Syllabus

Course Description:

Study of the ways women participate in Christian mission within the contexts of their history, society and culture, Scriptural and theological traditions, and personal life. Special consideration will be given to women's issues related to mission; for instance, construction of gender identity to fit their mission, thus enabling their work. The course will be run as a seminar.

Purposes:

1. To introduce students to women's contributions in Christian mission.
2. To provide students with critical tools for discerning issues related to gender and mission.
3. To put students in touch with women, past and present, who serve as role models for doing Christian mission.
4. To provide students with opportunities for personal contact with women mission leaders and workers from North American and non-Western settings.
5. To encourage students to affirm and support women in mission.

Objectives: Upon completion of the course, students will be prepared:

1. To tell many stories of what, why and how women have done mission.
2. To articulate a theology of mission that is inclusive of women.
3. To participate in informed discussion of positions regarding the ordination of women and know how these play out in mission settings and organizations.
4. To understand styles of male and female partnership in mission.
5. To identify practical issues and gender-related pressures faced by women missionaries.
6. To speculate whether women, in the course of their ministries, have generated any new theories of mission.
7. To consider if the spirituality of women is a unique factor in mission.

Requirements:

1. Prepared participation in the seminar sessions. 15%
2. Reading of 500 pages beyond the assigned texts on a special topic* related to the course. Students will submit a signed reading log stating dates and sources read on May 17. 10%
3. Interview of one person who has served in cross cultural mission and knows firsthand the issues women missionaries deal with in that local situation. Two-page summary due by April 30. 20%
4. Participant observation of a ministry led by a woman, ideally one within a cross cultural or multicultural setting by May 17. 15%

5. Leading a 1-hour seminar presentation on a special topic* related to the course. (Note and set available date on the course schedule.)

Questions for consideration in the class:

1. What opportunities have women found to be involved in Christian mission?
2. Cite examples of women in mission who are role models for us.
3. How have women understood mission and been able to articulate their actions in terms of mission? (This would be from their framework of the Scriptures, their culture, their tradition, and their unique gifts and callings.)
4. What obstacles have women had to face, and overcome, in order to be involved in Christian mission? [Theological, cultural, historical, societal or institutional positions that needed to be challenged. Historical settings influence the obstacles.]
5. Are there any explanations of why women's roles in mission have not been viewed as prominent and important as men's roles? How do issues of clericalism, patriarchy, chauvenism and/or gender hierarchy play into the practice of Christian mission?
6. What responses have women made as they have attempted to find their place as missionaries? [Individual or movement actions related to biblical feminism, social role or stratification, valuing of the laity and/or the inclusion of women in ordination, for example.]
7. Where have women made great changes or contributions to the way Christian mission is done?
8. [Speculative: What elements are essential (if any) when women construct their identity in mission? And, are these also the elements able to sustain them within their mission work as they experience pressures from men, institutions, cultures, and/or community's values and expectations for them? Is gender identity construction even necessary today...and if it is, in what circumstances?]
