesus Christ is a personal evidence of God himself in our lives, the added grace of standing and rejoicing face to face with an assurance of eternal glory is the privilege of every disciple of Christ. Here we see St. Paul setting forth the fact that the Christian—the ordinary, every day faithful believer in Jesus Christ—is to be a winner and not a weakling, proving to the world the power of the presence of the indwelling God, and showing the soul triumphantly singing amid all of life's shadows, with the light of heaven playing on its face.

But notice, beloved, that glorious, conquering experience is realized by those who, having been "justified by faith," walk right on and into the fullness of God's love, led by the Holy Spirit. For St. Paul calls particular attention to the fact that he is speaking of a second step which carries the soul into a place of abounding certainty of eternal triumph. Hear him! "We also have had our access, by faith, into this grace wherein we stand."

How many souls have started well, but have failed to stand! The shores of time are strewn with the wreckage of human lives that started out well, but winds of adversity or opposition and cross currents of circumstances swerved them from their course; they did not hold on their way; they let go to leeward and drove to their doom. I knew a man who was wonderfully converted to God when past middle life. He was a leading man in the community before he came into fellowship of the church, but his Christian life was so pronounced, and his testimony to the great spiritual change was so clear that all who had known him realized that he had been made right with God. Honors were conferred upon him by his fellow citizens. He married a beautiful, but worldly-minded, woman who urged him to turn from his humble, active, testifying manner of Christian living, and take up with the more formal manner of worship with which she was identified. He yielded little by little; and this was done more easily, as increasing prosperity in business made larger demands upon his time. Then one day a crisis came into this man's life; sorrow and disappointment swept down upon his soul like a tempest. The elements of strength that had entered into his experience in the days before, keeping him standing against the storm, had been allowed to slip away one by one. So when this great pressure was brought against his soul, instead of being prepared to stand, as the apostle shows us he might have done, and as his own former experience had demonstrated again and again that he did so, now in the midst of a terrific conflict, he pressed a pistol to his head and sent himself adrift into eternity.

Let me call your attention to this part of Paul's wonderful picture where he shows us that simple faith in Jesus Christ, faithfully and persistently followed, will surely lead us into the standing grace of God. There the happy heart is taught to sing, with Charles Wesley:

"Him have I set before my face,
The pardoning God of boundless grace,
Of everlasting love:
By faith I always see Him stand:
And with Him placed on my right hand,
I never shall remove.

"Thou wilt the path of life display,
And lead me in Thyself the way,
Till all Thy grace is given:

Fulness of joy with Thee there is:
Thy presence makes the perfect bliss,
And where Thou art is heaven."

THE THIRD FEATURE IS KNOWLEDGE THAT BRINGS VICTORY.

To know that God is in all our life, helping, comforting, teaching; and to keep our hearts and minds reaching out for larger revelations of God through his Word and through his works in the world, by the Holy Spirit, is to make certain of spiritual victory. We need not be hindered in our progress because we are confronted by difficulties in the intellectual realm, or the inability of science to answer some of the deep questions of our souls. God's mind transcends the best possible reach of man's mind. And the findings of science have had to be revised again and again. The order of spiritual progress may be stated in the words of Augustine. "I do not seek to understand in order to believe, but I do believe in order to understand."

In these three last verses of our selection, Paul presents a wonderful picture of the power of God operating through a human life, until that life is filled with the working of God's will through the agency of the Holy Spirit. It is as if he takes us into the sanctuary of the heart of God, and bids us look through the gorgeous window of the divine Word, all ablaze with the glory of the light of the Spirit, interpreting its mighty message, even as the blazing sun casting its golden rays against the leaden cathedral window, interprets the artist's message to those who stand within gazing upon that glorious creation in glass. In vain we might stand outside and argue that the dull surface of that great window was not attractive, and that it had no message for us. The one way to settle the question is to willingly step inside the sacred edifice and see for ourselves the glorious interpretation of that sermon in glass, made possible by the shining of the sun through it.

St. Paul here calls our attention to spiritual realities that can only be known from within. Hear him! "We glory in tribulation also." That is a panel in his great picture, if I may keep the figure for awhile of the cathedral window, that is a panel of the picture, I say, that cannot be understood or correctly interpreted, if indeed it is believed to exist, until the soul is willing to go into the chancel with God and there interpret the dark surface and leaden lines of life by means of the blazing light and beauty of the Sun of righteousness thrown upon him, by the Holy Spirit.

Human nature is prone to growl about tribulations, little as well as large. And the best of us are not apt to sing as we suffer life beatings. Indeed, the soul can only "glory in tribulation," when the wonderful secret has been discovered that tribulation is the first link in a golden chain that binds the heart of man to the heart of God, thus lifting the believer into a tender fellowship with his living Lord of whom it is written: "The Captain of our salvation himself was made perfect through suffering." But face to face with Jesus, troubles are transformed into eachers; beatings are understood as markings with signs of the divinely beloved; and sorrows may come to be seen as the score by which we learn to sing the song of our soul's certainty of eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord.

With the last few strokes of his pen, St. Paul makes very vivid the outgoings of the heart of God to woo and win the heart of man. He shows us that God reaches down to raise man from the depths of his greatest need and bind him to the heart of divine help. He wants us to know that God is unexpectedly with us; that Christ is everlastingly sufficient for our every condition; and that the Holy Spirit breathes into the mind of the believer the blessed truth that God is discovered again to us, when we walk willingly into the secret place of unconditional surrender to Christ our Lord.

OUR TOMORROWS.

MRS. H. C. MORRISON.

HE Master understood human nature perfectly, and in his Sermon on the Mount he touches on the common every-day phases of life with which we all have to contend. One of the warnings which he gives us is against that most prevalent of, all our temptations, namely that of worrying. He tells us to "Take no thought for the morrow," which, to our human way of looking at things, seems impossible; but let us take another version of it where he says, "Be not therefore anxious for the morrow," and we shall get a clearer conception of what the Master meant. This latter quotation brings out the thought that we are not to brood over the calamities that we think may possibly come to us, so as to make us restless and unhappy.

Jesus knew that we would have enough each day to conquer, enough each day to bear, and that we would not be able to shoulder the extra burdens that, in our imagination, awaited us. We believe that people really suffer more from anticipating troubles that never come, than they do over those which actually are upon them. It was Dr. Godbey who said, "The greatest troubles he ever had, were the troubles he never had." And we dare say this is true of many of us, if we would only admit it. Many of us carry daily, all the troubles we have ever had, what we have now, and all we ever expect to have.

It is the desire of the Father that we have such implicit faith in him, that we so yield ourselves to him, and so give him the mastery of our lives, that the responsibilities attending them will be on him. We fail to remember that each of our lives is a special plan of God and it is his purpose that we have the steadfast, sober spirit which trusts him at all times. If we could only believe that we mattered, that God took cognizance of our insignificant life, this would be a foundation that would give us assurance that the little things of little forgotten lives came home to an unforgetting God. Surely Christ knew it was possible for us to live above anxious care, and fretfulness, and over-anxiety, or he would not have told us to "be careful for nothing."

There are two things which are necessary before we can be brought into this sweet, restful condition, and one of them is to accept the Mastery of Jesus. It was to his disciples that he said, "My peace I give unto you." We must have a real consciousness of his providential care and love for us as individuals, believing that he knows us altogether and that even the hairs of our head are numbered. When we do anything wrong, how quick we are to believe that God sees and knows all about it, and why may we not feel the same way when we are striving to do his will? Does he not know our struggles and the tides against which we have to stem, just as he knows when we fail in our duty or when we transgress his law? It has helped us to remember that, just as we are brought under condemnation when we do wrong, because we believe he sees and knows, just so we may be comforted with the thought that he sees and knows when, as Jacob said, "All these things are against me." He will furnish the sufficient grace to enable us to overcome, yea, to be more than conquerors, which means that we shall have enough spiritual ammunition to win the present battle and some left over with which to begin the next.

The next requisite for a victorious life, is to live only one day at a time. Is there not enough in today's program to occupy us? And are we doing today's duties justice when we are performing them with our thought on tomorrow? Some one has said, "That we look forward and try to think out how we shall act, and tomorrow it is all so different, and meanwhile we have exhausted the nerve and we have used the energy which God intended to give us anew for the fresh day's work. The manna was to be gathered for only one day at a time. Is it not true, that we often mar the pleasures of today by anticipating the disappointments of tomorrow? We will give you a little poem which bears on this thought, and which contains enough of the Sermon on the Mount to save us from much needless worry and anxiety, if we will put it into practice.

HOOR BY HOOR.

"One single day
Is not so much to look upon. There is some way
Of passing hours of such a limit. We can face
A single day; but place
Too many days before sad eyes,
Too many days for smothered sighs,
And we lose heart
Just at the start.
Years really are not long, nor lives—
The longest that survives—
And yet to look across
A future we must tread, bowed by a sense of loss,
Bearing some burden weighing down so low
That we can scarcely go
One step ahead—this is so hard.
"God broke our years to hours and days,
That hour by hour
And day by day,
Just going on a little way,
We might be able all along
To keep quite strong.
Should all the weight of life
Be laid across our shoulders, and the future,
With we and struggles, meet us face to face
At just one place,
We could not go;
Our feet would stop. And so
God lays a little on us every day;
And never, I believe, on all the way
Will burdens bear so deep,
Or pathways lie so threatening and so steep,
But we can go if, by God's power,
We only bear the burden of the hour."

Reasons For Becoming A Christian.

REV. HENRY OSTROM.

Calvary! We must deal with Calvary. It is historic. We must answer it.

Jesus' suffering for us was pre-meditated. He fully expected it and said beforehand that it would come.

Jesus' suffering for us was pre-arranged. He said "I lay down my life of myself." The trains are not dispatched from the great depots of our cities with more definite plan.

Jesus' suffering for us is sufficient. All other ways are a-hunger; Jesus is the bread. All other ways try; Jesus saves.

Jesus suffers for us because he loves us. "Herein is love;" it is love poured out.

Jesus' suffering for us is resolute. When he says "Arise, let us go hence," he is making his way straight to Calvary. He is determined if possible, to get us.

Now love expressing itself in law should win my obedience; love expressing itself against sin should awaken my concern, but love poured out in sacrifice to the death breaks my hard heart.

The Optimism of Pre-millennialism.

Dr. Morrison's latest book is now in the hands of the printer and will soon be ready for the press and public. It will prove one of the most interesting books he has given to the public.

GOD'S PERFECT MAN.

DR. L. R. AKERS, President Asbury College.

"There was a man in the land of Uz whose name was Job; and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God and eschewed evil."—Job 1:1.

LET us note that Job was not perfect in the sight of man. Neither was Jesus Christ, the only begotten Son of God, who was called "a wine-bibber," and "a friend of publicans and sinners"! Man is exceedingly reluctant to apply a moral yard-stick to his own personal life, but is very fond of applying the same measure to others. He even seeks, with his imperfect judgment and limited mind, to measure the perfect and infinite God, denying him the right to lay down standards which govern the finite.

"There was a man in the land of Uz." This city was probably near Babylon or Bagdad in the region where Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Ezra were buried. Very little is known concerning the place, but we may safely assume that it shared in common the evil propensities and sinful delinquencies of the nations of its day. We have no reason to believe that it was any easier for Job to live in Uz back in the grey dawn of human history than it would be for him to live in Chicago, or in New York City in this day of modern history. In fact, it might be safer to assume that it was more difficult to live in Uz than in Chicago or in Cincinnati.

God called Job a "perfect man." Of what did his perfection consist and how is it obtained? We are enjoined in Hebrews 6:1, "Therefore, leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on to perfection." We must acknowledge that there is such a thing, since it is mentioned time and again in the Bible, and that it is not so late as death, for living men were made perfect. We who so strenuously seek perfection in commodities, in music, in art, and in the various realms of life, should not be less insistent in our search for spiritual attainment. If this exalted experience is to be obtained, a further search into the matter would be most timely and profitable.

Christ affirmed that none was good save God alone. From that we assume that absolute perfection belongs only to God, that even the angels, unstained by sin, may not claim this exalted type of perfection. Again, it is clearly evident that this does not refer to Adam's perfection, since Adam in Eden had never felt the blight of sin nor suffered from its penalties. It is equally reasonable to aver that this perfection does not mean perfection in judgment, for those who are spoken of as "perfect" in the Word of God were not without their mental mistakes.

Again, Christian perfection comes not through asceticism. How alien was a monastic life to the mind of him who went about among his fellowmen doing good. How foolish the thought that if only a man secluded himself from his fellows he could be holy. The medieval conception of the monk or anchorite was altogether gratuitous and unreal. Simeon Stylites, smeared by filth without and full of pride within, dwelt for a score of years upon a pillar thirty-six feet high and eight feet across. Pilgrimages were made to this spot to behold the so-called "holy man." Following this distorted idea of sanctity, a whole tribe of Stylites sprang up to pervert true sainthood and to make people believe that it was something a man could do rather than what a man was that determined sainthood. Is it not true that sainthood is most effectively seen in public life rather than in the cloister?

The Roman conception of perfection was also incorrect. Nowhere in Holy Writ are purgatorial fires spoken of as God's method of purging human hearts from their sins. We are told that "the blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth us from all sin." Not only is the Catholic's hope of attaining perfection wrong, but the Roman idea of a perfect life also is without warrant. A prominent member of the Latin Church recently affirmed that there had been only two saints since the Reformation. His idea of sainthood was that of a medieval monk, a fervent mystic, an enthusiastic priest, or an unearthly poet—a Saint Francis, or a Saint Benedict. There is surely something wrong here, for truly there have been tens of thousands, yea, a great multitude whom no man can number, who, like Enoch of old, have walked and talked with God. To this churchman we would reply that Christian perfection is high character, not high churchmanship; it is "beautiful living, not a golden nimbus on the forehead, or a eucharistic lily in the hand; it is pure thoughts and noble aspirations, not cathedral music, masses, and miters." The need of the present moment is fewer chrome saints hanging on our walls, with halos about their heads and hands folded over their hearts, and more flesh and blood saints walking our streets, with brains in their heads and love in their hearts.

There is also a Protestant notion of Christian perfection which is far from correct. Godliness used to be a question of the Ten Commandments, the seven beatitudes, the three graces; or, too often, a question of baptisms; of whether to wear certain things or not to wear them; of music or no music in the church service—in other words, the search after the highest New Testament experience of holiness became intermingled with freakishness, crankiness, or fanaticism.

What, then is God's thought in Christian perfection? It does mean purity of heart. "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart." (Psalms 24:3, 4). "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God" (Matthew 5:8). It does mean crucifixion with Christ. Whosoever aspires to the ideal life must be able to say with St. Paul: "I have been crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." (Galatians 2:20). "They that are of Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with the lusts and the passions thereof." (Galatians 5:24). It does mean perfect love and holy boldness. "Perfect love casteth out fear." (1 John 4:18). It does mean a Pentecostal in-filling or the baptism with the Holy Spirit. (Acts 1:8). Spurgeon said, "There is one point in grace as much above the ordinary Christian as the ordinary Christian is above the worldling." Wesley affirms "Only the power that makes a world can make a perfect Christian." Every believer in Christ from the hour of his spiritual birth has before him the challenge that he became "renewed in the spirit of his mind and that he put on a new man which, after God, hath been created in righteousness and true holiness." The church gains nothing by softening the scriptural truth with which she has been entrusted, by lowering her standards, or by relaxing her discipline. Our attitude toward an inferior spiritual life must be that of uncompromising hostility. There must be no adulterous contact with sin, no divided heart, if we are to claim life's highest spiritual prize. There must be not a nod in the house of Rimmon; nor the burning of a grain of incense on the altar of Mammon. The pure gold of perfect love must not be alloyed by any base admixture of worldly philosophy or mediocre attainment.

The Pentecostal experience of the early church, recorded in Acts, and promised to us of later days, was subsequent to conversion, was given instantaneously; it gave boldness to those who received it, and brought forth much fruit.

The cleansing of the human heart from its sin, latent and actual, is the requisite qualification for entering into the state of holiness or Christian perfection taught by John Wesley. Perfect love, according to Christ, the Master Teacher, is summed up in the statement that we "love the Lord, our God, with all our heart, soul, mind and strength, and our neighbor as ourselves."

Christian perfection means unusual growth in grace. With the weeds removed from the garden of the soul, the fruits of the Spirit may come to a full and ripened maturity. A naturalist writes: "The Alpine garden does not contain any noxious growths. The higher we climb toward the sky the sweeter and purer are the flowers. Is it a coincidence that the lower we descend toward the plain the more frequent becomes the noxious growths, the stinging, blistering, foul-smelling and thorny plants; and the higher we go to the clouds, the more virtue and beauty and fragrance we discover? No evil shall exist above the snow-line; there purity reigns."

Truly our Christian life begins in an uplift, but the road to perfection leads uphill all the way. From the exalted heights we understand rightly the meaning of "full salvation." Five times in the epistle to the Ephesians Paul writes of the life hid with Christ in God as dwelling in "the heavenlies." By this he means the higher life which is, after all, the highest life, and which implies not an external perfection, or perfection of judgment so much, as an interior perfection resulting from a baptism with the Holy Spirit, spiritual training and a peculiar sensitiveness to that which is fine and holy.

In the realm of Christian perfection we most securely meet temptation. Never in this life are we exempt from the battleground, but it is here we choose our own ground, and that is the highest on which to fight our battles. There are terrific forces against which the soul contends, but the assailed one has the advantage of fighting on higher ground. The antidote to faint-heartedness is to dwell upon the heights. It is there we find realized the shining promise, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee." It is a blessed thought that while many of us may be doomed to live on life's "Main Street," yet at the same time our souls may dwell on the King's Highway of Holiness. We may not be able to escape from the grinding monotony of our work, but, living on the heights, we find a new attitude toward that work. We may not always be able to change our neighbors, but we may have our attitude toward our neighbors changed. The key, then, to Christian success is not change of circumstance, but change of attitude. Sainthood is ever independent of circumstance.

"Saints of the early dawn of Christ,

Saints of imperial Rome,

Saints of the cloistered Middle Age,

Saints of the modern home."

"Behold, I make all things new." When a soul out of tune with God becomes attuned to God, then, and only then, is there a new outlook upon a new world of new people.

REPORTS FROM SOUL WINNERS

PONTIAC, ILLINOIS.

We closed a meeting in Pontiac, Ill., Easter Sunday night. The Lord gave us a deep, spiritual meeting, which was held in the Nazarene church. They have a new church and saints who do not know defeat. We do not remember when the Lord gave us more liberty in preaching the gospel. While there was much opposition, yet the people attended well and some eight or ten were added to the membership of the church.

Pastor J. Y. Jones is one of the most brotherly men we have ever assisted, and is a tireless worker. We were entertained in the parsonage and our comfort looked after. They have a wonderful home; all the children pray at family worship and say grace at the table.

The people voted for me to return. This is my first report to The Herald for some time, but we don't forget to pray for The Herald family. There is no paper printed that is better than The Herald, or that is blessing more souls. God's blessing on you all.

C. C. Davis.

COVINGTON, OHIO.

We just closed two fruitful revivals in Minnesota with two of our Chicago Evangelistic Institute schoolmates, Revs. O. E. Monson and L. E. Boddy. We greatly enjoyed working with these two brethren and our hearts were encouraged and inspired to find them still on fire for God and carrying a burden for a lost world. God surely blessed them as they preached the Word in its fulness and without compromise.

We started at Luverne, March 16, continuing until April 1. In spite of the bad weather and muddy roads the people attended faithfully, especially those who had the work of the Lord at heart and whose souls caught new fire under the definite and searching messages on Bible holiness by our Brother Boddy. Many became hungry for the blessing and sought and found the Lord in his fulness. Around twenty-five definitely sought for either reclamation, justification or sanctification. When conditions are met God still answers prayer as he did in days gone by.

At Pipestone, God wonderfully manifested himself in the first service and continued to do so throughout the campaign. Bro. Monson, by the help of the Holy Spirit, preached heart-searching messages, uncovering sin and pointing out the better way, the way of holiness. Eighteen young people and one old man about seventy-five or eighty years old, came forward for definite help and we believe most of them, if not all, found him who loved us and gave himself for us. We had the privilege of singing at two high schools, at the Pipestone Hospital, and at the Indian Reservation School where there are 320 Indian students.

At present, we are at Covington, Ohio, in a four-weeks' meeting opening a new work. Pray for us.

REPORT OF MEETING OF NUTTALLBURG, WEST VIRGINIA.

The Lord has greatly blessed the people of Nuttallburg, W. Va., with a wonderful religious awakening. The revival was under the leadership of Evangelist J. L. McKay, as preacher, his daughter Ruth as soloist and personal worker, and Rev. C. B. McKay as assistant choir leader. The McKay Evangelists are twin brothers, and widely known as the "Twin Evangelists," having conducted revival campaigns in most of the states in our union. The meeting at this place was continued almost four weeks, and resulted in scores of penitents praying and weeping their way into the kingdom, either into the experience of regeneration or sanctification. The first fruit of the meeting was a woman fifty-eight years of age, who had never been at an altar before. A church was organized with a strong membership.

This town is located on New River, about 60 miles from Charleston, also on the main line of the C. & O. Ry. It is one of Henry Ford's coal camps. How different this camp is cared for in comparison to other coal camps. Sanitation everywhere is one of the first laws to be observed; not a cow, or a hog, or a chicken allowed in the camp. Every loose rock has been picked up and placed either in a wall, or on a pile. Garbage of all kinds is gathered up and taken to the fire dump. An up-to-date, expensive filter at great cost is being installed, in order that all water for family use will be sanitary and healthful. The weeds in all the camp are kept cut by men specially hired for that work.

DENVER CONFERENCE DIST. CONF.

The District Conference met with us at Rye Home Church, Rye, Colo., April 19-21. It is not my purpose to give a detailed report of the proceedings of the conference. Sufficient it is to say that Rev. H. D. Thompson, our presiding elder, is a master in arranging and carrying on the business of a district conference.

The thing that impressed me, was the large place given to and the deeply spiritual type of preaching. If any one entertains a doubt as to the orthodoxy and spirituality of the "High Land" preachers let it be dispelled. Rev. F. R. Fogue, of Denver, gave us a strong sermon on "Seeking New Things" on the opening night. He showed the tendency to new things, "new ways," easy ways of salvation. His sermon was a trumpet call to the fundamentals—to the "old ways."

Rev. C. W. Haddon, of Walsenburg, gave a strong sermon, on "God's Plowmen." He showed the results that must follow when God's men "begin to tear out with the gospel plow the stumps of dancing, Sabbath desecration, and many other stumps."

Rev. H. C. Henderson, of Colorado Springs, gave an inspiring and soul-stirring address on "Christian Education." It was Christian clear through and through. Putting evangelism first and education second, he made an appeal for a spiritual, consecrated, dedicated, educated, and cultured ministry.

The closing sermon at 11 A. M., was preached by Rev. H. M. Stroud. His theme was "His name shall endure for ever." It was soul-lifting.

Rev. D. I. Slipper preached that evening on "A Better Knowledge of, and a Closer Walk with God." He held up the same high type of spiritual preaching that the others had set.

In conclusion I must say that the community has been blessed and enriched because of this meeting of the conference with us. It makes me glad to know that we are again coming to the place where the preaching of the "old gospel story" is given first place—to the time when preachers have time between special drives, campaigns, and what not, to "sit with God in heavenly places."

Fred R. Harper, Pastor.

H. E. COPELAND AT UNION, IOWA.

To our friends, and all the readers of The Herald we would send greetings! Since our last report in The Herald we have been constantly engaged in evangelistic meetings, some of which have been times of great refreshing, with many scores, and in a few cases more than a hundred souls finding God. One or two of the meetings have been slow as to the number of people being saved.

On Easter Sunday we closed a meeting of three weeks with the Methodist Church of Browns Valley, Minn., with the Rev. M. L. Brann, pastor, several other churches, some from neighboring towns co-operating. This meeting was a signal victory, and an evident seal of God upon the faithful preparation by a faithful pastor for a work of God. For months the pastor had been busy preparing the way, and though the rains continued throughout the campaign, and the roads were impassable except where graveled, the people came, and the first day that the invitation was given thirty-nine people found God at the altar of that church. Gracious were the results, and many souls were added to the Lord, and to the membership of the various churches. We have had the joy of seeing some very notorious drunkards, and some very old people, as well as some prominent business and professional men, and in all about one thousand people brought to Christ this year.

I am now with a Friends Church in large rural community with other churches co-operating near Union, Iowa. From Union I go to Bertha, Minn., for three weeks with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and thence to Minneapolis, closing there July 24th. I have some open dates for August and September, and for later fall work.

H. E. Copeland, Evangelist.
Oskaloosa, Iowa.

DAYTON, OHIO.

The Second Pilgrim Holiness Church closed a good revival with Rev. Clarence E. Smith, evangelist, who came to Dayton some months past from Athens, O. He is proving a real blessing in various ways. He is a man of prayer and energy. His preaching is strong and unctuous. Some real praying through was done and souls were saved and sanctified, and our church strengthened and edified.

Previously, Brother and Sister Charles H. Stalker, and Brother and Sister J. L. Shell, were with us in a meeting that will long be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to be with us. Brother Stalker preached with the power and unction of the Holy Ghost. His messages were freighted with divine truth.

The anointing of the Spirit was upon Brother and Sister Shell. The preaching and singing were great features in this meeting. Some marked cases of definite works of grace took place.

The meeting had been well announced and people came a long distance to be in it. Brother Harry Ensley, pastor of the Bramwell, W. Va., church, his wife, father and mother all of whom were a great blessing to the meeting, were with us; also Brother C. L. Wireman, and delegations from God's Bible School.

Our church is to enjoy another great feast of fat things in a Holiness Rally on the Tabernacle Grounds at 2500 West Third Street, Monday, June 13th, and continue through the 20th with two and three services daily. Rev. E. E. Shelhamer and family are to be with us as the principal workers in this meeting. We are planning to entertain all visitors from a distance, but wish you to write immediately stating when you expect to arrive, and how long you expect to be with us, that we may be prepared to take care of you. IN THE SOUTHLAND.

For some time I have had dreams of some day laboring in the Southland; glad to report that my dreams have become a reality. At this writing I am still in the sunny south where the mocking bird sings her melody and where the air is fragrant with the sweet aroma of honeysuckles, roses and magnolia blooms. I love "the land of cotton" and southern people. They radiate a friendliness and a cordiality which makes one feel welcome.

It has been my privilege to labor with Evangelist C. M. Dunaway during the month of April to May 8th in two large tent meetings, at Shawmut and Langdale, Ala. I never met Bro. Dunaway before and I am delighted with his fruitful ministry. He knows how to let down the nets and pull in a draught to the shore; also holds high the standard of Christian living and preaches uncompromisingly without fear or favor. I never witnessed so many souls seeking God in one service as I saw during these meetings. They came by the score. The power of God was manifested and some great victories won.

I am now in the Payne Memorial M. E. Church in Atlanta, Ga., working with the same evangelist and Bro. Strickland, pastor. I understand this is Bro. Dunaway's thirty-fifth revival he has held in his home city. God is already blessing here. This church has some fine praying people who carry a burden for the lost. They surely know how to sing, too, and furnish inspiration for the singer. This meeting continues until May 29th. Please pray with us that God will give a great awakening in this part of the city.

I am new to The Herald family but I want to add my personal testimony by saying that I never loved the Lord more than I do today, and purpose to "hold fast the profession of my faith without wavering." I am constantly finding new treasures in the riches of his grace.

Yours for souls,
Alma L. Budman.

REVIVAL MEETINGS OF J. E. AND ADA REDMON.

From December 31st to January 16th, we were in meetings with Rev. L. O. Green at Princeton, Ind., where we had large crowds, good interest, some good altar work. Two thousand dollars was raised on the church indebtedness; they will erect a new church; they have an ideal location. Bro. Green has a good grip on the town.

We then pitched battle with Rev. M. L. and Garnet Cook, pastors at Richmond, Ind. We had a fine meeting; some sixty seekers, and a nice class was taken into the church. A splendid spirit prevailed throughout the meeting.

February 11th to 27th found us with Rev. Guy C. McHenry and his faithful wife at Crawfordsville, Ind., a nice church building located in the heart of the city. Some fine cases of salvation; one man just released from the penal farm was beautifully saved and happily sanctified. He purchased a machine and has been hauling folks to church and Sunday school since that glad day. A nice class was taken into the Church. Brother and Sister McHenry are doing a fine work at Crawfordsville.

Next, we joined Rev. C. C. White, at Gary, Ind., at the Glen Park Nazarene Church. These folks had laid a good foundation for the revival with all nights of prayer; the revival broke right in the beginning, and continued throughout the meeting until one hundred and ten had sought the Lord. Some as fine young people as you could find were taken in the church. Bro. White will have to keep moving to keep that crowd employed. It was necessary to enlarge the church building, as all departments of the church is on the upward move. We certainly enjoyed working with this pastor and his splendid crowd.

Our next battle was with Rev. H. W. Cornelius, at Auburn, Ind. We conducted a meeting in this church five years ago, but we found the church more than double its former size, house filled, fine spirit on the meeting, and seventy-three bowing at the altar. Twenty united with the church. Bro. and Sister Cornelius are fine to work with and are fitting well at Auburn.

One of the most powerful arguments against the use of tobacco is found in "The Deadly Cigarette," by Rev. S. L. C. Coward. The evil effects of this little "White Devil" are shown in a striking manner. The question is dealt with from every angle; physical, mental and spiritual.

The author does not give his opinions alone, but quotes from eminent authorities in the medical world. He gives actual facts of cases quoted to him by famous doctors over the world. "Fifty-four objections Why Boys Should Not Smoke" is a splendid chapter.

If you want some startling, authentic information on this rapidly-spreading evil of tobacco using, you will find it in this little book. It is paper bound; has forty-eight pages, and sells for 25c. Order of the Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Kentucky.

If You Want Something

Convincing on the tithe, something that tells you what God says about it, send 10c and get a copy of "Will A Man Rob God." It is a splendid little book to hand out to members of your church who do not believe in tithing. We will send one dozen for $1.00.

good revival. The church would not hold the congregations and we went to the courthouse, and from there to the Presbyterian Church. Many professed salvation, one of whom became a preacher, another a missionary in the foreign field.

I was holding meetings in Covington and went to the Highlands to look over the field where I spent such a pleasant year as pastor. The place had undergone a complete change; the shady lanes had been made into busy streets, and many who were dear to me in those days were quietly sleeping in their graves, while others had married and moved away. As my eyes wandered over the beautiful hills, sadness came to my heart as I noted the changes which a few months had wrought.

"Oh, the changes, constant changes,
Of this pilgrim life below;
Through the sunshine and the shadow,
Ever trusting we must go."

MY TRIP WEST.

IT was my great pleasure to be with Rev. W. A. Tetley on a two-weeks' series of meetings in Westport M. E. Church, South, Kansas City, Mo. I preached in Brother Tetley's church at the evening services, and in the great Grand Avenue Temple M. E. Church, at the noon hour, Rev. I. M. Hargett, D.D., pastor.

I do not feel that it is possible to get the best results carrying on a double-header meeting, preaching in one church in the day time and another in the evening, but in this way we doubtless reached many more people, and I feel that we had a gracious seed-sowing season.

Dr. I. M. Hargett is having a great ministry in Kansas City. There is perhaps no more popular, real gospel preacher in the nation than this same dear old Asbury boy. Grand Avenue Temple in which he preaches is packed every Sabbath, morning and evening with eager and appreciative listeners, besides a countless multitude who "listen in" from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian woods. I had some delightful fellowship with Dr. Hargett and his charming family. I do not believe that I have known a preacher more highly appreciated by his people, than this great pastor.

Westport Church is having a marvelous growth under the ministry of Rev. W. A. Tetley. He is now in his third year at that charge. He seems, somehow, to have become obsessed with the idea that he is the servant of the people. He is busy all the time and thoroughly enjoys hunting up folks, looking after their interests, seeking employment for this one, helping that one out of trouble, hurrying to visit the sick and carrying good cheer with him everywhere. They say his constant broad smile is of great value in drawing and holding the crowds who gather at this church. He has in the two years and a half, received nearly eight hundred members into his church, and spent some $90,000 in enlarging his auditorium which could not hold his congregations, and in building an excellent Sunday school plant. Everywhere I went with Brother Tetley about the city, the people knew him, policemen tipped their caps with a smile, and the railroad men called him "Brother Tetley", and everybody seemed to feel that he belonged to them to help them along life's rugged pathway, and put a bit of sweet sunshine into their lives. What a blessed thing to be a beloved pastor, to touch and bless humanity.

I was delightfully entertained in Brother Tetley's home. He has a family that is an inspiration and credit to their father and mother. I shall never forget their many kindnesses to me. Quite a number were at the altar, some of whom were blessed and one soul shouted like a camp meeting. They said it was a new note in that part of Kansas City. There were twenty-seven additions to the church, some of them on the first Sunday of the meeting which we could not claim as the fruits of the revival.

It was my pleasure to meet my friend Brother Hammond who is now pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene in Kansas City. He and many of his people attended our meeting. He has been greatly blessed in his work there. I visited with Dr. Chapman, Editor of The Holiness Herald, and the great new publishing house of the Nazarene Church in Kansas City. They have a splendid plant and are doing fine work. It was a real pleasure to meet with General Superintendent, Dr. Reynolds, one of the most saintly men to be met with anywhere. My spirit was refreshed with my little touch with these brethren.

From Kansas City I ran out to Gove, Kan., in the northwestern part of the state, for a little visit with my married daughter, and preached on Tuesday night to an audience that packed the church. It was a great pleasure to visit that broad prairie country, to look into the faces and bear the message of the Lord to those stalwart people.

I then went to Dallas, Tex., and got two days' rest before beginning the Holiness Convention at Berachah Home in Arlington, Tex. Sunday morning I went to hear Dr. Gregory in the First Methodist Church in Dallas. It is one of the greatest churches in all the southland. Notwithstanding showers of rain, he had a vast audience and delivered a powerful message. My heart was stirred with his strong, wise words against sin, and his insistence on home religion, parental discipline, and a general turning back to the teachings of the Bible and a reverential obedience to God and his word.

At his invitation I preached at First Church for Dr. Gregory Sunday evening. It would be difficult to find a larger and finer congregation of Methodist people anywhere, than he has. I am under lasting obligation for the courtesy of the pastor and his wife for the good dinner they would have me take with them. May God graciously bless them and the multitude to whom he ministers.

The Holiness Convention at Arlington covered May 10-15. Brother Bud Robinson and I were the preachers. Many ministers were present. One day I was requested to give a special message to ministers, and after the sermon we all knelt at an altar of prayer, many of us in tears calling upon God for an enlargement of our hearts and the abiding power of the Holy Spirit for our task. Brother Bud is just the same, only riper and better. His presence is "sunshine and smiles." He had been suffering with hoarseness but was much improved and delivered his messages with power. People were present from many states, and I met with a host of my old Texas friends. The great new tabernacle was often full of people, and many times chairs were used, and often people were standing about the door.

The young women from this institution dress so modestly, behave so well, and have been so wonderfully saved by our blessed Lord Jesus it is impossible to realize that you are in a "rescue home." You feel that you are attending an intensely religious commencement of a female college run on full salvation lines. I do not know of a more worthy work on earth than is being done by Brother Upchurch and his wife and the excellent group he has at Berachah. I shall write at length soon on this subject and the excellent opportunity this work offers to the Lord's people.

From Arlington I went with Brother W. H. Vance to Beaumont, Tex., and commenced with him on Tuesday night, in a large Baptist Tabernacle. Brother Vance's church is undergoing repairs and Rev. Maxwell, the Baptist pastor, kindly offered us this tabernacle to hold this meeting. His courtesy, kindness and helpfulness cannot be forgotten. I do not know when I have met a more delightful Christian brother than the pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle in Beaumont, Tex. Brother Davis, a famous evangelistic singer, had charge of the large choir, the congregation joined in and we had wonderful singing.

Dr. Adams, presiding elder of the district, and one of the most beloved men in Texas Methodism, was frequently in our services. Quite a number were at the altar and many claimed to have received great help. The pastor and people of the First Nazarene Church in Beaumont were faithful to hold up our hands and help forward the work. On the closing night, Sabbath, May 22, great numbers of chairs were placed conveniently outside of the tabernacle for the large overflow. Young Brother Mackrell, a faithful minister of our denomination, with his people, gave us hearty support and sympathy. I believe if we could have continued the meetings, the field was ripe for a harvest of souls. I was compelled to close after six days of service and hurry home to Commencement Exercises of Asbury College. On this trip west I was permitted to preach full salvation to many thousands, and I trust the Lord will graciously bless the word and see that the seed sown will produce abundant harvest.

The Great Flood.

The present flood situation in the lower south is causing suffering, loss of property, and distress of people unparalleled in the history of the nation. Everybody who is not imperiled by this flood should give the hand of sympathetic assistance to the suffering.

At a time like this there should be no question with reference to political party, church affiliation, race or color. These dear people are suffering beyond anything that can be known or imagined. It is a time when everybody who has any tenderness or response to the sufferings of their fellow-beings should reach out a helpful hand. If any of the readers of THE HERALD have no other medium by which to lend a helping hand, we shall be glad to pass any funds that may be sent to us for flood sufferers on to perfectly reliable parties who will see that such contributions are used to best possible advantage.

Friends Of The Pentecostal Herald.

Our friends who read and appreciate THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD may be sure that at this time of unbelief and worldliness, when Satan and his cohorts are full of hatred against all Bible truth, Christian experience, and true holiness, that this paper has many bitter enemies and opposers. Sometimes the plans of these enemies are carefully laid and skilfully handled. Just now we are meeting with a peculiar and trying situation; opposition is coming to us in a new and different way from anything we have ever known before.

During the month of June we want every friend of THE HERALD to remember us at a throne of grace that God may deliver us out of the hands of our enemies and in a peculiar way, give us victory. Along with this prayer, if possible, let those who pray, send us at least one new subscriber. Some years ago a tremendous attack was made against the doctrine and experience of entire sanctification; there is no denying that they had marvelous success. The doctrine of full salvation from sin meets with a more generous hearing and approval from intelligent, serious sinners than it does from a large per cent of church members. It is to be profoundly regretted that some men who were powerful holiness evangelists a few years ago, are now putting on the soft pedal and can no longer be trusted to lay emphasis on the doctrine and experience of a distinct second work of grace.

Satan and his hosts are now attacking regeneration, the inspiration of the Scriptures, the Virgin Birth of Jesus, the redemptive power of his death and glorious resurrection. The boldness of the enemies of the truth in the church and outside of the church is amazing and startling. As the war goes on every institution and agency that stands for full redemption will meet with more determined opposition. We have found it so in carrying forward the work of THE PENTECOSTAL HERALD. Let us have your prayers, sympathy and help, and may God in mercy give us blessing and victory over every foe.

The Summer Tent Campaign.

The great tent campaign is beginning in earnest. We will have thirty-three tents in the field this summer. People are calling for the workers in every direction. We are hoping to reach tens of thousands of unchurched people in this tent work. The blessing of the Lord was upon this work last summer in a very remarkable way. The men who were out with the tents believe they preached to at least 200,000 people. Thousands of souls were converted, reclaimed or sanctified, and many Christians were largely built up in their spiritual life.

The Lord is blessing the work of The Evangelical Methodist League very graciously. Let every member of The League remember the tent campaign in their prayers every day while the good work goes on. We thank, with all our hearts, every one who has contributed to the good work, and we believe for its growth and enlargement. God evidently wants the whole world to know that in the gift of his Son Jesus Christ he has made abundant provision for all men from all sin. Let every one who loves the gospel of full redemption pray daily for the presence and power of the Holy Ghost in this good work.

Holiness Tent Meeting At Argonia, Kansas.

An interdenominational holiness tent meeting will be held at Argonia, Kan., beginning on the evening of June 3, and closing June 12. Rev. H. C. Morrison will be present to preach twice each day, with Bro. T. F. Maitland and other preachers and workers. We are believing for a time of grace and power. Friends wishing to attend the meeting will write to Rev. T. F. Maitland, at Argonia, Kan. We want the prayers of the Lord's people for his blessing on this tent campaign. It is a part of The Evangelical Methodist League summer campaign for the salvation of souls. Come and be with us, if possible.

Wellington, Kansas.

An interdenominational holiness tent meeting will begin at Wellington, Kan., June 17 and close June 26. The outlook for a gracious meeting at this place is very helpful. Dr. Morrison is expected to preach twice, daily, Bro. T. F. Maitland and other helpers will be present. Pray for us, and come and help us in the good work. Write to Rev. T. F. Maitland, at Argonia, Kan., for any information about either of these meetings.

Is There Balm In Gilead?

MODERN APOSTLES OF FAITH.

health, after fighting hard for over a year—hoping against hope. His indomitable will saved him.

He secured a position on the staff of the Boston Traveler at $15.00 a week. He also opened a law office, sold real estate and wrote articles which began to attract wide attention. They settled in Somerville, near Boston, and life began to throb with activity. While traveling into the city and back, he gained a working knowledge of five languages—"buying up the time." His work on the lecture platform at once claimed much of his time. The Traveler sent him to write up the battlefields of the Civil War, and so interesting and popular were they, that the big New York papers sought his contributions.

He was next sent on a World Tour for the Traveler and the New York Tribune. On this journey, he personally interviewed all the European celebrities, such as Gladstone, Tennyson, Bismarck, and the Emperor of Germany. He also called upon the Sultan of Turkey, and the rulers of China and Japan. When he returned home, he published his first book on the Chinese question.

The life of Russell H. Conwell now began to widen; he established the Somerville Journal, practiced law in Boston, sold real estate, and lectured throughout the country. He organized the Boys' Congress, an interdenominational society, which brought him much favorable notoriety. In 1872 his wife died; she had been his cheer and inspiration. This great sorrow turned the current of his life into new channels. He felt the pressure of religious work, more and more; finally, he closed his law office, resigned from all other activities, and offered himself to a struggling Baptist Church at Lexington. He at once introduced new and revolutionary methods, and they worked. Soon the house was filled, and all financial burdens removed. The old historic town was aroused, and its many historical features were made known, and tourists attracted. The membership grew, and it became a wide-awake congregation.

ists attracted. The membership grew, and it became a wide-awake congregation.

He was then called to Philadelphia as pastor of Grace Baptist Church. At first, they worshipped in a tent, with no enthusiasm and little prospects. But new methods and procedure soon drew capacity crowds. Dr. Conwell was criticised by his brethren. It was the same old story; the man who gets above the crowd, does something, and gets into the limelight, is sure to suffer. However, from almost nothing Dr. Conwell built up one of the largest Protestant churches in America. The great Temple Baptist Church was opened in May, 1891, and has a seating capacity of about four thousand, and is a veritable beehive of religious and humanitarian activities: bureaus for the unemployed; night schools for boys and girls; caring for the sick and underprivileged children.

Dr. Conwell had a lecture—"Perils of Democracy"—out of which grew one of the greatest institutions in the land—Temple University. Dr. Conwell's "Perils" are that we are developing an intellectual aristocracy: our schools and colleges are being removed by high standards and heavy expenses, from all except the rich. The boys and girls who need them most cannot reach the advantages. Few ever can get beyond the high schools. Dr. Conwell established a University where all ages, and all classes, day and night, can enter and be given standard training in grades suited to them; it was based on educational democracy—equal privileges for all—with or without money. Young men and women laboring by day, prepared for the professions—dentistry, medicine, or law. Girls became trained for nurses, as the Good Samaritan Hospital was the next adjunct to Temple Church.

The vision was carried further, in that, an adjunct to the University be placed in every part of the city—a University at their door. Did this work? During the life of Dr. Conwell one hundred thousand people of all classes passed through Temple University, and many of them, from homes of poverty, achieved brilliant success.

Marvelous life! Fifty years on the lecture platform; the pastor of a church with thousands of members. He personally baptized over six thousand candidates. Ten thousand young men helped to secure an education; one hundred thousand people trained in a University which otherwise would never have seen inside college walls; three great hospitals were founded in connection with the church: viz, The Good Samaritan, The Garretson, and The Greatheart; all these institutions—and they were the best—were within the reach of the poorest man or woman.

Truly, multiplied millions of dollars passed through Dr. Conwell's hands; but he kept only a living out of such vast resources—"a penniless millionaire"; but he left a legacy beyond computation. He wrote scores of books—the biographies of six presidents, and also Spurgeon and Wannamaker. He also wrote some fifteen books of literary and inspirational themes. Besides his two standard lectures: "Acres of Diamonds" and "Perils of Democracy," he had a dozen other great Chautauqua lectures.

Russell H. Conwell died Dec. 6, 1925, at the age of eighty-two, and truly he did the work of himself and his soldier boy hero—John Ring.

The Moving Picture.

Do you know, that 20,000,000 people see the "movies" every day? Do you know, that most of them are children. Do you know that Protestant ministers are held up in ridicule on the screen, and that Catholic priests are always heroes, and that America is being taught by the movies, that there is no true religion but Catholicism. Get Dr. Wimberly's great book: "Messages for the Times." Price $1.50. Or send one new subscriber for the PENTECOSTAL HERALD, and add 50 cents—and get the book.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dear Aunt Bettie: The grayness of dawn decays gradually. The shaggy, tooth-like mountain tops seem to be drawing blood from the reddening horizon. Is it imagination or do the skies really redden with shame, to see so many stretched on their drowsy pillows? Shall man be lost in luxurious ease? Shall man waste these precious hours in idle slumber? The sun is up and going on its Maker's errand. What were all the realms of the world but a dungeon of darkness? All the fine scenes hid from our sight. In the lost condition we would roll our eyes in the midnight gloom. All seems a waste until the returning hours have unbarred the gates of light and let forth the opens! The heavens are paved with roses. The flowers put on a glow of the richest colors. The whole creation stands forth dressed in all the charms of beauty. Millions of glittering insects awake into existence, and pour their delighted souls into harmony, and all that is vocal joins the gay choir. The sun brightens all the ends of the earth and the whole compass of the skies. The East reddens with its radiance, and the Western hills are gilded with their streaming splendors. Thus are the influences of Righteousness. May they visit the remotest and darkest corners of the earth. Command thy Gospel, Jesus, to take the wings of the morning and travel with yonder sun; let it fly to every nation and language that you may be known and confessed. Thanks, Aunt Bettie, for the large number of friends that I have gained through this page. Hope to add others to the list.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a country girl join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my first time to write and I hope to see it in print. I am twelve years old and in the sixth grade. My teacher's name is Mrs. Glorie Causy. I have three sisters and one brother. I go to Sunday school. I am in the Junior class.

Ethelene Moseley.
Milly, Ala.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I join the circle of cousins again? I love to read the letters of the other young people, who know my dear Jesus. How worthless life would be without him, and how much he does for us, who are so unworthy. I would like to leave this additional thought in poetry.

Whom Do You Serve?

Whom do you serve, my brother?
Man's served since the world began.
Do you serve God or Satan?

You must serve, 'tis in God's plan.
Chorus

Whom do you serve, my brother?
Oh, whom do you serve, I say.
Not whom you serve tomorrow,
But whom do you serve today?

Who's your paymaster, brother?
For each service brings its wage.
This is God's plan from age to age;
Each one must receive his pay.

"The wages of sin is death."
Satan your paymaster still?
What you earn is paid to you,
Do you want your wages still?

"But the gift of God is life."
The Lord your paymaster yet?
Oh, why not receive his gift.
Do you want your pay, my friend?

God in mercy hath come,
To take your wages of sin.
Believe in the Holy One,
And take the gift of his Son.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you admit two lonely girlies? We are from the dear old state of Tennessee. I, Gertrude, have never written before, so I hope Mr. Waste Basket won't get my letter. I, Kathleen, have written several times and had the pleasure of seeing all my letters in print. We both live on the farm about one-half mile apart on the Magnolia Highway and go to the same school, and have some real good times together. I, Gertrude, am five feet, three inches tall, have brown hair, brown eyes, dark complexion and May 12 I was thirteen. If I have a twin please write me. I very much enjoy writing and receiving letters. I am still blessed with father, mother, two brothers and two sisters, for which I am very thankful. I, Kathleen, am five feet, two inches tall, have eyes of blue, light hair, light complexion, was thirteen April 29. If I have a twin I would be very glad to hear from them. What would you do with a thousand dollars if you had it? We will answer our part some other time.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Here comes a Kentucky boy who wants to join page ten. My grandmother takes The Herald and I always read page ten. I live on the farm; it is a fine place to live. I go to school in the country. I had rather go to a city school because you get more months and that means I would get through school quicker. I was promoted to fifth grade this year. I will be nine June 15. I have one sister six years old who goes to school with me. My daddy is a teacher in school, also Sunday school. I go to Sunday school every Sunday.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I chat with the cousins awhile? I will take a seat over here in the corner by Louise Bracewell. Oh, I see Marian Van Every over there. Why haven't you written me? I haven't gotten acquainted with many of the cousins yet. I am a Kentucky farm girl of fifteen winters, have gray eyes, fair complexion, long black hair, weigh 108 pounds, am five feet, and about three inches tall. My birthday is January 27. Who is my twin? Elva Benningfield. I guess your age to be 23. Am I right? Bonnie L. Page. I guess your middle name to be Lottie. Am I right? Bertie McDaniel, what has become of you? I haven't heard from you in a long time. How many of you cousins like to go to school? I do. My school was out in January. It will begin again in July. My teacher was Mr. Luther Helton. I liked him fine. I was promoted to the 8th grade.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you move over and let a little Ohio girl join your happy band of boys and girls? We take The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. My father is a Methodist preacher. I go to Sunday school every Sunday. I love Jesus with all my heart. I am thirteen years of age and am in the seventh grade. I weigh 102 pounds. I have blue eyes, fair skin, light hair, and am four feet, eight inches tall. My birthday is December 23. I have two brothers and one sister. My younger brother is an invalid. Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you please let a Virginia girl join your band of happy boys and girls? I am living a Christian life the best I can. I belong to the Methodist Church. I go to Sunday school every Sunday I can. I live in the country, and like country life fine. I go to school and like to study. I have been reading The Herald for only a few months, and enjoy reading it, especially page ten. Judas betrayed Christ by going up to him and said, "Master, Master," and kissed him. Saul was blind for three days. The children of Israel ate manna for forty years. Willie Mae Gentry, here are the answers to your questions. Am I right? Susie Gentry, here are the answers to your questions. The daughter of Pharaoh found Moses in the bulrushes. It was God who spoke to Moses in the burning bush. Why was Jonah cast out into the ocean? How long did he stay in the fish? I hope Mr. W. B. is out picking flowers when this arrives.

Dear Aunt Bettie: My first letter was in print and I decided I would write again. I go to a small two-teacher rural school. Our school was delayed, because the old schoolhouse burned last fall, and had to build a new one. Before the new building was finished we had school in the old church house. Wood County had a county-wide graduating exercise, which was held at Quitman. It included the graduating classes of the rural schools. There were a few of small town schools also. The seventh grade to the tenth, received a diploma. I graduated from the ninth grade. We have a new church which was dedicated on Easter Sunday. We have organized a Sunday school. It is a Baptist Church. I am a member of the Baptist Church. My mother and father are Methodists.

Dear Aunt Bettie: May I join your happy band of boys and girls? This is my first letter to The Herald. I am twelve years old. I have dark hair and brown eyes. My birthday is November 24th. I have three sisters and one brother. I like to go to Sunday school and I go every Sunday except when I am sick. I am saved and sanctified. I am in the sixth grade at school. I am a member of the Nazarene Church. I would like to hear from the other children. I will answer every letter that is written to me. I will close now so as to leave room for others.

Helen Logan.
Main St., North East, Md.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you move over dear cousins and admit a New Mexico girl to your happy band? I hardly ever see any letters written from the "Sunshine State," as New Mexico is sometimes called, so decided I would write. We do not take The Herald but a neighbor lets us have it when she is through. I certainly enjoy reading page ten. I am thirteen years of age and have brown hair and blue eyes. I am five feet and four inches tall, weigh ninety-nine pounds and in the ninth grade. I go to Sunday school every Sunday and enjoy it very much. I enjoy going to church very much also. I have one brother. My father is a merchant. Father and mother are Christians and we belong to the Nazarene Church. I will be very glad if some of the cousins would write to me. I will answer all letters I receive.

Dear Aunt Bettie: Will you let a little Kentucky girl come in and have a chat with you and the cousins? I am so glad to see so many letters from Kentucky; that shows that you are all interested in page ten. My mother takes The Herald and I enjoy reading page ten. I have two brothers and five sisters. I belong to the Baptist Church at Gap Creek. We are having a good Sunday school; there were about thirty in my class yesterday. I am fourteen years of age. My birthday is Nov. 18. Have I a twin? If so, please write to me.

Dear Aunt Bettie: I love to read the letters in The Pentecostal Herald. They are very interesting. Also, so many of the cousins are Christians which makes one feel glad. I am about 56 inches tall, have light brown hair, and rather stout. I am in the seventh grade in school. I am twelve years of age. We have one M. E. Church and one public schoolhouse here in Pennsville. Girls, you who are converted know how wonderful life is with Christ. I would prefer living the Christlike life. We all have our trials and temptations especially as Christians, but non-Christian cousins, don't think the Christian life is a life of dullness and unhappiness, for it is just exactly the opposite. Dear Aunt Bettie: How are you this afternoon? I am very well and happy to know I have found the living Savior who saves, sanctifies, and best of all keeps me. Dear cousins, since I wrote before there has been a great change in my home, for God has given us a dear little baby girl which takes the eye of every one of the family. I was the only child of the family till baby came, but now there are two girls, mother and daddy. We have named our baby girl Genevieve Faith. I have been saved for almost two years. Brother T. P. Roberts was holding the revival at that time. Mother was saved one day before I was and I sure am glad that mother is saved for she helps me in living and walking with Jesus. I go to Sunday school every Sunday and church every first and third Sundays. Our pastor is Bro. G. R. Tomlin and we all love to hear him preach as he stands for the whole Bible. He is from Asbury, and that is the kind of preacher Asbury sends out. When I have finished school I hope to go to Asbury. I only wish I could be in the foreign fields now. Before when I wrote I received letters from Virginia and Michigan which I very much appreciated. And I received a letter and several tracts from Mr. McGinnis. I sent one to my cousin and let a lady read the others, and am going to give them to someone else; hope they will be seed sown in good ground. My mother is in poor health and we would be very glad to have all the cousins who are Christians to pray that she will be healed and spared to us. I wish you all to pray that my father will see the light and find full salvation. I go to school every day except when mother is too poorly. I am in the seventh grade under the rule of three teachers. We take the dear old Pentecostal Herald and sure do love it as it is food for the soul.

MT. CARMEL IN THE MOUNTAINS OF KENTUCKY.

In order that our friends who have been back of us with their prayers and gifts may know how our work is progressing, I write this article "to the praise of his glory."

We are just closing the second year of our grade and high school work. On May 20th we will graduate six from the 8th grade and one from the high school. This year we have enrolled sixty-one in all departments, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades and in our high school. Our buildings will be far too small to accommodate the number who are planning to come next year.

A large number of our students are enjoying the blessing of Holiness. Three of them testify to a definite call. One young man is preaching every Sunday in a schoolhouse not far from Mt. Carmel. As these young people go back along the creeks to their homes for the summer, no doubt God will mightily bless them and honor their ministry among their own people. Our hearts are melted with gratitude for this fruit of our labor.

In our last revival which closed April 28th, the Spirit of God came upon all of us in such power that we were unable to go on with the regular class work after the morning Chapel service. A number of the students prayed through to definite soul victory all during the day. For this we give God all the glory.

Our summer station work opens June 5th. During the summer of 1925 we had twelve of these stations opened; in 1926 we opened the same twelve and added two more; this summer we are praying for God to send us enough workers to hold the fourteen and add a few more. We furnish little mountain houses with the furniture which we use in Mt. Carmel during the school year. Usually three workers stay in a place and conduct services in a little schoolhouse along the creek. Regular Sunday school and church and prayer services are held each week and much visiting is done, also one revival is held sometime during the summer at each station. We are praying that God will lay it upon the hearts of our holiness young people of our schools and also upon any others—married or single—to come and help us. If you cannot stay the entire summer, come for a few weeks. Somehow the Lord especially blesses all the folks who come to help us spread the Gospel through these hills where they have had so little of educational or religious advantage.

God, in direct answer to prayer, has sent us the following equipment: A fourteen-acre campus, two buildings, a library of 1300 books, two boats, one horse and saddle, wagon and harness, thirty-four quilts, bed-linen and spreads, a large clock, a pulpit Bible, six oil stoves and thirty-six folding chairs and seven organs for our summer stations, twelve fruit trees, four grape vines, a gas well, a drilled water well, and two pianos.

This year we were able to keep nine of the summer stations open throughout the entire winter. This conserves the work and helps to establish the Gospel Truth in a remarkable way. Four young people have a definite call to this work—Misses Mary Vandiver, Martha Archer, Genelle Day, and Mr. Raymond Swauger. Praise God for this and grant that he will call many more to give their lives for the cause of Christ in the mountains. There are six million highlanders in the Eastern part of America. The last survey reported four millions who have not yet heard the Gospel in all of its fullness.

Our total indebtedness was $25,000. We have received in cash to date over $21,000. Out of this amount we have been able to pay our running expenses and to reduce the debt to $8,300. We will never be able to praise God enough for this. Our faithful consecrated workers have truly manifested the spirit of sacrifice and deep devotion to the cause of Christ in these hills. It costs us about $300 a month for our food bills and thus there has been so little to apply on the teachers' salaries, yet each teacher works on faithfully and uncomplainingly and the Lord blesses them powerfully.

We are grateful for every friend whom God has used to help us. We pray the Lord to richly bless and reward each one, for without you we could not continue this independent and interdenominational work. You have had a large share in carrying on the work of God among these dear, needy, neglected but very worthy people, who are hid away in the hills of Kentucky.

Please continue to pray that God will send us the money to wipe out the entire debt. (We had a note of $1,800 due April 18th and God sent it ten days before it was due). We are rebuilding our swinging bridge across the Kentucky River, which was swept out during one of the recent floods. It will cost $210 to replace it. We now have $56.60 of this amount. Pray much for our summer work, and for God to bless our young people and make them a great blessing in their homes this summer. Pray for and come to our annual Holiness Camp Meeting the last ten days of August.

We are indeed thankful that God has favored us by sending us scores of young people who have helped us in this fight against sin and the enemy, and for evangelists and others who have come to help us in "Bloody Breathitt" County. Dr. H. C. Morrison, Dr. W. E. Harrison, Rev. and Mrs. Pollock, Dr. Iva D. Vennard, Dr. F. H. Larabee, Mr. C. A. Lovejoy, Miss Anna McGhie, Rev. O. Florence, Rev. L. E. Williams, Rev. George Hammell, Rev. Heironimus, Mr. Fred Clevinger, Dr. G. W. Ridout, Professors Hilliard and Hervey and others. These have been to Mt. Carmel and God has made them a great blessing to the mountain people. For all that has been done we give God all the praise and glory.

WHAT'S IN A BOOK?

CONDUCTED BY

REV. Z. T. JOHNSON, A. B., B. O., M. A.

Sermons That Search the Soul, by E. E. Shelhamer.

The author of these sermons says that they were written for no other purpose than to search the souls of men. His idea is to specify truth and error rather than generalize on the subject.

There are two parts in the book. Part I has twenty sermons. Part II gives a sketch of the author's life and also has seven chapters on his various experiences in the ministry. He discusses such subjects as "Helps and Hindrances to a Revival", "Spirit Pressure", "The Scope of Redemption", "What It Costs to be Damned." Here are a few of his suggestive points. His outline on "Helps and Hindrances to a Revival" is thus:

Some hindrances to a revival.

1. Prejudice.
- a. This is pre-judging.
2. Unconfessed Sin.
3. Bondage.

Some helps to a revival.

1. Co-operation.
2. Self-sacrifice.
3. Prevailing prayer.

He gives these suggestive thoughts on "Spirit Pressure." 1. Pressure may come from God. 2. From Satan. 3. From opposing minds. 4. From our own blunders. 5. From physical disorders. 6. From imaginary sources.

Speaking on the "Scope of Redemption" he says: 1. He came to break the power of sin over man. 2. He came to eliminate the sin principle from man. 3. He came to heal the body as well as the soul.

These outlines show the nature of the sermons. They are really calculated to "search the soul."

Touching Incidents, by S. B. Shaw. $1.00.

This book is similar to the one compiled by Shaw, called "Dying Testimonies." It is a compilation from various sources of touching incidents of devotion to God, and remarkable answers to prayer. It contains many interesting stories of Christian heroism. It also gives many authentic answers to prayer by earnest Christians.

As they are gathered from many sources the style of writing is not always the same, but there is a general tendency toward simplicity. The stories are not long, but are told as directly as possible.

These incidents are valuable for illustrative material. The fact that over a quarter of a million copies have been sold is evidence of their value. In them one can see the providential hand of God, and thus they have proven a tonic to the faith of multiplied thousands.

The Temple, by Alfred Edersheim, $1.25.

This book is a discussion of the temple, the temple service, the priesthood, the sacrifices and the sacred feasts of the Jewish nation. From personal visitation and investigation and also from wide reading the author has qualified himself to thoroughly discuss these subjects.

One will learn many interesting facts about Jewish religious life from these discussions. The Holy Place is described; the order and meaning of the sacrifices are given; the Passover is thoroughly treated; the different feasts are explained. The services of purification are explained. The custom of Vows is discussed. If one wants intimate knowledge of these various facts he will find it in this unique book.

In the Days of Christ, by Alfred Edersheim. $1.25.

This is a companion book to the one above. It gives a number of sketches of the various forms of Jewish life. The author says, "I have sought to make him (the reader) mingle with the men and women of that period, see them in their homes and families, learn their habits and manners, and follow them in their ordinary life." He does this so the reader may more properly appreciate the messages of Christ to this people and to the great world beyond his time. This gives a vivid illustration of New Testament history and teaching.

Edersheim treats many interesting phases of Jewish life in this book. He describes Palestine as it was eighteen centuries ago. He tells of travel at that time, and gives a description of roads, inns, hospitality, etc. There is a splendid chapter on Jewish homes; another on the upbringing of Jewish children. He treats of their method of education; of their views on trade, commerce, etc. He discusses the relation of the Pharisees to the Sadducees and Essenes, and to the Gospel of Christ. Two chapters are devoted to the synagogue and its worship. This is a wonderfully interesting book of 295 pages.

All of the books reviewed in these columns may be bought from The Pentecostal Publishing Company, Louisville, Kentucky.

MY MOTHER.

I am thinking of a dear mother
Who, by her unselfish love
Taught us of a higher calling,
Of a Divine love above.

She is dearer since life's lessons taught me

What this self-sacrifice means,
Which the inner man knoweth is from God,

And is not of one's self, as it seems.

This mother who has fashioned our footsteps

As only real mother-love can,
Is daily my best inspiration

To live true to God and to man.

Mrs. Buena Moon.

Alfred Edersheim has done the Christian world an incalculable service by publishing such a book as The Temple. It explains many of the difficult points related to the worship of the Jews, and helps one to understand the New Testament teachings better. It sells for $1.25. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

REV. O. G. MINGLEDORFF, D.D.

Lesson XII.—June 19, 1927.

Subject.—Peter Teaches Good Citizenship. I Peter 2:11-17; 4:1-5.

Golden Text.—Love worketh no ill to his neighbor. Romans 13:10.

Time.—Uncertain. About A. D. 64 to 68.

Place.—Babylon, either the ancient city, or Seleucia which was sometimes called Babylon. They were but three hundred stadia apart.

Introduction.—After the events recorded in our last lesson, almost nothing is known of St. Peter. We know that he was present at the council in the mother church in Jerusalem when the question of binding the Gentile converts to keep the ceremonial laws of Moses was under discussion, and that his speech had much to do with the decision of the brethren. Paul makes mention of him twice in his Galatian epistle, both times as being in Jerusalem. Beyond this, little is known of his travels or residence.

There has been much dispute as to the place of the writing of this first epistle. Peter in closing the letter sends greetings from the church in Babylon to the dispersed Jews to whom he was writing. Many have supposed that he used the name Babylon in a fictitious sense, meaning either Jerusalem or Rome. This interpretation probably arose from a modern notion that ancient Babylon no longer existed in the first century of the Christian era, which is a serious mistake. It is true that Seleucia had been built nearby, and that is was sometimes called Babylon. Some tell us that it was termed Modern, or new, Babylon. We have too little space to quote authorities; but the evidence is abundant that the old city was still standing in the first century of our era, though sadly dilapidated. We know also, that there was living on the spot a colony of Jews. Some have contended that such an one as St. Peter would not have gone to so dilapidated a place to preach Christ's Gospel; but why not? Pentecost and the descending sheet had cured him of his high-minded foolishness. It is hard for one to hold his peace when some little dilettante of a preacher begins to state that his congregation is composed "of the very cream of the population of his city." If he and his church were worth a hill of beans, they would be reaching out after the lost rabble in the suburbs. God can do little with a kid-gloved, ostrich-feathered church. Peter went anywhere when God sent him; and he was glad to go.

After all the evidence has been summed up and carefully weighed in balance of reason, the best authorities have concluded that St. Peter spent sometime preaching to the Jews in Babylon, and that he wrote his first epistle from that city somewhere between A. D. 60 and A. D. 68. Dr. Adam Clark says A. D. 60, and he may be correct; but good authorities make the date a little later.

There has been a tremendous effort made to get St. Peter to Rome at as early a date as possible, so as to make the first pope out of him; but, while it possibly can be proved with some show of reason that he was crucified there, there is practically no proof that he ever lived or preached in Rome. Least of all is it possible to prove that Jesus Christ ever made him pope, or that he ever assumed the functions of such a man-made office. Jerusalem had the mother church, and not Rome; and James was the head of it, and not Peter.

One grows deeply interested in reading this epistle as he discerns the almost infinite dimensions of Peter's soul. Starting out as a common Galilean fisherman, his schooling in the great truths of our blood-bought salvation had made out of him, not only a saint, but an intellectual giant. Many such marvelous men are to be found in the Church of God. Taking them from the fields, the shops, the marts of trade, and even from the gutter, in a few short years he has transformed them into intellectual and spiritual leaders of men. Sin would have left Jere McAuley and Bud Robinson unknown forever, but grace made them shine as lights in the world.

Taken in its full sense, it would be difficult to find a richer passage than the third verse of the first chapter of this epistle: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a (living) hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." We shall possibly find the purpose for which the epistle was written recorded in verses fifteen and sixteen of the first chapter: "As he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation (deportment); because it is written, Be ye holy; for I am holy." Nearly all the epistles in the New Testament were written for the purpose of leading the saints into holy being and holy living. The first being prerequisite to the second, as the tree to its fruit.

Comments on the Lesson.

11. The apostle approaches this verse through some of the most glorious statements in the Word of God, and then addresses his readers in the most endearing terms possible: "Dearly beloved." They were blood-kin and spiritual kin. He calls them strangers and pilgrims, not merely because they were living away from the homeland called Palestine, but because they were far from the heavenly land symbolized by their earthly Canaan. Abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul.—Unholy carnal desires and salvation cannot live in the same soul at the same time.

12. Having your conversation honest among the Gentiles.—They were living in a sinful Gentile city. In 16:11 the word conversation means general conduct or deportment, whereas with us it means talk. Honest.—Upright, above reproach. Whereas they speak against you as evildoers.—That was perfectly natural. "The disciple is not above his Lord." They may by your good works . . . glorify God in the day of visitation.—"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." "In the day of visitation" is rather obscure. Some think it refers to the time of the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, when the sinful Jews suffered so terribly, but not a Christian was hurt.

13. This is a close parallel to St. Paul's teaching in Roman's 13. "Submit yourself to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake." "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God." Both men are referring to civil government. Lawbreakers are anarchists.

14 to 17. These verses are so clear that I shall waste no time quoting them for comment. Suffice it to say, that God expects and commands good men and bad men to obey the laws of the land wherein they abide. When men of the type of Clarence Darrow tell men to make void the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution and the Volstead Act, their conduct is little short of treason against the government of this nation. If it be right to disregard one law of the nation, it is right to disregard any and all laws. That is anarchy of the worst type. The good citizen obeys law for Christ's sake and for the nation's sake. What a tremendous verse is the seventeenth: "Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king." It covers the whole case.

4:7. He that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin.—Many interpretations have been given of the meaning of this clause; but none of them is quite satisfactory. The apostle after referring to the sufferings of Christ, exhorts his readers to arm themselves with the same mind that was in him, all of which is clear enough; but the last clause is a bit obscure, unless he means to say with John: "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin." That looks reasonable.

2 to 3. These verses seem to corroborate the interpretation given above. Before they were begotten of the Holy Ghost, they lived as Gentile sinners, walking in "lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries;" but now they were walking in obedience to the laws of God. They had gone out of the sinning business.

4. They think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot.—Sinners cannot understand why Christians cannot, and do not, indulge in the riotous follies of the world; wherefore they speak evil of them, and describe them as fogies and mossbacks. But we can rest in the last verse of the lesson: Soon we shall be called, together with the wicked, to give account of our lives before the Judge of the quick and the dead. When that day comes, God will vindicate his people before the assembled universe.

MT. VERNON, VA., HOLINESS CAMP MEETING.

Among the several holiness camp meetings for 1927, in the State of Virginia, the Mt. Vernon camp meeting will be held as usual, the last Thursday of July, and closing the first Sunday of August (July 27-Aug. 7). This camp has been true to the purpose for which it was organized, by the late Rev. H. B. Hosley, namely, for the doctrine of holiness.

The camp of 1926 was blessed and owned of God, in a very gracious manner. It was the first year that its founder, Bro. Hosley, was absent, God having taken him to heaven some months before. Before his departure, however, he left the camp in charge of his good daughter, Mrs. Annie Hosley Shrader, who looks after the financial and temporal departments of the camp. All these matters were well arranged for by Sister Shrader and her helper, Sister Bessie Collins, who, for many years helped to look after much of the work of both the church at Washington, D. C., and the camp at Mt. Vernon.

The writer was made President of the Camp Meeting Association for 1926-1927. There was not a jar in the camp, save as the glory would strike us. Bro. Hosley was greatly missed. The last Saturday we held a memorial service at his grave, which he selected a short while before he died. His grave is near the chapel, which he built at Mt. Vernon. Here the saints gathered and sang some of the songs of Zion which Bro. Hosley loved. Then we bowed in prayer and reaffirmed our allegiance to God, to be true to the doctrine and experience of full salvation, and to contend for the faith once delivered to the saints. This pilgrimage from the camp ground to the grave of Bro. Hosley will likely continue year after year. Mother Hosley stood by her daughter in prayer and faith, as she did when Brother Hosley was alive. When the time came for us all to say good-bye and go to our homes and other camp meetings, we all praised God for his gracious presence in all the services and work of the camp, and all looked forward to another gracious camp of 1927, if Jesus permitted us to come.

The camp of 1927 will open Thursday night, July 27, and continue till Sunday night, August 7. The special workers for 1927 are, Rev. and Mrs. Wilson Thomas. Bro. Thomas is a holiness preacher of the Baltimore Conference. Bro. Canaday and others will assist. Any further information may be had by writing to Mrs. Annie Hosley Shrader, 206 Poplar St., Overlea, Md.

That he may quite understand.

Prove yourself to him a brother
For he may need just a lift,
Give him your smile of welcome,
It may save him from the drift.

Little deeds of kindness
That we do each day,
May preserve some brother
From the downward way.

But we are so prone to wander
And our duties to neglect,
The little things we do in life
Are so easy to forget.

But there's One that's keeping record
Of the little things we do
To help make life more pleasant
In this world we're traveling through.

So our little deeds of kindness
Are building for us over there
One layer upon one another
In that Heavenly place so fair.

It takes the tiny rain drop
And the tiny grain of sand
To make the mighty ocean
That we so often span.

So our little deeds of kindness
That we do down here below,
May never bring to us a reward
In this world we're traveling through.

So we must look for our rewards in Heaven,
And they shall never decay in their worth.

The things that we see are but Temporal
And shall vanish away with the Earth.

Let us not be weary in well doing
For we shall reap if we faint not,
So a hut or a mansion, what do I care,
For it's going to be a place ever so fair.

We like to do the great things,
And leave the small things undone,
But it usually takes the small things
To keep the large things on the run.

We are going down the Valley,
Our race on Earth will soon be run,
Let us do our best that remain us yet,
That we may hear those words,
WELL DONE.
