NT 666 -- REVELATION
JANUARY TERM 2004 -- DR. MULHOLLAND

PERSPECTIVE: "Who is worthy to open the book . . . or to look into it? . . . Worthy is the Lamb!" (5:2, 3, 12). Revelation is an Ἀποκάλυψις Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ (1:1), and without the guiding and illuminating presence of His Holy Spirit our minds remain darkened and confused by this book; we tend to read our own meanings into it rather than being impacted by what God is saying to us through it. Nothing requires a deeper level of spiritual maturity than the exegetical study of God's Word. Nothing enhances our spiritual maturity more consistently than the exegetical study of God's Word. This symbiotic reality is the primary dynamic of biblical exegesis. All teaching and learning, in the Christian and biblical perspective, must be directly related to a personal and growing relationship with Jesus as Lord. It is my prayerful intention to be all the Lord purposes for me to be in guiding this class; it is my prayerful expectation that you will allow the Lord so to guide your study and participation that God's full purpose for you might be fulfilled in this course, that together we might "hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches."

PURPOSE: We will seek to actualize God's purposes for us in this course through a critical, exegetical study which will attempt to understand Revelation as God's word to the original readers as well as God's word for our life and ministry today.

PARTICULARS: It is anticipated that your faithful stewardship of time and discipline of study in this course will be used by God to enable you to acquire the following knowledge and skills:

- A clear comprehension of the basic perspectives of historical scholarship on Revelation from its writing to the present.
  1. The origins and history of each perspective
  2. The presuppositional base of each perspective
  3. The basic elements of each perspective
  4. The strengths and weaknesses of each perspective
- An understanding of Revelation on the basis of its form and content.
- Evaluate the evidence and history of scholarship on the issues of: authorship, date, audience, historical setting, canonization.
- Overview apocalyptic literature and develop an understanding of the relationship of Revelation to apocalyptic literature.
- Investigate and comprehend the sources used by the author.
- Develop a structural diagram of the book from the Greek text.
- Through sound exegesis, comprehend the perspective and message of Revelation:
  1. In relation to its own time and readers
  2. In relation to the rest of the New Testament
  3. In relation to history, especially our own time
  4. In relation to the realities of Christian life and growth
• Ability to evaluate the diverse and often aberrant interpretations of Revelation by the use of sound exegetical methods in integrity with the biblical perspective, and by understanding the presuppositional bases of variant interpretations.

PROCEDURES: The following provide some of the scholarly and spiritual disciplines of loving obedience and stewardship through which I trust the Lord will enable us to actualize His purposes for the course:

2. Preparation:
   a. It is hoped that you will enter into a covenant of prayer for the class and the course.
   b. It is urged that each period of individual study be started with prayer, interlaced with prayer and praise, and dedicated to God in prayer at its close.
   c. It is expected that you will be a faithful steward of time in two areas:
      i. Consistent participation in class sessions
      ii. Commit at least two hours to the Lord for prayer and study in preparation for each class hour.
   d. It is expected that you will come to class fully prepared through disciplined prayer and study so that you may be all God wants you to be in the class session.
   e. It is presumed that you will exhibit graduate level competence in comprehension of reading, integration of learning and presentation of understanding.

3. Class sessions: The class will provide an in-depth exegetical study of Revelation. Regular attendance is mandatory for receiving the full benefits of the class.

4. You are free to develop a project of your own choosing with respect to the book of Revelation. You will contract with the professor regarding the nature of the project, the parameters of the project, and the grade you intend to work for in the project. It is expected that your project will be a source of input for the class, either through regular, daily contributions to the discussion, or through a report to the class on some phase of your project. The final form of the project will be due on the last day of the term (Jan 30).

5. The quality of class participation, presentations, and written work should reflect work done "as unto the Lord" -- a good stewardship of your time, talents, and resources.

PERFORMANCE: The evaluation of your performance has two sides. On the one side, God is the final evaluator of the measure in which you allowed God's purpose for you to be fulfilled in this course. This evaluation should be your primary concern. For the purposes of grading, you will contract with the professor for the grade you intend to pursue in the seminar. If your work and contribution to the seminar do not meet the level of the contract, you will be notified in order that you may bring the level of your work up to contract. You may also choose to renegotiate your contract. In the case of written work, material below contract level may be reworked and resubmitted.

In order to maintain integrity with those who are faithful to the attendance and contract covenant, the following parameters will be employed as necessary:
1. Absences: Up to 10% unexcused No deduction
    10 to 20% unexcused One grade level (A to A-)
    20 to 30% unexcused Two grade level (A to B+)
    Etc.

2. Late submission of materials: One grade level (A to A-, etc.) per day.
