MI 600. HISTORY OF THE CHRISTIAN MOVEMENT
MI 700. HISTORY OF CHRISTIAN MISSION

DESCRIPTION
A survey of the expansion of the Christian Faith from its beginning to the present time. Gives attention to emerging factors and themes contributing to advance or decline at key historical junctures and assesses the present state of Christianity in its worldwide spread.

OBJECTIVE
The principal objective of this course is to give a broad understanding of the story of the church's missionary self-understanding and practice, and to assist in identifying issues which have continuing missiological relevance. The course traces the growth of the church with particular attention to the crossing of cultural barriers and adaptation to various social-cultural contexts.

STRUCTURE OF COURSE
We will follow the schedule indicated below. The readings will give a fairly comprehensive overview of the subject matter. Class sessions will focus on a series of missiological issues, viewed historically, and on topics which are important in their own right and which illustrate issues, dynamics, and practical questions in mission.

Class sessions will be conducted as a graduate seminar. Students will be expected to contribute to our shared learnings based upon their readings, research, and experience. In addition, each student will prepare one major research paper during the semester, and some of this research will be shared as class presentations.

TEXTS
[One copy on reserve, also]

Mission Frontiers (April, 2000) will also be used as a resource because of several articles it contains. Free copies will be distributed early in the semester.

COURSE EXPECTATIONS

The course has four major components: Reading, class participation, a major research project, and a brief summary paper (which functions as the final exam). There will also be a mid-term exam on Oct. 19. The expectations are as follows —

MI 600

1. Participate in all class sessions, seeking to advance the learning of others as well as yourself. Come to each class prepared to share information and insights from your reading.

2. Complete the reading of at least 1,000 pages from the assigned texts. Consult the assignments for each week, and turn in weekly a Reading Interaction Form. (One copy of this form is included at the end of this syllabus. You may photocopy this or duplicate it on your computer.) Usually readings will be discussed in class, and students will be expected to have read and studied the required assigned readings before class. Please note that the required reading is heavier during the second half of the course than the first, so you may want to read ahead and then review later. (Recommended readings are optional.)

3. Attend at least three sessions of Kingdom Conference (Oct. 17-20) and be prepared to critique those sessions in class.

4. Research Project: Each student will complete a major research project on a topic in the history of Christian mission. You may choose one of the topics listed on the schedule, or request another topic of your own choosing. Some of the listed topics indicate fairly broad areas, and would need further limitation. The project should focus especially and specifically on missiological issues.

   The research project should be submitted to the professor in the form of a research paper (with references and bibliography). Research papers are due Dec. 7, but may be submitted earlier. This paper should be in the range of 15-20 pages, approximately.

5. Write a 5-6 page summary or overview of the history of the Christian world mission. The objective here is synthesis: How would you tell the story of the Christian world mission in a very few pages? This paper will function as the final examination. Due Dec. 14.

3. Attend at least three sessions of Kingdom Conference (Oct. 17-20) and be prepared to critique those sessions in class.

4. Research Project: Each student will complete a major research project which will be presented in summary form in class (20-minute presentation). You may choose one of the topics listed on the schedule, or request another topic in place of one of those listed. Some of the listed topics indicate fairly broad areas, and would need further limitation. The project should focus especially and specifically on missiological issues.

   The research project should be submitted to the professor in the form of a research paper (with references and bibliography). Research papers are due Dec. 7, but may be submitted earlier. This paper should be in the range of 20-30 pages, approximately.
5. Write a 6-8 page summary or overview of the history of the Christian world mission. The objective here is synthesis: How would you tell the story of the Christian world mission in a very few pages? This paper will function as the final examination. Due Dec. 14.

POSSIBLE RESEARCH TOPICS

In addition to the topics suggested in the schedule, the following would be acceptable topics for the research project:

- Music (or art) as a factor in mission
- Anabaptism as a missionary movement
- Pentecostals in Latin America
- Early 20th-century revival in Korea
- The Crusades
- The "Reducciones": Jesuit communities in Latin America
- The birth of the church in [a particular country or people group]
- Revivals as a factor in mission
- Early Methodist missions (Britain or U.S.)
- The Student Volunteer Movement
- Youth With A Mission (YWAM) (or another specific mission)
- Biographical study of a particular missionary

ATTENDANCE POLICY

See the current seminary Catalog, p. 21. Attendance will be taken at each class. More than three unexcused absences will result in lowering the grade by one letter. Three unexcused tardies are considered to be equivalent to one unexcused absence.

EVALUATION

In grading, the course components will be weighted approximately as follows: Class participation, including input from readings (20%), mid-term exam (20%), research project (40%), final synthesis paper (20%).
