“What other life can there be without the knowledge of the Scriptures, for through these Christ himself, who is the life of the faithful becomes known.?” – Jerome

"Apply the whole of yourself to the text; apply the whole of the text to yourself." - Bengel

I love teaching this course. It is my prayer that as we enter the world of the Scriptures of Ancient Israel that we will emerge better prepared to serve as interpreters of Scripture and become more profound people in the process.

DUAL FORMAT
1) This course is an Orlando based on campus course that will meet on June 2-6, 2008.
2) At the same time, we will use the Virtual classroom: www.virtual.asburyseminary.edu. We will use the virtual classroom to discuss the course material (lecture and assigned reading) as well as to turn in course work. Also, all powerpoint lectures will be available in the Virtual Campus

I. GENERAL COURSE DESCRIPTION
An introduction to (1) the literature of the Old Testament in its socio-historical, literary, and canonical contexts; and (2) critical study of the OT.

Note: This course is not a survey of the literature of the OT. If you desire a survey course to prepare for the Bible Competency exam, you should consider taking BS400.
II. LEARNING OBJECTIVES
Upon successful completion of this course with a grade of C or better, the student will be able to:
A. Describe the history and geography of the Ancient Near East as it relates to the Old Testament;
B. Narrate representative features of the history of the interpretation of the Old Testament;
C. Understand and apply critical methods of Biblical interpretation;
D. Describe and critique the major questions of OT scholarship and study (authorship, historicity, etc.);
E. Narrate the essential elements of Israelite history and religion;
F. Articulate the on-going authority of the Old Testament as canonical Scripture;
G. Understand the missional movement of the Old Testament;
H. Use the Old Testament more effectively in ministry.

 "A" work at Asbury Theological Seminary is defined as "Exceptional work: outstanding or surpassing achievement of course objectives" (Catalog, p. 28). To achieve "A" level, students must demonstrate a critical engagement and synthetic understanding of all course materials.

I take grading very seriously. It is my responsibility to evaluate your work and give you a letter grade. I hope to do this in the spirit of Ephesians 4:15-16 "But speaking the truth in love, we must grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ, from whom the whole body, joined and knit together by every ligament with which it is equipped, as each part is working properly, promotes the body's growth in building itself up in love."

I will be clear (to the best of my abilities) about my expectations for each assignment.
1) Completion of all reading. (15%) Students will turn in two reading reports. On June 2nd, students will report the percentage of preparatory reading completed. On June 30th, students will report of final percentage of reading completed

2) Map Quiz. (5%) Students will be quizzed on their knowledge of the geography of the Ancient Near East, includes two parts: Countries and Bodies of Water; Key Cities in Syro-Palestine. See below for study guide. June 6th

3) Take Home Synthetic Essay. Each student on the basis of reflection upon class presentations and readings will sketch out his or her current approach to the Old Testament. Students are limited to eight double spaced pages. Due June 30th (40%)

4) Research Project. Each student will prepare a critical 6-8 page essay on a topic of her or his choice. The paper will be primarily exegetical (i.e., focuses around an issue crucial to the interpretation of a specific text). A minimum of five scholarly sources is required. You may use your text books but they do not count as part of the five required sources. The paper must use 1” margins on all sides, 12 size, Times New Roman font. Due June 30th (40%)

IV. Attendance

Class attendance is a necessity for successful completion of the course requirements. You may miss one three hour block without penalty. A loss of one grade level (A to A-) will result from absences in excess of this for each additional block missed. Exceptions to this policy must be discussed/approved before the week begins.

VI. SCHEDULE (The following topics are tentative. Depending on time, more or less will be covered in lecture)

Each class day will begin with worship including praise, prayer, and the exposition of a key Old Testament text. This part of the class does not stand in opposition to the “teaching part” of the class, but rather seeks to bridge the false dichotomy of head and heart. Serious study of Scripture leads to the worship of the living Triune God, the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit; worship leads to the serious study of Scripture. Both unleash us into the world for mission. Mission is the reason for the continued existence of the Church.

The largest portion of the day will consist of lecture, discussion, and multi-media presentations on key topics in the study of the Old Testament.

The class day will end with an opportunity for research in the library so that you can begin to gain skills in research and access materials that will help you to prepare your final research paper.

VII. Reading Assignments – The following reading guide is provided to help you identify themes and key learning points.

As you complete the reading, use the following guides:
Two broad questions: 1) what significant learnings have I acquired through a careful reading of this book? 2) What questions do I have about the material (these questions may be confusing points made by the author or issues that you wished the author would have raised)?

Each week I will post questions for discussion in our Virtual classroom on the reading completed the previous week.

The readings will supplement our classroom discussions and lectures. Keep the Atlas handy as you read and bring it to class for reference. If you don't know the geography of Israel well, make this a learning objective. It will be an additional means of enhancing the interpretation and understanding of texts.

I have included readings from a cross section of the Old Testament. You are encouraged during this semester to read even more widely within our primary sources. There is no better way to learn about the Old Testament than by reading widely and regularly in its literature.

The research paper will be 1800-2400 words. Begin with a tightly articulated thesis statement and then proceed to demonstrate your thesis through the presentation of your research. Avoid writing papers that merely serve as broad surveys of the material. You must use at least five scholarly resources. Neither text books nor internet sites count toward this total unless the web page is an e-version of an actual scholarly work, e.g., material available through ATLA.

1) Comparison between Exodus 32 and 1 Kings 12
2) Atrahasis, Enuma Elish, and Genesis 1
3) The Servant Songs in Isaiah (Who is the Servant?)
4) The figure David in the Psalter
5) The Baal Epic and the Song of the Sea (Exod 15:1-21)
6) The Purpose and Function of the Israelite Tabernacle
7) Concepts of Clean/Unclean, holiness (in Leviticus)
8) Identification of the Pharaoh of the Exodus
9) The Conquest(s) in Joshua and Judge 1
10) The function of genealogical lists in the Old Testament
11) Authorship of a book/corpus in the Old Testament: Provide a critical introduction to the issues
12) Some aspect of Hebrew religion (tabernacle/temple, sacrifice, festivals, law, etc.) as compared with a similar aspect in another ancient Near Eastern culture, or as detailed in the Pentateuch.
13) The Plagues/Signs against Egypt in relationship to the gods/goddesses of Egypt
14) Identification of (the) Satan in Job or the presence of Satan in the OT
15) War in the Old Testament
16) Purpose of the Book of Jonah
17) Function of the Oracles against the Nations in Isaiah (13-23) or in any other prophetic book.
18) Definition of a biblical prophet
19) Meaning of one of the Ten Commandments
20) Treatment of women in Israelite law
21) Treatment of the poor in Israelite law
22) Pharaoh’s Hard Heart in Exodus
23) Call Narratives in the OT (Moses, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, etc)
24) The goddess Asherah in the OT
25) Creation themes
26) Flood stories in the ancient world
27) The Unity of the Book of Twelve (Minor Prophets)
28) Purpose of the book of Ruth
29) Purpose of the Book of Esther
30) Theological Meaning of the Flood Narrative
31) Date of Composition of the Book of Daniel

The above topics are suggestive rather than exhaustive. My desire is that you complete a paper on an area of interest to you in OT studies. The only stipulation is that the paper must aid in the interpretation of a biblical passage.
