

Asbury Theological Seminary

ePLACE: preserving, learning, and creative exchange

Correspondence

Hannah Whittall Smith

1983

Box 1_13 (Correspondence- Forster, Anna to Fowler, Ann 1883-1910)

ATS Special Collections and Archives

Follow this and additional works at: <https://place.asburyseminary.edu/hwscorrespondence>

Part of the Christianity Commons

From Ann Fowler
sister of Eliza Barclay

Keep for H.W.S.

Wor & Fred

May 29

My very dear friend

The intercomms with thee that has fallen to my lot during the last ten days has been very precious
and also helpful to me; but I am not going to enlarge upon that for thou art sure to be inundated by cases of like repentant sins that the faithful on hearts alike, who has given thee such a gift of up-lifting the Souls of the discouraged way farers. I think be must many of us

be among "the fools" not to see. None clearly
- but it is a comfort that
"the way farers though fools need not err - & I think then are especially enabled to point out our folly with a finger pointed in sympathy & not in rebuke - I can not but think that some of the peculiar trials those that, & most had to bear, are permitted to enable them not only to teach but to illustrate thy teaching, & that God gives thee the Oil that makes thy face to shine & the Bread that strengthens thy heart - & I am

Thankful for thee, beloved Friend; for every one that is upborne by faith in Christ, helps to up bear others. - I think I must give thee my imitated salute from Mr. Barclay's comment on our Sunday game of which I told thee
"I enjoyed the description of your Sunday game & thine writing" is an attitude of readiness for service, watching the eye of the Master; entire subservience to His will, wishes; confidence in His judgment, for direction;
& the love of Master or Christ making the service a thrilling one. - On the other side, I thought is renewed "because "Satisfied with the goodness of his House" made to drink of the river of his pleasure."

But I think also that some of the busy ones forget that there is rest given to those who thus wait, in the call "Come ye Yonkers apart & rest awhile. There were my musings in the pearly Chair on the hill side" after reading thy letter
"May thou & I & Maria attend to thee" — She is at Malvern —

John has any more
Bible reading anywhere
please inform.

Thy attached friend
Ann D. Drake
to theirs do not reply