BT 605 OLD TESTAMENT THEOLOGY
Spring 2000—A Three Hour Course
Instructor: Lawson G. Stone

Course Aspirations and Place in the Curriculum

General Course Objective: OT 605 seeks to equip students for ministry by initiating them into the discipline of Old Testament theology. The course explores the issues raised when we seek to employ the fruits of exegetical and historical biblical study in shaping an understanding of the Old Testament as scripture, that is, as a norm and rule for Christian faith. The class will examine selected fundamental methods, insights, and examples of such attempts, and will attempt a theological interpretation of large sections of the OT. Students who realize these aspirations will be able to:

Specific Objectives: We will pursue the general objective of the course by pursuing these specific objectives, which will shape the day-to-day conduct of the class. Students will:

1. Explore and become conversant with the contemporary discipline of OT Theology by carefully surveying its history, noting its principle problems, methods, and achievements, all in a quest to define the exact role and goal of the discipline of OT theology.

2. Discern in the OT itself via certain crucial thematic motifs unfolding through the OT in its present, canonical form, that seem to form the basic network of theological teaching in the OT;

3. Read and study carefully the universally recognized seminal classic in OT Theology, the magisterial work of Walther Eichrodt.

4. Explore how a knowledge of the discipline of OT Theology, combined with an awareness of the overarching themes of OT theology, illuminate the OT by working critically and exegetically with specific texts of the OT to explore

These specific objectives serve as the main guidelines for the professor’s organization of class presentations.

Means of Realizing Course Aspirations

READING

CLASS SESSIONS are lecture with accompanying interaction. Instead of directly expounding readings, will typically move the issues developing an additional point of view.
Four Essays, 5-7 pages (typed, double-spaced, 1” margins) will be assigned. These papers are take-home assignments, details of which will be circulated 2 weeks prior to the due date. They are to be the students’ own individual study, thought, organization, and wording completed without assistance from others. Use of materials other than texts and class notes is not required and will, in fact, detract from the student’s own analysis. Work done for other classes or by other students is dishonest and will result in a failing grade and institutional disciplinary action.

At least two of these papers will involve direct study of biblical texts in an exegetical, historical mode, while at least one will involve analysis and interaction with the assigned reading material for the course. A fourth essay could be of either type.

The four papers each count 25% of the course grade. They will be assigned a letter grade which will then be converted top a numerical equivalent for averaging purposes. The resulting average will be assigned a letter equivalent. The chart below indicates the typical values for grade but should not be taken as an inflexible rule:
