REQUIREMENTS (All assignments should be completed by Dec 11)

Attendance at the Ivy Jungle Conference November 19-22 in Oakbrook, Illinois.

Contact Adam Knight via Steve Moore’s office for travel arrangements, registration information, and a special Wednesday night gathering of the National Campus Ministry Advisory Council.

See the “Ivy Jungle” website for information – (pre-conference workshop is not required to obtain credit for the class.)

Reflection Paper 3-5 pages on the following text:
Adventures in Missing the Point: How the Culture-Controlled Church Neutered the Gospel by Brian McLaren and Tony Campolo. (For those taking the class for 2 hour credits, see Chris for additional text.)

In this book McLaren and Campolo contend that the way we are living out the faith in the 21st century is “missing the point,” so much so that those entrusted with the gospel are unintentionally betraying what it is supposed to be about. The intent is not to cast judgment elsewhere but to take an inside look. Each chapter is written by one of the authors and each chapter contains a response from the other author. Choose at least five of the chapters that caused the most reaction from you and using a similar response format as the book itself, write at least a half a page response as a further dialogue with Tony and Brian. (2 hour folks reflect on 10 chapters)

Notes from the conference/Reflections on its impact (8-10 pages)
Your assignment here is to turn in summative notes from the keynote speakers and breakout sessions that you attended plus a final 1-2 page final reflection on the value of this conference for you.

Participation in group discussions is expected during travel to and from the conference as well as informal gatherings throughout the conference. I anticipate sending a copy of the tape series Wandering to the Altar to be listened to as a group while traveling on the bus to and from the conference. We will also meet for a brief time after each evening session to share the benefits of any seminar attended during the day. If you make other travel plans see Chris.
