Student Responsibilities: This course is designed as a seminar. It is therefore essential that students come to class having read the assigned material carefully and critically. Class attendance and active participation in discussions are expected and are factored into the final grade. Reading Records will be collected on the last day of class.

All written work must be typed with 12-point type, one inch margins on all four sides, and (except for the first assignment) true double-spacing. There will be a penalty for late papers commensurate with the degree of lateness and the adequacy of the excuse. Papers are due in class on assigned date.

All written work must use inclusive language when reference is made to human beings (male and female). This provides for both greater inclusion and greater precision

Assignments involve four brief integrative/reflection papers and a research paper or project.

1. Due September 11: Write a one-page (single-spaced) letter to one of the main characters in Lest Innocent Blood Be Shed. Reflect on how the testimony of his or her hospitality and community challenged you morally and spiritually. Be specific in engaging one or two incidents or insights that were particularly important to you.

2. Due October 2: A coalition of churches in your town is thinking about responding to the latest refugee crisis by assisting in the resettlement of several families. There is mixed response within the congregations—some parishioners are very supportive; others remain unconvinced. The pastors in town have asked you to do a devotional on “Welcoming Strangers.” Leaning heavily on the biblical and historical materials we have covered over the past three weeks, write a devotional that would help parishioners understand the biblical and moral importance of offering hospitality to needy strangers. (3 pages, double-spaced).

3. Due October 30: Write a three page (double-spaced) paper that articulates a theology of welcome. Integrate the material from Miroslav Volf’s Exclusion and Embrace with the other readings and class discussions. (More specific instructions for this assignment will be provided)

4. Due November 27: Immersion and Reflection – spend 3-5 hours in a place that cares for the needs of strangers. If possible, help out with the tasks. Be careful to observe as much as possible about guest/host relations, power and empowerment, setting, and explicit and implicit messages about welcome and respect. Write a 3 page (double-spaced) paper reflecting on your experience in light of some of the key themes we have covered in class.

5. Due December 11: Final Project – to be developed in individual consultation with the professor (15 pages, double-spaced). Three general types of papers/projects are possible:

1. Research paper on ministry with a vulnerable population: homeless people, migrant workers, people with disabilities or terminal illnesses, refugees. (More specific instructions will be provided)

2. Develop a curriculum for use in the local church, student work, or youth ministries using hospitality as a framework for moral formation. Be specific about objectives for the curriculum and how you expect to accomplish moral formation. Make sure to attend to cognitive, affective, and community-building dimensions.

3. Research paper on the moral implications of hospitality for missions practice and missionaries. (More specific instructions will be provided)
