This year marks the 160th birthday of Leander Lycurgus Pickett (1859-1928). He may not be a name that is all that familiar today, but in his generation he was one of the foremost hymn writers of the Holiness Movement. Born February 27, 1859 in Burnside, Mississippi, L.L. Pickett (as he is more commonly known) would ultimately move to Wilmore, Kentucky where he would play several key roles in the religious history of the Holiness Movement and Wilmore itself, before being buried in the Wilmore Cemetery after his death on May 9, 1928. He is an important figure for Wilmore and also for Asbury University, and so the Archives and Special Collections of Asbury Theological Seminary wants to take a moment to remember his contributions.

The best of all friends is Jesus, my Lord,
A wonderful Saviour is He;
He pardons my guilt and cleanses my soul,
And makes me both happy and free.

Chorus:
A wonderful Saviour is Jesus,
A wonderful Saviour is He;
I’ll love Him and serve Him forever,
For He is the Saviour for me.

The son of James Cochran Pickett and Sarah Villers Walker, L.L. Pickett started his ministry in northeast Texas. According to Arthur McPhee in his book on L.L. Pickett’s son, Waskom Pickett, L.L. Pickett had only five months of formal education. Nevertheless, he was fluent in his knowledge of the Bible and even mastered the reading of the Greek New Testament. This evangelist published his first book of hymns in Texas, started his own publishing company, and edited a weekly publication, the King’s Herald. L.L. and his first wife, Mellie Dorough had two sons before she passed away. He met his second wife, Ludie Carrington Day, while preaching in Louisiana in the 1880’s and they would have six sons who survived infancy.
In 1890 the family moved to Columbia, South Carolina where L.L. became the pastor of the Gospel Mission Tabernacle and edited the holiness paper, The Way of Faith. Around 1894, the family moved again to Wilmore, Kentucky.

L.L. Pickett was a common name in hymnbooks of the Holiness Movement, with strong holiness messages, such as this hymn, May the Fire Fall from 1922.)
May the fire fall from heaven today,
Fall a sin-purging flame on each soul;
Giving vict’ry and grace all the way,
Bringing us where the joy-tides roll.

Chorus:
May the fire fall, may the fire fall,
May the sin-consuming fire now fall;
May the fire fall, may the fire fall,
May the sanctifying fire now fall.

O send down the fire, send it, Lord,
Quickly kindle a flame from on high;
Till our souls to Thine image restored,
Live the life that shall never die.

In 1903, L.L. Pickett’s young son, Waskom entered Asbury College, the holiness college founded by John Wesley Hughes in Wilmore. The overcrowded dormitories encouraged several students to seek new housing arrangements. Two of them moved into the Pickett home with a young E. Stanley Jones sharing a room with young Waskom. Both boys were strongly impacted by a revival at the college in 1905 and would go on to become major Methodist missionary figures in India after they graduated in 1907. Bishop J. Waskom Pickett would become better known than his father, but the impact of L.L. Pickett and his holiness teachings would last throughout the lives of both Bishop Pickett and E. Stanley Jones.

When the Bridegroom shall come at the midnight hour,
   He will call for His ready ones;
They shall rise to meet Him with a joyous shout,
   And their faces be shining like the sun's.

Chorus:
   We shall shine, we shall shine,
   With heavenly glory we shall shine;
   For we are told we shall be like Him,
   Hallelujah! We shall shine.

L.L. Pickett even entered politics, running for governor of the state of Kentucky for the Prohibition Party, despite initial opposition from his wife. Strongly opposed to alcohol and tobacco, L.L. Pickett wrote against these vices in true holiness style, while his wife helped run the Women’s Christian Temperance Union in Kentucky for many years. L.L. lost his bid for governor of the state known for bourbon and tobacco, but he never lost his passion for fighting these aspects of daily life, including writing a book entitled, My Gatling Gun, or Some Straight Shots at the Whiskey Devil.

Chorus:
Speak Thou in softest whispers,
Whispers of love to me:
“Thou shalt be always conq’ror,
Thou shalt be always free;”
Speak Thou to me each day, Lord,
Always in tend’rest tone;
Let me now hear Thy whisper,

L.L. Pickett managed to write 49 books, and around 440 hymns (either words or music, or both). As a preacher, evangelist, and hymn writer Pickett had a major influence on the development of the Holiness Movement. As a publisher, the early Pickett Publishing Company would merge under H.C. Morrison to become the Pentecostal Publishing Company, and his holiness publication, The Way of Faith would merge with Morrison’s holiness paper to ultimately become The Pentecostal Herald. In 1904, L.L. Pickett was one of the founding five members of the Board of Trustees when Asbury College became a formally incorporated institution of higher learning. Pickett was the principal fundraiser for the fledgling college, but was also involved in the removal of John Wesley Hughes as president and ultimately a supporter for H. C. Morrison as president of the institution.

Trust in the Lord, forever, Lean on His loving breast;
He will sustain in sorrow, Help thee in times of test.
There is no other refuge, Shelter in time of storm,
Hidden within His bosom, Nothing can ever harm.

Chorus:
Hidden, hidden, Safe in His arms are we,
Having no fear forever, Happy we are and free.

It is questionable if Wilmore as we know it today, and the influence of Asbury University and Asbury Theological Seminary would be the same without men like L.L. Pickett. While his hymns are gone from the hymnbooks and his writings mostly consigned to archives of the Holiness Movement, his influence was profound, not only with his own life, but in the influence of his legacy in the lives of Bishop Waskom Pickett and E. Stanley Jones. Lives such as his should remind us of those who went before us in ministry, and also remind us that our true legacy is not in worldly fame and fortune, but in how we live our lives for Christ.
L.L. Pickett allowed E. Stanley Jones to room in the Pickett house in Wilmore during his time at Asbury College, where E. Stanley Jones and Waskom Pickett became good friends as well as roommates.

The archives of the B.L. Fisher library are open to researchers and works to promote research in the history of Methodism and the Wesleyan-Holiness movement. Images, such as these, provide one vital way to bring history to life. Preservation of such material is often time consuming and costly, but are essential to helping fulfill Asbury Theological Seminary’s mission. If you are interested in donating items of historic significance to the archives of the B.L. Fisher Library, or in donating funds to help purchase or process significant collections, please contact the archivist at archives@asburyseminary.edu.

2 The Road to Delhi: Bishop Pickett Remembered 1890-1981, Arthur G. McPhee SAIACS Press: Bangalore, India 2005: 17-18. Much of the basic information we have on the life of L.L. Pickett comes from Dr. McPhee’s research into the life of Bishop Waskom Pickett. The Archives and Special Collections of Asbury Theological Seminary houses the material Dr. McPhee collected during his research, proving that not all of the valuable materials in Archives needs to be primary documents or photographs.
